Gods of the Esquimaux.

The Esquimaux pantheon is pretty well occupied, there being gods to preside over the different natural phenomena, such as the rain, snow, ice, tides and so forth, and others controlling human destiny in the chase, at home and elsewhere. Their explanation of the tides is very naive. The genius of the waters, it seems, wishing to cross the straits dry-shod, caused the water that filled them to heap itself up at one side, and then, when he had passed over, to fall back into its place again, which it did with such momentum as to go on oscillating to and fro ever since. They have no lack of priests, and under their direction make various offerings to propitiate the deities, particularly when the season is bad, and seals are scarce.—J. Macdonald Oxley in American Magazine.

Chinese Shoes and Shoemaking.

Shoemaking, shoe mending and shoe selling are distinct branches of business in China. Chinese shoes exhibit great variety of shape. Except in the hob nailed shoe for wet weather, there is little leather used—the materials being principally calico, silk, satin, velvet and felt. Children's summer shoes are made of fine open rush work, with bright lining. Ladies' shoes are made and mended by their wearers. From childhood the girls of the upper classes have their feet tightly bound, and they are thus, at the cost of years of suffering, enabled to wear shoes about three inches long. The Chinese cobbler goes from house to house, and announces his presence with a peculiar rattle.—Philadelphia Times.

Something About "Zante Currants."

The word currant is said to be a corruption of Corinth, a city from which once came all the Greek currants. The currants, commonly called zante, are really raisins, produced from a grape that grows no larger than peas, like the American wild or fox grapes, and hangs in bunches only three inches long. These grapes are dried in the sun, and then stored in bulk, where the sugar that exudes from them makes them into masses so compact that they have to be dug apart by force when wanted. They are prepared for shipment by being put into casks and packed into a solid mass by being trodden by the feet of the natives.—New York Sun.

Duration of Infection Stages.

The duration of the infection stages of various diseases is thus given by Dr. T. F. Pearse, an English physician. Measles from the second day of the disease, for three weeks; smallpox from the first day, for four weeks; scarlet fever from the fourth day, for seven weeks; mumps from the second day, for three weeks; diphtheria from the first day, for three weeks. The incubation periods, or intervals occurring between exposure to infection and the first symptoms, are as follows: Whooping cough, fourteen days; mumps, eighteen days; measles, ten days; smallpox, twelve days; scarlet fever, three days; diphtheria, fourteen days.—Herald of Health.

Made Her Feel at Home.

A lady from Nebraska was the guest of a Pittsburg family. As the thermometer only touched zero once during the winter the fair stranger would have been homesick but for the thoughtfulness of her host. By an ingenious arrangement a powerful fan drove snow dust in her face every time she opened the front door. The snow was banked against the windows of her room and her meals let down the chimney with a string. Another device imitated the roar of a blizzard, and so soothed her to gentle slumber—wherein she dreamed of her native state. These little attentions deeply touched the fair guest.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

Florida's Opium Industry.

Florida promises to become a large producer of opium. The poppy grows there very readily, and larger than anywhere else in the United States. Sixteen plants will produce an ounce of opium, and an acre should give a profit of $1,000. As the plants will thrive among trees, the land on which are young and non-bearing orange orchards can be utilized while the trees are reaching maturity.—New York Sun.

Consumption of Tobacco.

M. Paul Leroy-Beaulieu gives figures showing the quantity of tobacco consumed in the different countries of Europe. The rate per 100 inhabitants is, according to him, as follows: Spain, 110 pounds; Italy, 128 pounds; Great Britain, 138 pounds; Russia, 182 pounds; Denmark, 224 pounds; Norway, 229 pounds; Austria, 273 pounds.—Chicago News.

People Susceptible to Hypnotism.

Persons of a nervous constitution, and in particular those subject to hysteria, are most apt to fall into artificial sleep. There is then produced in them a peculiar neurosis, hypnotism, having psychical and physical characters of its own—a genuine disease presenting a diversity of symptoms. Hence hypnotic phenomena ought not to be called forth rashly nor without the precautions suggested by medical science. Women are specially susceptible to hypnotic manipulation, particularly during the period between the 18th and the 30th year, when the nervous system is in full activity. Young men may be hypnotized, but it is very difficult to produce hypnotic sleep in old men or in children. Persons who in early life are subject to natural somnambulism or sleep walking are later in life good hypnotic subjects, just as they are also likely to be victims of hysteria and other nervous complaints.

Many are the processes employed for producing hypnosis. One that is very frequently used consists in fixing the gaze upon some bright object placed a little above the eyes and in front of the median line of the forehead, so that visual fatigue may ensue quickly, the eyeballs being directed upward and inward. This process, or others of a like kind, may be employed in the case of persons who have never before been hypnotized. But after awhile, when the subject has, so to speak, been educated, various more expeditious methods may be employed. Thus a jet of electric light or a violent blow struck on a gong near the ear of the subject will quickly induce sleep. Again, in hypnotizable persons, the surface of the body often presents special points, "hypnogenic zones," as they are called, analagous to the "hysterogenic zones." Simple pressure upon these produces hypnosis. Even in the case of the most susceptible individuals rarely does sleep appear when they, for the first time, undergo the hypnotizing manipulations, however skilled the operator may be. There is needed a complete surrender of one's will and absence of all mental preoccupation, and on the part of the company present absolute silence. In most cases exhibitions of hypnotization develop, at first, only vague phenomena not easily classified, foreshadowing, so to speak, what will follow later.—North American Review.

A Plucky Frontier Woman.

On the plains, in Assiniboin, I found a little lady in the larger of the only two stores in the place, who told me that the Indians on a reservation close by had begun to grow restless, and were manifesting the fact by unusual insolence. Only the day before a dozen of the braves had come into the store, when she was stark alone in it, and had demanded whisky, a commodity they were not allowed to touch and no one was permitted to sell. She told them she had none, and they sat, as Indians will, for a long time, as if to show her they would not go away until they got it. Curiously enough, no one came to the store from the settlement. By and by the Indians proposed to search for the whisky. She laughed at them and told them they could search. They did so, peeping and poking everywhere that they could think of. When they offered to go up stairs to her living apartments, she stood in the doorway and told them they must not venture there. She flattened her back against the door and defied them.

She was less than the ordinary height, and did not weigh over 100 pounds, but she quailed them with the eye of a brave and determined woman, and when, presently, some white men came to make purchases the Indians took themselves off. Only a few nights before that this same woman had seen a wolf in her back yard, and had gone out and "shooed" it away with her apron and scolding, just as one of our girls might do to a cat. I never saw a man that I thought more plucky than she. Perhaps, though, what no Indian or wolf could do might be done by a mouse. But it is beyond all reason to expect the bravest not to fear a mouse.—Albany Fair Journal.

Swiss and French Soldiers.

There is very little contrast between the Swiss and French soldier. Both are below the stature of the German, English and American soldier; inferior intellectually and physically. The Swiss warrior wears a cap helmet, which makes him look at once like a member of a rural band in America. It is of black cloth, with deep blue trimmings and with black silk braid about the edges. The front is cocked and the rear slopes and has the helmet brim. He wears a navy blue cutaway coat, dark gray pantaloons, and each is decked with a very narrow red cord. At his side is a short, heavy sword always. His side arms are completed by a five-shot 42-calibre revolver, heavy enough to be used as a bludgeon in close quarters. Also, like the French soldier, the Swiss is armed with a magazine needle gun, and is given so much active training that he is invariably a fair marksman. In this, as nearly all continental armies, there is by government authority an inducement for soldiers to become fine marksmen. But the pay of the continental soldier is so low and generally his service so nearly menial that he takes little interest in what he does. The pay is about one-fourth that of the American soldier and less than half of that paid the English.—Cor. Philadelphia Times.

Artificial Ageing of Whisky.

A way has been found of ageing whisky artificially. A dealer showed the writer two samples of what he called the "straight" article; one was made in 1885, the other in July, 1887. They were equally good, he said, in color, bouquet, taste and every other quality, and yet the 1887 sample was sold at $10 less a barrel than the other. In other words, the whisky makers can now furnish a three months' article equal in every respect to that which is three years old.

By this process they save the three years' storage, interest and evaporation. The purchaser generally gets the benefit of this. The new process consists briefly of rocking the barrels day and night on patented "cradles." Charred barrels are used, as is customary—that is to say, the barrel is burned out before the whisky is put in, thus converting the inner surface into charcoal. The constant motion for three months dissipates the fusel oil and imparts the rich color which new whisky has hitherto never had legitimately.—Philadelphia Times.

A VICTIM OF COCAINE.

Gives His Experience with the Fascinating Drug—Nursed Back to Health.

Dr. Charles D. Bradley's name first came into undesirable prominence in November, 1885, when he was arrested charged with being insane through excessive indulgence in morphine and cocaine, the latter a powerful narcotic of which up to that time little had been heard. He was taken before Judge Prendergast, was declared to be insane, and given a sentence of three months in the Washingtonian home. After a fortnight's stay at the home Dr. Bradley went to Canada, his old home, where he gave himself up entirely to the demands of the drug, the fascinations of which completely enthralled him. Practice and home were gone, and he gave free rein to his vice. He returned to Chicago and was sent to the insane asylum, where a complete cure was effected, and he resumed his practice, only to find himself deserted by his clients and his reputation impaired.

Consolation for the reverses came with cocaine, to which he again became a victim, and there were months when he absolutely lived in the state of mind it produced, securing it by hook or crook until his last possession was gone and his family beggared.

The physician went to the gutter, and a year ago was begging for cocaine at drug stores or securing it by fictitious orders on druggists. Then he disappeared. He was occasionally heard from in Canada and the east until last fall, when the papers recorded his arrest in New York city for endeavoring to obtain a supply of cocaine by representing himself as a messenger sent from one physician to another. In the police court the gaunt, emaciated, ragged man told his story of want and woe, and the causes which brought them about. At that time he was using sixty grains of cocaine a day. He was sent to Bellevue hospital to die. There he was found by the manager of the Christian home, where he was nursed back to mental and physical vigor.

Dr. Bradley was reluctant to dwell on the episodes thus briefly given, but conversed freely on other circumstances of his life.

"Until 1885 there was nothing to dim my prospects," said Dr. Bradley. "It was in that year that cocaine was first brought to notice through a German physician, but it was only known as a practical anæsthetic in operation by oculists. There was no method known for using it for other purposes. I was the first man to discover that it could be otherwise used—in fact, to take the place of ether or chloroform. That discovery, so important to the world, was most unfortunate for me. When I announced my discovery physicians laughed and declared I was crazy. I wrote a letter to Mayor Harrison asking him to appoint a medical commission to inquire into the value of my discovery, which was the administration of cocaine hypodermically. I first utilized my discovery by testing it on a cat. I dissected a leg of a cat, exposing tissues and muscles, and kept the animal on my desk for hours watching the circulation. There was no pain, the drug exercising a soothing effect.

"Next I began experimenting on myself. I found that the anæsthetic influence of cocaine is limited. I experimented on myself again and again to see just how far this limit extended, and learned just where, when and how to give injections. Physicians then believed that the effects of the drug were similar to those of morphine. To disprove this I tried actual cautery by applying to my body red hot irons, but I felt no pain, and there was not the slightest sensation as the flesh withered under the heated irons. For three months every day for a half hour I experimented with the drug, and often passed several hours of the night in its study before a mirror, watching its effect on myself. But I never realized that it was obtaining a mastery over me. Its fascinating powers were unknown to the profession. I was thunderstruck when I found that the drug was absolutely necessary to my mind and body. I believe I could have conquered the habit then were it not for a misunderstanding with the man from whom I rented my home. He wanted his house, and when I refused to vacate it my weakness was made a point by which I was dragged into an insane court. Persecution and publicity drove me to desperate extremes. At the Washingtonian home no one knew how to treat my disease. Everybody knows the rest—how I went to the gutter and lost everything."

"With all your experience with cocaine, how do you now regard it?" asked the reporter.

"I think it is a grand drug, with remarkable properties, and destined to take the place of ether and chloroform. It can be used without danger of death. It produces no nausea or prostration. It is a great specific for nervous diseases, for certain diseases of the spine, for paralysis, for tetanus, hydrophobia and other convulsive diseases. It will unite with other anti-spasmodics and intensify their action. I think I know more about cocaine than most men, but I have no comprehensive idea of its possibilities. Scientists are only in the experimental stage with it."

"What are the effects of the drug?"

"To begin with, it is like the effects of any stimulant at certain stages, but it is not stupefying, as is opium. The person taking it has a feeling that everything is lovely and serene, of perfect contentment and universal satisfaction. All things seem perfect. There are none of the frightful illusions which come from liquor or other stimulants. Excessive quantities, though, cause great irritability. The duration of the effect is about two hours, and is succeeded by a feeling of depression and exhaustion. But there is none of the disturbance of the mind or nervous system that follows drunkenness. The victim loses all strength after each indulgence, and there lies the chief danger in using cocaine. It weakens the action of the heart, making sudden strains or excitements dangerous, as was exemplified in the sudden death of a physician, who engaged in a quarrel with a barber last year and fell dead during the quarrel. He used cocaine. The effects of the habit are degrading. It will deaden a man's perception of right, just the same as whisky, and pull a victim down to the lowest depths of low cunning and viciousness."—Chicago News.

A RELIGIOUS CEREMONY.

Curious Custom in the Tuscan Highlands. Saints' Bones—Village Lottery.

In the Tuscan Highlands at the village of Cutipliano they keep high feast on the 8th of August in memory of Saint Aurelius and Saint Irenæus, whose bones lie in state in the town church. The sacred remains exhibited on the holiday are preserved in richly gilt shrines, with glass front and sides. The skulls are bare in all their grinning hideousness; the rest of the skeletons are happily hid in rich costumes, the hands covered with silk gloves and the feet with elegant stockings.

After mass is over in the church and the people have been blessed, a priest standing at the altar holds up a reliquary containing the bone of a saint for the adoration of the crowd. One by one the men come up to the altar steps, devoutly kiss the glass that covers the precious bone, and drop a copper or two into the brass tray which is carried by an attendant. After each osculation the glass is carefully wiped with a napkin and then presented to the next in order.

The women come after the men. The faith of these is apparently more lively. They seem fully satisfied that by the act of adoration they have committed themselves to she effectual safeguard of the saint, and they turn away their faces radiant with peace and contentment. Here comes a family group, a mother leading a little girl by the hand with a baby on her arm. It is touching to see the earnestness with which the mother presses the pouting lips of her infant against the sacred charm and the joy with which she broods over him when she has thus secured his salvation; behind comes an old woman, wrinkled, infirm, alone in the world, but the weight of her years and trouble seems to grow light when she has secured the good will and intercession of the saint.

So they come in a long succession of every age and condition, but all believing and devout. Long after the service is over the worshippers remain absorbed in prayer, kneeling in different parts of the church, utterly lost to all that passes around.

After leaving the church the Tuscans repair to the village green, where a lottery is in progress, and every one, from the gray head to the toddling infant invests in a ticket. They are very superstitious about significant numbers. One man chooses eight because his cat at home has that number of kittens, another twenty-nine because his son fell and broke his leg on that day of the month; still another fifteen because there are that number of letters in the saint's name whom they celebrate.

Every one is in good humor while the drawing takes place, and even if their numbers are unsuccessful they leave with the conviction that it will surely come up on the next feast day.—Foreign Letter.

Water Changed to Blood.

There is an animalcule, sometimes called the englena sanguinea, or the blood red englena, which multiplies so rapidly in some places that the surface of the pool soon resembles a great clot of blood, to the wonder of those who see it for the first time, and do not suspect the cause. The little creature seems to be abundant all over the known world, and Ehrenberg, a German naturalist, who discovered and named it, suggested that the first plague of Egypt, when the water was apparently changed into blood, as narrated in the Bible, may have been caused by a prodigious and miraculous increase of this little blood red infusorian.

Within very recent times an apparent change of water into blood has come to the writer's notice in the White mountains, in northern New York, and in several places in New Jersey. The phenomenon is not very rare. The creature that causes this change has itself a peculiar color habit according to its age. In early youth and middle life its color is a vivid green; in maturity and old age it assumes the crimson hue referred to, and often the same individual may be both green and red as either color reaches the surface during the body's movement, each coming and going in a wave that flows across the little creature, or a minute spot may be rosy red in the general green, or an emeral island may appear in this miniature sea of crimson.—Alfred C. Stokes, M. D., in Harper's Young People.

Cause of Decay in Steel.

It has recently been discovered by a board of naval experts at the United States navy yard, Mare's Island, Cal., that the cause of the sudden deterioration in the steel used in building the new cruisers for the government is not due to the ravages of a worm, as was supposed, but is caused by the fungus peronosporus infestans, so well known as the cause of potato rot.

With the delicate apparatus procured by the government for testing the qualities and detecting fraud in metals intended for government uses, it has been ascertained that the minute spons or suds, which float in the air, are introduced into the metallic body while in the molten state during the process of carbonization. They also find that this form of steel rot is alarmingly epidemic in much of the government material.

A large and profitable field is open to inventors and scientific men who will devise means to arrest the spores of this fungus as they are drawn into the carbonizing furnaces, or who can prevent their growth and spread either in the ingot or manufactured forms of steel.—Detroit Free Press.

Wild Silkworms of India.

For a number of years the deficiency in the production of mulberry silk has drawn the attention of sericulturists to the rearing of the wild silkworms of India, China, Japan, America and other parts, and a great many reports have been published on these wild silkworms, some of which are already bred in a state of domesticity or semi-domesticity. Many of these wild silkworms produce silk of great strength and beauty, and could all be profitably utilized if bred in their native lands on a large scale. Specimen cocoons and carded and reeled silks of about twenty different species have been sent to the Societe d'Acclimatation, and they will be exhibited in the Paris International exhibition of 1889, together with the specimens of the moths and prepared larvæ of the various species.—Public Opinion.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, APRIL 14 ..... 1888

The Convention of prohibitionists met at San Francisco on Thursday of last week. A bitter wrangle followed the effort to organize the Convention. Such language is reported as used in the Convention that would only have been expected from a body having aims directly opposed to the prohibition ists. After an organization was effected the business of the Convention went on smoothly enough. In the platform adopted by the Convention a demand is made for the extinction of the manufacture, import, export, transport and sale of all intoxicating beverages; and a pledge to give votes and use influence only for parties or persons committed and pledged to that end. The platform also demands that the inheritance of the children of America in this country shall be preserved, and that the "immigration of criminal and dangerous classes shall be positively prohibited, and to that end we demand a reformation of our naturalization laws." Delegates were chosen to the National Convention, which will meet at Indianapolis.

Beyond question there is no living American so enthusiastically liked by his countrymen as James G. Blaine. Great though his ability be as a statesman and orator, it is not these qualities alone that makes him so much admired. It is his own enthusiastic love of America and her institutions; his readiness to maintain and defend her interests against all the world, and to protect the humblest American in every part of the world that make him the favorite he is. These are the qualities that give Blaine more enthusiastic friends than any living American statesman; and the same qualities give him more bitter enemies than any other of our public men. Dull men dislike bright men; sluggards detest active men; the cowardly and selfish fear and hate the brave. All these are enemies of Blaine. The retirement of Blaine from political life may lead all his countrymen to do justice to his great qualities. As he has now no offices to bestow it is possible to give public expression to admiration of these qualities without being thought guilty of flattery for selfish ends.

Strong effort is making to bring out Governor Hill as a candidate for the Presidential nomination in opposition to Mr. Cleveland. The scheme will surely be an utter failure. Notwithstanding the fact that a strong element of the Democratic party is opposed to the President on his free trade policy, yet he is by far the strongest man in the party, and to nominate any other candidate than him would be to greatly increase the risk of defeat in the election. Democrats who are opposed to free trade know very well that the power to change the tariff laws is with Congress, and the President will not refuse his signature to any of the measures that may be adopted by his party. The issue of free trade or protection may be far more influenced by the election of a Congressman than by the election of a President. Every day the indications are becoming stronger that Mr. Cleveland will be nominated without opposition.

Santa Rosa, a strongly Democratic city, has elected Republican officers, just as Sacramento and Oakland, strong Republican cities, have elected Democratic officers. Like causes produced like effects in these cities. Corrupt politicians procured their tools to be nominated and decent men united to defeat them. Slowly but surely the voters are learning to distinguish between sound policy and mere party names. The political "boss" disappears before reason and knowledge as skunks, coyotes and other ravenous vermin disappear before the rising sun.

Drug Stores of Dresden.

The drug stores have a curious way here of shutting up just about the time you want them. As soon as it begins to grow dark, down go the iron shutters, and if you need anything you go to a little bell handle outside one of the iron shutters and ring it. Then you hear some one at a crank inside, the massive frame rolls up and a head looks out the window. Finally, the man or boy inside opens part of the window, and you talk through a pane of glass and make known your wants. Instead of being angry at being aroused, the man begs your pardon for keeping you outside, and says: "I thank you for your order."

If you have not the exact change, and the man inside is in the same predicament, he will beg you most politely and thank you to allow him to change it. Having done so, he will thank you for calling (evidently taking the visit as a social one), bow, close his little peep hole, bow again, and then smile sweetly as he grinds down his iron shutter and his smiling face is lost to view.—Dresden Cor. Courier-Journal.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Notice Of Change Of Text Books.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY THE Board of Education of Inyo county, California, that said Board proposes to change the following text books now in use in the public schools of said county, to wit: Theory and Practice of Teaching, Music, Entomology, Book-keeping, Composition, Penmanship, Industrial Drawing, English and American Literature, Physics, Algebra and Natural History. And that sealed bids, or proposals, will be received by said Board for furnishing books to replace those mentioned above, or any part thereof. Said bids, or proposals, must be accompanied by sample copies of the books proposed to be furnished, together with a statement of the wholesale and retail price at which the publisher agrees to furnish each book, within the county, during the full time for which said books are to be adopted. The publisher or publishers whose proposals shall be accepted must enter into a written contract with said Board, and shall give a good and sufficient bond in a reasonable amount, with sureties, for the faithful performance thereof. Said bids or proposals will be opened by the Board at Independence, Inyo county, Cal., at ten o'clock a. m., on Tuesday, the 5th day of June 1888. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Board of Education of Inyo county.

Attest: J. H. SHANNON, Secretary.
[SEAL.]
Dated April 13, 1888. Bishop Creek, Cal.

REPUBLICAN

County Committee Meeting.

THE REPUBLICAN COUNTY CENTRAL Committee will meet at Independence on Monday April 16th

At 7:30 p. m. for the purpose of selecting Delegates to the State Convention, which will be held at Sacramento on May 1st, and to transact such other business as may come before them.

Per order of
S. A. DENSMORE, Chairman.
Geo. H. Hardy, Secretary.

MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE:

Round Valley—Thos. E. Jones.
Lincoln—A. Matlack.
Bishop Creek—S. G. Sneden.
Bishop Station—G. Thede.
Polita—W. W. Collins.
Big Pine—L. M. Newman.
Cottonwood—W. A. Greenly.
Fish Springs—C. O. McCarol.
Independence—S. A. Densmore, J. D. Blair, Thos. Parker, W. F. Matlack, Geo. H. Hardy.
Georges Creek—John Kispert.
Lone Pine—Geo. H. Palmer.
Keeler—O. F. Rowell.
Cerro Gordo—Wm. Crapo.
Keynot—John Anton.
Olancha—W. H. Walker.
Darwin—Chas. Anthony.
Lookout—Fred Wallis.
Panamint—Wm. Hedge.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.
PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

Pioneer
Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Boggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and
Livery Accommodations
in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.
O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK
Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.
JOHN CLARKE, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City,
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS,
Will be sent FREE, on application.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge, No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

BELL'S
Flouring Mills,
A. N. BELL, Prop.
TRY BELL'S
EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully
Equal to the Best.
Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.
A. N. BELL.
Independence, Cal.

THOS. CROUGH. W. T. GRANT
GRANT & CROUGH.
Real Estate & Mining Agency.
INDEPENDENCE - - - - CAL.
Searchers of Titles and Furnishers of Abstracts. After a business experience of twenty years in the county we are prepared to furnish all information of value to purchasers of real estate and mining properties. Reports furnished and all correspondence reliable and confidential. GRANT & CROUGH.
J. W. P. LAIRD, Attorney for the Firm.

AGENTS WANTED for the MISSOURI STEAM Washer
Active, honest persons all over the country, with or without team.
JOHN C. EVANS, Sweetser, Mo., writes: "I stand up and affirm that a Washer saves more hard labor and money in a large family than any Reaper and Mower that ever was put on any farm with less than 100 acres in cultivation. If you will get up any instrument that will take as much labor off of men as the Washer takes off the women, and save as much money as it does and not so much more, I could sell one at every house. If they had to take the feathers from under their wife and babies to pay for it."
JOHN H. WEBER, JR., Jeweler, Neosho, Mo., writes: "You ask what I think of the Washer I bought last summer. Let it be the best machine ever invented by man. 24. We have just as good dinners on Monday as on any other day. 24. If you can't clean, you can not buy one for $100."
I will ship a sample to thos. desiring an agency on a week's trial on liberal terms. A thousand per cent the best washer in the world for saving labor, clothes and soap. Pay capable agents big money. Write for particulars.
J. WORT'H, 1710 Franklin Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

EDWARD CHENOT,
Independence, Cal.,
INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO Extensive Stock of
GENERAL MERCHANDISE
....Consisting of....
GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS
Tobacco, Cigars,
WINES AND LIQUORS
FLOUR & GRAIN
Together with an Assortment of
DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING
ETC., ETC.

☞ Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.
E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
n476tf

THE GRAND SALOON,
LONE PINE, - CAL.,
RICHARDS & CASTRO
BILLIARD HALL AND PUBLIC RESORT. Offers to the public the finest quality of Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Friends and patrons generally are invited to call. n584m3*

Sulphur & Borax Baths
AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA
On the Line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special
INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS
THE WATER CONTAINS
SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.
And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing
When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,
—And a large—
SWIMMING : BATH
Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,
—AND—
Board by the Day, Week, or the Month
MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PROPOSALS FOR BOARDING INYO COUNTY PRISONERS.

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of Inyo county, at the office of the County Clerk until Tuesday, May 8, 1888, at 12 o'clock M., for the boarding of Inyo county prisoners, for the term of one year, beginning May 10th 1888 and ending May 10th, 1889, said bids to designate the price per diem for each prisoner, and said board to be paid for by warrants drawn upon the General Expense Fund, upon bills duly verified and presented at the regular meetings of said Board of Supervisors.

Proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for Boarding County Prisoners," and the same will be opened between the hours of one o'clock and four o'clock P. M. on said 8th day of May, 1888, and the Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. J. D. HARGER,
Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk. Chairman.

Proposals for Care of Indigent Sick of Inyo County.

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of Inyo county, at the office of the County Clerk until 12 o'clock M., on Tuesday, May 8th, 1888, to contract for the care of said indigent sick for the term of one year from May 10th 1888 to May 10th, 1889, said bids to designate the amount for which parties contracting will care for said indigent sick on the basis of an average of four patients per day throughout the year, and to include all medicine, nursing, board, lodging and washing. Said bids to include the burial and funeral expenses of any indigent sick person or persons who may die while under such care.

Said contractor to care for all the indigent sick properly admitted to the contractor's care. And said bids to designate the price per head at which all excess of patients over the average of four each day throughout the year will be cared for, said excess to be paid for by extra allowance on presentation of bills duly sworn to, at the regular meeting of said Board immediately after said contract has expired. The average four per day to be paid for at the regular meetings of the Board on presentation of bills duly verified. All payments to be made by warrants drawn upon the Hospital Fund of said county.

The person or persons to whom said contract shall be awarded shall give a good and sufficient bond in double the sum of the contract price, for the faithful performance of said contract.

The care and management of said indigent sick by such contractor shall be at all times subject to the inspection of said Board of Supervisors, or any member thereof, or any person appointed by the Board for such purpose.

Said proposals must be endorsed, "Proposals for Care of Indigent Sick," and the same will be opened between the hours of one o'clock and four o'clock P. M., on the said 8th day of May, 1888, and the Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. J. D. HARGER,
Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk. Chairman.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1232.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL., Mar. 26th, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on May 19th, 1888, viz: Charles Mulholland for the S ½ of N E ¼, N ½ of S E ¼, Sec 14, Tp 14 S, Range 35 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: John Shepherd, James E. Shepherd, John Kispert and James R. Moffet, all of Independence, Inyo County, California.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Estate of B. S. GLOVER, deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY the undersigned, Executor of the estate of B. S. Glover, deceased, to the Creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said Executor, at his store on the southeast corner of Main and Line streets, in the town of Bishop Creek, in said County, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate. W. O. MCBRONEY,

Executor of the estate of B. S. Glover, deceased.

Dated at Bishop Creek, March 7, 1888.

TAKE SIMMONS
LIVER REGULATOR
For all Diseases of the
Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. L. M. HINTON, M. D., Washington, Ark.

SEE THAT YOU GET THE GENUINE.
PREPARED BY
J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. expages 256 pages, 8½ x 11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

IRWIN'S SALOON
Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,
Independence . Cal.
THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.
THE BAR
Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.
JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12-1

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.
FORBES & TOBEY,
HAWTHORNE, NEV.,
—DEALERS IN—
LUMBER
OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.
sept 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!
We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time, or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5 00 per evening and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine

Independence Hotel.
Independence - - Cal
H. LEVY, Proprietor.
FIRST CLASS HOTEL
DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—
Will be found acceptable to all patrons.
Jy-1-86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)
Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
☞ NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED. ☜
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.
W. E. LINDSEY,
—Dealer in—
Gravestones, Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.
—Agent for—
PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.
Virginia Street, Below Second,
Reno, Nevada.
oct 23-tf

AL. GRIFFITH.
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTING.
GRAINING AND
PAPER HANGING.
FINE CARRIAGE PAINTING
FIRST CLASS WORK.
AL. GRIFFITH,
Independence

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO
TAKING EFFECT
Wednesday, ec. 1887.

| STATIONS. | From Mound House. No. 1. | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Mound House | 9 45 a. m. | 5 p. m. |
| Layton | 9 45 a. m. | 5 p. m. |
| Wabuska | 11 5 a. m. | 3 5 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | 3 0 p. m. | 40 a. m. |
| Luning | 5 00 p. m. | 8 20 a. m. |
| Sodа Springs | 6 10 p. m. | 7 10 a. m. |
| Belleville | 7 30 p. m. | 7 5 a. m. |
| Candelaria | Ar. 8 50 p. m. | Lv. 5 30 a. m. |
| | No. 3 Leave— | No. 4 Arrives— |
| Belleville | 7 00 a. m. | 5 25 p. m. |
| Boston | 10 35 a. m. | 1 40 p. m. |
| Bishop Creek | 12 45 p. m. | 11 15 a. m. |
| Alvord | 1 35 p. m. | 10 15 a. m. |
| Independence | 3 0 p. m. | 8 45 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | 4 00 p. m. | 7 45 a. m. |
| Keeler | 4 5 p. m. | 7 00 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west-bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (24 miles); Bodie (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's. tri-weekly stages for Mono Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Dogtown, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's. stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.
R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.
D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

ESTABLISHED 1846 MUNN & CO. PATENTS NEW YORK
After Forty years' experience in the preparation of more than One Hundred Thousand applications for patents in the United States and Foreign countries, the publishers of the Scientific American continue to act as solicitors for patents, caveats, trade-marks, copyrights, etc., for the United States, and to obtain patents in Canada, England, France, Germany, and all other countries. Their experience is unequaled and their facilities are unsurpassed.
Drawings and specifications prepared and filed in the Patent Office on short notice. Terms very reasonable. No charge for examination of models or drawings. Advice by mail free.
Patents obtained through Munn & Co. are noticed in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has the largest circulation and is the most influential newspaper of its kind published in the world. The advantages of such a notice every patentee understands.
This large and splendidly illustrated newspaper is published WEEKLY at $3.00 a year, and is admitted to be the best paper devoted to science, mechanics, inventions, engineering works, and other departments of industrial progress, published in any country. It contains the names of all patentees and title of every invention patented each week. Try it four months for one dollar. Sold by all newsdealers.
If you have an invention to patent write to Munn & Co., publishers of Scientific American, 361 Broadway, New York.
Handbook about patents mailed free.

Wheeler & Wilson
Sewing Machine.
New No. 8.
"THE BEST!"
Sales Made on Installment Plan.
Old Machines Exchanged for.
Farm Produce Taken in Payment.
This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really
First-Class Machine.
Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.
I. H. MULHOLLAND, Agent.
Independence, Cal.

FRUIT TREES
All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.
—The Best Varieties Of—
Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.
Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.
Call and Look Over My Stock.
AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.
S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)
Merchant,
INDEPENDENCE
INYO CO., CAL.
Wholesale and Retail
....DEALER IN....
General Merchandise.
MY STOCK
Consisting of most every thing in my line, is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as in the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.
NATHAN RHINE.
n252m6

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.
NATHAN RHINE
BANKER,
Independence, Cal
SELL EXCHANGE
—ON—
SAN FRANCISCO.
DRAW DIRECT
—ON—
NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany
I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT kinds
GENERAL BANKING
—AND—
Exchange Business.
Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.
Deutsche Vollmachten geleistigt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.
AGENT FOR
Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $55,000,000
LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - $21,000,000
NATHAN RHINE.

BLACKSMITHING,
Horseshoeing, General Iron
—AND—
WAGON WORK.
PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP
C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.
Horseshoeing.....$2 50 for Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, APRIL 14 ..... 1888

Mr. J. C. Crocker, of Big Pine, was in town yesterday.

Silas Reynolds, of Lone Pine, was in town on Thursday.

Mr. T. C. Boland was up from Keeler at the beginning of the week.

Mr. W. H. Russell, of Benton, is here looking after his mining interests.

District Attorney Forbes got back from Bishop Creek Thursday evening.

J. Y. Ashmore, the Deep Spring toll man was at Independence a few days ago.

It is not a fact that Mr. G. W. Penter has bought a place near Bishop Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. McFarlane left town last Thursday on their way back to Canada.

The new postoffice at Independence Station is to be called Citrus, not Calme, as first reported.

George Lewis came up from Keeler and remained a few days on a visit at his home at Camp Independence.

Douglass County, Oregon, has a Post Office called Starvecut, and the name of the Post Master is Miser.

S. D. Woods, formerly of Inyo county, has been chosen as a delegate from San Joaquin county to the Republican State Convention.

The road to the new saw mill at Big Pine is nearly completed. When the road shall be finished the mill will be started up very soon afterward.

The Georges Creek school has closed for the winter term. By the time another term begins a new school building will be in readiness.

Mrs. Naylor, of Big Pine, will have a nice residence built at Alvord station. Mr. C. S. Swan has taken the contract to put up the building.

Our wren is a bird; he can make more music than all the robins. He must be a foreigner, for the Americans have ruled him out of their choir.

Mr. A. Davidson will leave here next Tuesday morning for the East. He has been here about six months and is much improved in health.

It is proposed to hold an election at George's Creek on Thursday, May 3 on the question of issuing bonds for building a $2,500 school house.

According to the Miner, all the men of Mono want to be Assemblymen; the rest want to be Sheriffs and the remainder want any office that can be got.

Hattie Woolstein tried to commit suicide in the jail at Los Angeles. She tore up a shawl into strips and tried to hang herself, but the attempt was discovered.

County Surveyor McKnight has been engaged in surveying in the neighborhood of Independence during the week. His work here will continue some days longer.

Mr. G. W. Penter, of Bodie, was at Independence at the end of last week. He has gone back to Bodie and expects to return to Independence about a week hence.

The copper mines in Esmeralda county are about to be operated by a New York company. These mines are near the C. & C. road and are not far from the Sodaville station.

The Cornet Band gave one of their open air concerts last Sunday. They had a large audience; many of the farmers of the neighborhood brought in their families to enjoy the fine music.

Last Sunday evening a building was burned at Hawthorne. It was such a place as decent people would prefer to see destroyed. The inmates all escaped in safety, but lost their garments.

Greenly and Broder shipped some fine ore from Deep Spring Valley recently. One lot went over five hundred dollars per ton and the other went over three hundred dollars.

The Democratic County Central Committee will meet at Independence on Saturday April 28, to choose delegates to the State Convention and to do such other business as may be necessary.

It is reported that C. P. Huntington is making investigation with a view to become interested in railroad connection between Owens valley and Los Angeles. The report is not entitled to much credit.

The bands boys will give a social dance at the pavilion on the evening of the 20th. The band is making good progress and is certainly deserving of encouragement. Everybody turn out and enjoy the occasion.

The volume of business at Rhine's store last week and this is nearly twice as much as usual. The rush is attracted by the variety, beauty and excellence of the stock of spring and summer goods for ladies, misses and children.

The mill at Beveridge is running on Keynot ore. The mine is reported to be looking well. For some months past negotiations for the sale of the mine have been in progress, and it is said that the bargain is now very likely to be made.

Mr. J. W Symmes has bought six town lots on the block south from the Land office, and west from the Pavilion. Evidently that is to be the favorite part of town for private residences. It is said that Mr. Symmes will build a dwelling soon on one of the lots.

Reno had a narrow escape from a very bad fire a week ago. The Central hotel, near the C. P. depot, caught fire and it was with much difficulty that the flames were kept from spreading all over the central part of the town. The losses are estimated at $10,000.

In the neighborhood of the well known Lapanta mine, near Hawthorne, other rich deposits of ore are found. One sack of ore taken from the Pamlico mine, near the Lapanta, contained but 135 pounds of ore and yielded $10,000 in gold. Six other sacks from the same mine were valued at $1,000 each.

County Surveyor McKnight says the work of damming the lakes west from Bishop Creek will be prosecuted with vigor during the present season. He says also that water enough can be stored to irrigate ten thousand acres of land and estimates that the work will cost five dollars per acre for a perpetual water title for the land.

The License Tax in Mono.

The Supervisors of Mono county have made some changes in the license tax ordinance. The Bodie Miner says:—After much exciting debate, many petitions, a great deal of buttonholing, and things, the Supervisors last week changed Ordinance No. 22, so as to let the license stand on horned cattle, take it entirely off horses, and raising it to 7½ cts. on sheep. We are informed that all cattle men, both domestic and imported, express themselves as perfectly satisfied with this; and in fact many of them who "happened" to be in Bridgeport at the time applied for their license on cattle at once. Unless the object of the Supervisors was to place the license on sheep so high as to make the driving of outside sheep into this county for grazing purposes only, prohibitory, the license of 7½ cents on that class of animals is too much. If sheep are kept out, however, it will render the grazing grounds of Mono so much more valuable proportionately. Some men who have not yet worn out their pencils, have finally run up the number of cattle driven in here every year to graze to as high as 28,000 head. "We are informed" that Captain J. L. C. Sherwin testified before the Board, while the matter was under consideration, that last year he collected toll on 10,000 head of horned cattle driven in from Inyo county alone. But, if the whole number approximates anything near 25,000, the license collected on them, together with what may be derived from sheep, will largely increase our county revenue, and taxes will fall easy on all alike.

A Quarrel.

A quarrel occured at Bishop Creek at the beginning of the week in which John Blair, the miller, got severely hurt. The case is reported as follows:—The initals of Doctor George and lawyer George are nearly the same, the former being W. H. and the latter W. P. The Doctor took a letter out of the post office, and after opening it discovered that it was intended for W. P. George; he returned the letter to the office and told the Post Master of the mistake. The other George was indignant when he discovered that his letter had been opened, and had the Doctor arrested. When Doctor George was taken before the Justice several persons were present, and among the rest Doctor Middleton. On the street, outside the office of the Justice, Doctor Middleton was talking about the matter, when John Blair came along just as Middleton made some remark to which Blair took exception, and asked if it was intended for himself. Then, it is reported, Middleton hit Blair over the head with a loaded cane, felling him to the ground. Doctor Middleton was arrested and admitted to bail to answer for the act. Doctor George is also under bail for opening the letter that led to the trouble. Reports from Bishop Creek say that Mr. Blair is in a critical condition. There were old grudges back of these recent troubles.

Since the above was put in type we have learned that in the altercation that grew out of the opening of the letter by Doctor George, he slapped Lawyer George on the face. It was for this offence, and not for opening the letter he was arrested. A jury trial was had and the Doctor acquitted. In the case of Doctor Middleton for striking John Blair, the charge is for assault with a deadly weapon. A change of venue was asked for and granted to the Court of Justice Blaisdel, at Round valley. The Justice is now at Santa Barbara and may not be back for several months.

Contest for a Rich Prize.

There will be a contest for four hundred and eighty acres of land near Independence Station. The land was patented many years ago and belonged to the estate of the late Frank McCrellish, of San Francisco. So little was the land thought to be worth that the taxes were not paid and ten years ago the property was sold to the State by the Sheriff for delinquent taxes. Mrs. McCrellish, widow of Frank McCrellish and Executrix of his will, sold to John Shineberger, of San Fracisnco, her interest in the land for twenty five dollars. Last Monday parties at Independence deposited with the Sheriff the whole amount of back taxes on the property, amounting to over three hundred dollars, and will demand title to the land. On the same day McGraw, of San Francisco, attorney for Shineberger, also forwarded a like amount and will contend for the validity of his title. The land will be among the first to be reached by water from the Eastside canal; it is all of good quality; adjoins the railroad and is sure to be of great value within a very few years.

State School Books.

Superintendent Anderson, of the Public Schools of San Francisco, says there is considerable complaint being made concerning the quality of binding on the First and Second Readers supplied the school children of that city from the State Printing Office. Particularly is this the case relative to the Fest Readers, the binding being so poor that many of the children have been obliged to replace their books two and even three times during the past year. In the State Printing Office the highest wages are paid to printers and book binders, and this ought to secure the services of first class operatives. But unfortunately for the public it is not for ability as printers or bookbinders that men are given positions in the office, but for political reasons. The printer or book binders who can do the best work in the ward caucus is preferred to the man who can do the best work in the printing office. Hence the poor quality of the school books.

Good Investment.

The records of Inyo County show that about one hundred thousand dollars is loaned on mortgage in Owens valley. Much of this is bearing interest at the rate of fifteen per cent per annum, and none of it less than twelve per cent. There is no better security any where than the farms of Owens valley and the property is steadily increasing in value. Here is an opening for some party with one hundred thousand dollars to invest; these mortgages could all be satisfied and the amount replaced at nine or ten per cent per annum; the security perfect and the interest greater than can be had anywhere else in the state. If such an amount of capital could be attracted here the reduced rate of interest would be a material relief to farmers, enabling them to make more improvements on their property and creating new openings for other investments.

Transformation.

Along the line of the East side canal will in three or four years be one of the loveliest and most valuable regions in the State. Lying along the base of the Inyo mountains for a distance of more than thirty miles, the whole tract will be covered with orchards, vineyards and alfalfa fields. The inmates of every dwelling in the tract; the produce of every fruit tree, vine and field will be within a few minutes travel of the railroad. Not a wave of malarious air will ever blow over the region; no purer atmosphere was ever breathed, no brighter sunshine ever brought life and light into the world. Surely the men who convert such a desert into a country of beauty and fruitfulness are not only entitled to profit but also to praise and gratitude.

Preserve The Yellowstone Park.

Sixteen years ago, in March, 1872 a law of Congress was passed, setting aside a tract of the public domain on the headwaters of the Yellowstone river as a National Park. In all these years no law has been passed for the preservation of this Park from injury at the hands of trespassers, or for the protection of those visiting it from lawless and criminal acts. The forests of this Yellowstone National Park protect and keep ever full the sources of streams which irrigate and render fertile a territory covering more than 600,000 square miles—a region as large as the Thirteen Original States with Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa added. The development of this territory and its adaptability to agricultural pursuits depend altogether on the continuance of this water supply, which would be endangered by injury to these forests, and this Yellowstone Park is the last refuge for many species of American large game which have elsewhere nearly become extinct, and contains natural wonders which ought to be cared for and protected. A bill is now before Congress to secure for the Park proper protection and an adequate form of government. The Forest and Stream [No. 40 Park Row, New York] is taking active and energetic measures to have this law passed. The editors have prepared a petition, and copies are sent all over the country for signatures, asking Congress to pass the bill now offered. Every body should sign the petition. The Yellowstone Park has not its equal in the whole world. No other region contains so many and so various scenes and objects of a sublime and wonderful character. This vast Park, with all its features uninjured, should be preserved for all time for the benefit of the whole people of the United States.

Democratic Convention.

The Democratic State Convention will meet at Los Angeles May 15th. The State Central Committee adopted the following resolution on the election of delegates to the Convention. "Resolved. That in the election of delegates from the different counties to the State Convention, all such delegates shall be elected either at open or club primaries, held for that purpose, or by the election of delegates at an open primary to County Conventions to elect delegates to the State Convention." The nominations to be made by the Convention will be for sixteen delegates to the National Convention; a Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court; eight Presidential Electors and as many alternates and a State Central Committee. The delegates from the various counties will meet in convention from their respective districts and nominate six members of Congress,

Canal Company Incorporated.

The Eastside Canal Company have filed articles of incorporation. The capital stock is fixed at $750,000, in 15,000 shares at the par value of $50 each. The incorporators are Trenmore Coffin, Theodore R. Hofer, George W. Richard, Simeon L. Lee, Simeon Bishop, James F. Hallock, Evan Williams and Alexander M. Ardery. All these are citizens of Nevada, and all are well known, responsible men. A Board of Trustees has been elected to manage the affairs of the Company for six months. The Board consists of Simeon L. Lee, Simeon Bishop, Theodore R. Hofer and Finley McIver, the Superintendent in charge of the work of constructing the canal.

Railroad Surveyors.

A traveler arrived at Independence last Tuesday from the south end of the county. He saw and talked with the Surveyors for the Salt Lake and Los Angeles railroad. They were at work near Searle's borax works. The party had five wagons and fourteen animals, and were pushing northward. Their starting point was from Barstow, on the A. & P. road. The Surveyors told this man that from Barstow south the road to Los Angeles would go by way of the Aroyo Seco.

An artesian well at St. Augustine, Florida, throws a solid column of water twelve inches in diameter thirty-five feet into the air. This is a little over one hundred and thirteen inches of water under a thirty-five foot head at the surface of the ground. Such a well would irrigate a very large tract of land in Owens Valley.

By recent change in the time table south bound trains now leave Owens Valley stations half an hour later than before; north bound trains leave twenty minutes later. At Independence the south bound trains arrive at 3:30 p. m.; the north bound trains now arrive at five minutes past nine in the morning.

Bullion deposits in the Carson Mint during March exceeded $200,000, which is more than was received during the first ten months after the opening of the Mint in 1886, and about as much as the refinery is capable of handling. Nearly all the bullion came from the Comstock mines.—Enterprise.

Last Monday William Livingston, a shift boss, was seriously injured in a mine at Virginia City. He had been assisting a miner named Aaron Lewis, who was charging some holes. Lewis let fall a giant powder cap and fuse upon a pile of rock; the cap exploded, injuring Livingstone as stated. He is expected to recover all right again.

If you have a photo you want enlarged in crayon, India ink, water color, or pastel at 15 per cent. below San Francisco prices, send your order to Miss O'Hara, of Bishop Creek. Prices ranging from five to thirty-five dollars according to size. An extra discount of 10 per cent. to any one ordering two or more pictures. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Mr. J. J. Gunn has bought the large lot on Main street opposite the Courthouse, and at present occupied in part by a blacksmith shop. Part of the ground will be used for a saloon building, on which work has already been begun. Mr. Gunn will fit up a very neat saloon and billiard room. Every article at the bar will be of the best, and Jack says a gentleman will always be found behind the bar if he has to hire one.

Mr. Henry Fehrman has sold his house and ground at the north end of town to John Baxter. Mr. and Mrs. Fehrman will shortly start on a visit to Germany. Mr. Fehrman left his native land in 1850. By honest industry and decent economy he has accumulated a comfortable fortune, and while yet but little past the prime of life proposes to spend the remainder of his years without toil or worry.

On Monday the Republican County Central Committee will meet at Independence. Delegates will be chosen to the State Convention at Sacramento. Injustice has unintentionally been done Inyo in the apportionment of delegates to the State Convention. According to the recognized basis of representation Inyo is clearly entitled to three delegates, instead of two. If three are chosen they will doubtless be admitted to the convention on a proper presentation of the facts.

SPRING STOCK

-IN ENDLESS VARIETY-

Just Received

--AT--

NATHAN RHINE'S

Call And Examine.

SAMPLES ON APPLICATION

Another surprised visitor was in town at the begining of the week; this was Mr. Van Alstine, a business man of Hawthorne Nevada. Mr. Van Alstine had never been in Owens Valley before, and had not the remotest idea of the character and extent of the country. He returns to Independence during the summer with a view of going into business here.

Last Friday Joseph Shannon was shot and killed by Charles Graf at a mine near Steamboat Springs, Nevada. Shannon owned the mine and had given a lease to Graf. A quarrel arose and in the fight Shannon was killed. Graf went to Reno and surrendered himself a prisoner. Shannon was a printer and lived in Virginia City. He was thirty-five years old.

At the Pioneer Brewery, Phillip Gehrig is making considerable improvement. An entirely new feature is a marble malt floor; this will be of large blocks from the Inyo marble quarry. The floor will be put in a large cellar and is expected to be so cool as to promote that slow germination of the grain most favorable for brewing. A new drying floor and cooler are also being added. The brewery is now producing first class beer; no alum, isinglass or other unhealthy drugs are used; nothing but pure malt and Bohemian hops. For prices see advertisement.

Over in Esmeralda county, Nevada, east from Deep Spring and not far from the California line there is some revival of mining work. A new ten stamp mill is being built at Palmetto. There had been a mill there years ago, but the place was abandoned and the mill had been carried off piecemeal. Now the mines are reopened and the place is likely to be a busy place again. At Pigeon Spring, two miles from Palmetto, Charley Murphy is also stirring up a little; he is putting up a steam arastra to work ore from a gold mine he has there. A revival of work in that region will help Big Pine, that being the nearest point to getting supplies.

BISHOP CREEK

BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO., Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜

☞ Of the C. & C. Railroad. ☜

Send orders to MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO. Bishop Creek, Cal.

Who Spends Money

For advertising in newspapers in these hard times, without first obtaining an estimate of the cost from Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York, is likely to pay $10 for what might be obtained for $5. Such estimates are furnished to all applicants gratis. Send 10 cents for 176 page pamphlet with list of newspaper rates and references.

NORMAN HOUSE,

Independence, - - Cal.

New House.

New Furniture.

Low Rates.

☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. I. MAIRS, Prop.

feb12tf

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,

Sheriff and Tax Collector,

INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,

District Attorney,

INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,

County Treasurer,

INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,

Attorney-at-Law.

Independence, Cal.

Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

THIS PAPER IS ON FILE

—AT—

PALMER & REY'S

ADVERTISING BUREAU!

405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco.

—AND AT—

PALMER & REY'S

Pacific States Advertising Bureau

46 Tribune Building,

NEW YORK.

Where Advertising Contracts can be made.

INDEPENDENCE

SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR SALE.

813 acres of land within one mile of railroad. As fine land for fruit, vineyard, vegetables or alfalfa as there is in the State. All with perfect water right. Will cut up to suit purchasers.

520 acres two miles from railroad. 80 or 90 inches of water. A fine locality. Good stock range. 160 acres fine barley land.

A fine dairy ranch, consisting of 480 acres suitably located for market, with 150 head of cattle 45 of them No. 1 dairy cows. Perfect titles to land and water. Improvements on all. Apply to

Grant & Crough,

Independence, Cal.

Richly REWARDED are those who read this and then act; they will find honorable employment that will not take them from their homes and families. The profits are large and sure for an industrious person; many have made and are now making several hundred dollars a month. It is easy for anyone to make $5 and upwards per day, who is willing to work. Either sex, young or old; capital not needed; we start you. Everything new; no special ability required; you reader, can do it as well as any one. Write to us at once for full particulars, which we mail free. Address Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

115 CLAY STREET. 117

SMITH'S STORE

The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.

CASH.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

INDEPENDENCE MARKET,

J. Reeper, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,

Mutton,

Pork,

Lard,

Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES, Illustrated. in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. history of sins. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, in toilet. Young or old, married or single, each or well, should read. Sent real 25c. WHITTIER St. Louis, Mo. BEAUTY, 50c. AND SEND WITH ORDER.

TUTT'S PILLS

25 YEARS IN USE.

The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age.

SYMPTOMS OF A TORPID LIVER.

Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine, and

CONSTIPATION.

TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer. They Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 39 Murray St., N.Y.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.

GRAY HAIR OR WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.

Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

FRED BURCKHARDT

Watchmaker & Jeweler,

LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

☞ All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

Bishop Creek, Cal.,

offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles

OF

Fashionable Clothing Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc

AT

L. WOOD'S

CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,

PEANUTS,

WALNUTS,

TOYS!

THE CASH S ORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:

HAWTHORNE NEV.

BRANCHES:

Wabuska, Nev.,

CONSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.

AGENCIES:

WELLS, FARGO & CO.,

U. S. STAGE CO.,

HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,

HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,

Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

au25tf

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer In

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

GROCERIES

MINERS' Supplies

PROVISIONS,

&c., &c., &c

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

FREE TRIAL PACKAGE. FOR MEN ONLY

PROF. HARRIS' Vasilie

A RADICAL CURE FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY, Organic Weakness, PHYSICAL DECAY, In Young & Middle Aged Men.

TESTED FOR SEVEN YEARS BY USE IN MANY THOUSAND CASES.

TREATMENT.

One Month, - $3.00

Two Months, - 5.00

Three Months, 7.00

NERVOUS DEBILITY, ORGANIC WEAKNESS, Decay and numerous obscure diseases, brought on by the skilled physicians, result from youthful indiscretion, too free indulgence, or over brain work. Avoid the imposition of pretentious remedies for these troubles. Get our Free Circular and Trial Package, and learn important facts before taking treatment elsewhere. Take a SURE REMEDY that has CURED thousands, does not interfere with attention to business, or causes pain or inconvenience in any way. Founded on scientific medical principles. By direct application to the seat of disease its specific influence is felt without delay. The natural functions of the human organism is restored. The enlivening elements of life, which have been wasted are given back at the patient becomes a fully developed rapidly gains both strength and actual vigor.

HARRIS REMEDY CO., M'F'G CHEMISTS

306½ N. Tenth St., ST. LOUIS, MO.

UPTURED PERSONS! Not a Truss. Ask for terms of our Appliances.

BGIVE IT A TRIAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen,

Bee Keeper.

Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.

Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

Allan Quatermain

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

INTRODUCTION.

"DECEMBER 23.

"I have just buried my boy, my poor handsome boy, of whom I was so proud, and my heart is broken. It is very hard, having only one son, to lose him thus; but God's will be done. Who am I that I should complain? The great wheel of fate rolls on like a Juggernaut, and crushes us all in turn; some soon, some late, it does not matter when; in the end it crushes us all. We do not prostrate ourselves before it like the poor Indians; we fly hither and thither—we cry for mercy; but it is of no use, the blind, black fate thunders on, and in its season reduces us to powder.

"Poor Harry to go so soon! just when his life was opening to him. He was doing so well at the hospital; he had passed his last examination with honors, and I was proud of them; much prouder than he was, I think. And then he must needs go to that smallpox hospital. He wrote to me that he was not afraid of smallpox, and wanted to gain the experience, and now the disease has killed him; and I, old and gray and withered, am left to mourn over him, without a chick or child to comfort me. I might have saved him, too—I have money enough for both of us, and much more than enough—King Solomon's mines provided me with that; but I said, 'No, let the boy earn his living; let him labor that he may enjoy rest.' But the rest has come to him before the labor. Oh, my boy, my boy!

"I am like the man in the Bible who laid up much goods and builded barns—goods for my boy, and barns for him to store them in; and now his soul has been required of him and I am left desolate. I would that it had been my soul and not my boy's!

"We buried him this afternoon under the shadow of the gray and ancient tower of the church of this village where my house is. It was a dreary December afternoon, and the sky was heavy with snow, but not much was falling. The coffin was put down by the grave, and a few big flakes lit upon it. They looked very white upon the black cloth. There was a little hitch about getting the coffin down into the grave—the necessary ropes had been forgotten; so we drew back from it and waited in silence, watching the big flakes fall gently one by one like heavenly benedictions and melt in tears on Harry's pall. But that was not all. A robin redbreast came as bold as could be and lit upon the coffin and began to sing. And then I am afraid that I broke down, and so did Sir Henry Curtis, strong man though he is; and as for Capt. Good, I saw him turn away too; even in my own distress I could not help noticing it."

The above, signed "Allan Quatermain," is an extract from my diary written two years and more ago. I copy it down here because it seems to me that it is the fittest beginning to the history that I am about to write, if it please God to spare me to finish it. If not, well, it does not matter.

CHAPTER I.

THE CONSUL'S YARN.

A week has passed since the funeral of my poor boy Harry, and one evening I was in my room walking up and down and thinking, when there was a ring at the outer door. Going down the steps I opened it myself, and in came my old friends Sir Henry Curtis and Capt. John Good, R. N. They entered the vestibule and sat themselves down before the wide hearth, where I remember a particularly good fire of logs was burning.

The Consul's Yarn.

"It is very kind of you to come round," I said, by way of making a remark; "it must have been heavy walking in the snow."

They said nothing, but Sir Henry slowly filled his pipe and lit it with a burning ember. As he leaned forward to do so the fire got hold of a gassy bit of pine and flared up brightly, throwing the whole scene into strong relief, and I thought what a splendid looking man he is. Calm, powerful face, clear cut features, large gray eyes, yellow beard and hair—altogether a magnificent specimen of the higher type of humanity. Nor did his form belie his face. I have never seen wider shoulders or a deeper chest. Indeed, Sir Henry's girth is so great that, though he is six foot two high, he does not strike one as a tall man. As I looked at him I could not help thinking what a curious contrast my little dried up self presented to his grand face and form. Imagine to yourself a small, withered, yellow faced man of 63, with thin hands, large brown eyes, a head of grizzled hair cut short and standing up like a half worn scrubbing brush—total weight in my clothes, nine stone six—and you will get a very fair idea of Allan Quatermain, commonly called Hunter Quatermain, or by the natives "Macumazahn"—anglice, he who keeps a bright lookout at night, or, in vulgar English, a sharp fellow who is not to be taken in.

Then there was Good, who is not like either of us, being short, dark, stout—very stout—with twinkling black eyes, in one of which an eye glass is everlastingly fixed. I say stout, but it is a mild term; I regret to state that of late years Good has been running to stomach in a most disgraceful way. Sir Henry tells him that it comes from idleness and overfeeding, and Good does not like it at all, though he cannot deny it.

They sat and smoked and drank whisky and water, and I stood by the fire also smoking and looking at them.

At last I spoke. "Old friends," I said, "how long is it since we got back from Kukuanaland?"

"Three years," said Good. "Why do you ask?"

"I ask because I think that I have had a long enough spell of civilization. I am going back to the veldt."

Sir Henry laid his head back in his arm chair and laughed one of his deep laughs. "How very odd!" he said; "eh, Good?"

Good beamed at me mysteriously through his eye glass, and murmured, "Yes, odd—very odd."

"I don't quite understand," said I, looking from one to the other, for I dislike mysteries.

"Don't you, old fellow?" said Sir Henry; "then I will explain. As Good and I were walking up here we had a talk."

"If Good was there you probably did," I put in, sarcastically, for Good is a great hand at talking. "And what may it have been about?"

"What do you think?" asked Sir Henry.

I shook my head. It was not likely that I should know what Good might be talking about, he talks about so many things.

"Well, it was about a little plan that I have formed—namely, that if you were agreeable we should pack up our traps and go off to Africa on another expedition."

I fairly jumped at his words. "You don't say so!" I said.

"Yes I do, though, and so does Good; don't you, Good?"

"Rather," said that gentleman.

"Listen, old fellow," went on Sir Henry, with considerable animation of manner. "I'm tired of it too, dead tired of doing nothing, except play the squire in a country that is sick of squires. For a year or more I have been getting as restless as an old elephant who scents danger. I am always dreaming of Kukuanaland and gagool and King Solomon's mines. I assure you I have become the victim of an almost unaccountable craving. I am sick of shooting pheasants and partridges, and want to have a go at some large game again. There, you know the feeling—when one has once tasted brandy and water, milk becomes insipid to the palate. That year we spent together up in Kukuanaland seems to me worth all the other years of my life put together. I dare say that I am a fool for my pains, but I can't help it; I long to go, and, what is more, I mean to go."

"Ah," I said, "I thought you would come to that sooner or later. And now, Good, what is your reason for wanting to trek—have you got one?"

"I have," said Good, solemnly. "I never do anything without a reason; and it isn't a lady—at least, if it is, it's several."

I looked at him again. Good is so overpoweringly frivolous. "What is it?" I said.

"Well, if you really want to know, though I'd rather not speak of a delicate and strictly personal matter, "I'll tell you; I'm getting too fat."

"Shut up, Good!" said Sir Henry. "And now, Quatermain, tell us, where do you propose going to?"

I lit my pipe, which had gone out, before answering.

"Have you people ever heard of Mt. Kenia?" I asked.

"Don't know the place," said Good.

"Did you ever hear of the Island of Lamu?" I asked again.

"No. Stop, though—isn't it a place about 300 miles north of Zanzibar?"

"Yes. Now listen. What I have to propose is this: That we go to Lamu, and thence make our way about 250 miles inland to Mt. Kenia; from Mt. Kenia on inland to Mt. Lekakisera, another 200 miles, or thereabouts, beyond which no white man has, to the best of my belief, ever been; and then, if we get so far, right on into the unknown interior. What do you say to that, my hearties?"

"It is a big order," said Sir Henry reflectively.

"You are right," I answered, "it is; but I take it that we are all three of us in search of a big order. We want a change of scene, and we are likely to get one—a thorough change. All my life I have longed to visit those parts, and I mean to do it before I die. My poor boy's death has broken the last link between me and civilization, and I'm off to my native wilds. And now I'll tell you another thing, and that is, that for years and years I have heard rumors of a great white race which is supposed to have its home somewhere up in this direction, and I have a mind to see if there is any truth in them. If you fellows like to come, well and good; if not, I'll go alone."

"I'm your man, though I don't believe in your white race," said Sir Henry Curtis, rising and placing his arm upon my shoulder.

"Ditto," remarked Good; "I'll go into training at once. By all means let's go to Mt. Kenia and the other place with an unpronounceable name, and look for a white race that does not exist. It's all one to me."

"When do you propose to start?" asked Sir Henry.

"This day month," I answered, "by the British India steamboat; and don't you be so certain that things don't exist because you do not happen to have heard of them. Remember King Solomon's mines."

* * * * * *

Some fourteen weeks or so had passed since the date of this conversation, and this history goes on its way in very different surroundings.

After much deliberation and inquiry we came to the conclusion that our best starting point for Mount Kenia would be from the neighborhood of the mouth of the Tana river, and not from Mombasa, a place over 100 miles nearer Zanzibar. This conclusion we arrived at from information given to us by a German trader whom we met upon the steamer at Aden. I think that he was the dirtiest German I ever knew; but he was a good fellow, and gave us a great deal of valuable information. "Lamu," said he, "you goes to Lamu—oh, so beautiful place!" and he turned up his fat face and beamed with mild rapture. "One year and a half I live there and never change my shirt—never at all."

And so it came to pass that on arriving at the island we disembarked with all our goods and chattels, and not knowing where to go, marched boldly up to the house of her majesty's consul, where we were most hospitably received.

"Well, where are you gentlemen steering for?" asked our friend, the hospitable consul, as we smoked our pipes after dinner.

"We propose to go to Mt. Kenia, and then on to Mt. Lekakisera," answered Sir Henry. "Quatermain has got hold of some yarn about there being a white race up in the unknown territories beyond."

The consul looked interested, and answered that he had heard something of that too.

"What have you heard?" I asked.

"Oh, not much. All I know about it is that a year or so ago I got a letter from Mackenzie, the Scotch missionary, whose station, 'The Highlands,' is placed at the highest navigable point of the Tana river, in which he said something about it."

"Have you the letter?" I asked.

"No, I destroyed it; but I remember that he said that a man had arrived at his station who declared that two months' journey beyond Mt. Lekakisera, which no white man has yet visited—at least, so far as I know—he found a lake called Laga, and that then he went off to the northeast, a month's journey, over desert and thorn veldt and great mountains, till he came to a country where the people are white and live in stone houses. Here he was hospitably entertained for a while, till at last the priests of the country set it about that he was a devil, and the people drove him away, and he journeyed for eight months and reached Mackenzie's place, as I heard, dying. That's all I know; and if you ask me, I believe that it is a lie; but if you want to find out more about it you had better go up the Tana to Mackenzie's place, and ask him for information."

Sir Henry and I looked at each other. Here was something tangible.

"I think that we will go to Mr. Mackenzie's," I said.

"Well," answered the consul, "that is your best way; but I warn you that you are likely to have a rough journey, for I hear that the Masai are about, and, as you know, they are not pleasant customers. Your best plan will be to choose a few picked men for personal servants and hunters, and to hire bearers from village to village. It will give you an infinity of trouble, but perhaps on the whole it will prove a cheaper and more advantageous course than engaging a caravan, and you will be less liable to desertion."

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

---

Auburn is to have a big time on March 2d, says the Newcastle News. The redwheeled cart will be run up and down the street, the boys will squirt muddy water all over town and Governor Waterman will make a speech. The whole affair will wind up with a grand ball.

Since the loss of the bark Abercon there has been some talk among pilots and others of an effort to get the lighthouse at Fort Canby moved from its present location to a point farther to the north, on a projecting point, where it can be seen at sea when coming from the north close to the coast, though it is thought hardly probable that the effort will succeed.

FURNISHING A ROOM,

How to Produce a Warm, Agreeable and Pleasant Effect.

In a well-furnished house—the furniture of which may have cost twenty-five thousand dollars or five hundred no one article stands out in violent contrast to its neighbors, either in color or in quality, but each helps to produce a harmonious whole. As the writer has said elsewhere, furnishing may be done artistically without following rigidly all the rules of high art. There is such a thing as carrying art to an extent that produces a cold, disagreeable effect. A few fundamental rules, however, can not be disregarded with impunity; and these concern appropriateness, proportion, simplicity, harmony and stability. There should be no overcrowding on the one hand, nor bareness on the other; and there should be a central tone of color, to which all the tints must be subordinate.

Carpets are the very foundation of a good or ill effect in furnishing; and they are usually, too, the point of extravagance. Three or four dollars a yard will be paid for a parlor carpet, while showy, machine-made furniture takes the place of substantial articles with lines of grace and beauty. The coloring of this carpet is frequently an offence to a cultivated eye, and utterly inharmonious with the other furnishings. Obtrusive, dominating colors should be avoided—likewise a white ground, which always has a glaring effect. Scarlet is a very unmanageable color, and should never be seen in a floor covering.

Small, ruggy figures are always desirable, and quite a necessity in small rooms; and carpets of this character, made up with a rich border, and supplemented with a margin of inlaid or stained floor, will often be as effective as an imported rug. A good, five-frame, body Brussels can be bought now at a very reasonable rate—as well as the softer Moquette; and made up as a large rug, either carpet is both handsome and stylish for almost any room. There are also beautiful ingrains with borders; and many an ingrain at eighty cents is preferable to many a Wilton at treble the price—the carpet not being intended for decoration, but for comfort, and to show to advantage the articles placed on it.

Besides, one wants a few etchings and engravings, at least; and if there is no special sum set apart for them, they had better be taken out of the carpet.

Wall papers are quite as great marplots as carpets; and a paper which is very pretty in the piece, may utterly ruin a room. Subdued coloring is very desirable here, and as few colors as possible; a paper at twenty-five cents a roll will sometimes make a room look better than one at $2.50. A dado should never be used with a low ceiling; and the coloring of the frieze should not be in violent contrast to that below it, but rather gather up and concentrate what is already there.

Both paper and carpet are intended to serve as backgrounds, and should therefore be in subdued styles. The ingrain, or cartridge papers are admirably calculated for this purpose, and they are moderate enough in price to be within the reach of most purses.

Whatever else the young householder may do, let her avoid buying a "set" of furniture covered with silk plush. Sets of any kind are objectionable; but silk-plush that is sat upon and used wears badly, and entirely loses its original color. Mohair-plush is another matter; but much furnishing of any plain color becomes monotonous. Figured goods are preferable for ordinary wear, and one does not tire of them so easily.—Ladies' Home Journal.

A LUCKY HIT.

A Bay Horse Man Secures a Prize in the Louisiana State Lottery.

Among the numerous strangers at present visiting the city is Mr. J. F. Stevenson of Bay Horse, Idaho. Mr. Stevenson is a long way from home, but his object in coming this far was well worth a longer journey. He held one-tenth of ticket No. 33,442 drawing the first capital prize of $150 000 in the last drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery Company, and it was for the purpose of cashing the same that he came to New Orleans.

He arrived on Wednesday, and the same day presented his ticket at the office of the lottery company, when he was promptly handed a check for $15 000, the amount of his prize on the New Orleans National Bank.

Mr Stevenson is a firm believer in The Louisiana State Lottery and has been a patron of the institution for some time.

This lucky individual is a native of Columbus, Ohio, but when quite a lad left his home in search of a fortune in the far West. For a long time he roughed it in San Francisco, and other cities in that vicinity and finally went to Bay Horse, Idaho, where he secured a clerkship in the house of C. E. Taylor & Co., general merchandise dealers. He now has a snug little fortune, but is indebted for the same to The Louisiana State Lottery Company not to any lucky find in the West.

This is Mr. Stevenson's first visit to the Crescent City, and he will remain over to see the drawing of the lottery company on Tuesday next and to witness the carnival festivities.—New Orleans (La.) Picayune, Feb. 4.

CARD FROM CAPT. IRELAN.

As Joy's Sarsaparilla has just released me from a bad cough I do not hesitate to make mention of it thus publicly in the interest of other unfortunates who may be similarly afflicted

Capt Wm Irelan

334½ Sutter st.

San Francisco, Feb. 24, 1888.

PUT ME ON THE LIST.

After using four bottles of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, I write to say that you may also use my name, as an additional authority, for the statement that it will cure dyspepsia and liver and kidney disease. It has done it for me.

John Argall

628 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco.

THEY ALL ADMIT IT.

I have been taking Joy's Sarsaparilla for general debility with great benefit. Its effect upon the nervous system is splendid. A case of catarrh, now under my observation, has also nearly succumbed to its corrective influences.

Mrs. J. Barron

142 Seventh st., San Francisco.

VALUABLE ADVICE.

An Experienced Detective Offers a Suggestion to Housekeepers.

"There are only ten persons in a thousand who, when they hear strange noises in their house, do not immediately make a light to find out the cause," said one of the detectives of a private agency. "This is the most absolute piece of folly a sane person can commit, and yet it only seems natural. But let me tell you that when you hear any noise that indicates the presence in your house of a person who has no business there, first take the precaution to put out the light. Then, if you want to search do so in the dark. Of course you know the house better than any intruder, and the chances are that if you keep quiet the intruder will expose himself either by showing a light or stumbling over something. Then you have the advantage of knowing his position without his knowing yours.

"There is many a murdered man in in his grave to-day who would have been alive had this advice been followed. What can be more preposterous than the idea of a man in his right mind (knowing that if a burglar is in his house and is discovered he will take desperate means) actually offering himself as a target by appearing with a light in his hand, which does no more good than to betray his presence, as it is only natural that he can not see three feet beyond the rays of the light. Take the record of murders committed where only burglary was intended, and you will find that three-quarters of them are due to the folly of searching for the burglar with a light."—N. Y. Sun.

The Boots Gave Him Away.

Omaha Dame—Do you know what time it was when you got in last night?

Husband—Nearly one o'clock, I guess. It was after midnight when I got through balancing my books. Well, well! This is curious; here's my hat under the bed. I must have hung it on this chair and it fell down.

"Probably."

"Where are my boots?"

"On the hat rack."—Omaha World.

A REPRIEVE FOR THE CONDEMNED.

Wretched men and women long condemned to suffer the tortures of dyspepsia, are filled with new hope after a few doses of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This budding hope blossoms into the fruition of certainty, if the Bitters is persisted in. It brings a reprieve to all dyspeptics who seek its aid. Flatulence, heartburn, sinking at the pit of the stomach between meals, the nervous tremors and insomnia of which chronic indigestion is the parent, disappear with their hateful progenitor. Most beneficent of stomachics! who can wonder that in so many instances it awakens grateful eloquence in those who, benefitted by it, speak voluntarily in its behalf. It requires a graphic pen to describe the torments of dyspepsia, but in many of the testimonials received by the proprietors of the Bitters, these are portrayed with vivid truthfulness. Constipation, biliousness, muscular debility, malarial fevers and rheumatism are relieved by it.

---

Little Gustavus D'Albertson, whose father is the acting manager of the Avenue Theatre—Pa, why is this called a free country? Papa (bitterly)—Because everybody wants to get in without paying.

---

All the art and taste of the best artists seems to have been combined in the magnificent package of imported oleographic and Chromotic Cards which is being offered by the well known firm of Fleming Brothers, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

To procure these elegant frosted and satin fringed cards, buy a box of Dr. C. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills for 25 cents from your druggist and mail the outside wrapper with your address (plainly written) and four cents worth of stamps to Fleming Brothers, Pittsburgh, Pa. You will be surprised and delighted with the beauty and variety of the cards you will receive.

---

"Papa," said a bright Chicago boy just home from a sight-of-hand entertainment, "I wish I was a conjurer." "Why, my son?" "I would turn you into a rat, call up the cat and wouldn't I have fun?"

A MEMORY OF EARLY DAYS.

Bane of childhood's tender years,
Swallowed oft with groans and tears,
How it made the flesh recoil,
Loathsome, greasy, awful oil!
Search your early memory close,
Till you find another dose;
All the shuddering I am revolts
At the thought of Epsom salts!
Underneath the pill-box lid
Was a greater horror hid,
Climax of all inward ills,
Huge and griping old blue pills!

What a contrast to the mild and gentle action of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, sugar-coated, easy to take, cleansing, recuperating, renovating the system without wrenching it with agony. Sold by druggists.

---

Discussing the Dessert—Mr. Waldo (at a dinner party) May I pass you the cheese, Miss Breezy? Miss Breezy (daintily)—Thanks, a small hunk, please.

---

Fragrance of breath and a refreshing coolness of the mouth, is the result of using RUBIFOAM for the teeth. Large bottles 25 cents.

---

WEAK, NERVOUS PEOPLE should take Hobb's Nerve Tonic Pills, the great life renewer.

---

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

---

Try Germea for Breakfast.

---

Camelline improves and preserves the complexion.

BEAUTY of Skin & Scalp RESTORED by the CUTICURA Remedies.

NOTHING IS KNOWN TO SCIENCE AT ALL comparable to the CUTICURA REMEDIES in their marvelous properties of cleansing, purifying and beautifying the skin, and in curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; RESOLVENT, $1; SOAP, 25c. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Dull Aches, Pains, and Weaknesses instantly relieved by the CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. 25c.

A LITTLE LEAVEN LEAVENETH THE WHOLE LUMP.

A disease in one part of the body will eventually fill the whole body with disease. Every year or two some part of the system grows weak and begins to decay. Such part should be removed at once and new matter be allowed to take its place. There's no need of cutting it out with the surgeon's scalpel. Purge away the old, diseased and worn out parts with BRANDRETH'S PILLS. Then the new body will take care of itself.

---

"Do you dawnce the lawncers, Dr. Brown?
"No, I do not dawnce the lawncers,
But when the dawncers health breaks down
I sometimes lawnce the dawncers."

THE CORRECT TIME.

There are very few men who do not pride themselves on always having the correct time; and wonderful and delicate mechanisms are devised to enable them to do so. But the more delicate a chronometer is made, the more subject it becomes to derangement, and unless it be kept always perfectly clean, it soon loses its usefulness. What wonder, then, that the human machine, so much more delicate and intricate than any work of Man, should require to be kept thoroughly cleansed. The liver is the main spring of this complex structure, and on the impurities left in the blood by a disordered liver, depend most of the ills that flesh is heir to. Even consumption (which is long scrofula), is traceable to the imperfect action of this organ. Kidney diseases skin diseases, sick headache, heart disease, dropsy, and a long catalogue of grave maladies have their origin in a torpid, or sluggish liver. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, by establishing a healthy, normal action of the liver, acts as a cure and preventive of these diseases.

---

When you detect clove in the breath look out for the cloven foot.

---

For allaying Hoarseness and Irritation of the Throat, it is daily proved that "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are a mild remedy, yet very efficacious.

FOR RICKETS, MARASMUS, AND WASTING DISORDERS OF CHILDREN.

SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites is unequalled. The rapidity with which children gain flesh and strength upon it is very wonderful. Read the following: "I have used Scott's Emulsion in cases of Rickets and Marasmus of long standing, and have been more than pleased with the results, as in every case the improvement was marked."—J. M. MAIN, M. D., New York.

---

No steps have been taken to abolish the country grocery store "trust" and subsequent bankruptcy.

$500 REWARD

Is offered, in good faith, by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy for a case of catarrh which they cannot cure. It is mild, soothing and healing in its effects, and cures "cold in the head," catarrhal deafness, throat ailments, and many other complications of this distressing disease. 50 cents, by druggists.

---

Should you ask whence comes Phil Sheridan,
Our sole reply shall be:
From Albany, from Somerset,
And from beyond the sea.

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED.

To the Editor:

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption, if they will send me their express and P. O. address. Respectfully,

T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., New York.

---

Wakelee's Squirrel and Gopher Exterminator. Try it, and prove the best is the cheapest. Wakelee & Co., San Francisco.

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest, and most Healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia, Lime, or Alum. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

WHO IS INVITED?

EVERYBODY. We moved into our newly fitted up quarters on the 22d, where we shall be pleased to welcome you and your friends at any and all times. Try to make it convenient to call when in town, even if you do not want to buy anything. We know that we are now so circumstanced that we can invite your confidence and your trade when in need of goods. Everybody who sends an order from home to be filled wants to feel certain that the party to whom it is directed has both the ability and the will to fill it to their entire satisfaction. We have always had the will to do it, and will now have the opportunity to show our ability. We have ample room, sufficient means, many years' experience, competent and trustworthy help, and every other facility to assist us to please. Be kind enough to send for last list if you have not had it, and favor us promptly with trial order. Goods sold on a small margin of profit, boxed carefully for home or foreign trade, and delivered at boats and depots free. Smith's Cash Store, 16 and 418 Front St., San Francisco, Cal.

SHEET MUSIC 10¢ all at pieces 11x14. Catalog FREE

Beautiful Cloth BOUND BOOKS 50¢ Post Paid. ROMOLA, VANITY FAIR, IVANHOE, CALLED BACK, DON QUIXOTE, JANE EYRE, and 120 others. Catalog FREE. Send either above amounts for Sample Copy. Chicago Book & News Co., Chicago.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

Oregon and Washington FARMS FOR SALE

At reasonable prices and on easy terms.

Address WM. MACMASTER, 40 Second Street, Portland, Oregon.

CANDY MAKING FOR PLEASURE OR PROFIT. YOUNG PERSONS wishing to engage in a light, pleasant, and, perhaps, profitable amusement, can learn the art of Candy Making at home, and while giving amusement to their friends and themselves, discover whether they have a taste for the work as a business, and thereby make a fair living profit from a very small investment. Receipts, and full instructions in detail, sufficient for several lessons for the making of twelve simple varieties, and amply sufficient for home amusement, sent for one dollar. Tools necessary may be found in any kitchen. Address, GEO F. PERCIVAL, 122 Ellis Street, San Francisco.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use. 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

Farms for Sale. SEND STAMPS FOR CIRCULAR to M. GRIFFIN, Cottonwood, Shasta County, Cal., fruit belt of Upper Sacramento Valley; or, to S. GRIFFIN, Tolo, Jackson County, Or., center of Rogue River Valley, noted for mild climate and productiveness.

S. F. N. U. Series, No. 199.

ST. JACOBS OIL

CURES

Rheumatism, Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache.

CURES

Neuralgia, Sore Throat, Swellings, Frostbites, Sprains,

CURES

Sciatica, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Promptly and Permanently without Return of Pain.

For Stablemen AND Stockmen, THE GREATEST REMEDY KNOWN FOR HORSE AND CATTLE DISEASE.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers Everywhere.

The Charles A. Vogeler Co., Balto., Md.

MAGIC MITCHELL'S YOU LOTION — MITCHELL'S ALL LOTION MAGIC

NEED IT!

STOPS PAIN

Sure and immediate relief in all cases of Sprains, Bruises, Contusions, Abrasions, Burns, Scalds, etc. Prevents inflammation, and effects marvelous cures.

Those who suffer from Asthma, Pleurisy, Sore Eyes or Sore Throat, will find it an incomparable remedy, as a single trial will prove convincing.

One who suffers from Boils, Bunions, or Painful Corns, cannot afford to be without a bottle of this most soothing remedy, which gives instant relief.

Piles, Indigestion, Nervous Dyspepsia, Toothache, Earache, Inflammatory Rheumatism and all Red and Inflamed Swellings, are readily cured by this magic application.

THOUSANDS OF THE MOST FLATTERING TESTIMONIALS RECEIVED FROM ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTRY TESTIFYING TO THE ABOVE FACTS: AND THE MERITS OF MITCHELL'S MAGIC LOTION. Ask Your Druggist for It

Wolf & Frank's

MEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,
232 Kearny St., San Francisco

Shirts, Underwear, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Neckwear, Collars, Cuffs, Etc.

SHIRTS TO ORDER, $1.

Illustrated Catalogue, with Rules for Self Measurement, Mailed Free.

I CURE FITS! When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again. I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. H. G. ROOT, M. C., 183 Pearl St. New York.

This BELT or Regenerator is made expressly for the cure of derangements of the generative organs. The continuous stream of ELECTRICITY permeating through the parts must restore them to healthy action. Do not confound this with Electric Belts advertised to cure all ills from head to toe. This is for the ONE specific purpose.

For circulars giving full information, address Cheever Electric Belt Co., 103 Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.

G Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Made only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio. Trade Mark. 31G

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D. Amsterdam, N. Y.

We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.

$1.00. Sold by Druggists.

REWARD!

$1000 Will be paid for each and every gram of poisonous substances found in Wisdom's Robertine, acknowledged the most delightful and only really harmless toilet article ever produced for beautifying and preserving the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles and all blemishes and roughness of the skin. Used and endorsed by the elite of society and the stage. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per bottle White and Flesh. REDINGTON & CO., Wholesale Druggists San Francisco, Agents.

BEST TREE WASH.

GREENBANK 98 % Powdered Caustic Soda (tests 99 3-10 %), recommended by the highest authorities; also, common Caustic Soda, pure Caustic Potash, etc., etc., for sale by T. W. JACKSON & Co., Manufacturer's Agents, 3 California & 104 Market Sts., S. F.

KNABE! The best PIANO on earth. Haines Bro.'s PIANOS. PATTI'S preference. Musical Department A. L. Bancroft & Co., Removed to 132 Post St., San Francisco, Cal.

STEINWAY. KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Rownish Pianos; Burdett Organs, Band Instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

WEAK, NERVOUS PEOPLE Should Take this Great LIFE RENEWER. Hobb's Nerve Tonic Pills are composed of just such elements as Enrich the Blood and strengthen the Nerves giving the body the spring and elasticity of youth. Men and Women suffer from Derangements of the Nerves and Poverty of the Blood. We see it in the whitening hair, the untimely wrinkles, the loss of form—in fact, in all the signs of premature old age.

Men, Young Men, Old Men, and Young Old Men, you need Hobb's Nerve Tonic Pills. It is Brain Food. It is a muscle invigorator; builds up the Waste Places; makes the weak strong and vigorous. Are you suffering in secret for past errors? We will indorse for you if you try the Nerve Tonic Pills. Even if you are weak and nervous with loss of vital power—your manhood almost fled, leaving you pale-faced and hollow-eyed—Hobb's Nerve Tonic Pills were made for you, and all persons with the following complaints, viz.: Palpitation of the Heart, Fluttering, Trembling, Hysteria, Nervousness in any form, Nervous Headache, Neuralgia, Cold Hands or Feet, Pain in the Back, or any other form of Female Weakness which we do not care to enumerate. Try them, and you will join the thousands of happy men and women who daily bless Dr. Hobb for his great work in their behalf.

They drive away Pimples and Blotches from the skin, cause a dull yellow skin to be replaced by a Clear Complexion, and leave the brightness of youth. They are sugar-coated, and only one pill a dose. Price 50 cts. a Bottle. Sent by mail or all Druggists.

BRINGS THE ROSY TINT OF HEALTH TO THE SALLOW CHEEK

HOBB'S MEDICINE CO., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute

Staff of Eighteen Experienced and Skillful Physicians and Surgeons.

ALL CHRONIC DISEASES A SPECIALTY.—Patients treated here or at their homes. Many treated at home, through correspondence, as successfully as if here in person. Come and see us, or send ten cents in stamps for our "Invalids' Guide-Book," which gives all particulars. Address: WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N.Y.

For "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and overworked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfills a single end, being a most potent Specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. The treatment of many thousands of such cases, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute has afforded a large experience in adapting remedies for their cure, and is the result of this vast experience. For Internal Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration, it is a Specific. It is a powerful general, as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It cures weakness

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY .....APRIL 21, 1888.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XIX. NO. 45. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., APRIL 21, 1888. WHOLE NO. 912.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $2 00 |
| Six months | 1 00 |
| Three months | 1 00 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

BLIGHTED AFFECTIONS.

Reminiscences of Some Famous Breach-of-Promise Cases.

It was in 1874 that the famous case of Hammond vs. Dean occupied a Brooklyn court for nearly a week and filled columns of the journals. Miss Jeannette Hammond was the plaintiff, and a remarkable pretty woman of nineteen years. She lived in Sing Sing, but frequently visited her aunt, a Mrs. Noe, a sister-in-law of the merchant, Noe, whose murder by a burglar made a deep sensation a dozen years ago. Mrs. Noe lived in Brooklyn, but encouraged her niece to enjoy metropolitan sights and scenes. Just how she became acquainted with Dean is a matter of no importance now. He had a saddlery and harness business on Third avenue, near Twenty-Third street, and being a bachelor of middle age ought to have known better than get entangled with the bright young country miss. That he did not know better was put in evidence at the trial in sundry tender missives, in which his clumsy attempts to avoid committing himself were constructive proofs of his having promised to marry Miss Hammond. The letters were numerous, and plenty of female friends were able to testify to scenes, facts and declarations which placed the defendant in such a light that the jury returned a verdict for $4,500, besides large allowances for court and counsel fees. Popular interest was maintained after the suit by Dean's efforts to have the verdict set aside. The verdict was affirmed, however, and Dean's father paid the award in full.

The next suit was that of May Chamberlain against the well-known eccentric, John Bute Holmes. Holmes had a weakness for the sex which would have rendered him liable to half a dozen suits of like character, but Miss Chamberlain was the pioneer. She had met Holmes on business relating to some real estate, and the then middle-aged speculator became infatuated with her on sight. He grew eloquent about his wealth and relationship to English nobility, and by way of displaying his generosity took the young woman up to Division street and presented her with a complete outfit of suit, cloak and bonnet. Appointment was made for another meeting next day, and Holmes was much chagrined when he found Miss Chamberlain's mother also at the trysting place. He did not tell them that he had already three or four wives scattered around in the city and suburbs, but that fact probably overcame his repugnance to committing himself to another, for he promptly made formal promise of marriage to Miss Chamberlain and got the mother's blessing on the spot. Events that followed gave Miss Chamberlain a claim for damages on other grounds, if not for breach of promise, and when the long trial was finished the jury awarded her $7,500 by way of consolation. Holmes, anticipating the verdict, had put his real estate out of reach, and for a while evaded the warrant against his person. He was captured, however, and after a brief residence in Ludlow Street Jail settled his case for $4,000, paid to Dennis A. Spellisey, Miss Chamberlain's counsel. Holmes died a few months ago, and several alleged widows are now negotiating over the remnants of his property.—N. Y. Graphic.

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM.

How It Was Dispelled by an Eminently Practical Chicago Parent.

"Henrietta," said young Mr. Hankinson, "the future looks very bright before us, does it not?"

The lovely eyes of Miss Garside fell in charming confusion beneath the ardent gaze of the devoted youth, and her only answer was a soft sigh that filled the silence with thrilling eloquence and seemed to catch from her parted lips a fragrant perfume that intoxicated the senses and pervaded the apartment as with the seductive glory of an Oriental dream of paradise.

"Our beautiful Southern home," at length resumed the enraptured young man, "awaits us. In the tropical luxuriance of a Florida plantation, under a sky that rivals that of Italy, we shall set up our Lares and Penates. From the moment you promised to be mine I have dwelt with ever-increasing delight upon the vision of our sunny home, and yet with an impatience that has filled me with a delirious unrest. Let the day be soon, very soon, Henrietta, when you take possession of that home as its queen. Around you will bloom the beautiful flowers that gladden the Southern landscape. Orange groves, bending down with luscious fruit, are on every side. Figs, bananas, the incomparable Le Conte pear, the Pocklington grape, the Turner raspberry, which, under the genial rays of a Florida sun, attain a size and flavor unknown elsewhere, the useful and wholesome okra, the——"

"Young man!" thundered old Mr. Garside, entering the apartment and striding wrathfully toward Marcellus Hankinson, "in the guise of an honorable man, pretending to be the son of an old college friend, you have gained access to this house. You have trampled upon its hospitality and abused the confidence reposed in you by a trusting girl. I overheard your last words as I passed the door and I recognized their meaning. No Florida emigration agent," vociferated the thoroughly aroused old man, grasping the youth by the collar and propelling him rapidly toward the door, "can ply his iniquitous calling under this roof. Get out!"

And with nervous haste young Hankinson got out, assisted to some extent by Mr. Garside, and up the dimly-lighted street he fled, his form quickly vanishing in the gloom, while the wind moaned drearily, and the disreputable boy on the sidewalk across the way, who saw him come out, hooted derisively and threw stones after him.—Chicago Tribune.

COUSINS.

I met her in the summer by the loud resounding sea,
And I thought it quite peculiar she should waste her time on me.
When I begged an explanation she devoutly bowed her head:
"I will tell you, you're a fellow after my own heart," she said.

I assumed the post of suitor, as I thought it not a sin
To have her think me more than kind, a little less of kin,
For the fellowship of cousins, if they be of different sex,
Has forever been a trouble and I fear 'twill ever vex.

I read to her from Byron in a tent pitched on the sand;
With the freedom of relationship, I often pressed her hand;
Or in a creaky, rattling gig we joggled thro' the lanes
While my sweetest of divinities shook out the leathern reins.

Till at last I looked upon her as a very tender friend;
(Thus man's fellowship with cousins, if they're fascinating, end.)
I recalled to my remembrance from some closet of my head,
"You're a fellow after my own heart," the pretty witch she said.

So I marshaled all my feelings in a sentimental way,
And I quoted the expression to my second-cousin May.
But a neater, cooler answer mortal man will never get:
"You'still are after it, dear Jack; you haven't caught up yet."

—Judge.

SUGGESTIONS TO POETS.

Professional Hints Which Amateur Verse-Makers May Value.

"As for subjects," said the modern poet, "the world is simply alive with them. In the first place, there is the morning paper, suggesting subject after subject. A man with an alert eye and rather a wingy imagination will find enough material in a morning paper for an epic, a lyric or two, and half a dozen assorted elegies. Equally suggestive is observation. There are a hundred droll, weird, melancholy things happening every few minutes. All you need do is to keep your eyes about you somewhere, and use them on the slightest provocation. As for the melancholy things, I wouldn't do much with them, at least if I was a beginner, with a reputation to make. Just jot them down somewhere, if you want to, for a future day; but don't try to work them off at present. The market for melancholy poetry just now is limited, and Tennyson is supplying it very fully. I would use the weird but charily; but as for the droll just bury yourself in it. You were asking, you know, what kind of poetry sold the best; well, that's the kind. In fact, in the case of an unheard-of-beginner, it is the only kind that will sell at all. There seems to be a great desire among the common people to laugh, and a timely, well-conceived jest, set to a tripping and rhythmical measure, will supply a long-felt need in the aching heart of the average American citizen, irrespective of age, sex or previous condition of servitude. It is not necessary to add that your jest must be crisp and fresh, with the odor of new-mown hay about it, and sparkling with the dew of early morning. Don't imagine for a moment that any old gray-beard of a joke can be dressed up in the swaddling clothes of infancy and be palmed off on the community as a recent arrival. It will be nosed from afar, and pelted with horse-chestnuts. That respect should be shown to old age is an excellent rule, but not applicable to jokes. They must be as young and virgin as the snow flakes from heaven; otherwise they go into the capacious maw of the 'Assyrian Pup,' or the 'Office Cat,' or other manuscript annihilator.

"Don't essay the sentimental; that is, not for cash, for the demand is not especially loud or imperative, and it is easily supplied by those eminent masters of verse who have long been in the public eye and write their names in three sections. The truth is, the appetite for the sentimental, especially the erotically sentimental, is not very general. It is confined to a number of young girls, and to a few unbalanced persons who are on the point of pairing off—a number comparatively small in any well-ordered community. Healthy, contented, single persons, of course, do not care for this kind reading, while to the married and settled, and eternally tied for this world and the next lower, nothing comes so with the force of a personal insult as a piece of sentimental poetry. Avoid it. If you must write it, write it, and hide it carefully between the leaves of the family Bible; and perhaps some day your literary executor will find it and give it to a clamoring world; but just now the world is not clamoring.

"Of course, you and I both understand that this humorous poetry, if you prefer, is not poetry at all. But that's not the point. You want to know what you can put together in the shape of meter and rhyme that will sell, and that's what I am telling you. We call it poetry, because that is the general market name for it."—John P. Lyons, in Writer.

Forest Destruction in Russia.

According to the Moscow Viedomosti the banks of the Syr-Daria, not more than twenty years ago, were so thickly covered with woods that the operations of the Russian armies were thereby considerably impeded. So great, however, has been the destruction of timber in recent years that there are now extensive areas of from 5,000 to 8,000 square miles—notably around Perovsk, the old Ak-Metchet fortress—in the greatest want, not only of building material, but of ordinary brush firewood. To remedy this state of affairs several experienced foresters have been recently invited by General Rosenbach to visit Central Asia, and to take steps for the immediate formation of extensive plantations of young trees in this and other districts of Turkestan.

THRILLING ADVENTURE.

A Famous Sportsman's Narrow Escape from an Enraged Panther.

How it feels to find one's self in the jaws of a panther is that kind of knowledge which most people are well content to acquire at second-hand. Probably all men would not have the same sensations, but this is the account which Colonel Barras gives of such an experience. He was a born sportsman, and, of course, could enjoy many things which to ordinary persons would seem any thing but pleasant:

The panther came for me with lightning bounds. I could see nothing, owing to its tremendous speed, but a shadowy-looking form with two large, bright, round eyes fixed upon me with an unmeaning stare, as it literally flew towards me. Such was the vision of a moment! My presence of mind did not desert me. I raised my gun and fired with all the care I could at such short notice. But I missed, and the panther landed, light as a feather, with its arms round my shoulders. Thus we stood for a few seconds, and I distinctly felt the animal sniffing for my throat. Mechanically I turned my head so as to keep the thick, wadded curtain of my helmet-cover in front of the creature's muzzle; but still I could hear and feel plainly the rapid yet cautious efforts it was making to find an opening, so as to tear open the jugular vein.

I was helpless, and so stood perfectly still, well knowing that Sandford would liberate me, if possible. At the first onslaught we were so placed that he could have hit the panther only by firing through me, which would have been injudicious, at least. As may easily be supposed, the animal did not spend much time in investigating the nature of a wadded hat-cover, and, before my friend could take aim without jeopardizing my own life, the beast pounced on my left elbow, taking a piece out, and buried its long, sharp fangs in the joint till they met. At the same time I was hurled to the earth with such force that I knew not how I got there nor what became of my gun. Still, throughout, I maintained a clear impression of what was going on.

I knew that I was lying on the ground with the panther on top of me, and I could feel my elbow-joint wabbling in and out as the brute ground its jaws, with a movement imperceptible to the bystanders, but which felt to me as though I was being violently shaken all over. Now I listened anxiously for the report of Sandford's shot, which I knew would be heard immediately, and carefully refrained from making the slightest sound or movement, lest his aim should be disturbed thereby. In a few seconds the loud and welcome detonation, which from its proximity almost deafened me, struck upon my ear.

I sat up. I was free! the panther gone! I looked round and found that I was some distance from the place where I had fallen, so that the beast must have dragged me some little way. Sandford, as soon as he had got the chance, had placed the muzzle of his rifle to the side of my antagonist and fired a large bullet right through it, which had caused it to dart back hastily to its lair.—Youth's Companion.

WEDDING PRESENTS.

Old Customs in Connection With the Ring and Bridal Cake.

Among the customs peculiar to wedding occasions the ring and bride cake seem to be of the most remote antiquity, the latter being a modern improvement on the heathen practice of using a cake of wheat or barley at a marriage. The presenting of gifts to the bride is also of very old origin, the favorite present in the middle ages being a pot of butter, which was brought forward as soon as the happy couple returned home from the church, and which was supposed to presage beauty and an abundance of good things. Other bridal gifts peculiar to the olden time were scarfs and laces, and what is stranger still, a pair of knives, which it was the fashion for women to wear sheathed and suspended from their girdles. Among the Greeks, Romans, Jews and many Eastern nations it was the custom for the bridegroom to place a considerable sum of money in a purse or plate and give it to his wife at the time of the wedding; but in early English times the bride asked for any amount she pleased, which the husband could not in honor refuse.

Not very long ago, so much were wedding gifts thought of in Cumberland, England, that when a poor but respectable couple decided to marry they advertised the fact in the county paper, heading the "invitation," as it was termed, with some such couplet as:

"Suspend for one day your cares and your labors,
And come to this wedding, kind friends and good neighbors."

The people for miles around would then, on the eventful day, flock to the bridegroom's house and there be entertained by various games and pastimes, after which each guest would drop a contribution or "gift" into a bowl or plate set for the purpose in a convenient place. By this means enough money was often collected to set the newly-married pair up an housekeeping.—American Agriculturist.

Plantation Philosophy.

I knows some pussons dat I likes ter talk ter, not becaze I think so much o' 'em, but becaze w'en I 'verses wid 'em I allus thinks mo' o' merse'f.

Natur', it 'pear like, takes er sort o' pleasure in flingin' cold water on de bright promises dat she hab made. De blackest ha'r is nearly allus de soones' ter turn gray.

Dar is many things wus den de lie dat is used fur ter kiver up er bad truth; not dat kine dat hides er crime, but de kine dat makes us b'lebe dat suthin' good has been said erbout us, when de fack is dat suthin' bad has been said.—Arkansaw Traveler.

MEN'S TEMPERS.

The Reason Why Some Husbands Are Quiet, Mild and Sedate.

The admixture of different tempers among the brothers and sisters of the same family is a notable fact due to various causes which act in different directions. It is best to consider them before we proceed to collect evidence and attempt its interpretation. It is clear enough, and may be taken for granted, the tempers of progenitors do not readily blend in the offspring, but that some of the children take mainly after one of them, some after another, but with few threads, as it were, of various ancestral tempers woven in, which occasionally manifest themselves. If no other influences intervened the tempers of the children in the same family would on this account be almost as varied as those of their ancestors, who married at haphazard, so far as their tempers were concerned; therefore the numbers of good and bad children in families would be regulated by the same laws of chance that apply to a gambling table. But there are other influences to be considered. There is a well known tendency to family likeness among brothers and sisters which is not due to the blending of ancestral peculiarities, but to the prepotence of one of the progenitors, who has stamped more than his or her fair share of qualities upon the children. It may also be due to a familiar occurrence that deserves but has not yet received a distinctive name—namely, where all the children are alike and yet their common likeness can not be traced to their progenitors. A new variety has come into existence through the process not of individual but of confraternal variation.

The most strongly marked family type that I have personally met with first arose simultaneously in the three brothers of a family who transmitted their peculiarities with unusual tenacity to numerous descendants through at least two generations. Other influences act in antagonism to the foregoing; they are the events of domestic life, which, instead of assimilating tempers, tend to accentuate slight differences in them. Thus if some members of a family are a little submissive by nature, others who are naturally a little domineering are tempted to become more so. Then the acquired habit of dictation in these reacts upon the others and makes them still more submissive. In the collection I made of histories of twins who were closely alike, the statement was constantly met with that one of the twins was guided by the other. I suppose that after their many childish struggles for supremacy, each finally discovered his own relative strength of character and thenceforth the stronger developed into the leader, while the weaker contentedly subsided into the position of being led.

Again, it is sometimes observed that a member of an easy-going family discovered that he or she may exercise considerable power by adopting the habit of being persistently disagreeable whenever he or she does not get the first and best of every thing. Some wives contrive to tyrannize over husbands who are mild and sensitive, who hate family scenes and dread the disgrace attending them by holding themselves in readiness to fly into passion whenever their wishes are withstood. They thus acquire a habit of breaking out, to use a term familiar to the warders of female prisoners and lunatic asylums, and though their relatives and connections would describe their tempers by severe epithets, yet if they had married masterful husbands their characters might have developed more favorably.—Fortnightly Review.

THE CREOLE WOMAN.

Most of Her Time Is Spent in the Culture of Her Beauty.

The Creoles cling to the old-fashioned idea, which somehow has almost disappeared, that simplicity of attire best befits youth. Even if a young girl be not pretty according to rule, there is a certain vocate de jeunesse which renders superfluous the magnificence of costly garments. Her slender arched feet must be bien chausses, and her pretty hands well gloved. All her life she has been taught that the business of women is to be beautiful; what is not hers by grace must be won by works. Fate may or lain that she do the cooking, but those slender fingers will never reveal the work of her hands, as she dons her gloves, spread with cold cream, as regularly every night as she says her prayers. Her finger nails must be cut jus a awe point, and the little half-moon at their base never suffers eclipse. Dear to her are fine soaps, perfumes and sweet waters. Her hair is diligently brushed and braided, and she pays special attention to her teeth.

But all her time is not spent in this culture of exterior self. She sews for the older and younger members of the family, and for very poor friends. She busies herself in works of charity, and she helps the younger children with their music and lessons. She cultivates her voice or takes up another language. English comes trippingly from her tongue with a delicious accent. What would not her American girl friends give to speak their own language as daintily as she does! And when she essays the English slang of the hour, nothing can be more droll, more incongruous. She is not aware that it is slang. How should she know, when so many of her American friends use it? Surely they should know their own language. Home-keeping virtues, too, are hers. She can bake, and boil, and stew. She knows wherein the glory of one washwoman's clothes differs from the dinginess of another's. She understands the washing and mending of lace, the mysteries of preserves and jellies, the curative properties of a legion of tisanes.—Harper's Bazar.

THE PATIENT TRAVELER.

He Couldn't Manage Baby, But Whipped an Individual of His Own Size.

Just this side of Bloomington a baby in the rear of the car began to cry. He was a lusty-lunged little fellow, and made more noise than half a dozen babies ought to have. The passengers turned—a good many of them with no very pleasant expressions on their faces—to investigate. They found a man holding the little one, and doing his best to quiet him. There was no woman in sight. That was what the tiny sufferer wanted—a woman—his mother—to drive away all his little troubles and soothe him into quiet slumber. The man did all he could. He was a large, benevolent-looking man, with a sad, melancholy expression and a world of tenderness in his eyes as he looked down at the little bundle of humanity and rocked it to and fro. But the baby refused to be comforted and screamed the louder. So it went for a dozen miles. The other passengers were growing impatient, and two or three of them got up and went forward. There was a touch of sympathy in some faces, but more bore a scowl. Neither seemed to make any difference with the baby—he screamed louder, if any thing, as the train sped on. The man who held him was weary, but still he bent over his little charge and sought in low words—clumsy baby talk—to hush his weeping. There was a man in the next seat in front—a cold, hard-featured man—who had been disturbed in reading a book. Half a dozen times he turned and looked at the man working with the baby. Each time he glanced with a deeper scowl. Still the other strove to soothe the little one. "There, there, don't oo cry so! Maybe oo mama——" He stopped.

"If you can't keep that howling brat of yours still," said the hard-featured man as he turned in his seat, "you'd better chuck it out the window!"

The man with the baby glanced up surprised, pained. For the space of half a minute he looked the other full in the eye, and then he leaned forward and with a voice choking with emotion said:

"This young one isn't mine! A dodgasted woman gave it to me to hold while she made a fool trip forward to the baggage car to see if they'd got her trunk, and I guess she's never coming back! But I'll be dashed if you can run on me!" And he dumped the baby down in one end of the seat, and, with an altogether different look in his eye, jumped out in the aisle and got the hard-featured man by the collar, and jammed him down on the floor between the seats, and got up on him with both feet, and took hold of the hat-rack with his hands, and raised himself up and dropped back on the hard-featured man till he had the features pretty well softened up. And it appeared quite as if he would have been going up and down like a pile-driver yet if the woman who owned the baby hadn't flounced back into the car and rescued the infant and quieted him in about ten seconds, and told him in a loud, clear voice that she didn't know she'd left her little, darling, pweious baby boy with a great, big, ugly prize-fighter. Then the benevolent man quit jumping and went and sat down in another seat with his face very red, while the hard-featured party crawled up looking as if he would have to carry his features in a sling for three weeks.—F. H. Carruth, in Chicago Tribune.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

Lieutenant Rogers Predicts the Ultimate Completion of the Great Work.

No exact estimate of the time and money required to finish the canal can be made, as much of the data needed is unknown. M. Charles de Lesseps said to me: "In two years the canal will be finished from Colon to kilometer forty-four, and from La Boca to Paraiso. As to the Culebra, I leave you to form your own conclusions. It is a great and difficult work."

It is evident that the rate of excavation in a work of such magnitude must be small until the plant is complete; it is equally true that more work can be done in a given time with a complete installation than with one of less size. Hence it is false reasoning to conclude that if 32,000,000 cubic meters are excavated in five years, it will require twelve years to extract the remaining 73,000,000. That such reasoning is absurd is shown by the cube of last year, which was 11,727,000 cubic meters. At this rate it would require about seven years to complete the canal. It is not probable that this rate will be exceeded materially for a year or more.

Keeping in mind the sum already expended, and the purposes to which it was applied, it is unreasonable to presume that the final cost of the canal will be less than 2,000,000,000 francs, or about $375,000,000. These figures are now acknowledged by the company; but owing to the great sacrifice at which the loans are obtained, the liabilities of the company will be nearly double this amount.

Any views concerning the completion of the canal by the present company must be conjectural; but if the present loan be expended with economy the results will enhance the prospects of success.

At Colon there were many residents and foreigners not interested in the canal. The most bitter opponents of the enterprise were Americans and Englishmen, or former employes of the company who had been discharged or had a similar grievance. But from all sources there was a free admission that the company has both brains and energy, that the canal presents no insuperable obstacles, and that its completion is a question of time and money.—Lieutenant Charles C. Rogers, in Popular Science Monthly.

BURMAH TURTLE EGGS.

How They Are Collected in Vast Quantities by Poorly-Paid Natives.

At the mouth of the Bassein river, which is a branch outlet of the Irrawaddy, on the Pegu coast of Lower Burmah, are several small islands, much frequented by the turtle abounding on those shores. Diamond Island, where ships usually take up pilots to enter the port of Bassein—that town being ninety-three miles up the river—is only half a square mile in area, surrounded by reefs of rocks mostly covered at high tide, leaving a narrow strip of land all round, the land above rising to fifty feet elevation, with thick jungle growing over it. A pilot house with flagstaff and the telegraph buildings stand in a clearing on the east side. This island is the great resort of all the large turtle which live in those waters; and nightly throughout the year they come on to the narrow sand foreshores to lay their eggs. The right of collecting these eggs is sold by public auction every five years, and the present lessee pays 17,000 rupees annually to the Indian Government. The turtle are themselves protected by stringent regulations, and a person detected killing one is liable to a fine of 500 rupees. During the month of April egg-collecting is prohibited, and the eggs laid in that month have every chance of coming to maturity, and so keeping up the supply. It will surprise many readers to learn that one turtle will lay from 80 to 230 eggs during one night, the number depending partly on the season of the year; and it is believed that the same turtle returns frequently, and will probably lay from 500 to 1,000 eggs in the year. To form an idea of the number of turtle that frequent this island it may be mentioned that, while the contractor's rent per month, with expenses of collecting, is estimated at 1,500 rupees, he gets an estimated profit of 1,000 rupees monthly, the selling price of the eggs being 2 rupees per hundred; this represents a collection of 125,000 eggs in the month, or 4,170 daily, which, taking 100 eggs as the average lay of one turtle, requires 42 turtle every night to visit the sands and deposit their eggs. The space where they can lay is so limited that it is difficult to imagine what they could do if they were allowed to multiply for a twelve-month. They come up on the night flow-tide and dig a hole in the sand, or rather work out an old hole, as the whole foreshore above high-water mark consists of old holes and intervening hillocks. When the hole is ready the turtle lays her eggs and scrapes the sand over them again with her flippers. The whole process occupies about two hours, and the turtle then makes for the sea. It always happens that a considerable number of them do not reach the water until the reefs have become exposed by the falling tide; and though they are fair travelers on sand, they can not get on when the path is over rock, so they have to remain on the rocks, with their noses in a pool of water, until the returning tide reaches them. In the morning the spearman, whose duty it is to find the nests, comes round and follows each track, which is broad and distinct, until he reaches the nest. Into this nest he thrusts his spear, to a depth of two or three feet, and on its withdrawal he can at once see if the point has passed through an egg. If the nest has been used during the night, he sets up a mark there, and the diggers and carriers coming after him halt there to collect the eggs. The eggs are dug out by hand and thrown together in a heap, until the nest is cleared; they are then transferred to the basket, and are finally stored on the floor of a hut made of open bamboos. The skins of the eggs are tough, and will stand great pressure without bursting; and they will keep good about five weeks. About twice a month they are sent away up the country in boats for sale. They are richer than hens' eggs, but make rather tough omelets. The Burmese consume them largely.—Illustrated London News.

Co-Operation of the Senses.

Some curious experiments have led Dr. Urbanschitsch, of Vienna, to the conclusion that the exciting of one sense-organ increases the acuteness of the others, the different sensations seeming to reinforce one another. Hearing a sound will bring out the just indistinguishable color of a distant disc. The ticking of a watch is heard more plainly with open than closed eyes, the fact that we listen to music or speaking with the eyes closed being due to other reasons. The sight of red and green increases perceptions of sound; that of green and red weakens them. These colors affect sensations of smell, taste and touch in like manner. Touch and temperature act reciprocally. When the skin is tickled and plunged into warm water, the tickling ceases; when into cold the tickling brings out the feeling of cold. These observations offer an explanation of the singular associations between colors and sounds that some individuals retain.—Arkansaw Traveler.

—The township of Star, Antrim County, Mich., in complying with the new law, which commands each town to provide itself with an election seal, ordered carved on the end of a stick the word "Star," believing that to be good enough for common, every-day sort o' folks. The artist who did the carving was not familiar with types, however, and that accounts for the fact that local-option returns from Star are sealed with "Rats."

—The tomb of Mrs. John Jacob Astor is to be guarded by detectives.

HIS FIRST GRIZZ—

A Newspaper Humorist's Encounter With a Mighty Smart Bear.

It was this way:

We had been out from camp—Jim and I—for three days, and the whisky was getting low. We had first emptied both our flasks into the coffee pot, pooling our remaining stock, and were going to make an even divide, when the bear came in.

He had not been invited, nor did he knock as he came in. He just came strolling out of the brush, in a listless distingue way, up to the camp fire.

We rose, of course. It is the invariable custom in the mountains, when a bear joins a party unexpectedly, for the members of the party to rise. If the bear is a small one, it is not considered necessary to rise higher than the lowest branches—some seven or eight feet; but, on the approach of a grizzly or a large cinnamon, it is customary to rise five or six feet higher. Social etiquette is very strict on these points.

This was a grizzly; so we did not stay even to look for our guns; but rose at once about twenty feet.

He hardly acknowledged our courtesy—just the barest recognition—and then proceeded to take an inventory of our outfit. It was not long before he struck the whisky. Then he sat down to make a night of it.

"Jake," said Jim, calling across from his tree to mine: "I poured my whisky into the pot first, didn't I?"

"Yes."

"So my share's at the bottom, and it's your half he's drinking now ain't it?"

It was a low-down way for Jim to talk, and I felt like dropping out of my tree and climbing up to thrash him. But I didn't.

Soon the liquor began to tell on the bear, as we could see from his hiccoughs and the unsteady look in his eye.

Then he—the bear—began overhauling our packs. Soon he came to my spare overalls and, diving his fore paw into the pocket, pulled out an old pawn-ticket and a key. The ticket had run out, so he threw it away. Then he grabbed the key; and, picking up my hat and putting it on over one ear, staggered across to the foot of Jim's tree, and commenced jabbing the key into the crevices of the bark.

"Looking for the keyhole, by all that's holy!" said Jim, as he drew his legs up a couple of feet higher.

Presently the bear dropped the key into the grass, and tried to look as if he had done it on purpose. Then he saw my rubber boots; and you should have heard him laugh as he grabbed them! Then he sat down on his haunches and began to pull the boots on.

But he had his back turned to me now; so, while he was wrestling, trying to put his left foot into the right boot, I just dropped from my tree and reached for a rifle. He must have heard me drop, and I hardly had hold of the gun before he was up and facing me.

It was an awful moment! Scarcely ten feet separated me from the Monarch of the Mountains—the Terror of the Forests! His eyes seemed to flash living fire in the blaze of the burning logs, and in the flickering light, his teeth—those teeth which, if my muscles trembled at the critical moment, would soon be bathed in my life-blood—looked doubly terrible.

For an instant there was a death-like hush as we stood facing each other in the lurid fire-light. We both knew that it was war to the death.

Then he rose in all his rugged majesty. He came toward me—slowly, terribly. I could almost feel his hot breath on my hands. The supreme moment had arrived. My finger was already pressing the trigger. He opened his mouth.

"Let 'er—hic!—go, Gallagher!" he growled with his last hiccough.

And I did.

But when he was dead, I wished I had stopped to ask him how he had got onto my name.—James Gallagher, in Puck.

An Infallible Sign.

Apartment housekeeper—How is that young man in the back room getting along, Sally?

Chambermaid—He's no young man. He's married.

"Married?"

"Yes'm. He never finds his necktie, nor his hat, nor his overshoes, nor nothin' until I looks for 'em."—Omaha World.

Cold and Distant.

Miss Clara—Have you met Count Shoreroffsky, Mr. Featherly?

Mr. Featherly—Yes, last evening.

Miss Clara—He has a great deal of dignity of manner.

Mr. Featherly (who is nothing if not funny)—Yes, most Russians are cold and distant, you know, Miss Clara.—N. Y. Sun.

—A Cincinnati preacher has invented an ingenious device to boom the matrimonial market. The lovesick girl who gets tired of waiting for the vital question is advised to confront her lover with a proposal from a man of straw and ask his ideas about accepting the offer. The net result is an early marriage certificate and a fee for the dominie.

—Moses Hull, a negro who died at Washington, Pa., lately, was Stonewall Jackson's body-servant, and attended him through the war of the Rebellion. He was ninety years old, and left a family of fifteen children to mourn his loss.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, APRIL 21 ..... 1888

It is a curious fact that in all frontier countries the early settlers are, with very few exceptions, opposed to all extensive improvements. They have made long and toilsome journeys; have faced the greatest dangers and endured the hardest privations to secure their locations; and yet when it is proposed to carry through any great improvements that will vastly benefit the country of their choice, and increase the value of their own property, they will do all in their power to hinder and discourage the projectors of such improvements. This is an unvarying experience all over the Pacific Coast; and it may be some consolation to the men who are improving Owens Valley to know that they have no worse experience of this kind than others have had before them. Indeed there is great reason to believe that a change of feeling in favor of improvement is making more rapid headway here than in most places in California. It is now but little more than three years since the work of making known the resources of Owens Valley was begun, and already nearly every settler is stirred up and taking an interest in improvement. No doubt this change is brought about by the steady increase in the value of property during the last three years. Let any owner of real estate look back three years to the value of his property at that time; then let him carefully ascertain the value of the same property now, and he will at once see what persistent work in making known the resources of the country has done for him. The tide of progress and improvement has set in; it cannot be turned back; those who oppose it will be swept away and more intelligent people will take their places.

It would appear that Roscoe Conkling has but a very short lease on life; the ablest physicians of New York have expressed doubts of his recovery. With all his faults Conkling was a man who commanded respect. He was neither the tool or slave of any clique or faction. He preferred to do what he thought right, even though he stood alone, than to conceal or give up his opinions for the sake of currying favor with small politicians. He entertains the most profound contempt for the men who make a profession of politics for personal gain; and rather sought than shunned opportunities for expressing that contempt. Every scheming rascal who was an ardent party man because party offers a cloak to the public robber, howled against Conkling and called him a "traitor." But rebellion against pothouse politics is loyalty and the highest patriotism. The knave raises the cry of "traitor" against the honest man who will not be a tool or a partisan of the public plunderer, and the fools repeats the cry. Conkling despised knave and fool alike, and both kept up the cry against him. He was greater than his detractors and his memory will be held in honor when they are rotten and forgotten.

The Los Angeles "Express" says it is a fact that since the first of last August nearly $2,500,000 of Eastern capital has been put in circulation there in the shape of loans on real estate. Wisconsin heads the list, and the amount of Wisconsin capital loaned on Los Angeles real estate during the period designated approximates $620,000. Of this amount one Wisconsin man of means, J. I. Case, of Racine, has loaned nearly $300,000. Fish Brothers, of the same town, the famous wagon builders, have something like $175,000 loaned out here. Other sums varying from $15,000 to $100,000 have been planted in Los Angeles by Wisconsin capitalists. Chicago monied men are represented in Los Angeles real estate to the amount of about $500,000, mostly invested by Lake City men, who have "been here and seen the country."

The German Emperor is evidently nearly done with all his dignities and power. Von Moltke cannot out general death; Bismarck cannot outwit or bully him to keep away. Late reports show the Emperor to be failing steadily and the end not far away.

Leaders of the American party are urging Abraham S. Hewit, Mayor of New York, as their candidate for the Presidency. Mr. Hewit is a very able man; honest, fearless, and of much experience in public life. He is such a candidate as would command respect not only for himself but for the new party.

WHAT YOUNG AMERICA READS.

The Public Libraries Doing Immense Good for Future Generations.

To ascertain what the great army of New York's young folks read, a reporter visited the leading libraries of the metropolis and conversed with the librarians and readers. It is a mistake to suppose that the children are not critical, and will read everything put before them; on the contrary, they are the most critical and exacting of all readers.

"At what age do children ask for books?" was asked of a librarian who has made a study of children's literature.

"Well," answered the lady, smiling, "our rules do not permit the giving of books to children under 12 years of age, but so anxious are the little things to read that many of them come here on the day before their 12th birthday so as to make sure of the reading privilege. Many of the books taken out are actually read by younger brothers and sisters not 12 years old."

At the Apprentices' library the writer was informed that a number of children only 10 years old were readers of books. The boys seem to be the greatest devourers of books. Some regularly read one book a day, and would read more if allowed. The boys are especially fond of history, fiction, tales of travelers and sea stories. One little tot recently asked for a book "where they fight on water."

The girls are also very fond of fiction and fairy tales. It is found that the boys not only read much faster than the girls, but read more of the solid class of literature. The majority of girls read romances, especially sensational ones. Some of them like poetry, for which boys as a rule do not care. A small percentage of the boys read books of popular science, and works which may be useful in trade and business. This class of reading is almost entirely neglected by the girls. Boys read a good deal of the standard literature. Dickens is very popular among them, but where the taste for higher literature is at all developed American authors like Irving and Cooper come in for a good share of popularity.

Books and magazines containing pictures are in very much demand by both sexes. Children do not care for so called religious or Sunday school books. Books which attempt to convey moral lessons of the goodey goodey kind are given the cold shoulder. One of the librarians assured the writer that such books would never be read if the youthful readers were not sometimes misled by the authors. There does not seem to be any special difference of taste caused by the varying nationalities of the children's parents. Children of German parentage form a large proportion of the readers, and it is noticeable that no matter what the parentage of the children is, the latter all prefer books in the English language. Colored children are also numbered among the readers. Children of Jewish parentage seem to be especially fond of reading books in which things that may be useful to them in trade or business are combined with amusement or set forth in an attractive, popular form. There is a considerable love of art among children, not of course of art as art, but the pictures and woodcuts.

Some boys are careless and soil books, but as a rule they are fairly clean with them; but girls are far cleaner and neater than the boys in this respect. Of course boys, if permitted, would read the highly sensational "blood and thunder" tales, and girls would read the highly seasoned sensational romances, but all such books are carefully kept out of the public libraries. When the taste for good literature is once awakened the boy and girl find no difficulty in satisfying it.—New York Press.

The Result of Debt.

A Japanese proverb says that a friend at hand is better than all your relations at a distance, so a little money in your pocket is better than all the credit in the world. It is astonishing sometimes how much a little money will buy, and equally surprising how quickly a bill reaches a hundred, and yet we may have little to show for it. One purchasing on credit buys rashly and generously; he does not think of pay day, which seems far off, certain like death, but as remote and intangible. It is so easy to buy things in this way, one hardly stops to count the cost, by this method it almost seems as if all the things we covet grew on trees, and all we had to do was to put out her hands; we seem to be fed and clothed as if by a miracle, and it is surely a miracle if we pay the bill due in due season. To contract a bill is to contract an obligation, to give another the advantage; we believe that half the forgeries and embezzlements in the country are the direct result of debt. Half the paralysis and heart disease which ends men's lives in their heyday may be traced to the worry consequent upon debt; worry kills more people than work, or love, or any disease. It writes wrinkles in the face, it discolors the skin, makes the hair fall out and encourages dyspepsia.—Harper's Bazar.

The people who want Bob Lincoln for president in 1888 will have to keep on calling. Bob will not help swell the noise.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch (Dem.) wants the meeting of congress changed to October, or Nov. 1 at the latest, and says: "It seems absurd to continue an arrangement of sessions which crowds all of the work of both sessions into the last year of the term for which the members were elected, and very often makes a miserable abortion of the short session."

Boot & Shoe Shop,

A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.

Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK
Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.

JOHN CLARKE, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City,
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS.
Will be sent FREE, on application.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge, No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLADE, R. S.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S

EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out a flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL.
Independence, Cal.

THOS. CROUGH. W. T. GRANT
GRANT & CROUGH.
Real Estate & Mining Agency.
INDEPENDENCE - - - - CAL.

Searchers of Titles and Furnishers of Abstracts. After a business experience of twenty years in the county we are prepared to furnish all information of value to purchasers of real estate and mining properties. Reports furnished and all correspondence reliable and confidential. GRANT & CROUGH.
J. W. P. LAIRD, Attorney for the Firm.

AGENTS WANTED for the MISSOURI STEAM Washer Active, honest persons all over the country, with or without team.

JOHN C. EVANS, SHOTLAND, Mo., writes: "I stand up and affirm that a Washer saves more hard labor and money in a large family than any Reaper and Mower that ever was put on any farm with less than 100 acres in cultivation. If you will get up any instrument that will take as much labor off of men as this Washer takes off the women and save as much in money it does and cost no more, I could sell one at every house. If they had to take the feathers from under their wife and babies to pay for it." JOHN S. DODGE, JR., jeweler, Neosho, Ill., writes: "You ask what I think of the Washer I bought last summer. Let it be the best machine ever invented by man. It will save half the work of washing on Monday alone every day." Etc. If you run short, you can not buy ours for glass. I will ship a sample to thos. desiring an agency on a week's trial on liberal terms. A thousand per cent the best washer in the world for saving labor, clothes and soap. Pays capable agents big money. Write for particulars.
J. WORTH, 1710 Franklin Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC.

Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
n47tf

THE GRAND SALOON,

LONE PINE, - CAL.,

RICHARDS & CASTRO

BILLIARD HALL AND PUBLIC RESORT. Offers to the public the finest quality of Wines Liquors and Cigars. Friends and patrons generally are invited to call. n38tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad.

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZANOVICH, Prop.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PROPOSALS FOR BOARDING INYO COUNTY PRISONERS.

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of Inyo county, at the office of the County Clerk until Tuesday, May 8, 1888, at 12 o'clock M., for the boarding of Inyo county prisoners, for the term of one year, beginning May 19th 1888 and ending May 19th, 1889, said bids to designate the price per diem for each prisoner, and said board to be paid for by warrants drawn upon the General Expense Fund, upon bills duly verified and presented at the regular meetings of said Board of Supervisors.

Proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for Boarding County Prisoners," and the same will be opened between the hours of one o'clock and four o'clock P. M. on said 8th day of May, 1888, and the Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. J. D. HARGER, Chairman.
Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk.

Proposals for Care of Indigent Sick of Inyo County.

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of Inyo county, at the office of the County Clerk until 12 o'clock M., on Tuesday, May 8th, 1888, to contract for the care of said indigent sick for the term of one year from May 19th 1888 to May 19th, 1889, said bids to designate the amount for which parties contracting will care for said indigent sick on the basis of an average of four patients per day throughout the year, and to include all medicine, nursing, board, lodging and washing. Said bids to include the burial and funeral expenses of any indigent sick person or persons who may die while under such care.

Said contractor to care for all the indigent sick properly admitted to the contractor's care. And said bids to designate the price per head at which all excess of patients over the average of four each day throughout the year will be cared for, said excess to be paid for by extra allowance on presentation of bills duly sworn to, at the regular meeting of said Board immediately after said contract has expired. The average four per day to be paid for at the regular meetings of the Board on presentation of bills duly verified. All payments to be made by warrants drawn upon the Hospital Fund of said county.

The person or persons to whom said contract shall be awarded shall give a good and sufficient bond in double the sum of the contract price, for the faithful performance of said contract.

The care and management of said indigent sick by such contractor shall be at all times subject to the inspection of said Board of Supervisors, or any member thereof, or any person appointed by the Board for such purpose.

Said proposals must be endorsed, "Proposals for Care of Indigent Sick," and the same will be opened between the hours of one o'clock and four o'clock P. M., on the said 8th day of May, 1888, and the Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. J. D. HARGER, Chairman.
Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1232.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL., Mar. 29th, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on May 19th, 1888, viz.: Charles Mulholland, for the S ½ of N E ¼, N ½ of S E ¼, Sec 14, Tp 14 S, Range 35 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz.: John Shepherd, James E. Shepherd, John Kispert and James R. Moffet, all of Independence, Inyo County, California.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Estate of B. S. GLOVER, deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY the undersigned, Executor of the estate of B. S. Glover, deceased, to the Creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice to the said Executor at his store on the southeast corner of Main and Line streets, in the town of Bishop Creek, in said County, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate. W. O. MERCNEY,
Executor of the estate of B. S. Glover, deceased.
Dated at Bishop Creek, March 7, 1888.

TAKE SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. L. M. HINTON, M. D., Washington, Ark.

SEE THAT YOU GET THE GENUINE.
PREPARED BY
J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. 256 pages, 8½ x 11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets.

Independence, Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12-tf

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,

SHINGLES,

SASH AND BLINDS,

LATH,

RUSTIC

MOULDINGS,

DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sept 11-tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time, or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5 00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel.

Independence - - - Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL

DINING ROOM,

APARTMENTS,

—AND—

—THE BAR—

Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Jy-1-86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.

Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,
Physician & Surgeon,

(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.

NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.

Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,

COUNTY CLERK,

—AND—

Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,

INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.
W. E. LINDSEY,

—Dealer in—

Gravestones, Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.

—Agent for—

PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.

Virginia Street, Below Second,

Reno, Nevada.

oct 23-tf

AL. GRIFFITH.

HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTING.
GRAINING AND PAPER HANGING.
FINE CARRIAGE PAINTING
FIRST CLASS WORK.

AL. GRIFFITH,
Independence

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work, either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | From Mound House. No. 1. | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave— | Arrive— |
| Mound House | 9 15 a. m. | 5 35 p. m. |
| Payton | 9 45 a. m. | 4 55 p. m. |
| Wabuska | 12 45 p. m. | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | 4 20 p. m. | 10 40 a. m. |
| Luning | 4 50 p. m. | 9 20 a. m. |
| Sodas Springs | 7 0 p. m. | 8 10 a. m. |
| Belleville | 7 1 p. m. | 7 0 a. m. |
| Candelaria | Ar. 8 30 p. m. | Lv. 6 30 a. m. |
| | No. 3 Leave— | No. 4 Arrive— |
| Belleville | 7 3 a. m. | 5 25 p. m. |
| Benton | 1 00 p. m. | 1 25 p. m. |
| Bishop Creek | 1 10 p. m. | 11 0 a. m. |
| Alvord | 2 00 p. m. | 10 35 a. m. |
| Independence | 3 30 p. m. | 9 05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | 4 15 p. m. | 8 5 a. m. |
| Keeler | Ar. 5 05 p. m. | Lv. 7 30 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salsbury & Co's tri-weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Berlin, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

ESTABLISHED 1846 MUNN & Co. PATENTS NEW YORK

After Forty years' experience in the preparation of more than One Hundred Thousand applications for patents in the United States and Foreign countries, the publishers of the Scientific American continue to act as solicitors for patents, caveats, trade-marks, copyrights, etc., for the United States, and to obtain patents in Canada, England, France, Germany, and all other countries. Their experience is unequaled and their facilities are unsurpassed.

Drawings and specifications prepared and filed in the Patent Office on short notice. Terms very reasonable. No charge for examination of models or drawings. Advice by mail free.

Patents obtained through Munn & Co. are noticed in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has the largest circulation and is the most influential newspaper of its kind published in the world. The advantages of such a notice every patentee understands.

This large and splendidly illustrated newspaper is published WEEKLY at $3.00 a year, and is admitted to be the best paper devoted to science, mechanics, inventions, engineering works, and other departments of industrial progress, published in any country. It contains the names of all patentees and title of every invention patented each week. Try it four months for one dollar. Sold by all newsdealers.

If you have an invention to patent write to Munn & Co., publishers of Scientific American, 361 Broadway, New York.

Handbook about patents mailed free.

Wheeler & Wilson

Sewing Machine.

New No. 8.

"THE BEST!"

Sales Made on Installment Plan.

Old Machines Exchanged for.

Farm Produce Taken in Payment.

This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really

First-Class Machine.

Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.

I. H. MULHOLLAND,
Agent.
Independence, Cal.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,

(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)

Merchant,

INDEPENDENCE

INYO CO., CAL.

Wholesale and Retail

....DEALER IN....

General Merchandise.

MY STOCK

Consisting of most every necessary article, is well calculated to suit the wants of everybody; and, as the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.
n252m6

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE

BANKER,

Independence, Cal

SELL EXCHANGE

—ON—

SAN FRANCISCO.

DRAW DIRECT

—ON—

NEW YORK,

LONDON, England

BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT KINDS

GENERAL BANKING

—AND—

Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.

Deutsche Vollmachten geleistigt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.

AGENT FOR

Wells Fargo & Co's Express

MUTUAL Life Insurance Co. OF NEW YORK.

Capital - - - $35,000,000

LIVERPOOL And LONDON and GLOBE Insurance Company

Capital - - $10,000,000

NATHAN RHINE.

BLACKSMITHING,

Horseshoeing, General Iron

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP

C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing.....$2.50 for Cash.

For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, APRIL 21 ..... 1888

Mrs. Eva Gunn came up from Darwin last Thursday morning.

There is considerable talk of building a new livery stable in town.

Mr. A. O. Collins, of Warm Spring, was in town some days this week.

Mr. J. G. Birchim, of Round valley, was in town several days this week.

Work was begun last Wednesday on the new butcher shop being built by O. I. Mairs.

At Tuscarora, Nevada, good times are reported. Every miner who wants work is employed at good wages.

Charles Graf has been held at Reno without bail for killing Joseph Shannon near Steam Boat Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Gunn have leased the Green residence, opposite the Land office, and will live there for some time.

A. R. Conklin Esq. has been chosen delegate from the Lodge at Independence to the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows.

The hotel Maringo at Pasadena was burned last Friday morning. The loss on hotel and furniture was $32,000; insurance $15,000.

Mrs. A. K. Engley, of Big Pine, young Andy Bell and George Hall passed through town last Tuesday on their way to Tulare, to visit friends.

The flock of graded Angora goats belonging to Horace Bellows multiply rapidly. This year the number of kids is not less than sixteen hundred.

A pair of valuable horses were poisoned between Hawthorne and Garfield, by drinking out of a tub into which strychnine had been put to cure hides.

Mrs. Yandell, of Bishop Creek, was at Independence last Saturday. She made final proof at the Land Office on a tract of land near Bishop Creek.

Captain Haynie, Road Master of the C. & C. railroad was at Independence last Thursday. He was down here putting in a bridge across the East side canal.

Mr. J. Willett, so report says, has sold his land near Independence station to a party from Reno. The place contains 160 acres all below the East side canal.

The Esmeralda News says it is now almost a certainty that reduction works will be erected at Luning. Such works would afford a convenient market for Inyo county ores.

A praise service will be held at the M. E. Church at a quarter before eleven o'clock Sunday morning; Sunday school immediately after the praise service. Everybody welcome.

The band boys are planning a trip to Lone Pine for the first of May pic-nic. The affair is sure to prove enjoyable and no doubt will be well attended by the Independence people.

On the authority of the House Committee on Privileges and Elections it is stated that there will be a unanimous report in favor of Representative Vandever retaining his seat in the House.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Jones, of Candelaria, were in town early in the week. They keep a restaurant at Candelaria, but think of giving up the business and coming to secure a home in Owens valley.

Frank P. Blaisdell, of Round valley, and C. C. Eisle are on their way here from Los Angeles. They telegraphed to Independence last Tdursday for a team to meet them at Mojave.

Mr. Mcknight will come down from Bishop Creek about a week hence to survey the various locations to be irrigated from the Stevens ditch. The ditch is nearly completed, and water will soon be turned into it.

A fire at Candelaria last week destroyed a house occupied by two sisters named Ward. The sisters were at a dance at Pick Handle gulch when the fire occurrd. They allege that a trunk in the house contained $3,000 in coin, and the money has disappeared.

The trial of Hattie Woolsteen at Los Angeles for the murder of Doctor Harlan ended last Saturday. She was acquitted. The jury said they had made up their minds to acquit before leaving their seats. The verdict appeared to give public satisfaction.

There appears to be little doubt that Senator Stanford will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidency. It is reported that a delegation from California to the Chicago Convention can be secured pledged to support him.

It is estimated that Owens valley will have to import about one hundred and fifty tons of flour to carry us over till the new crop is ready. Farmers are sowing less wheat every year, they find it more profitable to grow alfalfa and make beef or raise horses.

Early this spring Lank & Kehoe got a lot of young fruit trees from R. P. M. Kelly, of Reno. The trees were planted at Independence and quite a number of the young apple trees are now in bloom and will evidently bear fruit this year. All the trees are doing well.

Terrell and Thomas are working a claim owned by them just north from the old Eclipse mine, about five miles below Independence Station. They have now a lot of ore ready for shipment. Their mine looks well. We hope Steve and Triggy may become millionaires.

The annual report of the State Mineralogist states that California produced a total of $13,663,928 in ores and bullion durthe year, and exported to other countries $43,000,000 worth of silver. The greatest petroleum fields of the State are in the southern counties. The oil is adapted for use on locomotives and is cheaper than coal. Natural gas cannot be found in sufficient quantities to be of economic value, owing to the rock in the petroleum sections.

Because a good deal of attention has been given the past few weeks to the very large and fine stock of ladies goods at Rhine's, it must not be supposed that the interests of the sterner sex have been neglected. So far is this from being the case that Rhine's store now contains by far the largest and best stock of men's wearing apparel, boots and shoes and hats ever before seen in the county. Enough of these goods are there to furnish three or four ordinary country stores. All the goods are latest styles, best material and reasonable prices.

Republican County Central Committee.

The Republican County Central Committee at their meeting last Monday, adopted a set of resolutions in which the free trade policy of the Administration is strongly denounced. The party is pledged to a protective tariff to the extent of total prohibition of entry to all products that do now or may hereafter come in competition with home products. The restriction of immigration is recommended, and also the right to the use of the ballot. The Administration of Governor Watterman is highly approved. Intemperance is described as a great and growing evil, and such legislation is recommended as may restrain or prohibit the use of intoxicating liquors. Everybody is invited to unite with the Republican party to accomplish this purpose. The Republican party is described as the great moral party of the country; its purpose is to make everybody good, great, happy, prosperous and virtuous.

Water

In making the Stevents canal, for a distance of six or seven miles where it runs through grass land, everywhere at a deph of two or three feet a strong flow of water is found. At short distances apart openings are left in the bank for the escape of the water. If this were not done the water would gather in the cut so as to prevent work. Now it is very probable that the thousands of acres of this grass land where the water is so near the surface, only need thorough cultivation to make it very productive without further irrigation. Beyond question if trees were once fairly started no more irrigation would be needed; and not only trees but many other things would grow there. There need not be any doubt that if the Stevens ditch should be continued on to the lake this underground flow of water would fully equal, if not exceed, all the loss of water from the canal by absorption and evaporation.

Visitors From the Orange Groves.

A party from Pasadena, Los Angeles county, have been in the valley most of the week. The party consists of Thomas R. Hoffman, Z. F. Atwell and Willard Downs. They had, through an agent, made locations on several sections of school land in the valley, and came here to look after it. Mr. Hoffman is manager of a large property belonging to the Pasadena Improvement Company. This land is being planted with orange and lemon trees and with vines. Being asked what the land was held at per acre, he said that sales were effected at eleven to twelve hundred dollars, and a good deal of it was sold by the foot front for building lots. Mr. Hoffman said that the land in Owens Valley, so far as he had seen, was better than the land about Pasadena. The country here, he said, is very much better watered than any part of Los Angeles county, and the climate he declared to be delightful. The party is now on the way back to Pasadena.

Land Contest.

A land contest was had at the Land office at the end of last week and beginning of this. Manuel Silva appeared to prove up upon a tract near Lone Pine, and Angelo Rossi appeared to contest. The ground of contest was that as Rossi alleged Silva had not complied with the law in making necessary improvements. A good many witnesses were examined on both sides. The decision of the Register was that the allegations of Rossi were proved and final proof was refused.

Burned to Death

The Bodie House, a hotel at Bodie, was burned last Saturday morning. The fire was not discovered until the flames had gained great headway, and the guests escaped by jumping from the windows, several being severely injured. A miner by the name of Edward McCarthy was burned to death. The loss is about $10,000; insurance light. The building belonged to O. H. Hill, who is now putting up a hotel at Bishop Creek.

Carp and Trout

Carp are very plentiful in Owens River down about George's Creek. In the shallow water out among the tules the fish are in great numbers; the boys wade among them and knock them on the head with clubs, in this way getting all they want. The mountain streams in the same neighborhood now afford fine trout fishing. The trout in these streams are of good size and very gamy.

A Long Race

Last Saturday a thirty mile race was run at Los Angeles. There were three riders: Ben Clark, C. M. Anderson and Harry Pepper. Harry is a black pepper; but he won the race all the same. Time, one hour and seven minutes. Each side was allowed six horses and had a change at the end of each mile.

Round Trip Tickets.

Round trip tickets at half rates will be sold at all stations in Owens valley to all parties attending the Odd Fellows celebration at Bishop Creek. The celebration will be held on Thursday of next week, April 26th.

When the Stevens ditch was begun many a remark was made that it would never be completed by the projectors. They were all poor men and it was predicted that "they had taken a bigger bite than they could chew." The only answer made was by steady work, and by the end of next week the canal will be finished. The canal and the land it will irrigate will be very valuable property. The owners will be rich and their critics will then be wondering at the "luck some people have."

Mr. J. K. Harmon, of Chicago, and Mr. Bevan, of San Francisco, arrived at Independence Station last Monday. Mr. Harmon is one of the owners of the San Carlos and other mines in the vicinity of the station. Mr. Bevan is a well known mining expert. They partly examined the property here and have since gone to Sweetwater, Mono county, where the same Company own other mines.

Mr. W. S. Enos has made many improvements this spring on his place near town. Among these are buildings and fences; but better than these are fruit trees, chiefly apple and pear. He has also planted a great many berry canes of different kinds. About the house he has set out a lot of ornamental and shade trees. This will soon be one of the prettiest places in the neighborhood.

According to the report of Mr. Sherwin to the Board of Supervisors of Mono county, the Long valley toll road must be quite a valuable piece of property. Mr. Sherwin reported that he collected toll last year on ten thousand head of cattle passing over the road from Inyo into Mono county.

Dr. S. A. Middleton, of Bishop Creek, was arrested and brought to Independence last Thursday, on a charge of assaulting John Blair. Next day he appeared in Court and was held to [illegible] on May 1st. In the mean tim[illegible] to bail in the sum of [illegible]

Railroad Extension.

The extension of the Carson and Colorado road appears to be getting mixed up with other projects. A report from New York says the American Finance Company of that City is endeavoring to form a syndicate of capitalists to purchase that part of the first mortgage 6 per cent forty-year gold bonds of the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Utah Railroad Company, issued on account of the construction and equipment of the proposed section of 275 miles. The San Pedro, Los Angeles and Utah Company's project is to give the Carson and Colorado Railroad a connection with the coast on the south. D. O. Mills has frequently stated lately that he seriously considered the building of an extension of the Carson and Colorado to Mojave. The San Pedro, Los Angeles and Utah seems to have stepped in ahead. Mills says that the new company has no connection with the Carson and Colorado road. The latter has its plans for an extension well matured, waiting only an inspection of territory by Mills, who will not now say that his line will not be built as proposed. "I do not know that the building of the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Utah will cause us to change our plans, but we are not ready to go ahead with the work just now," said Mr. Mills.

Shin-Plasters.

Those who remember the "shinplaster" currency of war times will also remember what a nuisance it was. The dirty, ragged little pieces of paper were cursed by everybody who had to handle them, and were only tolerated through the patriotism of the people. Now it is proposed to issue more of the wretched little plasters of the value of ten cents, fifteen cents, and twenty-five cents each. Such vile currency should not be used an hour when there is enough silver to supply all the coins of small value needed. Everybody was heartily glad to get rid of the "shinplasters" after the close of the war and the same experience would be repeated. The former issue was tolerated only as a war measure just as suspension of the writ of habeas corpus was tolerated. Not a single good reason can now be given for a "shinplaster" currency, except to prevent the use of silver, and this is the real reason.

Last Monday evening a lamp was upset in the Post office; the oil spread over the floor and in an instant there was quite a blaze. The fire was smothered by spreading a blanket over it. Very soon it was discovered that there was fire behind the ceiling of the room. A few boards were torn off and a bucketful of water applied to the right spot ended the matter.

If you have a photo you want enlarged in crayon, India ink, water color, or pastel at 15 per cent. below San Francisco prices, send your order to Miss O'Hara, of Bishop Creek. Prices ranging from five to thirty-five dollars according to size. An extra discount of 10 per cent. to any one ordering two or more pictures. Satisfaction guaranteed.

A big delegation of drummers has been in town during the week. Several of these represented big houses in San Francisco who never had agents here before. Dry goods, notions, wagons and farm implements were the kinds chiefly represented, though wet goods were not far behind. All the agents said thy had done a good business and would in future come regularly.

NOTICE!

THE DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CENTRAL Committee will meet at Independence on

Saturday, April 28, 1888,

At 2 p. m. for the purpose of selecting Delegates to the State Convention, which will be held at Los Angeles on the 15th day of May, 1888. Also for the purpose of selecting a time and place for holding a County Convention, and to transact such other business as may come before them.

Per order of
A. N. BELL, Chairman.
Thos. Crough, Secretary.

MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE:

At Large—A. N. Bell, Chairman, J. A. Lank, E. Robinson, White Smith, Thos. Crough, Secretary, A. W. Elbeshuz and J. W. P. Laird.
Round Valley—C. F. Wildassin.
Lincoln—J. L. Bouriand.
Bishop Creek—P. W. Forbes.
Bishop Station—Joseph McNally.
Poleta—George Storey.
Big Pine—R. P. Hanlon.
Cottonwood—S. P. Roberts.
Independence—A. Tanner.
Georges Creek—J. E. Shepherd.
Lone Pine—John Lucas.
Keeler—John Barnes.
Cerro Gordo—Pat Clinton.
Keynot—Thos. McDonough.
Olancha—W. T. Grant.
Darwin—J. W. Murphy.
Lookout—F. Fitzgerald.
Panamint—H. J. Chickting.
Sherman—Arthur Smith.
Fish Springs—James Conners.

TO ADVERTISERS

A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATES AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.

To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List. GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce Street, New York.

BISHOP CREEK

BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO., Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

Customers supplied on all points on the C. & C. Railroad.

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

Who Spends Money

For advertising in newspapers in these hard times, without first obtaining an estimate of the cost from Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York, is likely to pay $10 for what might be obtained for $5. Such estimates are furnished to all applicants gratis. Send 10 cents for 176 page pamphlet with list of newspapers, rates and references.

SPRING STOCK

-IN ENDLESS VARIETY-

Just Received

--AT--

NATHAN RHINE'S

Call And Examine.

SAMPLES ON APPLICATION

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE.
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
AND
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Notice Of Change Of Text Books.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY THE Board of Education of Inyo county, California, that said Board proposes to change the following text books now in use in the public schools of said county, to wit: Theory and Practice of Teaching, Music, Entomology, Book-keeping, Composition, Penmanship, Industrial Drawing, English and American Literature, Physics, Algebra and Natural History. And that sealed bids, or proposals, will be received by said Board for furnishing books to replace those mentioned above, or any part thereof. Said bids, or proposals, must be accompanied by sample copies of the books proposed to be furnished, together with a statement of the wholesale and retail price at which the publisher agrees to furnish each book, within the county, during the full time for which said books are to be adopted. The publisher or publishers whose proposals shall be accepted must enter into a written contract with said Board, and shall give a good and sufficient bond in a reasonable amount, with sureties, for the faithful performance thereof. Said bids or proposals will be opened by the Board at Independence, Inyo county, Cal., at ten o'clock a. m., on Tuesday the 29th day of June 1888. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Board of Education of Inyo county.

Attest: J. H. SHANNON, Secretary.
[SEAL.]
Dated April 13, 1888. Bishop Creek, Cal.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and

Livery Accommodations

generally. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the [illegible]

NORMAN HOUSE,

Independence, - - Cal.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. I. MAIRS, Prop.
feb12tf

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law,
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

THIS PAPER IS ON FILE
—AT—
PALMER & REY'S
ADVERTISING BUREAU!
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco.
—AND AT—
PALMER & REY'S
Pacific States Advertising Bureau
46 Tribune Building,
NEW YORK.
Where Advertising Contracts can be made.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair-Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.
WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR SALE.

813 acres of land within one mile of railroad. As fine land for fruit, vineyard, vegetables or alfalfa as there is in the State. All with perfect water right. Will cut up to suit purchasers.

520 acres two miles from railroad. 80 or 90 inches of water. A fine locality. Good stock range. 160 acres fine barley land.

A fine dairy ranch, consisting of 480 acres suitably located for market, with 150 head of cattle 45 of them No 1 dairy cows. Perfect titles to land and water. Improvements on all. Apply to

Grant & Crough,
Independence, Cal.

Richly REWARDED are those who read this and then act; they will find honorable employment that will not take them from their homes and families. The profits are large and sure for an industrious person; many have made and are now making several hundred dollars a month. It is easy for anyone to make $5 and upwards per day, who is willing to work. Either sex, young or old; capital not needed; we start you. Everything new; no special ability required; you reader, can do it as well as any one. Write to us at once for full particulars, which we mail free. Address Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

115 CLAY STREET, 117
SMITH'S STORE
The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.
CASH.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

INDEPENDENCE MARKET,
J. Roeper, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.
dec18 tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

MARRIAGE GUIDE
260 PAGES. Illustrated. in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 500. Beauty in and is. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of wise counsel and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—we to may Marry, when not, who; Medical Aids, where necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PRESCRIPTIONS, in Solid, Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read. Sent out [illegible] WHITTIER St. Louis, Mo. [illegible] AND SEND WITH ORDER.

TUTT'S PILLS
25 YEARS IN USE.
The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age.
SYMPTOMS OF A TORPID LIVER.
Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams. Highly colored Urine, and
CONSTIPATION.
TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer. They Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 44 Murray St., N.Y.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.
GRAY HAIR or WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1. Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

FRED BURCKHARDT
Watchmaker & Jeweler,
LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.
All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.
FRED BURKHARDT

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
Bishop Creek, Cal.,
offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles
OF
Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc
AT
L. WOOD'S
CASH STORE
A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.
CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH STORE
Is Where You Get
WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
General Merchandise
A Full Line
CONSTANTLY ON HAND.
ORDERS SOLICITED
Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.
MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.
MAIN OFFICE:
HAWTHORNE NEV.
BRANCHES:
Wabuska, Nev.,
CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.
AGENCIES:
WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.
aug25tf

TOM BOLAND.
KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.
Dealer in
GENERAL
MERCHANDISE
GROCERIES
MINERS' Supplies
PROVISIONS,
&c., &c., &c
LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

FREE TRIAL PACKAGE. PROF. HARRIS' Pastille A RADICAL CURE FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY, Organic Weakness & PHYSICAL DECAY, In Young & Middle Aged Men.
TESTED FOR SEVEN YEARS BY USE IN MANY THOUSAND CASES.
TREATMENT.
One Month, - $3.00
Two Months, - 6.00
Three Months, 7.00
MEN ONLY
NERVOUS DEBILITY, Organic Weakness, Decay and numerous diseases, baffling the skill of physicians, result from youthful indiscretion, too free indulgence, or overtaxed brain work. Avoid the imposition of pretentious remedies for these troubles. Get our Free Circular and Trial Package, and learn important facts before taking treatment elsewhere. Take a SURE REMEDY that HAS CURED thousands, does not interfere with attention to business, or cause pain or inconvenience in any way. Founded on scientific medical principles. By direct application to the seat of disease its specific influence is felt without delay. The natural functions of the human organism is restored. The animating element of life, which have been wasted are given back, the patient becomes cheerful and rapidly gains strength and sexual vigor.
HARRIS REMEDY CO., M'F'G CHEMISTS
306½ N. Tenth St., ST. LOUIS, MO.
CURED PERSONS! Not a Trusses. Ask for terms of our Appliances.
GIVEN FREE TRIAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.
Bee Keeper.
Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.
Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

Fortunately there were at Lamu at this time a party of Wakwafi Askari (soldiers). The Wakwafi, who are a cross between the Masai and the Wataveta, are a fine manly race, possessing many of the good qualities of the Zulu and a greater capacity for civilization. They are also great hunters. As it happened, these particular men had recently been a long trip with an Englishman named Jutson, who had started from Mombasa, a port about 150 miles below Lamu, and journeyed right round Kilimanjairo, one of the highest known mountains in Africa. Poor fellow, he had died of fever when on his return journey, and within a day's march of Mombasa. It does seem hard that he should have gone off thus when within a few hours of safety, and after having survived so many perils, but so it was. His hunters buried him, and then came on to Lamu in a dhow. Our friend the consul suggested to us that we had better try and hire these men, and accordingly on the following morning we started to interview the party, accompanied by an interpreter.

In due course we found them in a mud hut on the outskirts of the town. Three of the men were sitting outside the hut, and fine, frank looking fellows they were, having a more or less civilized appearance. To them we cautiously opened the object of our visit, at first with very scant success. They declared that they could not entertain any such idea, that they were worn and weary with long traveling, and that their hearts were sore at the loss of their master. They meant to go back to their homes and rest awhile. This did not sound very promising, so by way of effecting a diversion I asked where the remainder of them were. I was told there were six, and I saw but three. One of the men said that they slept in the hut, and were yet resting after their labors—"sleep weighed down their eyelids, and sorrow made their hearts as lead; it was best to sleep, for with sleep came forgetfulness. But the men should be awakened."

Presently they came out of the hut, yawning—the first two men being evidently of the same race and style as those already before us; but the appearance of the third and last nearly made me jump out of my skin. He was a very tall, broad man, quite six foot three, I should say, but gaunt, with lean, wiry looking limbs.

My first glance at him told me that he was no Wakwafi—he was a pure bred Zulu. He came out with his thin, aristocratic looking hand placed before his face to hide a yawn, so I could only see that he was a 'Keshla," or ringed man, and that he had a great three cornered hole in his forehead. In another second he removed his hand, revealing a powerful looking Zulu face, with a humorous mouth, a short woolly beard tinged with gray, and a pair of brown eyes keen as a hawk's. I knew my man at once, although I had not seen him for twelve years. "How do you do, Umslopogaas?" I said, quietly, in Zulu.

The tall man (who among his own people was commonly known as the "Woodpecker," and also as the "Slaughterer") started, and almost let the long handled battleax he held in his hand fall in his astonishment. Next second he had recognized me, and was saluting me in an outburst of sonorous language which made his companions the Wakwafi stare.

"Koos" (chief), he began, "Koos-y-Pagate! Koos-y-umcool!" (chief from of old—mighty chief). "Koos! Baba!" (father). "Macumazahn, old hunter, slayer of elephants, eater up of lions, clever one! watchful one! brave one! quick one! whose shot never misses, who strikes straight home, who grasps a hand and holds it to the death" (i. e., is a true friend). "Koos! Baba! wise is the voice of our people that says: 'Mountain never meets with mountain, but at daybreak or at even man shall meet again with man.' Behold! a messenger came up from Natal. 'Macumazahn is dead!' cried he. 'The land knows Macumazahn no more.' That is years ago. And now, behold, now is this strange place of stinks I find Macumazahn, my friend. There is no room for doubt; the brush of the old jackal has gone a little gray, but is not his eye as keen, and are not his teeth as sharp? Ha! ha! Macumazahn, mindest thou how thou didst plant the ball in the eye of the charging buffalo—mindest thou"——

I had let him run on thus because I saw that his enthusiasm was producing a marked effect upon the minds of the five Wakwafis, who appeared to understand something of his talk; but now I thought it time to put a stop to it, for there is nothing that I hate so much as this Zulu system of extravagant praising—"bongering," as they call it. "Silence!" I said. "Has all thy noisy talk been stopped since last I saw thee that it breaks out thus, and sweeps us away? What doest thou here with these men—thou whom I left a chief in Zululand? How is it that thou art far from thine own place, and gathered together with strangers?"

Umslopogaas leaned himself upon the head of his long battleax (which was nothing else but a pole ax with a beautiful handle of rhinoceros horn), and his grim face grew sad.

"My Father," he answered, "I have a word to tell thee, but I cannot speak it before these low people" (umagozana), and he glanced at the Wakwafi askari; "it is for thine own ear. My Father, this will I say," and here his face grew stern again, "a woman betrayed me to the death, and covered my name with shame—ay, my own wife, a round faced girl, betrayed me; but I escaped from death; ay, I broke from the very hands of those who came to slay me. I struck but three blows with this mine ax Inkosikaas—surely my Father will remember it—one to the right, one to the left and one in front, and yet I left three men dead. And then I fled, and, as my Father knows, even now that I am old, my feet are as the feet of the Passaby, and there breathes not the man who, by running, can touch me again when once I have bounded from his side. On I sped, and after me came the messengers of death, and their voice was as the voice of dogs that hunt. From my own kraal I flew, and, as I passed, she who had betrayed me was drawing water from the spring. I fleeted by her like the shadow of death, and as I went I smote with mine ax, and lo! her head fell; it fell into the water pan. Then I fled north. Day after day I journeyed on; for three moons I journeyed, resting not, stopping not, but running on toward forgetfulness, till I met the party of the white hunter who is now dead, and am come hither with his servants. And naught have I brought with me. I who was high born, ay, of the blood of Chaka the great king—a chief, and a captain of the regiment of the Nkomabakosi—am a wanderer in strange places, a man without a kraal. Naught have I brought save this mine ax; of all my belongings this remains alone. They have divided my cattle, they have taken my wives, and my children know my face no more. Yet with this ax"—and he swung the formidable weapon round his head, making the air hiss as he clove it—"will I cut another path to fortune. I have spoken."

I shook my head at him. "Umslopogaas," I said, "I know thee from of old. Ever ambitious, ever plotting to be great, I fear me that thou hast overreached thyself at last. Years ago, when thou wouldst have plotted against Cetywayo, son of Panda, I warned thee, and thou didst listen. But now, when I was not by thee to stay thy hand, thou hast dug a pit for thine own feet to fall in. Is it not so? But what is done is done. Who can make the dead tree green or gaze upon last year's sun? Who can recall the spoken word or bring back the spirit of the fallen? That which Time swallows comes not up again. Let it be forgotten!

"And now, behold, Umslopogaas, I know thee for a great warrior and a brave man, faithful to the death. Even in Zululand, where all the men are brave, they called thee the 'Slaughterer,' and at night told stories round the fire of thy strength and deeds. Hear me now. Thou seest this great man, my friend"—and I pointed to Sir Henry; "he also is a warrior as great as thou and strong as thou art; he could throw thee over his shoulder. Incubu is his name. And thou seest this one also; him with the round stomach, the shining eye and the pleasant face. Bougwan" (glass eye) "is his name, and a good man is he, and a true, being of a curious tribe who pass their life upon the water and live in floating kraals.

"Well, we three whom thou seest would travel inland, past Dongo Egere, the great white mountain" (Mt. Kenia), "and far into the unknown beyond. We know not what we shall find there; we go to hunt and seek adventures and new places, being tired of sitting still with the same old things around us. Wilt thou come with us? To thee shall be given command of all our servants; but what shall befall thee, that I know not. Once before we three journeyed thus in search of adventure, and we took with us a man such as thou—one Umbopa; and, behold, we left him the king of a great country, with twenty Impis" (regiments), "each of three thousand plumed warriors, waiting on his word. How it shall go with thee I know not; maybap death awaits thee and us. Wilt thou throw thyself to Fortune and come, or fearest thou, Umslopogaas?"

The great man smiled. "Thou art not altogether right, Macumazahn," he said; "I have plotted in my time, but it was not ambition that led me to my fall, but, shame on me that I should have to say it, a fair woman's face. Let it pass. So we are going to see something like the old times again, Macumazahn, when we fought and hunted in Zululand? Ay, I will come. Come life, come death, what care I, so that the blows fall fast and the blood runs red? I grow old, I grow old, and I have not fought enough! And yet am I a warrier among warriors; see my scars"—and he pointed to countless cicatrices, stabs and cuts that marked the skin of his chest and legs and arms. "See the hole in my head; the brains gushed out therefrom, yet did I slay him who smote, and live. Knowest thou how many men I have slain, in fair hand to hand combat, Macumazahn? See, here is the tale of them"—and he pointed to long rows of notches cut in the rhinoceros horn handle of his ax. "Number them, Macumazahn—103—and I have never counted but those whom I have ripped open, nor have I reckoned those whom another man had struck."

"See, here is the tale of them."

"Be silent," I said, for I saw that he was getting the blood fever on him; "be silent, well art thou called the 'Slaughterer.' We would not hear of thy deeds of blood. Remember, if thou comest with us we fight not save in self defense. Listen; we need servants. These men"—and I pointed to the Wakwafi, who had retired a little way during "indaba" (talk)—"say they will not come."

"Will not come!" shouted Umslopogaas; "where is the dog who says he will not come when my Father orders? Here, thou"——and with a single bound he sprung upon the Wakwafi with whom I had first spoken, and seizing him by the arm, dragged him towards us. "Thou dog!" he said, giving the terrified man a shake, "didst thou say that thou wouldst not go with my Father? Say it once more and I will choke thee"—and his long fingers closed around his throat as he said it—"thee, and those with thee. Hast thou forgotten how I served thy brother?"

"Nay, we will come with the white man," sped the man.

"White man!" went on Umslopogaas, in simulated fury, which a very little provocation would have made real enough; "of whom speakest thou, insolent dog?"

"Nay, we will go with the great chief."

"So," said Umslopogaas, in a quiet voice, as he suddenly released his hold, so that the man fell backward. "I thought you would."

"That man Umslopogaas seems to have a curious moral ascendency over his companions," Good afterwards remarked, thoughtfully.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Self Massage for Dyspepsia.

This treatment requires much perseverance and practice, otherwise it may to some extent prove a failure; but renewed vigor will always be in proportion to the practice. Be not discouraged. First thing in the morning and last thing at night rub the abdomen down the left side and up the right in a round circle, also rub down the breast; now pace across the room once or twice, and then snap the lower limbs, like a whip lash, for exercise. Now twist the lower limbs, first on one side, then on the other, and rock up on the toes. Now for the lungs and abdomen; first, take in a half breath, then exhale all the air possible, then fill the lungs to their full capacity, walk across the room and back, at the same time throwing the arms back. Now in a half breath send out every particle of air till you see the abdomen working like a bellows, and you will soon become a deep breather. For more extended practice in deep breathing the morning before rising is a good time provided there is full ventilation and that the air inside is as pure and fresh as that on the outside. Before a good fire wash the hands and face, wet the back of the neck, arms and lower limbs slightly, and rub down with a coarse towel. This is sufficient for a beginner, but entirely inadequate for the old, chronic dyspeptic.—J. N. Semple in Herald of Health.

When Buying Wearing Apparel.

It is astonishing to observe how few people understand the common rules of measurement in purchasing wearing apparel. For instance, a man will buy a coat that is a "size" too small or too large. A "size" smaller or a "size" larger is what he probably needs, but he does not know what a "size" is. Well, a "size" in a coat is an inch, a size in underwear is 2 inches, a size in a sock is 1 inch, in a collar 1-2 an inch, in a shirt 1-2 an inch, in shoes 1-6th an inch, pants 1 inch, gloves 1-4 of an inch, and in hats 1-8 of an inch. Very few purchasers ever understand the schedule named.—Globe-Democrat.

—The four-year-old daughter of a Boston druggist has already picked up some of the words belonging to her father's business, as the following shows: This little miss had prepared to recite in Sabbath-school the line, "Search the Scriptures." When the teacher asked for her verse, however, she hesitated, then bravely uttered the words: "Hunt for the precriptions."—

A LUCKY CLERK.

He Draws $5,000 in The Louisiana State Lottery.

Charles A. Treanor, book-keeper for the Russ Lumber and Mill Company in this city, is undoubtedly a "lucky man." Just before the drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery in New Orleans on January 10, he bought half of ticket No. 6,419, which drew the fourth capital prize of $10,000, so now Mr. Treanor is the happy possessor of $5,000, less Wells, Fargo & Co.'s commission for collecting the same. He stated to a Bee reporter yesterday that The Louisiana State Lottery Company had paid the amount promptly, and that he now has it, but has not decided what he will do with his fortune. He says that the other half of the ticket was sold in fifths throughout the United States, and he does not know the holders of them. Mr. Treanor has been book-keeper for the Russ Lumber Company for five years, and when he drew this $5,000 was worth in real estate at least $10,000, so, that, although very welcome it will not raise him from poverty. He resides at 343 Tenth street with his mother, his father being dead, and supports her. He is an intelligent young man of about 30 years, wears gold-rimmed spectacles, and is slight of stature. He has tried his luck often before, having purchased over 100 tickets, and has been uniformly successful in drawing small amounts, ranging from $5 to $100. These winnings have kept him even with the amount expended for tickets, and he acted upon the adage, "Nothing venture, nothing have," to quote his exact words.—San Diego (Cal.) Bee, Feb. 3.

A SAFE BANK.

Conservative commercial men will note with satisfaction that the PACIFIC BANK, of San Francisco, continues to give proof of the soundness of its business methods, and the prudence and wisdom of its administration by its last statement.

How Nervous People Can Avoid Half of Their Suffering.

If you are sick or ailing, don't depend too much on the medicines you take or the remedies you apply to effect a cure. Tonics and alteratives are of great use, but attention to the rules of hygiene, mental as well as physical, will make them much more efficacious. In the first place, don't give up too easily; have courage; exert your willpower; don't brood over your aches and pains and symptoms, but try to forget them; and the chances are you will forget them so thoroughly that when you do by chance remember them you will wonder where they are. If the worst comes, and you must give up, then do so gracefully and thoroughly, keep hopeful, and so order all pertaining to your mind as well as your body, that the best results may be obtained from the remedies used.

Half of the suffering of nervous people comes from their brooding over their ailments till the imagination gets the upper hand. Nine times out of ten, all their symptoms would disappear if they would pay strict attention to their diet, have it light and nutritious, and avoid stimulants of all kinds—even tea and coffe; bathe daily, using friction with a brush or towel; take plenty of outdoor exercise, whether the weather be pleasant or not; and try to forget their nerves in pleasant reading or pleasant company—not exciting company, for that would only irritate—or in congenial work; and if work they must, and it be not congenial, then let them make the best of it under the circumstances and do it "by God's law," thoroughly and conscientiously, and they will be astonished to find how the sunshine will even seem brighter, the icy wind less cold, the noise less irritating, and their friends so much pleasanter, when in reality it is all in themselves—they are only taking brighter views of life, and not causelessly irritating themselves and others around them.—Benedorest's Monthly.

"I scarce ever heard or saw the inroads of any words, 'without vanity I may say,' etc., but some vain thing immediately followed. Most people dislike vanity in others, whatever share they have of it themselves; but I give it fair quarters wherever I meet with it, being persuaded that it is often productive of good to the possessor and to others that are within his sphere of action; and therefore in many cases, it would not be altogether absurd if a man were to thank God for his vanity among other comforts of life."—Ben Franklin.

—The English capitalists who have lately purchased Port Royal, S. C., intend to build wharves and warehouses, and will establish banks and put on a direct line of steamers between there and Liverpool. Their purchase comprises 3,600 acres, including the entire water front and the best portion of the island.

The man who was found eating oysters out of the fisherman's barrel gave as his excuse that he believed in admitting raw material free.—Independent.

There are forty-three log school houses in Iowa. This is the number given in the report of the state superintendent for 1887.

A WOMAN'S WAY.

A Startling Business Proposition.

A little over six weeks ago Mrs. Fowler of 327 Ellis street, San Francisco, stopped in at a leading city druggist's to ask what effect Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, about which she had heard so much recently, would have in cases of dyspepsia and sick headache. She was assured that in most cases it would relieve both. She was, however, so incredulous that finally the druggist gave her a bottle, not to be paid for unless it effected a cure. A proposition so startlingly practical has seldom, if ever before, been made. The following just received is the convincing conclusion, and tells its own story:

San Francisco, February 8, 1888.

DEAR SIR: I write to admit that, notwithstanding my misgivings, Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla did all that you promised. I had tried so many prescriptions, to no purpose, that I had come to believe nothing would relieve my dyspepsia and sick headaches, but I have not had a return of either since I commenced taking it. I believe I am permanently cured, but will, out of an abundance of caution, continue to take it regularly for a while yet. You have my permission to make this public, for it is my belief that a remedy that will cure dyspepsia and prevent sick headaches should be generally known. Respectfully,

Mrs. M. Fowler,
327 Ellis street.

Legends of Serpent Women.

In the early Egyptian hieroglyphics we find representations of snakes' bodies crowned by female heads; and, indeed, this class of serpents seems to have proved equally attractive to all nations, an evidence of which subtle fascination is that the legends of the "snake maidens" still live in the nursery tales of today, perennially young and beautiful as though their birth were not wrapped in the mysteries of a prehistoric age. Of this family came Larnia, the witch of Crete, whose woman's heart rendered her doubly sensitive to the degradation she suffered during her incarceration within her scaly prison; nor did she, on renewing the pristine glory of her human form, completely lose the essence of her serpent nature. Harmonia, the wife of Cadmus, to be a companion in her husband's misfortunes, also took upon herself the serpent's shape, but being devoid of evil intent, never, it is said, shunned, but rather sought man's presence.

Perhaps it is but another form of the classic Harmonia which has become familiar to us under the name of the fairy Gentilla, who, in an adder's shape, sought refuge with Prince Leander from the vengeance of the irate gardeners, but at the end of several days dropped her scaly mantle, and, arrayed in supernatural charms, munificently rewarded her protector. In some of the later accounts of Melusina she is cited as a member of this sisterhood. Jean D'Arras represents her as a serpent "enameled blue and white;" thus also did she present herself to the commander of Lusignan, a fortress which she erected in the early days of her wedded happiness. If there be any who wonder that this union of serpent and woman should have proved attractive to our ancestors, might not the sinuous grace and enigmatical character of our own Elsie Venner plead eloquently for the charms of her myth born sisters?—North American Review.

—Dumley (timidly, for he is behind with his board)—I—er—think, Mrs. Hendricks, that this milk is a trifle sour. Landlady (freezingly)—Jane, pass Mr. Dumley the sugar.

—A Montana coroner's jury renders a verdict of "died of softening of the brain" over the remains of a horse-thief whose head had been mashed with a club.—Burlington Free Press.

THE BANCROFT COMPANY (Successors to A. L. Bancroft & Co.) are now located in their new History Building, 721 Market St., S. F., with fresh new goods. The latest publications received daily. Elegant printing from new type. Everything in the book and stationery line, pianos and organs. Address, The Bancroft Company, History Building, 721 Market St., S. F.

When the average office goes out to seek the man it never needs to carry a lantern.

A REPRIEVE FOR THE CONDEMNED.

Wretched men and women long condemned to suffer the tortures of dyspepsia, are filled with new hope after a few doses of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This budding hope blossoms into the fruition of certainty, if the Bitters is persisted in. It brings a reprieve to all dyspeptics who seek its aid. Flatulence, heartburn, sinking at the pit of the stomach between meals, the nervous tremors and insomnia of which chronic indigestion is the parent, disappear with their hateful progenitor. Most beneficent of stomachics! who can wonder that in so many instances it awakens grateful eloquence in those who, benefitted by it, speak voluntarily in its behalf. It requires a graphic pen to describe the torments of dyspepsia, but in many of the testimonials received by the proprietors of the Bitters, these are portrayed with vivid truthfulness. Constipation, biliousness, muscular debility, malarial fevers and rheumatism are relieved by it.

The Boston Globe still continues to suggest Presidential candidates to the Republicans. Its latest nomination is Eli Perkins. The suggestion will naturally lie on the table—or anywhere else for that matter.

All the art and taste of the best artists seems to have been combined in the magnificent package of imported Oleographic and Chromatic Cards which is being offered by the well known firm of Fleming Brothers, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

To procure these elegant frosted and satin fringed cards, buy a box of Dr. C. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills for 25 cents from your druggist and mail the outside wrapper with your address (plainly written) and four cents worth of stamps to Fleming Brothers, Pittsburgh, Pa. You will be surprised and delighted with the beauty and variety of the cards you will receive.

There is nothing that will warm up a man's language so much as dropping a chunk of ice down his back.

We ought not to be too anxious to encourage untried innovation, in cases of doubtful improvement. For a quarter of a century Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy has been before the public and past through the severest test and is pronounced the most reliable remedy for that disagreeable malady. Thousands of testimonials of its virtues. 50 cents per bottle. By druggists.

At the Bridge Station of the Brooklyn Elevated road a great crowd pushed and struggled. "That's right, gents," sang out a brakeman with fine irony, "jam in, jam in, or the ladies will get all the seats."

It is highly dangerous to use anything but a purely vegetable remedy for the liver. Hobb's Little Vegetable Pills is such, and is recommended by physicians.

Piso's cure for Consumption is the best Cough Medicine. If you don't believe it, take a dose. By druggists, 25c. a bottle.

Wakelee's Squirrel and Gopher Exterminator. Try it, and prove the best is the cheapest. Wakelee & Co., San Francisco.

S. JACOBS OIL

RHEUMATISM.

The Case Stated.—Jan'y 17th, 1883. Messrs. George C. Osgood & Co., druggists, Lowell, Mass., wrote to the undersigned as follows: "Mr. Lewis Dennis, No. 136 Moody street, wishes to recommend St. Jacobs Oil, and desires especially to say that:

"ORIN ROBINSON, of Grantville, Mass., a boy of 12 years, came to his house in the summer of 1881 walking on crutches, his left leg being bent at the knee for over two months, and could not be bent back. Mr. Dennis had some St. Jacobs Oil in the house, and gave it to him to rub on his knee. In six days he had no use for his crutches, and went home well without them, as he has been ever since."

Corroborative and Conclusive Testimony.—Lowell, Mass., July 9, 1887.—Gentlemen: Mr. Lewis Dennis has just called upon me, and informs me that the boy Orin Robinson, who was a poor cripple on crutches, and was cured by St. Jacobs Oil in 1881; the cure has remained permanent. The young man has been and is now at work at manual labor; the case certainly proves the efficacy of St. Jacobs Oil.—Dr. GEO. C. OSGOOD, M. D.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers Everywhere.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

R. H. McDonald PRES'T. F. V. McDonald, CASHIER.
ESTABLISHED 1863.
Oldest Chartered Bank on the Pacific Coast.
PACIFIC BANK
Capital Stock $1,000,000.00.
Surplus $ 650,000.00.
Av. Resources $4,356,175.94.

Returning thanks for past favors, we respectfully ask a continuance of the same and solicit accounts of Individuals, Firms and Corporations.

R. H. McDONALD, Pres't.
San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 1st, 1888.

SAFE Valuable Medical Secret for married ladies. Send One Dollar and receive information by return mail. Medical Specialties, 101 W. 21st street, Room 14, N. Y. City.

CURE OF PNEUMONIA.

HESS ROAD, NIAGARA CO., N. Y., March 24, 1886.

About a year ago I was taken with a severe pain in both lungs. I was first attacked with a violent chill, then a dreadful pain and then a cough accompanied by considerable fever. It looked very much like a bad attack of pneumonia. A friend of mine procured five ALLCOCK'S PLASTERS. One he put under each arm, one under each shoulder blade, and one on my chest close around my throat. In a few hours the cough ceased, the pain gradually abated and I broke out in a profuse perspiration. I fell into a profound sleep, and the next day was almost well. I wore the Plasters eight days afterwards, and have never had any trouble since. WILLIAM A. SAWYER.

It would be a good thing to reduce the duty on the solder that fastens the top crust on mince pies.

IT'S ALWAYS THE WAY.

"Didn't I tell you so?" said a gentleman to an acquaintance whom he chanced to meet on the street; "it's always the way." "What's always the way?" inquired a mutual friend of the two men who happened along just then. "Why, just this," replied the first speaker; "you see Smith, here, the last time I met him he had one of the worst coughs you ever heard. He complained of a loss of appetite, of night sweats, of low spirits and other unmistakable premonitory symptoms of consumption. I told him to get a supply of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery at once. He did so, and look at him now! Did you ever see a healthier looking man? The 'Discovery' has snatched thousands from consumptives graves. I knew it would cure Smith. It's always the way."

It matters not how worthless the book, it is "bound" to be read.

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED.

To the Editor:

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption, if they will send me their express and P. O. address. Respectfully,

T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., New York.

Many people refuse to take Cod Liver Oil on account of its unpleasant taste. This difficulty has been overcome in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. It being as palatable as milk, and the most valuable remedy known for the treatment of Consumption, Scrofula and Bronchitis, General Debility, Wasting Diseases of Children, Chronic Coughs and Colds, has caused physicians in all parts of the world to use it. Physicians report our little patients take it with pleasure. Try Scott's Emulsion and be convinced.

The original elements are earth, air, fire and water. Fire is the most destructive and water is the most powerful. Fire-water, therefore forms a combination that is a teaser.

SHE BROKE THE ENGAGEMENT

because she saw that he had ceased to love her. Her beauty had faded, her former high spirits had given place to a dull lassitude. What had caused this change? Functional derangement; she was suffering from those ailments peculiar to her sex. And so their two young lives drifted apart. How needless, how cruel! Had she taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription she might have been restored to health and happiness. If any lady reader of these lines is similarly afflicted, let her lose no time in procuring the "Favorite Prescription." It will give her a new lease of life. Sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, of perfect satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. See guarantee on bottle wrapper.

An agnostic—Clara (who is charming)—Charley, dear, what is an agnostic? Charley (who is clever)—He is a fellow who pretends he can know nothing and thinks he knows it all.

ITCHING PILES.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in many cases removes the tumors. It is equally efficacious in curing all Skin Diseases. DR. SWAYNE & SON, Proprietors, Philadelphia. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT can be obtained of druggists. Sent by mail for 50 Cents.

HOYT'S GERMAN COLOGNE possesses a delightful fragrant and lasting odor, pleasing to all; an exquisite bouquet peculiarly its own, as unapproachable as it is unique.

A SLIGHT COLD, if neglected, often attacks the Lungs. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" give immediate relief.

If afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

Camelline improves and preserves the complexion.

FULL WEIGHT PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest, and most Healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia, Lime, or Alum. Sold only in Cans.
PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

ELY'S CREAM BALM.

I had catarrh very bad, could hardly breathe, suffered over 10 years. Ely's Cream Balm is slowly working a cure. Several friends have used it with happy results in every case. P. W. Sperry, Hartford Conn.

ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES COLD IN HEAD. CATARRH, ROSE-COLD, HAY-FEVER, DEAFNESS, HEADACHE. EASY TO USE. PRICE 50 CENTS. ELY BRO'S, OWEGO, N.Y. U.S.A.

HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril, and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS 235 Greenwich St., New York.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

CANDY MAKING FOR PLEASURE OR PROFIT. YOUNG PERSONS wishing to engage in a light, pleasant, and, perhaps, profitable amusement, can learn the art of Candy Making at home, and while giving amusement to their friends and themselves, discover whether they have a taste for the work as a business, and thereby make a fair living profit from a very small investment. Receipts, and full instructions in detail, sufficient for several lessons for the making of twelve simple varieties, and amply sufficient for home amusement, sent for one dollar. Tools necessary may be found in any kitchen. Address, GEO. F. PERCIVAL, 122 Ellis Street, San Francisco.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 27,000 in use, 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL. Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

REWARD!

$1000 Will be paid for each and every gram of poisonous substances found in Wisdom's Robertine, acknowledged the most delightful and only really harmless toilet article ever produced for beautifying and preserving the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles and all blemishes and roughness of the skin. Used and endorsed by the elite of society and the stage. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per bottle White and Flesh. REDINGTON & CO., Wholesale Druggists San Francisco, Agents.

S. F. N. U. Series, No 300.

The Seven Cuticura Boys

These seven beautiful boys owe their beauty of skin, luxuriance of hair, purity of blood, and freedom from hereditary taint or humors of the skin or scalp to the celebrated CUTICURA REMEDIES.

For cleansing, purifying and beautifying the skin of children and infants, and curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, CUTICURA, the great skin cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin beautifier, prepared from it externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood purifier, internally, are infallible.

Your most valuable CUTICURA REMEDIES have done my child so much good that I feel like saying this for the benefit of those who are troubled with skin disease. My little girl was troubled with Eczema, and I tried several doctors and medicines, but did not do her any good until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which speedily cured her, for which I owe you many thanks and many nights of rest. ANTON BOSSIMER, Edinburg, Ind.

The CUTICURA REMEDIES are in great demand. The CUTICURA RESOLVENT sells better than any other blood purifier. The CUTICURA SOAP is praised by my customers, especially mothers, who say it is the best for babies, preventing and curing scall head and similar diseases. GEORGE HOBBS, P. M., Collins, Texas.

Our little son will be four years of age on the 25th inst. In May, 1885, he was attacked with a very painful breaking out of the skin. We called in a physician, who treated him for about four weeks. The child received little or no good from the treatment, as the breaking out, supposed by the physician to be hives in an aggravated form, became larger in blotches and more and more distressing. We were frequently obliged to get up in the night and rub him with soda in water, strong liniments, etc. Finally, we called other physicians, until no less than six had attempted to cure him, all alike failing, and the child steadily getting worse and worse, until about the 20th of last July, when we began to give him CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, and the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and by the last of August he was so nearly well that we gave him only one dose of the RESOLVENT about every second day for about ten days longer, and he has never been troubled since with the horrible malady.

H. E. RYAN, Cayuga, Livingston Co., Ill.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this fourth day of January, 1887. C. N. COE, J. P.

Sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages, 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

PIMPLES, blackheads, red, rough, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

BABY'S Skin, scalp and hair preserved and beautified by the use of CUTICURA SOAP.

Wolf & Frank
MEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,
232 Kearny St., San Francisco

Shirts, Underwear, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Neckwear, Collars, Cuffs, Etc.

SHIRTS TO ORDER, $1.

Illustrated Catalogue, with Rules for Self Measurement, Mailed Free.

This BELT or Regenerator is made expressly for the cure of derangements of the generative organs. The continuous stream of ELECTRICITY permeating through the parts must restore them to healthy action. Do not confound this with Electric Belts advertised to cure all ills from head to toe. This is for the ONE specific purpose.

For circulars giving full information, address Cheever Electric Belt Co., 103 Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.

HATCH CHICKENS!
—WITH THE—
PETALUMA INCUBATOR

The Most Successful Machine Made.
3 Gold Medals, 1 Silver Medal, and 16 First Premiums.
Hatches all kinds of Eggs. Made in All Sizes.
Write us for Large Illustrated Circular Free, describing Incubators, Brooders, Houses, How to raise Chickens, etc.
Address, PETALUMA INCUBATOR CO., Petaluma, Cal.

CATARRH SAMPLE TREATMENT FREE
So great is our faith we can cure you, dear sufferer, we will mail enough to convince, free. B. S. LAUDERBACK & CO., Newark, N. J.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

I believe Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my life.—A. H. DOWELL, Editor Enquirer, Edenton, N. C., April 23, 1887.

PISO

The BEST Cough Medicine is PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. Children take it without objection. By all druggists. 25c.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

AGENTS WANTED
For our celebrated Portraits. Work first-class. Big money to active men. Pacific Portrait Co., 1221 Market St., S. F.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. M. Y & CO., Cincinnati, O.

STEINWAY. KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Romish Pianos; Burdett Organs, Band Instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

BEST TREE WASH.
GREENBANK 98% Powdered Caustic Soda (tests 99 3-10), recommended by the highest authorities; also, common Caustic Soda, pure Caustic Potash, etc., etc., for sale by T. W. JACKSON & CO., Manufacer's Agents, 3 California & 104 Market Sts., S. F.

KNABE! The best PIANO on earth.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY .....APRIL 28, 1888.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XIX. NO. 46. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., APRIL 28, 1888. WHOLE NO. 913.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

THE BARGAIN COUNTER.

An Institution Which Lifts the Average Woman Above Life's Cares.

The bargain counters in the stores of our great cities have brought more genuine happiness to the women of America than any other joy-giving thing we can now think of. Nothing brings to the average woman more tranquility of mind, more perfect serenity of soul than a knowledge of the fact that she has "got a bargain" in a remnant of calico or a bunch of ostrich tips.

Two women, with beatific expression of countenance, stood at a bargain counter in one of our Detroit stores the other day.

"Do look at this remnant of cashmere," said one, "only three dollars for the whole piece! It's worth four if it's worth a cent."

"I believe you. Splendid quality, and see what a good black it is."

"Isn't it, though? I'm going to have it. I've no use for it now, but it'll come in handy some time, and—oh, do see this ribbon!"

"Why! Only sixty cents for the piece! Did you ever? I paid thirty cents a yard only last week for ribbon not as good as that. Indeed I did! If you don't take it I will. It's a great bargain."

"Oh! I'll take it. A few yards of ribbon often come handy in a house."

"Of course, and—why, it isn't possible that these hose are only forty cents a pair! That's what they're marked. I paid seventy-five cents for many a pair not so fine, and these are good length and good colors. I don't really need them, but I'll never have a chance to get them so cheap again. I'll take four pairs."

"They are a bargain sure! I don't see how they can sell handkerchiefs like these for twenty-five cents each. Just look at this handkerchief of mine. I paid fifty cents for it and these are just as good. I tell you they're cheap. I'll take six of them. I have dozens now, but one can't have too many and you don't happen on such a bargain often."

"They are splendid, and—why, Mrs. Gadd, look here—now did you ever see such gloves as these for a dollar? I know that I never did! They're actually better than some I paid two dollars for."

"Are they as well made?"

"Exactly—if not a little better. Dear me! I wish I had a hundred dollars to spend!"

"Don't it seem too bad to let such bargains go?"

"Oh, it just breaks my heart. I always—now tell me if you ever saw lace like this sold for fifty cents a yard?"

"No, I never did."

"I guess not—nor for fifty or sixty cents. I'm bound to have six yards of that lace. I can find plenty of use for it."

"Of course you can; if I—oh, oh, oh! such exquisite embroidery!"

"Perfectly lovely!"

"Look at the prices!"

"This would be a bargain at double the money."

"I know it!"

"Did you ever see any thing more perfectly beautiful than this oak-leaf pattern? Let me see what it's marked—thirty-nine cents! Did you ever! You've seen that embroidery on my little Maudie's white skirt? Well, that was fifty cents, and it can't compare to this. Here, Mr. Clerk, ten yards of this embroidery for me; I'll never let such a bargain as that go."

"I shall take six yards."

"You'd better take ten."

"Well, I will."

"You'll never be sorry for it. It's a bargain!"

They go away empty in purse, but the bargains they have made have lifted them, for the time being, above the cares of this life.—Detroit Free Press.

THE EARTH'S MOTION.

A Simple Experiment by Which Any Intelligent Person Can Prove It.

Any one can prove the rotary motion of the earth on its axis by a simple experiment, for making which an educational journal of Frankfort, Germany, gives the following directions:

"Take a good sized bowl, fill it nearly full of water, and place it upon the floor of a room which is not exposed to shaking or jarring from the street. Sprinkle over the surface of the water a coating of lycopodium powder—a white substance which is sometimes used for purposes of the toilet, and which can be obtained at almost any apothecary's. Then, upon the surface of this coating of powder, make, with powdered charcoal, a straight, black line, say an inch or two inches in length. Having made this little black mark with the charcoal powder on the surface of the contents of the bowl, lay down upon the floor, close to the bowl, a stick or some other straight object, so that it shall be exactly parallel with the mark. If the line happens to be parallel with a crack in the floor, or with any stationary object in the room, this will serve as well. Leave the bowl undisturbed for a few hours, and then observe the position of the black mark with reference to the object that it was parallel with. It will be found to have moved about, and to have moved from east to west—that is to say, in that direction opposite to that of the movement of the earth on its axis. The earth, in simply revolving, has carried the water and every thing else in the bowl around with it, but the powder on the surface has been left behind a little. The line will always be found to have moved from east to west, which is perfectly good proof that every thing else has moved the other way."—Youth's Companion.

WOMAN AND WORK.

The Fondness Which Ladies of Gentle Birth Conceive for Their Labors.

Talking here and there to women of gentle birth, reduced by circumstances to the necessity of earning their own living, a unanimous verdict is given on one point, and that is the fondness they conceive for their work. However repugnant and hateful it may have been at first, time with imperceptible touches so soothes and strengthens rebellious shoulders that, lo! before the restive woman is aware her burden has disappeared—the ugly load slipped from its place—and instead of irksome toil, behold honest work developed into a priceless garment, guarding her from a thousand ills. Not more than one woman in ten, rising daily anticipating fruitful, busy hours ahead of her, would willingly lay down such obligations for the aimless and purposeless existence which often preceded the turn of her fortunes. This can never apply to slaves who wring a wretched existence out of their needle, with unceasing oppression to fight, but to intelligent women who are to-day filling responsible, remunerative positions. One and all agree that their work is a sure refuge against depression, ennui and the trivial faults besetting those with more leisure. No grief or disappointment is so bitter that solace may not be found by giving one's self up to unreserved labor of some sort. A lady reared in luxury, who had lived until over thirty years of age with every thing her heart could desire, speaking of this, said work was to-day her dearest pleasure. It helped to make up for the loss of every thing else. Much as one will repine now and again over the monotony and annoyances attending all kinds of employment, the days would seem dreadfully empty and trivial without their ever recurring duties. It is only after a woman has had the management of an enterprise depending solely on her for its growth and prosperity that she for the first time is able to appreciate the absorbing interest a man's business often affords him. The very reason "old maid" has become a term of reproach, synonymous with cranky irritability, is that as a rule single women left without the cares and responsibilities of married life give themselves up to selfish introspection. A nature naturally sweet and sound will warp and sour when left to prey on itself. Looking through the ranks of working women, spinsters will be found to compare favorably in point of amiability with their married friends, for after a busy day over typewriter, or counter a woman returns home satisfied with herself, prepared to compress double pleasure into her few idle hours. Scandal and gossip have small chance at the ear of a woman whose mind is filled with more important matters; ugly stories and ill-natured remarks passing harmless over the head of one with no more time for abusing her neighbors than for stupid moodiness.—N. O. Times-Democrat.

THE CAT FAMILY.

How It Is Distributed Over Various Portions of the Globe.

The true cats are embraced by the genus Felis, which includes some fifty of the species. These are distributed over every portion of the globe except Australia and the South Pacific islands, though most abundantly developed in the hot latitudes. According to Heilprin, the better known American forms are the jaguar, whose range comprises the entire region included between Patagonia and Texas; the cougar or puma, with probably the most extended north and south range of any mammalia species—Patagonia to the sixtieth parallel of north latitude; the ocelot, which, in one or other of its several varieties, ranges from Arkansas through Texas and Mexico to Patagonia; the nearly equally distributed margay—Mexico to Paraguay—and several allied species of small intertropical "tiger-cats;" the jaguar and eyra, unspotted cats ranging from Paraguay to the northern boundary of Mexico; the Chilian colocollo; the pampas-cat, and the lynx, which inhabits the greater part of the American continent north of Mexico. Prominent among the old world cats are the lion, the tiger, the panther or leopard, the ounce or irbis, the spotted tiger, the serval, the cheetah and the lynx. No form of cat may be said to be common to Europe and America, though there are varieties of lynx in both, as well as in Asia and Africa. The cougar is often inaccurately called the "panther" in America, while the American "wildcat" is a kind of lynx. The wildcat proper, Felis catus, extends its domain over the continent and islands of Europe. It is not, as is frequently supposed, the ancestor of the domestic animal, this place being now generally conceded to the Egyptian cat (F. maniculata).—Arkansaw Traveler.

Circumstances Against Her.

Wife (at breakfast)—Oh, dear, I have so much to do, and the children and servants try me so!

Husband—And you don't look well, either, my dear.

Wife—No; but when there is nothing but turmoil and confusion, and one is expected to look after every thing, what possible pleasure is there in being sick?—N. Y. Sun.

—It is rare to read the account of a wedding now-a-days that does not say some thing about the beautiful, bewitching and accomplished bride, and refer to the bridegroom as a shining light in social and business circles. A pug nose, a mouth like the Hoosac Tunnel and a small, slender intellect are all magnanimously overlooked by the discreet journalist who understands our country's needs.—Drift.

THE LIMEKILN CLUB.

President Gardner Induces a Brother to Change His Opinion.

"If Jedge Pizarro Waterfall ar' in de hall dis eavnin' I should like to hev him step dis way," said Brother Gardner as he adjusted his glasses and looked over the assemblage.

The "Jedge" was present. He has lately taken the first prize in an Amateur Art Association (limited) for the best specimen of an axe-handle made by hand, and he went forward under the idea that he was to be complimented before the club.

"Brudder Waterfall," said the President, as the member stood before him with his weight on his left leg, "I war' in de back eand of a grocery sto' las' nite, beatin' Kurnel Cahoots fo' straight games of checkers, when you cum in. De fust thing you inquir'd fur was white sugar, an I sot dar' an' heard you purchase mocha coffee, currant jell an' ninety-cent tea. Ar' I k'rect, Brudder Waterfall?"

"Yes, sah."

"How's de house rent?"

"A leetle behind, sah."

"An'de chill'en's shoes an' clothes?"

"Purty bad off."

"An' you's in debt to de wood-yard an' de grocer?"

"Slightly, sah; but times is powerful hard dis winter."

"Sartin; an' who's to blame fur it?"

"De rich, sah."

"Exactly. If it wasn't fur a few rich men in dis kentry who want to show off deir cutters we shouldn't hev any winter. If de rich didn't own houses to rent an' refuse to rent 'em fur nuffin', we poo' folks could git ahead. De rich are to blame dat you hevn't got a big woodpile, a cellar full of pork and taters, an' dat your family am not dressed in broadcloth. Isn't dat de way you figger, Brudder Waterfall?"

"Yes, sah."

"An' you doan' argy dat white sugar an' ninety-cent tea ar' any too rich fur de blood of a man airnin six or seben dollars a week?"

"No, sah. I ain't rich, but I'ze just as good as rich folks."

"I see. Brudder Waterfall, please step into de ante-room. If, arter the lapse of a few minutes, you conclude dat brown sugar an' apple sass an' Rio coffee ar' mo' in keepin' wid a poo' man's wages, please gin three raps on de doah."

The audience waited. It wasn't a minute and a half before the raps were heard, and Brother Waterfall stepped out a great deal the worse for wear. He closely resembled a man who had been held by the ear and kicked by a No. 10 brogan. He was breathing hard and much excited, but he managed to say:

"My opinyuns hev undergone a complete change, sah."

"Werry well," quietly replied the president. "Some folks kin be won ober by argyment, an' odders need a sudden shock. You kin sot down, Jedge."—Detroit Free Press.

A LEAP-YEAR ROMANCE.

Ernestine's Wooing, or Love Under the Chestnut Tree.

CHAPTER I.

It was evening, and the lights from the silver candelabra came softly through the rich Venetian glass which hedged them in, and touched with its tender warmth a youth and maiden, standing silent amid the rich appointments of the great drawing-room of the girl's palatial home.

CHAPTER II.

"Henry, will you be mine?"

It was the girl who spoke, and silence, shattered into a thousand fragments, fell crumbling to the floor.

The young man blushed scarlet, and quickly hid his face in his hands.

With loving, gentle strength she took them one by one away and gazed fondly into his trembling, sweet brown eyes.

"Ah, love," she whispered, "look at me. Look deep into my soul and see the heart that beats its sweetest cadences to the measures of your name."

She took his sensitive white hands in her own, and modestly as the daisy looks upward to the morning sun he turned his eyes to hers.

There was a strange thrill in his heart, a burning in his cheeks, an indescribable power lifting him upward, upward, into a soft, sweet air, which filled his very being, as the fragrance of fir and balsam comes with life and hope to the weak and wasted consumptive.

CHAPTER III.

"With all my heart, Ernestine."

Sweet as the music of rippling waters or muffled silver bells; sweet and low as the organ harmonies whispering to each other among the carvings and the softened frescoes of some grand old cathedral choir, were the young man's words, and they brought to Ernestine such peace and rest as until this day her heart had never known.

"Oh, Henry," she said, and held out her hands to him.

Again the bright young blood surged to his cheeks, and with a glad little cry he threw himself into her arms, and like a tired bird, he nestled his head upon her shoulder and shut his eyes to all the world to dream of Heaven.

CHAPTER IV.

There let us leave them.

We can afford to leave them because neither of them appear to be left—particularly the girl.

CHAPTER V.

Thus do we see what there is in Leap Year to the hungering and thirsting soul of the young woman who knows enough to embrace her opportunities.

And embraces them.—Washington Critic.

MENTAL VAGARIES.

The Bread-and-Butter Moments of the Human Mind.

It is astonishing how insensible we sometimes are to the most beautiful or sublime spectacles. Noble scenes, which at another time would inspire the imagination and thrill the heart with a tumult of emotion, now unfold their glory before our unmoved eyes, and the humdrum thoughts plod along their accustomed way. Travelers know this phenomenon very well. Ely Cathedral lives in my memory as a delicious vision of solemn loveliness; but when my friends praise York Minster, I hardly recall that I was ever there. This difference is to be ascribed to the fact that in York my brain happened to be dough or putty, for the time being, and in no respect on the architecture of the minster. I remember that George Sand had this experience in her voyage to Italy.

But the same phlegmatic seizure often occurs to us at home and in familiar surroundings. Three nights ago, standing at my window, I saw the full moon rise superbly through a low horizon drapery of shadowed cloud-folds, and I said to myself: Let us go walk in the garden, and drink in the splendor of this celestial spectacle. So I sought my favorite pacing-ground, a wide path from the round rose-bed to the elm tree, running between lines of stately cannas. There had been purifying rain, and the sky was deepened to its most lustrous dark, the soft billow-edges of the few fleeces, swimming over across the big moon, caught, turn by turn, a faint tinge of halo colors. The moon was dazzling. Who can believe that mere sunshine, falling on mere rock and sand, will reflect such a white-cold intensity of light? I gazed intently on the blinding shield, as if to compel it to seem to me what it really is—the big globe, rolling there, dizzily unsupported in in empty space. I said: "That distance across the bulging disk is about that which the Pacific railroad traverses across our continent. Let me try to imagine the little train full of earth inhabitants, creeping around yonder point of shadow, and across the bridgeless nose of the man in the moon." For an instant the conception of the globular form and the enormous bulk, swinging on its rounds, almost touched on the confines of my expectant imagination; then fled away, unseizable, and left but the silvery spot, stuck there inadequately against the blue ceiling, so ridiculously near that even the lighter clouds pass behind, instead of before it, and a venturous baloon might be capable of bumping at any rash discharge of ballast.

Then I took up my pacing back and forth. The broad silvered leaves of the cannas seemed to float motionless in the great flood of light, and beneath each hung its motionless black shade. Every shadow of every delicate bough and twig of the beech and the elm was lace; and bough and twig themselves, less distinct and more ethereal than their shadows, were only the mentally-conceived patterns, or Platonic ideas, of the lace, hovering above it in the air. What a mysterious and glorious night, and what sublest and most celestial dreams should throng the brain at such an hour! Back and forth, to and fro, I paced; and what, think you, were the sublime ideas I found in my brain, as I suddenly became aware of myself, after some minutes of floating in that sea of twice-distilled and space-traversing radiance? I was listening with lively displeasure to the squeaking of my own new shoes. I was thinking, "How can this intolerable thing be cured?" I was picturing in my imagination the sedulous shoemaker, anxiously handling the superintegument, and discussing with me the possible ways and means of silencing this music of abandoned soles. I remembered that some one had once recommended a hypodermic injection of pumice stone. As I turned from the shadow back into the full flood of radiance, I found myself wondering whether the leathern layers would have to be unstitched, or whether any thing could be done with a gimlet.

I saw that the whole magnificent spectacle of the night was being wasted on such an insect as I, and that the most suitable scheme was to go ingloriously to bed.—Atlantic Monthly.

—"I thought you took an unusual interest in my welfare," remarked an unsuccessful lover. "No, indeed," she replied, "only in your farewell."

—"Well, old fellow, its all settled. I am going to be married in two months. You will be one of the witnesses, I hope." "Count upon me. I never desert a friend in misfortune."

—"Maria, I wish you were a native of France," said Smythe, as he rolled over in bed at 1 a. m. "I'd like to know why?" "Because I don't know a word of French."—Washington Critic.

—"Did you know a mule was a mighty intelligent animal?" said Smythe to Brown. "No." "Well, he is." "How do you make that out?" "Look at the amount of bravin' work he does."—Washington Critic.

—Dumley had accompanied a friend home to dinner, and, as they seated themselves at the table, the hostess remarked: "I trust that you will make allowances, Mr. Dumley. My servant left me very unexpectedly, and I was compeled to cook the dinner myself." "Oh, certainly, my dear madam, certainly," responded Dumley, with great emphasis; "I can put up with any thing!"—N. Y. Ledger.

POPE LEO XIII.

Breakfast, Dinner, Supper and Bed-Time of the Sovereign Pontiff.

Leo XIII. observes more strictly than his predecessor the rule of dining alone. No second person is ever admitted to his table. This rule of etiquette is strictly observed. Now and then, when the Holy Father is disposed to show courtesy to any royal personage, he invites him to hear the early mass and receive the communion, and only then is the guest invited to partake of a cup of café au lait such as that which forms the morning repast at the Vatican. Don Carlos, on his visit to Rome, was admitted to no higher honor than this; and the Grand Duchess of Tuscany, with the highest Princes of the Roman empire, the Aldobrandinis, the Borghesi and others can aspire to no greater distinction than an invitation to the meager breakfast. But in every case is a second table spread by the side of that at which the sovereign Pontiff is seated, and where he remains alone.

After dinner the Pope takes a siesta, but only in a great arm-chair. The nap lasts for about an hour, and when it is over his Holiness takes his daily constitutional, sometimes walking in the garden, and sometimes driving in the park. His favorite promenade is in the direction of the vineyard he has planted and called the Vigna Pia, and he follows with the greatest interest the culture of the vines, which he has placed entirely in the hands of an agricultural school for orphan boys founded by Pius IX. The vines have been tended with such care, that the first gathering has produced a wine said to be unequaled throughout the world. A sample of this vintage is to be sent to all the sovereigns of Europe.

After the promenade the Pope resumes his receptions, and at six o'clock he is served with a cup of broth, followed by a glass of strong Bordeaux. The receptions are continued sometimes from eight till ten o'clock, unless his Holiness wishes to be alone to transact his own private business or resume the dearest pursuit of his life—that of making Latin verses, at which, it is said, he is one of the most expert practitioners known. At ten o'clock his Holiness recites the rosary with Monsignor Martellino, his favorite secretary. Between ten and eleven o'clock, when he is prepared for retiring to bed, a tray is brought on which is served another cup of strong broth, together with a small portion of cold meat, always the remains of that which appeared at dinner. As the clock strikes eleven the Pope's head rests on his pillow, and with a good conscience he courts slumber.—Court Journal.

Wanted to Try It.

Mr. Cheek—I owe you $10, Griggs; can't you let me have $5 more to make it $15?

Griggs—Ya-es, I guess I can go you a fiver; but will you tell what kind of nerve food you use?—Texas Siftings.

Preferable.

William N. Riddle, a New York broker, "who has the reputation of being among the best close range shots in this country, has only one lung." It may be considered a great honor to be numbered among the best close range shots in this country, but we'd rather have two lungs and be unable to hit the gable end of a house at a distance of ten feet.—Norristown Herald.

Scarcely.

Mr. Wabash—Did you visit Ireland while you were abroad, Miss Breezy?

Miss Breezy—Oh, yes; we were a month in Ireland.

Mr. Wabash (whose ideas regarding the location of the blarney stone are a trifle vague)—You kissed the blarney stone, of course.—New York Sun.

Taking a Fresh Start.

"Clara," said the old man from the head of the stairs, "hasn't that young man gone yet?"

"Your daughter isn't here, sir," feebly responded the young man. "She has just stepped into the kitchen to fill and trim the lamp."—New York Sun.

It Will Fetch 'Em.

A wise man, who has given the matter much earnest thought, says "the coming newspaper will receive no advertisements." Hoh! That's just what's the matter with the paper that's gone.—Burdette in Brooklyn Eagle.

A Gentle Hint.

"By George!" exclaimed Wagstaff, with a chuckle, as he looked his cards over, "I don't believe I could improve on this hand."

"Perhaps you have never tried soap on it," suggested Buckhorn.—Chicago Tribune.

Where the Porter Steps In.

It is stated that the new vestibule cars run so smoothly that a man can be shaved on them. So he can on the ordinary palace cars; the porter has always done that for all the passengers.—Boston Post.

Horse Sense.

"I suppose that Fielden deserved hanging," said a Chicago man, "and yet it was a pity. He had lots of good horse sense." "Just so," replied his friend, "did not know enough to keep his head out of a halter."—Burdette in Brooklyn Eagle.

Worse Than the Climate.

Edith—What a dreadfully trying climate you have here in Boston! Is it the east wind that chaps your lips so?

Maud—Oh, no; I've been taking some lessons in Volapuk.—Life.

SOME FINNY TALKERS.

Species of Fish That Are Capable of Uttering Grunting Sounds.

Oftentimes noises that come from the sea and are seemingly unexplainable proceed from certain small animals. That many fishes utter sounds is well known; as many as sixty different species of finny vocalists have been heard from time to time. A number of years ago, while on a fishing trip in the Gulf of Mexico, in the city of Yucatan, I hauled in a small fish known to science as the Hæmulon, and to the sailors as the grunt, and never was a fish better named, as no sooner did I take it in hand than it rolled a most expressive pair of eyes as far as fish could roll them, and commenced an appeal that quite astonished me. First the grunts were low and uttered singly, then they grew louder and faster; finally the fish hurled at me a perfect volley of sounds that I accepted as an entreaty for mercy, and hurriedly tossed him back. Later I caught many grunts, and they were all very talkative out of water; but whether these sounds could be uttered in their native element it would be difficult to determine.

I have heard the Hæmulon grunt, the grouper, as well as a number of fishes, croak, and the dog-fish bark (croak). The little sea-horse, hippocampus, utters a curious sound that is caused by the vibrations of certain small voluntary muscles. Dr. C. C. Abbott heard the mud sunfish, Acantharcus promitis, utter a deep, grunting sound, and the gizzard shad makes an audible, whirring noise. The chub sucker, Erimyzon oblongam, utters a single prolonged note, while the catfish, Amiurus lynx, produces a gentle humming sound. Abbott believes, however, that the most musical of the fishes is the eel, that utters a single note frequently repeated, and has a slightly metallic resonance. The fact that the organ of hearing in these musical fishes is very well developed would seem to point to the belief that the notes were calls; and as the air bladder in fish represents to some extent the lungs of other animals there is no reason for not thinking that the fishes have vocal communication. The musical notes and noises are produced in several ways. Some are due to the action of the pneumatic duct and swimming bladder, while others are accidental, or produced involuntarily by the lips of the pharangeal or intermaxiliary bones. The notes made by the carp and tench are due to the latter, while those of the catfish and eels are made by forcing air from the swimming bladder into the æsphagus.

That fishes utter sounds has been known for many centuries, and some years ago it was taken advantage of by a showman at a watering place in England to deceive the general public. The owner of the talking fish had a portable aquarium upon the beach, and in it several fishes, and when a crowd would gather about the tank, he would announce that the fish would answer questions. He would then lift one of the fishes out of the water and allow the spectators to listen to its grunt, explaining that it could not talk only when under water. The fish was then returned, and some one would ask a question, upon which a fish would dart to the surface, and a soft, low voice would be heard answering the question correctly. But the secret of this very remarkable fish was finally found out, the trick being carried on the same plan as the famous chess player. A very small man was concealed in the imitation of rockwork of the tank, who replied to the questions through a tube that led to the surface, the opening being concealed in the rockwork near the fishes. When a question was asked, the exhibitor dropped some food unobserved into the water, which made the fish dart upward in a very natural manner, and, the voice being heard at the same time, the illusion was complete, and many ignorant people were deceived.

The drumfish, Pogonius, is one of the loudest talkers in the American waters. When the nets are hauled in on the Jersey coast and large numbers of drumfish are caught, their protests are often very loud. That these fishes utter sounds under water there can be no doubt. The sailors on vessels anchored off shore, have heard the strange noise arising about them, and described it as booming, while others thought it was occasioned by drums being beaten on shore. The fish utter the sounds, according to some authorities, by striking their pharyngeal teeth together, while other writers think that they beat their bodies against the sides of vessels to rub off certain parasites that infest them.

A vessel lying in the China Sea some years ago had a most remarable experience. The sounds that rose about her greatly alarmed the crew, and were described by the captain as resembling escaping steam, the clanging of bells, the notes of an enormous harp, with others difficult to describe. The concert lasted some hours, and was attributed to a school of fishes that was seen in the vicinity. The cockoo grunard has been known to utter grunting sounds, and I have heard our common grunard grunt so loudly that the grunt could be heard twenty feet away. The herring and cotters make a similar sound, and the air-bladder theory would not be tenable in the latter.—N. Y. Star.

—Brown—"Do you know how long Robinson has been keeping house?" Smith—"No; but it must be a good many years. I took dinner with him the other day and he carved a duck without spilling it on the floor."—Harper's Bazar.

PROFITABLE POULTRY.

How a Yankee Farmer Derived a Good Income From His Hens.

Any hen that lays much less than 100 eggs in a year is kept at a loss, as a hen will consume about $1.00 worth of food, besides the time used in feeding and caring for her.

We shall not approach the question from the side of the "fanciers," the breeders who aim to get $2, $3, or $5 for a setting of eggs, and $5 to $25 for a cock or pair. These gentlemen have a host of poultry papers advocating their interests, and need no help from us.

It is our purpose to consider the question from the everyday farmer's standpoint, and we shall show that a net profit of $2.50 per hen per year can be made in the ordinary way of marketing eggs at the store or at the door. We know it can be done, because we have done it and are doing it. All that is necessary is to induce the hens to lay in the fall and winter, when eggs bring a high price; in other words, get the pullets to lay when they are five or six months old, and keep them laying.

The writer bought a dozen year old hens of the Plymouth Rock breed, but doubtful pedigree, and ten pullets of most undoubted pedigree (as mixed a lot as one most ever sees on any farm), and his flock to-day is composed of their descendants, got by adding a good cock of brown Leghorn blood one year, a Plymouth Rock cock the next, and so on alternately. It will be conceded that we have no fancy birds. There isn't a pure blooded fowl in the flock. The Plymouth blood preponderates; the brown Leghorn blood shows itself in many of the pullets, and "sports" of various sorts and sizes are common.

Below we give some statistics of the egg product of these hens in the past three years:

| | 1885 | 1886 | 1887 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Average No. eggs per hen | 175 | 176 | 164 |
| Average net profit per hen | $2 76 | $2 92 | $2 83 |

It should be explained that the decreased average of eggs in 1887 was caused by the failure of the stone masons to build a foundation wall for a new building, and eighty or ninety fine pullets were running wild in the field till December 15. If they had been housed October 1 we would have had probably fifty or sixty dozen more eggs in November and December when eggs were 38 cents a dozen. All our eggs have been sold at the door, that is, the grocer came for them. The price at which they have been sold ranges from 15 to 16 cents a dozen in April and May to 38 or 40 cents a dozen in November and December; the average price for the three years being between 25 and 26 cents a dozen. This high average price for the three years is due to the goodly number of eggs produced in the fall and winter when they are scarce and high. It is true that pullets that lay vigorously all winter won't increase their product so much in the spring as birds that have rested through the winter, but the average for the year is the test of profit.—Cor. N. E. Farmer.

WATER AT MEALS.

It Washes Out the Mucus and Partially Distends the Stomach.

Opinions differ as to the effect of the free ingestion of water at meal times, but the view most generally received is probably that it dilutes the gastric juice and so retards digestion. Apart from the fact that a moderate delay in the process is by no means a disadvantage, as Sir William Roberts has shown in his explanation of the popularity of tea and coffee, it is more than doubtful whether any such effect is in reality produced. When ingested during meals, water may do good by washing out the digested food and by exposing the undigested part more thoroughly to the action of the digestive ferments. Pepsin is a catalyptic body, and a given quantity will work almost indefinitely, provided the peptones are removed as they are formed. The good effects of water drunk freely before meals has, however, another beneficial result: it washes away the mucus which is secreted by the mucus membrane during the intervals of repose, and favors peristalsis of the whole alimentary tract. The membrane thus cleansed is in a much better condition to receive food and convert it into soluble compounds. The accumulation of mucus is specially well marked in the morning, when the gastric walls are covered with a thick, tenacious layer. Food entering the stomach at this time will become covered with this tenacious coating, which for a time protects it from the action of the gastric ferments, and so retards digestion. The tubular contracted stomach, with its puckered mucus lining and viscid contents, a normal condition in the morning before breakfast, is not suitable to receive food. Exercise before partaking of a meal stimulates the circulation of the blood and facilitates the flow of blood through the vessels. A glass of water washes out the mucus, partially distends the stomach, wakes up peristalsis, and prepares the alimentary canal for the morning meal. Observation has shown that non-irritating liquids pass directly through the "tubular" stomach, and even if food be present they only mix with it to a certain extent. According to Doctor Leuf, who has made this subject a special study, cold water should be given to persons who have sufficient vitality to react and hot water to the others. In chronic gastric catarrh it is extremely beneficial to drink warm or hot water before meals, and salt is said in most cases to add to the good effect produced.—British Medical Journal.

—Women have proved very successful in fruit growing in California. Many of them have grown rich at it.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, APRIL 23 ..... 1888

THE AMERICAN PARTY.

The platform of the American party is short and easily understood. The resolutions are as follows:

RESOLVED, That all law abiding citizens of these United States, whether native or foreign born, are political equals, and are entitled to and should receive the full protection of the laws.

RESOLVED, That the naturalization laws of the United States should be unconditionally repealed.

RESOLVED, That the soil of America should belong to Americans; that no alien non-resident should be permitted to own real estate in the United States.

RESOLVED, That all persons not in sympathy with our government should be prohibited from immigrating to these United States.

RESOLVED, That we unqualified favor, and we ask all who believe that Americans should rule America to assist in educating the boys and girls of American citizens as mechanics and artizans, thus fitting them to fill the places now filled by foreigners, who supply the skilled labor and thereby almost entirely control all the great industries of our country, save perhaps, that of agriculture alone.

RESOLVED, That we believe bossism in politics to be an outgrowth of foreign influence. We condemn it as un-American and tending to a corruption of the ballot-box. We declare that the American party has not and shall not have bosses.

RESOLVED, That we are in favor of fostering and encouraging American industries of every class and kind, and to that end would protect our home productions and manufactures, and inaugurate and maintain a system that will not only exclude the cheap labor productions of other countries, but will also exclude the cheap laborers of all other countries, and prevent their coming here to compete with American workingmen.

RESOLVED, That we believe the American free school system the guarantee of human liberty, and that the teachings of reason and the lessons of experience lead to the conviction that national existence depends on the influence of universal education.

The first clause of the seventh resolution will not be accepted generally without question, viz.: "That we believe bossism in politics to be an outgrowth of foreign influence." Nowhere has bossism in politics been more powerful or mischievous than in the Southern States; and in no other part of the Union is "foreign influence"—if by that is meant naturalized citizens—less influential than there; because nowhere else are there so few naturalized citizens in proportion to population. As a whole the platform will be heartily endorsed by many who may not join the Americrn party. The principles of the party are already accepted by many Republicans and many Democrats.

The German Emperor appears to be sinking fast; the end cannot be far off. The life of the Emperor would be an assurance of the peace of Europe; his death may be followed by thousands of men who never injured each other, being led to mutual slaughter.

Eighty Eight Celebrated Authors

Volume IV of Alden's Cyclopedia of Universal Literature represents eighty-eight authors, and gives further proof that the work is certainly to be one of extraordinary popular interest, and it would be very strange if at its low price it should not receive an immense circulation. A distinguished critic says: "The fourth volume of this excellent cyclopedia is the richest, so far. It goes from 'Cable' to 'Clark.' For some reason, known only to Galton and other curious writers, the letter C is apparently favorable to genius. Here we find such poets as Lowell, Calderon, Callimachus, Camoens, Campbell and Chatterton; we listen to such preachers as Chalmers, Chrysostom and Chapin; Carlyle and Clarendon dispute for the honors of history; Calvin wears the laurel of the incomparable theologian; although Cheever, Chillingworth, Channing and Freeman Clarke are his near neighbors, and Cicero bears off the palm for oratory, while Caxton sets up his printing press in Westminister and, a few pages after, Cervantes launches the immortal 'Don Quixote.' This is a delightful volume, with something in it to suit every taste. Further descripttion, also the publisher's large desciptive catalogue of standard books, may be had free on application to John B. Alden, Publisher, 393 Pearl St., New York, or 216 Clark St., Chicago.

Kept on Buying Guns.

A firm of gun dealers down town got a consignment of beautiful cast iron shotguns from England. They were of that singular pattern which you can sell at about $4 and make a profit, the government test mark thrown in. They look well, but it is better not to fire them. The barrel may fall off or the charge come out the wrong way. But they look beautiful and solid. A seedy looking individual came in one day and bought one. He came back next day and bought another. He kept coming and buying them one at a time, and still he did not seem to look any less seedy or have much more capital. The gun dealer began to wonder what he was doing with all those guns. He might be preparing a revolution or a riot or something. He followed him one day. The fellow took the gun to a pawnbroker and got $9 on it. It cost $4 and he kept on buying those guns until he had loaded up all the pawnbrokers in town with them and almost drank himself to death with the profits.—San Francisco Chronicle.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

EXECUTOR'S SALE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, THAT IN pursuance of an order of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, made on the 19th day of April, 1888, in the matter of the estate of Duncan Campbell, deceased, the undersigned, executors of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, gold coin of the United States, on Thursday, the 10th day of May, 1888, at the late residence of the said deceased, at Big Pine, in said county, the following personal property, to wit: Ten head of horses, more or less, being all the horses belonging to said estate.

NATHAN RHINE,
S. G. GREGG,
Executors of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased.

Dated April 19, 1888.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1246.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL., April 27, 1888.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on June 4, 1888, viz.: Michael Rush, for the S W ¼ of S E ¼, E ½ of S W ¼ & S E ¼ of N W ¼, Sec 24, Twp 11 S, R 34 E, M D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz.: Alonzo McKellops, Andrew J. Wren, James Lane and William R. Tibbetts, all of Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.
o m14

NOTICE!

THE DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CENTRAL Committee will meet at Independence on

Saturday, April 28, 1888,

At 2 p. m. for the purpose of selecting Delegates to the State Convention, which will be held at Los Angeles on the 15th day of May, 1888. Also for the purpose of selecting a time and place for holding a County Convention, and to transact such other business as may come before them.

Per order of
A. N. BELL, Chairman.
Thos. Crough, Secretary.

MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE:

At Large—A. N. Bell, Chairman, J. A. Lank, E. Robinson, White Smith, Thos. Crough, Secretary, A. W. Eibeshuz and J. W. P. Laird.
Round Valley—C. F. Wildassin.
Lincoln—J. L. Bourland.
Bishop Creek—P. W. Forbes.
Bishop Station—Joseph McNally.
Polita—George Storey.
Big Pine—R. P. Hessian.
Cottonwood—S. P. Roberts.
Independence—A. Tanner.
Georges Creek—J. E. Shepherd.
Lone Pine—John Lucas.
Keeler—John Barnes.
Cerro Gordo—Pat Clinton.
Keynot—Thos. McDonough.
Olancha—W. T. Grant.
Darwin—J. W. Murphy.
Lookout—F. Fitzgerald.
Panamint—H. J. Chickring.
Sherman—Arthur Smith
Fish Springs—James Conners.

TO ADVERTISERS

A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATE AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.

To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List. GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce Street, New York.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO., Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

Customers supplied on all points

Of the C. & C. Railroad.

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

Who Spends Money

For advertising in newspapers in these hard times, without first obtaining an estimate of the cost from Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York, is likely to pay $10 for what might be obtained for $5. Such estimates are furnished to all applicants gratis. Send 10 cents for 176 page pamphlet with list of newspaper rates and references.

Boot & Shoe Shop,

A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK
Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.

JOHN CLARKE, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City.
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS,
Will be sent FREE, on application.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge, No. 304, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S
EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,
Independence, Cal.

THOS. CROUGH. W. T. GRANT

GRANT & CROUGH. Real Estate & Mining Agency.

INDEPENDENCE - - - - CAL.

Searchers of Titles and Furnishers of Abstracts. After a business experience of twenty years in the county we are prepared to furnish all information of value to purchasers of real estate and mining properties. Reports furnished and all correspondence reliable and confidential. GRANT & CROUGH.

J. W. P. LAIRD, Attorney for the Firm.

AGENTS WANTED for the MISSOURI STEAM Washer. Active, honest persons all over the country, with or without team.

JOHN C. EVANS, Sweetland, Mo., writes: "I stand up and affirm that a Washer saves more hard labor and money in a large family than any Reaper and Mower that ever was put on any farm with less than 100 acres in cultivation. If you will get up any instrument that will take as much labor off of women this Washer takes off the women, and save almost money as it does not cost no more. I could sell one at every house if they had to take the feathers from under their wife and babies to pay for it."

JOHN R. DODGE, JR., writes: "You ask what I think of the Washer I bought last summer. Yes, it is the best machine ever invented by man. 24. We have just as good dinners on Monday as on any other day. 34. If you run short, you can not buy more for $1000."

I will ship a sample to thos. looking an agency on a week's trial on liberal terms. A thousand per cent the best washer in the world for saving labor, clothes and soap. Pays capable work big money. Write for particulars.

J. WORTH, 1710 Franklin Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS
Tobacco, Cigars,
WINES AND LIQUORS
FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC

Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
n476tf

THE GRAND SALOON,

LONE PINE, - CAL.,
RICHARDS & CASTRO

BILLIARD HALL AND PUBLIC RESORT. Offers to the public the finest quality of Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Friends and patrons generally are invited to call. n584m3*

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,
—AND—
Board by the Day, Week, or the Month
MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PROPOSALS FOR BOARDING INYO COUNTY PRISONERS.

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of Inyo county, at the office of the County Clerk until Tuesday, May 8, 1888, at 12 o'clock M., for the boarding of Inyo county prisoners, for the term of one year, beginning May 10th 1888 and ending May 10th, 1889, said bids to designate the price per diem for each prisoner, and said board to be paid for by warrants drawn upon the General Expense Fund, upon bills duly verified and presented at the regular meetings of said board of Supervisors.

Proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for Boarding County Prisoners," and the same will be opened between the hours of one o'clock and four o'clock P. M. on said 8th day of May, 1888, and the Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

J. D. HARGER, Chairman.
Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk.

Proposals for Care of Indigent Sick of Inyo County.

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of Inyo county, at the office of the County Clerk until 12 o'clock M., on Tuesday, May 8th, 1888, to contract for the care of said indigent sick for the term of one year from May 10th 1888 to May 10th, 1889, said bids to designate the amount for which parties contracting will care for said indigent sick on the basis of an average of four patients per day throughout the year, and to include all medicine, nursing, board, lodging and washing. Said bids to include the burial and funeral expenses of any indigent sick person or persons who may die while under such care.

Said contractor to care for all the indigent sick properly admitted to the contractor's care. And said bids to designate the price per head at which all excess of patients over the average of four each day throughout the year will be cared for, said excess to be paid for by extra allowance on presentation of bills duly sworn to, at the regular meeting of said Board immediately after said contract has expired. The average four per day to be paid for at the regular meetings of the Board on presentation of bills duly verified. All payments to be made by warrants drawn upon the Hospital Fund of said county.

The person or persons to whom said contract shall be awarded shall give a good and sufficient bond in double the sum of the contract price, for the faithful performance of said contract.

The care and management of said indigent sick by such contractor shall be at all times subject to the inspection of said Board of Supervisors, or any member thereof, or any person appointed by the Board for such purpose.

Said proposals must be endorsed, "Proposals for Care of Indigent Sick," and the same will be opened between the hours of one o'clock and four o'clock P. M., on the said 8th day of May, 1888, and the Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

J. D. HARGER, Chairman.
Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1232.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL., Mar. 20th, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at independence, on May 19th, 1888, viz.: Charles Mulholland for the S ½ of N E ¼, N ½ of S E ¼, Sec 14, Twp 14 S, Range 35 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz.: John Shepherd, James E. Shepherd, John Kispert and James R. Moffet, all of Independence, Inyo County, California.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Estate of B. S. GLOVER, deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY the undersigned, Executor of the estate of B. S. Glover, deceased, to the Creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said Executor at his store on the southeast corner of Main and Line streets, in the town of Bishop Creek, in said County, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate.

W. O. MERONEY,
Executor of the estate of B. S. Glover, deceased.

Dated at Bishop Creek, March 7, 1888.

TAKE SIMMONS
LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the
Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. L. M. HINTON, M. D., Washington, Ark.

SEE THAT YOU GET THE GENUINE.
PREPARED BY
J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. 256 pages, 8½ x 11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,
Independence, Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt and furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sept 11-tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 per evening and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine

Independence Hotel.

Independence - - Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL
DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—
Will be found acceptable to all patrons.
Jy 1 86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,

C. MULHOLLAND.

Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D., Physician & Surgeon,

(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.

NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.

Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,

COUNTY CLERK,

—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.

W. E. LINDSEY,
—Dealer in—
Gravestones, Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.
—Agent for—
PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.
Virginia Street, Below Second,
Reno, Nevada.
oct 23-tf

AL. GRIFFITH.

HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTING.
GRAINING AND
PAPER HANGING.
FINE CARRIAGE PAINTING
FIRST CLASS WORK.
AL. GRIFFITH,
Independence

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | From Mound House. No. 1. | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Mound House | 9 15 a. m. | 5 35 p. m. |
| Dayton | 9 45 a. m. | 4 35 p. m. |
| Wabuska | 12 45 a. m. | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | 4 30 p. m. | 10 40 a. m. |
| Luning | 4 50 p. m. | 9 20 a. m. |
| Sodа Springs | 7 0 p. m. | 8 10 a. m. |
| Belleville | 8 1 p. m. | 7 0 a. m. |
| Candelaria | Ar. 8 30 p. m. | Lv. 6 30 a. m. |
| | No. 3 | No. 4 |
| | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Belleville | 7 30 a. m. | 5 25 p. m. |
| Benton | 11 00 a. m. | 1 45 p. m. |
| Bishop Creek | 1 10 p. m. | 11 30 a. m. |
| Alvord | 2 00 p. m. | 10 35 a. m. |
| Independence | 3 30 p. m. | 9 05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | 4 15 p. m. | 8 15 a. m. |
| Keeler | Ar. 5 05 p. m. | Lv. 7 20 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles), Bodie (37 miles), Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Downeyville, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's coaches for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

After Forty years' experience in the preparation of more than One Hundred Thousand applications for patents in the United States and Foreign countries, the publishers of the Scientific American continue to act as solicitors for patents, caveats, trade-marks, copyrights, etc., for the United States, and to obtain patents in Canada, England, France, Germany, and all other countries. Their experience is unequaled and their facilities are unsurpassed.

Drawings and specifications prepared and filed in the Patent Office on short notice. Terms very reasonable. No charge for examination of models or drawings. Advice by mail free.

Patents obtained through Munn & Co. are noticed in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has the largest circulation and is the most influential newspaper of its kind published in the world. The advantages of such a notice every patentee understands.

This large and splendidly illustrated newspaper is published WEEKLY at $3.00 a year, and is admitted to be the best paper devoted to science, mechanics, inventions, engineering works, and other departments of industrial progress, published in any country. It contains the names of all patentees and title of every invention patented each week. Try it four months for one dollar. Sold by all newsdealers.

If you have an invention to patent write to Munn & Co., publishers of Scientific American, 361 Broadway, New York.

Handbook about patents mailed free.

Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine.

New No. 8.

"THE BEST!"

Sales Made on Installment Plan.

Old Machines Exchanged for.

Farm Produce Taken in Payment.

This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really

First-Class Machine.

Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.

I. H. MULHOLLAND, Agent.
Independence, Cal.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples,
Pears,
Peaches
& Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,

(Successor to Harris & Rhine.)

Merchant,

INDEPENDENCE

INYO CO., CAL.

Wholesale and Retail

....DEALER IN....

General Merchandise.

—

MY STOCK

Consisting of most everything an article is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.
n252 y6

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE

BANKER,

Independence, Cal

SELL EXCHANGE

—O—

SAN FRANCISCO.

—

DRAW DIRECT

—ON—

NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN,
FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany

—

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT kinds

GENERAL BANKING
—AND—
Exchange Business.

—

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.

Deutsche Vollmachten geleistigt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.

—

AGENT FOR
Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $55,000,000

LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - $1,000,000

NATHAN RHINE

BLACKSMITHING,

Horseshoeing, General Iron

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP
C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing.....$2.50 for Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, APRIL 28 ... .....1888

DIED.

WHITE—At Big Pine, April 25th, 1888, John B. White, aged 59 years.

Billy Grant was in town during a part of the week.

Perforated bottoms at Rhine's, all kinds of chairs fitted.

Billy Hedge is still quite ill; he needs an attendant with him constantly.

George M. Gill has bought the Gilmore property at the north end of town.

The gardens around town are now full of flowers; roses are particularly plentiful.

Mr. W. Johnson has taken charge of the office and bar department of Mair's hotel at Independence.

During the week Al. Staudinger has been engaged putting in a marble malt floor at the Pioneer Brewery.

Walter Ober won a foot race at Bishop Creek on Thursday. The contestants were Ober and Manuel Diaz.

A ball will be given at Lone Pine on the evening of May first. The Independence band will furnish the music.

Most of the young locust trees set out last year are now in bloom and the air is full of their fragrance.

A very large number of people went from Independence to attend the celebration of the Odd Fellows anniversary at Bishop Creek.

A very fine artesian well has been bored at Santa Barbara. It will furnish plenty of water for a city of twenty thousand inhabitants.

San Diego has new water works that cost a million dollars. The water is sweet and pure and the city will have an abundant supply.

A good deal of work has been accomplished during the week on the new building and other improvements Mr. J. J. Gunn is making.

Clinton and McGovern have done well with their lease of the Minnieta mine. They have about finished and propose taking a much needed rest.

Every team that can be had is hauling lumber from the station into town; and every carpenter is hard at work on new buildings.

Alexander Treffell who was so badly burned when the hotel at Bodie was destroyed by fire latety, has since died of his injuries.

The present prospect for a fruit crop is all that could be wished. So far the season has been just perfect, and fruit trees of all kinds are full of young fruit.

Rev. G. W. De La Matyr and wife expect to return to Independence about two weeks hence. Mr. De La Matyr wil again take charge of the M. E, Church.

Trenmore Coffin and Mr. Kline, of Carson, arrived at Independence last Wednesday. Mr. Coffin is here on business connected with the East Side canal.

J. W. Murphy, late of Darwin, has leased the blacksmith shop lately occupied by W. T. Matlack, near Mairs' livery stable. The shop will be opened about a week hence.

Yesterday morning Mrs. John Baxter sent to the office of the INYO INDEPENDENT a lot of strawberries. The berries are very large and very fine; the crop is assured to be very plentiful.

In connection with Murphy's blacksmith shop, Arthur Smith will start a plumbing and tin shop. This is something that has long been needed in the town. Arthur is a good workman.

Pic-nic at Camp Independence next Saturday, May 5th. The party will be given by Mr. Crough, teacher, and the pupils of the Camp school. Everybody invited to attend and have a good time.

Dexter, the famous trotting horse, died last Saturday in the stable of his owner, Robert Bonner, at New York. He was the fastest trotter of his day, and the first to trot a mile in 2.17¼. He was thirty years old.

Never before did Owens valley look more lovely than at present. Thousands of acres are covered thick with wild flowers of the most beautiful colors. Trees are now as well leaved out as in many other countries in the "leafy month of June."

The funeral of the late John B. White will be conducted by the Masonic Fraternity of Independence. The services will begin at the residence of A. N. Bell at Camp Independence at one o'clock this—Saturday—afternoon.

Last Sunday Joseph Ferabach tripped and fell across a piece of iron in the yard behind the Pioneer Brewery, at Independence. In the fall his left arm was broken between the elbow and shoulder. So far he is getting along fairly well.

Last Monday George Gardner had both legs cut off by a switch engine at Carson. His death has since been reported. The unfortunate man was brother to Mrs. Clara Belle McDonald, who figured in a late notorious divorce case in San Francisco.

Mr. J. W. Bledsoe, the photographer who was here last summer, arrived at Indepence last Sunday accompanied by his wife. They will stay here and have leased the place now occupied by Mr. H. Fehrman at the north end of Main Street.

Last Sunday evening about sunset a heavy down pour of rain set in. There was some lightning and thunder with it. The rain came down in floods for some time, gradually slacking off but not ceasing until the ground was soaked. This has been of very great value to the valley.

William W. Harper, for several years foreman of the Con. Cal. mine, Virginia City, has resigned his position and engaged passage to Australia. The Enterprise says he goes to take a position in a mine under W. H. Patton, former Superintendent of mines at Virginia City.

If you have a photo you want enlarged in crayon, India ink, water color, or pastel at 15 per cent. below San Francisco prices, send your order to Miss O'Hara, of Bishop Creek. Prices ranging from five to thirty-five dollars according to size. An extra discount of 10 per cent. to any one ordering two or more pictures. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Give The Vaqueros A Chance.

Mr. R. L. Fulton has made a suggestion to the Directors of the Nevada State Fair that the Directors of our own District Fair might adopt with advantage. The proposition is the rodeoing of a few range eattle, and the riding of range horses. The cattle and horse ranges of the West are distinctively American institutions, original and inimitable. The crack riders of other countries would be as much at sea on a bucking bronco as a sailor would be in a balloon, and yet not one in a hundred, even in Nevada, has ever seen any range riding. It would be done by cutting out one animal at a time, and the instant it left the band the horseman on deck would take after it. The time it took him to lasso it, throw it down and tie it would be the score for others to beat, as they in turn have a trial. "The 'bronco busting,' as the boys call it, could be done on the speed ring, although the other trials would need the large ground in the center. A few wild horses could be provided, and there are dozens of boys in this State ready to ride anything that has four legs, on the shortest notice. There would be no way to try the degrees of skill, perhaps, so it would have to be arranged to pay so much apiece. The horses would be blinded, saddled and bridled as part of the exhibition, and it would be exciting enough for any one.

From Kern County To Owens Valley.

Many people in Kern county are asking for information of the best way to reach Owens valley from that region. A good starting point to come by teams would be Delano; thence to Tailholt 35 miles; thence to Glenville, 16 miles; thence over Greenhorn mountain to Kernville, 25 miles; thence to Weldon, on the South Fork of Kern river, 12 miles; thence to Prewett's place, 12 miles. Here the road leaves Kern river. Thence to Canebrake, 5 miles; thence to the summit of Walker's Pass, 8 miles; thence to Big Spring, 5 miles; thence to Indian Wells, 12 miles; thence to Little Lake, 20 miles; thence to Haiwie Meadow, 16½ miles; thence to Olancha 9 miles; thence to Lone Pine, 24 miles; thence to Independence, 16 miles. Total distance from Delano to Independence 215¼ miles. At all the places named, and also at many places between, there is plenty of good water. During the spring and early summer there is an abundance of grass by the way.

At the end of last week S. A. Middleton was brought from Bishop Creek to Independence, to answer in the Justice's Court to a charge of having committed an assault upon John Blair with a loaded cane. He was held for examination on May 1st and admitted to bail in the mean time.

Last Monday the down train was delayed about three hours by a washout on the White Mountain grade. This trifling delay is the only one that has occurred on the C. and C. road in a long time, perhaps in a year or more. This road is happily free from accidents and mishaps of all kinds.

Mr. John Lank and Mr. D. Stubblefield have each got a handsome and stylish new buggy. Uncle John has been wearing his hat on one ear of late; perhaps he contemplates doing something desperate. Any way, it is evident he don't mean to let the Judge have a monopoly of the ladies society.

The members of Independence Brass Band have now in preparation a fine entertainment, in the form of a vocal and instrumental concert. Ample preparation will be made and care taken to make it worthy of generous support. Due notice will be given when the time for the entertainment shall be fixed.

Last Monday R. E. Barnes appeared in the Justice's Court at Independence to answer a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, alleged to have been committed at Lone Pine on the person of O. F. Parish. An examination was had, and he was held for trial in the Superior Court. He was released on bail to await the trial.

The Lapanta mine near Hawthorne was but the beginning of rich strikes in that locality. The Pamlico mine in the same vicinity is paying well. About a week ago seven sacks of ore from this mine yielded $11,000. Twenty tons of the ore now at the Moss mill is expected to clean up at least $12,000.

A citizen of Sonoma county wrote to the editor of this paper a few days ago, stating that he had subscribed to the fund for having a test made of the artesian well problem at Lone Pine. The subscriber is not interested in land in that locality, but would like to see the thing tested at any point in the valley. Where outsiders show so much interest surely the effort to make a test should succeed.

The Odd Fellows celebration at Bishop Creek was a very gratifying success. The attendance was large, the town being crowded with visitors. The ball in the evening was a grand affair, and the whole proceedings ended as pleasantly as could be wished. A very thoughtful and generous care was given by the people of Bishop Creek to the entertainment and comfort of their visitors, all of which is duly appreciated.

At Lookout Frank Fitzgerald has quite a force of miners at work; they are all working under lease and are doing well. Murphy and McIntosh who have a lease of the Lookout mines are doing especially well. Not long since Montana and Farnswortt took a lease of the furnace and ore dumps for six months. In twenty-two days they took out ten thousand dollars worth of bullion, and concentrations valued at $1340. The two men got half the total proceeds giving them quite a sum for their labor.

John D. Page and W. H. Shafer, of Delano, Kern county, were at Independence during the week. They are on their return home from a long trip during which they visited Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona and Nevada. They said that in all their travels they had not seen any region that pleased them so well as Owens valley. Both stated that they would settle up their affairs at Delano as soon as possible and return to Independence to locate in the neighborhood.

A. J. Lucas, the head of a prominent private detective concern at Los Angeles, has been discovered in another character. Evidence has been found going to show that Lucas, who on account of his business had access to stores, residences, etc., really employed his men in their guise as guardians of the peace to act as burglars, they handing over the stolen property to Lucas. It is now supposed that very many of the burglaries that have been so frequent of late are due to Luca's schemes.

J. C. Gregory got back to Independence last Friday from a long prospecting trip. He went as far as the Colorado river. On the way back he came through Death valley and did some prospecting in that locality. He found some good prospects. After getting a new lot of supplies he left here a day or two ago on a second trip to the same country. He is backed by parties at Independence. Near the lower end of Death valley he saw both companies of Surveyors who have been in that region for some weeks past at work on railroad routes.

John B. White Killed.

Last Wednesday morning about ten o'clock the following telegram was sent to Independence from Alvord.

C. MULHOLLAND, Independence.

Please send an officer for me, I have cut White. W. T. C. ELLIOT.

Very soon another telegram came stating that John B. White was dead, and asking that the Coroner go and hold an inquest. The Sheriff started soon afterward accompanied by Coroner Matlack. Recently the wife of Elliott had got a divorce from him; John B. White was her uncle, and since the divorce was secured Elliott and him have had some disputes, and at least one quarrel. On Wednesday morning the men again met at Big Pine when the dispute was resumed and ended in the death of Mr. White.

ATTENDANT CIRCUMSTANCES.

About one hundred yards distant from the house where Mrs. Elliott lives is a small house where Elliot has lived since the couple were divorced. A road from the house passes this building and extends into a meadow beyond. In this road and a few yards from the small building is where the body of White was found. On the morning of the killing a man in the employ of Mrs. Elliott was at work in a field belonging to her. Elliott came near to this man and said, "I have cut White, you had better go and look after him." The man went at once and when he reached the place White was already dead. The man made known the fact and very soon several persons were on the spot. The body was found lying face downward in the road; a bunch of locust flowers was still held in the hand. No weapon of any kind was found upon or near the body, save a small pen knife in one of the pockets. A butcher knife was the weapon used in the killing. The knife entered a little below the collar bone, in front and on the right side, and penetrated the chest a little downward and across near, or into, the heart. The wound would indicate that when it was inflicted the slayer must have been a little behind and on the right side of his victim. At the surface the wound was large and a great deal of blood flowed from it. After telling the man what he had done, as above stated, Elliott went on into Big Pine, about two miles distant, and from there sent a telegraphic message to Independence asking that an officer be sent to arrest him. The Sheriff arrived at Big Pine about four o'clock p. m., and when he got there found a crowd of men very much excited and with a rope already prepared to hang Elliott. On the arrival of the officer, and the people being assured that Elliott would not be suffered to escape, the Sheriff was not interfered with; he stayed at Big Pine all night with his prisoner and brought him to Independence next day, where he is now in jail.

THE CORONER'S VERDICT.

Coroner Matlack accompanied the Sheriff from Independence and held an inquest on the body next day. Dr. George, of Bishop Creek, was summoned to examine the body and testify to the cause of death. The verdict of the Coroner's Jury was, "That the deceased, John B. White, came to his death by a knife wound, said wound being inflicted by W. C. T. Elliott."

JOHN B. WHITE.

The death of John B. White is one of the most deplorable events that ever happened in Owens valley. He was an old settler and had many friends here. He was a native of Tenessee and came to California in 1853. He at once engaged in mining near Sonora, Tuolumne county, and quickly accumulated a good deal of money. A company was formed for building an immense canal near Sonora, for mining purposes and Mr. White become interested. He invested all his money in the project; but the canal was a failure and he lost everything. He was the last President of the company. In 1864 he came to Owens valley and has lived in Inyo county all the time since. He was interested in mines from time to time, and was also engaged in a mercantile business at Darwin for some time. His wife was a sister to the late Mrs. A. N. Bell and also to the late Augustus Baker; she died in 1877, leaving one child, now a boy of fifteen years old. Mrs Fannie Elliott is the daughter of his brother. Since her divorce from Elliott some months ago there had been disputes between him and Elliott. The trouble was renewed on Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. Elliott, and Eliot killed him. In view of the fact that great difficulty is usually had in securing juries; and that this difficulty is largely due to public discussion of cases before trial, prudence will suggest that the less said about this shocking affair the better it will be. In a county such as Inyo where population is sparse it would be very easy to make so much discussion of the matter, and have such general expression of opinion that it would be impossible to secure a jury here, to try the accused, and a change of venue to another county would follow. This would almost certainly result in a failure of justice, and would also entail increased expense upon our own county, which would have to pay all the bills. No good citizen will favor or suggest any interference with the regular course of law. Illegal and violent acts are a disgrace to any people and work injury to communities who favor or even tolerate them. Our county is, and has long been, one of the most peaceful and law abiding in the State. The good sense of the people will preserve that valuable character for us, and will not let us forfeit it by any ill advised act of violence.

From Los Angeles.

Mr. Frank P. Blaisdell and Mr. C. C. Esle arrived at Independence from Los Angeles last Wednesday evening on their way back to Bishop Creek. Mr. Blaisdel says that when at Santa Barbara recently he saw tracts of land containing five to ten acres, and located five miles outside the town, sold for a thousand dollars per acre. At Pomona, Los Angeles county, an acquaintance who is also a real estate agent told him he—the agent—had sold a five acre lot six times in a few months. The first price paid for the lot was $2500, and the sixth time it was sold the price was $16,00. Mr. Blaisdel says there is a very noticeable lull in the boom at present. He says no place he has seen is so good for a man of small means as Owens valley.

Reduced Telegraph Rates.

A few days ago Mr. Henry Rhine, telegraph operator, received the following instructions. "During the coming Presidential campaign, a rebate of twenty-five per cent may be allowed to regular organized political committees, on business in connection with their duties as committeemen. Any regularly organized political committee can avail itself of this rebate by making written application to this office, over the signature of its presiding officer or Secretary. Office managers are requested to communicate the contents of this circular to the parties interested.

Yours very truly
FRANK JAYNES
Supt.

Crocker Brothers have ordered lumber from Carson for a new hotel at Big Pine. A handsome building will be put up, and when finished it will be kept in first class style.

SPRING STOCK

-IN ENDLESS VARIETY-

Just Received

--AT--

NATHAN RHONE'S

Call And Examine.

SAMPLES ON APPLICATION

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialy.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Notice Of Change Of Text Books.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY THE Board of Education of Inyo county, California, that said Board proposes to change the following text books now in use in the public schools of said county, to wit: Theory and Practice of Teaching, Music, Entomology, Book-keeping, Composition, Penmanship, Industrial Drawing, English and American Literature, Physics, Algebra and Natural History. And that sealed bids, or proposals, will be received by said Board for furnishing books to replace those mentioned above, or any part thereof. Said bids, or proposals, must be accompanied by sample copies of the books proposed to be furnished, together with a statement of the wholesale and retail price at which the publisher agrees to furnish each book, within the county, during the full time for which said books are to be adopted. The publisher or publishers whose proposals shall be accepted must enter into a written contract with said Board, and shall give a good and sufficient bond in a reasonable amount, with sureties, for the faithful performance thereof. Said bids or proposals will be opened by the Board at Independence, Inyo county, Cal., at ten o'clock a. m., on Tuesday, the 19th day of June 1888. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Board of Education of Inyo county.

Attest: J. H. SHANNON,
Secretary.
[SEAL.]
Dated April 13, 1888. Bishop Creek, Cal.

Pioneer
Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.

Livery Accommodations

O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

NORMAN HOUSE,
Independence, - - Cal.
New House,
New Furniture,
Low Rates.
☞Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.
O. I. MAIRS, Prop.
feb12tf

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and
Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law.
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the State of California and Nevada.

THIS PAPER IS ON FILE
—AT—
PALMER & REY'S
ADVERTISING BUREAU!
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco.
—AND AT—
PALMER & REY'S
Pacific States Advertising Bureau
46 Tribune Building,
NEW YORK.
Where Advertising Contracts can be made.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.
Shaving, Hair-Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.
WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR SALE.

813 acres of land within one mile of railroad. As fine land for fruit, vineyard, vegetables or alfalfa as there is in the State. All with perfect water right. Will cut up to suit purchasers.

520 acres two miles from railroad. 80 or 90 inches of water. A fine locality. Good stock range. 160 acres fine barley land.

A fine dairy ranch, consisting of 480 acres suitably located for market, with 150 head of cattle 45 of them No. 1 dairy cows. Perfect titles to land and water. Improvements on all. Apply to

Grant & Crough,
Independence, Cal.

Richly REWARDED are those who read this and then act; they will find honorable employment that will not take them from their homes and families. The profits are large and sure for an industrious person; many have made and are now making several hundred dollars a month. It is easy for anyone to make $5 and upwards per day, who is willing to work. Either sex, young or old; capital not needed; we start you. Everything new; no special ability required; you reader, can do it as well as any one. Write to us at once for full particulars, which we mail free. Address Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

115 CLAY STREET, 117
SMITH'S STORE
IS The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.
CASH.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

INDEPENDENCE MARKET,
J. Roeper, Prop.
Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.
I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.
Highest market price paid for beef cattle.
All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.
dec18-tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

MARRIAGE GUIDE
260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, in to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed (by Dr. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo.) SEND WITH ORDER.

TUTT'S PILLS
25 YEARS IN USE.
The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age.
SYMPTOMS OF A TORPID LIVER.
Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine, and
CONSTIPATION.
TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer. They Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 44 Murray St., N.Y.
TUTT'S HAIR DYE.
GRAY HAIR or WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.
Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

FRED BURCKHARDT
Watchmaker & Jeweler,
LONE PINE, CAL.
Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.
☞All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.
FRED BURKHARDT.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
Bishop Creek, Cal.,
Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles
OF
Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies'
Wear, etc., etc
AT
L. WOOD'S
CASH STORE
A small stock of fresh groceries an canned goods constantly renewed.
Fresh Produce, and Grain.
Flour, etc., constantly on hand.
CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH S ORE
Is Where You Get
WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
General Merchandise
A Full Line
CONSTANTLY ON HAND.
ORDERS SOLICITED
Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.
MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.
MAIN OFFICE:
HAWTHORNE NEV.
BRANCHES:
Wabuska, Nev.,
CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.
AGENCIES:
WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.
au25tf

TOM BOLAND,
KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.
Dealer In GENERAL
MERCHANDISE,
GROCERIES
MINERS
Supplies
PROVISIONS,
&c., &c., &c.
LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

FREE FOR MEN ONLY
TRIAL PACKAGE.
PROF. HARRIS' Pastille
A RADICAL CURE FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY, Organic Weakness & PHYSICAL DECAY, In Young & Middle Aged Men.
NERVOUS DEBILITY, ORGANIC WEAKNESS Decay, and numerous other diseases, baffling the skilled physicians, result from youthful indiscretion, too free indulgence, or over brain work. Avoid the imposition of pretentious remedies for these troubles. Get our Free Circular and Trial Package, and learn important facts before taking treatment elsewhere. Take a SURE REMEDY that HAS CURED thousands, does not interfere with attention to business, or cause pain or inconvenience in any way. Founded on scientific medical principles. By direct application to the seat of disease its specific influence is felt without delay. The natural functions of the human organism is restored. The ailmenting elements of life, which have been wasted are given back, and the patient becomes cheerful and rapidly gains both strength and sexual vigor.
VITAL RESTORER
TESTED FOR SEVEN YEARS BY USE IN MANY THOUSAND CASES.
TREATMENT.
One Month, - $3.00
Two Months, - 5.00
Three Months, 7.00
HARRIS REMEDY CO., M'f'g CHEMISTS.
506½ N. Tenth St., ST. LOUIS, MO.
UPTURED PERSONS! Not a Truss. Ask for terms of our Appliance.
GIVE FIT TRIAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.
Bee Keeper.
Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.
Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

THE FUNEREAL MONTH OF MARCH.

An observant metropolitan barber says that he can tell one's physical condition by the state of the hair!

The Bible tells us that with his hair gone Samson lost his strength. The Romans considered baldness a serious affliction and Julius Cæsar was never quite satisfied with himself because his poll was bare.

The face, however, is the open book and one can readily trace in its various expressions, lines, changes and complexion the state of the system.

The eye that is unusually bright and yet has a pallid brightness, the face upon whose cheeks nature paints a rose of singular beauty and flush, more marked in contrast with the alabaster appearance of the forehead and nose and lower part of the face, is one of those whom the skilled physician will tell you will some day dread the funereal month of March, because it is then that consumption reaps its richest harvest. Consumption they tell us is caused by this, that and the other thing, by microbes in the air, by micro-organisms in the blood, by deficient nutrition, by a thousand and one things, but whatever the cause, decay begins with a cough and the remedy that will effectually stop the cause of that cough cures the disease of the lungs.

That is all there is of it.

The cough is an evidence of a wasting. To stop it effectually, a remedy must be used that will search out the cause, remove that and then heal the lung and do away with the cough. This is the power, special to itself, possessed alone by Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption remedy. This is no new-fangled notion of narcotics and poisons, but an old-fashioned preparation of balsams, roots and herbs, such as was used by our ancestors many years ago, the formula of which has been secured exclusively by the present manufacturers at great trouble and expense. It is not a mere cold-dryer. It is a system-searcher and upbuilder and a consumption expellant. Where others fail, it wins, because it gets at the constitutional cause and removes it from the system.

J. W. Hensaw of Greensboro, Pa. on Jan. 15, 1888, reported that "he had derived more real benefit for the length of time, from Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption remedy than he had for years from the best State physicians."

If you have a cough, night sweats, "positive assurance in your own mind that you, oh—you, have no consumption," and yet lose flesh, appetite, courage, as your lungs waste away, you may know that soon the funereal month of March will claim you, unless promptly and faithfully you use the article named. If other remedies have failed try this one thoroughly. If others are offered, insist the more on trying this unequaled preparation.

Some persons are prone to consumption and they should never allow the disease to become seated.

---

Governor West of Utah has voted the bills establishing a reform school and an agricultural college.

---

A Lucky Strike.

As some doubts were expressed in regard to Fred Jarvis, of Empire, getting $15,000 in The Louisiana State Lottery drawing of January 10th, our reporter visited him last week and obtained positive evidence of the fact. Mr. Jarvis also informed him, that The Louisiana State Lottery Company, immediately on receipt of the winning coupon, together with his orders relative to the forwarding of the amount won, placed it in the hands of Wells, Fargo & Co., as directed, and no trouble whatever was experienced by him in collecting it. He further stated that he had been investing small sums in the drawings for some time past, and has always been lucky enough to draw something each time.

Here on the bay where Mr. Jarvis is well known as one of our most respected and enterprising citizens, nothing need be said in regard to him; but as many throughout the county, and in the adjoining counties, would like to know something relative to the man who was fortunate enough to "make a killing," we give a brief outline of him since his advent on the bay. He came here from Indiana in June, 1873, and for the first three years of his residence was engaged in lumbering, logging, etc. He was married in 1875 to Miss Ida Haynes, a daughter of one of our most worthy citizens, and as further evidence of his good luck he can show a nice family of six children. After his marriage he purchased a hotel at Sumner and was also landlord at Coos City for a time. The business did not suit him, so he sold out and commenced bidding on mail contracts. Being successful in obtaining a contract to carry the U. S. mail between Empire City and Drains Station, he moved to the former place, where he has since resided. In connection with the carrying of the mail he runs a stage line, and through business ability and enterprise had already accumulated a snug sum, independent of the $15,000 by which it was lately augmented. The latter sum he intends to invest on the bay. He has already purchased some real estate; has bought another interest in a vessel, and is keeping his eye open for further investment. We hope that good luck will still continue to perch upon his banner, and that his investments will prove satisfactory in every respect.—Marshfield (Oregon,) News, Feb. 22.

COMMON IN CALIFORNIA.

I suffered for years from catarrh till it destroyed my appetite and weakened my system. No remedies gave me relief till I commenced using Joy's Sarsaparilla. I began taking it last spring, and am now entirely free from that disgusting disease.

Lizzie A. Hall

Mohave, Cal.

A CANDID CONFESSION.

For several years I suffered from Dyspepsia and Kidney Complaint, the latter being so severe at times that I could scarcely attend to my work. My appetite was poor and I was much emaciated, but through the free use of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla my appetite and digestion improved till my health was perfectly restored.

John M. Ledbur

Redding, Cal.

Ask for Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.

Unlike most so called blood purifiers it does not employ mercurials or other dangerous minerals, but is a compound of powerful extracts and concentrated juices of vegetable alteratives indigenous to California. It is a fortunate combination of the very finest blood purifier, liver and kidney remedy and stomach regulator in existence. Prepared only by the Edwin W. Joy Co., San Francisco. For sale by all druggists. Price $1.00 per bottle; six for $5.00.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

CHAPTER II.

THE BLACK HAND.

In due course we left Lumu, and ten days afterwards we found ourselves at a spot called Charra, on the Tana river, having gone through many adventures which need not be recorded here.

At Charra we had a violent quarrel with the headman of the bearers we had hired to go as far as this, and who now wished to extort large extra payment from us. In the result he threatened to set the Masai—about whom more anon—on to us. That night he, with all our hired bearers, bolted, stealing most of the goods which had been intrusted to them to carry. Luckily, however, they had not happened to steal our rifles, ammunition and personal effects; not because of any delicacy of feeling on their part, but owing to the fact that they chanced to be in the charge of the five Wakwafis. After that it was clear to us that we had had enough of caravans and of bearers. Indeed, we had not much left for a caravan to carry. And yet how were we to get on?

It was Good who solved the question. "Here is water," he said, pointing to the Tana river; "and yesterday I saw a party of natives hunting hippopotami in canoes. I understand that Mr. Mackenzie's mission station is on the Tana river. Why not get into canoes and paddle up to it?"

This brilliant suggestion was, needless to say, received with acclamation; and I instantly set to work to buy suitable canoes from the surrounding natives. I succeeded, after a delay of three days, in obtaining two large ones, each hollowed out of a single log of some light wood, and capable of holding six people and baggage. For these two canoes we had to pay nearly all our remaining cloth, and also many other articles.

On the day following our purchase of the two canoes we effected a start. In the first canoe were Good, Sir Henry and three of our Wakwafi followers; in the second myself, Umslopogaas and the other two Wakwafis. As our course lay up the stream, we had to keep four paddles at work in each canoe, which meant that the whole lot of us, except Good, had to row away like galley slaves; and very exhausting work it was. I say except, for of course the moment that Good got into a boat his foot was on his native heath and he took command of the party. And certainly he worked us. On shore Good is a gentle, mild mannered man, and given to jocosity; but, as we found to our cost, Good in a boat was a perfect demon. To begin with, he knew all about it, and we didn't. On all nautical subjects, from the torpedo fittings of a man of war down to the best way of handling the paddle of an African canoe, he was a perfect mine of information, which, to say the least of it, we were not. Also his ideas of discipline were of the sternest, and, in short, he came the royal naval officer over us pretty considerably and paid us out amply for all the chaff we were wont to treat him to on land; but, on the other hand, I am bound to say that he managed the boats admirably.

Three days after our start an ominous incident occurred. We were just drawing in to the bank to make our camp, as usual, for the night, when we caught sight of a figure standing on a little knoll not forty yards away, and intently watching our approach. One glance was sufficient—although I was personally unacquainted with the tribe—to tell me that he was a Masai Elmoran, or young warrior. Indeed, had I had any doubts, they would have been quickly dispelled by the terrified ejaculation of "Masai!" that burst simultaneously from the lips of our Wakwafi followers, who are, as I think I have said, themselves bastard Masai.

And what a figure he presented as he stood there in his savage war gear! Accustomed as I have been to savages all my life, I do not think that I have ever before seen anything quite so ferocious or awe inspiring. To begin with, the man was enormously tall, quite as tall as Umslopogaas, I should say, and beautifully, though somewhat slightly, shaped, but with the face of a devil. In his right hand he held a spear about five and a half feet long, the blade being two and a half feet in length by nearly three inches in width, and having an iron spike at the end of the handle that measured more than a foot. On his left arm was a large and well made elliptical shield of buffalo hide, on which were painted strange, heraldic looking devices. On his shoulders was a huge cape of hawks' feathers, and round his neck was a "naibere," or strip of cotton, about seventeen feet long by one and a half broad, with a stripe of color running down the middle of it. The tanned goat skin robe, which formed his ordinary attire in times of peace, was tied lightly round his waist, so as to serve the purposes of a belt, and through it were stuck, on the right and left sides respectively, his short, pear shaped sime, or sword, which is made of a single piece of steel, and carried in a wooden sheath, and an enormous knobkerrie. But perhaps the most remarkable feature of his attire consisted of a headdress of ostrich feathers, which was fixed on the chin, and passed in front of the ears to the forehead, and, being shaped like an ellipse, completely framed the face, so that the diabolical countenance appeared to project from a sort of feather fire screen. Round the ankles he wore black fringes of hair, and projecting from the upper portion of the calves, to which they were attached, were long spurs like spikes, from which flowed down tufts of the beautiful black and waving hair of the Colobus monkey. Such was the elaborate array of the Masai Elmoran who stood watching the approach of our two canoes, but it is one which, to be appreciated, must be seen—only those who see it do not often live to describe it. Of course, I could not make out all these details of his full dress on the occasion of this my first introduction, being, indeed, amply taken up with the consideration of the general effect, but I had plenty of subsequent opportunities of becoming acquainted with the items that went to make it up.

While we were hesitating what to do, the Masai warrior drew himself up in a dignified fashion, shook his spear at us, and turning, vanished on the farther side of the slope.

"Hulloa!" hallooed Sir Henry from the other boat, "our friend the caravan leader has been as good as his word, and set the Masai after us. Do you think it will be safe to go ashore?"

I did not think it would be at all safe; but, on the other hand, we had no means of cooking in the canoes, and nothing that we could eat raw, so it was difficult to know what to do. At last Umslopogaas simplified matters by volunteering to go and reconnoiter, which he did, creeping off into the bush like a snake, while we hung off in the stream waiting for him. In half an hour he returned and told us that there was not a Masai to be seen anywhere about, but that he had discovered a spot where they had recently been encamped, and that from various indications he judged that they must have moved on an hour or so before, the man we saw having, no doubt, been left to report upon our movements.

Thereupon we landed, and having posted a sentry, proceeded to cook and eat our evening meal. This done, we took the situation into our serious consideration. Of course, it was possible that the apparition of the Masai warrior had nothing to do with us, that he was merely one of a band bent upon some marauding and murdering expedition against another tribe. Our friend the consul had told us that such expeditions were about. But when we recalled the threat of the caravan leader, and reflected on the ominous way in which the warrior had shaken his spear at us, this did not appear very probable. On the contrary, what did seem probable was that the party was after us, and awaiting a favorable opportunity to attack us. This being so, there were two things that we could do, one of which was to go on, and the other to go back. The latter idea was, however, rejected at once, it being obvious that we should encounter as many dangers in retreat as in advance, and, besides, we had made up our minds to journey onward at any price. Under these circumstances, however, we did not consider it safe to sleep ashore, so we got into our canoes, and paddling out into the middle of the stream, which was not very wide here, managed to anchor them by means of big stones fastened to ropes made of cocoanut fiber, of which there were several fathoms in each canoe.

Here the musquitoes nearly ate us up alive, and this, combined with anxiety as to our position, effectually prevented me from sleeping as the others were doing, and somehow, in the most unaccountable way, I had suddenly become nervous. There was no particular reason why I should be, beyond the ordinary reasons which surround the Central African traveler, and yet I undoubtedly was. If there is one thing more than another of which I have the most complete and entire scorn and disbelief, it is of presentiments, and yet here I was all of a sudden filled with and possessed by a most undoubted presentiment of approaching evil. I would not give way to it, however, although I felt the cold perspiration stand out upon my forehead.

In the distance I heard a hippopotamus splash faintly, then the owl hooted again in a kind of unnatural screaming note, and the wind began to moan plaintively through the trees, making a heart chilling music. Above was the black bosom of the cloud, and beneath me swept the black flood of the water, and I felt as though I and death were utterly alone between them. It was very desolate.

Suddenly my blood seemed to freeze in my veins and my heart to stand still. Was it fancy, or were we moving? I turned my eyes to look for the other canoe, which should be alongside of us. I could not see it, but instead I saw a lean and clutching black hand lifting itself above the gunwale of the little boat. Surely it was a nightmare! At the same time a dim but devilish looking face appeared to rise out of the water, and then came a lurch of the canoe, a quick flash of a knife and an awful yell from the Wakwafi who was sleeping by my side (the same poor fellow whose odor had been annoying me), and something warm spurted into my face. In an instant the spell was broken; I knew that it was no nightmare, but that we were attacked by swimming Masai. Snatching at the first weapon which came to hand, which happened to be Umslopogaas' battleax, I struck with all my force in the direction in which I had seen the flash of the knife. The blow fell upon a man's arm, and, catching it against the thick wooden gunwale of the canoe, completely severed it from the body just above the wrist. As for its owner, he uttered no sound or cry. Like a ghost he came, and like a ghost he went, leaving behind him a bloody hand still gripping a great knife, or rather a short sword, that was buried in the heart of our poor servant.

Instantly there arose a hubbub and confusion, and I fancied, rightly or wrongly, that I made out several dark heads gliding away toward the right hand bank, whither we were rapidly drifting, for the rope by which we had been moored had been severed with a knife. As soon as I had realized this fact, I also realized that the scheme had been to cut the boat loose, so that it should drift on to the right bank (as it would have done with the natural swing of the current), where no doubt a party of Masai were waiting to dig their shovel headed spears into us. Seizing one paddle myself, I told Umslopogaas to take another (for the remaining Askari was too frightened and bewildered to be of any use), and together we rowed vigorously out toward the middle of the stream, and not an instant too soon, for in another minute we should have been aground, and then there would have been an end of us.

As soon as we were well out, we set to work to paddle the canoe up stream again to where the other was moored; and very hard and dangerous work it was in the dark, and with nothing but the notes of Good's stentorian shouts, which he kept firing off at intervals like a fog horn, to guide us. But at last we fetched up, and were thankful to find that they had not been molested at all. No doubt the owner of the same hand that severed our rope should have severed theirs also, but was led away from his purpose by an irresistible inclination to murder when he got the chance, which, while it cost us a man and him his hand, undoubtedly saved all the rest of us from massacre. Had it not been for that ghastly apparition over the side of the boat—an apparition that I shall never forget till my dying hour—the canoe would undoubtedly have drifted ashore before I realized what had happened, and this history would never have been written by me.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

---

HONESTY REWARDED.

How a Detroit Man Recognized a Clerk's Integrity and Faithfulness.

"James," he began as the clerk entered the private office, "the new year is close at hand."

"Yes, sir."

"How long have you been with us?"

"Twenty years, sir."

"Ah! Twenty years. You came in from the country with all your worldly possessions tied up in a cotton handkerchief."

"I did, sir."

"You left home determined to achieve success."

"Yes, sir."

"You believed that honesty and integrity would be rewarded, and that a faithful service would meet its reward?"

"That's the way I reasoned, sir."

"Ah! I remember the morning you applied for a situation. I liked your looks and the way you talked."

"Thanks, sir."

"Now, James, my partner goes out with the new year. I've been thinking of you."

"Y-yes, sir."

"Of your long and faithful services."

"Yes, sir."

"And I'm going to reward you. I'm glad it's in my power to do so. I shall commence the new year alone."

"Exactly."

"With limited capital."

"Ah!"

"And it will therefore be necessary to reduce all salaries. On all the others I shall make a cut of fifteen per cent. Owing to your long and faithful services I shall make the cut in your case only ten. That's all, James, and I hope you will try and get down half an hour earlier in the morning, and also be a little more economical with the gas and fuel."—Detroit Free Press.

---

—In a Kentucky court of justice: Judge—"Do you find the prisoner guilty or not guilty?" Foreman of the jury—"Gui——." Prisoner—"Hold on a minute, Judge. I simply want to state that there are fourteen gallons of apple-jack down at my place and a darn big straw stack, and——." Foreman—"We find the prisoner not guilty

---

MARSHAL M'MAHON.

The Brilliant French Soldier Not Partial to His Hibernian Relatives.

The recent false reports put in circulation in reference to the shattered state of Marshal MacMahon's health have for the moment attracted public attention to the veteran soldier. People are asking themselves: Would he be appointed commander-in-chief of the army if to-morrow a war broke out between France and Germany? Marshal MacMahon's military record is unrivaled in modern annals. Persons of all ranks and classes know him and appreciate him only as a soldier—so much so, indeed, that the title of "Duke of Magenta," awarded him by the late Napoleon III., is almost forgotten, both by his friends and himself, and by the outer world generally, who have a far greater admiration for a Marshal's baton than for a Ducal coronet. Despite MacMahon's brilliant career as a dashing and intrepid warrior, I doubt if he will ever again unsheath his sword on a battle field—much less be found at the head of a million of men. In the first place, old age incapacitates him for any further active service; and, secondly, he is so obnoxious to the powers that be that, even if he were young and strong enough to take command, it is not at all certain that he would be authorized to do so. I am not, however, going to discuss such a question in the present paper. What I would wish to point out to your readers, but more particularly to the Irish portion of them, is the utter fallacy of supposing that the Marshal is at all Irish in sympathy or feeling. I say lately in a newspaper, famous for the errands it floats, that the Marshal purposes sleeping his last sleep in Irish dust. This is utter farrago. MacMahon purposes nothing of the kind. I am aware, of course, that some of my own enthusiastic fellow-countrymen once presented him with a sword, and that he acknowledged the gift in terms of the most refined gratitude. Frenchmen, however, all the world over, have the knack of dressing up sweet, soft nothings in a very brilliant and artistic style. They can pile up courtesy on courtesy; but such courtesies do not really mean any thing. MacMahon during his presidency of the French Republic afforded ample proof of his un-Irish proclivities. Many Irishmen who sought audiences with him on the ground that they were Irishmen were politely bowed out the Elysee gates by his aids-de-camp without being able to see him. The few Hibernians who, thanks to perseverance and sundry letters of introduction, succeeded in being ushered into his presence were invariably treated to the following reminder from the lips of the haughty Marshal: "I am no Irishman, sir. I am a Frenchman. My country is France, not Ireland; and I am more than astonished that you, Irishmen, can for a moment fancy that I am one of yourselves!" I quote MacMahon's own words textually, for I have met a few score of my compatriots who saw the man and who reported to me the language he used in addressing them. And yet Irishmen continue to believe that this scion of Brian Boru stock is proud of his ancestry and his origin! I think it my duty, in the cause of truth, to speak plainly on this matter, for there is no use in people bowing down and worshiping an idol whose feet are of clay. Verb. sat.—Brussels Cor. Chicago Times.

---

—In many cities of Europe during the days of extreme cold, the municipal governments, from a fund previously set apart for the purpose, place at intervals among the crowded neighborhoods of the poor, large iron braziers which are kept filled day and night with hot coals. They are circular receptacles, about the size of a barrel, with an open top and with holes pierced in the sides for the purpose of a draught. They are placed upon the pavement near the sidewalk at the corners of streets, where crowds may collect about them with the least obstruction to traffic. During the bitter cold weather, crowds of half-frozen people huddle about these braziers.

---

A REPRIEVE FOR THE CONDEMNED.

Wretched men and women long condemned to suffer the tortures of dyspepsia, are filled with new hope after a few doses of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This budding hope blossoms into the fruition of certainty, if the Bitters is persisted in. It brings a reprieve to all dyspeptics who seek its aid. Flatulence, heartburn, sinking at the pit of the stomach between meals, the nervous tremors and insomnia of which chronic indigestion is the parent, disappear with their hateful progenitor. Most beneficent of stomachics! who can wonder that in so many instances it awakens grateful eloquence in those who, benefitted by it, speak voluntarily in its behalf. It requires a graphic pen to describe the torments of dyspepsia, but in many of the testimonials received by the proprietors of the Bitters, these are portrayed with vivid truthfulness. Constipation, biliousness, muscular debility, malarial fevers and rheumatism are relieved by it.

---

"Oh, stay," the maiden said, "and rest
The weary head upon my breast."
"Aha, my girl, you can't," said he,
"Work off a leap year gag on me—Excelsior!"

---

All the art and taste of the best artists seems to have been combined in the magnificent package of imported Oleographic and Chromatic Cards which is being offered by the well known firm of Fleming Brothers, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

To procure these elegant frosted and satin fringed cards, buy a box of Dr. C. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills for 25 cents from your druggist and mail the outside wrapper with your address (plainly written) and four cents worth of stamps to Fleming Brothers, Pittsburgh, Pa. You will be surprised and delighted with the beauty and variety of the cards you will receive.

---

Gentleman (to consumptive friend)—You walk very slow, Sam. Sam—Yes, but I'm going very fast.

---

"DON'T MARRY HIM"!

"He is such a fickle, inconstant fellow, you will never be happy with him," said Esther's friends when they learned of her engagement to a young man who bore the reputation of being a sad flirt. Esther, however, knew that her lover had good qualities, and she was willing to take the risk. In nine cases out of ten it would have proved a mistake; but Esther was an uncommon girl and to every one's surprise Fred made a model husband. How was it? Well, Esther had a cheerful, sunny temper and a great deal of tact. Then she enjoyed perfect health and was always so sweet, neat and wholesome that Fred found his own home most pleasant, and his own wife more agreeable, than any other being. As the year passed and he saw other woman of Esther's age grow sickly, faded and querulous, he realized more and more that he had "a jewel of a wife." Good health was half the secret of Esther's success. She retained her vitality and good looks, because she warded off feminine weaknesses and ailments by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

---

An evening paper, speaking of Emperor Frederick, says: "He was born in Koenisburg, the place of his nativity."

---

Don't hawk, hawk, and blow, blow, disgusting everybody, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

---

The great lakes are a foot and a half lower than they were three years ago. This gives one an idea of the recent enormous growth of railroad speculation.

---

See Antisell Piano advertisement

---

BETTER THAN QUININE.

Quinine is not only an expensive medicine, it is a harmful one if taken too freely and too often. Of course the world insists on taking great quantities of it for fever and ague. Some persons think nothing else will cure fever and ague. We say positively, and testimonials back us up, that BRANDRETH'S PILLS have often cured bad cases of fever and ague when quinine has failed. BRANDRETH'S PILLS break up the worst attack.

---

If man was made to mourn he wouldn't do it. He would go out and have fun.

---

THE OLD SILVER SPOON.

How fresh in my mind are the days of my sickness,
When I tossed me in pain, all fevered and sore;
The burning, the nausea, the sinking and weakness,
And even the old spoon that my medicine bore.
The old silver spoon, the family spoon,
The sick-chamber spoon that my medicine bore.

How loath were my fever-parched lips to receive it,
How nauseous the stuff that it bore to my tongue,
And the pain at my inwards, oh, naught could relieve it,
Though tears of disgust from my eyeballs it wrung.
The old silver spoon, the medicine spoon,
How awful the stuff that it left on my tongue.

Such is the effect of nauseous, griping medicine which make the sick-room a memory of horror. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, on the contrary, are small, sugar-coated, easy to take, purely vegetable and perfectly effective. 25 cents a vial.

---

Among the other matters to be settled in the Chinese treaty will be the question as to the right of a man to get his "washee" from a laundry when he has lost his "tickee."

---

COUGHS.—"Brown's Bronchial Troches" are not new and untried, but, having been tested by constant use for an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age.

---

Many people refuse to take Cod Liver Oil on account of its unpleasant taste. This difficulty has been overcome in Scott's EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. It being as palatable as milk, and the most valuable remedy known for the treatment of Consumption, Scrofula and Bronchitis, General Debility, Wasting Diseases of Children, Chronic Coughs and Colds, has caused physicians in all parts of the world to use it. Physicians report our little patients take it with pleasure. Try Scott's Emulsion and be convinced.

---

Piso's Cure for Consumption is the best Cough Medicine. If you don't believe it, take a dose. By druggists, 25c a bottle.

---

Wakelee's Squirrel and Gopher Exterminator. Try it, and prove the best is the cheapest. Wakelee & Co., San Francisco.

---

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED.

To the Editor:

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption, if they will send me their express and P. O. address. Respectfully,

T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., New York.

---

SAMUEL GEDDES,

Once of San Francisco and later of Texas and Utah please send address at once to Charles P. Drace, Room 7, No. 81 West 9th St., Kansas City, Mo.

---

Many people use tooth powder, the grit of which, injures the delicate enamel of the teeth. No injury will follow the use of BURPEAN. Large bottles, 25c.

---

Try Germea for Breakfast.

---

Camelline improves and preserves the complexion.

FOR CLEANSING, PURIFYING AND BEAUTIFYING the skin of children and infants and curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, the CUTICURA REMEDIES are infallible.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood diseases, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Baby's Skin and Scalp preserved and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP.

KIDNEY PAINS, Backache and Weakness cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, an instantaneous pain-subduing plaster. 25c.

AN AGENT WANTED IN EVERY TOWN on the Pacific Coast for Kimball's Liquid Glue. Needed in every family. 534 Valencia St., S. F., Cal.

R. HALL'S
PULMONARY BALSAM
A SUPERIOR REMEDY FOR
COUGHS, COLDS, INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION,
And all Throat and Lung Troubles.
Sold by all Druggists for.....50 Cents.
J. R. CATES & CO.,
PROPRIETORS,
417 SANSOME ST., SAN FRANCISCO.

Coffee Tumbles!

We report a decline in Coffee of 2 to 3 cents per pound on all Coast grades. Butter is lower—best roll 50 to 60 cents now. Rice and Beans are higher; White Beans, 4½ to 5 cents in small lots. Orders filled at lowest market rates on day received. Our Rock Candy Drips has won its way into nearly every house in the State, and others, appreciating its merits, have imitated the name. This has compelled us to have the name and trade-mark registered, and any one offering under this name will be required to order through us. This is right, as we have spent much money and time in introducing it. Dealers everywhere will find it to their advantage to order direct or through their jobber. Dried Fruit in great abundance, for home or export trade, in sacks or boxes as wanted. A few 100 pounds each of choice Blackberries, Nectarines, Cherries, Raspberries, Apricots. Send for full list (free) to Smith's Cash Store, 416 and 418 Front St., San Francisco, Cal.

ST. JACOBS OIL

FOR CATTLE. FOR HORSES.

CURES

Cuts, Swellings, Bruises, Sprains, Galls, Strains, Lameness, Stiffness, Cracked Heels, Scratches, Contractions, Flesh Wounds, Stringhalt, Sore Throat, Distemper, Colic, Whitlow, Poll Evil, Fistula, Tumors, Splints, Ring bones and Spavin in its early stages. Apply St. Jacobs Oil in accordance with the directions with each bottle.

Invaluable for the Use of Horsemen, Cattlemen, Stablemen, Turfmen, Ranchmen Stockmen, Drovers, Farmers.

FOR FINE HERDS, CHOICE STOCK, Common Herds.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers Everywhere.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums, 25,000 in use, 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all those things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

CATARRH

Catarrh is a disease of the mucous membrane, generally originating in the nasal passages and maintaining its strong hold in the head. From this point it sends forth a poisonous virus into the stomach and through the digestive organs, corrupting the blood and producing other troublesome and dangerous symptoms.

ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES COLD IN HEAD, CATARRH, ROSE-COLD, HAY-FEVER, DEAFNESS, HEADACHE. EASY TO USE. PRICE 50 CENTS. ELY BRO'S, OWEGO, N.Y. U.S.A.

TRY the CURE, HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril, and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS, 235 Greenwich St. New York

CANDY MAKING FOR PLEASURE OR PROFIT. YOUNG PERSONS wishing to engage in a light, pleasant, and, perhaps, profitable amusement, can learn the art of Candy Making at home, and while giving amusement to their friends and themselves, discover whether they have a taste for the work as a business, and thereby make a fair living profit from a very small investment. Receipts, and full instructions in detail, sufficient for several lessons for the making of twelve simple varieties, and amply sufficient for home amusement, sent for one dollar. Tools necessary may be found in any kitchen. Address, GEO. F. PERCIVAL, 122 Ellis Street, San Francisco.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

I believe Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my life.—A. H. DOWELL, Editor Enquirer, Edenton, N. C., April 23, 1887.

PISO

The BEST Cough Medicine is PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. Children take it without objection. By all druggists. 25c.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Manf'd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio. Trade Mark

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D. Amsterdam, N. Y.

We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill. $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

S. F. N. U. (First Series) No. 301

REWARD!

$1000 Will be paid for each and every grain of poisonous substances found in Wisdom's Robertine, acknowledged the most delightful and only really harmless toilet article ever produced for beautifying and preserving the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles and all blemishes and roughness of the skin. Used and endorsed by the elite of society and the stage. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per bottle. White and Flesh. REDINGTON CO., Wholesale Druggists, San Francisco, Agents

STEINWAY. KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Roenish Pianos; Burdett Organs, band instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

BEST TREE WASH.

GREENBANK 98 % Powdered Caustic Soda (tests 99 3-10 %), recommended by the highest authorities; also, common Caustic Soda, pure Caustic Potash, etc., etc., for sale by T. W. JACKSON & CO. Manufacter's Agents, 3 California & 104 Market Sts., S. F.

KNABE! The best PIANO on earth! Haines Bro.'s PIANO! PATTI'S preference. Musical Department A. L. Bancroft & Co., Removed to 132 Post St., San Francisco, Cal.

AGENTS WANTED

For our celebrated Portraits. Work first-class. Big money to active men. Pacific Portrait Co., 1221 Market St., S. F.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BEWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

Farms for Sale.

SEND STAMPS FOR CIRCULAR to M. GRIFFIN, Cottonwood, Shasta County, Cal., fruit belt of Upper Sacramento Valley; or, to S. GRIFFIN, Tolo, Jackson County, Or., center of Rogue River Valley, noted for mild climate and productiveness.

Oregon and Washington FARMS FOR SALE

At reasonable prices and on easy terms.

Address WM. MACMASTER, 40 Second Street, Portland, Oregon.

I CURE FITS!

When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again. I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. H. G. ROOT, M. C., 183 Pearl St. New York.

This BELT or Regenerator is made expressly for the cure of disorders of the generative organs. The continuous stream of ELECTRICITY permeating through the parts must restore them to health vigor. Do not confound this with Electric Belts advertised to cure all ills from head to toe. It is for the ONE specific purpose.

For circulars giving full information, address Cheever Electric Belt Co., 163 Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, White Swellings, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE." Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, and vital strength, will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken before the last stages of the disease are reached. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, Dr. PIERCE thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debil

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY ..... ..... MAY 5, 1888.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XIX. NO. 47. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., MAY 5, 1888. WHOLE NO. 914.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

GILBERT ISLANDERS.

Interesting People Who Dwell on Coral Reefs in the South Pacific.

The Gilbert Islanders, while probably nearly related to the Hawaiians, are not their equals physically or mentally. Still they are a fine-looking people, and among them may be found many specimens of manly and womanly beauty. There is no difficulty in noting their physical characteristics, as the ordinary "clothing" of the men is a short mat wrapped around the middle, of the women a thick fringed belt tied about the hips just below the waist. Sometimes the females—the older one—are further screened by a child carelessly thrown over the back or riding astride of one hip, but this is only done when the howling youngsters refuse to be left behind when the villagers rush to the beach to see the white strangers.

The young girls often coquettishly screen their heads and necks—from the sun—with broad fans simply braided from a palm leaf. One article of dress they much affect are pretty little models of a woman's bonnet of the "coal-scuttle" pattern. These are not worn on the head, where they would look ridiculous, being only big enough for a small doll, but are fastened to their coal-black, glossy hair, which is very abundant, of which they are very vain.

This rather scant costume is completed by suspending about the neck a flat disk cut from a pearly shell, but that this is not strictly an essential part of their dress was proven by their taking off and giving us several of them—for tobacco.

The crowd that mustered on the beach as we landed was noisy and curious, but good-naturedly so. When, as happened in a few instances, they were not accustomed to a near view of "white" men, they—the young witches of girls especially—indulged in much merriment at our uncouth appearance. They made great fun, our interpreter told us, of the heavy "homes" (broad-leafed hats) we wore, of our being wrapped up in clothes, and of our feet being cased in little canoes (our shoes), so that we could hardly wade through the loose, dry sand. But when from the pockets of our "loose skins" we drew plugs of tobacco, their ridicule changed to respectful admiration and a hundred little attentions were paid us. They knew what tobacco was, and coveted it.

Gilbert Islanders manage to have a good deal of fun. Being as much at home in the water as they are on what land they have, they all—big and little—go in bathing at all hours of the day and moonlight nights. What they can't do in and under the water isn't worth attempting. In the serious business of fishing, too, they are up to all sorts of tricks. A man will provide himself with a lot of water-tight cocoanut shells as floats, and from each he suspends three or four short lines, armed with fish hooks made out of sharp fish bones. These he takes in his canoe, and, going out a little way, baits his hooks and sets the shells floating about. Soon he will see one bob and whirl around and then, slipping overboard, he disappears under the water for a time. While down he goes from float to float, detaching the fish from the hooks, stowing them into a net hung around his neck, baits the hooks from a supply he carries in his mouth, and eventually returns to his canoe with his net crowded full. All this he does without taking breath, apparently.

A times they will discover some spot in the lagoon where a shark has established himself. They will feed him for a day or two with a mixture of fish and cocoanut-meat until he is gorged. Then, calling the village out to help in the sport, a thick rope of cocoanut-fiber is laid along the beach, the noosed end being carried out in a canoe until over the sleeping brute. One man then slides overboard and, quietly descending, manages to slip the noose over the shark's tail and draw it tight. This being done, the signal is given, and, as the crowd of visitors, chanting merrily, tramp over the beach with the rope, the infuriated but helpless shark is dragged backward onto the shore, and there dispatched with clubs. It is great fun for the simple-minded natives.—San Francisco Bulletin.

—Panned Oysters.—Cut stale bread in thin slices, then round them, removing the crust, to fit patty-pans, toast them, butter and put in the pans; moisten the slices with three or four teaspoons of oyster liquor; place on the toast a layer of oysters, sprinkle with pepper, and put a small piece of butter on top; place pans in a baking pan, cover with another pan to keep in the steam and flavor; put in a quick oven, and when cooked seven or eight minutes remove the cover and sprinkle with salt; replace cover and let cook one minute longer. Serve in the patty-pans.

—To season glass and china ware to sudden changes of temperature, so that it will remain sound after exposure to sudden heat and cold, is best done by placing the articles in cold water, which must gradually be brought to the boiling point and then allowed to cool very slowly, taking several hours to do it. The commoner the material the more care in this respect is required.

—An English historian while writing, it is said, smokes not only one cigar, but several. To manage this he had to invent a new cigar holder. This has the ordinary mouth piece, but branches off, so to speak, at right angles at the other end. There are holes in these branches into which the cigars are placed, as many as four at a time being a possibility.

TENDERFOOT EDISON.

The Great Electrician Has an Amusing Experience on the Plains.

At a dinner party at the Presidio the other evening, one of the officers related some anecdotes of Thomas Edison.

"He is the most unpractical man in the world," said the Captain. "I remember well the summer of '78 the season of the total eclipse of the sun. A lot of scientific men were there—Pro. Trouvelot, of Cambridge; Harkness, the well-known astronomer; John L. Draper, and many more of them—besides a number of army people, who went up from some of the forts to a little station on the Union Pacific, called Separation, to view the phenomenon.

"Edison was one of the party, and they made observations, drew sketches, took photographic impressions, and when the eclipse was over compared notes as to the sensations they had experienced. Draper gave it as his opinion that if it were possible for it to continue an hour numbers of people would commit suicide, and it would leave generally a bad effect on the digestion and the nervous system.

"Edison, you know, is quite deaf, and the strangest thing was, during an hour or so of the densest partial eclipse, he recovered his hearing to almost a normal degree. They were up there a couple of days before the event occurred, and we officers had our rifles with us, and hunted antelope and deer. Edison was imbued with the sportsman spirit, and handing one hundred dollars to a man, said: "Get me a gun, will you?" The man brought the gun, which had cost seventy-five dollars, and handed him the change, which he returned, saying: 'Here, I want some powder, and things; get me the balance in ammunition. I s'pose twenty-five dollars' worth is about all I can carry, isn't it?'

"Every one laughed at the picture of Edison carrying twenty-five dollars' worth of cartridges about his person.

"They had a stuffed jack rabbit at the station, which some clever telegraph man had prepared for the befooled emigrants to shoot at.

"This was set rigidly up in the sagebrush, and pointed out to Edison, who had never shot at any real game before. He deliberately drew bead on it, and, after a full minute's aiming, he pulled the trigger.

"He didn't come anywhere near the animal, but was very much excited. 'Wait,' said he; 'if the thing will only stand still five minutes longer, I'll kill him, sure.'

"Bang!" went the gun again, amid the suppressed titters of the crowd, and again, as before, the rabbit calmly viewed the horizon, with his round, unblinking glass eyes.

"Well, I do believe Edison fired away at that thing no less than a dozen times before the idea crept into his electric brain that it was a put-up job. He took it quite good-naturedly."—Leslie's Budget.

SECRETS OF THE DEEP.

A New York Diver Chats About His Unromantic Calling.

The most unpleasant thing a diver can meet is the dead body of a human being. It is a popular delusion that all drowned men come to the surface after several days. Probably they would if they were left alone and were not attacked by wharf-rats, eels and fishes. But in the Hudson they are always attacked in this way within an hour or two after they are submerged. Once attacked, that ends it. The breaking of the skin diffuses something, it may be a scent around, and then every thing travels for that body to get a square meal. Long before decomposition it is so cut and riddled that what gases are formed have no chance to accumulate and inflate the walls of the abdomen. We divers never touch bodies in this state, because it brings the worst luck possible. The only exception to the rule I know was the body of a man who had committed suicide. He had tied around his neck a bag of some heavy stuff, shot or lead pipe, it may have been, and had jumped in from a ferry-boat or a pier-head near to shore. When I came across it it was dilated with its own gases and seemed in the half light under the water to be a stout man trying to swim to the surface, but anchored down by a heavy weight. There was so much travel that it had kept the fishes away. A single cut of my knife severed the cord and the body rose to the surface, where it was found and afterwards identified as that of a German cobbler, who had been drinking to excess. Other somber objects beneath the water are the remains of wrecks and worn-out boats. Most are gray and black in color naturally. They become covered with greenish scum and slime and with the dark ooze of the river. They are of no value and so we never bother ourselves about them.

There is very little romance or beauty about a diver's life. The white sand beaches and coral floors, the brilliant colored fishes and the exquisite forests of the sea that the reading public never weary of in Jules Verne and other writers, do not exist. It is cold, dark, filthy and dead. The first time you go down there is a novelty and excitement about it which are very pleasant. When these wear off you feel like the grave-diggers who every morning go to work in the great cemeteries. You must be quick, alert and sober. You must keep your eyes and ears always open and be ready for any thing. If you don't you'll probably feed the fishes.—N. Y. Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

—He—"I fear I am wearying you with my prosy conversation. You look a little tired." She—"O, no, indeed; I was only thinking how very tired you must be."—Judge.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE.

How a Youngster in Buffalo Proposed to Keep Lent.

A young woman teacher in one of the Episcopal Sunday schools a few Sundays ago had been seeking to convey to the minds of her little charges some idea of what constitutes a proper observance of the Lenten season. Among other things she told them that they should give up some of their pleasures, and to enforce this idea she asked each what they would let go until Easter. Freddie said he would stop eating candy; Willie volunteered to lock up his checkered game of life; Charlie said he would not go to the theatre, and Louis decided to dispense with the syrup on his pancakes. "And now, Archie," said the teacher, coming to the last lamb of her flock, "what pleasure are you going to give up?" "I'm goin' to stop coming to Sunday school," was the prompt and decided answer.—Buffalo Express.

Passing Away.

Little Fanny looked intently at her mother for some time. Then she said:

"Mother, you ain't a girl, are you?"

"No, Fanny."

"What are you?"

"I am a woman."

"You were a girl once, weren't you?"

"Yes, Fanny."

"Well, where is that girl now?"—Jacksonville Hotel News.

Cooling a Room.

Two little brothers, confined to a room on account of sickness, observed that their mother frequently looked at a thermometer by which she regulated the heat of the room. One day she removed the thermometer.

"Joe," said the youngest, "'twon't be so warm now."

"Why?"

"'Cause, mamma took away that hot thing what was on the wall."—Boston Globe.

The Other One.

Marion was sitting at the open window and her father desired her to move away, as she would be likely to catch cold. "Oh, no," she said, "I will not." Her father insisted that she must do as he said. She was suddenly taken with a little fit of sneezing. "There, you have got cold now," exclaimed her father. Marion, not wishing to acknowledge it, replied, "Oh, no, I have not; that is my other cold."—Portland Argus.

The Old Man's Assistance.

"Remember, my boy," said Uncle James, as he gave Bobby a coin, "that if you take care of the pennies the dollars will take care of themselves."

Bobby looked a trifle dubious.

"I do take care of the pennies," he replied, "but as soon as they get to be dollars pa takes care of 'em."—New York Sun.

Blacker.

My little 4-year-old boy Harold was sitting in a colored girl's lap asking her all kinds of cunning questions. At last, looking at Bella very seriously, he asked:

"Bella, was you as black as you are now when you was a baby?"—Boston Globe.

Lived on One Another.

Bobby—Ma, wasn't there anybody left in the Garden of Eden after Adam and Eve were turned out?

Mother—No, Bobby.

Bobby (after thought)—Well, who fed the animals?—New York Sun.

An Extenuating Plea.

Mother (who, with her little boy, is dining at a friend's)—Johnnie, I am really ashamed of you. You never behave so badly at home.

Johnnie—I know it, ma, but when I have a chance at a good dinner like this I'm apt to get excited.—Troy Press.

The Whole Barnyard.

Papa to Johnnie, 4 years old—Won't you have another piece of duck, Johnnie?

Johnnie—Yeth, thir, I believe I will. Duck'th my favorite chicken 'cept turkey.—New York World.

Youthful Ambition.

Minister—Well, Bobby, what do you want to be when you grow up?

Bobby (suffering from parental discipline)—An orphan.—New York Sun.

Two Careers.

Mrs. Muggins—Sure, I'm that worried over my son. He's in New York a-studyin' art, an' it's an awful time the poor boy has to keep out o' the clutches of Anthony Comstock.

Mrs. Wuggins—It's safe enough my boy is. "He's not learning to paint pictures, then?"

"No, indeed. He's burglaring in Chicago."—Omaha World.

Got Away from Him.

Landlady (whose attention has been distracted for a moment)—Why, where is Mr. Dumley? I thought he was carving the duck!

Mr. Dumley (from under the table)—It's all right, Mrs. Hendricks; I'm after the duck.—New York Sun.

The Craze.

Itinerant Vender—'Ere's yer nice fraish 'ot waffles, halways hinvigoratin' han' comfortin'.

Miss Anglos—Oh, Trent do let's stop and listen a little. I haven't heard such pure English since we left Lannon.—Judge.

Advice to Writers.

Young writers in preparing their manuscript should leave plenty of space between the lines. The world would not suffer much if many of them should make it all space.—Somerville Journal.

Treading the Mazy.

Young Mr. Wabash (to Miss Waldo, of Boston, at a dancing party)—Will you favor me with two or three rounds, Miss Waldo?

Miss Waldo (an admirer of John L., of course)—Certainly, Mr. Wabash, with pleasure. Or, if you like, we will continue it to a finish.—New York Sun.

AN INGENIOUS DEVICE.

The Invention of a California Physician for Taking Chloroform.

One of the most peculiar cases is that of a doctor who was formerly one of the finest practitioners of the West. Coming from an excellent family, possessed of large wealth, he received a liberal education, and, deciding to become a physician, studied at one of the best Eastern colleges, and graduated with unusual honors. Many years ago he came to San Francisco, and after having been established here for a short time began to acquire a fine practice. In a few years he had among his patients some of the most prominent and wealthy men of the city. He had occasion to use a large quantity of chloroform in his treatment, and when he began to be troubled with insomnia, the result of repeated attacks of neuralgia, he also turned to the anæsthetic for relief. But the remedy subsequently proved to be worse than the disease, for with repeated applications he found that he was unable to discontinue its use, and soon became a confirmed user of the drug. He would frequently return to bed during the early part of the day for the purpose of enjoying the drug, and not a night passed that he did not avail himself of its sleep-producing powers. The cunning of an insane mind began to devise means to add to the enjoyment of the body, and finally evolved an idea which must be admitted to be certainly original.

Obtaining a long rubber tube, which could be easily stretched, he attached firmly to the ceiling at a spot which would be directly over his head when in bed. To the other end he fastened a medium-sized sponge. After getting into bed he would pour three or four ounces of chloroform over the sponge, often using half a pound during the night, and then pulling it down to his face would hold it to his nostrils until unconsciousness ensued. When his hand fell to his side, the tension on the rubber tube being relaxed, the sponge naturally flew upwards, leaving the victim to continue his sleep without the possibility of receiving an overdose.

If he awoke during the night the operation would be repeated. "It was a great scheme," to use a slang phrase, but it is not known if the doctor ever applied for a patent on the invention. It is possible, however, that the practice continued until he had been a user of the drug for some time, and so continued until he had merely patients enough to enable him to preserve a proper appearance of respectability. Although practically a slave to the drug for years, it is said, but with what truth can not be readily ascertained, that of late he has begun to see the handwriting on the wall, and realizing what the end must be unless the habit is abandoned now uses the drug to but a small extent.—San Francisco Chronicle.

TRUTH OF WEATHER-LORE.

The Reverence for Tradition Entertained by the Average Mortal.

The persistent survival of weather-lore in these days of intellectual emancipation is not at all remarkable when we consider the extent to which the vulgar sayings embody real truths. A few years ago Messrs. Abercromby and Marriott embarked on an extremely interesting inquiry with a view to determine, by actual comparison, how far the popular proverbs express relations, or sequences, which the results of meteorological science show to be real. The investigation proved that something like a hundred of the more popular sayings are, under ordinary conditions, trustworthy. Such being the case, we need not be surprised that simple country folk prefer familiar couplets to all the "isobars," "cyclones," and "synchronous charts," in the world. If "hills clear, rain near," means the same as "the presence of a wedge-shaped area of high pressure, accompanied by great atmospheric visibility, is likely to be followed by the advance of a disturbance with rain and southerly winds," which for all practical purposes it does, the preference is justified on the mere ground of breath economy. The thirty-one words demanded by science stand no chance against four.

But it is unfortunate that, along with the limited number of folk-sayings founded on truth, there has survived a very large number founded on the grossest error. These latter have borrowed credence and respect from the proved credibility of the others, and apparently they are all destined to sink or swim together. Hammer as we will at certain favorite proverbs which we know to be based upon error, it is all in vain. The reverence for tradition is too much for us. And of all the superstitions, pure and simple, which defy our attempts at destruction, the most invulnerable are those ascribing certain effects to the influence of the moon.—John Westwood Oliver, in Popular Science Monthly.

—Senator Bate, of Tennessee, was a Confederate officer, and one of his peculiarities is the carrying of an unlighted cigar in his mouth. It is related of him that he was standing on a field of battle in conversation with his brother, and as he was in the act of lighting a cigar his brother fell dead at his feet, picked off by a Federal sharpshooter. Since that time it is said that General Bate has never lighted a cigar.

—Mrs. Mulligan, pension agent at Chicago, reports 36,509 pensioners on her rolls, of which number two are widows of soldiers of the revolution, thirty-five survivers of the war of 1812 and 452 widows of veterans of that war Last year she dispersed nearly $7,000,000.

AMONG THE SIAMESE.

Social Conditions of One of the Most Interesting Oriental Countries.

It is said that in Siam the people are all slaves. But it is not the slavery we generally understand, but a species of slavish feudalism. Prisoners of war and their children for all time are absolute slaves. Of these there are a large number. But the remainder are bonded to some master. A parent sells his child, or a man sells himself, or rather mortgages himself. He borrows a sum of money at a very heavy rate of interest—fifteen per cent. being the legal rate, but a higher rate permissible—and pays the interest through life. The debt also binds his children.

Every one in this way first belongs to some nobleman, being marked by a tattoo, generally on the wrist, to indicate his master. He owes to the nobleman fifteen days' work each year. In addition to this is the mortgage or sale to some other master, perhaps less than a nobleman.

Polygamy is universal, and one sees at the theater a man in the dress circle of men, while his wife or wives and slaves (female) are in the women's circle. All classes chew the betel nut, and at the theater each family has the betal pot and spittoon. The latter is carried by a slave, who hands it to the ladies when they wish to spit.

The betel nut is astringent and somewhat intoxicant. It is chewed in connection with a paste made of lime, tobacco and pepper leaf. It not only blackens the teeth, but cracks the lips, and so injures the gums that the teeth are caused to protrude and look snaggy.

The King, Princes and common people are alike slaves to the nasty habit, and half of the women have their mouths injured if not absolutely distorted by it.

Otherwise, the women are decidedly comely, having fine forms and good gaits. Women and men dress so nearly alike that I could hardly distinguish one from the other for several days, for all wear short hair.

The dress is a cloth, called "panoong," about two feet wide, wrapped around the waist, with one corner drawn between the legs and caught in a girdle at the waist. This makes a sort of flowing trouser, falling to the knees.

A gentleman wears a closely-buttoned coat (sacque) buttoned to the neck, with long stockings and low shoes. The common man dispenses with the coat, stockings and shoes. The woman generally allows the "panoong" to hang like a petticoat and wraps about her breast a girdle, leaving the upper part of the bosom and shoulders entirely bare, and none wear shoes. Many of the working women dispense with the girdle entirely. The great mass of people, even in the city, go bare-legged and bare-footed. This is universal in the country.

The women appear to be industrious, and perform much more than half the work. The men are lazy and, with the exception of fishing, appear willing to leave the women to earn the bread. All are inveterate gamblers, and one rarely sees a gambling-house, of which there are a great many, otherwise than full. They are entirely open to the street, canal or river, and at night are distinguished by their many lights.—Carter H. Harrison, in Chicago Mail.

A COSTLY TROUSSEAU.

Gorgeous Preparations for the Wedding of China's Young Emperor.

Although the wedding of the young Emperor of China will probably not take place before 1889, thousands of hands are already busy with the lady's trousseau and wedding presents, which have probably never been equaled in wealth at any other court. The following are the presents the young Emperor is presenting to his fiance before their marriage, after the actual engagement present, which consists of a gold seal, richly inlaid with jewels, the handle being formed by two gold dragons. Up to a month previous to the wedding, the lady is presented with 10 piebald horses with complete trappings, 10 gilt helmets and cuirasses, 100 pieces of satin and 200 pieces of cotton material as wedding presents.

The bride receives 200 ounces of gold, 10,000 ounces of silver, one gold tea service, consisting of teapot and one cup with a lid; one silver service, two silver wash basins, 1,000 pieces of satin, 20 horses with complete trappings, 20 horses without trappings, 20 saddles for pack-horses and mules, and costly gifts are also made to the parents and brothers and sisters of the bride. The bride's hats are the most remarkable among the rich trousseau. The winter court hat has a rim of satin; the crown is made of red velvet, from the center of which rises a button composed of three parts, each of which is ornamented with three small oblong pearls of particular beauty and seventeen ordinary pearls, while in the center of each part another splendid pearl is set in gold and surmounted by a gold phœnix. A handkerchief worn on the breast is green, richly embroidered, trimmed with tassels of jewels and red ribbon. A gala apron of red and blue satin, trimmed with otter skin and embroidered in gold, dragon fans and skirts of many different kinds are also part of this gorgeous outfit, and the furniture for the future Empress is in keeping.—Shanghai Herald.

—At the recent annual Boar's Head dinner at Queen's College, Oxford, the head, a magnificent specimen, weighing over eighty pounds, was borne in on the shoulders of four servants.

DESERVING OF HELP.

How a Man of Nerve and Spirit Lost His Entire Fortune.

A haggard-looking tramp stopped at a house in Kentucky and called for the "landlord." Old Major Bowles, a well-known character in Central Kentucky, stepped out on the gallery and in a rather ungentle voice demanded:

"What do you want here, sah?"

"My dear sir," said the tramp, taking off his tattered hat and bowing with a sort of meek despair, "you see me in hard luck."

"Hang your luck!" exclaimed the Major.

"I can heartily endorse that sentiment," replied the tramp, "but I am not here to indorse or to receive indorsement but to ask for something to sustain the body. I am starving."

"That's not my fault," said the Major. "The world is pretty well filled with just such starving fellows as you are, but I have never heard of one of them dying. I don't mind giving a man a little something to eat, but I'll be blowed if I intend to encourage your infernal laziness. Like all the rest of your tribe, I suppose that you claim to be quite a respectable fellow?"

"Yes, sir."

"Of course. And I reckon you once had money?"

"Yes, sir."

"Of course. But you lost it on account of a rascally partner?"

"No, sir."

"Stocks went down, then?"

"No, I had nothing to do with stocks."

"Well, then, the bank broke."

"I had nothing to do with banks?"

"Why, this is strange. Over-cropped yourself and there came a drought?"

"No, I had nothing to do with farming."

"Is it possible!" said the Major, now keenly interested. "O, I see, you bought a steamboat."

"No."

"Saw-mill?"

"No, sir."

"And yet you had money and lost it?"

"Yes, sir."

"But how."

"I lost it playing poker."

"What!" exclaimed the Major. "Why, my dear sir, you are not the rascal I took you for. Why, you are a man of nerve and spirit. Come in, and help yourself to any thing there is in the house."—Arkansaw Traveler.

WORK FOR WOMEN.

How Two Enterprising and Industrious Ladies Make a Living.

Here is the way one woman turns the honest penny: She is a seamstress by trade and a good one, but after all her faithful industry is barely able to eke out a scanty living with her needle. Constant and weary toil makes madame none the less a lady, however, and one of the first requirements of her life is to occupy pleasant apartments. Rent per month is say five dollars. With a hundred and one drains on a small treasury this is a considerable sum to compass, and the cleverness with which she manages to secure the amount would put to shame many an older financier. In the first instance one dollar was invested at the baker's, which as every one knows will buy two dozen fat loaves.

She next secured twenty-four regular customers to pay five cents apiece as she delivered the bread early every morning, carrying it warm and crisp from the oven. This, as will be seen, gives her twenty cents clear profit a day. Being carefully deposited in a savings bank on the mantle shelf, behold when the landlord knocks the required sum is all ready for payment. The early walk in no way interferes with her regular duties, but on the contrary serves as a good constitutional, a healthful preparation for the sedentary employment of the rest of the day. Hearing of a woman who has courage and energy to do this sort of thing helps others along, no matter what their calling or pursuit.

The first woman to occupy the position of cane weigher on a sugar plantation—a place of some trust and responsibility—was a young girl from the North. Fortune took her up in the coast country this past autumn, and, asking work, the situation was offered and immediately accepted. She went to work without hesitation, and, giving perfect satisfaction to her employers, proved there is still another line of work opened to those of her sex looking for employment.—N. O. Times-Democrat.

Sleep as a Medicine.

The cry for rest has always been louder than the cry for food, not that it is more important, but it is often harder to obtain. The best rest comes from sound sleep. Of two men or women, otherwise equal, the one who sleeps the best will be the most moral, healthy and efficient. Sleep will do much to cure irritability or temper, peevishness and uneasiness. It will restore to vigor an overworked brain. It will build up and make strong a weary body. It will cure a headache. Indeed, we might make a long list of nervous and other maladies that sleep will cure. The cure of sleeplessness requires a clean, good bed, sufficient exercise to produce weariness, pleasant occupation, good air, not too warm a room, a clear conscience and avoidance of stimulants and narcotics. For those who are overworked, haggard and nervous, who pass sleepless nights, we recommend the adoption of such habits as shall secure sleep, otherwise life will be short, and what there is of it sadly imperfect.—Medical Times.

—We don't know of any thing that is needed more than a mince pie trust.—Rochester Post-Express.

VARIETY IN BONNETS.

Studies Made on the Street and in the Millinery Shops.

One of the curiosities of commerce is the variety in woman's hats and bonnets to be found in the millinery stores. A man likes to have his hat like the hat that every other man is wearing, but if a woman buys a bonnet and then goes out on the street and sees a bonnet just like hers on the head of another woman she loses her temper. On the hat question a woman insists upon being a monopolist. She will be exclusive or she won't play. As a matter of fact women are not often thus offended. Go over on State street and see if you can find two bonnets alike. A prize is offered for such a discovery, but you are not likely to win it. More likely are you to find a blade of grass growing in the middle of the great shopping thoroughfare. How the makers and trimmers of bonnets manage to avoid duplication is a mystery, but they do it. It is a tradition of the trade that every bonnet is a work of art, standing alone and by itself. But all bonnets are not works of art, by any means. Some of them are about as far from art as they can get. But they are works of art in that each is built from an original design, as a picture is painted. Men's hats are mere articles of commerce, turned out by machines and by the thousands, all alike. A woman's bonnet is like a painting. The picture may be a bad one, with inharmonious coloring, clumsy arrangement of forms, outlandishness of shapes. But it is fashioned by nimble fingers, and not by any machine, by fingers which never fashioned one bonnet just like another. Only the frames are machine-made. Thousands of these are of like form and appearance. But the frame is only the foundation. The superstructure is the bonnet. From Paris each season come hundreds of bonnets representing the latest and presumably the best work of the fashionable milliners of that city of the modes. On the general lines of these Paris pattern bonnets Chicago milliners build their wares, taking care to make no two alike, but to vary the detail, and to blend some of the features of one pattern bonnet with some of the features of another, thus making an entirely new article. The manufacturing departments of the big wholesale millinery houses do make bonnets just alike, but in shipping them they take good care that no duplicates be sent to the same town. Yet with all the care and all the precaution to secure variety as infinite as the variety of womankind itself, it sometimes happens in the operation of the laws of chance that a woman with a new bonnet on her head will encounter upon the street or see in the show window of a milliner a bonnet so near like her own that upon a superficial examination she can not distinguish the difference. What then happens? Why, the woman is "put out," or "mortified," or "knocked silly," or becomes "so mad that she could cry," according to the bent of her vocabulary. But this is not all that happens. The woman goes straightway to her home or to her milliner, with such precipitateness that all other errands and purposes are utterly neglected, and pauses not until a ribbon or a feather or an ornament has been taken from or put upon that bonnet, and its resemblance to the other entirely destroyed. When this is done the woman may be happy again, but not before. In this we find another phase of that process of differentiation, which gives to the world infinite variety in the species bonnet. O, that natural selection and survival of the fittest could apply as rigidly.—Chicago Herald.

CHILDREN'S ROOMS.

Alarming Practices Which Are Altogether Too Prevalent.

Too much attention can not be bestowed on children's sleeping rooms, especially in the matter of pure air and sunlight. It is, above all, important to prevent foul and steamy vapors from the kitchen and laundry, damp emanations from the cellar and the impurities from gas and other lights from concentrating there. Some means of ventilation are indispensable in every dwelling to prevent the rising of impure atmosphere toward the roof. Shut off the children's bedrooms from the rest of the house, and open a window somewhere near for the escape of the impure air.

An alarming practice, and one altogether too prevalent, is the burning of lamps in children's bed-chambers, and this, too, all night with closed windows. Now, it should be known that the flame of a lamp consumes vitalizing portions of the air, and that a room in which a light has been burning for hours is not fit for sleeping in. In addition to this evil, a burning lamp produces another, and that is, restless slumber, as the light causes the brain to respond even through the closed eyelids, and thus make an effort which should be avoided. Teach children to sleep in the dark, by all means. They must, of course, be prepared for bed by lamp light in winter, but the room may be instantly purified after the lamp is extinguished by opening the windows and doors and letting in fresh, cool air.

Teach a child also that it is just as safe from all harm in the dark as in the light, and that it will be healthier and happier, and it will believe it, because children have inexhaustible faith in the mother's word. Never allow any one to tell children fear-inspiring, hobgoblin stories, and don't punish them by sending them or threatening to put them in dark places; thus you will be enabled easily to train them to sleep in the dark.—Babyhood.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, MAY 5 ..... 1888

No political party can long continue in power upon a tradition or a history. The wisdom of Joseph saved the Egyptians of his day from starvation; but the descendants of those Egyptians, with full bellies, had no scruple about oppressing the descendants of Joseph and his brethren. If the Democratic party had nothing to commend it but the memory of Andrew Jackson it would speedily be driven from power. If the Republican party had no other claim to be restored to power than its glorious history it wouldnever get there. It must be apparent to the most careless observer that every day mere party names are having less and less effect upon the opinions and actions of men. Sentiment goes for much, but not everything. Randall the Democrat and Kelly the Republican stand together for protection. Other Republicans and other Democrats stand together for reduction of tariff. In both cases it is interest that governs opinion and action. Till some great question arises that will excite all men as they were excited in 1861 that party will be strongest that offers most attractions for young men. The actors in the late war will never cease to be moved, and deeply moved, by any reference to that war. But these are now a minority of the voters; and tens of thousands who are now voters are no more excited by reference to that war than they would be by stories of the revolution. Washington to-day stands higher in the estimation of the average voter than Lincoln. Future generations may estimate them as being equally great. If old party leaders care more for the success of their party than for their own personal ends they will do well to let younger men have a share in party management. Uncle Toby and Corporal Trim were excellent characters and brave soldiers; but their stories about the army in Flanders were not near so interesting as the love affair of Uncle Toby with the widow Wadman. Thousands of young men are affiliating with the Democratic party because every effort is made to get them interested in the management of the party, and to impress them that all their interests will be best promoted by that party. This is the way to secure success.

No fair minded person will refuse to believe that Mr. Blaine meant just what he said in his letter from Italy declining to be a candidate for renomination for the Presidency. He has so timed his departure from England on his return home that he will be upon the ocean when the Convention shall meet. It is proposed to nominatee Mr. Blaine when he cannot be communicated with, and consequently could not refuse; then when he should arrive home the convention would be adjourned and he would be forced to accept the nomination rather than leave his party without a candidate. Such a course would be a most gross and fatal blunder. It would at once be urged, and thousands would believe, that the whole action was a cunning trick. Parties being now so evenly divided any strong suspicion of trickery could hardly fail to be fatal to the suspected candidate. A nomination should not be forced upon Mr. Blaine, he having given fair notice that he does not want it; nor should the party be put in the very awkward predicament that would follow his refusal to accept. No burst of unseasoning enthusiasm should lead the convention into the error of forcing a nomination upon Mr. Blaine.

In the forty-eight hours ending at noon last Monday ten thousand immigrants were landed at castle garden, New York. From the threatened wars and grinding poverty of Europe these swarms of people are flocking to to the United States. But as multitudes of them must at once compete with American citizens for employment, and as the inevitable result of such competition will be to reduce wages and diminish the comforts of our citizens, surely it would be wise to check this vast influx of strangers. There can be very little doubt that a large proportion of these multitudes of foreigners are very poor and helpless, and many of them are likely to be burdens upon the country from the day they land.

Hon. William Woodburn, Congressman from Nevada, positively declines to be a candidate for re-election.

The condition of the German Emperor is improving.

Many Children of Many Minds.

Six months in the school room will prove to any one that there are many children of many minds. There was a lad in my school last year who was painfully stupid in all his studies, but he had a lively imagination, and in a story writing contest he led the school. Then there was a girl about the size of a silver dollar who could reason out any problem in mathematics, and that was about all she could do with the school room studies. I had an Irish-American boy in the room who was remarkable for the memory he possessed. He could frequently recite, without his book, the entire reading lesson, and he could express himself very clearly and rapidly. Then there was another boy scarcely larger than he who was a prodigy in geography. He could remember the exact location of all cities, rivers, capes, bays, inlets, mountains and valleys. He could not learn to read, however. Two years ago I taught a boy 11 years old who could draw on slate, paper or board fine pictures of any pupil in the school and of any scenery visible from the school room windows. That is all he could do, for he never averaged more than 15 per cent. in his other studies. The most remarkable boy in that school was a self-confident chap who could beat any boy I ever saw imposing misinformation on those he met. I never saw him studying, and yet he made as good appearance in the class as other pupils, because he could appear to know what he did not know.—John Lowe in Globe-Democrat.

Good Rules for Winter.

Never lean with the back upon anything that is cold.

Never begin a journey until the breakfast has been eaten.

Never take warm drinks and then immediately go out into the cold.

Keep the back, especially between the shoulder blades, well covered; also, the chest well protected. In sleeping in a cold room establish a habit of breathing through the nose, and never with the mouth open.

Never go to bed with cold or damp feet.

Never omit regular bathing, for unless the skin is in active condition, the cold will close the pores and favor congestion and other diseases.

After exercise of any kind, never ride in an open carriage or near the window of a car for a moment; it is dangerous to health or even life.

When hoarse, speak as little as possible until the hoarseness is recovered from, else the voice may be permanently lost, or difficulties of the throat be produced.

Merely warm the back by the fire, and never continue keeping the back exposed to heat after it has become comfortably warm. To do otherwise is debilitating.

When going from a warm atmosphere into a cooler one, keep the mouth closed so that the air may be warmed in its passage through the nose ere it reaches the lungs.

Never stand still in cold weather, especially after having taken a slight degree of exercise, and always avoid standing on ice or snow, or where the person is exposed to cold wind.—Sanitarium.

MISCELLANEOUS.

EXECUTOR'S SALE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, THAT IN pursuance of an order of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, made on the 19th day of April, 1888, in the matter of the estate of Duncan Campbell, deceased, the undersigned, executers of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, gold coin of the United States, on Thursday, the 10th day of May, 1888, at the late residence of the said deceased, at Big Pine, in said county, the following personal property, to wit: Ten head of horses, more or less, being all the horses belonging to said estate. NATHAN RHINE, S. G. GREGG,

Executors of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased.

Dated April 19, 1888.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1246.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL. April 27, 1888.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on June 4, 1888, viz.: Michael Bush, for the S W ¼ of S E ¼, E ½ of S W ¼ & S E ¼ of N W ¼, Sec 24, Twp 11 S, R 34 E, M D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz.: Alonzo McKellops, Andrew J. Wren, James Lane and William R. Tibbetts, all of Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

o m14

TO ADVERTISERS

A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATE AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.

To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List. GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce Street, New York.

BISHOP CREEK

BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO., Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜

☞ Of the C. & C. Railroad. ☜

Send orders to MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO. Bishop Creek, Cal.

Who Spends Money

For advertising in newspapers in these hard times, without first obtaining an estimate of the cost from Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York, is likely to pay $10 for what might be obtained for $5. Such estimates are furnished to all applicants gratis. Send 10 cents for 176 page pamphlet with list of newspaper rates and references.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK

Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.

JOHN CLARKE, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold. Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 10 Spruce Street, New York City. For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS, Will be sent FREE, on application.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday ..... January 28th
" ..... February 25th
" ..... March 24th
" ..... April 21st
" ..... May 19th
" ..... June 23rd
" ..... July 21st
" ..... August 18th
" ..... September 15th
" ..... October 13th
" ..... November 17th
" ..... December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.

P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.

J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S

EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL.

Independence, Cal.

THOS. CROUGH. W. T. GRANT

GRANT & CROUGH. Real Estate & Mining Agency.

INDEPENDENCE - - - - CAL.

Searchers of Titles and Furnishers of Abstracts. After a business experience of twenty years in the county we are prepared to furnish all information of value to purchasers of real estate and mining properties. Report furnished and all correspondence rendered confidential. GRANT & CROUGH

J. W. P. LAIRD, Attorney for the Firm.

AGENTS WANTED for the MISSOURI STEAM Washer

Active, honest persons all over the country, with or without team.

JOHN C. EVANS, Stoutland, Mo., writes: "I stand up and affirm that a Washer saves more hard labor and money in a family than any Reaper and Mower that ever was put on any farm with less than 100 acres in cultivation. If you will get up any instrument that will take as much labor off from as this Washer takes off the women, and sell as much money as it does and cost no more, I could sell one at every house, if they had to take the feathers from under their wife and tables to pay for it."

JOHN R. DODGE, JR., jeweler, Normal, Ill., writes: "You ask what I think of the Washer I bought last summer. Let it be here enough for myself and family to say, I WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT IT if it cost $50 instead of $5. We have just as good dinners on Monday as on any other day. All. If one run short, you can not buy ours for love."

I will ship a sample to thos. looking an agency on a week's trial on liberal terms. A thousand per cent the best washer in the world for saving labor, clothes and soap. Pays capable agents big money. Write for particulars.

J. WORTH, 1710 Franklin Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO Extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDIS

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAI

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC

☞ Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

E. CHENOT

Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884. n476tf

THE GRAND SALOON,

LONE PINE, - CAL.,

RICHARDS & CASTRO

BILLIARD HALL AND PUBLIC RESORT. Offers to the public the finest quality of Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Friends and patrons generally are invited to call. n584m3*

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PROPOSALS FOR BOARDING INYO COUNTY PRISONERS.

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of Inyo county, at the office of the County Clerk until Tuesday, May 8, 1888, at 12 o'clock M., for the boarding of Inyo county prisoners, for the term of one year, beginning May 10th 1888 and ending May 10th, 1889, said bids to designate the price per diem for each prisoner, and said board to be paid for by warrants drawn upon the General Expense Fund, upon bills duly verified and presented at the regular meetings of said Board of Supervisors.

Proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for Boarding County Prisoners," and the same will be opened between the hours of one o'clock and four o'clock P. M. on said 8th day of May, 1888, and the Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. J. D. HARGER, Chairman.

Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk.

Proposals for Care of Indigent Sick of Inyo County.

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of Inyo county, at the office of the County Clerk until 12 o'clock M., on Tuesday, May 8th, 1888, to contract for the care of said indigent sick for the term of one year from May 10th 1888 to May 10th, 1889, said bids to designate the amount for which parties contracting will care for said indigent sick on the basis of an average of four patients per day throughout the year, and to include all medicine, nursing, board, lodging and washing. Said bids to include the burial and funeral expenses of any indigent sick person or persons who may die while under such care.

Said contractor to care for all the indigent sick properly admitted to the contractor's care. And said bids to designate the price per head at which all excess of patients over the average of four each day throughout the year will be cared for, said excess to be paid for by extra allowance on presentation of bills duly sworn to at the regular meeting of said Board immediately after said contract has expired. The average four per day to be paid for at the regular meetings of the Board on presentation of bills duly verified. All payments to be made by warrants drawn upon the Hospital Fund of said county.

The person or persons to whom said contract shall be awarded shall give a good and sufficient bond in double the sum of the contract price, for the faithful performance of said contract.

The care and management of said indigent sick by such contractor shall be at all times subject to the inspection of said Board of Supervisors, or any member thereof, or any person appointed by the Board for such purpose.

Said proposals must be endorsed, "Proposals for Care of Indigent Sick," and the same will be opened between the hours of one o'clock and four o'clock P. M., on the said 8th day of May, 1888, and the Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. J. D. HARGER, Chairman.

Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1292.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL. March 30, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on May 19th, 1888, viz.: Charles Smholland for the S ½ of N E ¼, N ½ of S E ¼, Sec 14, Tp 14 S, Range 35 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz.: John Scherbend, James E. Scherbend, John Kispert and James B. Moffet, all of Independence, Inyo County, California.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Estate of B. S. GLOVER, deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY the undersigned, Executor of the estate of B. S. Glover, deceased, to the Creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said Executor at his store on the southeast corner of Main and Line streets, in the town of Bishop Creek, in said County, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate. W. O. MERONEY, Executor of the estate of B. S. Glover, deceased.

Dated at Bishop Creek, March 7, 1888.

TAKE SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. L. M. HINTON, M. D., Washington, Ark.

SEE THAT YOU GET THE GENUINE.

PREPARED BY J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. ☞ 256 pages, 8½ x 11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully, MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. 227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,

Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor. feb12 f

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,

SHINGLES,

SASH AND BLINDS,

LATH,

RUSTIC

MOULDINGS,

DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sept 11 tf

Working Classes A Fortune!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 per evening and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer: To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine

Independence Hotel.

Independence . . . Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL

DINING ROOM,

APARTMENTS,

—AND—

—THE BAR—

Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Jy 1 86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,

C. MULHOLLAND.

Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,

Physician & Surgeon,

(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.

☞ NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED. ☜

Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,

COUNTY CLERK,

—AND—

Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,

INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.

W. E. LINDSEY,

—Dealer in—

Gravestones Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.

—Agent for—

PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.

Virginia Street, Below Second,

Reno, Nevada.

oct 23 tf

AL. GRIFFITH.

HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTING. GRAINING AND PAPER HANGING.

FINE CARRIAGE PAINTING

FIRST CLASS WORK.

AL. GRIFFITH, Independence

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | | From Mound House. No. 1. | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|---|
| | | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Mound House | | 9 15 a m | 5 30 p m |
| Layton | | 9 55 a m | 4 55 p m |
| Wabuska | | 10 45 a m | 2 25 p m |
| Hawthorne | | 4 00 p m | 10 40 a m |
| Lucine | | 4 50 p m | 9 20 a m |
| Sodaville | | 7 0 p m | 8 0 a m |
| Belleville | | 8 10 p m | 7 0 a m |
| Candelaria | Ar | 8 00 p m | Lv 6 00 a m |
| | | No 3 | No 4 |
| | | Leave— | Arrive— |
| Belleville | | 7 00 a m | 5 25 p m |
| Benton | | 1 00 a m | 1 55 p m |
| Bishop Creek | | 1 10 p m | 11 00 a m |
| Alvord | | 2 00 p m | 10 15 a m |
| Independence | | 2 30 p m | 9 05 a m |
| Lone Pine | | 4 15 p m | 8 15 a m |
| Keeler | Ar | 5 45 p m | Lv 7 00 a m |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V & T R R, which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

At HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

At LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Dunderville, Grantsville and Belmont.

At CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's stages for Columbia (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON, General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A. BENDER, General Freight and Passenger Agent.

ESTABLISHED 1846 MUNN & CO. PATENTS NEW YORK

After Forty years' experience in the preparation of more than One Hundred Thousand applications for patents in the United States and Foreign countries, the publishers of the Scientific American continue to act as solicitors for patents, caveats, trade-marks, copyrights, etc., for the United States, and to obtain patents in Canada, England, France, Germany, and all other countries. Their experience is unequaled and their facilities are unsurpassed.

Drawings and specifications prepared and filed in the Patent Office on short notice. Terms very reasonable. No charge for examination of models or drawings. Advice by mail free.

Patents obtained through Munn & Co. are noticed in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has the largest circulation and is the most influential newspaper of its kind published in the world. The advantages of such a notice every patentee understands.

This large and splendidly illustrated newspaper is published WEEKLY at $3.00 a year, and is admitted to be the best paper devoted to science, mechanics, inventions, engineering works, and other departments of industrial progress, published in any country. It contains the names of all patentees and title of every invention patented each week. Try it four months for one dollar. Sold by all newsdealers.

If you have an invention to patent write to Munn & Co., publishers of Scientific American, 361 Broadway, New York.

Handbook about patents mailed free.

Wheeler & Wilson

Sewing Machine.

New No. 8.

"THE BEST!"

Sales Made on Installment Plan.

Old Machines Exchanged for.

Farm Produce Taken in Payment.

This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really

First-Class Machine.

Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.

I. H. MULHOLLAND, Agent.

Independence, Cal.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE. Camp Independence.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,

(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)

Merchant,

INDEPENDENCE

INYO CO., CAL.

Wholesale and Retail

....DEALER IN....

General Merchandise.

MY STOCK

Consisting of most everything in article is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as in the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.

n282

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE

BANKER,

Independence, Cal

SELL EXCHANGE

—ON—

SAN FRANCISCO,

DRAW DIRECT

—ON—

NEW YORK,

LONDON, England

BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT kinds

GENERAL BANKING

—AND—

Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.

Deutsche Vollmachten geleistigt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt

AGENT FOR

Wells Fargo & Co's Express

MUTUAL Life Insurance Co. OF NEW YORK.

Capital - - - $55,000,000

LIVERPOOL And LONDON and GLOBE Insurance Company

Capital - - - $10,000,000

NATHAN RHINE

BLACKSMITHING,

Horseshoeing, General Iron

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP

C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR

Horseshoeing.....$2.50 for Cash.

For particulars, call and see W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, MAY 5 ..... ....1888

DIED.

COVINGTON—At Lone Pine, April 30, 1888, William J. Covington, a native of North Carolina, aged 52 years.

Walter Ober and Ad. Smith were in town a few days this week.

The Board of Supervisors of Inyo county will meet next Monday.

A beautiful stock of lawns and other goods for ladies at the store of L. Wood.

Mr. Trenmore Coffin leaves town this morning for his home at Carson.

Mairs' new butcher shop is enclosed and the work of finishing is going ahead rapidly.

Mr. A. Smith, of Alvord, has bought the Springstead place of business at Bishop Creek.

Wallace Miller came up from Cerro Gordo during the week, taking in the pic-nic on his way.

Mr. J. W. Murphy is now ready for business in his blacksmith shop next door to Mairs' livery stable.

The school at Laws closed for the term last week. Miss Voris, the teacher, is visiting with friends at Independence.

C. A. Schuman and W. O. Parker have been chosen delegates from Mono county to the Democratic State Convention.

The ground floor of Gann's new building is laid. The structure is twenty-four feet front and fifty-two feet in length.

Mr. F. Schabbell is making quite an addition to his house and other improvements on his property at Camp Independence.

Mr. J. J. Gunn starts this morning for San Francisco. He goes to buy furniture and goods for his new place of business.

A mill is about to be built to crush ore from the Hayward mine, at Silver City, Nevada. The Virginia City water Company will furnish water.

A bee paid a poet's compliment to a young lady at George's Creek a few days ago. The bee evidently mistook the lady's lip for a rose bud.

Webb Walker came up from Keeler last Saturday and spent a few days in town. Webb's jolly face is always as pleasant as a harvest moon.

The Republican State Convention met at Sacramento last Tuesday. None of the delegates appointed from Inyo county attended; all sent proxies.

A few days ago Hickey Hood got pitched from a scraper while at work on the East Side canal. He now hobbles around as if he had two wooden legs.

The Virginia Enterprise says all the smallpox patients there have recovered. At this time the disease has disappeared from the town, so far as known.

The Great Western mine, Paterson District, Mono county, has been sold to an Eastern company. It is expected that work on the mine will be begun soon.

A new marble malt floor has been completed in the Pioneer Brewery in town. A new drying floor has also been completed and several other valuable improvements added.

A few days ago W. T. C. Elliott telegraphed to R. S. Miner, asking him to act as counsel for the defense of Elliott for killing John White. Mr. Miner replied that he would.

To the surprise of everybody, the condition of Emperor Frederick appears to be much improved. The whole civilized world would be glad if he should completely recover his health.

The Chronicle-Union says the probability is that the vote of Mono county next November will not exceed that cast before Bodie "came out." Voters are daily leaving for pastures new.

The death of Mrs. D. O. Mills recently will prevent Mr. Mills from making his intended trip to California. This may have some effect to retard the extension of the C. & C. road.

Mrs. A. K. Eagley and George Hall, of Big Pine, passed through town yesterday on their way home from Tulare county. They had a pleasant trip and were glad to be home again.

The school at Independence will close for the term on next Friday. Miss Barnes, the teacher, has prepared a closing entertainment to be given on Friday afternoon and all are invited to be present.

Real estate at Independence is being assessed about thirty per cent. higher than the valuation of last year. We have not heard if the same rate of increase of valuation is general over the county.

Rev J. H. De La Matyr writes from Reno that he expects to be at Independence and hold service in the M. E. Church on Sunday May 13th; a week from tomorrow. Mr. De La Matyr intends to stay here for some time.

Pat. Clinton arrived in town from Darwin last Wednesday. He will stay a few days yet, but not near so long as his friends here would have him. Pat has been quite successful during the past winter in mining operations at Lookout.

The Bridgeport Chronicle-Union says it is useless for the cattlemen of Inyo county to "buck" against the Mono county license tax on cattle. The license ordinance is there to stay and outsiders will have to stay away or grin and bear it.

Lumber is being laid down at Independence Station for the first new building there, other than the railroad depot and other buildings. The new town is no longer "the Station," but "Citrus;" Agent Fields is Post Master.

The school pic-nic at the Fort to-day is certain to be a very pleasant affair. Every body should attend and help Mr. Crough and his pupils to make it as interesting and pleasant as possible. It is a short drive from town and a nice place when you get there.

The Democratic County Central Committee met at Independence last Saturday. Mr. P. W. Forbes and Mr. A. W. Eibeshutz were elected delegates to the State Convention at Los Angeles. The meeting then adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

Worse Than Horse Racing

There is a distinction between 'outsiders' betting on a horse race and 'outsiders' betting on a foot race; the former is folly, the latter is idiocy. Last Sunday a foot race was run at Reno that marks the difference. The race was between Pete Musgrove of Carson and James Murphy of Silver City. The Enterprise says that the distance run was sixty yards, and to the suprise and rage of many the race was won by Musgrove. It then leaked out that the man called Murphy was Bethune, a champion foot racer from California. Those in the secret backed him for all the coin they could command, and they declared that he had given the race to Musgrove; that a job had been put up. When the two men started, at the pop of a pistol, Musgrove made a lunge and at once got a start of several feet, which he was allowed to keep till near the end of the race, when Bethune made two or three bounds that were astonishers. These leaps placed him almost side by side with Musgrove at the outcome. It was seen that had he done such work at the start Musgrove would have been nowhere. All agreed that a big job had been put up and was well played. The Carsonites boast that they won $5,000. If so they must have been the fellows who put up the job to milk the Comstock—to spoil the Philistines. Some few Comstockers may have won small sums, but it would seem that all the big bets went the other way. After the race was over and "the cat was out of the bag" things waxed warm—so warm that it is said that Bethune slipped away and struck out for California. He wanted the backbone of the Sierras between him and those who "got left." Superintendent Hamilton, of the Haywood mine, and Captain Jack Bradley had a fuss about the race. Hamilton lost fifty dollars to Bradley; angry words were spoken, Hamilton knocked Bradley down and was arrested.

Lone Pine Letter.

LONE PINE, May 31, 1888.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT.—I take the liberty of sending you the enclosed for publication.

Superintendent F. Meysan and Expert S. Reynolds Jr. are prospecting a find in the White Hill country.

It is said to be a fact that the reason why Manuel lost the foot race was because he took too much walking exercise with too short turns—across the street and back.

"Coming events cast their shadows before." Our "brawny smith" is making improvements on his cottage and grounds and will have one of the coziest places in the town.

The prospects for a large fruit crop were never better. Strawberries and cream will soon be the order of the day.

As soon as a reply can be had from San Francisco it is expected that active part will be taken in the artesian well boring matter; that there has been no project ever planned that will do so much for this vicinity, and indeed for the whole valley. That the trial can be successfully made there can be no question.

Several Keelerites were at the pic-nic and ball on Tuesday. All expressed themselves as having enjoyed the affair immensely.

Bob. Carrasco has the boss Punch and Judy; well, perhaps not Judy, but he has Punch, and he can shake the clogs on a board with anybody's Punch.

Mr. Ed. Walker and his sister, Miss Teresa Walker, were in town a few days this week. Ed. will get up with the boys occasionally.

Rumor says that one of the Independence dudes experienced a cold day. Who was it?

"Brevity is the soul of wit"—also of newspaper correspondence. Believing this to be a fact I'll "let go."

JOHN DOE Esq.

Candelaria Mining Items.

Billy Dunlap has been sinking on the General Grant, and his prospects are encouraging.

George Coster and J. Wilson have taken a lease of the Bismark mine and are extracting good ore.

Frank Stewart is taking ore out of the O. K. mine that is estimated will work $100 per ton. He will soon make a shipment.

T. Corlett and R. Creer had a crushing of ore at the Georgene mill last week. It worked first rate. W. Kent also had about twenty tons of high grade ore worked at the mill.

B. Worley, who has been at work on a prospect in the district, is taking out a quantity of ore. He lately had a batch of eight tons worked at the Georgene and the returns were very satisfactory.—Esmeralda News.

Funera of John B. White.

The funeral of the late John B. White was one of the largest ever seen in the county. People from Round valley and Olancha, who live one hundred miles from each other, attended. The procession left the residence of A. N. Bell soon after one o'clock Saturday afternoon, and those on the lead had nearly reached the cemetry when the rear carriage left the house. The Independence brass band lead the procession and played music suitable to the occasion. The members of Masonic Lodge No. 221, conducted the funeral, and the remains were placed in the grave with the simple and beautiful ceremonies of the order. The pall bearers were John C. Irwin and C. Mulholland; W. L. Hunter and David Olds; P. W. Forbes and A. W. Eibeshutz. At the grave the grief of the orphan boy of the deceased and of other relatives attested their tender and abiding love for him. The scene was very distressing.

Meteorological Summary for April, 1888, Keeler, Cal.

| | |
|---|---|
| Mean reduced barometer | 29.916 inches. |
| Mean temperature | 63° |
| Highest temperature | 86° |
| Lowest temperature | 39° |
| Monthly range of temperature | 47° |
| Mean relative humidity 32 per cent. | |
| Mean dew point, 32 per cent. | |
| Prevailing direction of wind, S. | |
| Maximum velocity of wind, direction and date, 42 miles N. W. 16th. | |
| Precipitation | 0.12 |
| Number of clear days | 15 |
| Number of fair days | 15 |
| Number of cloudy days | 0 |
| Number of rainy days | 0 |

D. C. GRUNOW,
Private Signal Service Corps.

Held For Trial.

The case of S. A. Middleton, charged with committing an assault upon John Blair at Bishop Creek, was called for examination before C. Mulholland last Tuesday. After much testimony was taken the Court decided that the defendent be held for trial in the Superior Court. The defendant was admitted to bail. Counsel for defendant, W. P. George Esq. applied for a writ of habeas corpus. The application was heard on Wednesday by Judge Hannah, and was denied on the ground that no sufficient cause had been shown why it should be granted.

Important Bill.

The Senate has passed a bill of great importance to miners; it was introdnced by Senator Stewart of Nevada. After prescribing the method of locating mining claims, the bill provides an amendment to Section 2325 of the Revised Statutes that no more than 3000 feet in length along a vein of claims located prior to May 10, 1872, and not more than one claim located after said date shall be included in the same application for a patent, and not more than 160 acres of placer ground shall be included in an application for a patent. It is provided as a condition of sale that each patent shall reserve the right of way through and over any mining claim for roads, ditches, canals, cuts and tunnels for the purpose of working other mines, provided that any damages occasioned thereby shall be assessed and paid in the manner provided by the laws of the State or Territory in which such mine is situated for assessment and payment for land taken up for public uses under the right of eminent domain. The rights reserved under the provisions of this section in patents heretofore issued shall be regulated and made available as herein prescribed. It is also provided in the bill that upon claims already located previous to March 1st in any year the annual work shall be performed on such claim prior to noon of August 1st, instead of January 2, as is now the law.

Appreciated

The following is a copy of a letter received a few days ago:

EDITOR INDEPENDENT:—Please find enclosed five cents, and please send me all the news you can about Inyo county and Death Valley, and oblige,

Yours respectfully,

———.

It is very gratifying indeed to find even one man who thinks the time and labor of an editor worth five cents. There are many who think the time and labor of an editor not worth anything.

Mr. A. R. Conklin left town this morning for San Francisco to attend the meeting of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows as delegate from the Lodge at Independence. He will be gone about three weeks.

The I. B. B. boys were highly gratified with the warm reception and kind hospitality tendered them by the Lone Piners at the pic-nic on Tuesday. They wish to return thanks for the generous patronage of their ball.

There can be no mistake about the fact that the old soldiers regard the war of the rebellion as over. Gen. Joseph E. Johnston joined a Post of the Grand Army of the Republic at Philadelphia last Saturday. When his name was proposed to the Post for membership every member present—and there were about 200—voted "aye," heartily.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fehrman left here last Tuesday morning for Holstein, Germany. The kindest wishes of very many friends go with them, and they leave not an illwisher behind them. During the absence of Mr. Fehrman Mr. Rhine will act as his agent in all business matters. See notice to that effect in another column.

Last Saturday W. T. C. Elliott was brought before C. Mulholland, Justice of the Peace, charged with the murder of John B. White. The examination was set for next Monday, May 7th, 1888, at 10 o'clock a. m. at the Court House at Independence. A. R. Conklin and J. W. P. Laird have been retained as counsel to assist the District Attorney in the prosecution.

The May-day party at Lone Pine was as pleasant and successful as could be wished. During the day a pic-nic was held in Begole's grove. At night there was a ball, attended by very many who had not been able to go to the pic-nic. The band from Independence attended and furnished music during the day and at the ball. A numerous deputation of citizens from Independence attended.

The Lone Piners are not a bit cast down over the defeat of their champion at Bishop Creek and are reported to willing to back their faith in Diaz to the extent of five hundred dollars at Independence on the Fourth of July. Ober's friends are equally sure of winning in view of the fact that out of three races Ober has been twice successful. A very interesting race may be expected.

Extensive improvements are making at the Lake view House at Keeler. A large addition is now under construction for a bar and billiard room. A separate building is also being put up for a Post office. When these are finished the present bar room and office will be added to the dining room of the hotel. These increased accommodations are much needed. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes have made the Lake view house a favorite and the business is steadily increasing.

From the west side of the mountains reports come that the grain crop will be very light. In parts of the San Joaquin Valley the crop is said to be a total failure. A few days ago the San Francisco Bulletin telegraphed to Independence for a report of the grain crop of Owens Valley. It afforded great pleasure to be able to answer that the crop never looked better than at present, though the average acreage planted may not be up to other years. Our farmers find more profit in alfalfa than in grain, and for that reason are sowing less ground than formerly.

Mr. McIver is making good headway with the East Side canal. Where he is now at work there is a piece of cutting about seven feet deep. This is at the head of the canal and near the river bank. This cut will be finished in a few days; then between seven and eight miles of the canal will be finished. One stretch of about two miles in length; and two and a half miles from the head of the canal to the upper end of the stretch, was quite difficult and took much time to make; the ground being somewhat rocky. This is now completed and the rest of the work will be in easy ground; can be rapidly done and the cost will be light.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

INDEPENDENCE, April 30, 1888.

During my absence from this County and State Mr. Nathan Rhine is authorized to act as my agent. HENRY FEHRMAN

Boot & Shoe Shop,

A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.

Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

SPRING STOCK

-IN ENDLESS VARIETY-

Just Received

--AT--

NATHAN RHINE'S

Call And Examine.

SAMPLES ON APPLICATION

PIONEER BREWERY.

INDEPENDENCE

PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.

COUNTY SURVEYOR

—AND—

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.

—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Notice Of Change Of Text Books.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY THE Board of Education of Inyo county, California, that said Board proposes to change the following text books now in use in the public schools of said county, to wit: Theory and Practice of Teaching, Music, Entomology, Book-keeping, Composition, Penmanship, Industrial Drawing, English and American Literature, Physics, Algebra and Natural History. And that sealed bids, or proposals, will be received by said Board for furnishing books to replace those mentioned above, or any part thereof. Said bids, or proposals, must be accompanied by sample copies of the books proposed to be furnished, together with a statement of the wholesale and retail price at which the publisher agrees to furnish each book, within the county, during the full time for which said books are to be adopted. The publisher or publishers whose proposals shall be accepted must enter into a written contract with said Board, and shall give a good and sufficient bond in a reasonable amount, with sureties, for the faithful performance thereof. Said bids or proposals will be opened by the Board at Independence, Inyo county, Cal., at ten o'clock a. m., on Tuesday, the 19th day of June 1888. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Board of Education of Inyo county.

Attest: J. H. SHANNON,
[SEAL.] Secretary.
Dated April 13, 1888. Bishop Creek, Cal.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Boggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.

Livery Accommodations

O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

NORMAN HOUSE,

Independence, - - Cal.

New House,
New Furniture,
Low Rates.

Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. I. MAIRS, Prop.

feb12tf

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,

Sheriff and Tax Collector,

INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,

District Attorney,

INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,

County Treasurer,

INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,

Attorney-at-Law.

Independence, Cal.

Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

THIS PAPER IS ON FILE

—AT—

PALMER & REY'S

ADVERTISING BUREAU!

405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco.

—AND AT—

PALMER & REY'S

Pacific States Advertising Bureau

46 Tribune Building,
NEW YORK.

Where Advertising Contracts can be made.

INDEPENDENCE

SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR SALE.

813 acres of land within one mile of railroad. As fine land for fruit, vineyard, vegetables or alfalfa as there is in the State. All with perfect water right. Will cut up to suit purchasers.

520 acres two miles from railroad. 80 or 90 inches of water. A fine locality. Good stock range. 160 acres fine barley land.

A fine dairy ranch, consisting of 480 acres suitably located for market, with 150 head of cattle 45 of them No 1 dairy cows. Perfect titles to land and water. Improvements on all. Apply to

Grant & Crough,
Independence, Cal.

Richly REWARDED are those who read this and then act; they will find honorable employment that will not take them from their homes and families. The profits are large and sure for an industrious person; many have made and are now making several hundred dollars a month. It is easy for anyone to make $5 and upwards per day, who is willing to work. Either sex, young or old; capital not needed; we start you. Everything new; no special ability required; you reader, can do it as well as any one. Write to us at once for full particulars, which we mail free. Address Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

115 CLAY STREET, 117

SMITH'S STORE IS

The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.

CASH.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

INDEPENDENCE MARKET,

J. Roeper, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18-tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, in tolid. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read; Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. BEWARE OF IMITATIONS AND SEND WITH ORDER.

TUTT'S PILLS

25 YEARS IN USE.

The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age.

SYMPTOMS OF A TORPID LIVER.

Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine, and

CONSTIPATION.

TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer. They increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 44 Murray St., N.Y.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.

GRAY HAIR OR WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.

Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

FRED BURCKHARDT

Watchmaker & Jeweler,

LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

Bishop Creek, Cal.

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

...NDISE.

The Newest Styles

OF

Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc

AT

L. WOOD'S

CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries as canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH STORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:

HAWTHORNE NEV.

BRANCHES:

Wabuska, Nev.,
CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.

AGENCIES:

WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

au25tf

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer in

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,
GROCERIES
MINERS' Supplies

PROVISIONS,

&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

FREE TRIAL PACKAGE. FOR MEN ONLY

PROF. HARRIS' Pastille

A RADICAL CURE FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY, Organic Weakness, & PHYSICAL DECAY, In Young & Middle Aged Men.

NERVOUS DEBILITY, ORGANIC WEAKNESS, Decay, and numerous obscure diseases, baffling the skilled physicians, result from youthful indiscretion, too free indulgence, or over brain work. Avoid the imposition of pretentious remedies for these troubles. Get our Free Circular and Trial Package, and learn important facts before taking treatment elsewhere. Take a SURE REMEDY that HAS CURED thousands, does not interfere with attention to business, or cause pain or inconvenience in any way. Founded on scientific medical principles. By direct application to the seat of disease its specific influence is felt without delay. The natural functions of the human organism is restored. The animating element of life, which have been wasted are given back, and the patient becomes cheerful and rapidly gains both strength and actual vigor.

TESTED FOR SEVEN YEARS BY USE IN MANY THOUSAND CASES.

TREATMENT.
One Month, - $3.00
Two Months, - 5.00
Three Months, 7.00

HARRIS REMEDY CO., Sole Agents,
306½ N. Tenth St., ST. LOUIS, MO.

UPTURED PERSONS! Not a Truss. Ask for terms of our Appliances.

EGIVE FREE TRIAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.

Bee Keeper.

Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.

Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

"NASAL VOICES, CATARRH AND FALSE TEETH."

A prominent English woman says the American women all have high, shrill, nasal voices and false teeth.

Americans don't like the constant twitting they get about this nasal twang, and yet it is a fact caused by our dry, stimulating atmosphere, and the universal presence of catarrhal difficulties.

But why should so many of our women have false teeth?

That is more of a poser to the English. It is quite impossible to account for it except on the theory of deranged stomach action caused by imprudence in eating and by want of regular exercise.

Both conditions are unnatural.

Catarrhal troubles everywhere prevail and end in cough and consumption, which are promoted by mal-nutrition induced by deranged stomach action. The condition is a modern one, one unknown to our ancestors who prevented the catarrh, cold, cough and consumption by abundant and regular use of what is now known as Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption Remedy and Log Cabin Sarsaparilla, two old-fashioned standard remedies handed down from our ancestors, and now exclusively put forth under the strongest guarantees of purity and efficacy by the world-famed makers of Warner's safe cure. These two remedies plentifully used as the spring and summer seasons advance give a positive assurance of freedom, both from catarrh and those dreadful and if neglected, inevitable consequences, pneumonia, lung troubles and consumption, which so generally and fatally prevail among our people.

Comrade Eli Fisher, of Salem, Henry Co., Iowa, served four years in the late war and contracted a disease called consumption by the doctors. He had frequent hemorrhages. After using Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption remedy, he says, under date of Jan. 19th, 1888: "I do not bleed at the lungs any more, my cough does not bother me, and I do not have any more smothering spells." Warner's Log Cabin Rose Cream cured his wife of catarrh and she is "sound and well."

Of course we do not like to have our women called nose-talkers and false-teeth owners, but these conditions can be readily overcome in the manner indicated.

There is a probability that the Panoche coal mines will be developed at once. It is pronounced equal to Wellington, but is eighteen miles from the railroad, in Fresno county. Eighteen miles of road is not much for the Santa Fe people to build, with coal at $20 a ton in San Francisco.

Fortunate Ticket Holders.

Some three or four months ago a party working in the lumber camp of Wm. Coach, on the Sturgeon river, clubbed together and ordered 31 tenth tickets in the Louisiana State Lottery. The money was sent by express and not with the order. When the order arrived at New Orleans, the money not being found, it was laid aside and afterwards lost. When the money arrived it was charged on the books, but the order having been forgotten, no tickets were sent. Early in February Mr. Coach, while in New Orleans, took the opportunity to inquire after the missing money, and the matter was promptly explained by the company and the money offered him. This Mr. Coach declined to accept, but took tickets instead, among them being a tenth of ticket No. 71,575. As is now well known here, this ticket drew the first capital prize of $150,000, giving to the fortunate possessors of this tenth the handsome sum of $15,000 to be divide among them.

Mr. Coach, to whose foresight they are indebted for their good fortune, has taken charge of the matter, and it will be divided among them in proportion to the amount invested.

There were sixteen in the club, the tickets being sent to Geo. J. Johnson, of Baraga, one of the number. Three of the holders were of one family, being John Bodwein, his wife and child. Mr. Bodwein thus secures a good share of the prize. Mr. Coach negotiated the purchase of a house for him this week in Baraga, and he has commenced the erection of another house upon the lots. The money is going to do good in each case.—L'Anse (Mich.) Sentinel March 3.

WORDS OF PRAISE.

No better word of praise or confidence can be given to the PACIFIC BANK, of San Francisco, than the statement that its record is without a blot, and stands as clean as "Truth" itself. No runs have ever been made upon it, no panic has ever impaired its credit.

—The average watch is composed of 175 different pieces, comprising upwards of 2,400 separate and distinct operations in its manufacture. The balance has 18,000 beats or vibrations per hour, 12,960,080 in thirty days, 157,680,000 in one year; it travels one and 43-100 inches with each vibration, which is equal to 9¼ miles in twenty-four hours, 292½ miles in thirty days, or 3,558¾ miles in one year.

—"I have a girl," says a Jerseyman, "that's so modest that she wouldn't even learn improper fractions in school."—Buffalo Commercial Advertiser.

—He—"My income is small, and perhaps it is cruel of me to take you from your father's roof? She—"I don't live on the roof."—Punch's Almanac.

A LUCKY TRIAL.

The good Fortune which followed fair treatment.

San Francisco, February 29, 1888.

DEAR SIR: It affords me great pleasure to send you this voluntary statement of my experience in testing the merits of Joy's Sarsaparilla. For the past five years I have been troubled with an exceedingly sluggish liver, and within the past two years it has brought within its trail a thoroughly disordered stomach, including loss of appetite and distress after eating, pains in the back and kidneys, and boils around my neck and face. I have tried several remedies which are advertised as specially for the liver, and could never get more than temporary relief of about a week or two. I was recommended to try a bottle of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla as a test, and while taking the first bottle I became convinced of its merits for I could feel it was working a change in me. I have taken five bottles, and during that time my troubles have left me. Everything is working full and regular, in fact it has cleansed, purified and braced me up generally. I feel like a new man. You are at perfect liberty to use this as you see fit, or you can refer whom you please to

Chas. Lee

With Beamish, corner Third and Market streets, San Francisco.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

CHAPTER III.

THE MISSION STATION.

We made the remains of our rope fast to the other canoe, and sat waiting for the dawn and congratulating ourselves upon our merciful escape, which really seemed to result more from the special favor of Providence than from our own care or prowess. At last it came, and I have not often been more grateful to see the light, though, so far as my canoe was concerned, it revealed a ghastly sight. There in the bottom of the little boat lay the unfortunate Askari, the sime, or sword, in his bosom, and the severed hand griping the handle. I could not bear the sight, so hauling up the stone which had served as an anchor to the other canoe, we made it fast to the murdered man and dropped him overboard, and down he went to the bottom, leaving nothing but a train of bubbles behind him. Alas! when our time comes, most of us, like him, leave nothing but bubbles behind, to show that we have been, and the bubbles soon burst. The hand of his murderer we threw into the stream, where it sank. The sword, of which the handle was ivory, inlaid with gold (evidently Arab work), I kept and used as a hunting knife, and very useful it proved.

The Mission Station.

Then, a man having been transferred to my canoe, we once more went on about 11 o'clock. Just as we were thinking of halting, as usual, to rest, and try to shoot something to eat, a sudden bend in the river brought us in sight of a substantial looking European house, with a veranda round it, splendidly situated upon a hill, and surrounded by a high stone wall with a ditch on the outer side. Right against and overshadowing the house was an enormous pine, the top of which we had seen through a glass for the last two days, but of course without knowing that it marked the site of the mission station. I was the first to see the house, and could not restrain myself from giving a hearty cheer, in which the others, including the natives, joined lustily. There was no thought of halting now. On we labored, for, unfortunately, though the house seemed quite near, it was still a long way off by river, until at last, by 1 o'clock, we found ourselves at the bottom of the slope on which the building stood. Running the canoes to the bank, we disembarked, and were just hauling them up on to the shore when we perceived three figures, dressed in ordinary English looking clothes, hurrying down through a grove of trees to meet us.

"A gentleman, a lady, and a little girl!" ejaculated Good, after surveying the trio through his eye glass, "walking in a civilized fashion, through a civilized garden, to meet us in this place. Hang me if this isn't the most curious thing we have seen yet."

Good was right; it certainly did seem odd and out of place—more like a scene out of a dream or an Italian opera than a real tangible fact; and the sense of unreality was not lessened when we heard ourselves addressed in good broad Scotch, which, however, I cannot reproduce.

"How do you do, sirs?" said Mr. Mackenzie, a gray haired angular man with a kindly face and red cheeks; "I hope I see you very well. My natives told me an hour ago they spied two canoes with white men in them coming up the river; so we have just come down to meet you."

"And it is very glad that we are to see a white face again, let me tell you," put in the lady—a charming and refined looking person.

We took off our hats in acknowledgment, and proceeded to introduce ourselves.

"And now," said Mr. Mackenzie, "you must all be hungry and weary; so come on, gentlemen, come on, and right glad we are to see you. The last white that visited us was Alphonse—you will see Alphonse presently—and that was a year ago."

Meanwhile we had been walking up the slope of the hill, the lower portion of which was fenced off, sometimes with quince fences and sometimes with rough stone walls, into Kaffir gardens, just now full of crops of mealies, pumpkins, potatoes, etc. In the corners of these gardens were groups of neat mushroom shaped huts, occupied by Mr. Mackenzie's mission natives, whose women and children came pouring out to meet us as we walked. Through the center of the gardens ran the roadway up which we were walking. It was bordered on each side by a line of orange trees, which, although they had only been planted ten years, had in the lovely climate of the uplands below Mt. Kenia, the base of which is about 5,000 feet above the coast line level, already grown to imposing proportions, and were positively laden with golden fruit. After a stiffish climb of a quarter of a mile or so—for the hillside was steep—we came to a splendid quince fence, also covered with fruit, which inclosed, Mr. Mackenzie told us, a space of about four acres of ground that contained his private garden, house, church and outbuildings, and, indeed, the whole hill top. And what a garden it was! I have always loved a good garden, and I could have thrown up my hands for joy when I saw Mr. Mackenzie's. First there were rows upon rows of standard European fruit trees, all grafted; for on the top of this hill the climate was so temperate that very nearly all the English vegetables, trees and flowers flourished luxuriantly, even including several varieties of the apple, which, generally speaking, runs to wood in a warm climate and obstinately declines to fruit. Then there were strawberries and tomatoes (such tomatoes!) and melons and cucumbers, and indeed every sort of vegetable and fruit.

"Well, you have something like a garden!" I said, overpowered with admiration not untouched by envy.

"Yes," answered the missionary, "it is a very good garden, and has well repaid my labor; but it is the climate that I have to thank. If you stick a peach stone into the ground it will bear fruit the fourth year, and a rose cutting will bloom in a year. It is a lovely clime."

Just then we came to a ditch about ten feet wide and full of water, on the other side of which was a loopholed stone wall eight feet high, and with sharp flints plentifully set in mortar on the coping.

"There," said Mr. Mackenzie, pointing to the ditch and wall, "this is my magnum opus; at least, this and the church, which is the other side of the house. It took me and twenty natives two years to dig the ditch and build the wall, but I never felt safe till it was done; and now I can defy all the savages in Africa, for the spring that fills the ditch is inside the wall, and bubbles out at the top of the hill winter and summer alike, and I always keep a store of four months' provisions in the house."

Crossing over a plank and through a very narrow opening in the wall, we entered into what Mrs. Mackenzie called her domain—namely, the flower garden, the beauty of which it is really beyond my power to describe. I do not think I ever saw such roses, gardenias, or camellias (all reared from seeds or cuttings sent from England); and there was also a patch given up to a collection of bulbous roots, mostly collected by Miss Flossie, Mr. Mackenzie's little daughter, from the surrounding country, some of which were surpassingly beautiful. In the middle of this garden, and exactly opposite the veranda, a beautiful fountain of clear water bubbled up from the ground, and fell into a stone work basin which had been carefully built to receive it, whence the overflow found its way by means of a drain to the moat round the outer wall, this moat in its turn serving as a reservoir, whence an unfailing supply of water was available to irrigate all the gardens below. The house itself, a massively built single storied building, was roofed with slabs of stone, and had a handsome veranda in front. It was built on three sides of a square, the fourth side being taken up by the kitchens, which stood separate from the house—a very good plan in a hot country. In the center of this square thus formed was, perhaps, the most remarkable object that we had yet seen in this charming place, and that was a single tree of the conifer tribe, varieties of which grow freely on the highlands of this part of Africa. This splendid tree, which Mr. Mackenzie informed us was a landmark for fifty miles round, and which we had ourselves seen for the last forty miles of our journey, must have been some 200 feet in height, the trunk measuring about 16 feet in diameter at a yard from the ground. For some seventy feet it rose a beautiful tapering brown pillar without a single branch, but at that height splendid dark green boughs, which, looked at from below, had the appearance of gigantic fern leaves, sprang out horizontally from the trunk, projecting right over the house and flower garden, to both of which they furnished a grateful proportion of shade, without—being so high up—offering any impediment to the passage of light and air.

"What a beautiful tree!" exclaimed Sir Henry.

"Yes, you are right; it is a beautiful tree. There is not another like it in all the country round, that I know of," answered Mr. Mackenzie. "I call it my watch tower. As you see, I have a rope ladder fixed to the lowest bough, and if I want to see anything that is going on within fifteen miles or so, all I have to do is to run up it with a spyglass. But you must be hungry, and I am sure the dinner is cooked. Come in, my friends; it is but a rough place, but well enough for these savage parts; and I can tell you what we have got—a French cook!" And he led the way on to the veranda.

As I was following him, and wondering what on earth he could mean by this, there suddenly appeared through the door that opened on to the veranda from the house a dapper little man, dressed in a neat blue cotton suit, and shoes made of tanned hide, and remarkable for a bustling air and most enormous black mustaches, shaped into an upward curve, and coming to a point for all the world like a pair of buffalo horns.

"Madame bids me to say that dinner is served, Messieurs, my compliments;" then suddenly perceiving Umslopogaas, who was loitering along after us, and playing with his battleax, he threw up his hands in astonishment. "Ah, mais quel homme!" he ejaculated in French, "quel sauvage affreux! Take but note of his huge choppare and the great pit in his head."

"Ay," said Mr. Mackenzie, "what are you talking about, Alphonse?"

"Talking about!" replied the little Frenchman, his eyes still fixed upon Umslopogaas, whose general appearance seemed to fascinate him; "why, I talk of him"—and he rudely pointed—"of ce monsieur noir."

At this everybody began to laugh, and Umslopogaas, perceiving that he was the object of remark, frowned ferociously, for he had a most lordly dislike of anything like a personal liberty.

"Parbleu!" said Alphonse, "he is angere!—he makes the grimace. I like not his air. I vanish." And he did with considerable rapidity.

Mr. Mackenzie joined heartily in the shout of laughter which we indulged in. "He is a queer character—Alphonse," he said. "By and by I will tell you his history; in the mean while let us try his cooking."

"Might I ask," said Sir Henry, after we had eaten a most excellent dinner, "how you came to have a French cook in these wilds?"

"Oh," answered Mrs. Mackenzie, "he arrived here of his own accord about a year ago, and asked to be taken into our service. He had got into some trouble in France, and fled to Zanzibar, where he found an application had been made by the French government for his extradition. Whereupon he rushed off up country, and fell in, when nearly starved, with our caravan of men, who were bringing us our annual supply of goods, and was brought on here. You should get him to tell you the story."

When dinner was over we lit our pipes, and Sir Henry proceeded to give our host a description of our journey up here, over which he looked very grave.

"It is evident to me," he said, "that those rascally Masai are following you, and I am very thankful that you have reached this house in safety. I do not think that they will dare to attack you here. It is unfortunate, though, that nearly all my men have gone down to the coast with ivory and goods. There are 200 of them in the caravan, and the consequence is that I have not more than twenty men available for defensive purposes in case they should attack us. But, still, I will just give a few orders;" and calling a black man who was loitering about outside in the garden, he went to the window and addressed him in a Swahili dialect. The man listened, and then saluted and departed.

"I am sure I devoutly hope that we shall bring no such calamity upon you," said I, anxiously, when he had taken his seat again. Rather than bring those bloodthirsty villains about your ears, we will move on and take our chance."

"You will do nothing of the sort. If the Masai come they come, and there is an end on it; and I think we can give them a pretty warm greeting. I would not show any man the door for all the Masai in the world."

"That reminds me," I said, "the consul at Lamu told me that he had a letter from you, in which you said that a man had arrived here who reported that he had come across a white people in the interior. Do you think that there was any truth in his story? I ask because I have once or twice in my life heard rumors from natives who have come down from the far north of the existence of such a race."

Mr. Mackenzie, by way of answer, went out of the room and returned, bringing with him a most curious sword. It was long, and all the blade, which was very thick and heavy, was, to within a quarter of an inch of the cutting edge, worked into an ornamental pattern exactly as we work soft wood with a fre saw, the steel, however, being invariably pierced in such a way as not to interfere with the strength of the sword. This in itself was sufficiently curious, but what was still more so was that all the edges of the hollow spaces cut through the substance of the blade were most beautifully inlaid with gold, which was in some way that I cannot understand welded on to the steel.

"Then," said Mr. Mackenzie, "did you ever see a sword like that?"

We all examined it and shook our heads.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A woman, Mrs. A. H. Holloway, has been given a five years' contract to clean the streets of Buffalo, N. Y.

A SEA TELEPHONE.

Communicating Under Water by Means of a Novel Device.

Some interesting experiments have lately been made to test the feasibility of enabling ships to communicate with one another by means of what may be called a sea telephone. It is known that water is a good transmitter of sound, and that the velocity with which sound is conveyed through it is about four times as great as its velocity through the air.

Experiments made on the Lake of Geneva long ago showed that the sound of a submerged bell could be heard by means of a special form of ear trumpet, also placed beneath the water, at a distance of several miles from the bell.

Mr. Boyer, of H. M. S. Malabar, has lately in a measure revived this experiment, only he has used a telephone instead of an ear-trumpet as receiver of the sounds transmitted.

The apparatus consists of a large, flat bell or gong placed just below the water line at a ship's side, and which is so connected by means of a tube with the deck that a hammer can be made to act on the bell at will. This is the transmitter. The receiver consists of a Bell telephone, with a large diaphragm placed in the center of the bell and connected by means of wires with another telephone on the deck of the ship. This second instrument is held to the observer's ear.

By means of this apparatus it is found that sound can be readily conveyed through the water for upward of a mile, and it is claimed that signals can be thus made under the sea which will be quite independent of fog or stormy weather.

There seems to us to be only one weak point in this method of signaling, and that is the want of a means of calling the attention of the distant receiver when the transmitter wishes to send a signal. In the working of the ordinary telephone each observer has his signaling bell, but this is impossible with the sea telephone. In the absence of fog, too, the ordinary system of signaling, either by means of flags, or at night by flashing lights, meets all requirements.—London Graphic.

—At 10:30 o'clock on a recent evening the people of Middletown, Pa., who had not retired at that hour were startled by their natural gas lights and fires suddenly springing up a distance of a foot or so. Then the lights leaped to the ceiling and the stoves roared like furnaces. The people rushed through the streets warning their neighbors, and but for the prompt action taken the town would have been sacrificed. The surplus gas was caused by the ball or safety valve of the gasometer being either taken off, or falling off, thereby throwing the entire pressure of the well, ninety pounds, on the service lines. The pressure was thrown on in every house, and almost every one had left the gas burning.

—A house painter who slipped from a staging the other day, carrying his paint pots with him, came off, it is said, with flying colors.—Tit-Bits.

CASE OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Complicated with Gravel. How Help came at last. A Lucky Woman.

I have long resolved that I would apprise you of the deep sense of obligation which I feel. There is nothing which I now enjoy that I do not owe to the happy chance of having used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy at a time when I was suffering all that a human being could endure. My troubles began in my Kidneys over nine years ago and from which I never expected to recover. First there was increasing pains in the small of my back and in my loins. I was feverish with no appetite and no sleep. I was compelled to use a cane when I walked, and I finally got so weak that I could not stand alone. The distress in my back was terrible, I was burning up with a fever or constantly shivering as if cold. In a few months my physicians said I had Bright's disease, which was indeed alarming information. To add to my affliction after I had been ill about two years, I had a bad attack of gravel. When this made its appearance my physician gave up my case and I resigned myself to die. Up to this time I had four different doctors attend me, the best in the country, yet I constantly grew worse. Six years ago, last June, how well I remember the day, I saw Dr David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy of Rondout, N. Y., advertised in our paper. I purchased a bottle, paying the price of One Dollar, and used it faithfully. After using one bottle I through away my cane and went to New York on a visit, and three bottles cured me, this was six years ago. I have never had a return of gravel, nor of the pains or weakness in the back, and though I am over sixty years of age, I am now vigorous and strong as I was in my prime.—Mrs. Emeline P. Mizner, Rocky Hill, Ohio.

Avoid making a mistake, by remembering the name of medicine, Favorite Remedy. Price $1.00, made at Rondout, N. Y. Redington & Co., Agents.

The world is plunged in deep despair,
In wormwood and in gall;
We'll have to pay our 50 cents,
Or see no game of ball.

A REPRIEVE FOR THE CONDEMNED.

Wretched men and women long condemned to suffer the tortures of dyspepsia, are filled with new hope after a few doses of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This budding hope blossoms into the fruition of certainty, if the Bitters is persisted in. It brings a reprieve to all dyspeptics who seek its aid. Flatulence, heartburn, sinking at the pit of the stomach between meals, the nervous tremors and insomnia of which chronic indigestion is the parent, disappear with their hateful progenitor. Most beneficent of stomachics! who can wonder that in so many instances it awakens grateful eloquence in those who, benefitted by it, speak voluntarily in its behalf. It requires a graphic pen to describe the torments of dyspepsia, but in many of the testimonials received by the proprietors of the Bitters, these are portrayed with vivid truthfulness. Constipation, biliousness, nuscular debility, malarial fevers and rheumatism are relieved by it.

JOHN L.

He went to France as big as twenty men;
Went—but only one of him came back again.

All the art and taste of the best artists seems to have been combined in the magnificent package of imported Oleographic and Chromatic Cards which is being offered by the well known firm of Fleming Brothers, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

To procure these elegant frosted and satin fringed cards, buy a box of Dr. C. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills for 25 cents from your druggist and mail the outside wrapper with your address (plainly written) and four cents worth of stamps to Fleming Brothers, Pittsburgh, Pa. You will be surprised and delighted with the beauty and variety of the cards you will receive.

Consistent to the last in his sympathy for the brute creation the great heart of Henry Bergh broke when the news of John L. Sullivan's treatment flashed across the ocean.

Wakelee's Squirrel and Gopher Exterminator. Try it, and prove the best is the cheapest. Wakelee & Co., San Francisco.

ST JACOBS OIL

THE LEADING REMEDY.

THE TRADE SAYS SO.

The Suffering Class Says So To The Trade.

ITS VIRTUES ARE PHENOMENAL.
ITS CURES ARE MARVELOUS.

Chronic Cases 40 Years' Standing Cured Permanently.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers Everywhere.

The Charles A. Vogeler Co., Balto., Md.

She scolds and frets,
She's full of pets,
She's rarely kind and tender;
The thorn of life
Is a fretful wife—
I wonder what will mend her?

Try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Ten to one, your wife is cross and fretful because she is sick and suffering, and cannot control her nervousness when things go wrong. Make a healthy woman of her and the chances are you will make a cheerful and pleasant one. "Favorite Prescription" is the only remedy for woman's peculiar ailments, sold by druggists under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. See guarantee on bottle wrapper. Large bottles, $1. Six for $5.

Somehow the European dogs of war bark more than they bite.

TOOK ALL HIS PAINS AWAY.

A. M. Chisholm, of No. 2724 Stoddart Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes:

"During my long residence in Canada I suffered for years from severe pains in my back, across the region of the kidneys, and by the constant use of ALLCOCK'S PLASTERS invariably obtained great relief. Upon removing to St. Louis, I was again troubled with the same complaint, and was advised to use Magnectic and other kinds of plasters, without being relieved of pain, so fell back to my old friend ALLCOCK, who gives me more relief than any other I have ever tried. I always recommend them to my friends and all who suffer from pains and aches of any kind."

A Chicago shoestore bears this sign: "Truth spoken here." Here's another Western monopoly.

HUMBUG.

Barnum said "The American People like to be humbugged." This may be true in the line of entertainment, but not where life is at stake. A man with consumption, or any lingering disease, looking Death in the face and seeking to evade his awful grasp, does not like to be trifled with. So with confidence we place before our readers Nature's great remedy, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a sure relief for that long train of diseases resulting from impure blood, such as Consumption, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Liver Complaint, Kidney Disorder, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Scrofula and General Debility. Time tried and thoroughly tested, it stands without an equal! Any druggist.

The man who is "wedded to art" generally lets his relatives support the family.

Many people refuse to take Cod Liver Oil on account of its unpleasant taste. This difficulty has been overcome in Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. It being as palatable as milk, and the most valuable remedy known for the treatment of Consumption, Scrofula and Bronchitis, General Debility, Wasting Diseases of Children, Chronic Coughs and Colds, has caused physicians in all parts of the world to use it. Physicians report our little patients take it with pleasure. Try Scott's Emulsion and be convinced.

Hoyt's German Cologne has supplanted all others as the "Universal Perfume." Supreme merit has won for it its fair title. Connoisseurs award it the highest place.

The New York blizzard tickles Dakota a good deal more than would its admission to the Union.

"NOT BULK, BUT BUSINESS!"

is the way a Western man put it in expressing to a friend his complete satisfaction in the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. So small and yet so effectual, they bid fair to supplant entirely the old-style pill. An ever-ready remedy for Sick and Bilious Headache, Biliousness, Constipation and all blood disorders. Mild in action, wonderful in effect! Put up in vials, convenient to carry. Their use attended with no discomfort! These sterling merits account for their great popularity.

Dogs are not allowed to pick their company. That is why you often see a $75 dog out walking with a 15-cent man.

For Coughs, Asthma, and Throat Disorders, use "Brown's Bronchial Troches." 25 cts a box.

ITCHING PILES.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in many cases removes the tumors. It is equally efficacious in curing all Skin Diseases. DR. SWAYNE & SON Proprietors, Philadelphia. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT can be obtained of druggists. Sent by mail for 50 Cents.

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED.

To the Editor:

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption, if they will send me their express and P. O. address. Respectfully,

T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., New York.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

Camelline improves and preserves the complexion.

R. H. McDONALD PRES't. F. V. McDONALD, CASHIER.

ESTABLISHED 1863. Oldest Chartered Bank on the Pacific Coast.

PACIFIC BANK

Capital Stock $1,000,000.00.
Surplus $ 650,000.00.
Av. Resources $4,356,175.94.

Besides paying the usual dividends, we have been enabled to add $200,000 to Surplus Fund during the past 2 years

We are pleased to announce that the past year has been the most prosperous one the PACIFIC BANK has had during its 25 years of existence.

ASSETS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Bank Premises, | $150,000 00 |
| Other Real Estate, | 30,918 83 |
| Land Association, Gas and Bank Stocks, | 26,242 30 |
| Loans and Discounts, | 2,914,119 99 |
| Due from Banks, | 340,897 37 |
| Money on hand, | 502,979 85 |
| | $3,965,158 34 |

LIABILITIES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Capital, paid up, | $1,000,000 00 |
| Surplus Fund, | 650,000 00 |
| Undivided Profits, | 9,369 40 |
| Due Depositors, | 2,094,780 69 |
| Due Banks, | 211,068 25 |
| | $3,965,158 34 |

Returning thanks for past favors, we respectfully ask a continuance of the same and solicit accounts of Individuals, Firms and Corporations. R. H. McDONALD, Pres't.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 1st, 1888.

R. HALL'S
PULMONARY BALSAM
A SUPERIOR REMEDY FOR
COUGHS, COLDS, INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION,
And all Throat and Lung Troubles.
Sold by all Druggists for .....50 Cents
J. R. GATES & CO.,
PROPRIETORS,
417 SANSOME ST. SAN FRANCISCO.

ELY'S CREAM BALM.

For three weeks I was suffering from a severe Cold in Head, and pain in temples, after only six applications of Ely's Cream Balm I was relieved. A very trace of my cold was removed.—Henry C. Clark, 1st Division N. Y. Appraiser's office.

CATARRH

HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril, and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS 235 Greenwich St., New York.

REWARD!

$1000 Will be paid for each and every gram of poisonous substances found in Wisdom's Robertine, acknowledged the most delightful and only really harmless toilet article ever produced for beautifying and preserving the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles and all blemishes and roughness of the skin. Used and endorsed by the elite of society and the stage. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per bottle. White and Flesh. REDINGTON & CO.

Wholesale Druggists San Francisco, Agents.

Manly Purity and Beauty

No tongue nor pen can do justice to the esteem in which the CUTICURA REMEDIES are held by the thousands upon thousands whose lives have been made happy by the cure of agonizing, humiliating, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Having been a sufferer for two years and a half from a disease caused by a bruise on the leg, and having been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES when all other methods and remedies failed, I deem it my duty to recommend them. I visited Hot Springs to no avail, and tried several doctors without success, and at last our principal druggist, Mr. John P. Finlay (to whom I shall ever feel grateful), spoke to me about CUTICURA, and I consented to give them a trial, with the result that I am perfectly cured. There is now no sore about me. I think I can show the largest surface where my sufferings sprang from of any one in the State.

ALEXANDER BEACH, Greenville, Miss.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages, 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

PIMPLES, blackheads, red, rough, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago, it would have saved me $200.00 (two hundred dollars) and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (Psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm psoriasis, etc. I took ..... and ..... Sarsaparillas over one year and a half, but no cure. I went to two or three doctors, and no cure. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was three boxes of CUTICURA, and three bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and two cakes of CUTICURA SOAP. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture in your book of Psoriasis (picture number two, "How to Cure Skin Diseases"), but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times. Any one who reads this may write to me and I will answer it.

DENNIS DOWNING, Waterbury, Vt.

PIMPLES, blackheads, red, rough, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

HANDS Soft, white, and free from chaps and redness, by using CUTICURA SOAP.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use. 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest Ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

PATENTED.

The only practical Corn Harvester in the world, patented by Wm. H. Karicofe of Martinsburgh, W. Va., is offered for sale on the Pacific Slope. Can be manufactured for ($40) and sells for (150). It will do ten men's work. Cuts corn planted in rows. Send for drawings, description and testimonials. To CAPITALISTS AND SALESMEN.—For a good investment in patents or patented articles, address C. SANBORN, No. 6 Eddy St., San Francisco, Cal.

CANDY MAKING FOR PLEASURE OR PROFIT. YOUNG PERSONS wishing to engage in a light, pleasant, and profitable amusement, can learn the art of Candy Making at home, and while giving amusement to their friends and themselves, discover whether they have a taste for the work as a business, and thereby make a fair living profit from a very small investment. Receipts, and full instructions in detail, sufficient for several lessons for the making of twelve simple varieties, and amply sufficient for home amusement, sent for one dollar. Tools necessary may be found in any kitchen. Address, GEO. F. PERCIVAL, 122 Ellis Street, San Francisco.

HATCH CHICKENS!

—WITH THE—
PETALUMA INCUBATOR
The Most Successful Machine Made.
3 Gold Medals, 1 Silver Medal, and 15 First Premiums.
Hatches all kinds of Eggs. Made in All Sizes.
Write us for Large Illustrated Circular Free, describing Incubators, Brooders, Houses, How to raise Chickens, etc.
Address, PETALUMA INCUBATOR CO., Petaluma, Cal.

I CURE FITS!

When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again. I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. H. G. ROOT, M. C., 183 Pearl St. New York.

AN AGENT WANTED IN EVERY TOWN on the Pacific Coast for Kimball's Liquid Glue. Needed in every family. 534 Valencia St., S. F., Cal.

S. F. N. U. Series, No. 302.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

AGENTS WANTED

For our celebrated Portraits. Work first-class. Big money to active men. Pacific Portrait Co., 1221 Market St., S. F.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

STEINWAY. KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Rosnish Pianos; Burdett Organs, Band Instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

BEST TREE WASH.

GREENBANK 98% Powdered Caustic Soda (tests 99 3-10%), rec

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY ..... MAY 12. 1888.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XIX. NO. 48. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., MAY 12, 1888. WHOLE NO. 915.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

WHEN HE HAD RIDDEN ON.

She was a poor, unlettered maid,
With but one gown to wear.
He, riding down the street, delayed,
To gaze—for she was fair.
He spoke with her, as gallants may,
And then he rode away.

He sighed to see such beauty drest
In garments poor and plain.
Some feeling stirred within his breast
That was akin to pain.
He spurred his steed and galloped on—
She watched till he was gone.

In time the wheel of fortune brought
The maiden gold and place.
By fashion clothed, by masters taught,
They called her "Queen of Grace."
She heard it with a bitter sigh,
For he had ridden by.

The robes a princess might have worn,
The learning—came too late!
She felt a Cynic's blighting scorn
For such a tardy Fate.
The need of all these gifts had gone
When he had ridden on.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox in Frank Leslie's.

PATENT MAPLE SUGAR.

It Is Made by Mixing Extract of Hickory with Any Ordinary Sirup.

Among the curious inventions for which a patent has been granted is one to Josiah Daily, of Madison, Ind., by which any body who likes maple sugar and maple sirup may readily supply himself at a small cost. If the patentee's statement is correct, it is no longer necessary to go through the tedious and exhausting labors of tree-tapping and sirup-boiling in order to obtain maple sugar. If it should be found that the patent process will also convert into maple sirup a solution of the newly-discovered chemical sweet known as "saccharine," which is said to be three hundred times sweeter than cane sugar, or the more recent artificial sugar of Drs. Fischer and Tafel, then the very acme of transformation will have been reached, and the interposition of Congress will be necessary to save the genuine maple sugar industry from going to destruction. The patent maple sugar is made by simply mixing an extract of hickory with an ordinary sirup, such as cane sugar sirup or sorghum. The patentee says: "The extract is to be obtained in any convenient manner, such as making a decoction of the hickory bark or wood, or percolating liquid through the same, or drawing off the sap from the tree. The bark or wood of the hickory tree may be ground to facilitate the extraction of its principle, and the extract may be made more or less strong by increasing or diminishing the quantity of bark or wood, or by boiling the extract for a longer or shorter time. In preparing sirups I ordinarily add about three tablespoonfuls of the decoction to a gallon of heated or boiling sirup. Of course the stronger the extract the less the quantity required for flavoring a given amount of sirup. The sirup may be manufactured from any kind of saccharine matter or mixture of saccharine matters, or the sirups ordinarily found in the market may be used. The effect of the extract or decoction is to give to the sirup the flavor of the maple, producing a sirup which can not be distinguished from genuine maple sirup. It is evident that the flavored sirup may be boiled down and a sugar resembling maple sugar in taste may be produced."—Scientific American.

LEGAL RUFFIANISM.

Why Lawyers Should Be Compeled to Treat Witnesses Decently.

A lawyer who is proficient in the art of badgering a witness seldom lacks clients. He is considered "smart;" and if, by dint of insolent and exasperating cross-questioning, he can goad a man into such a state of excitement that he contradicts himself, and involuntarily commits perjury, the feat is looked upon as a "great legal triumph." Occasionally, however, an abusive counsel is confronted, out of court, by an enraged witness, and receives a lesson in civility too impressive to be readily forgotten. Not long ago a somewhat notorious member of the bar in a Southern city was tremendously pounded by a witness in a divorce case, against whom, in summing up for the defense, he had insinuated nearly all the crimes enumerated in the decalogue. The libeled citizen, who was a person of irreproachable character, met the professional traducer at the court-house door after the conclusion of the day's proceedings and thrashed him without stint or pity. The flagellant was arrested and held to bail for the assault, and will doubtless be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both; but he was content, he said, to endure any penalty the law might inflict for the enjoyment of so prime a luxury.

We have never been able to see why a lawyer should be permitted to address a respectable member of society in the witness box, or to refer to him after he has left it, in terms as opprobrious as if he were a burglar or a pickpocket. It is, or should be, the business of a court to protect from insult persons who are summoned before it—often to their own great inconvenience—to further the ends of justice; and if such protection is not extended, we hold it to be natural right of the outraged parties to chastise at the first convenient opportunity the maligners and slanderers. Let the privileges of the legal profession be respected; but why should men who play the ruffian at the bar be exempted from the punishment which we all delight to see inflicted upon ruffianism in the street?—N. Y. Ledger.

—Experiments made in France in "deep sea" photography have been successful. With a camera and the electric incandescent light, it is said to be possible to photograph sunken ships, and make simpler the diver's perilous work.

FREEZING TO DEATH.

Acute Pains Followed by a Very Comfortable Condition of Mind.

Early in January, 1854, I left Red Wing in company with S. J. Willard, John Day and Albert Olson for a place fourteen miles distant, near where Vasa Church now stands, for the purpose of cutting and hauling logs preparatory for our settlement at that point the following spring. It was a clear, beautiful day, with the thermometer twenty degrees above zero. We had a span of good horses, a sleigh partly loaded with lumber, forage and provisions for a few days.

We arrived at the spot just before dark and camped in a ravine well sheltered with timber. After making ourselves comfortable with a good supper, and a blazing log fire, all four laid down to sleep on a bed made on the snow, with a thin layer of hay on top of some boards, and were well wrapped up in blankets. During the night the temperature changed to a terrible cold, the thermometer falling to forty-five degrees below zero, as we learned afterward. Had we known this and kept our fire burning, there would, of course, have been no danger. But being very comfortable we all fell asleep early in the night, and were unconscious of the danger we were in until awakened by the pain of intense cold, and then we were already so overcome with the cold that we lacked power or energy to get up or even to move.

Comparing notes afterward we found that all had experienced a like sensation, namely—first, an acute pain, like the point of a needle in every pore, but free from all mental anxiety, except a dull conception of something wrong and a desire to get up, but without sufficient energy to do so. This feeling, however, did not last long, and subsided gradually into one of quiet rest and satisfaction until consciousness ceased altogether, and without any struggle or pain, either bodily or mental. We had all reached that stage when by an accident, the arm and bare hand of Mr. Day, who lay on the outside, fell in the snow. This started the circulation in his body and gave him such intense pain that he quickly aroused himself and got on his feet, and of course we were all saved. It took a long time before we could use our limbs sufficiently to rebuild the fire, and during that time we suffered much more pain than we had before. I am satisfied from that experience that a person perishing in that way has a very easy death, because he sinks gradually into a stupor, which blunts his sensibility both to physical pain and mental agony long before life becomes extinct.

It was about fifty degrees in the morning when we got up; we did not lie down again or attempt to haul out building logs, but started in a few hours on a bee line for a ravine that would lead us back to Red Wing. It was a struggle of life and death to get across the rolling prairie, and had the cold been accompanied by a blizzard, we would not have got across.

To keep warm we took turns to walk or run behind the sleigh, and Mr. Willard was walking when he was suddenly missed, and the team turned back, following its tracks a short distance to a hill side, where we found him sitting down in the snow, apparently comfortable and with no desire to move. He rather censured us for coming back after him, claiming that he was all right, and would have come along when he got ready, but the fact was that he was already so stupefied with the cold that he would never have made any exertion to move.

After a drive of ten miles we arrived at the first and only inhabited house between Vasa and Red Wing, and it was high time that we found shelter, both for ourselves and the horses. That was the coldest day of that year, and to me the coldest in the history of Minnesota.—Minneapolis Tribune.

FAMOUS ACTRESSES.

Indefatigable Study Essential to Success on the Stage

People say some people are "born actresses," but those who imagine that they have not cultivated with an indefatigable assiduity the talent he or she possesses from nature have a very imperfect knowledge of the source of that merit which so astonishes them. Who that knows or reads of Rachel realizes how she worked and struggled to gain the goal—hour after hour, day after day, intonation, pauses, declamations—all she studied step by step with her master and her friend Sampson? All cried: "She is a genius," yet how many hours of deep reflection and earnest study were her rare exhibitions of skill the fruit?

"I have studied my sobs," she wrote, "and shall watch to see if you are satisfied, for I am not sure they will come." This she said of perhaps her greatest piece of acting, the scene in "Phedre," where she utters "Miserable et je vis." Not one effect that delighted and electrified her audiences during two years of this great role but was studied and tried and studied again. Rachel was never lost in a character; it was lost in her.

In referring to my own humble efforts in the past, I can only say that my best results have been through my greatest study and work. Many a night have I cried myself to sleep, unable to reach an effort or make a certain point. There have been times when certain roles have been as a closed book to me, and even after repeated rehearsals remained a blank, and I became wholly despondent, when all at once the vail fell from before my eyes and I seemed to realize the character and its possibilities.—Fanny Davenport.

CLASPED BY A BEAR.

Exciting Midnight Adventure Related by a Railroad Man.

A man who is well thought of by the railway fraternity is Hoyt Sherman, general agent of the Union Pacific, of Salt Lake. He was first brought into prominence by an adventure which he had on the road from Beaver Canyon into the Yellowstone National Park. Mr. Sherman was a tourist agent for the road, and when a big party went up to the park he would accompany them. The distance from Beaver Canyon is one hundred and twenty-five miles, and three years ago, when he had the adventure, the road was very primitive. Rough and rocky, it wound its way through deep canyons, whose walls rose to magnificent heights, making the scenery awful and grand, and then over fertile plains, through mountainous country into timbered regions that could not be excelled. There was something about this drive that thrilled and delighted passengers and made them want to cover the distance again. But as pleasant as they were, they were not free from danger. It lurked everywhere. In the fissures of the rocks were skulking mountain lions watching the passing of the stage-coach with gleaming eyes, while panthers, more cowardly, yet fully as dangerous, perched in the trees that overhung the road on which the stage traveled, would give their fierce cry and perchance leap upon its top to find that its occupants were beyond reach. Then the silver-tipped bear and big black bruin, on his stately round for meat, would cautiously pass that way. Sometimes at night the tourists would camp for a change.

It was one night that they did this that Mr. Sherman had his adventure—one that is not new to him now. They camped in a clump of timber below the mountains, and corralled the horses a few rods off. It was about midnight when Mr. Sherman was awakened by the neighing of a horse. He got up to reconnoiter and saw a black object pass near the corral. The moon was out in all her splendor, though the trees shadowed the earth. Thinking that the object was a man, and that he meant to steal the horse, he took his pistol from his pocket, and noticing that his clasp-knife was all right, he cautiously advanced. He was looking about to see where the big black object had gone, when, as though it had risen from the ground, a big black bear stood in front of him.

First he thought to run, but this would be death, for one stroke from its powerful paw would lay him low. The pistol was a small one, but he raised it after his first surprise was over and pulled the trigger. It did not go off. He just remembered that he had neglected to reload the weapon that evening after discharging all the cartridges. When the trigger snapped the bear looked at the pistol curiously and then at Sherman. The latter took his knife out and slowly backed up until he was protected by a tree. The bear followed and caressingly began to hug him. Its hot breath was upon his face, and he grew faint. He rallied and drove the knife to the hilt into bruin, who, now fully enraged, rolled Sherman on the ground. Now it was fight or die. Another plunge and the sharp edge of the steel went plowing up the bear, fairly disemboweling him. The struggle soon ended, and although Sherman was the victor, he was not altogether unharmed. The tourists heard the noise, and were in time to witness the end of the battle. For a week after three Englishmen did nothing but curse their ill-luck for not being the man that the bear attacked.—San Francisco Examiner.

BOARDING SCHOOLS.

How Girls Are Benefited by Attending Institutions of This Kind.

"Shall we send the girls to boarding-school?" Well, that depends a good deal upon where the girls live and what their temperaments are. If the home of the young girl ly under consideration is in the country or some small village, there are reasons besides the superior advantages for a book education why it is best to send her away to school. Contact with other minds and individuals besides the narrow circle which such places afford furnishes a valuable part of the education which is to fit the young girl to be a woman. Going away to school is not going to make smooth all the rough places, but it goes a long distance toward giving a young girl a certain self-reliance and confidence, which are the best possible cures for awkwardness. In the narrow circle of relatives and intimate friends she feels that she is understood and judged kindly. The moment she is set out among strangers she says to herself: "What do they think of me?" The constant reiteration of this question causes embarrassment and awkwardness. If she is sent among people without any of her own family to fall back upon she must stand upon her own merits, and she will find that in the main people are much kinder than she gave them credit for.

By all means let the school be carefully chosen. In a good school the young girl, besides her studies and contact with people, learns system, and comes under a discipline which is good for her. The meals are regular, the sleep is regular, and a certain amount of exercise is insisted upon. To the girl who has been rather "spoiled" at home and allowed to retire at one or two, rise at ten or eleven, and subsist on fruit cake and pickles, never walking over two blocks if she can help it, such a change is highly desirable. Something to do every day, and a stated time to do it in, with obligations which must be met, is a discipline which, even if not kept up, is invaluable.—Detroit Tribune.

FORMAL CROW COURTS.

How They Are Conducted and How Their Judgments Are Executed.

Mr. Romanes, in discussing the question of animal intelligence, cites several instances in which jackdaws, rooks and crows have been seen to hold what may be called a formal court for the trial and punishment of offenders. It will surprise many persons, no doubt, to learn that such creatures have something like a regular system of "public justice." In the northern part of Scotland, writes one observer, and in the Faroe Islands, extraordinary meetings of crows are occasionally known to occur.

They collect in great numbers, as if they had all been summoned for the occasion; a few of the flock sit with drooping heads, and others seem as grave as judges, while others again are exceedingly active and noisy. In the course of about an hour they disperse, and it is not uncommon, after they have flown away, to find one or two left dead upon the spot. These meetings will sometimes continue for a day or two before the object, whatever it may be, is accomplished. Crows continue to arrive from all quarters during the session. As soon as they have all arrived, a very general noise ensues, and shortly after the whole fall upon one or two individuals, and put them to death. When the execution has been performed, they quietly disperse.

An army officer writes from India that while sitting in a veranda, he saw three or four crows come and perch on a neighboring house. Soon a gathering from all quarters took place, till the roof of the guard-house was blackened with them.

"Thereupon," he continues, "a prodigious clatter ensued. It was plain that a 'palaver' was going forward, some of its members, more eager than others, skipping about. I became much interested, and narrowly watched the proceedings, all within a dozen yards of me. After much cawing and clamor the whole group suddenly rose into the air, and kept circling around half-a-dozen of their fellows, one of whom had clearly been told off for punishment; for the five repeatedly attacked it in quick succession, allowing no opportunity for it to escape, which it was trying to do, until they had cast it fluttering on the ground, about thirty yards from my chair.

"Unfortunately, I rushed forward to pick up the bird, prostrate but fluttering on the grass. I succeeded only in touching it, for it wriggled away from my grasp, and flew, greatly crippled and close to the ground, into some adjacent bushes, where I lost sight of it. All the others, after circling around me and chattering, in anger, as I thought, flew away, on my resuming my seat, in the direction taken by their victim."—Youth's Companion.

A SMART COCKROACH.

How It Was Utilized by Two Notorious Indiana Convicts.

A common cockroach was trained to act as a letter-carrier between William Rodifer and "Starlight Jack" Ryan, convicts in the Southern Indiana penitentiary. It is probably the first instance on record, too, where there was any use found for the little creature. Rodifer occupied a cell in the tier just above the one where Jack was confined, and for a long time they had no means of communicating with each other. Rodifer was a daring fellow, but he had not sufficient imagination to get up a plan of escape and he relied on the bright mind of his friend "Starlight Jack" to suggest an idea. One evening Rodifer noticed an innocent looking cockroach running about on the floor. After watching its gambolings for a time he concluded he could use it. So writing a short note to his friend he tied it to the cockroach's wing, and kneeling down on the floor he put it out on the wall under the iron balcony in front of his cell. He calculated that it would run into the cell underneath. And it did. Jack noticed the paper, caught the insect, and read the note. Then he answered it, and, poking the little creature out on the wall from the ceiling over the door, he released it. The roach went into Rodifer's cell and was caught. Then they fed and cared for it, and used it in this manner for some months. In fact it grew to understand its business. It must have been a female cockroach, however, for one day it stopped to chat with a friend and was noticed by the warden. The note, which was written in some sort of cipher, was taken off, the hospital steward, Dr. Sid. C. McClure, read it. Then the bug was put on the balcony floor, and ran into Rodifer's cell. Thus the officials kept posted as to the plans of the two famous jail-breakers. After a time Jack began to suspect that something was wrong, and he added a postscript to his letter something like this: "If every thing is all right you will find a hair from my head in this note." The warden read it as he did the others, but dropped the hair and lost it. "Never mind," said Captain Craig, whose hair was red, "put one of mine in it." The answer came back: "That last whipping must have been an awful one, Jack, for it has changed the color of your hair."

The scheming of these two worthies came to naught, however, and they served their terms.—Louisville Times.

—A rough father was thrashing his little son, when a neighbor remonstrated. "Go away," said the father. "I know what I'm doing. He won't grow, and as iron can be extended by beating, I thought I would malleable this boy, and see if I can extend him."

HELPLESS AS A PAUPER.

Experience of a Philadelphian Who Was Without Small Change.

"Speaking about having money in your pocket and yet feeling as helpless as if you were a pauper," said a Philadelphian to some friends who were discussing the subject, "reminds me of a small experience I had in that line a little while ago. I was in the northern part of the city, and in a great hurry to go to Seventh and Market streets. In my pocket was a twenty dollar gold piece and no other money—not even a nickel. Fully persuaded that no car conductor would change the coin for me, I entered a saloon and ordered a glass of beer, throwing the yellow piece upon the bar as I did so. The bar keeper turned from the keg rack, placed the beer before me, eyed the coin an instant, looked at me sharply, then reached for the untouched glass of beer, put it down behind the counter and said: 'You can't work that here; it's been tried afore.' I protested that the coin was genuine, that it was all I had and that I wanted change to pay car fare—but it was no use. In his own words, he was 'onto the game,' and I left the place filled with my own rage and covered with that bar-keeper's suspicion.

"On the next corner was a drug store. I went in with the twenty dollar piece in my palm, and upon thrusting it before the clerk, asking him whether he could change it, he replied sneeringly, and in tones which implied that he felt hurt at me for taking him for a green-horn: 'Well, not this time.'

"Once outside the place, it occurred to me that if I had made a purchase there would have been no trouble in getting change. Resolved not to be so stupid again, I made for an inviting looking cigar store five doors away, where I put my luckless coin on the glass top of the show case, and politely told the salesman, if he would change it for me, I would be only too glad to buy two dollars' worth of his goods. The smile that crept into his face persuaded me that I had conquered him. In reality I had only put him on his guard. He merely said as he turned to wait on another customer: 'And I've had 'em offer to buy five dollars' worth, but we're not in that business.' Nothing but the fear of being arrested on the double charge of assault and battery and shoving counterfeit money prevented me from throwing a tobacco scales at that heartless wretch.

"At three other places the coin was refused curtly and suspiciously, and finally fully realizing what an absurd thing it was to do, I hurried over to the conductor of a Columbia avenue car that had stopped on a crossing, and showing him my solitary coin, asked him if he could make change for me if I got aboard. He didn't even answer me, but as he yanked his bell to go ahead I heard him say gruffly to a fortunate possessor of a nickel who stood on the platform: 'Guess that feller thinks I own the road.'

"Now, not one of the people who refused to make change for me touched the coin; the sight of it was enough for them and it made them suspicious. What did I do? Why, I walked from Columbia avenue and Eighteenth street to Seventh and Market and the big end of my twenty-dollar piece went to pay for the supper and theater tickets. I had wagered on being there at the appointed time. That's what a nickel cost me when I didn't have it."—Philadelphia Press.

TOO MUCH GOOD LUCK.

If You Run Across a Stray Silver Dollar, Don't Pick It Up.

"If you ever happen to find a silver dollar in the course of your travels, you let it lie right where it is when you see it," said a jolly young broker yesterday.

"Coming down on the elevated a few days ago," he continued, "I noticed something bright wedged in between the basket-work seat to the wooden arm. I poked her out with my knife blade and found my prize to be a silver dollar. I had never found any money before and I felt so good that when I got off the train I stepped into a cigar store and bought four cigars, for a dollar, instead of three for a quarter as usual. That note at luncheon I felt awfully thirsty, and being a dollar ahead I ordered a bottle of claret. Later, buoyed up by the same thought, I asked the boys to take something, and the round cost me ninety cents. When it came time to go home the elevated trains were crowded, so I thought I'd spend my dollar for a hansom cab and drive home, stopping at a theater, where, on account of my find, I bought tickets of a speculator instead of at the office. I told my wife about my luck and showed her the identical dollar, which I had saved. She was delighted, and insisted upon my having the piece smoothed off on one side and the place and date of my good fortune inscribed thereon, the carrying out of which conceit cost me two dollars and fifty cents. Altogether, I should think my find cost me nearly ten dollars; so take my advice, and if you run across any stray dollars don't pick 'em up."—N. Y. Sun.

—A pretty young lady of Jamestown has a seal-skin sacque and muff which she is quite proud of, as they are the result of her own labors. After receiving them she had a full-figure photograph made, representing herself as out in a snow-storm with her muff up to her face, etc. A traveling representative of a soap manufacturing firm saw the picture, admired it, got acquainted with the lady, secured a copy of the photograph, had a lithograph made from it, which is now used to advertise his goods.

PRACTICAL HELP.

The Humble Beginning of a Now Prosperous Working Woman's Club.

About ten years ago, a Quaker lady in one of our large cities, while buying some trifle in a retail shop, noticed that the young girl who waited upon her was thin and pale, and had the jaded appearance of one who has nothing to look forward to in life. On questioning her, she found that she was from the country, and had not a single friend in the city. With thousands of others, she worked ten hours each day for four dollars a week, slept in a garret with three other women, and ate such scanty food as she could buy.

"What does thee do in the evening?" asked the interested lady.

"Sleep generally, or look out of the window. I have no books. Some of the girls go to the ten-cent theaters, but I have not done that yet."

The Friend went home and considered how she should supply a home, friends and all the protecting influences which surrounded her own daughters, to this girl who was tottering on the verge of ruin. With the help of a few friends she rented a room, with an open fire, near the large shops, furnished it with comfortable chairs, growing plants, two or three hundred interesting books and the magazines, and then invited the saleswoman and her colleagues to join a club, which should have the use of this room at all times. Payment of one dollar annually was exacted, to give them the feeling of independence.

They came eagerly, brought their lunches at noon, gathered in the evenings to talk, read, sew, play draughts or chess, or to sing. As the club grew the interest in it increased. Saleswomen, seamstresses, artists, every class of homeless working-women joined it. It now numbers over seven hundred members. They occupy a large house, which they have fitted up and decorated with their own hands. It is their "home," in which each one feels herself a hostess. They have a piano, an organ, sewing-machines, a gymnasium and bath-rooms. Night classes have been formed in cookery, music, embroidery, drawing, French, literature and history, for which the fees are but five or ten cents. The members form intimacies among themselves, and make for each other a society cheerful, active and friendly. During the last year they have been zealously combining in "circles" for different benevolent purposes, such as visiting the hospitals, or contriving Christmas surprises for poor children. The humble beginning of the quiet Friend has grown into a strong organization, in which these friendless, homeless girls are surrounded by the purest influences.

Two questions suggest themselves, as we read this true story. How many of us, noticing that a stranger was ill and weary, would have set to work to discover her ailment, and to cure it? How many of us would have been content to make so humble a beginning, and, having made it, would have the faith to persevere to success?—Youth's Companion.

LIFE IN A BEE-HIVE.

How Honey and Wax Are Made by the Busy Little Workers.

The whole atmosphere of the hive in the summer is one of bustle and hurry. The workers hustle day and night, and work so hard that when honey is plentiful in the flowers the average life of the working bee is rarely over six weeks. It is safe to say that not one in 5,000 bees lives to eat the honey it has toiled so hard to lay up for the winter. There are usually about 30,000 bees in a colony or hive, and they will average in a good season something like 57 pounds.

It takes 40,000 bees, working one entire day, to gather a single pound of honey, and to get the sweets they must rummage 3,500,000 clover blooms. Now when we know that 75,000,000 pounds of honey are yearly produced in the United States, it becomes a very nice problem to calculate how many bees there are working, say, eight hours a day.

The bee brings four substances into the hive and creates one substance there. The honey is brought in in a little sac and stored in one of the cells of the comb. If you'll notice you'll find the cells slant a little bit, so that the sweet stuff will not spill till the cell is full and can be sealed up. This raw honey has to be stirred and mixed with formic acid, which the bees' jaws secrete, and frequently moved from one cell to another, so as to hasten its evaporation and thickening. Then there is pollen dust from the flowers, which is used to feed the young bee babies, and is also used for capping over their cells, as it is porous to the air and is much cheaper than wax. Then propolis, or bee glue, is fetched from the willow, poplar, cottonwood and balm-of-gilead trees, and is used to cement cracks and crevices about the hive. Last of all, water is brought into the hive to give drink to the babies.

But, more precious than honey, is wax, which is really a tallow and not wax. It costs twenty pounds of honey and a long time to make one pound of wax. The bees eat the honey, and then hang quietly in a cluster, waiting for the wax to form. It is secreted under little scales on the abdomen, and is used immediately. This wax is not made unless it is actually required, and never as long as there are any vacant combs.

It is this desire to economize in wax that makes the bee store its honey in six-sided cell, for when one cell is built there is one side furnished for six new cells.—Golden Days.

TUBERCULOUS GERMS.

The Nature of One of the Most Disastrous Diseases of Cattle.

Farmers as well as veterinarians should understand the nature of this contagion. Too few are aware of its spread and only an occasional animal is lost financially. Diseased animals are nearly always sold to the butcher. The flesh of cattle suffering from many maladies may be eaten with impunity and yet the flesh of some (oftentimes apparently well) may prove fatal to man. The diseases which render animal food perilous to man are few, but among them are anthrax, tuberculosis, trichina and hydrophobia. Even a diseased article may not prove injurious to a healthy stomach if well cooked. In tuberculosis, deposits upon the pleura membrane lining the chest cavity, thus causing the lungs to adhere to the ribs, or along the internal walls of the abdomen, are sufficient evidence to condemn the carcass.

Mr. Rupert Kolt, of Germany, discovered the long-sought-for germ of this dread disease in 1882, and he has not only solved the mystery but enabled us to identify this especial bacillus in all forms of tubercular affections. Dr. Morgagni, a celebrated Italian physician, more than a century ago claimed that virulent matter in the expired air of a consumptive patient was very infectious and liable to transmit the malady. This theory, long believed, has now been proved true by Dr. Taffiener. He has satisfied even the doubting members of the profession by causing animals to inhale the particles of tubercular matter which had been evaporated in a room by a steam atomizer. About ninety per cent. of the puppies thus confined from twenty-five to forty days showed well marked symptoms of tuberculosis in both lungs. These experiments have also demonstrated that the disease can be artificially propagated.

Tuberculosis can be conveyed by inoculation and the virus is believed not to lose its vitality by long drying in a stable. Thus it appears that a man can be vaccinated while skinning an animal or making a post mortem examination, or that an animal can take the disease by licking the manger in which a consumptive cow has fed, for the digestive organs are quite as susceptible of contagion as any. The fact that animals can contract the disease through the agency of the food should give us new apprehensions.

Both the meat and milk may contain the death-dealing germs. Tuberculosis does not necessarily imply a disease of the lungs. The glands of the udder, of generation and of the liver are as liable to consumption. The germ should be termed bacillus tuberculosis to distinguish it from other germs of the same family. It is of vegetable origin, of the fungi order.

A cow only affected in the lungs, slightly, is not to be feared, but affections of the udder are very apt to pass the disease to those using the milk. Scrofula often results from tuberculosis. Prof. Bollinger, of Munich, says that boiling the milk will not always render it safe, but that long and repeated boiling is necessary to kill the spores, or a second boiling shortly after the first. A spore is a germ within a germ. Many of these are found in the sputa of a human consumptive patient, and it is hard to cleans the house, clothes, bedding and wall-paper where one has lived.

All infectious diseases have a continuous existence like the succession of organized beings; the succession exists from a diffusion of these living germs, and each as surely produces its kind as the acorn the oak.—Dr. Noah Cressy, in Farm and Home.

JEWS IN SALONIKA.

A Greek City Which Contains Seventy Thousand Hebrews.

Salonika may be termed a New Jerusalem, as there are no less than 70,000 of the seed of Abraham within its walls. Almost all the business of the place is carried on by them. The quays are gay with them in their quaint costumes, the men with their long robes lined with fur over a tunic of striped cotton or silk, whilst the women are decked in the gayest colors possible and adorn their heads with caps of green or red, closely bound over their foreheads, and hanging down behind in a thick tail embroidered with gold thread, and terminating in a fringe of gold, whilst around their necks hang strings of pearls and other jewels. These Jews of Salonika are perhaps the most fervid adherents of the quaint rabbinical doctrines to be found any where nowadays. During the days before the passover you may see Jewish women at the tombs outside the walls, in their long red cloaks and white mantles round their shoulders, wailing over their dead. Turbaned rabbis stand at the gate of Karamilia to conduct families, for a consideration, to the graves of their relatives, there to excite them to frenzy by reading portions of Scripture, and finally to drive them home again like sheep when the ceremony is over, with lacerated arms and faces, uttering bitter wails. Their cemetery the Jews call "the house of the living;" for the dead they look upon as alive, and passing the first eleven months after their departure in Ghenna, when they can intercede for the living; consequently during this period the death wails are continued, which are in point of fact in many cases more intercessory than the outcome of genuine grief. If a rabbi of distinction dies, you see Jewish women rush forward to thrust letters into his hands for delivery to departed friends as he is carried on the bier to the house of the living.—Interior.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY MAY 12..... 1888

A Great House Forced To Suspend.

Every citizen of Inyo county will deeply regret that on last Monday the wholesale commission house of Wm. T. Coleman & Co. made an assignment to L. L. Baker and Louis Sloss for the benefit of their creditors. Frank S. Johnson, managing partner of the firm, submitted a statement to the effect that the firm was unable to realize upon its assets immediately, and in view of pressing engagements in New York, where the call upon them for money was urgent, they had decided to make an assignment in order to prevent the dissipation of their property. Johnson places the assets of the firm at from $4,000,000 to $4,500,000 and its liabilities at $2,000,000. The indebtedness in California, with the exception of a number of small amounts, is confined to four banks and two individuals. Johnson further states that among the most valuable assets of the firm is borax property which is valued at $2,000,000, and that negotiations for its sale were in a fair way to be consummated when the announcement of the Tariff bill placing borax on the free list tended to defeat the efforts in that direction. The firm is confident that its resources are sufficient to more than meet all its engagements.

It is said that the firm is indebted to the Bank of California to the amount of $190,000, of which $150,000 is secured. It is also estimated that the firm owes the Bank of British Columbia $100,000, the Nevada Bank $220,000 and Bank of British North America $100,000.

It is stated that of the whole amount of Coleman & Co.'s indebtedness one-half is in this State and the other half is in the East, the greater part of the latter being held by New England banks. The Nevada Bank called in its loans some time ago, and the failure of the house to respond to that has probably been the cause of the collapse.

The house has agencies in Astoria, Oregon; New York, Chicago and London. It also acts as agent for a large number of manufacturing and producing establishments, and for the principle salmon canneries on the Columbia, Fraser and Sacramento rivers and several in Alaska. In the shipping department it is agent for several lines of clippers to and from Australia, China and South America. The business of the firm is said to amount to $14,000,000 per year.

LABOR NOTES.

There are 50,000 colored Knights of Labor.

Virginia is to have a state bureau of labor statistics.

Labor unions in all large cities complain of labor bureaus sending men far away to work and starve, the work giving out.

A large cotton factory, 300 feet long by 75 feet wide, is being built on top of the Cumberland mountain, North Carolina.

Knights of Labor petitions are circulating asking congress to have all convict made goods plainly marked "Convict labor."

Pennsylvania has abandoned prison labor, and in one prison 350 convicts are begging for something to do, as without occupation their imprisonment amounts to solitary confinement.

The twenty-second annual convention of the Bricklayers' International union will meet in Boston Jan. 10, 1888. Among the subjects to be discussed is the further reduction of working time from nine to eight hours.

The English board of trade has made a report in which it alleges that the number of paupers in the country now are only 24.7 to the 1,000, while in 1870 there were 40 to the 1,000, and that the total number has fallen from 900,000 to 697,000, while the population has increased by 5,700,000. In London, it is alleged, there are now only 21 paupers to 1,000 inhabitants.

The Indians of Alaska.

The husbands have seemingly everything to do with the management of common property, as far as use and employment are concerned, but the instant it is to go out of the household by sale or barter, the better half (or two thirds to three fourths) regulates the entire affair, and can annul or veto any sale or exchange of her husband's even after the money has been passed to an exchange of goods. This singular state of affairs has caused more petty trouble in Alaska between the whites and Indians than any other source I can now recall. Most of the white men there are of that kind who hate to see a woman "stick her jaw in," especially to undo a good bargain that they thought was past recalling. The husband has no such right in the woman's shopping, nor does he ever think of anything more than the meekest suggestions in such matters.

Not that the husbands are "hen pecked" at all, as my remarks might imply, for beyond the peculiar relations I have explained, there seems to be no difference between them and the ordinary run of other people in like conditions. The women do the hard work of the household, and the men the harder work of keeping it supplied with everything; and rough and severe as the work necessarily is, it is somewhat fairly divided according to the strength and capability of each. No such brutal sight, once so common among the Indians of lower latitudes, as an active young warrior (?) reclining in the shade while his wife and aged mother did the men's work toward making him comfortable, is ever seen in Alaska.—Lieut. Frederick Schwatka in Demorest's Magazine.

Evictions in New York City.

There are now each year, and there have been for many years, more evictions of tenants by landlords in New York city, with its population of 1,500,000, than there have been in corresponding periods in all Ireland, with its population of about 5,000,000. Once every few months the American correspondents in London cable to their papers in the United States vivid accounts of heartrending cruelty on the part of English land owners toward unfortunate occupants of shanty houses and poor farms. Once every few years the New York reporters have to write for their papers a story of the misery of a family ejected from the two or three wretched rooms in a rickety seven story tenement, because the relentless agent of the millionaire owner must have "the money or the rooms."

Ireland's woe is not as great as is New York's. The sheriffs in Ireland do not have so many cases of eviction to deal with in a month as do the marshals of New York's eleven district courts in a week. From June 30, 1885, to June 30, 1886, there were turned out of their homes, in all Ireland, according to parliamentary report, 2,088 families, aggregating 8,817 persons. In a similar period, twelve months, in New York city there were evicted 22,804 families, or 124,029 persons, estimating five members to a family. This shows that the evictions in this city each year are nearly eleven times as many as in Ireland.—New York Cor. Chicago Times.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE.
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—
The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.
All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Notice Of Change Of Text Books.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY THE Board of Education of Inyo county, California, that said Board proposes to change the following text books now in use in the public schools of said county, to wit: Theory and Practice of Teaching, Music, Entomology, Book-keeping, Composition, Penmanship, Industrial Drawing, English and American Literature, Physics, Algebra and Natural History. And that sealed bids, or proposals will be received by said Board for furnishing books to replace those mentioned above, or any part thereof. Said bids, or proposals, must be accompanied by sample copies of the books proposed to be furnished, together with a statement of the wholesale and retail price at which the publisher agrees to furnish each book, within the county, during the full time for which said books are to be adopted. The publisher or publishers whose proposals shall be accepted must enter into a written contract with said Board, and shall give a good and sufficient bond in a reasonable amount, with sureties, for the faithful performance thereof. Said bids or proposals will be opened by the Board at Independence, Inyo county, Cal., at ten o'clock a. m., on Tuesday the 5th day of June 1888. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Board of Education of Inyo county.

Attest: J. H. SHANNON, Secretary.
[SEAL.]
Dated April 26, 1888. Bishop Creek, Cal.

EXECUTOR'S SALE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, THAT IN pursuance of an order of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, made on the 19th day of April, 1888, in the matter of the estate of Duncan Campbell, deceased, the undersigned, executors of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, gold coin of the United States, on Thursday, the 10th day of May, 1888, at the late residence of the said deceased, at Big Pine, in said county, the following personal property, to wit: Ten head of horses, more or less, being all the horses belonging to said estate.

NATHAN RHINE,
S. G. GREGG,
Executors of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased.

Dated April 19, 1888.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1246.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
April 27, 1888.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on June 4, 1888, viz: Michael Bush, for the S W ¼ of S E ¼, E ½ of S W ¼ & S E ¼ of N W ¼, Sec 24, Twp 11 S, R 34 E, M D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: Alonzo McKellops, Andrew J. Ween, James Lane and William R. Tibbetts, all of Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
o m14. Register.

PUBLIC NOTICE

INDEPENDENCE, April 30, 1888.

During my absence from this County and State Mr. Nathan Rhine is authorized to act as my agent. HENRY FEHRMAN

TO ADVERTISERS

A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATES AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.

To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various editions of our Select Local List. GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce Street, New York.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,
MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for outdoor parties.

☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜
☞ Of the C. & C. Railroad. ☜

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK
Livery, Feed & Sale Stable.
JOHN CLARKE, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

Pioneer
Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and

Livery Accommodations

in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.

O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge, No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

BELL'S
Flouring Mills,
A. N. BELL, Prop.
TRY BELL'S
EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL.
Independence, Cal.

THOS CROUGH. W. T. GRANT
GRANT & CROUGH.
Real Estate & Mining Agency.
INDEPENDENCE - - - - CAL.
Searchers of Titles and Furnishers of Abstracts. After a business experience of twenty years in the county we are prepared to furnish all information of value to purchasers of real estate and mining properties. Reports furnished and all correspondence receive careful and confidential. GRANT & CROUGH
J. W. P. LAIRD, Attorney for the Firm.

JOHN C. EVANS, Sherman, Mo., writes: "I stand up and affirm that a Washer saves more hard labor and money in a large family than any Keeper and Mover that ever was put on any farm with less than a team in cultivation. If you will get up any nonsense that will take so much labor off of men as this Washer takes off the women, and save as much money as it does and send me one, I could sell one at every house. I have had to take the feathers from under their wife and tables to pay for it."
JOHN R. DODGE, JR., jeweler, Newark, Ills., writes: "I do not know what I think of the Washer I bought last summer. Yet it is the best machine ever invented by man. Yet. We have just as good dinners on Monday as on any other day. Yet. If you run short, you can not buy more for glory."
Still, ship a sample to this. Sending an agent on a week's trial on liberal terms. A thousand per cent the best seller in the world for saving labor, clothes and soap. Pays capable agents big money. Write for particulars.
J. WORTH, 1710 Franklin Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

EDWARD CHENOT,
Independence, Cal.,
INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO extensive Stock of
GENERAL MERCHANDISE
....Consisting of....
GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS
Tobacco, Cigars,
WINES AND LIQUORS
FLOUR & GRAIN
Together with an Assortment of
DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING
ETC., ETC.
☞ Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere. E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
947dly.

THE GRAND SALOON,
LONE PINE - CAL.
RICHARDS & CASTRO
BILLIARD HALL AND PUBLIC RESORT. Choicest Liquors, the finest quality of Wines Imported Cigars. Pleasant rooms to greet really are invited to call. 36Nm3*

Sulphur & Borax Baths
AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA
On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad.
These valuable Springs offer special
INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS
TAKE WINTER CONTRACTS
SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.
And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing
When used for bathing purposes.
THE BATH HOUSE HAS BEEN REBUILT, and is large.
SWIMMING BATH
Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.
Excellent Accommodations,
—AND—
Board by the Day, Week, or the Month
MARTIN BRAZ, NOUGUE, Prop.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PROPOSALS FOR BOARDING INYO COUNTY PRISONERS.

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of Inyo county, at the office of the County Clerk until Tuesday, May 8, 1888, at 12 o'clock M., for the boarding of Inyo county prisoners, for the term of one year, beginning May 10th 1888 and ending May 10th, 1889, said bids to designate the price per diem for each prisoner, and said board to be paid for by warrants drawn upon the General Expense Fund, upon bills duly verified and presented at the regular meetings of said Board of Supervisors.

Proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for Boarding County Prisoners," and the same will be opened between the hours of one o'clock and four o'clock P. M. on said 8th day of May, 1888, and the Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. J. D. HARGER,
Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk. Chairman.

Proposals for Care of Indigent Sick of Inyo County.

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of Inyo county, at the office of the County Clerk until 12 o'clock M., on Tuesday, May 8th, 1888, to contract for the care of said indigent sick for the term of one year from May 10th 1888 to May 11th, 1889, said bids to designate the amount for which parties contracting will care for said indigent sick on the basis of an average of four patients per day throughout the year, and to include all medicine, nursing, board, lodging and washing. Said bids to include the burial and funeral expenses of any indigent sick person or persons who may die while under such care.

Said contractor to care for all the indigent sick properly admitted to the contractor's care. And said bids to designate the price per head at which all excess of patients over the average of four each day throughout the year will be cared for, said excess to be paid for by extra allowance on presentation of bills duly sworn to, at the regular meeting of said Board immediately after said contract has expired. The average four per day to be paid for at the regular meeting of the Board on presentation of bills duly verified. All payments to be made on warrants drawn upon the Hospital Fund of said county.

The person or persons to whom said contract shall be awarded shall give a good and sufficient bond in double the sum of the contract price, for the faithful performance of said contract.

The care and management of said indigent sick by such contractor shall be at all times subject to the inspection of said Board of Supervisors, or any member thereof, or any person appointed by the Board for such purpose.

Said proposals must be endorsed, "Proposals for Care of Indigent Sick," and the same will be opened between the hours of one o'clock and four o'clock P. M., on the said 8th day of May, 1888, and the Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. J. D. HARGER,
Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk. Chairman.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1292.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
Mar. 20th, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on May 19th, 1888, viz.: Charles Mulholland for the S ½ of N E ¼, N ½ of S E ¼ Sec 14, Tp 14 S, Range 35 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John Shepherd, James E. Shepherd, John Kispert and James R. Moffet, all of Independence Inyo County, California.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Estate of B. S. GLOVER deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY the undersigned, Executor of the estate of B. S. Gover, deceased, to the Creditors and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said Executor at his store on the southeast corner of Main and Line streets, in the town of Bishop Creek, in said County, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate. W. O. MERGNEY,
Executor of the estate of B. S. Glover, deceased.

Dated at Bishop Creek, March 7, 1888.

TAKE
SIMMONS
LIVER REGULATOR
For all Diseases of the
Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. L. M. HINTON, M. D., Washington, Ark.

SEE THAT YOU GET THE GENUINE.
PREPARED BY
J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. ☞ 256 pages, 8½ x 11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

IRWIN'S SALOON
Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,
Independence, Cal.
THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt and refurnished in a style second to no one this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.
THE BAR
Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.
JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb22

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.
FORBES & TOBEY,
HAWTHORNE, NEV.,
—DEALERS IN—
LUMBER
OF ALL KINDS.
DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.
Matched and Dressed Flooring.
sept 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!
We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 per evening and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer: To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel.
Indepen - - - Cal.
H. LEVY, Proprietor.
FIRST CLASS HOTEL
DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—
Will be found acceptable to all patrons.
Free Bus To and From The Cars.
Jy 1 86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN).
Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.
W. E. LINDSEY,
—Dealer in—
Gravestones Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.
—Agent for—
PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.
Virginia Street, Below Second,
Reno, Nevada.
oct 23 tf

AL. GRIFFITH.
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTING.
GRAINING AND
PAPER HANGING.
FINE CARRIAGE PAINTING.
FIRST CLASS WORK.
AL. GRIFFITH,
Independence

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work, either sex, young or old; no capital or special ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | From Mound House. No. 1. | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave— | Arrive— |
| Mound House | 9 15 a. m. | 5 25 p. m. |
| Dayton | 9 45 a. m. | 4 45 p. m. |
| Wabuska | 12 45 p. m. | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | 4 30 p. m. | 10 40 a. m. |
| Luning | 5 50 p. m. | 9 20 a. m. |
| Sodа Springs | 7 0 p. m. | 8 0 a. m. |
| Belleville | 8 10 p. m. | 7 0 a. m. |
| Candelaria | Ar. 8 50 p. m. | Lv. 6 30 a. m. |
| | No. 3 | No. 4 |
| | Leave— | Arrive— |
| Belleville | 7 30 a. m. | 5 25 p. m. |
| Benton | 1 00 p. m. | 1 55 p. m. |
| Bishop Creek | 1 10 p. m. | 11 0 a. m. |
| Alkali | 2 00 p. m. | 10 15 a. m. |
| Independence | 3 30 p. m. | 9 05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | 4 25 p. m. | 8 5 a. m. |
| Keeler | Ar. 5 05 p. m. | Lv. 7 0 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V & T. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections.

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); inside (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (175 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Dunderville, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.
R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.
D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

ESTABLISHED 1846 MUNN & Co. PATENTS NEW YORK

After Forty years' experience in the preparation of more than One Hundred Thousand applications for patents in the United States and Foreign countries, the publishers of the Scientific American continue to act as solicitors for patents, caveats, trade-marks, copyrights, etc., for the United States, and to obtain patents in Canada, England, France, Germany, and all other countries. Their experience is unequaled and their facilities are unsurpassed.

Drawings and specifications prepared and filed in the Patent Office on short notice. Terms very reasonable. No charge for examination of models or drawings. Advice by mail free.

Patents obtained through Munn & Co. are noticed in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has the largest circulation and is the most influential newspaper of its kind published in the world. The advantages of such a notice every patentee understands.

This large and splendidly illustrated newspaper is published WEEKLY at $3.00 a year, and is admitted to be the best paper devoted to science, mechanics, inventions, engineering works, and other departments of industrial progress, published in any country. It contains the names of all patentees and title of every invention patented each week. Try it four months for one dollar. Sold by all newsdealers.

If you have an invention to patent write to Munn & Co., publishers of Scientific American, 361 Broadway, New York.

Handbook about patents mailed free.

Wheeler & Wilson
Sewing Machine.
New No. 8.
"THE BEST!"
Sales Made on Installment Plan.
Old Machines Exchanged for.
Farm Produce Taken in Payment.
This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really
First-Class Machine.
Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.
C. W. MULHOLLAND,
Agent.
Independence, Cal.

FRUIT TREES
All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.
—The Best Varieties Of—
Apples,
Pears,
Peaches
& Plums.
Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.
Call and Look Over My Stock.
AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.
S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

NATHAN RHINE.
NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)
Merchant,
INDEPENDENCE
INYO CO., CAL.,
Wholesale and Retail
....DEALER IN....
General Merchandise.
MY STOCK
Consisting of most every new article is well calculated to suit the wants of everybody; and, as the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.
NATHAN RHINE.
n262-6

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.
NATHAN RHINE
BANKER,
Independence, Cal
SELL EXCHANGE
—ON—
SAN FRANCISCO.
DRAW DIRECT
—ON—
NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN,
FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany.
I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT kinds
GENERAL BANKING
—AND—
Exchange Business.
Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.
Deutsche Vollmachten getätigt. Geldsendungen von uns nach Deutschland besorgt.
AGENT FOR
Wells, Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $55,000,000
LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - - $11,000,000
BLACKSMITHING,
Horseshoeing, General Iron
—AND—
WAGON WORK.
PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP
C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.
Horseshoeing.....$2 50 for Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, MAY 12 ..... ....1888

Mrs. C. Ober is staying at Independence.

Mr. A. Walker was up from Olancha during the week.

Dr. I. J. Woodin has been reappointed County Physician.

Billy Hedge appears to be improving a little, though still very weak.

Mr. B. F. Leete, of Reno, arrived at Independence last Monday.

Mr. J. R. Hawley and wife, of Darwin came up to town last Thursday.

J. J. Stewart and J. E. Reynolds were up from Lone Pine last Tuesday.

Every train brings something new for the great variety of goods at Rhine's store.

Bonds to the amount of $2500 have been voted for a school house at George's Creek.

Mrs. Richards and her son, Alfred Viel, of Lone Pine, were in town some days this week.

Greenly and Broder continue to take out very rich ore from their mine at Deep Spring.

Mr. James McIntosh was in town last Wednesday; his friends are always glad to see him.

John Thomas, Cerro Gordo, and Bill Richards, of Darwin, came up on the train Thursday morning.

The Board of Supervisors accepted the bid of Mrs. Lewis and the county hospital is again at Independence.

Tom Bastian has again been very ill during the early part of the week. Dr. Woodin reports him a little better.

Mr. A. W. Eibeshutz and wife left town last Wednesday on a trip to Los Angeles. They went by way of Mojave.

Mr. C. W. Adamson arrived at Independence last Monday from Petaluma. He is here looking after interests in land.

Sheep are swarming into the county by thousands; the license ordinance appears to attract the sheep men, rather than repel them.

Gus. McGovern came up from Lookout at the beginning of the week and is taking a rest after several months hard work in the Minnietta mine.

Judging by recent events in the United States Senate John L. Sullivan would be the right man in the right place as a member of that body.

Some days ago a girl's cloak was found in the road at Georges Creek. The owner can have the same by applying at the residence of Mr. Henry Glade.

O. I. Mairs has the contract for boarding the county prisoners. It is an advantageous contract for the county, one that the taxpayers ought to be well satisfied with.

Sheriff Gregg is now busy collecting the sheep license tax of five cents per head. Thousands of sheep are now in the valley and a good sum should be collected.

Farm hands and men to work with horses on canals are wanted in Owens valley. Current wages $35. per month and board. The climate pleasant and very healthy. Railroad the entire length of the valley.

Quite a convenience to strangers having business at the Court House, will be the new gilt signs put up at the doors of the several offices in the building. The signs were made by Mr. Al. Viel and are a very neat job of lettering and gilding.

The hotels at Independence are constantly filled to overflowing. It is a frequent occurrence that beds for guests have to be sought for in private dwellings. Three years ago it was very diff rent; then not a guest would be found at any of the hotels in town for days together.

Melville W. Fuller, the new Chief Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, is said to be a very nervous, restless man. He cannot sit still and listen to nonsense. He may make a very good Chief Justice, but certainly would be quite unqualified for being a Justice of Peace.

Editors are the kindest hearted people in the world. A subscriber to a certain paper died a few years ago, leaving 14 years subscription unpaid. The editor appeared at the grave when the lid was screwed on and put in the coffin a palm leaf fan, a linen duster and a receipt for making artificial ice.—Exchange.

The proposal in Congress to put borax on the free list has forced the great House of William T. Coleman & Co to make an assignment. For months we have been trying to show that there is hardly a county in the United States that would not be injured by free trade. Here is the proof how it will affect Inyo county.

Two years ago a piece of land near Independence was offered for six thousand dollars. One year ago the same tract was held at eight thousand dollars. Now the owner has fixed his price at fifteen thousand dollars. The tract contains three hundred and twenty acres. Nowhere else in the county is property of all kinds so rapidly increasing in value as within a distance of ten to twelve miles around Independence.

A terrible deed was committed in Virginia City last Friday. John Black murdered his brother, Samuel Black. The deceased was aged 67 years; the murderer is a few years older, Samuel Black went to Virginia in 1859 and John the next year. They had frequent disputes about business transactions. The deceased had been shot near the heart and there were two wounds in the head from which the brains oozed out. The murderer is in jail.

A week ago it was stated that Rev. J. H. De La Matyr would return to Independence to take charge of the Methodist Church. Since then he has been forced to go to Virginia City to take charge of the church there, in consequence of sickness in the family of the Pastor of that Church. Mr. De La Matyr writes that a minister from the east will arrive at Independence soon to take charge of the Church; he is a young man and comes very well recommeded.

The Esmeralda News says:—Again we have the pleasure of noting another rich strike in Hawthorne Mining District. This time the lucky men are Al. Finny and John Hammond, and the mine the Bright Light, which is a southern extension of the Early Dawn mine, owned by Messrs. Kimball and Ganong. While at work sinking a shaft on their claim, Finny and Hammond ran on to a two foot ledge, from which they have extracted nuggets as large as a $5 piece.

The Little Blaze.

BISHOP CREEK, May 9, 1888.

The true facts of the fire that occurred last week in one of the rooms of the Academy are about as follows: Mr. C. L Logan had placed a patent incubator in one of the unfinished rooms; it seemed to be doing well until the evening mentioned, when some one discovered the presence of smoke. The alarm was given and Ed. Clarke, who was taking a book-keeping lesson at the time, rushed into the room in question and was met at the door with suffocating volumes of smoke; with presence of mind he rushed into an adjoining apartment, tore up a piece of carpet, and succeeded in smothering the flames until water could be brought, and the last spark was soon extinguished. The eggs, it seems, were not hatched after all. The fire decidedly originated with the incubator.

W. J. PHILLIAPY,

And many other citizens.

Held For Trial

The examination of W. T. C. Elliott, charged with the murder of John B. White, was begun at Independence before C. Mulholland last Monday. On Tuesday District Attorney Forbes submitted the case for the People. The defendent did not call any witnesses nor make any statements. The Court decided that the defendant be held without bail to answer to a charge of murder. It would not be proper now to make any comment on the testimony offered at the examination. The scene in Court when Mrs. Elliott, neice of the deceased, was examined, was of deep and painful interest. A very fine map of the locality of the tragedy has been prepared by County Surveyor McKnight. This map shows accurately the location of the body of John B. White when found; the location and distance of the buildings and of footsteps described in the evidence. The map will be of value at the trial.

Academy Exercises.

The Third Annual Commencement of Inyo Academy occurs the first week in June. Entertainments, speeches and lectures will begin Saturday evening, June 2d, and last till June 6th. Everybody is invited.

There will be an educational meeting at Lone Pine on Sunday, May 27th, at 11 o'clock a. m. An educational meeting will be held at the Methodist Church, Independence, Wednesday evening, May 30th. Rev. E U. Van Deventer, speaker. There will be an educational meeting at Big Pine, Thursday evening, May 31st. We invite the public spirited in these several communities to assist in securing rousing audiences for the addresses.

Cattle Ordinance

The Mono county cattle men do not appear to favor any effort to contest the cattle license ordinance. The Bridgeport Chronicle-Union says that T. B. Rickey informed the cattle men of Inyo county that he had studied the matter thoroughly and had taken the best of legal advice, and was satisfied the Ordinance could not be "beaten," and he was not willing to have anything to do with any contest, as it would be throwing away good money. He is willing to have the Ordinance tried this year, and trust to the judgement of the people and the next Board of Supervisors as to the propriety of reducing or repealing it, next Winter. As long as our resident cattle owners pay the license, outsiders will have an uphill fight on their hands to "beat" the Ordinance.

The Picnic

The school pic-nic at Camp Independence last Saturday was far more enjoyable than such affairs usually are. As a rule pic-nic's are something of a bore, except to children; but this was as much of a pleasure to older people as to the very young. The May Pole dance by the school children was as gay as could be. Miss Ella Malone made a pleasing address of welcome, and the teacher, Mr. D. Crough added a short appropriate address. Miss Annie Bell was crowned as the May Queen with proper ceremonies and singing. Then came games and other amusements till near sunset. In the evening a dance was had; Independence band giving the music. From first to last the affair passed pleasantly.

A Sheep License Case

Last Wednesday Mark Watterson passed near Independence with a band of sheep. Sheriff Gregg informed Mr. Watterson that he must take out a license as provided in Ordinances passed by the Board of Supervisors. Mr. Watterson refused to take out a license whereupon the District Attorney began an action against him to compel payment of the license, and for the recovery of damages. The case is now pending before C. Mulholland, Justice of the Peace at Independence.

Appointed Agent

I hereby give notice that I am duly accredited as agent for Mrs. Harris, of San Francisco, to transact business for her in Inyo county. Town lots at Independence now for sale. Map can be seen at my store. Apply to L. WOOD,
Independence.

Moonlight boating parties on Owens Lake during the summer months would be just too nice for anything; and at Keeler the summer lasts about nine months in the year. Uncle John Barnes will please take the hint.

There was only a quorum of the members present at the meeting of the Board of Supervisors this week. Mr. Boland is at Los Angeles and Mr. Eddred is at San Francisco attending the meeting of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows.

For some days past Mr. Alison Wheeler former Superintendant at Swansea had been at Cerro Gordo examining the Yellow and other mines. He was accompanied by a mining expert named Knapp and another party by the name of Johnston. All three left Keeler last Wednesday for Mojave.

Senator Stewart, of Nevada, has introduced a bill in the United States Senate, asking an appropriation of $100,000 for a Post Office at Reno. We wish California could borrow Senator Stewart for a few months in place of our other Senator, whom everybody appears to have forgotten.

About two weeks ago Pat Keyes went up on the White Hill prospecting. Within a day or two he struck a vein of ore. He has already developed quite a nice ore body that shows all the indications of turning out well. Pat Downs is getting ready to pack supplies up to the hill and to pack out ore already taken out. The White Hill country is a good region for prospectors.

Last Saturday Mr. O. I. Mairs kindly provided several teams and wagons to convey parties to the pic-nic at Camp Independence. One of the teams was left standing on the street unattended but for an instant. The horses were high spirited and started on a run; the wagon was upset and smashed. In trying to stop the team Arley Mairs got thrown down and bruised on one leg, but not seriously. No further damage was done.

SUPERVISORS' PROCEEDINGS.

INDEPENDENCE, May 7 1888.

The Board of Supervisors of Inyo county met at Independence on the above date. Present J. D. Harger and E. Robinson.

Absent—Supervisors Eddy, Eldred and Boland.

The Board adjourned till 10 o'clock a. m. Tuesday May 8 1888.

TUESDAY May 8 1888.

On the above named day the Board of Supervisors met pursuant to adjournment.

Present—J. D. Harger, Chairman E. Robinson.

Absent—Eddy, Boland and Eldred.

No quorum being present the Board adjourned till 2 o'clock p. m. of the same day.

The Board met at 2 o'clock p. m. pursuant to adjournment.

Present—J. D. Harger, Chairman, E. Robinson, J. C. Eddy.

Absent—Boland and Eldred.

The minutes of February 10th., March 7th, and May 7th, were read and approved.

The Board proceeded to examine bids for boarding county prisoners and for care of indigent sick.

J. H. Dodge and Mrs. Stewart, of Lone Pine, and Mrs. Lewis of Independence, each had entered a bid for caring for the sick. The Board gave the contract to Mrs. Lewis she being the lowest bidder, the sum being $640 on a basis of an average of four sick persons daily, and for all over that number sixty cents each per day.

For boarding county prisoners H. Levy and O. I. Mairs had each entered a bid. The contract was given to O. I. Mairs, his bid being the lowest, and the price being fifty cents per day for each prisoner.

The Board ordered that a County Physician be appointed at a salary of six hundred dollars per annum.

The following bills were allowed and warrants issued for the amounts.

| | |
|---|---|
| A. W. Eibeshutz..mdse | $12 00 |
| N. Rice ..... | 18 92 |
| Mrs. A. Stewart ..... | 16 75 |
| I. J. Woodin, Health Officer | 500 00 |
| A. E. Janvier..B'd Ed. | 10 00 |
| W. James .... labor | 8 25 |
| D. Crough .....services | 10 00 |
| A. Carlisle & Co books etc. | 126 25 |
| H. Levy ....B'dn'g prisoners | 12 60 |
| J. H. Shannon..B'd Ed. | 23 50 |
| " " .....visit'g schools | 11 00 |
| E. Chenot.....mdse | 4 50 |
| P. H. Mack...postage, expressage etc. | 14 05 |
| Mrs. J. Kepler....Janitress | 30 00 |
| H. G. Pinney, Constable's fees | 68 40 |
| J. J. Moore.....postage | 1 90 |
| S. G. Gregg.....sundries | 6 60 |
| H. H. Howell....B'd Ed. | 18 50 |
| P. A. Chadbant....for deputy Assessor | 200 00 |
| H. S. Crocker & Co..blanks | 22 50 |
| A. W. Eibeshutz....abstract of land location | 57 40 |
| P. W. Forbes...traveling ex. | 20 25 |
| P. A. Chadbant..sundries | 23 25 |

The Board adjourned till 9 o'clock a. m. May 9 1888.

WEDNESDAY, May 9, 1888.

The Board met at 9 o'clock a. m., present Harger, Eddy and Robinson.

Minutes of preceeding day read and approved.

Proposal of H. Levy to convey sick from hospital at Lone to hospital at Camp Independence accepted; amount, $10.

The following bills were allowed:

| | |
|---|---|
| J. W. P. Laird, B'd of Ed. | $ 10 00 |
| D. Crough, writing testimony | 10 00 |
| C. S. Swan, lumber and labor | 8 23 |
| W. A. Chadbant, printing | 13 25 |
| C. Mulholland, printing and fees | 367 22 |
| A. Smith, labor and material | 19 00 |
| C. Meysan, mdse | 2 75 |
| W. F. Mathack, Coroner's fees | 23 75 |
| W. H. George M. D., post mortem | 50 00 |
| I. J. Woodin M. D., Co. Physician | 150 00 |
| O. I. Mairs, stage fare | 2 75 |
| Mrs. A. Stewart, Co. Hos. | 1114 00 |
| H. Evans, road work and plow | 85 00 |
| W. H. Powers " " | 47 50 |
| M. S. McLeod " " | 62 75 |
| W. James " " | 115 72 |
| G. H. Palmer " " | 297 50 |
| J. C. Eddy " " | 126 00 |
| T. Boland, conveying sick to Hos. | 3 75 |

Reports of Road Overseers of Districts Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 accepted and approved.

Bill of the Independence Water Co. laid over till the August meeting of the Board.

Bill of Mrs. Stevens for plowing, rejected.

Ordered, that Ordinances Nos. 22, 23, 24 25 and 26 have been published according to law.

G. H. Palmer withdrew a petition he had filed in reference to a road at Lone Pine.

On motion of Mr. Eddy seconded by Mr. Robinson I. J. Woodin was reappointed Co. Physician.

The Board rejected petitions for roads at Big Pine and Lone Pine, and for abatement of a nuisance at Independence.

Application of P. A. Chadbant for extra allowance for Deputy Assessor laid over till next regular meeting.

D. Crough and J. W. P. Laird were reappointed members of the Board of Education.

The boundary line between Bishop Creek and Irving school districts was so changed as to include to Irving district lands of S. J. Newlon, John Barlow and Mrs. Wayland.

Rates of toll on the Deep Spring toll road were fixed as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| For each wagon and pr of horses | $1 00 |
| " " additional pr of horses | 50 |
| " " horse and rider | 25 |
| " " pack animal | 12½ |
| " " sheep, goat or swine | 5 |

Petition for a bridge at Big Pine laid over till next regular meeting.

THURSDAY, May 10, 1888.

The Board met pursuant to adjournment at 10 o'clock a. m., some members present.

Minutes of preceeding day read and approved.

Bill of S. G. Gregg for returned poll tax allowed, $6.

Reports of Treasurer and Auditor examined and approved.

Bond of Mrs. Lewis for hospital received and approved.

Ordered, that bonds be issued for a school house at Big Pine to amount of $2 500.

The following transfers of money in the County Treasury were ordered:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| From Bond to Hospital Fund | | $ 300 00 |
| " Salary | " " | 200 00 |
| " " | Gen. Exp. " | 2500 00 |
| " Gen. F'd to Dist. No. 7 F'd | | 2 83 |

Ordered, that County Physician discharge all patients not needing further treatment at County Hospital.

Ordered, that H. Levy on next Monday convey all patients in the hospital at Lone Pine to the hospital at Camp Independence.

Ordered, that bonds be issued for a school house at Georges Creek to the am't of $2,500.

The following bills for the per diem and mileage of the members of the Board were allowed:

| | |
|---|---|
| J. D. Harger | $38 10 |
| E. Robinson | 24 30 |
| J. C. Eddy | 34 80 |

This finished the busines of the session and the Board adjourned.

L. Wood keeps choice selection of all kinds of notions and candies.

SPRING STOCK

-IN ENDLESS VARIETY-

Just Received

--AT--

NATHAN RHONE'S

Call And Examine.

SAMPLES ON APPLICATION

The Belmont mine, two miles south east from Cerro Gordo, turned out a good deal of rich ore in the palmy days of that camp. During several years that mine has been neglected, but recently Jack Davis got a lease of the property and has already taken out several tons of ore of good quality. Much of the ore taken out in the old times went from $500 to $1,000 per ton. The mine is patented and belongs to Mr. W. L. Hunter. Kelly and McGraw are also working with good results in the same locality.

Near Lone Pine is a noteworthy rock. A photograph of the rock shows as like as possible to the photograph of an elephant. The trunk, the eyes, the head and body, are all as well formed in the photograph as if the camera had been turned toward a living animal. The wrinkles and folds in the skin of an elephant and the color are all repeated in the rock. The symetry and proportions of the living animal are reproduced in this remarkable freak of nature.

Mr Henry Levy has established a new stage line between the town and the railroad station, or Citrus, as we must learn to call it. Guests for Mr. Levy's Hotel will be carried to and from the station free of cost. For all others the stage fare will be fifty cents each way. If notice be left at the hotel office the stage will call at any part of town for passengers. A large and comfortable new stage has been provided. Light parcels and packages of all kinds carried to the station or delivered at any part of town at reasonable cost.

Last Thursday water was turned into the Stevens ditch from the river. Messrs Stevens and Skinner and others interested in this ditch may well be proud that their work is completed. They are all poor men and have labored under many disadvantages, but they have accomplished what they proposed and now have a valuable property and will speedily begin to gather the fruits of their labor, patience and faith. Their canal will irrigate a large and fine body of land that will make many good farms. In a year or two there will be many new settlers located on the land irrigated by this canal.

Who Spends Money

For advertising in newspapers in these hard times, without first obtaining an estimate of the cost from geo. P. Rowell & Co's newspaper Advertising Bureau, No 10 Spruce Street, New York, is likely to pay $15 for what might be obtained for $5. Such estimate is furnished to all applicants gratis. Send 10 cents for 176 page pamphlet with list of newspaper rates and references.

Boot & Shoe Shop,

A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.

Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

NORMAN HOUSE,

Independence, - - Cal.

New House,
New Furniture,
Low Rates.

☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. I. MAIRS, Prop.

feb12tf

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,

Sheriff and Tax Collector,

INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,

District Attorney,

INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,

County Treasurer,

INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,

Attorney-at-Law.

Independence, Cal.

Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

THIS PAPER IS ON FILE

—AT—

PALMER & REY'S

ADVERTISING BUREAU!

405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco.

—AND AT—

PALMER & REY'S

Pacific States Advertising Bureau

46 Tribune Building,

NEW YORK.

Where Advertising Contracts can be made.

INDEPENDENCE SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair-Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR SALE.

813 acres of land within one mile of railroad. As fine land for fruit, vineyard, vegetables or alalfa as there is in the State. All with perfect water right. Will cut up to suit purchasers.

520 acres two miles from railroad. 80 or 90 inches of water. A fine locality. Good stock range. 160 acres fine barley land.

A fine dairy ranch, consisting of 480 acres suitably located for market, with 150 head of cattle 45 of them No. 1 dairy cows. Perfect titles to land and water. Improvements on all. Apply to

Grant & Crough,

Independence, Cal.

Richly REWARDED are those who read this and then act; they will find honorable employment that will not take them from their homes and families. The profits are large and sure for an industrious person, many have made and are now making several hundred dollars a month. It is easy for anyone to make $5 and upwards per day, who is willing to work Either sex, young or old; capital not needed; we start you. Everything new; no special ability required; you reader, can do it as well as any one. Write to us at once for full particulars, which we mail free. Address Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

115 CLAY STREET. 117

SMITH'S STORE

is The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.

CASH.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

INDEPENDENCE MARKET,

J. Roeper, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or 4 stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why. Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, to told. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read. Sent free by DR. WHITTIER St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

TUTT'S PILLS

25 YEARS IN USE.

The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age.

SYMPTOMS OF A TORPID LIVER.

Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine, and

CONSTIPATION.

TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer. They Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 44 Murray St., N.Y.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.

GRAY HAIR OR WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.

Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

FRED BURCKHARDT

Watchmaker & Jeweler,

LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

☞ All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

Bishop Creek, Cal.,

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

GENERAL MERCH...

The Newest Styles

OF

Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc

AT

L. WOOD'S

CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH STORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:

HAWTHORNE NEV.

BRANCHES:

Wabuska, Nev.,

CONSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.

AGENCIES:

WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

au25tf

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer in GENERAL MERCHANDISE, GROCERIES MINERS Supplies

PROVISIONS,

&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

FREE TRIAL PACKAGE. FOR MEN ONLY

PROF. HARRIS' Pastille

A RADICAL CURE FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY, Organic Weakness & PHYSICAL DECAY, in Young & Middle Aged Men.

NERVOUS DEBILITY, Organic Weakness, Decay, and numerous unsuccessful attempts by the skilled physician, result from youthful indiscretion, too free indulgence, or over brain work. Avoid the impositions of pretentious remedies for these troubles. Get our Free Circular and Trial Package, and learn important facts before taking treatment elsewhere. This is a SURE REMEDY and has CURED thousands, does not interfere with attention to business, or cause pain or inconvenience in any way. Founded on scientific medical principles. By direct application to the seat of disease its specific influence is felt without delay. The natural functions of the human organism is restored. The animating elements of life, which have been wasted are given back, and the patient becomes cheerful and rapidly gains both strength and sexual vigor.

AVITAL RESTORER

TESTED FOR SEVEN YEARS BY USE IN MANY THOUSAND CASES.

TREATMENT. One Month, $3.00. Two Months, 5.00. Three Months, 7.00.

HARRIS REMEDY CO., St. Louis, Mo. 806½ N. Tenth St., ST. LOUIS, MO.

UPWARD PERSONS! Not a Truss. Ask for terms of our Appliance. GIVEN TO TRIAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.

Bee Keeper.

Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.

Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

Curiosities of the Lottery—Odd Bits of Human Nature—How Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson Advocated and Aided the Lottery Business—Bunker Hill Monument and Christ Church Bells—A Lottery or a Bible Society—A Singular Bit of Social History.

By one of those coincidences which are called "strange" in fiction, although they are all the time occurring in real life, it has happened that (while Monsieur Lesseps has been agitating the idea of a lottery in France to carry through his new Panama canal project) the old Union Canal, the very oldest canal in this country, and which was originally and materially aided in its construction by a lottery, has outlived its usefulness and has been abandoned.

The Union Canal of Pennsylvania was the first projected on the American continent. It was suggested by William Penn in 1690, years before a canal was in operation even in England. The route was surveyed by David Rittenhouse, the astronomer, and Dr. William Smith, provost of the University of Pennsylvania.

The drawings of the lottery in aid of the Union Canal took place in the old Arcade in Philadelphia, on Chestnut street, near Seventh, and were regarded as occasions of public interest. The work was interrupted by the Revolutionary war, but later on Robert Morris, Robert Fulton, and Jacob Francis became interested in it.

The canal was eighty-nine miles long, and necessitated in its construction some of the greatest engineering work of the day. The first tunnel in the United States was bored for this canal, and a colosal pumping apparatus was used to raise the water to the necessary height.

The canal cost $3,000,000 (equivalent to ten times that sum at the present time), was worth to the country every dollar it cost, and would never have been completed had it not been for the lottery.

A rival to the Union Canal was afterwards started by the Bostonese to enable "the Hub" to compete with New York; but although this canal was completed (through the agency also of a public lottery formed to aid in its construction) it failed to render Boston equal to New York, though it did much good nevertheless.

Various public works besides canals resorted to the lottery for aid. When New England patriotism fell short of finishing the Bunker Hill Monument, a large lottery was suggested to continue the good work, and a "raffle" was gotten up at a "ladies' fair," to which Fanny Elssler, the dansense, contributed, and which supplied the funds required.

Even the phlegmatic Germans took kindly to the lotteries, and drawings of interesting magnitude took place in Vienna and Berlin. The lottery then found its way, on the general principles of human nature, into Great Britain, where it took root and flourished. The first English lottery was for the repairing of harbors and fortifications along the coast. The first public drawing in England took place at the west door of old St. Paul's Cathedral, in the presence of a vast crowd.

Queen Elizabeth, the most sensible and successful of English sovereigns, established the lottery by royal edict, and placed it under the control of the Prime Minister and the Chancellor of the Exchequer. So successful were its results that it was continued as an accepted institution for raising revenues down to the close of the eighteenth century. It was during this brilliant period that the banking system, insurance, exchange, and paper money were first introduced, and all, if not born of, were undoubtedly cradled in the lottery system.

The greatest public institution in London, or perhaps in the world, the British Museum, was materially aided in its inception by a lottery. Nearly £60,000 were thus contributed to this magnificent object one hundred and thirty-five years ago.

Meanwhile, the lottery had gained a firm foothold in France. The mercurial Parisians took kindly to it. They dearly loved the excitement of the drawings, while at the same time the government took care to devote the major portions of the funds thus raised to public purposes.

At present, lotteries in France are in full favor for charitable and art purposes, and are regulated by government, a public official being present at all drawings. Over forty lotteries have obtained the sanction of the French government during the last decade. The lottery known as "The Central Union of Decorative Arts" had a capital of 14,000,000 francs (nearly $3,000,000). One lottery disposed of six hundred thousand tickets in twenty days. The Algerian National Lottery sold over a million of tickets per month for five months, and the lottery for the Societie des Gens de Lettojes sold over half that number at a higher price.

In this country, as has been previously stated lotteries have always been popular, and until late years have been sanctioned while regulated by law. Religion has, even in America, availed itself largely of human nature's tendency to the lottery.

Churches, from Maine to Louisiana, have been aided by lotteries. The Philadelphia Steeple Lottery was managed by so less a man, statesman and philanthropist, than Benjamin Franklin, and through its agency the steeple of old Christ Church, Philadelphia, was raised and its peal of bells secured.

These Christ Church bells are almost as well known and historical in the Quaker City as are "Bow bells" in London; the whole peal weigh over nine thousand pounds, and are very harmonious—literally "music by the pound." They were cast in London and brought over with great care and large expense to Philadelphia. The lottery the funds of which procured these bells was regarded by the good men and women at the time as a public benefit.

In New England a lottery was originated for the purpose of raising funds to supply sailors and strangers with Bibles, and succeeded largely in accomplishing its object. Thus a lottery became a Bible society. Various Episcopal and Congregational churches at Newport and elsewhere have been built with funds raised by lotteries.

Two of the most noted preachers in this country, Increase and Cotton Mather, lived and died in houses built by lotteries, and the Rev. Dr. Eliphalet Nott, of Union College, has written the best, because most truthful, defense of the lottery system. Rev. Dr. Nott was a historical character, the grandfather of the present Bishop Henry Codman Potter of New York, and the inventor of the celebrated Nott stove. The defense of the lottery system was before the New York Legislature.

The first Episcopal church in Brooklyn, St. Ann's on the Heights, was erected largely by means of a lottery, under the personal direction of the Rev. Dr. Page.

The famous charity hospital of New Orleans, one of the historic institutions of the country, has for many years been partly supported by over a quarter of a million of dollars received for it during that period from the Louisiana State Lottery.

Christ Church, in Louisiana, the first Protestant church in that State, was erected on a site purchased by lottery funds, and various similar instances could be cited.

Colleges and schools in America, almost without number, have from time to time been indebted to lotteries for their erection or completion. Dartmouth College, Harvard College, Leicester Academy, Rhode Island College, Williamstown Free School, some dozen of educational institutions in New York State and Pennsylvania, and scores of institutions through the South and West might be enumerated. Roads have been constructed by lottery funds, also bridges, canals, and manufactories. In addition to the Union Canal, already mentioned, the Amoskeag Canal, and the Wilton Canal may be cited, while Hatfield Bridge, River Park Bridge, Kennebec Bridge, the Milton Paper Mill, the Cannecticut Manufactory, all owe their very existence to the lottery system.

To this system Rhode Island owes to-day its free schools. Connecticut its orphan and insane asylums. Even that once proud boast of New York State, in its days "the greatest water way in the world," the Erie Canal, was indebted for its early progress to the lottery. Delaware owes to it its schools and Masonic Institute, Maryland numberless public charities, Virginia its university and public roads, the Father of our Country personally managing a lottery for the latter purpose. The Carolinas and other Southern States have been signally aided and largely benefited by this means, as have nearly all the Western States, the public library of Louisville, the Fire Department and Charity Hospital of St. Louis being prominent cases in point.

It may, in fact, be stated without exaggeration, that the original settlement of a large portion of the United States was due to the liberal lottery grant given to "the Virginia Company" by James the First, while no less a patriot than Thomas Jefferson was strongly in favor of raising funds to carry out the ideas of the first "Continental Congress," in 1776, by means of a public lottery, under the management of the infant Government.

One thing is certain—during what are now called "the good old times," and regarded as "the best days of the Republic," lotteries flourished under Government sanction. During the first half century of the United States' existence as a nation, seventy-three lottery grants were licensed, over eighty-five per cent. of the funds of which were devoted to public purposes and benefits.

But times have changed. There is a fashion in lotteries, as in everything else, and for a while at least lotteries have gone out of fashion in most States of the Union, though stock gambling (in which the amounts risked are greater, and the chances for prizes are less than in average lotteries, and in which there is less "system" than in even the wildest "lottery scheme") flourishes to a degree hitherto unknown.

In fact the only lottery scheme of any magnitude now authorized in this country is that of the Louisiana State Lottery, which forms an important part of the revenue of that State, and the drawings of which take place under the supervision of two of the leading men of the South—Generals Beauregard and Early—two gentlemen whose very names are guarantees alike of good management and good faith.

The Louisiana State Lottery has been incorporated for some twenty years, with an original paid up capital of $1,000,000, and during its twenty years of existence it has paid out millions of dollars in prizes, and every prize once drawn has been fully and promptly cashed.

Many bankers and merchants have been numbered among "the lucky ones," but fortune has often favored the poor and hard working portion of the population. Thus, at a recent drawing of this lottery, a "combine" of twenty-two car drivers on the Lombard Street Railroad, Philadelphia, drew and divided a prize of $15,000 cash.

But with the single exception of this Louisiana State Lottery, all lotteries, which once constituted so important, and, on the whole, profitable feature of life in the United States, are practically wiped out—legally obliterated.—New York Sunday Mercury, Jan 1.

DOOZENBURY BOUNCED.

Why He No Longer Represents Schaumberg, the Austin Merchant Prince.

Young Doozenbury has just been discharged by his employer, Mose Schaumberg. The facts are as follows: Doozenbury had just returned from a trip over the State. His trip had been very satisfactory to himself, perhaps, but not so to his employer. He had spent a great deal of money in buggy rides and one thing another, but had taken very few orders. When Doozenbury, on his return, called to see the old man he was as mad as mischief. He said: "I don't believe you makes any efforts to sell goots. Ven I vash a drummer I always sold goots to dose merchants, no matter ven dey don't vant any. I made the acquaintance von every body."

Doozenbury came very near replying that it was the reputation of his principal that prevented him from selling any thing, but he restrained himself.

"How did you manage to sell goods when you were a drummer?"

"I vill show you all apout dot. Schoost you sits down in my chairs. You pees a country merchant; I plays now dot drummer."

"All right," says Doozenbury. "I'll be a country merchant, and I'll show you how they do."

Doozenbury pretended to be writing at his desk, and Mose Schaumberg came up from one side, bowing and scraping.

"Goot morning. Can't I sell you some goots?"

"Who the mischief are you?" says Doozenbury, looking up.

"I travels for dot Austin firm of Mose Schaumberg."

"You do, do you? So you travel for that infernal old thief, do you? Take that!" and to impress upon his employer the difficulties of drumming up trade, Doozenbury kicked the old man four or five times, pushed him up in a corner and choked him for awhile, and then told the old gentleman, who was speechless with bona-fide rage: "If you ever come in here again I'll not leave a whole bone in your body. Mose Schaumberg is the most unmitigated old rascal in Texas."

This explains why Doozenbury no longer travels for Schaumberg, the Austin merchant prince.—Texas Siftings.

—A steeple-jack near Huddersfield had climbed to the top of an immense chimney to remove the scaffolding when the rope by which he was to descend broke and fell to the ground. While the crowd were wondering how he would ever get down, he unravelled his stockings, and letting down the thread finally drew up a rope big enough to let him down.

—A Cincinnati man, whose favorite driving mare fell sick, turned her out to pasture among a lot of mules. While she lay, too feeble to care what was going on, they ate her mane and tail off as thoroughly as a barber could have cut them.

—"You can live within your income if you 'try,'" says the wise man. Yes, but how to live without an income is the puzzle that bothers a great many good men just now.—Minneapolis Tribune.

—Time at last makes all things even. The rich man goes home in his carriage with an icicle on his nose, while the poor man now bowls along in a heated cable car.—Omaha World.

—The running of this universe is such a big thing, that it is well for all general purposes, that it is not managed by the numerous shortsighted wiseacres, who have only individual benefits, and present result in view.

A Fortunate Druggist.

Mr. Edwin W. Joy for many years and now a prosperous druggist on the corner of Stockton and Market streets in San Francisco, probably never dreamed of rivaling in wealth the medicine kings of the country. But various rumors having been floating around to the effect that he has struck it big, an Examiner reporter was detailed to unearth the cause, and after much difficulty unraveled the following story:

It seems that about seven years ago an English physician, a great student of botany, located for a brief season in this city. His practice was not extensive, and yet the few cases of a general nature that came to him attracted so little attention. His greatest success seemed to be in the treatment of liver and kidney disorders, and vitiated blood. In fact his ability to cope with these common complaints was little short of the marvelous. He seemed almost infallible, and his quiet, modest methods and his well kept secret was as much a mystery as himself. After his departure about a year later Mr. Joy determined to fathom the secret, and copying all the prescriptions he had filled for the erratic doctor, he began a systematic analysis. In his examination he discovered running all through the prescriptions for liver and kidney troubles, vitiated blood and stomach disorders a couple of vegetable extracts indigenous to California, so simple and so well known under homely every day names to every school boy as to entirely dissipate the suspicion that they were the active principles involved. So certain, however, was Mr. Joy that he had discovered the secret that he embodied the new elements in a preparation of Sarsaparilla to disguise the taste, and put it before his customers under the modest name of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Immediately the same marvelous stories came back of its astonishing effects, and the mystery was solved, and the talk it has created has already caused it to step into prominence, and orders pour in daily from all over the coast. People seem to be taking it and writing and talking about it throughout the State. And thus another California industry leaps into existence.—S. F. Examiner.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

"Well, I have got it to show you, because this is what the man who said he had seen the white people brought with him, and because it does more or less give an air of truth to what I should otherwise have set down as a lie. Look here; I will tell you all that I know about the matter, which is not much. One afternoon, just before sunset, I was sitting on the veranda, when a poor, miserable, starved looking man came limping up and squatted down before me. I asked him where he came from and what he wanted, and thereon he plunged into a long, rambling narrative about how he belonged to a tribe far in the north, and how his tribe was destroyed by another tribe, and he with a few other survivors driven still further north, past a lake named Laga. Thence, it appears, he made his way to another lake that lay up in the mountains, 'a lake without a bottom' he called it, and here his wife and brother died of an infectious sickness—probably smallpox—whereon the people drove him out of their villages into the wilderness, where he wandered miserably over mountains for ten days, after which he got into a dense thorn forest, and was one day found there by some white men who were hunting, and who took him to a place where all the people were white and lived in stone houses. Here he remained a week shut up in a house, till one night a man with a white beard, whom he understood to be a 'medicine man,' came and inspected him, after which he was led off and taken through the thorn forest to the confines of the wilderness, and given food and this sword (at least so he said) and turned loose."

"Well," said Sir Henry, who had been listening with breathless interest, "and what did he do then?"

"Oh! he seems, according to his account, to have gone through sufferings and hardships innumerable, and to have lived for weeks on roots and berries, and such things as he could catch and kill. But somehow he did live, and at last by slow degrees made his way south and reached this place. What the details of his journey were I never learned, for I told him to return on the morrow, bidding one of my headmen look after him for the night. The headman took him away, but the poor man had the itch so badly that the headman's wife would not have him in the hut for fear of catching it, so he was given a blanket and told to sleep outside. As it happened, we had a lion hanging about here just then, and most unhappily he winded this unfortunate wanderer, and springing on him, bit his head almost off without the people in the hut knowing anything about it, and there was an end of him and his story about the white people; and whether or no there is any truth in it is more than I can tell you. What do you think, Mr. Quatermain?

I shook my head, and answered, "I don't know. There are so many queer things hidden away in the heart of this great continent that I should be sorry to assert that there was no truth in it. Anyhow, we mean to try and find out. We intend to journey to Lekakisera, and thence, if we live to get so far, to this Lake Laga; and if there are any white people beyond, we will do our best to find them."

"You are very venturesome people," said Mr. Mackenzie, with a smile, and the subject dropped.

CHAPTER IV.

ALPHONSE AND HIS ANNETTE.

After dinner we thoroughly inspected all the outbuildings and grounds of the station, which I consider the most successful as well as the most beautiful place of the sort that I have seen in Africa. We then returned to the veranda, where we found Umslopogaas taking advantage of this favorable opportunity to clean thoroughly all the rifles. This was the only work that he ever did or was asked to do, for as a Zulu chief it was beneath his dignity to work with his hands; but seen as it was he did it very well. It was a curious sight to see the great Zulu sitting there upon the floor, his battleax resting against the wall behind him, while his long, aristocratic looking hands were busily employed, delicately, and with the utmost care, cleaning the mechanism of the breech loaders. He had a name for each gun. One—a double four bore belonging to Sir Henry—was the Thunderer; another, my 500 Express, which had a peculiarly sharp report, was "the little one who spoke like a whip;" the Winchester repeaters "the women, who talked so fast that you could not tell one word from another;" the six Martins were "the common people;" and so on with them all. It was very curious to hear him addressing each gun as he cleaned it, as though it were an individual, and in a vein of the quaintest humor. He did the same with his battleax, which he seemed to look upon as an intimate friend, and to which he would at times talk by the hour, going over all his old adventures with it—and dreadful enough some of them were. By a piece of grim humor he had named this ax "Inkosi-kaas," which is the Zulu word for chieftainess. For a long while I could not make out why he gave it such a name, and at last I asked him, when he informed me that the ax was evidently feminine, because of her womanly habit of prying very deep into things, and that she was clearly a chieftainess because all men fell down before her, struck dumb at the sight of her beauty and power. In the same way he would consult "Inkosi kaas" if in any dilemma; and when I asked him why he did so, he informed me it was because she must needs be wise, having "looked into so many people's brains."

I took up the ax and closely examined this formidable weapon. It was, as I have said, of the nature of a poleax. The haft, made out of an enormous rhinoceros horn, was three feet three inches long, about an inch and a quarter thick, and with a knob at the end as large as a Maltese orange, left there to prevent the hand from slipping. This horn haft, though so massive, was as flexible as cane, and practically unbreakable; but, to make assurance double sure, it was whipped round at intervals of a few inches with copper wire—all the parts where the hand gripe being thus treated. Just above where the haft entered the head were scored a number of little nicks, each nick representing a man killed in battle with the weapon. The ax itself was made of the most beautiful steel, and apparently of European manufacture, though Umslopogaas did not know where it came from, having taken it from the hand of a chief he had killed in battle many years before. It was not very heavy, the head weighing two and a half pounds, as nearly as I could judge. The cutting part was slightly concave in shape—not convex, as is generally the case with savage battleaxes—and sharp as a razor, measuring five and three-quarter inches across the widest part. From the back of the ax sprang a stout spike four inches long, for the last two of which it was hollow, and shaped like a leather punch, with an opening for anything forced into the hollow at the punch end to be pushed out above—in fact, in this respect it exactly resembled a butcher's poleax. It was with this punch end, as we afterward discovered, that Umslopogaas usually struck when fighting, driving a neat round hole in his adversary's skull, and only using the broad, cutting edge for a circular sweep, or sometimes in a melee. I think he considered the punch a neater and more sportsmanlike tool, and it was for his habit of pecking at his enemy with it that he got his name of "Woodpecker." Certainly in his hands it was a terribly efficient one.

Such was Umslopogaas' ax, Inkosi-kaas, the most remarkable and fatal hand to hand weapon that I ever saw, and one that he cherished as much as his own life. It scarcely ever left his hand except when he was eating, and then he always sat with it under his leg.

Just as I returned his ax to Umslopogaas Miss Flossie came up and took me off to see her collection of flowers, African liliums and blooming shrubs, some of which are very beautiful, many of the varieties being quite unknown to me, and also, I believe, to botanical science. I asked her if she had ever seen or heard of the Goya lily, which central African explorers have told me they have occasionally met with, and whose wonderful loveliness has filled them with astonishment. This lily, which the natives say blooms only once in ten years, flourishes in the most arid soil.

To my great delight Miss Flossie told me that she knew the flower well, and had tried to grow it in her garden, but without success, adding, however, that as it should be in bloom at this time of year, she thought that she could procure me a specimen.

After that I fell to asking her if she was not lonely up here among all these savage people, and without any companions of her own age.

"Lonely?" she said. "Oh, indeed no! I am as happy as the day is long, and besides I have my own companions."

"And are you never afraid among all these wild men?"

"Afraid? Oh, no! they never interfere with me. I think they believe that I am 'Ngai" (of the Divinity), "because I am so white and have fair hair. And look here," and diving her little hand into the bodice of her dress she produced a double barreled, nickel plated Derringer. "I always carry that loaded, and if anybody tried to touch me I should shoot him. Once I shot a leopard that jumped upon my donkey as I was riding along. It frightened me very much, but I shot it in the ear and it fell dead, and I have its skin upon my bed.

Just then the spies whom our host had sent out in the morning to find out if there were any traces of our Masai friends about returned, and reported that the country had been scoured for fifteen miles round without a single Elmoran being seen, and that they believed that those gentry had given up the pursuit and returned whence they came. Mr. Mackenzie gave a sigh of relief when he heard this, and so indeed did we, for we had had quite enough of the Masai to last us for some time. Indeed, the general opinion was, that finding we had reached the mission station in safety, they had, knowing its strength, given up the pursuit of us as a bad job. How ill judged that view was the sequel will show.

After the spies had gone, and Mrs. Mackenzie and Flossie had retired for night, Alphonse, the little Frenchman, came out, and Sir Henry, who is a very good French scholar, got him to tell us how he came to visit Central Africa, which he did in a most extraordinary lingo, that for the most part I shall not attempt to reproduce.

"My grandfather," he began, "was a soldier of the guard, and served under Napoleon. He was in the retreat from Moscow, and lived for ten days on his own leggings and a pair he stole from a comrade. He used to get drunk—he died drunk, and I remember playing at drums on his coffin. My father"—

Here we suggested that he might skip his ancestry and come to the point.

"Bien, messieurs!" replied this comical little man, with a polite bow. "I did only wish to demonstrate that the military principle is not hereditary. My grandfather was a splendid man, six feet two high, broad in proportion, a swallower of fire and gaiters. Also he was remarkable for his mustache. To me there remains the mustache and—nothing more.

"I am, messieurs, a cook, and I was born at Marseilles. In that dear town I spent my happy youth. For years and years I washed the dishes at the Hotel Continental. Ah, those were golden days!" and he sighed. "I am a Frenchman. Need I say, messieurs, that I admire beauty? Nay, I adore the fair. Messieurs, we admire all the roses in a garden, but we pluck one. I plucked one, and alas, messieurs, it pricked my finger. She was a chambermaid, her name Annette, her figure ravishing, her face an angel's, her heart—alas, messieurs, that I should have to own it—black and slippery as a patent leather boot. I loved to desperation, I adored her to despair. She transported me—in every sense; she inspired me. Never have I cooked as I cooked (for I had been promoted at the hotel) when Annette, my adored Annette, smiled on me. Never"—and here his manly voice broke into a sob—"never shall I cook so well again." Here he melted into tears.

"I always carry that loaded."

"Come, cheer up!" said Sir Henry in French, smacking him smartly on the back. "There's no knowing what may happen, you know. To judge from your dinner today, I should say you were in a fair way to recovery."

Alphonse stopped weeping, and commenced to rub his back. "Monsieur," he said, "doubtless means to console, but his hand is heavy. To continue: We loved, and were happy in each other's love. The birds in their little nest could not be happier than Alphonse and his Annette. Then came the blow—sapristi—when I think of it. Messieurs will forgive if I wipe away a tear. Mine was an evil number; I was drawn for the conscription. Fortune would be avenged on me for having won the heart of Annette.

"The evil moment came; I had to go. I tried to run away, but I was caught by brutal soldiers, and they banged me with the butt end of muskets till my mustaches curled with pain. I had a cousin, a linen draper, well to do but very ugly. He had drawn a good number, and sympathized when they thumped me. 'To thee, my cousin,' I said, 'to thee, in whose veins flows the blue blood of our heroic grandparent, to thee I consign Annette. Watch over her while I hunt for glory on the bloody field!'

"'Make your mind easy,' said he; 'I will.' As the sequel shows, he did!

"I went. I lived in barracks on black soup. I am a refined man and a poet by nature, and I suffered tortures from the coarse horror of my surroundings. There was a drill sergeant, and he had a cane. Ah, that cane, how it curled! Alas, never can I forget it.

"One morning came the news: my battalion was ordered to Tonquin. The drill sergeant and the other coarse monsters rejoiced. I—I made inquiries about Tonquin. They were not satisfactory. In Tonquin are savage Chinese who rip you open. My artistic tastes—for I am also an artist—recoiled from the idea of being ripped open. The great man makes up his mind quickly. I made up my mind. I determined not to be ripped open. I deserted.

To be Costnued.

The dangerous condition from recent rains of the road-beds of railroads running into Kansas City has caused orders to be issued that trains must go slow, and in no event try to make up lost time.

PITH AND POINT.

—How to make a slow horse fast—Don't feed him.

—A bad sign—an illegible signature.

—It requires a clever surgeon to dress wounded vanity.—Life.

—They say necessity is the mother of invention, but curiosity is its aunt.

—The sweetest things in purses is when a pretty girl purses her lips.—The Epoch.

—No one can blame the German for wanting one or Teutonics.—Duluth Paragrapher.

—The obscure Arab who invented alcoholic stimulants died more than nine hundred years ago, but his "spirit" still lives.—American Artisan.

—Proud Father—"I believe, my dear, that that baby knows as much as I do." Mother (gazing at the infant)—"Yes, poor little fellow."—N. Y. Sun.

—In the conversation of illiterate persons there is apt to be a tense strain upon the grammar.

—It is safe to assume that the man who made a bolt for the door did not do so with the intention of fastening himself in.

—Every time a lady physician calls on a gentleman patient she plainly shows that she's Mr. calling.—Dansville Breeze.

—The sawmill man should be a plane fellow, and shingle his hair. This is his best cut.—Southern Lumberman.

—From a pretty woman's album—"A stupid fellow compliments a woman on her pretty teeth, but a clever one makes her laugh."—Judge.

—Men who bite off more than they can chew are no worse than those who want to chew more than they can bite off.—Burlington Free Press.

—The carpenter is an unreasonable fellow. He objects to plain boards, and yet he doesn't like a board until it is planed.—Dansville Breeze.

HAPPY HOMES.

Much has been written and said about how to make home happy. The moralist and the preacher have hammered this theme until it would seem nothing more remained to be said. But the philosophers have gone far out of their way to account for the prevalence of ill-assorted couples and unhappy homes, and have overlooked the chief cause. Most of the unhappiness of married life can be traced directly to those functional derangements to which woman are subject. In nine cases out of ten the irritable, dissatisfied and unhappy wife is a sufferer from some "female complaint." A trial of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will produce more domestic happiness than a million sermons or philosophical treatises. It cures all those peculiar weaknesses and ailments incident to women. It is the only medicine sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. See guarantee printed on wrapper enclosing bottle.

The reported "last words" of the Emperor would make a book.

RELIABLE AND ALWAYS THE SAME.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS are the oldest, safest, and best blood purifier and purgative known. They are purely vegetable, therefore harmless. They are always the same and always produce the same effect. Other purgatives require increased doses and finally cease acting altogether. A course of one or two of BRANDRETH'S PILLS taken each night is a positive cure for constipation, headache, and all bilious disorders. If you can't take them plain get them sugar-coated.

Judging from effects, the kind of oil most extensively used for pouring on troubled waters is turmoil.

Man wants but little here below,
But wants that little strong.

This is especially true of a purge. The average man or woman does not precisely hanker for it, as a rule, but when taken, wishes it to be prompt, sure and effective. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets have nothing to be desired in point of efficacy, and yet their action is totally free from any unpleasant symptoms, or disagreeable after-effects. Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless.

The proposed diamond "trust" is a reprehensible enterprise. It means simply the formation of a big diamond ring.

Throat Disorders commence with a Cough, Cold, or Sore Throat. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" give immediate relief. Sold only in boxes. Price 25 cts.

It's never too late for some things. Clara Louise Kellogg has the whooping cough. Now let Susan B. Anthony get the measles.

Its thousands of cures are the best advertisements for Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

Train boy—Peanuts! Funny Passenger—Haven't my teeth. Train boy (turning basket around)—coun dro, s!

Many people refuse to take Cod Liver Oil on account of its unpleasant taste. This difficulty has been overcome in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. It being as palatable as milk, and the most valuable remedy known for the treatment of Consumption, Scrofula and Bronchitis, General Debility and Wasting Diseases of Children, Chronic Coughs and Colds, has caused physicians in all parts of the world to use it. Physicians report our little patients take it with pleasure. Try Scott's Emulsion and be convinced.

Piso's cure for Consumption is the best Cough Medicine. If you don't believe it, take a dose. By druggists, 25c. a bottle.

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED.

To the Editor:

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption, if they will send me their express and P. O. address. Respectfully,

T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., New York.

HOBB'S NERVE TONIC PILLS bring the rosy tint of health to the sallow cheeks. For sale everywhere.

Wakelee's Squirrel and Gopher Exterminator. Try it, and prove the best is the cheapest. Wakelee & Co., San Francisco.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

Cameline improves and preserves the complexion.

St. Jacobs Oil cures NEURALGIA, BACKACHE, LUMBAGO, TOOTHACHE, HEADACHE, SCIATICA PROMPTLY AND PERMANENTLY. AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS EVERYWHERE. THE CHAS. A. VOGELER CO. BALTO. MD.

STEINWAY, KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Romish Pianos; Burdett Organs, Band Instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

IMPORTANT. Teachers, Tutors, Governesses and others seeking appointments requested to communicate with the Manager Scholastic Association, 121 Post St., San Francisco. N. B.—Private Schools bought and sold. Pupils transferred to best schools home and foreign.

AGENTS WANTED

For our celebrated Portraits. Work first-class. Big money to active men. Pacific Portrait Co., 1221 Market St., S. F.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

S. F. N. U. Series, No 303.

A MINISTER'S STATEMENT.

I Expect to be Believed in all I am about to say—I write for the good of others.

"I am now at an age when a man should speak words of truth and soberness, having reached the alloted term of three score years and ten, and having devoted my time in the pulpit impressing lessons of wisdom to my fellows. Mine is a common story of physical suffering and how I was delivered from it; and my desire is to mention the facts as though no one were interested save myself and those who may read these lines. I was long troubled with a stubborn affection of the kidneys and bladder. I had painful gravel deposits, and at times enlargement of the prostrate gland. Despite all the professional help I could get I grew steadily worse. In this extremity I first learned of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Rondout, N. Y. I took the wise course. I privately inquired into Dr. Kennedy's personal character and professional standing at his home in Rondout, N. Y. The result was more than satisfactory. I discovered him to be a highly educated and experienced physician and surgeon, respected and trusted at home and abroad—a man whose career has been a long and open success. I bought a bottle, however, (the price being only $1.00,) taking nobody into my confidence. The good effects cheered and emboldened me. I bought another, following the clear directions; and now I want to make known the good it has done me. The disease has relaxed its hold and I look forward to spending the balance of my life free from bodily torture, and with a heart grateful for the medicine which affords me so pleasant a prospect. Rev. S. C. Chandler, Lebanon Springs, N. Y. Redington & Co., Agents.

A sagacious person will sometimes behave like a fool by being irritated into arguing with one.

THE DEVIL FISH DESCRIBED BY HUGO

Is not a more tenacious monster than malaria, whether it takes the form of chills and fever, bilious remittent, ague cake or dumb ague. Like the octopus of the story it clasps the victim in its tentacules, and folds him closer and closer in a horrible embrace. Attacked with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, however, it gradually relaxes its tremendous grip, finally abandons it, and the quondam sufferer, liberated at last, rejoices in the sense of new born freedom, engendered by the restoration of complete health. Dyspepsia, too, and constipation, those old and remorseless enemies of the human family, give ground, and are finally driven from the field by this Napoleon of remedies, the greatest, the purest in the family pharmacopœia. Rheumatism succumbs to it, so do kidney troubles. The nerves, when overstrained, regain quietude and vigor by its aid, and the ability to rest tranquilly and eat with zest are increased by it. Resort to it in time and avoid unnecessary suffering.

BETTER REASON THAN RHYME.

There was a young man last week
Who rigged himself up in spring clothes,
And these are the words on his tomb—
"Pneumonia turned up his toes."

THE FLYING DOVE OF PEACE.

A richly frosted quivering, flying Dove. A Dream of Life screen calendar. An imported ideal head. An imported frosted snow scene and a full set of magnificent floral cards. Fourteen artistic pieces. Sent to anyone who will buy from a druggist a box of the genuine DR. C. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS (price, 25 cts.) and mail us the outside wrapper from the box with 4 cents in stamps. Write your address plainly. FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

General Adam Badeau will not write Phil Sheridan's memoirs. This is official.

The Whole Town

And the whole country consumers, as well as dealers, send to Smith's Cash Store, 418 Front Street, S. F., Cal., for a supply of Choice Dried Fruits. We quote a few prices to guide you. Send for full list: Apricots, sun-dried, 2½c, 3c, 8c, 10c; do, Fine Evaporated, 14c, 15c; Peaches, sun-dried, 3c, 6c, 8c, 10c; do, Bleached Fine, 12½c, 15c; do, Peeled, 15c, 18c; do, Peeled, Pitts in, 7c, 8c.; Nectarines, 8c, 10c; Alden Apples, 10c, Cherries, Pitts in, 8c; Figs, 5c, 6c; do Extra, 7c, 8c. Grapes, 3½c, 4c; Raisins, 5c, 6c, 7c, 8c; do, Layers, boxes, $1 80, $2 00; Pears, 5c, 6c, 8c, 10c; Prunes, imported, 7c, 8c; do, Fine California, 8c, 9c, 10c. Send for the higher grades, and we guarantee satisfaction or return the money. The very cheapest Peaches and Apricots are dark and not very good. Raisins, in 5-pound boxes, 35c, 45c, 60c; in 10-pound boxes, 60c, 75c, $1; in 25-pound boxes, $1, $1 25, $1 50, $1 75, $2. Above quotations are for sacks or boxes. Broken packages, 1c per pound higher. Send at once. Stocks are becoming reduced every day.

The OLDEST MEDICINE in the WORLD is probably Dr. Issac Thompson's CELEBRATED EYE WATER

This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century, and notwithstanding the many other preparations that have been introduced into the market, the sale of this article is constantly increasing. If the directions are followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits. Joha L. Thompson, Sons & Co., TROY N. Y.

THE BEST INVESTMENT

For the Family, the School, or the Professional or Public Library, is a copy of the latest issue of Webster's Unabridged.

WEBSTER'S UNABRIDGED DICTIONARY — A LIBRARY IN ITSELF

Besides many other valuable features, it contains

A Dictionary of 118,000 Words, 3000 Engravings,
A Gazetteer of the World locating and describing 25,000 Places,
A Biographical Dictionary of nearly 10,000 Noted Persons,
All in One Book.

3000 more Words and nearly 2000 more Illustrations than any other American Dictionary.

Sold by all Booksellers. Pamphlet free.

G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Pub'rs, Springfield, Mass.

MAGICIANS OF ALL AGES IN THE OCCULT LORE, AND THE MYSTICISM OF ETERNITY, HAVE ALWAYS RECOGNIZED THE FIGURE 13 AS THE SYMBOL OF THE MODIFICATION OF OFFICIAL KNOWLEDGE BY THE DISCOVERY OF NEW POWERS. THIS SYMBOL HAS BEEN THE SECRET OF THE MAGICIAN'S POWER FROM THE DAYS OF THE PYRAMIDS, AND THE MEMBERS OF THE MAGICAL FRATERNITY ARE NOW ENTITLED TO TURN THE SYMBOL INTO MONEY BY ADVERTISING THE FACT THAT THEY ARE THE ONLY PERSONS WHO CAN SELL THE GENUINE MITCHELL'S MAGIC LOTION. THIS SYMBOL IS THE SECRET TO THE OCCULT LORE, AND THE MEMBERS OF THE MAGICAL FRATERNITY ARE THE ONLY PERSONS WHO CAN SELL THE GENUINE MITCHELL'S MAGIC LOTION.

MAGIC LOTION — MITCHELL'S YOU ALL — MITCHELL'S — MAGIC LOTION

NEED IT!

STOPS PAIN

Cure and immediate relief in all cases of Sprains, Bruises, Contusions, Abrasions, Burns, Scalds, etc. Prevents inflammation, and effects marvelous cures.

Those who suffer from Asthma, Pleurisy, Sore Eyes or Sore Throat, will find it an incomparable remedy, as a single trial will prove convincing.

One who suffers from Boils, Bunions, or Painful Corns, cannot afford to be without a bottle of this most soothing remedy, which gives instant relief.

Piles, Indigestion, Nervous Dyspepsia, Toothache, Earache, Inflammatory Rheumatism, and all Red and Inflamed Swellings, are readily cured by this magic application.

THOUSANDS OF THE MOST FLATTERING TESTIMONIALS RECEIVED FROM ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTRY TESTIFYING TO THE ABOVE FACTS! AND THE MERITS OF

MITCHELL'S

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY ..... MAY 19, 1888.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XIX. NO. 49. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., MAY 19, 1888. WHOLE NO. 916.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

GEMS ON MEMORANDUM.

A Habit That Has Long Been in Vogue Among Diamond Dealers.

An item appeared a few days ago announcing that Inspector Byrnes' men were looking for a young diamond broker who had obtained a large quantity of diamonds from a Maiden lane firm "on memorandum," and it was supposed had left the city with no intention of returning. To the misinformed eye of a reporter who read the item, the words "on memorandum" seemed to imply that in getting the diamonds the absconding broker had practiced some sort of fraud or deception upon the Maiden lane firm. He was somewhat surprised to learn, upon investigation, that the transaction was a perfectly regular one, and that it is the custom in the jewelers' trade for one merchant to allow diamonds or other jewels to go out to another merchant, or to a broker, for purposes of sale with no further security for their return than a "memorandum" between the parties. Sometimes this memorandum, even, is a verbal one, so that the jewels go out simply on the promise that they shall be returned.

"The custom is peculiar to our trade," said a well-known diamond merchant to a reporter the other day. "I don't believe that it prevails in other branches of business at all, or, at least, I never heard of it there. Of course, the basis of it all is simple honor and good faith. The custom is an old one, and it arose, undoubtedly, in the days when jewelers in a town were a little community by themselves and almost held their property in common. A sale by one man was regarded as a sale by all. Of course, we don't have that idea now, but you can can see how great a convenience this practice still is to the trade. A customer comes to me and wants jewels of a certain size, quality and cut—perhaps some particular jewel that is known throughout the trade. I don't happen to have the jewels, but if I can send out and get them to show to the customer perhaps I can make a sale at once. My brother merchant must know that I am responsible and that my reputation is good for keeping my word. Yet I must say that merchants are, as a rule, careless about letting their goods go out. They seldom ask any questions, and if a man is known in the trade, and very slightly, it is the easiest thing in the world for him to borrow all the diamonds he wants. It is a singular thing, too, that so few diamonds are stolen in this way. I remember only two instances besides the one you speak of where a man who thus borrowed jewels ran off with them.

"Wholesale diamond merchants here thus place quantities of the gems in the hands of out-of-town dealers for sale. The dealer only pays for a diamond when he sells it. The wholesaler never thinks of demanding security. It's a mighty nice practice for the dealer, and the wholesale merchant has this advantage—that he can recall his jewels when he pleases. If the dealer fails the wholesaler can come right on, and take away the jewels deposited. The question of the right of the wholesaler to do this has been decided in his favor by the courts. I was going to say that fully half of the so-called sales made by merchants here to out-of-town dealers are after this fashion.—N. Y. Sun.

NOVELTIES IN JEWELRY.

Some Charming Things Recently Exhibted in New York.

A novelty, useful as well as ornamental, in a pin for the hair, so arranged that any brooch with a common pin back can be fastened on and utilized for a head piece.

A jockey's cap of blue and white enamel, trimmed with gold and centered at the top with an opal, is a pretty ornament, so constructed as to be worn either as a brooch or a scarf pin.

A sweetmeats set recently seen consists of a spoon, fork and knife of silver heavily plated in gold and ornamented at the handle with small pieces of frosted silver, representing napkins.

A beautiful barrel link necklace recently placed on the market had pendent from the front five large emeralds and six rubies. A most pleasing effect was produced by setting the stones alternately.

In earings a pretty design is a triangular shaped piece of varicolored gold so worked as to represent a lady's lace handkerchief. In one corner is a smattering of very small garnets representing the initial.

A handsome scarf pin is a boot, the body of which is composed of diamonds. A heavy gold band forms a frame for the mass of stones, and projected from the heel is a small golden spur set with a garnet.

One of the handsomest match boxes as yet presented by the trade is the hoof of a small donkey, highly polished and enameled and shod with silver. On the top is a jockey's cap of silver lying between two riding whips of the same material.

A unique and useful ornament for a study table is the reader's candle. One design consists of a three foot silver rod, to which is hanging by one foot a monkey of bronze. In his right hand, which is extended, he holds a large cup-shaped leaf of gold, in which rests the candle, covered by a roseleaf shade.

A set of account books for ladies is the latest idea in expensive novelties. Four small books bound in russia leather are contained in a case of the same material, the sides of which are ornamented with peacock feathers painted and enameled in the leather. A small gold padlock holds the books secure in the case.—Jewelers' Weekly.

A ROMANTIC COUNTRY.

Interesting Information About the Caucasus and Its Capital.

Tiflis, the capital of the Caucasus, is a large town situated in a valley and surrounded by mountains of varying heights. It posesses very wide, sanitary streets, bordered on each side by a row of trees, which confer grateful shade on the foot passengers in this tropical weather.

Some of the buildings are also very fine, especially those connected in any way with the Russian Government. The most interesting portion of the town is the Asiatic quarter, among the booths and bazars of which a stranger meets with all kinds of strange sights and sounds. Here are men of all nations. The Georgian, Russian, Persian, Armenian, Greek, Jew, etc., who, rushing to and fro through the narrow streets, some on horseback, others riding in phætons, create a medley only to be seen and appreciated in an Eastern city.

The shops, or rather booths, in this quarter, are exceedingly interesting, containing all kinds of ancient relics, things to delight the eye of the antiquary and curiosity collector. Here are situated the famous hot sulphur baths, renowned for their curing properties for skin diseases of all kinds. The waters of these baths are unadulterated, running directly from the spring into the bath ready for use.

Not the least quaint is the Georgian costume which, although uncouth and wild, is very picturesque. It is composed of a long buffalo hide made into the shape of a very large cape, which, being suspended from the shoulders, reaches to the heels. Under this a long gown is worn, ornamented on each side of the breast with little case-like pockets, originally intended for cartridges. Round the waist a belt—silver or gold—beautifully embossed, serves to hold the numerous arms in which the real Georgian delights. These weapons, although worn exclusively for ornaments, are very real, and consist of a "kinjal" (long native knife) stuck slantwise into the belt, a dagger, the sheath of which is also embossed, and last, but not least, a revolver ready for immediate use.

Very good sport can be enjoyed here, hares, goats and hares abounding in abundance in the neighboring forests.

The commodities are wonderfully cheap here, among which figures the native (so-called "Khakatinsky") wine. This is sold in skins of various sizes, the usual small skin containing about eight quarts, costing from two to four roubles (four to eight shillings.) Of course, much commoner wine can be obtained, which is naturally cheaper.

The real Khakatinsky wine is rather expensive, that of the best quality being grown in the Caucasus. It obtains its name from the beautiful province wherein it is cultivated, viz.: "Khakaty," which is situated about seventy versts from Tiflis.

It is a matter of great surprise to me, after having experienced a few of the beauties of this comparatively unknown part of the world, that it is no better known and appreciated by our English and American tourists, who would find abundance of mountain scenery, equal in point of beauty to any in the world.—Tiflis Cor. Detroit Free Press.

HAWLEY AN INVENTOR.

Two Patents From Which the Connecticut Senator Receives an Income.

Senator Hawley, of Connecticut, told me the other day that he was an inventor, and had taken out two patents from which he was receiving a good income. One of them is for a pocket compass, and the other for a leather or rubber base or washer at the end of a cartridge. Said he:

"I have always been very much astonished at the way in which a great idea crept out of me, but it proved to be a profitable and useful one. I was with a friend one day, a gun manufacturer in my town, who was telling me of the difficulty he met with in securing the requisite amount of elasticity at the base of a projectile. Without a moment's reflection I asked him why he didn't put on a piece of rubber or leather. He looked at me with a gratified surprise and said it was curious no one had thought of it, but it seemed to him to be not only the simplest but the best thing. It was tried, worked like a charm and then my friend made application for a patent in my name. It was granted, machines were constructed for placing the washers upon the cartridges, and they are now in general use. I get a handsome royalty out of it."

"And the other patent?"

"That was for a compass, a tube about as big as a lead pencil, only not so long, which can be carried in the vest pocket or hung from the watch-chain. It is a neat little thing and convenient."—Washington Letter.

Japanese Sacred Nuts.

A quantity of Japanese sacred nuts, the first ever brought to this country, has just been received at a Broadway fruit store. They are called sacred from the fact that they are used in certain forms of Japanese worship. The nuts are placed on the altar and ignited. They burn with a bluish flame and give off a peculiar odor. They are rich in oil, and the fumes are supposed to rise as incense to the gods. They grow under water, have a leaf like a pond lily, and are shaped like a steer's head, with two projecting horns. This resemblance is so great that it is difficult to believe that they are not carved. In the raw state they are hard and tasteless, but when cooked they have the flavor of boiled chestnuts. They retain their qualities ten or fifteen years, and are fit for food when even twenty years old.—N. Y. Mail.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

—In New York 6,000 girls are engaged in stripping tobacco at average wages of about forty cents a day.

—Electric appliances are now successfully used in the automatic regulation of temperature in buildings heated by steam or hot air.

—The lowest barometric pressure on record is 27.135 inches, which was observed in 1885 during a storm over the Bay of Bengal. This storm was also remarkable for its smallness—its diameter being only from 100 to 200 miles—for its fierceness, and for its indraught toward the center.

—A new tanning agent, called pyrofuscine, has been extracted from coal-dust by means of caustic soda. The tanning process is somewhat complicated, but it is claimed to be fifty per cent. cheaper than the bark process, and twenty to thirty per cent. cheaper than the alum process.

—A German geographer, R. Credner, does not think that all fresh water lakes in which marine animals have been discovered were necessarily once portions of the ocean. Many of these creatures, he says, may have found their way from the sea up the rivers, and have accommodated themselves to the changed conditions of their new home. The occurrence of marine animals has been noted in fresh-water lakes in Europe, Asia and Africa, as well as on this continent.

—Dr. Prudden, of the laboratory of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York, has ascertained that bacteria abound in ice, and moreover that the organisms can survive a large amount of freezing. It has been established that bacteria are the cause of a number of diseases, and the presumption is pretty strong that sewage coming from, among other places, the abodes of the sick would contain a kind of bacteria which had better not be included in ice-water that is to be swallowed.

—Philadelphia claims to make and eat more candy in proportion to population than any other city in the country. There are eighty-seven manufacturers and wholesalers and 1,200 retailers, and they use more than $1,000,000 of capital and consumes 100,000 tons of sugar every year. Caramels are a great specialty of the trade in that city. For other places much chocolate and walnut candy and many gum drops are made. Six tons of gum drops were shipped from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh the week before Christmas. Brooklyn makes the most chewing gum, it is said, and Boston eats the most of it.

—M. de Candolle, a French investigator, has come to the conclusion from his researches that women have a larger proportion of brown eyes than men. He also finds that, when both parents have eyes of a like color, the chances are eighty-eight to twelve that their children who arrive at the age of ten years (when the color of the eye is fixed), will have eyes of the same color. When the parents have eyes of different colors, the chances are fifty-five to forty-five in favor of brown as against blue or gray eyes in the children. He is also of opinion that the health of the brunette type is, as a rule, superior to that of the blonde type.

PUNGENT PARAGRAPHS.

—Don't be deceived by a man's innocent look. He may simply be near-sighted.

—Poker-players expect that 1888 will be a good year, as it contains three of a kind.—Rochester Post-Express.

—When a man owes a good round sum he sometimes finds it extremely hard to square up.—New Haven News.

—Hotel proprietors are uniformly polite to their guests, because that is the use-you-well procedure.—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

—Physiologists say that the older a man grows the smaller his brain becomes. This explains why young men know every thing and old men nothing.

—Irate Student—"Don't you ever sweep under the bed, I'd like to know." Calm Chambermaid—"I aiway do. I prefer it to a dust-pan."—Harvard Lampoon.

—Michigan makes more shingles than other States in the Union, but, curiously enough, it has no more than the usual percentage of good boys.—Burlington Free Press.

—Who is that extremely peculiar and interesting man with the long hair?" "O, that is a previous poet. He has a great future behind him."—Fliegende Blatter.

—In Massachusetts they impose a small tax on dogs, but give the proceeds to the public libraries, so that you can support a litter at your option.—Philadelphia Ledger.

—"Jennie," said a young lady, turning away from the mirror and addressing a companion, "what would you do if you had a mustache on your lips?" "If I liked him I would keep quiet," was the demure reply.—N. Y. Graphic.

—Stranger to grocer—"Why don't you sprinkle some sand on the pavement out here? Half a dozen people have fallen in the last five minutes." "I haven't any sand." "Then sling out some of your sugar; it's just the same thing."—Lincoln Journal.

—A Wife's Anxiety: Husband (impatiently)—"If the fool-killer would strike this town he would find plenty of work to do!" Wife—"Is there such a person, dear?" Husband—"Of course there is." Wife (with anxiety)—"Well, I do hope, John, that you will be very careful."—Texas Siftings.

—Alexandria, in Clark County, Mo., was once the Gretna Green of the West, where hundreds of young couples from Iowa, Illinois and Missouri were united without license and without question. Justice Gillam, now an old resident of Alexandria, was most in demand to tie the knot for the eloping couples, and reaped a rich harvest for his pains.

THE LONDON POLICE.

A Well-Organized Body of Nearly Fourteen Thousand Men.

The London police force, like all the institutions of that vast metropolis, is arranged upon a gigantic plan. The superintendents, inspectors, sergeants and constables make up an army thirteen thousand eight hundred strong—a truly formidable force, but none too large, when it is considered that the Metropolitan Police District extends over a radius of fifteen miles from Charing Cross, exclusive of the City of London and its liberties, and embraces an area of six hundred and eighty-eight square miles, of a rateable value of thirty-three million eight hundred thousand pounds per year. Over such an area as this, including, as it does, a population of some five million three hundred and sixty thousand persons, there is, of course, a vast amount of work to be done; and it must be borne in mind that the duties of the London police are not limited to the taking into custody of criminals and disorderly persons, and the watching of property, but include such duties as the carrying out of the Smoke Abatement acts, the inspection of common lodging-houses, regulation of street traffic, and at certain times the onerous duty of taking up of stray dogs—all of which duties are any thing but light in a town like London; nor are they likely to become less arduous, seeing that during the year 1886 twelve thousand two hundred and fifty-two new houses were built within the police district, making twenty-nine miles of new streets.

The number of persons apprehended by the police during the year 1886 was seventy-two thousand one hundred and thirty. The value of property stolen during the same period was one hundred and eighteen thousand three hundred and forty pounds, of which eighteen thousand one hundred and twenty-nine pounds was recovered, leaving a net loss of one hundred thousand two hundred and eleven pounds; but the latter sum, it is to be presumed, would be set down by certain parties as a net gain. Notwithstanding the vast size of London, it is somewhat astonishing to notice that no fewer than seventeen thousand eight hundred and two persons were reported to the police as missing, and eight thousand nine hundred and forty-three were found and restored to their friends. During the twelve months, there occurred one thousand and fifty fires, fifty-eight of which were extinguished by the police. The truth of the saying, that it is safer to travel by railway than to walk the streets of London, would seem to be quite verified by the fact that the number of persons known by the police to have been run over and killed in the streets was one hundred and fourteen, the number maimed or injured from the same cause being three thousand nine hundred and forty-nine.—Chambers' Journal.

GERMAN SONG.

An American's Views of the Teutonic Love of Vocal Music.

There are good reasons for suspecting that the first word a German baby utters is Singvereine, and that long before the dear little thing can enunciate it cries the word. Some day, no doubt, there will be Singvereine for the cats in Germany; at present the institution is limited to human beings, but what an endless variety of them (Singvereine, not cats) there are, to be sure! Enough, Heaven knows, to satisfy the most fastidious taste, and to please the most extravagant fancy. There are Singvereine for all classes, and even for such as can not be classed at all. There are public, private and privatissime Singvereine, official and informal, good, bad and indifferent. There are Singvereine of the old school and Singvereine with all modern improvements. There are Singvereine for men and for women, for children and for students, and, I was going to add, for the deaf and dumb. Now and then you may come across a person who has never belonged to a Singverein, but the chances are that he is a wax figure, and even then you may feel quite sure that he sings all the same. But not only does every body sing in Germany, singing is indulged in on all occasions. The German sings when he is happy and when he is sad, at home and on the street. Indeed, he will sing upon the slightest provocation. If a band strikes up "Die Wacht am Rhein" or "Was ist des Deutschen Vaterland" he goes off with the certainty of an alarm clock. It is almost as dangerous to pronounce the word "Gesang" in Germany as it is to speak of "beer" or "dynamite." A birthday celebration without song is fatally incomplete; a Jubilaum (and who does not have some kind of a jubilee in Germany, down to the saucepan that has done service for twenty-five years) without a Standchen is utterly inconceivable, and as for a wedding, the absence of a song written for the occasion would be as keenly felt as the absence of the minister. Again, then, from the ship which is to carry you to distant lands, you wave a last farewell to home and friends, there arises from the shore a stirring melody into which your comrades, from whom you are about to part, perhaps forever, pour all their hopes and wishes for you. Long after the last strip of land has receded from view, the sounds are still ringing in your ears. Like a sweet blessing, the song follows you across the deep. And, finally, when the grave is about to close over the form of some loved one who has gone before, it is in a song that grief and sorrow seek to find an utterance among the Germans.—Pennsylvanian.

IN OLDEN TIMES.

When New Yorkers Were Flogged for Disrespect Shown an Alderman.

According to a curious old book in the Astor library, less than a hundred years ago men were flogged and put in jail in this city for insulting an alderman. The dignity of an alderman in those days was worth twenty lashes on the bare back, well laid on, on any body else's back but the alderman's.

That was what it was rated at in 1795, when two ferrymen, Timothy Crady and Thomas Bark, were put in prison for "sassing" Alderman Furman. Here is the sentence of the Bridewell Court, composed of the mayor and three aldermen:

"That you, Timothy Crady, receive to-morrow morning twenty lashes on your bare back, to impress on your mind that you are not to insult men in office; suffer two months' imprisonment in Bridewell at hard labor, and that you, Thomas Bark, be imprisoned two months in Bridewell at hard labor; excused from whipping, being interceded for by Alderman Furman."

Some years later the book records the butchers "and those who sit in the vegetable market" celebrating the return from corporation scrip to silver payments by reducing their prices twelve per cent. for a whole week, and resolving formerly in their glee that "silver is silver and chaff is chaff."

Turning back to the year 1650, when Peter Stuyvesant bossed New Amsterdam, it is found that complaints are made to the authorities by the colonists of Manhattan Island of the depreciated condition of the wampum or seawant, the Indian money in use among the earliest settlers. The burden of their grievances appears to have been that "it is loose, not strung on a string, many not perforated and only half finished, and also made out of stone, bone, glass, mussel shells, horns, and even out of wood and broken ones; that they can not go with such seawant to market, nor yet procure any commodity, not even a mean white loaf of bread or a can of beer at the merchant's, the baker's or the tapster's for the loose seawant."

To relieve this condition of affairs the authorities decided that "from this time forth no loose, unperforated or clumsy seawant shall be current, nor be a lawful tender except that the same shall be strung on one string, as the general custom has been heretofore."

Which sweeping ordinance so crippled the currency that it was necessary only three months later to ordain that "the base-strung seawant shall be currency in payment for small and daily necessary commodities in housekeeping," and "that the sum of twelve guilders and under shall be paid all in base-strung seawant; from twelve to twenty-four guilders, half and half, and so on at that rate."

The volume of the currency must have been very limited in those days. That was just twenty-five years after the aboriginal inventors of the seawant had sold the whole of Manhattan Island for $24 to the Dutch, who had brought over "103 cattle, including stallions, mares, bulls and cows for breeding, as well as swine and sheep," to replace the first heard that had perished by eating poisoned vines. Quite a lot for a population of 270 souls.

A century and a half had made some difference in New York, but not enough to count. In 1780 Governor Page, a delegate to Congress from Virginia, found occasion to write to his son:

"This town is not half as large as Philadelphia, nor in any way to be compared with it for beauty and elegance. The streets here are badly paved, very dirty and narrow, as well as crooked, and filled up with a strange variety of wooden, stone and brick buildings, and full of hogs and mud."—N. Y. Telegram.

SHE SAW THE POINT.

How a Detroit Merchant Cured a Troublesome Lady Customer.

"That lady," said a Woodward avenue merchant, pointing to a woman who had traded about twelve dollars' worth in ten minutes, and was going out, "used to be one of my worst callers. She'd come in almost daily, bother four or five clerks for two hours, and go out without buying a cent's worth."

"How did you cure her?"

"Well, I spoke to her in an off-hand way one day, and she fired up and said that as long as I kept clerks it was my business to be bothered. Next day I selected ten of the girl clerks, posted 'em as to what to say, and they rung her door-bell at intervals of an hour all day and inquired if she wanted a nurse girl. She didn't, and told them so pleasantly enough until the tenth one came. Then she said:

"'I'd like to know why on earth all you girls come here bothering me when I don't want to buy!'

"'Because, ma'am, so long as you keep servants it is your business to be bothered!' was the prompt reply.

"I think she reasoned out the analogy, for she now sits down and buys what she wants, and every clerk likes to wait on her."—Detroit Free Press.

—The City Council of Findlay, O., having for two years neglected to lay a sidewalk on a section of Center street, which was very muddy in wet weather, the women turned out en masse one day last week, each with a certain amount of brick, and proceeded to put down a neat and substantial walk in front of their residences for a distance of over six hundred feet.

THE SWISS VINTAGE.

A Spectacle Devoid of All Poetic Gayety and Surroundings.

The winter and the vintage come on together at Villeneuve, and when the snows had well covered the mountains around, the grapes in the valley were declared ripe by an act of the Commune. There had been so much rain and so little sun that their ripeness was hardly attested otherwise. Fully two-thirds of the crop had blackened with blight; the imperfect clusters, where they did not hang sodden and mildewed on the vines, were small and sour. It was sorrowful to see them; and when, about the middle of October, the people assembled in the vineyards to gather them, the spectacle had none of the gayety which the poets had taught me to expect of it. These poor clusters did not reel to earth

Purple and gushing,

but limply waited the short-hooked knife with which the peasants cut them from their stems; and the peasants, instead of advancing with jocund steps and rustic song to the sound of the lute and tabor and other convenient instruments, met in obedience to public notice duly posted about the Commune, and set to work, men, women and children alike silent and serious. So many of the grapes are harvested and manufactured in common that it is necessary the vintage shou'd begin on a fixed day, and no one is allowed to anticipate or postpone. Some cut the grapes, and dropped them into the flattish wooden barrels, which others, after mashing the berries with a long wooden pestle, bore off and emptied frothing and gurgling into big casks mounted on carts. These were then driven into the village, where the mess was poured into the presses, and the wine crushed out to the last bitter dregs. The vineyards were a scene of activity, but not hilarity, though a little way off they looked rather lively with the vintagers at work in them. We climbed to one of them far up the mountain-side one day, where the family were gathering the grapes on a slope almost as steep as a house roof, father, mother, daughter, son-in-law, big boy and big girl all silently busy together. There were bees and wasps humming around the tubs of crushed grapes in the pale afternoon sun; the view of the lake and the mountains was inspiring; but there was nothing bacchanalian in the affair, unless the thick calves of the girl, as she bent over to cut the clusters, suggested a Mænad fury. These poor people were quite songless, though I am bound to say that in another vineyard I did hear some of the children singing. It had momentarily stopped raining; but it soon began again, and the vintage went sorrowfully on in the mud. All Villeneuve smelt of the harsh juice and pulp arriving from the fields in the wagons, carts, tubs and barrels which crowded the streets and sidewalks, and in divers cavernous basements the presses were at work, and there was a slop and drip of new wine everywhere. After dark the people came in from the fields and gossiped about their doors, and the red light of flitting lanterns blotched the steady rainpour. Outside of the village rose the black mountains, white at the top with their snows.

In the cafes and other public places there were placards advertising American wine-presses, but I saw none of them in use. At a farm-house near us we looked on at the use of one of the old-fashioned Swiss presses. Under it lay a mighty cake of grapes, stems and skin, crushed into a common mass, and bulges further beyond the press with each turn of the screw, while the juice ran in a little rivulet into a tub below. When the press was lifted, the grapes were seen only half crushed. Two peasants then mounted the cake, and trimmed it into shape with long-handled spades, piling the trimmings on top, and then bringing the press down again. They invited us with charming politeness to taste the juice, but their heavy boots bore evidence of too recent a visit to the cherished manure heap, and we thanked them with equal courtesy.

The grape cake, when it had yielded up its last drop, would be broken to pieces and scattered over the fields as a fertilizer. The juice would meanwhile have been placed to ferment in the tuns, twelve and thirteen feet deep, which lay in the adjoining cellar. * * * *

For weeks after the vintage people were drinking the new wine, which looked thick and whitish in the glasses, at all the cafes. It seemed to be thought a dainty beverage, but our scruples against it remained, and I can not say what its effect upon the drinkers might be. Perhaps it had properties as a "sweet, oblivious antidote" which rendered necessary the placard we saw in the cafe of the little Hotel Chillon:

Die Rose bluht,
Der Dorn der sticht;
Wer gleich bezahlt
Vergisst es nicht.

Or, in inadequate English:

The roses bloom,
The thorns they stick;
No one forgets
Who settles quick.

The relation of the ideas is not very apparent, but the lyric cry is still distinctly audible.—William Dean Howells, in Harper's Magazine.

—Bismarck's income is between $100,000 and $150,000 a year. He rises at noon, eats a hearty supper shortly before midnight and retires at 2 a. m.

—Lord Lansdowne's salary as Viceroy of India will be $200,000 a year.

FOREIGN GOSSIP.

—Two hundred thousand infants under two years old are believed to be farmed out in France.

—A solid cut-glass bedstead, richly worked, was lately made at Birmingham, England, for a Calcutta millionaire.

—"Dinners for a penny" are given every week to 1,000 people out of employment by a Birmingham (Eng.) charity organization.

—At the mouth of the Congo there is a remarkable submarine valley. Just at the mouth of the river it is 1,452 feet deep, and it can be distinctly traced for a hundred miles out to sea.

—It has been proposed to alter the Paris dinner hour, especially on Tuesdays and Saturdays, the special days of the Theater Francaise and Opera Comique, in order to permit prompt attendance at the theaters.

—A census has been begun of the French carrier pigeons. They are regarded now as of such importance in the event of war that all owners are obliged to report their pigeons under a penalty of a maximum fine of 2,000 francs.

—Princess Beatrice recently appeared in some tableaux at a court entertainment arranged by her mother, Queen Victoria. She posed as "Carmen," and smoked a cigarette while the curtain was up.

—The Jewesses of Tunis when they are ten years old are put into dark rooms and fed on food prepared from flour, and also with the meat of dogs, until they are systematically fattened. In a similar way the women in other parts of Africa are said to reach the same degree of fatness by eating honey and fresh dates.

—Schleswig, Germany, boasts of an institution unique of its kind and well worthy of imitation. It is a spinster's insurance company. Its purpose is to provide for the single lady members of well-to-do families. The company gives them shelter, board and pin money in case of the death of their natural providers.

—In Breslau, Germany, a chimney fifty-four feet in height has been constructed entirely of solid blocks of paper firmly compressed together, the blocks being placed carefully one on top of the other and joined together with a special cement. The chimney is non-inflammable, and by the nature of the material, quite secure from lightning.

—English ladies are learning dress-making either for their own advantage or to help the poor. Two of the daughters of the Prince of Wales have learned a system, and their example has been followed by a great number of titled ladies. There is a school in London for teaching dress-making and millinery.

—Some little time ago there was a general rebellion of the host of women employed in manufacturing tobacco, cigars and cigarettes in Mexico against a reduction of their wages. The women won. Now comes the news that the greatest bull-fighter in the country has given a tournament in their aid, which realized $779.

—An assault-at-arms, executed by ladies, occurred recently at Berlin, Germany. Five lady pupils of a fencing school, headed by their lady teacher, all dressed in sky blue, with antique cuirass in silver, went through a series of exercises with foil and saber. The teacher defended herself blindfolded against two assailants with foils most successfully.

—Mutual organizations to insure against epidemics are being established in some of the large manufactories of Sheffield, England. Each workman contributes two or two and one-half per cent. of his wages, and in return is guaranteed a payment equal to his average wages should he be obliged to quit work on account of any epidemic in his family. The proprietors of the manufactories have charge of the funds.

A Cure for Cancer.

Another recent discovery in Mexico is that of a Brazilian plant which is said to have medicinal virtues that make it an infallible cure for cancer. Some time ago samples of the plant were sent to Washington for experimental purposes. I am told that the investigations were carried on under the personal supervision of Dr. Townsend, then—if not now—Health Officer of the District of Columbia. The doctor is said to have been guarded in expressing a positive opinion, but in answer to an interviewer said: "I have no hesitation in admitting that in certain cases it has given me very encouraging results. My experiments have not yet gone far enough to warrant me in presenting the matter to the profession, and my reports from others into whose hands the remedy has also been placed have not come in fully enough to justify me in making them public at present." Should this Brazilian herb have half the medicinal virtue ascribed to it its value can scarcely be computed.—Fannie B. Ward, in Philadelphia Record.

A Bull's-Eye Shot.

"Boy, did you kill that rabbit?" asked a citizen of a lad who was carrying a dead hare along the Holden road the other day in one hand, while he had a gun in the other.

"If I didn't, who did?" was the surly reply.

"Why, he might have run agin the fence and committed suicide."

"Oh, you were sneaking around and saw it, eh!" exclaimed the boy, as he gave the rabbit a swing and dropped him into a mud-hole.—Detroit Free Press.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, MAY 19 ..... 1888

An Oxford Student's Life.

Life at Oxford is no more expensive for a student than any one of the great colleges of the United States. I asked Mr. Warburton about the cost of student life here, and he was able, reporter like, to give me the exact figures. He said that a student could live well and have everything that he should have with an income of $1,500 a year. There are plenty of students who are getting along on half that. Two thousand dollars a year would be a most liberal estimate. The students that were classed as rich were the sons of wealthy families who allowed them £1,000 a year pocket money. Of course there was a fast set at Oxford, as there is in every university town. The members of this set spend money recklessly and often get into debt, but their expenses have nothing to do with any proper estimate of the cost of student life here. The standard of examination for admission to Oxford is no higher than at our best colleges. The requirements after that are very much less. An under graduate of ordinary abilities can finish the course in any one of the colleges here within three years, and in the three years he will study six months only in each year.

The scholastic year consists of three terms of only eight weeks each. They have six weeks' holiday at Christmas. It is easy to see from the short period of study and the predominance given to classical studies that not much of a general education can be obtained at Oxford. Strangers who come to Oxford often ask where the university is, not seeing to understand that there are thirty colleges comprised in the university system at Oxford. While they are generally classed together and pursue the same lines of study, yet they are separate and distinct organizations. Some of the colleges are very rich and some are very poor.—T. C. Crawford in New York World.

The British Pitman's Dog.

There are few things more touching than the love of the British collier for his dog. To him the animal is more than wife or children; he loves them, too, in his way, but it is on his foug footed friend that his not too tender heart lavishes its chief affections. And the dog reciprocates this regard; between the two there exists a closeness of understanding which serve almost in the place of language to convey thoughts from the one to the other. The pitman expects, however, that his faithful companion shall be ready to fight to the death at any moment. Even if the dog is not that way inclined, he must accommodate himself to his master's humor, and cheerfully submit to be mangled for the honor and glory of the family. Not only, either, must he enter the lists; it is equally incumbent on him to come out a winner. "Go it lad," exclaimed a Yorkshire miner as he looses his pet at another pitman's champion; "if thee gives in I'll shoot thee." And he would, no doubt, have carried out this threat had not the battle ended abruptly through police interference.

It appears, therefore, that the miner's love is strictly governed by the proved worth of its object. Accustomed to fighting himself, the worthy fellow believes that the deadliest sin of all is to yield before being placed absolutely hors de combat. It is a true British instinct, and eminently praiseworthy in its way; of such stuff are heroes made. "A peerage or Westminster abbey," were the alternatives Nelson placed before himself when entering the combat. "The best of food or a dose of lead" are those presented to his canine hero by the British miner. The dogs seem to perfectly understand and to appreciate these conditions; one or the other is invariably killed in the fight.—London Globe.

Gloucester's Mackerel Fishing.

Each schooner uses two seine boats about thirty five feet in length, and two seines, one of 175 fathoms, for shoal water, and one of 250 fathoms, for deep water seining. Each seine is about thirty fathoms deep. In this fishing the most tremendous excitement occurs when a school of mackerel is discovered breaking the surface of the water into millions of snow white flecks and spumes. A dory with two men hold one seine end taut. The seine boat, manned by twelve to fourteen men, pays out the seine with the mightiest speed, as nearly as possible surrounding the school, and circling around to the dory, where the seine is drawn together, the lower line pursed close, and frequently within this meshy pound tens of thousands of gleaming squirming fish may be seen. These are flung aboard with ordinaay scoop nets, the entire operation being very similar to shad seining on the Delaware and Chesapeake. The mackerel are split, the jib, or insides, removed; they are plowed to make them appear deceptively fat, and are then pickled in barrels or run into market fresh.—Edgar L. Wakeman in New York Mail and Express.

A Sociological Power.

The genesis of voluntary attention is to be found in its utility. When the conditions of life become at all hard, and especially if they become so by more or less sudden changes, the power of adaptation to them is dependent upon voluntary attention to details; upon consideration of something besides the immediately attractive and useful. The savage is lazy, is inspired only by chase, by war, by play; his interest is in the unknown, the unforeseen, the chance. He is not capable of continuous labor. In half civilized communities work is repugnant. Voluntary attention is a factor of civilization, and is maintained with effort. The most constant characteristic of criminals is lack of power to pursue a steady calling; and the Italian anthropologists regard this as a reversion to primitive habits. Voluntary attention thus came in, and is maintained as a sociological power.—Prof. Th. Ribot.

The Medicine Mania.

Some people, especially among the lower, middle and working classes, are confirmed medicine takers. They read the advertisements of "patent" nostrums, which profess to cure every ill under the sun from agues to ulcers, and implicitly believe the statements which they contain. The ignorant medicine taker never pauses to consider that if a tithe of the pretensions so blatantly proclaimed had any foundation in fact, the existence of cultivated and learned bodies, such as the college of physicians and the college of surgeons, would be no longer necessary. Not only does he believe everything which the advertisers tell him, but he becomes an advocate of the remedies to his friends, and thus, like the snowball which increases as the schoolboy rolls it in the drift, the mischief insensibly increases, until in time it assumes colossal proportions.—Time.

Thirty-five per cent. of the population of Mexico are said to be Indians.

THE BRAZILIAN CAPITAL.

SOME OF THE PECULIAR CHARACTERISTICS OF RIO JANEIRO.

Buildings of the Business Portion of the City—Women and Children in the Balconies—Suburban Residences—Public Gardens—in the Market.

The business portion of Rio is on the level plateau, where it widens out most between the hills and the water. Here the buildings are closely crowded together, dingy and unattractive, and the streets generally very narrow, some of them so narrow vehicles cannot pass in them, and they are allowed to traverse them only in one direction. The Rua d'Ouvidor is the principal shopping street, and one of the most narrow. The wares are artistically arranged in the windows and the shops themselves have a very attractive appearance. Stone is abundant in the neighboring hills and easily quarried. All the streets are paved with it, and it makes an excellent pavement, so that pedestrians do not confine themselves to the narrow sidewalks, which are often entirely obstructed by merchandise.

The buildings are generally two stories high—sometimes three, with a railed balcony along the second story front. The upper floors are used as residences and offices, and in many cases are as densely peopled with the human herd as the tenements of our large cities. Glazed doors or hinged windows, call them which you will, open upon the balconies and are nearly always open. At any time you may see some one in nearly every balcony, but toward sunset women and children gather there en masse to gaze at those passing in the street below and to display their toilets. Until then they are en deshabille. They could not be expected to take the trouble to "dress up" and then not be seen, and they cannot go out for a walk. Social usage forbids that.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Some of the public buildings are massive, strongly built structures, but they display little architectural taste. They are constructed of stone, covered with cement and ornamented with a rude sort of stucco work, in which predominates statuary, in excellence about on a par with the rude plaster images we see offered for sale at times in our streets. Among the finest edifices I may mention the new custom house and postoffice and the theatre. The latter has a plain exterior, and the yellow wash with blue trimmings does not enhance its appearance. Its interior may be very fine, but as I did not enter it I cannot say. The old palace is a dingy, old fashioned building, very fine in its day probably, but no longer used as the imperial residence. Various government offices are there located at present. The emperor occupies a more modern mansion farther from the business center.

The suburban residences are the finest, and though they present an appearance very different from anything to which we are accustomed, they are well suited to the climate and satisfy all the demands of comfort and luxury. They are generally box shaped, two stories high, excessively ornamental in front and plain upon the other sides. An abundance of large windows, always open, enables those passing to see into them almost as well as if the fronts were removed entirely. The Brazilians do not object to being seen. The ladies will stand in their balconies, or wide verandas, and return the boldest stare without flinching. They appear to regard it rather as complimentary than rude. The grounds about the houses are tastily laid out and abundantly planted with the highest of tropical flowers, fruits, ferns and palms.

The houses that border the road skirting the brow of the hills, and on the lower sides, are often quite peculiar in appearance. The hillsides are very steep, and the gardens are upon narrow terraces, supported by stone walls. The houses have a single story in front, but a number below it in rear, depending upon the inclination. Six or seven is by no means unusual, and in one case I counted ten. Steep as these hillsides are winding pathways ascend them here and there, formerly the only means of reaching the summit. Now, however, the ascent has been facilitated in one place by an elevator, and in another by an inclined railway, on which cars are run by a cable and a stationary engine.

THE PUBLIC GARDENS.

Here and there, scattered through the city, are public gardens, well cared for and beautiful, with their exuberant vegetation, statuary, fountains, artificial grottoes, and other attractions. Bands of music play in some of them daily, and they are popular resorts. In one of these, in the heart of the city, is an excellent equestrian statue in bronze of Dom Pedro I, the first emperor of Brazil. On its four faces are beautiful allegorical figures representing the four great rivers of the empire.

One of the most interesting places for a stranger to visit is the market. The building, or rather group of buildings, covers a large area, and as usual with such places, is unpretentious and without attractions, but the variety, quantity and excellence of the provisions and fruits there offered for sale is remarkable, and a sight worth seeing. In the early morning the open space adjoining is filled with people, some selling and some buying. There the country people bring their wares and sell them directly.

Large baskets of fruit, vegetables, poultry, etc., are brought into town on the backs of donkeys or mules, or carried on the shoulder suspended from each end of a long pole. Often two pigs or sheep, or a number of fowls are tied together and thrown over the shoulder, but more frequently all these things are carried in baskets.

I saw great heaps of very large, nice looking oysters which the Brazilians think very fine; but they are rank and far inferior in flavor to those upon our own coast. In the market stalls one may purchase almost anything he desires, from a cup of coffee or a spool of thread to a horse or a blanket. Each has its particular line of goods, those of the same class usually grouped together, but with many exceptions. Some are devoted entirely to water coolers, and they are of all sizes and forms. Some large as barrels, with filtering attachments, others that hold but a glass or two. Some ornamental, and others grotesque and uncouth.—Lieut. Barnes in Christian at Work.

A Serious Quandary.

Husband (who has a little "engagement" on hand)—I shall be at the office very late to-night, my dear, posting my books, and you had better not sit up for me.

Wife—Very well, John. When I get ready to go to bed I'll just say good night to you through the telephone.—New York Sun.

Automatic Car Lamp Extinguisher.

An interesting exhibition of an "automatic pneumatic car lamp extinguisher" is reported from Montreal. A reservoir under the car is filled with air by the action of the brakes, and closed by a valve, connecting with pipes leading over the car and into the chimneys of the lamps. To it are attached a system of weights, so arranged that on the car losing its perpendicular from any cause, accidental or otherwise, the valve is opened and a current of air liberated, which at once, through the pipes, extinguishes the lamp.—Frank Leslie's.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.

P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F. are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.

J. D. FLAIR, R. S.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S

EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out a flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL.

Independence, Cal.

Thos. Crough. W. T. Grant

GRANT & CROUGH.
Real Estate & Mining Agency.

INDEPENDENCE - - - - CAL.

Searchers of Titles and Furnishers of Abstracts. After a business experience of twenty years in the county we are prepared to furnish all information of value to purchasers of real estate and mining properties. Reports furnished and all correspondence reliable and confidential. GRANT & CROUGH.

J. W. P. Laird, Attorney for the Firm.

AGENTS WANTED for the MISSOURI STEAM Washer

Active, honest persons all over the country, with or without team.

JOHN C. EVANS, Sherman, Mo., writes: "I tried it up and sold two Washers once a day and over and money in a large family than any Reaper and Mower that ever was put on our farm will last they tell me a lifetime. It will pay any intelligent man well for a much longer time than this to sell the Washer, take all the money and leave enough to live and not go more. I could sell one at every house, if they had to take the Dollars from under their wife and babies to pay for it."

JOHN G. DODGE, Jft. Jewler, Norwich, Ills., writes: "I took what I think of the Washer I bought last summer. It is the best machine ever invented by man. Sir: We have put up good dinners on Monday in every other day. Yours truly, you can not lose your money."

Full Sample to those desiring an agency on a week's trial on liberal terms. A thousand per week the best washer in the world for saving labor, clothes and soap. Agents capable of earning $5 to $10 daily of profit. Write for particulars.

J. W. ELDER, 1710 Franklin Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS EXTENSIVE STOCK OF

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC.

Buyers and consumers should not fail and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere. E. CHENOT.

Independence, Cal., May 1, 29, 1884. n47tf

THE GRAND SALOON,

LONE PINE, - CAL.

RICHARDS & CASTRO

BILLIARD HALL AND PUBLIC RESORT. Offers to the public the finest quality of Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Friends and patrons generally are invited to call. n38tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad.

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENTS TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSE HAS BEEN REBUILT, —And is large—

SWIMMING BATH

Added, and those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations, —AND— Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZANOVICH, Prop.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Notice Of Change Of Text Books.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY THE Board of Education of Inyo county, California, that said Board proposes to change the following text books now in use in the public schools of said county, to wit: Theory and Practice of Teaching, Music, Entomology, Book-keeping, Composition, Penmanship, Industrial Drawing, English and American Literature, Physics, Algebra and Natural History. And that sealed bids, or proposals, will be received by said Board for furnishing books to replace those mentioned above, or any part thereof. Said bids, or proposals, must be accompanied by sample copies of the books proposed to be furnished, together with a statement of the wholesale and retail price at which the publisher agrees to furnish each book, within the county, during the full time for which said books are to be adopted. The publisher or publishers whose proposals shall be accepted will enter into a written contract with said Board, and shall give a good and sufficient bond in a reasonable amount, with sureties, for the faithful performance thereof. Said bids or proposals will be opened by the Board at Independence, Inyo county, Cal., at ten o'clock a. m., on Tuesday, the 9th day of June 1888. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Board of Education of Inyo county.

Attest: J. H. SHANNON, Secretary.
[SEAL] Dated April 13, 1888. Bishop Creek, Cal.

EXECUTOR'S SALE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, THAT IN pursuance of an order of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, made on the 19th day of April, 1888, in the matter of the estate of Duncan Campbell, deceased, the undersigned, executors of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, gold coin of the United States, on Thursday, the 10th day of May, 1888, at the late residence of the said deceased, at Big Pine, in said county, the following personal property, to wit: Ten head of horses, more or less, being all the horses belonging to said estate. NATHAN RHINE,
S. G. GREGG,
Executors of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased.

Dated April 19, 1888.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1232.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL., Mar. 29th, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at independence, on May 19th, 1888, viz.: Charles Mulholland, for the S½ of N E ¼, N ½ of S E ¼, Sec 14, Tp 14 S, Range 35 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz.: John Shepherd, James E. Shepherd, John Kispert and James R. Moffet, all of Independence, Inyo County, California.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1246.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL., April 27, 1888.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on June 4, 1888, viz.: Michael Bush, for the S W ¼ of S E ¼, E ½ of S W ¼ & S E ¼ of N W ¼, Sec 24, Twp 11 S, R 34 E, M D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz.: Alonzo McKellops, Andrew J. Wren, James Lane and William R. Tibbetts, all of Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

TAKE SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the

Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. L. M. HINTON, M. D., Washington, Ark.

SEE THAT YOU GET THE GENUINE.
PREPARED BY
J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the Owens Valley Livery Stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of livery teams, Saddle Horses, and in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the ton or less.

Livery Accommodations.

C. I. MARK, Proprietor.

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,

Independence, Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt and furnished in a style second to no one on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12 f

Who Spends Money

For advertising in newspapers in these hard times, without first obtaining an estimate of the cost from Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York, is likely to pay $10 for what might be obtained for $5. Such estimates are furnished to all applicants gratis. Send 10 cents for 176 page pamphlet with list of newspapers and rates and receipts.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,

SHINGLES,

SASH AND BLINDS,

LATH,

RUSTIC

MOULDINGS,

DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sept 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time, or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine

Independence Hotel.

Independence - - - Cal.

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL

DINING ROOM,

APARTMENTS,

—AND—

—THE BAR—

Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars.

Jy 1 86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.

Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo county, Cal

IRVING J. WOODIN, M. D.,
Physician & Surgeon,

(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.

NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.

Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence

F. H. MACK,

COUNTY CLERK,

—AND—

Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,

INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.
W. E. LINDSEY,

—Dealer in—

Gravestones, Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.

—Agent for—

PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.

Virginia Street, Below Second,

Reno, Nevada.

oct 23 4f

AL. GRIFFITH.

HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTING, GRAINING AND PAPER HANGING.

FINE CARRIAGE PAINTING.

FIRST CLASS WORK.

AL. GRIFFITH,
Independence

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | | From Mound House. No 1. | To Mound House. No 2. |
|---|---|---|---|
| | | Leaves— | Arrives— |
| Mound House | | 9 15 a m | 5 30 p m |
| Dayton | | 9 45 a m | 4 35 p m |
| Wabuska | | 10 45 a m | 3 25 p m |
| Hawthorne | | 4 50 p m | 10 40 a m |
| Mina | | 6 50 p m | 9 20 a m |
| Sodas Springs | | 7 0 p m | 8 40 a m |
| Belleville | | 8 [illegible] p m | 7 0 a m |
| Sand Spring | Ar | 8 30 p m | Lv 6 30 a m |
| | | No 3 Leave— | No 4 Arrives— |
| Belleville | | 7 30 a m | 5 25 p m |
| Benton | | 1 00 a m | 1 45 p m |
| Bishop Creek | | 4 100 p m | 11 40 a m |
| Aurora | | 2 00 p m | 10 45 a m |
| Independence | | 3 30 p m | 9 05 a m |
| Lone Pine | | 4 55 p m | 8 5 a m |
| Keeler | Ar | 6 05 p m | Lv 7 30 a m |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (97 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (245 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-week stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Dunderville, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Ralston Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. HAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

After Forty years' experience in the preparation of more than One Hundred Thousand applications for patents in the United States and Foreign countries, the publishers of the Scientific American continue to act as solicitors for patents, caveats, trade-marks, copyrights, etc., for the United States and to obtain patents in Canada, England, France, Germany, and all other countries. Their experience is unequaled and their facilities are unsurpassed.

Drawings and specifications prepared and filed in the Patent Office on short notice. Terms very reasonable. No charge for examination of models or drawings. Advice by mail free.

Patents obtained through Munn & Co. are noticed in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has the largest circulation and is the most influential newspaper of its kind published in the world. The advantages of such a notice every patentee understands.

This large and splendidly illustrated newspaper is published WEEKLY at $3.00 a year, and is admitted to be the best paper devoted to science, mechanics, inventions, engineering works, and other departments of industrial progress, published in any country. It contains the names of all patentees and title of every invention patented each week. Try it four months for one dollar. Sold by all newsdealers.

If you have an invention to patent write to Munn & Co., publishers of Scientific American, 361 Broadway, New York.

Handbook about patents mailed free.

Wheeler & Wilson

Sewing Machine.

New No. 8.

"THE BEST!"

Sales Made on Installment Plan.

Old Machines Exchanged for.

Farm Produce Taken in Payment.

This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really

First-Class Machine.

Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.

I. H. MULHOLLAND, Agent.

Independence, Cal.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,

(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)

Merchant,

INDEPENDENCE

INYO CO., CAL.

Wholesale and Retail

....DEALER IN....

General Merchandise.

MY STOCK

Consisting of new and fresh goods, which will be sold at the lowest cash prices for the next 30 days. In the future as heretofore I shall endeavor to merit a share of the patronage entrusted to my care.

NATHAN RHINE.

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE

BANKER,

Independence, Cal.

SELL EXCHANGE

—ON—

SAN FRANCISCO,

—

DRAW DIRECT

—ON—

NEW YORK,

LONDON, England

BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany

—

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT kinds

GENERAL BANKING

—AND—

Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.

Deutsche Vollmachten gerichtigt. Geldsendungen nach Deutschland besorgt.

—

AGENT FOR

Wells, Fargo & Co's Express

MUTUAL

Life Insurance Co.

OF NEW YORK.

Capital ..... $[illegible]

LIVERPOOL

And LONDON and GLOBE

Insurance Company

Capital ..... $11,000,000

NATHAN RHINE.

BLACKSMITHING,

Horseshoeing, General Iron

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP

C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing.....$2.50 for Cash.

For particulars, call and see

W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, MAY 19 ..... 1888

BORN.

GILL.—Near Independence, May 16th 1888, to Mr. and Mrs. D. Gill, a son.

Walter Ober returned north on Tuesday.

Mr. W. Walker was up from Olancha last Saturday.

Mr. W. H. Russell came to Independence from Benton last Monday.

Mr. J. R. Eldred got back to Bishop Creek from San Francisco last Monday.

Tom Bastian is still quite sick. His condition is regarded as being very serious.

Mrs. James, of Reno, is here on a visit with the family of he brother-in-law, Walter James.

Welles Barnes and Henry Melone went up into the Sierras last Tuesday on a prospecting trip.

Miss Mary Zinc has been very ill during the past week. She is still under the care of Dr. Woodin.

During the week the rush of business at Rhine's store has been greater than known in many years.

Mr. O. H. Hill and family have moved from Bodie to Bishop Creek, where Mr. Hill is building a new hotel.

J. C. Irwin is putting down a new side walk in front of his place on the corner of Edwards and Market streets.

Messrs. F. R. Rugg and Guy Mannering, both from Fresno, were at the Land Office last Saturday making entry of land.

Work of all kinds in the line of plumbing and tinsmithing promptly and cheaply done by Arthur Smith, at Independence.

Mr. Mark Watterson, against whom proceedings were begun for sheep license tax, stopped suit by paying the tax this week.

Last Monday the patients of the County Hospital, five in number, were brought up from Lone Pine to Camp Independence.

The Emperor Frederick appears to be getting weaker from day to day and it is apprehended that the end cannot be far off.

J. J. Gunn has bought handsome furniture for his new saloon, including pictures, new billiard table and other suitable material.

Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKenzie, of Darwin, Mr. and Mrs. Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, of Keeler, were visiting at Lone Pine.

Mr. Fred Holbert got back from New York last Saturday. He had a very enjoyable trip but is well pleased to get back to Inyo county.

In Mr. Harvey's orchard at Lone Pine is a two-year-old walnut tree that this year bears its first fruit. The tree appears to be quite thrifty.

There is competition beneficial to the public between rival sugar refineries at San Francisco. Both concerns offer white sugar at six cents per pound.

Mr. J. J. Gunn returned to Independence from San Francisco last Monday. He has bought a large stock of goods for his new place of business at Independence.

Last Wednesday Tom Webb, Whitmore, Robinson and others started with their several bands of cattle for Long Valley. The Treasury of Mono county will be gainer thereby.

Mr. John Baxter has as fine a piece of wheat as there is in the valley. His—or rather her, for Mrs. Baxter takes care of them—strawberries are decidedly the best in the neighborhood.

Mr. P. J. Fields, agent and operator at Citrus, has been ordered to take a like position at Hawthorne. Mr. Nolan, the present agent at Hawthorne has been ordered to relieve Mr. Fields.

Frequent showers, some lightning and thunder, cloudy skies and fresh breezes have prevailed during the week. The weather is exceedingly favorable for all kinds of growing crops.

Mr. Jacob Keller and family have moved from Bishop Creek to Camp Independence. Mr. Keller has located 160 acres of land and is now about to build a dwelling and make other improvements.

Mrs. Sarah Stewart, of Big Pine, writes from Santa Cruz that her health is not much improved. She has rented a house near the beach and hopes to be benefited by sea bathing during the summer.

On next Wednesday evening a meeting will be held at Mairs' Hall at half past seven o'clock to make a beginning for a suitable celebration of the Fourth of July at Independence. A full attendance of citizens is requested.

There was a very large attendance from all parts of the State at the Democratic Convention at Los Angeles. The city was crowded and all the hotels filled to over flowing. Many persons found sleeping accommodation at private houses.

It is understood that funds have been forwarded from New York to Mr. Fairman, Superintendent of the Suprise Mining Co., Panamint, to pay up all claims against the Company. It is very probable that work will soon be resumed at the mines and the mill.

There is good authority for saying that a party at Los Angeles has made an offer of thirty-five dollars per acre for a large tract of land under the Stevens ditch near Independence. Three years ago the same land could not have been sold at any price. No old settler of Inyo county would have taken it as a gift.

It is reported from Los Angeles that a very minute parasite is completely destroying that other parasite so destructive to pear trees, the San Jose scale. Trees that last year seemed to be badly infested with the scale, and appeared to be dying, are now reported clear of the scale and growing rapidly.

Last Saturday evening Manuel Diaz and Walter Ober met at Independence and agreed upon terms for a foot-race to be run at Independence on July Fourth. The stakes are $250 a side. The men have already had several contests with varying fortunes and it is expected that the coming contest will finally decide which is the fleetest footed.

The Elliott Case.

It has been insinuated that there is unnecessary delay in bringing W. C. T. Elliott to trial. The following are the facts in the proceedings so far:

Elliott was committed for trial on May 8th; on the 11th an information charging him with the crime of murder was filed by the District Attorney. On the 12th he was brought into the court-room for arraignment, and stating that he had no counsel, and that he expected to be able to procure counsel, the Court gave him until the 22d to procure counsel and plead. The defendant has a Constitutional, as well as a moral right, to counsel, and a conviction obtained by any except legal means would be a fruitless one for the people. Counsel must be appointed by the Court, if the defendant cannot procure such, and a jury summoned. The Court, no matter how much spare time it may have, cannot bring a defendant charged with so serious a crime, however guilty he may be, into its presence and summarily dispose of the matter without observing the formal and substantial requirements of law.

Do the above facts show that criminals run our Courts, or put off their trials indefinitely? It certainly seems that this case furnishes no ground for the insinuation.

Early in June the anxiety of the "people" will likely be relieved, as Elliott will probably be tried that soon. Does any one know of a case in this county having been prosecuted with greater diligence, or brought to trial more speedily than this is likely to be? The Superior Judge and the District Attorney should stand fairly between the people and the accused, and should reverently observe the requirements of the law they are sworn to maintain.

In this case it is evident that the District Attorney is as diligent as the forms required by law permit, and the Court is doing its duty in the same way.

A Terrible Accident.

Last Monday a freight train was going up a steep grade on a railroad in Colorado; a coupling broke and four cars rushed back down the grade. At a point thirteen miles below where the coupling broke a passenger train was stopped at a station called Fountain. The runaway cars dashed into the train, making a terrible wreck. One of the cars was simply a huge tank filled with naphtha; this stuff was scattered widely and instantly burst into flame. In the meantime a Pullman and two day coaches of passengers were detached from the baggage car of the express train and run down the grade to a place of safety. The last car of the runaway freight was loaded with powder and a cry of alarm was raised for every one to run for their lives, as the fire was rapidly approaching it. All who heard the warning attempted to obey, but had gone but a short distance when the 17,000 pounds of giant powder with which the car was loaded exploded, shaking the earth like an earthquake. Twenty houses in the city were almost totally destroyed, also the new Baptist Church, which was blown from its foundation and scattered over acres of ground. Men and women were knocked senseless, and pieces of broken rails, car-wheels and timbers were carried with terrible force for half a mile. A number of freight cars standing on a side track were blown to atoms. The passengers in the express were severely shaken up, and a number were cut by pieces of glass from the windows, but none were seriously injured. Four persons were killed and thirty wounded.

War in the Mines.

There has been quite a war underground at Bodie. The trouble grew out of the Standard Con. having encroached on the Bulwer ground, and, as is alleged, taken out much rich ore. The Chronicle-Union of last Saturday gives the following account of the affair:

On Thursday night an altercation occurred in the underground workings of the two mines, resulting in the exchange of sundry shots—some say 28 were fired while others say 40—but no one was hit—showing excellent shooting on both sides. If our miners are going to mine and stand up to be shot at—all for $4 a day—it must be a very desirable occupation to be engaged in for a living. The miners had better let the Courts settle these little differences, for we doubt if any of the New York or San Francisco stock holders would stand up to be shot at to settle any of the little differences the miners might have among themselves. If there is any trouble, and something serious grows out of it, somebody will be responsible. It is many years since there has been any shotgun practice in the mines of Bodie and our people want no repetition of the Daly troubles.

A Good Citizen.

A few days ago three or four people happened to meet near Independence; a certain criminal case was spoken of by one of the party, when another said: "I don't want to talk about the matter; I am liable to be called as a juror and want to do my duty, as all good citizens should. I don't know anything about the evidence that may be offered; I don't think you know any more about it than I do; but whether you do or not I feel that it would not be right for me to talk about it; let us drop the subject." Here is a good example for all who are liable to do jury duty; if it is followed the course of justice will be helped.

Change of Management

John Howell, who as manager of the Reno Reduction Works, has placed that institution on the excellent basis it now enjoys, has resigned, and Archie Farrington, the well known mining man of Esmeralda county, has been elected to the position, the change to take effect immediately. It is the intention of the Directors to increase the working facilities of the plant materially this summer so that all kinds of ores can be worked expeditiously and profitably.—Gazette.

Passed Away.

The Virginia Enterprise of last Sunday says: "Andrew Fahey, Secretary and Librarian of the Virginia Miners' Union, died yesterday morning. He had been an invalid for some time and died of general debility. His wife died a few months ago. He leaves three children. Deceased was a native of Bangor, Maine, 35 years of age. He was a member of the Catholic Knights of America, and his heir will receive $2,000 insurance from that organization.

Appointed Agent.

I hereby give notice that I am duly accredited as agent for Mrs. Harris, of San Francisco, to transact business for her in Inyo county. Town lots at Independence now for sale. Map can be seen at my store. Apply to E. Wood,
Independence.

All who are interested in the financial condition of Inyo county can find full information by examining the reports of the Treasurer and Auditor published in another column.

A. J. Davis got back to town last Saturday from a prospecting trip to Death Valley. He found several veins and ledges of ore, but none that in his opinion would pay to work unless a railroad should go that way, or near the mines. If a road should go near the east side of Death Valley there is plenty of ore that Mr. Davis thinks would pay to ship. He says it would be a hard matter now for any one to go prospecting in that region were it not for the aid given by Coleman's teams in supplying water. These teams always carry plenty of water along and the men are very generous about sharing with prospectors. When Mr. Davis left Death Valley the teams were about to lay off for the summer and would not begin again before the first of September.

The arrangements for the accommodation of all who may attend the Teachers' Convention at San Francisco appear to be as near perfect as the highest order of intelligence united with experience could make. In no other city in the world could such excellent hotel accommodations be had at such low cost as secured for this occasion. No other country in the world besides California offers such grand and beautiful scenery to tourists. Excursions are arranged to many of the most celebrated places in the State. To Eastern people this Convention offers such an opportunity to see California as they may never again have.

There is a decided falling off in the Los Angeles boom. Many speculators are left with large tracts of land on hand that had been bought at big prices. These are holding on in the hope that there may be a revival of the boom. Of this there is not much likelihood at present. It is now well known that there is plenty of good land in other parts of the State that can be bought much cheaper than land at Los Angeles, and where the climate is quite as good and all kinds of products just as valuable. While this continues to be the case there will not be much revival of the boom business.

Three years ago the Chinese were driven from Truckee. Last week two Chinese cooks were employed at a saw mill near Truckee, these being the first of their kind employed in the vicinity since the expulsion. Much bitter feeling was expressed by white people. Last Sunday night the mill was totally destroyed by fire. The mill was owned by M. E. Burckhalter, of Truckee; his loss is estimated at $40,000, partially insured.

About a year ago Jesus Carrasco, of Lone Pine, and his son went to Mexico, the native country of the old gentleman. Mr. Carrasco had determined to spend the remainder of his days in his native land; but soon after he got there he found the manners and customs so very different, and so disagreeable, that he was disappointed and disgusted, and a year in the country was all he could stand. He will now be content to spend the remainder of his life in Inyo county. Father and son got back to Lone Pine last week.

Bishop's A B C Guide is a complete travelers' guide for the whole Pacific Coast. Names of all postoffices and railroad stations, distances and cost of fare, arrival and departure of trains and steamers, telegraph rates to all parts of the world, and much other valuable information. Published monthly; $1.50 a year. 429 Montgomery St., San Francisco.

The main contest in the Democratic Convention was expected to be between Judge Sullivan, of San Francisco, and Judge Armstrong, of Sacramento, for the nomination for Justice of the Supreme Court. It was expected that the candidates would go before the Convention very evenly matched.

The closing entertainment of Independence school drew out a large audience. The children acquitted themselves very well and did credit to themselves and to their teacher. The school room was beautifully decorated with flowers. After the entertainment most of the grown people went to Mairs' Hall and spent some hours in dancing.

Mr. Jacob Keller, former superintendent of the painting department of the Pulman Palace Car works at Chicago, will attend to all work in the way of sign writing, graining, gilding on wood and glass, house painting and paper hanging, and wagon painting. See his advertisement in another column.

The political contest in Oregon is expected to be very hot. John F. Swift has gone there to stump the State for the Republicans and John P. Irish has gone to do battle for the Democrats. It is reported that both will stay in Oregon until after the election.

A meeting is called for this—Saturday—afternoon at two o'clock, at Mairs' Hall, to consider a proposition to revive a corporation formed about two years ago for building a canal from the neighborhood of Fish Spring hill south through the valley.

FINAL HOMESTEAD PROOF.

H. A. No. 526.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,
May 12th, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on June 25, 1888, viz: Henry Detels for the S ½ of N W ¼ and N E ¼ of S W ¼ of Sec. 34. Tp. 13 S, R 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: John W. Symms, John Shepherd, John Strohmeyer and Fred Albers, all of Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
Register.

a23-6t

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS.

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELLER,
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pulman Palace Car works at Chicago.

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City.
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NORMAN HOUSE,

Independence, - - Cal.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. I. MAIRS, Prop.
feb12tf

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and
Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney at Law
Independence, Cal.

Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜
☞ On the C. & C. Railroad. ☜

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK
Livery, Feed & Sale
Stable.
JOHN CLARKE, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. ☞ 256 pages, 8½ x 11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

OFFICIAL.

Treasurer's Report.

Office of County Treasurer.
To the Hon. Board of Supervisors of Inyo county, California:

Gentlemen—I herewith hand you my report of County Financial Affairs for the Quarter commencing Feb. 1st, 1888 and ending with Apr. 30th, 1888.

Cash Balance last report $22,979 45

Receipts—

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1888 | | | |
| Feb. 1 | W. James, R'd Dist No. 5 | 5 10 | |
| 6 | For officers fees | 133 20 | |
| 6 | S G Gregg, Tax Col. | 1123 16 | |
| 13 | State School money | 3577 70 | |
| 14 | G P Rixford S Sch. Land | 207 55 | |
| 15 | C Mulholland J P fine | 40 00 | |
| 17 | J G Birchim S Sch land | 32 00 | |
| " | " swamp " | 15 68 | |
| March 1 | S G Gregg Tax Col. | 2398 06 | |
| 6 | A O Collins for redemption of propty sold to State | 42 56 | |
| | G Sanger swp & Ov. flwd | 435 20 | |
| | S G Gregg Tax Col. | 198 51 | |
| " | " Special school tax 1887 | 16 93 | |
| 16 | P H Mack S Sch land | 11 20 | |
| 31 | Andrew Dell " | 11 20 | |
| | John Davies " | 11 20 | |
| April 1 | Fees in office sundry persons | 131 85 | |
| | S G Gregg for Liquor and Trader licenses | 164 00 | |
| 2 | P A Chalfant as Ass'r 1888 | 882 98 | |
| | Bishop Creek School Dist bonds | 6000 00 | |
| 9 | John Shineberger redemp. on propty sold to State | 328 44 | |
| 16 | Chas Williams S S Fd | 22 40 | |
| | C Delaney 1 4 S Sch land | 8 00 | |
| 20 | C Mulholland J P fine | 2 00 | |
| | Total receipts | | 7,539 64 |
| | | | $38,958 14 |

Disbursements—

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Feb 7 | Cash paid in redemption of 2 Independence Sch'l Dist Building Fund bonds and 20 coupons | 616 60 | |
| | Interest on 5 Warm Spring school District Building Fund coupons | 26 25 | |
| 17 | Cash paid in redemption of 2 bonds No's 25 & 26 and Int on 8 coupons | 1144 66 | |
| | Cash paid Chas Summers r bate on taxes 1886 | 1 01 | |
| | Gen Exp Fund Warrants | 820 96 | |
| | Hospital " " | 313 00 | |
| | Sundry warrants | 829 48 | |
| | Salary Fund Warrants | 1258 42 | |
| March 26 | Gen. Exp. | 173 76 | |
| | School Fund Warrants | 1617 08 | |
| | Salary Fund Warrants | 1066 68 | |
| April 20 | Sundry Sch. Dist Fd war | 1069 39 | |
| | Salary Fund warrants | 1099 98 | |
| | Gen Exp " " | 125 75 | |
| | Total | | 10 101 02 |
| | Balance Cash on hand | | 28 857 14 |
| | | | $38 958 12 |

Trial Balance for Quarter ending April 30, 1888

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| To the State General Fund | $1 623 04 | |
| Salary " | 6443 16 | |
| General Expense " | 2059 47 | |
| Hospital " | 887 79 | |
| Bond " | 2906 05 | |
| County Road " | 30 01 | |
| Floating Debt " | 312 29 | |
| General Road " | 900 51 | |
| To the various Road District Funds: | | |
| No 1 | $114 98 | |
| No 2 | 178 60 | |
| No 3 | 259 08 | |
| No 4 | 197 25 | |
| No 5 | 390 24 | |
| No 6 | 317 49 | |
| No 7 | 129 17 | |
| To the General School Fund | | 4 36 |
| To the various School Dist. Funds: | | |
| Round Valley | 290 17 | |
| Irving | 158 94 | |
| Bishop Creek | 521 10 | |
| Station | 83 06 | |
| Warm Springs | 143 44 | |
| Big rime | 160 71 | |
| Milton | 124 75 | |
| Independence | 92 74 | |
| Fish spring | 28 13 | |
| Union | 59 44 | |
| Lone Pine | 412 16 | |
| To the various School Dist. Library Funds: | | |
| Milton | $52 82 | |
| Round Valley | 30 00 | |
| Irving | 34 31 | |
| Bishop Creek | 10 25 | |
| Station | 43 96 | |
| Warm Springs | 32 10 | |
| Big rime | 103 86 | |
| Independence | 69 11 | |
| Union | 31 96 | |
| Lone Pine | 65 81 | |
| Independence S D B Fund | | 153 62 |
| Warm Spring " " | | 420 59 |
| Darwin " " | | 99 78 |
| Bishop Creek " " | | 6001 87 |
| Darwin Library " " | | 24 80 |
| To the Unapprtd Fund | | 348 28 |
| Swamp Land " | | 1165 56 |
| Institute " | | 29 00 |
| Revolving Fund | | 100 00 |
| Coroner's " | | 53 60 |
| Estate of J B Probasco | | 367 48 |
| Rebate Fund | | 143 01 |
| Estate of Jas. Clastine | 1,190 25 | |
| Balance cash on hand | | |
| | | $28,877 12 |
| | | $28,877 12 $28,877 12 |

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 10th day of May, 1888.

P. H. MACK,
County Auditor.

Examined, accepted and approved by the Board of Supervisors this 10th day of May, 1888.

J. D. HARGER,
Chairman.

Auditor's Report.

Quarterly report of the County Auditor of Inyo county, Cal., for the Quarter ending Apr. 30th, 1888.

Apr. 30 Exhibit showing the amount of warrants drawn and registered and upon what funds since Jan. 31, 1888, date of last report. Inyo county, (aggregate of warrants drawn

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| General Exp. Fund | 1,028 12 | |
| Salary Fund | 3,378 28 | |
| School Fund | 3,254 32 | |
| Hospital Fund | 313 00 | |
| Rd Dist. No. 1 Fund | 42 50 | |
| " " " 2 " | 75 00 | |
| " " " 3 " | 36 25 | |
| " " " 5 Fund | 37 14 | |
| Independence School Dist Tax 1887 | 24 04 | |
| Unappportioned Property Tax 1887 Fund | 32 40 | |
| | | $8,297 06 |
| | | $8,297 06 $8,297 06 |

Apr. 30 Exhibit showing the amount of indebtedness of Inyo county, interest not included and how distributed among the various Funds.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Inyo County | | $75,252 47 |
| Inyo Co. Bonds 1884 | 72,000 00 | |
| Gen. Exp. Fund | 123 75 | |
| Salary Fund | 1,099 98 | |
| School Fund | 1,018 19 | |
| General Fund old | 948 26 | |
| Expense Fund old | 42 30 | |
| | | $75,252 47 |
| | | $75,252 47 |

Apr. 30 Exhibit showing present financial condition of Inyo county, interest not included Inyo county (total indebtedness)

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| | | $75,252 47 |
| Less cash, redeemed warrants, and bonds in the hands of the county Treasurer | $31,110 33 | |
| Rem'g Indebtedness | 44,142 24 | |
| | | $75,252 47 $75,252 47 |

Respectfully submitted to the Board of Supervisors of Inyo County.

P. H. MACK,
County Auditor.

Examined, accepted and approved this 10th day of May, 1888, by the Board of Supervisors.

J. D. HARGER,
Chairman.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 174 page pamphlet. Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S. NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.

PUBLIC NOTICE

INDEPENDENCE, April 30, 1888.

During my absence from this County and State Mr. Nathan Rhine is authorized to act as my agent.

HENRY LEHRMAN.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR SALE.

813 acres of land within one mile of railroad. As fine land for fruit, vineyard, vegetables or alfalfa as there is in the State. All with perfect water right. Will cut up to suit purchasers.

520 acres two miles from railroad. 80 or 90 inches of water. A fine locality. Good stock range. 160 acres fine barley land.

A fine dairy ranch, consisting of 480 acres suitably located for market, with 150 head of cattle 45 of them No 1 dairy cows. Perfect titles to land and water. Improvements on all. Apply to

Grant & Crough,
Independence, Cal.

Richly REWARDED are those who read this and then act; they will find honorable employment that will not take them from their homes and families. The profits are large and sure for an industrious person; many have made and are now making several hundred dollars a month. It is easy for anyone to make $5 and upwards per day, who is willing to work. Either sex, young or old; capital not needed; we start you. Everything new; no special ability required; you reader, can do it as well as any one. Write to us at once for full particulars, which we mail free. Address Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

115 CLAY STREET, 117
SMITH'S STORE
The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.
CASH.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

INDEPENDENCE MARKET,
J. Fooper, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

decl8-tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $80 in a single day. All succeed.

MARRIAGE GUIDE
260 PAGES. Illustrated. in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, when Medical Aid, when necessary, how to be home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, up to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent free by DR. WHITTIER St. Louis, Mo. BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. SEND FOR ORDER.

TUTT'S PILLS
25 YEARS IN USE.
The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age.
SYMPTOMS OF A
TORPID LIVER.
Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine, and
CONSTIPATION.
TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer. They Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 39 Murray St., N.Y.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.
GRAY HAIR OR WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.
Office, 39 Murray St., New York.

FRED BURCKHARDT
Watchmaker & Jeweler,
LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

☞ All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURCKHARDT.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
Bishop Creek, Cal.,

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Gill's.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles
OF
Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies' Wears etc., etc
AT
L. WOOD'S
CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries as canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH S ORE
Is Where You Get
WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
General Merchandise

A Full Line
CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:
HAWTHORNE NEV.
BRANCHES:
Wabuska, Nev.,
CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.
AGENCIES:
WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co's.

TOM BOLAND,
KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer in
GENERAL
MERCHANDISE,
GROCERIES
MINERS
Supplies
PROVISIONS,
&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

FREE TRIAL PACKAGE. FOR MEN ONLY.
PROF. HARRIS' Pastille
A RADICAL CURE FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY, Organic Weakness, & PHYSICAL DECAY, In Young & Middle Aged Men.
NERVOUS DEBILITY Organic Weakness Decay, and numerous obscure diseases, baffling the skilled physicians, result from youthful indiscretion, too free indulgence, or over brain work. Avoid the imposition of pretentious remedies for these troubles. Get our Free Circular and Trial Package, and learn important facts before taking treatment elsewhere. Take a SURE REMEDY that HAS CURED thousands, does not interfere with attention to business, or cause pain or inconvenience in any way. Founded on scientific medical principles. By direct application to the seat of disease its specific influence is felt without delay. The natural functions of the human organism is restored. The animating elements of life, which have been wasted, are given, and the patient feels a vast fund rapidly accumulating, both strength and vigor.
VITAL RESTORER
TESTED FOR SEVEN YEARS BY USE IN MANY THOUSAND CASES.
TREATMENT.
One Month, - $3.00
Two Months, - 5.00
Three Months, 7.00
HARRIS REMEDY CO., PROPRIETORS
506½ N. Tenth St., ST. LOUIS, MO.
UPTURED PERSONS NOT TAKEN.
Ask for Circular of testimonials.
BE GIVEN.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.
Bee Keeper.
Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.
Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

THE LESSONS OF "UNSER FRITZ" CASE.

The greatest doctors in Europe don't seem to know what ails "Unser Fritz."

Thus are the Garfield and Grant episodes repeated, and public confidence in "expert" medical knowledge is again shaken.

The effect is a revulsion.

Since the fatal days of 1883, many of the doctrines of the schoolmen concerning extensive medication have been abandoned, and all schools of practice are more and more relying upon old-fashioned simple root and herb preparations and careful nursing—the only reliances known to our ancestors.

These methods and reliances are illustrated to-day in a series of old-fashioned roots and herbs preparations recently given to the world by the well-known proprietors of Warner's safe cure—preparations made from formulæ possessed by many of our oldest families, and rescued for popular use, and issued under the happy designation of Warner's Log Cabin Remedies.

"My son," exclaimed a venerable woman to the writer when he was a boy, "my son, you're yeller and pale and weak like lookin', you're needin' a good shaking up with some sas'paril'."

A jug of spring sarsaparilla was just as necessary in the "winter supplies" of fifty years ago as was a barrel of pork, and a famous medical authority says that the very general prevalence of the use of such a preparation as Log Cabin Sarsaparilla explains the rugged health of our ancestors.

While Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla is an excellent remedy for all seasons of the year, it is particularly valuable in the spring, when the system is full of sluggish blood and requires a natural constitutional tonic and invigorator to resist colds and pneumonia, and the effects of a long winter. Philo M. Parsons, clerk of the City Hotel of Hartford, Conn., was prostrated with a cold which, he says, "seemed to settle through my body. I neglected it and the result was my blood became impoverished and poisoned, indicated by inflamed eyes. I was treated but my eyes grew worse. I was obliged to wear a shade over them. I feared that I would be obliged to give up work."

Under the operation of Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla and Liver pills," he says, "The sore and inflamed eyes disappeared. My blood, I know, is in a healthier condition than it has been for years. I have a much better appetite. I shall take several more bottles for safety's sake. Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla is a great blood purifier and I most heartily recommend it."

A few bottles of Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla used in the family now will save many a week of sickness and many a dollar of bills. Use no other. This is the oldest, most thoroughly tested, and the best, is put up in the largest sarsaparilla bottle on the market, containing 120 doses. There is no other preparation of similar name that can equal it. The name of its manufacturers is a guarantee of its superior worth.

While the great doctors wrangle over the technicalities of an advanced medical science that cannot cure disease, such simple preparations yearly snatch millions from untimely graves.

A Bad Scrape.

Barber (to customer)—Have you heard of the bad scrape young Brown has got into?

Customer—Why, no; when did you shave him last?—The Epoch.

Hit it Both Ways.

Matthew Steffens is a Chicago policeman who has had a streak of luck. Many a day when the mercury ran low, has Matthew shivered on State and Harrison streets and contemplated the unhappiness of the policeman's lot. One cold night last month an idea flashed forth upon his inner consciousness and grew upon him as he trod the ice along his weary beat, impelling him almost against his will to woo the fickle goodness Fortune.

And so he took two dollars of his hard earned wealth and bought two tickets, each but a tenth coupon, in the lottery whose monthly drawings are overseen by those two ex-Confederate warriors, Beauregard and Early. And when on the 7th of February the drawing occurred it transpired that Matthew's presentiment was a tip from his good angel, for one of his tickets was a tenth of No. 71,575, which drew the first capital prize of $150,000, while the other drew a tenth prize of $100. The latter wasn't much but it showed the fellow's luck.

The Traveller reporter dropped in at the Harrison-st. station a day or two ago just for the sake of seeing how such a lucky man might look, but Steffens was gone. He had got his $15,000, bought a saloon on State street, and taken a train to the Hot Springs of Arkansaw to thaw out the cold that had congealed during the recent blizzard. Clerk Daniel Hogan was on hand, and said he saw the $15,000 when it came, on February 13th, all in $500 bills in a Southern Express envelope, from the Louisiana State Lottery.

Mr. Steffens will return to Chicago in a few days, when his many friends will have a chance to congratulate him at his saloon, at No. 385 State street. He is now on leave of absence, but upon his return he will send in his resignation as a police officer, and with such a comfortable little fortune as has thus come to him, like a gift from the gods, he can take life easy, and never shiver on a beat again.—Chicago (Ill.) Arkansaw Traveller, March 3.

THEY ALL ADMIT IT.

I have been taking Joy's Sarsaparilla for general debility with great benefit. Its effect upon the nervous system is splendid. A case of catarrh, now under my observation, has also nearly succumbed to its corrective influences.

Mrs. E. Barron

142 Seventh st., San Francisco.

CARD FROM CAPT. IRELAN.

As Joy's Sarsaparilla has just released me from a bad cough I do not hesitate to make mention of it thus publicly in the interest of other unfortunates who may be similarly afflicted

Capt Wm Irelan

334½ Sutter st.

San Francisco, Feb. 24, 1888.

PUT ME ON THE LIST.

After using four bottles of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, I write to say that you may also use my name, as an additional authority, for the statement that it will cure dyspepsia and liver and kidney disease. It has done it for me.

John Arnall

628 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

"I reached Marseilles disguised as an old man. I went to the house of my cousin—he in whom runs my grandfather's heroic blood—and there sat Annette. It was the season of cherries. They took a double stalk. At each end was a cherry. My cousin put one into his mouth, Annette put the other in hers. Then they drew the stalks in till their lips met—and alas, alas that I should have to say it!—they kissed. The game was a pretty one, but it filled me with fury. The heroic blood of my grandfather boiled up in me. I rushed i to the kitchen. I struck my cousin with the old man's crutch. He fell—I had slain him. Alas, I believe that I did slay him. Annette screamed. The gendarmes came. I fled. I reached the harbor. I hid aboard a vessel. The vessel put to sea. The captain found me and beat me. He took an opportunity. He posted a letter from a foreign port to the public. He did not put me ashore because I cooked so well. I cooked for him all the way to Zanzibar. When I asked for payment he kicked me. The blood of my heroic grandfather boiled within me, and I shook my fist in his face and vowed to have my revenge. He kicked me again. At Zanzibar there was a telegram. I cursed the man who invented telegraphs. Now I curse him again. I was to be arrested for desertion, for murder, and quelque chose. I escaped from the prison. I fled, I starved. I met the men of Monsieur le Care. They brought me here. I am here full of woe. But I return not to France. Better to risk my life in these horrible places than to know the Bagne."

He paused, and we were ready choked with laughter, having to turn our faces away.

"Ah! you weep, messieurs," he said. "No wonder—it is a sad story."

"Perhaps," said Sir Henry, "the heroic blood of your grandparent will triumph after all; perhaps you will still be great. At any rate we shall see. And now I vote we go to bed. I am dead tired, and we had not much sleep on that confounded rock last night."

And so we did, and very strange the tidy rooms and clean white sheets seemed to us after our recent experiences.

CHAPTER V.

UMSLOPOGAAS MAKES A PROMISE.

Next morning at breakfast I missed Flossie, and asked where she was.

"Well," said her mother, "when I got up this morning I found a note put outside my door, in which— But here it is, you can read it for yourself," and she gave me the slip of paper, on which the following was written:

"DEAREST M——.—It is just dawn, and I am off to the hills to get Mr. Q——a bloom of the lily he wants, so don't expect me till you see me. I have taken the white donkey, and Jones and a couple of boys are coming with me—also something to eat, as I may be away all day, for I am determined to get the lily if I have to go twenty miles for it.

"FLOSSIE."

"I hope she will be all right," I said, a little anxiously. "I never meant her to trouble after the flower."

"Ah, Flossie can look after herself," said her mother; "she often goes off in this way like a true child of the wilderness." But Mr. Mackenzie, who came in just then and saw the note for the first time, looked rather grave, though he said nothing.

After breakfast was over I took him aside and asked him if it would not be possible to send after the girl and get her back, having in view the possibility of there still being some Masai hanging about, at whose hands she might come to harm.

"I fear it would be of no use," he answered. "She may be fifteen miles off by now, and it is impossible to say what path she has taken. There are the hills;" and he pointed to a long range of rising ground stretching almost parallel with the course followed by the river Tana, but gradually sloping down to a dense bush clad plain about five miles short of the house.

Here I suggested that we might get up the great tree over the house and search the country round with a spyglass; and this, after Mr. Mackenzie had given some orders to his people to try and follow Flossie's spoor, we did.

The ascent of the mighty tree was rather a jumpy performance, even with a sound rope ladder fixed at both ends to climb up, at least to a landsman; but Good came up like a lamp lighter.

On reaching the height at which the first fern shaped boughs sprung from the bole, we stepped without any difficulty upon a platform made of boards, nailed from one bough to another, and large enough to accommodate a dozen people.

But look as we would, we could see no signs of Flossie and her donkey, so at last had to come down disappointed. On reaching the veranda I found Umslopogaas sitting there, slowly and lightly sharpening his ax with a small whetstone he always carried with him.

"What doest thou, Umslopogaas?" I asked.

"I smell blood," was the answer; and I could get no more out of him.

After dinner we again went up the tree and searched the surrounding country with a spy glass, but without result.

Shortly after the people whom Mr. Mackenzie had sent out to search for Flossie returned, stating that they had followed the spoor of the donkey for a couple of miles, and had then lost it on some stony ground, nor could they discover it again. They had, however, scoured the country far and wide, but without success.

After this the afternoon wore drearily on, and toward evening, there still being no signs of Flossie, our anxiety grew very keen. As for the poor mother, she was quite prostrated by her fears, and no wonder, but the father kept his head wonderfully well. Everything that could be done was done; people were sent out in all directions, shots were fired, and a continuous outlook kept from the great tree, but without avail.

And then at last it grew dark, and still no sign of fair haired little Flossie.

At 8 o'clock we had supper. It was but a sorrowful meal, and Mrs. Mackenzie did not appear at it. We three also were very silent, for in addition to our natural anxiety as to the fate of the child we were weighed down by the sense that we had brought this trouble on the head of our kind host. When supper was nearly at an end I made an excuse to leave the table. I wanted to get outside and think the situation over. I went on to the veranda, and having lit my pipe sat down on a seat about a dozen feet from the right hand end of the structure, which was, as the reader may remember, exactly opposite one of the narrow doors of the protecting wall that inclosed the house and flower garden. I had been sitting there perhaps six or seven minutes when I thought I heard the door move. I looked in that direction and listened, but being unable to make out anything concluded that I must have been mistaken. It was a darkish night, the moon not having yet risen.

Another minute passed, when suddenly something round fell with a soft but heavy thud upon the stone flooring of the veranda and came bounding and rolling past me. For a moment I did not rise, but sat wondering what it could be. Finally I concluded it must have been an animal. Just then, however, another idea struck me, and I got up quick enough. The thing lay quite still a few feet beyond me. I put down my hands towards it and it did not move; clearly it was not an animal. My hand touched it. It was soft and warm and heavy. Hurriedly I lifted it and held it up against the faint starlight.

It was a newly severed human head.

I am an old hand and not easily upset, but I own that that ghastly sight made me feel sick. How had the thing come there? Whose was it? I put it down and ran to the little door way. I could see nothing, hear nobody. I was about to go out into the darkness beyond, but remembering that to do so was to expose myself to the risk of being stabbed, I drew back, shut the door, and bolted it. Then I returned to the veranda, and in as careless a voice as I could command, called Curtis. I fear, however, that my tones must have betrayed me, for not only Sir Henry but also Good and Mackenzie rose from the table and came hurrying out.

"What is it?" said the clergyman, anxiously.

Then I had to tell them.

Mr. Mackenzie turned pale as death under his red skin. We were standing opposite the hall door, and there was a light in it so that I could see. He snatched the head up by the hair and held it in the light.

"It is the head of one of the men who accompanied Flossie," he said, with a gasp. "Thank God, it is not hers!"

We all stood and stared at each other aghast. What was to be done?

Just then there was a knocking at the door that I had bolted, and a voice cried, "Open, my father, open!"

The door was unlocked and in fled a terrified man. He was one of the spies who had been sent out.

"My father," he cried, "the Masai are on us! A great body of them have passed round the hill and are moving toward the old stone kraal down by the little stream. My father, make strong thy heart! In the midst of them I saw the white ass, and on it sat the Waterily" (Flossie). "An Emoran" (young warrior) "led the ass, and by its side walked the nurse, weeping. The men who went with her in the morning I saw not."

"Was the child alive?" asked Mr. Mackenzie, hoarsely.

"She was as white as the snow, but well, my father. They passed quite close to me, and looking up from where I lay hid, I saw her face against the sky."

"God help her and us!" groaned the clergyman.

"How many are there of them?" I asked.

"More than two hundred—two hundred and half a hundred."

Once more we looked one on the other. What was to be done? Just then there rose a loud, insistent cry outside the wall.

"Open the door, white man! open the door! A herald—a herald to speak with thee." Thus cried the voice.

Umslopogaas ran to the wall, and reaching with his long arms to the coping, lifted his head above it and gazed over.

"I see but one man," he said. "He is armed and carries a basket in his hand."

"Open the door," I said. "Umslopogaas, take thine ax and stand thereby. Let one man pass. If another follow, slay."

The door was unlatched. In the shadow of the wall stood Umslopogaas, his ax raised above his head to strike. Just then the moon came out. There was a moment's pause, and then in stalked a Masai Elmoran, clad in the full war panoply that I have already described, but bearing a large basket in his hand. The moon shone bright upon his great spear as he walked. He was physically a splendid man, apparently about thirty-five years of age. Indeed, none of the Masai that I saw were under six feet high, though mostly quite young. When he got opposite to us he halted, put down the basket and struck the spike of his spear into the ground, so that it stood upright.

"Let us talk," he said. "The first messenger we sent to you could not talk;" and he pointed to the head which lay upon the paving of the stoep—a ghastly sight in the moonlight; "but I have words to speak if ye have ears to hear. Also I bring presents," and he pointed to the basket and laughed with an air of swaggering insolence that is perfectly indescribable, and yet which one could not but admire, seeing that he was surrounded by enemies.

"Say on," said Mr. Mackenzie.

"I am the Lygonani" (war captain) "of a part of the Masai of the Guasa Amboni. I and my men followed these three white men," and he pointed to Sir Henry, Good, and myself, "but they were too clever for us, and escaped hither. We have a quarrel with them, and are going to kill them."

"Are you, my friend?" said I to myself.

"In following these men we this morning caught two black men, one black woman, a white donkey, and a white girl. One of the black men we killed—there is his head upon the pavement; the other ran away. The black woman, the little white girl, and the white ass we took and brought with us. In proof thereof have I brought this basket that she carried. Is it not thy daughter's basket?"

Mr. Mackenzie nodded, and the warrior went on.

"Good! With thee and thy daughter we have no quarrel, nor do we wish to harm thee, save as to thy cattle, which we have already gathered, 240 head—a beast for every man's father."

Here Mr. Mackenzie gave a groan, as he greatly valued this herd of cattle, which he bred with much care and trouble.

"So, save for the cattle, thou mayst go free; more especially," he added, frankly glancing at the wall, "as this place would be a difficult one to take. But as to these men it is otherwise; we have followed them for eight days, and must kill them. Were we to return to our kraal without having done so, all the girls would make a mock of us. So, however troublesome it may be, they must die.

"Now, I have a proposition for thine ear. We would not harm the little girl; she is too fair to harm, and has besides, a brave spirit. Give us one of these three men—a life for a life—and we will let her go and throw in the black woman with her also. This is a fair offer, white man. We ask but for one, not for the three; we must take another opportunity to kill the other two. I do not even pick my man, though I should prefer the big one," pointing to Sir Henry; "he looks strong, and would die more slowly."

"And if I say I will not yield the man?" said Mr. Mackenzie.

"Nay, say not so, white man," answered the Masai, "for then thy daughter dies at dawn, and the woman with her says thou hast no other child. Were she older I would take her for a servant; but as she is so young I will slay her with my own hand—ay, with this very spear. Thou canst come and see an' thou wilt. I give thee a safe conduct," and the fiend laughed aloud at his brutal jest.

Meanwhile I had been thinking rapidly, as one does in emergencies, and had come to the conclusion that I would exchange myself against Flossie. I scarcely like to mention the matter for fear it should be misunderstood. Pray do not let any one be misled into thinking that there was anything heroic about this, or any such nonsense. It was merely a matter of common sense and common justice. My life was an old and worthless one, hers was young and valuable. Her death would pretty well kill her father and mother also, while nobody would be much the worse for mine; indeed, several charitable institutions would have cause to rejoice thereat. It was indirectly through me that the dear little girl was in her present position. Lastly, a man was better fitted to meet death in such a peculiarly awful form than a sweet young girl. Not, however, that I meant to let these gentry torture me to death—I am far too much of a coward to allow that, being naturally a timid man; my plan was to see the girl safely exchanged, and then to shoot myself, trusting that the Almighty would take the peculiar circumstances of the case into consideration and pardon the act. All this and more went through my mind in very few seconds.

"All right, Mackenzie," I said, "you can tell the man that I will exchange myself against Flossie, only I stipulate that she shall be safely in this house before they kill me."

To Be Continued.

LONDON BLACKMAILERS.

How American Capitalists Are Bled by the Vampires of Commerce.

There has recently come to the knowledge of American capitalists and promoters the fact that there is a systematic and carefully-planned bureau of blackmail in London, the workings of which are concealed from the public, but which has proven a thorn in the side of numerous American enterprises. As far as known the head of the bureau is a man who moves in fair business and social circles in London, and has a "string" in two or three newspaper offices, including a "financial" paper. He has a number of correspondents on this side of the water, where he formerly lived for a number of years. They keep him posted as to Americans who go abroad to raise money for the promotion of enterprises of various kinds.

The minutest details of these enterprises are ascertained by these correspondents, in order to find any possible flaws. On the arrival of an American in London to present to bankers there any scheme of financial operations, he is called upon by this head of the bureau, who delicately proffers his services. If these are accepted and terms agreed upon sufficiently exorbitant, all goes well. If not, the unfortunate American finds his project assailed vituperously in a portion of the press, and attacked in a circle where the blackmailers move. Often he turns about and comes home disgusted, realizing how hopeless it is to fight away from home. If he shows battle, he may expect to be bled by lawyers. If he buys peace, as he can, a perfect army of smaller blackmailers spring up to "strike" him. His best course is to ignore them all, of course.

But few men have the courage to do that. A shrewd American promoter, who told these things from experience, added this advice: "The best way to be rid of the vampires is to keep yourself and your project a secret. If you go to London to raise money go to an obscure hotel and take lodgings. Keep away from the clubs and exchanges. Deal only with the banker. Give them the fullest opportunity of investigation. When you get your money come away as secretly as you went. I got $95,000 in London once and had a bogus suit brought to enjoin me from carrying it out of the country until I should have settled a commission I had never dreamed of contracting."—N. Y. Letter.

—It is not the storm which breaks the image of Heaven in the stream, but the million pebbles over which it chafes.—Mrs. Charles.

—More than ten million eggs are carried into New York each week. One might be tempted to think this an ova-supply.—Boston Transcript.

—Poverty is a bully, if you are afraid of her or tremble before her. Poverty is good-natured enough if you meet her like a man.—Thackeray.

—It may be true that "money makes the mare go," but it's a complete certainty on the race track that the mare makes money go.—Merchant Traveler.

—Read not to contradict and confute nor to believe at first sight and take for granted, nor to find talk and discourse, but to weigh and reason and consider.—Lord Bacon.

—The sun should not set upon our anger, neither should it rise upon our confidence. We should forgive freely, but forget rarely. I will not be revenged; this I owe to my enemy. But I will remember; and this I owe to myself.—Colton.

—True zeal is modest and retiring: It is not like the scentless sunflower, which spreads its gaudy petals to the light of heaven, and turns its face to the orb of day, as if determined to be seen; but, like the modest violet, it hides itself in the bank, and sends forth its fragrance from its deep retirement.—T. A. James.

Beautiful woman, from whence came thy bloom,
Thy beaming eye, thy features fair?
What kindly hand on thee was laid—
Endowing thee with beauty rare?
"Twas not ever thus," the dame replied,
"Once pale this face, these features bald,
The 'Favorite Prescription' of Dr. Pierce
Wrought the wonderous change which you behold."

The man who blows out the gas seems to be about as numerous as he ever was. Neither age, experience or the disseminating influence of the press can lessen his ranks.

THE DEVIL FISH DESCRIBED BY HUGO

is not a more tenacious monster than malaria, whether it takes the form of chills and fever, bilious remittent, ague cake or dumb ague. Like the octopus of the story it clasps the victim in its tentacules, and holds him closer and closer in a horrible embrace. Attacked with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, however, it gradually relaxes its tremendous grip, finally abandons it, and the quondam sufferer, liberated at last, rejoices in the sense of new born freedom, engendered by the restoration of complete health. Dyspepsia, too, and constipation, those old and inveterate enemies of the human family, give ground, and are finally driven from the field by this Napoleon of remedies, the greatest, the purest in the family pharmacopœia. Rheumatism succumbs to it, so do kidney troubles. The nerves, when overstrained, regain quietude and vigor by its aid, and the ability to rest tranquilly and eat with zest are increased by it. Resort to it in time and avoid unnecessary suffering.

Some Truth in It—Tommy—Say, mamma, why don't you have some color in your cheeks, now like us? Mamma—I have loaned it to your father to paint his nose with.

THE FLYING DOVE OF PEACE.

A richly frosted quadruple, flying Dove, A Dream of Life screen calendar. An imported ideal head. An imported frosted snow scene and a full set of magnificent floral cards. Fourteen artistic pieces. Sent to anyone who will buy from a druggist a box of the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS (price, 25 cts.) and mail us the outside wrapper from the box with 4 cents in stamps. Write your address plainly. FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

Jones—Fish are spoken of as the fisher man's harvest. Why is that? Smith—Because the fishermen have to plow the waves to get them.

"Golden at morning, silver at noon, and lead at night," is the old saying about eating oranges. But there is something that is rightly named Golden, and can be taken with benefit at any hour of the day. This is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, literally worth its weight in gold to any one suffering with scrofulous affections, impurities of the blood, or diseases of the liver and lungs. It is unfailing. By druggists.

When a saloon keeper seeks to hide his business under the sign of "Sample Room," the Detroit Free Press says, he ought to be ashamed enough to quit business entirely.

CHILDREN STARVING TO DEATH

On account of their inability to digest food; will find a most marvellous food and remedy in Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Very palatable and easily digested. Dr. S. W. Cohen, of Waco, Texas, says: "I have used your Emulsion in infantile wasting with good results. It not only restores wasted tissues, but gives strength and increases the appetite. I am glad to use such a reliable article."

Camelline improves and preserves the complexion.

THE SURGEON'S KNIFE.

How it could have been Avoided.

There is no better way to show my appreciation for the remarkable benefits I have received than to furnish the following facts of my life. About 12 years ago I began to suffer serious disturbances to my health, with loss of sleep and appetite, severe pains in the back, over kidneys and liver; bowels were constipated, and there was a severe pressure on my bladder. My physician told me my case was a serious attack of Gravel and Stones in the Bladder. I finally became so bad that an operation was decided on. About four years ago I submitted myself to the surgeon's knife, and three stones about the size of large hazelnuts were cut out of my bladder. I was better for some time after this, but in a few months the old trouble set up again. At this time, about two years ago, I was losing a great deal of blood from the kidneys when I began using Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy of Rondout, N. Y. In a few days I passed three calculi, or stones, the size of very large peas. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy had dissolved the stones, the pressure and soreness of the bladder ceased, the formation of new stones was prevented, I had no more gravel, and with the exception of a few constitutional effects which time was surely correcting, I was a well man once more. The medicine gave a healthy tone to my constitution, and proved to be a trusty and sure remedy. I am confident that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was the sole means of my cure; as I took no other medicine whatever. No amount of money can measure the confidence I have in it as a health restorer and preserver. There can be no other medicine so valuable for liver, kidney and bladder diseases, it has added years to my life. I will cheerfully reply to any inquiries which may be addressed to me on the subject. Anderin Jones, 64 W. 93d St., Late Architect and Civil Engineer Central Park, N. Y.

To avoid mistakes, the public are requested not to forget the following points: 1st. Name is Favorite Remedy. 2. It is made at Rondout, N. Y. 3d. Costs only $1.00, 6 for $5.00. 4th. The Proprietor Dr. David Kennedy has no other address than Rondout, N. Y. Redington & Co., Agents, S. F.

A philosopher who had married an ignorant girl used to call her "Brown Sugar," because, he said, she was sweet but unrefined.

$500 REWARD.

If you suffer from dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; if the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed, and there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice being changed and having a nasal twang; the breath offensive; smell and taste impaired; experience a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough, and general debility, then you are suffering from chronic nasal catarrh. Only a few of the above named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case at one time, or in one stage of the disease. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians. The manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer, in good faith, $500 reward for a case of catarrh which they cannot cure. The Remedy is sold by druggists at only 50 cents.

It is rumored that a New York dramatist is at work on a play entitled "Self-Shoveled; or, Out of the Depths," which is to be presented shortly in that city. It will draw immensely.

SAFE, SURE, AND SPEEDY.

No external remedy ever yet devised has so fully and unquestionably met these three prime conditions as successfully as ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. They are safe because they contain no deleterious drugs and are manufactured upon scientific principles of medicine. They are sure because nothing goes into them except ingredients which are exactly adapted to the purposes for which a plaster is required. They are speedy in their action because their medicinal qualities go right to their work of relieving pain and restoring the natural and healthy performance of the functions of muscles, nerves, and skin.

We All Know Him.—"Speaking of Mr. McChlan, what an entertaining man he is! He can talk on any subject." "Yes, on either side of it."

"Brown's Bronchial Troches" will relieve Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, and Throat Diseases.

ITCHING PILES.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in many cases removes the tumors. It is equally efficacious in curing all Skin Diseases. DR. SWAYNE & SON, Proprietors, Philadelphia. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT can be obtained of druggists. Sent by mail for 50 Cents.

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED.

To the Editor:

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption, if they will send me their express and P. O. address. Respectfully,

T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., New York.

Wakelee's Squirrel and Gopher Exterminator. Try it, and prove the best is the cheapest. Wakelee & Co., San Francisco.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

"M. M. L."

The Refrain of Mitchell's Bird for the Afflicted.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Too whoo! | I am no owl, with eyes which look most wondrous wise. Yet hear me hoot! I sing a little song which will your life prolong. Have you upon your body a pain or muscle sore? Then swear no more. Too whoo! Or inflammation I but blow and it must die. A sprain, and scald, and burn yield to me in their turn. Too whoo! Too whit!! I'm jesting not a bit. I set dead nerves in motion, and by a subtle potion kill pain, and stiff joints loose. I am no grease of goose! I am MITCHELL'S MAGIC LOTION! Just take a trial bottle. It will your worst pain throttle. It's made—but I am here to sing of all 'twill cure—of what 'twill do! Of what it's made is not the thing I'll tell to you. Too whit! Too whoo! | |

I HAVE FOUND

R. HALL'S PULMONARY BALSAM

A SUPERIOR REMEDY FOR

COUGHS, COLDS, INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION,

And all Throat and Lung Troubles.

Sold by all Druggists for.....50 Cents.

J. R. CATES & CO.,

PROPRIETORS,

417 SANSOME ST. SAN FRANCISCO.

REWARD!

$1000 Will be paid for each and every gram of poisonous substances found in Wisdom's Robertine, acknowledged the most delightful and only really harmless toilet article ever produced for beautifying and preserving the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles and all blemishes and roughness of the skin. Used and endorsed by the elite of society and the stage. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per bottle. White and Flesh. REDINGTON & CO., Wholesale Druggists San Francisco, Agents.

A Lovely Skin

Nothing is known to science at all comparable to the CUTICURA REMEDIES in their marvellous properties of cleansing, purifying and beautifying the skin, and in curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair from infancy to age.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, are a positive cure for every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

I have had a most wonderful cure of salt rheum. For five years I have suffered with this disease. I had it on my face, arms and hands. I was unable to do anything whatever with my hands for over two years. I tried hundreds of remedies, and not one had the least effect. The doctor said my case was incurable. I saw your advertisement, and concluded to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES; and incredible as it may seem, that after using one box of CUTICURA, and two cakes of CUTICURA SOAP, and two bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, I find I am entirely cured. Those who think this letter exagerated may come and see me and find out for themselves. GRACE P. HARKHAM.

North St. Charles Street, Belle River, Ont.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are absolutely pure and the only infallible blood purifiers and skin beautifiers.

I have been afflicted since last March with a skin disease the doctors called eczema. My face was covered with scabs and sores, and the itching and burning were almost unbearable. Seeing your CUTICURA REMEDIES so highly recommended, concluded to give them a trial, using the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and RESOLVENT internally, for four months. I call myself cured, in gratitude for which I make this public statement.

CLARA A. FREDERICK, Broad Brook, Conn.

I have suffered from Salt Rheum for over eight years, at times so bad that I could not attend to my business for weeks at a time. Three boxes of CUTICURA and four bottles RESOLVENT have entirely cured me of this dreadful disease.

JOHN THIEL,

1575 Second Avenue, New York City.

The box of CUTICURA that you sent me some months ago did me so much good that I will send for another box, believing that it will cure me of a skin disease with which I have been troubled for eighteen years.

FANNIE I. JOHNSON, Amsterdam, Va.

Sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages, 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

TINTED with the loveliest delicacy is the skin bathed with CUTICURA MEDICATED SOAP.

PIMPLES, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA MEDICATED SOAP.

Wholesale and Retail Agency for all Adjustable and Common Press Forms and Drapery; also Papier Mache busts made to order.

Send for Circular.

W. M. LOUDON, 624 Stockton St., - - San Francisco.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use. 20 years. Established. Now patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept. each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage. MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. 111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

F. S. SHADBOURNE & CO.,

FURNITURE,

741, 743, 745 MARKET ST.,

San Francisco, Cal.

The Largest Furniture Dealers in the United States. Branches at Portland, Los Angeles, and San Diego.

BEST TREE WASH.

GREENBANK'S 98% Powdered Caustic Soda (tests 99 3-10%), recommended by the highest authorities; also, common Caustic Soda, pure Caustic Potash, etc., etc., for sale by T. W. JACKSON & CO., Manufacturer's Agents, 3 California & 104 Market Sts., S. F.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

AN AGENT WANTED IN EVERY TOWN on the Pacific Coast for Kimball's Liquid Glue. Needed in every family. 534 Valencia St., S. F., Cal.

I CURE FITS!

When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again. I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. H. G. ROOT, M. C., 183 Pearl St. New York.

CANDY MAKING FOR PLEASURE OR PROFIT. YOUNG PERSONS wishing to engage in a light, pleasant, and, perhaps, profitable amusement, can learn the art of Candy Making at home, and while giving amusement to their friends and themselves, discover whether they have a taste for the work as a business, and thereby make a fair living profit from a very small investment. Receipts, and full instructions in detail, sufficient for several lessons for the making of twelve simple varieties, and amply sufficient for home amusement, sent for one dollar. Tools necessary may be found in any kitchen. Address, GEO. F. PERCIVAL, 122 Ellis Street, San Francisco.

Oregon and Washington

FARMS FOR SALE

At reasonable prices and on easy terms.

Address WM. MACMASTER, 40 Second Street, Portland, Oregon.

Wolf & Frank

MEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

232 Kearny St., San Francisco

Shirts. Underwear, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Neckwear, Collars, Cuffs, Etc.

SHIRTS TO ORDER, $1.

Illustrated Catalogue, with Rules for Self Measurement, Mailed Free.

A NEW TUNE

To the old song that money brings better bargains than credit. Even good credit cannot and never will compete with ready cash. Send for our latest list, just now out, and be convinced. Of over 300 articles on sale, we can mention but few in this notice. It costs money to advertise, and we do very little at it. Our goods and prices are our best "puff," and everybody else says so. We mention a few prices to show the wide range in the value of goods. We expect you to buy the best, but would rather sell the cheap ones, as hardly anybody will buy them, and when they do are not pleased. But our medium and first quality goods bring the answer every time. Dried Apricots, 2½c to 15c; Grapes, 3c to 5c; Raisins, 5c to 10c; Peaches, 7c to 16c; Pears, 4c to 10c; Figs, 5c to 8c—and all good value for the money. Canned Salmon, 6½c to $1 75 per doz; Lobster, 60c to $2 00; Oysters of the best quality at wholesale prices. Canned Fruit, table, from $1 75 to $2 25 per dozen. We cannot commence to tell you about the Dry Goods, Notions, Hardware, Tinware, Crockery, Glassware, and other articles we carry in stock and offer bargains in. But you save money every time by ordering from Smith's Cash Store, No 418 Front Street

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY ..... MAY 26, 1888.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XIX. NO. 50. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., MAY 26, 1888. WHOLE NO. 917.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

CHEMICAL DISCOVERIES.

Commodities Producible from Purely Inorganic Materials.

It will be a long time before the farmer finds himself supplanted by the chemical laboratory in the production of such commodities as sugar, tea, alcohol, drugs and dye stuffs, though sanguine chemists tell us that the recent triumphs of their science indicate the probability that these and other articles will some day be profitably produced from purely inorganic materials. Synthetic chemistry, or the forming of compounds by recombinations of chemical elements, is making steady progress, and has already affected agriculture.

Mr. Robert Hugh Mills, in a recent lecture, called attention to the fact that the cultivation of madder has been almost destroyed by the chemical discovery that its identical coloring matter can be cheaply produced from coal tar. The production of indigo is also threatened by an artificial product which the chemists have discovered. A while ago it was found that the cinchona tree could be profitably planted in India, and a fine new field of industry was believed to have opened for the farmers of that country. Scores of chemists, however, have been at work upon the synthesis of quinine, and their researches have advanced so far that the prediction is now confidently made that the manufacture of the principle of quinine will soon be a commercial success, and that cinchona planting will become a thing of the past. These chemical reproductions of the valuable principles inherent in natural products are often easier to handle and utilize than the products from which they have hitherto been derived, and thus the tendency of manufactures is to substitute artificial for natural sources of supply.

The problem of sugar-making from inorganic materials has engaged some chemists for a number of years. The synthesis of glucose last year by Fischer and Tafel, is said to promise an ample supply of this commodity without the aid of grapes or starch. Two years ago some German chemists announced that they had produced saccharose, the equivalent of cane sugar, by passing an electric current through a mixture of starch, sulphuric acid and water. Nothing has yet been heard of the commercial value of this new product, and there is no reason to think it will prove a dangerous rival to the sweets we derive from the cane and the beet. Some sugar growers, however, have been prophesying for years that something would happen to ruin the sugar industry, and their alarm receives a fresh impulse at every new discovery like that of Remsen's saccharine, an exceedingly sweet article produced from coal tar. The day may come when processes of sugar-making by the use of inorganic materials will seriously affect the sugar planter, but there is no reason as yet to believe that his industry will soon be imperilled.

Legislation has intervened in some places to protect the dairy farmer against oleomargarine even where this product is honestly sold as artificial butter. It is not to be expected that in many cases where science supplies us with a desirable substitute for any product, the law can be successfully invoked to keep the world from reaping the benefit of increasing knowledge. Future discoveries may compel the farmer to cease raising some produce by which he has thrived, or to change and improve his methods of agriculture; but it is certain that the tillers of the soil will continue to supply the chief resources of food and apparel.—N. Y. Sun.

ARTESIAN WELLS.

Their Origin Traceable to the Time of the Ancient Egyptians.

The sedimentary rocks in their great thickness enclose a succession of water-sheets or water-levels occupying distinct stages and extending with uniform characters under whole countries like the strata to which they are subordinated. It is proper to remark here that by the term water-sheet is not meant a real bed of water lodged in a cavity between solid masses that serve as walls to it, but water filling the minute interstices, like the cracks of a rock. Continuous as air in sand, these sheets are usually continuous and irregular in limestones and sandstones, in which the water only occupies more or less spacious fissures.

When natural issues are wanting human industry is able, by boring, to make openings down to the subterranean waters, which it causes to jet up to the surface and sometimes to a considerable height above. The thought of undertaking such works is a very ancient one. The Egyptians had recourse to them forty centuries ago; and they were executed in France in 1126 at Artois, whence the name of artesian wells has been given to them.

The water levels of the cretaceous strata, from which the French artesian waters issue, are not always of advantage; but in the north of France and in Belgium they constitute the most formidable obstacle which miners have to encounter in reaching the coal beds.

A striking confirmation of the theory of the source of supply of the artesian waters has been observed in Tours, where the water, spouting with great velocity from a well a hundred and ten metres in depth, brings up, together with fine sand, fresh water shells and seeds in such a state of preservation as to show that they could not have been more than three or four months on their voyage. Some of the wells of the Wady Rir have also ejected fresh water mollusks, fish and crabs, still living, which must, therefore, have made a still more rapid transit.—Popular Science Monthly.

AN UNCONSIDERED EVIL.

Dangers Growing Out of the Return of Criminals From the Gaols.

While we are so nervously anxious to limit physical sickness we deliberately continue year after year to spread and to perpetuate another sort of disease which is eating at the very vitals of society. Vice and crime not only prey upon society, they poison it. And what we do is this: Over and over again we return again into the community all the crime that finds its way into our jails. The fever hospitals, the smallpox hospitals do not send their patients out till they are cured, till there is no risk of spreading the contagion of their several diseases. The inmates of our jails, or a vast number of them, are never cured. They are incurable. They are either born criminals—of which, in the nature of things, there must be very many thousands in a population like that of England—or they have become infected with crime and hardened in it, as may easily happen, considering the condition in which a man finds himself after imprisonment for even one serious offense. It is a common belief that our prisons, our convict establishments, are little better than huge factories for receiving criminals at one end and turning them out at the other with their original depravity confirmed and intensified. Some of those who have the most intimate knowledge of these things tell us that almost every one of the poor wretches whom we shut up in order to let loose again leaves the prison more dangerous to society than when he entered it. It is extremely likely. In one man's case the brand of crime is where it was not before; in another's it is deepened. The shame which so often passes into desperation seizes on the less guilty, the hardened criminal is yet more hardened now. Yet we, knowing what these men and women are, knowing that they are not only vicious in themselves, but centers of contagion and breeders and perpetuators of crime, constantly turn them back from jail into the community of which they are the dregs and the poison. This is done methodically. We do it over and over again with the same men and women; and, after a generation or two of what in the precisely similar case of the hospitals would be thought downright madness, we are startled by the extraordinary number of "roughs" that we seem to possess.

How many of us ever give a thought to this extraordinary system of constantly returning criminal offenders from the gaols, where they are too often exasperated and hardened, into the general community, where nine-tenths of them can do nothing but continue in their old courses? Very few, we imagine. And the public indifference to what really is not a law of nature is the more remarkable because the problem of criminal discipline is of the very essence of that condition-of-the-people question which, for all sorts of curiously compounded and contrasted reasons, has so closely and painfully engaged attention of late. The misery of the unemployed, the poor estate of the half-employed, the gnawing anxieties of many who yet contrive to find fairly regular work and wages—these are topics that are found in the mouths of many who would be very sorry to pose as philanthropists merely because they acknowledge the common instincts of humanity. But while they worry the husk they refuse to probe the kernel. At the heart of the evil lies this perennially prolific mass of hopeless vice and crime, and with it we shall have to deal if we mean to do anything worth the doing. If the thing is in any way practicable we ought to change the present system and take measures for moving out of the community the worst members of the criminal classes. Even as a factor in the question of pauperism and destitution this matter peremptorily claims attention. It would be very cruel and very absurd to say that want is in every case the result of misconduct; but it is true that the inherited repugnance of large numbers of our fellow-men to honest industry alone makes distress unmanageble. Thousands of the "unemployed" earn no wages because they do not want to work. They do odd jobs, they loaf, they tramp, they pilfer, they steal, and so on through the whole gamut of laziness and vice. Why is this? We have already said. Human nature is far from perfect yet. Many rogues are born; many others are easily turned into rogues by circumstance. It is likely enough that the instinct of evil living is transmitted; it is certain that the contamination of vicious surroundings has its natural effect. Necessity holds the born felon in a pitiless grip. Birth gives the infant the fatal bent home-life develops it. The unwieldly bulk of modern society is traversed by hard lines of moral as well as of social cleavage. Crime runs into pockets like ore in the mine. The Ishmaelites dwell alone and propagate among themselves. There is nothing to attenuate the vicious strain. We have on the fringe of the decent population a class of creatures who at best are worthless and too often are pure pests. It is recruited, but it is not regenerated, from the outside; on the other hand, it feeds the ranks of the thriftless, the reckless, the ne'er-do-wells. What must be the result of such a state of things? With a rapidly increasing population, with a greater mass of poverty, a greater number of viciously disposed people crowding into "East-ends" in all our great cities, what can we expect from a continuance of the present system of dealing with the criminal classes? Reason answers that we are to expect nothing but evil.—St. James' Gazette.

—An itinerant preacher, who rambled in his sermons, when requested to stick to his text, replied "that scattering shot would hit the most birds."

SOCIAL MICE AND LIONS.

How All the Weights Must Be Adjusted in Modern Society.

Society demands equivalents. There is no such thing in the world as all give and no receive, and society is in line with the rest. When the ladies who rule society open their houses to the crowd outside, they do not open them to social paupers—people who possess nothing that is desirable, and who are destitute of the current coin. Why should they? The virtues which are of so much value in their proper place shine no more in a brilliant drawing-room than so many uncut diamonds still embedded in the mother stone. At home they do grand work—but in a drawing-room?

Frankly, now, who would ask to a superb assembly of notabilities—lions and lionesses every one of them—a meek, shabby, well-dressed mouse, because she was a good housekeeper or a tender mother, a staunch friend or a faithful wife? In the hierarchy of blessed spirits she would take high rank; but in the social jungle, among the lions and lionesses of the hour, resplendent in their magnificence, superb in their glowing strength, the blessed mouse would be incontinently squashed, and she would know that she was. Supreme genius in art, poetry, music, or mere technical dexterity, each giving that thing we call fame a reputation "out of line," as the French say, whether for bold exploration, for keen-witted detection, for unblushing injustice, safeguarded by professional obligations; eccentricity of political conduct; or even mere wealth, no matter how made, will raise the mouse by birth into an equality with the lion by inheritance.

Beauty, too, of an extraordinary quality sheds so much luster over the defaced scutcheon—or the blank where a scutcheon should be and is not—that, unless marred by impossible manners, it stands good for an "open sesame" to all the doors which ask a reason why, and an equivalent, before they turn on their hinges inwards. In the present day, however, wealth is perhaps the most potent Abracadabra. Look at the marriages which are made and then think of how money is able to make the mice fit mates for the lions. See that undersized, uncomely little jackal, with his low-bred manners, his shabby past, his doubtful career—and look at his high-born, beautiful self-sold wife; and then calculate the force at the bank of £50,000 a year! Youth, beauty, pride, blue blood, and such love as she can feel given to another, she a lioness of the most distinguished race, possessing all save this yellow metal—and lo, she takes this hideous and dirt-evolved little mouse because of the pile of gold of which he is possessor!—London Queen.

MATERIALS FOR COLORS.

Where and How a Goodly Number of Them Is Obtained.

Every quarter of the globe is ransacked for the materials—animal, vegetable and mineral—employed in the manufacture of the colors one finds in a paint-box. From the cochineal insect are obtained the gorgeous carmines, as well as the crimson, scarlet and purple lakes. Sepia is the inky fluid discharged by the cuttle-fish to render the water opaque for its own concealment when attacked. Ivory-black and bone-black are made out of ivory chips. The exquisite Prussian blue is got by fusing horses' hoofs and other refuse animal matter with impure potassium carbonate. It was discovered by an accident. In the vegetable kingdom are included the lakes, derived from roots, barks and gums. Blue-black is from the charcoal of the vine stalk. Lamp-black is soot from certain resinous substances. From the madder-plant which grows in Hindostan, is manufactured Turkey red. Gamboge comes from the yellow sap of a tree, which the natives of Siam catch in cocoa-nut shells. Raw sienna is the natural earth from the neighborhood of Sienna, Italy. When burned, it is burned sienna. Raw umber is an earth from Umbria, and is also burned. To these vegetable pigments may probably be added Indian ink, which is said to be made from burnt camphor. The Chinese, who alone can produce it, will not reveal the secret of its composition. Mastic—the base of the varnish so-called—is from the gum of the mastic tree, indigenous to the Grecian Archipelago. Bistre is the soot of wood-ashes. Of real ultramarine but little is found in the market. It is obtained from the precious lapis lazuli, and commands a fabulous price. Chinese white is zinc. Scarlet is iodide of mercury, and cinnabar, or native vermillion, is from quicksilver ore. Luckily for the health of small children, the water-colors in the cheap boxes usually bought for them have little or no relation, chemically, to the real pigments they are intended to counterfeit.—Argonaut.

—The amole or soap plant is an important feature of rural life in California, especially with the Spanish population. The plant rises from a subterranean bulb, which is egg-shaped in form, two or three inches in diameter, and enveloped in a thick coating of black, matted, hair-like fibers. This bulb has the detergent properties of soap, cleaning the hands or clothing quite as well and much more pleasantly than the coarser kinds of soap.

—All the steel marking and canceling stamps used by the various post-offices throughout the country are made in the little machine-shop of Colonel Benjamin Chambers, at Heathsville, Va. Heathsville itself was one of the first towns established by the settlers in Virginia.

FRECKLE-FACED HONORA.

Love Trials and Troubles of the Editor of the Arizona Kicker.

The following advance proof-sheet has been sent us from the office of the Arizona Kicker:

"It being thrown in our face that old Jim Polhemus kicked us off his premises the other night for making love to his daughter Honora. An explanation is not only due our readers but ourself. While every body in this county knows old Jim to be a sand-papered, oil-finished liar of the first quality, some recent arrival may hear his story and do us the injustice of believing it.

"In love with Honora Polhemus! In love with a carroty-haired, freckled-faced, lantern-jawed, lop-shouldered, pigeon-toed, knock-kneed specimen of the female sex who chews plug, spits out cuss-words and shakes her fist under her father's nose! Never! Not if we edit the Kicker, and we think we do!

"The fact is, old Jim has wanted us for a son-in-law ever since we struck the town and opened up. We can say without egotism that we have been the catch of the place. Who urged us to visit his house? Who loafed about our office for weeks? Who threw his lop-eared daughter at our head, as it were? Old Jim Polhemus! He figured that a marriage with us would pull his family out of the quagmire of obscurity and give 'em standing, and he figured right. The following diagram shows how we were received at old Jim's dug-out:

O's—The Polhemus family.
We—Editor Kicker.

"Does this look as if the old long-shanked liar forbid us his house, as he now says he did? We never took to Honora. The eagle can not mate with the crow. We endured her, expecting to get a year's subscription out of her father, and we were polite to her because it is our nature to be polite to everybody. We don't want to spoil the girl's chance for catching a Digger Indian for a husband, but we shall hold ourself in readiness to sympathize with the Digger.

"We had been visiting Jim's dug-out on Rabbit Hill for four or five weeks, when, Sunday night last, the conspiracy against us came to a head. The following postal card shows the situation in the front room of the dug-out at ten o'clock that evening:

A—Door by which Jim suddenly jumped into the room.
B—Door by which we left the dug-out.
W—Editor Kicker.
H—Honora.

"It may be further explained to the gentle reader that she had taken a seat on our knee and was trying to feed us gum-drops. We repulsed her gently, but with Roman firmness. We were telling her that we did not intend to marry until the Kicker had secured a weekly circulation of five thousand copies, when she threw her arms around our neck, plowed her nose along our cheek and into our ear, and said her heart was breaking. Old Jim, who had been in ambush in the other room, rushed in at that moment and swore we had been trifling with Honora's affections. We gently denied it. He said we'd got to marry her or fill an honored grave. We declined both honors. Honora began to bellow and declared she'd die if we gave her the shake, but the editor of the Kicker wasn't rocked in a basswood cradle. We arose to terminate the painful interview, and were assaulted by both father and offspring.

"Had the editor of the Kicker descended to the level of old Jim Polhemus, who was only a coyote-poisoner before a visit to our office raised him a peg, civilized society would no longer have recognized us. No man can strike a woman, even if she has both hands in his hair. We admit a black eye, a bitten ear, a damaged nose and more or less general dilapidation, but, thank Heaven, we came out of the fiery furnace without the loss of a principle. These are the brief facts. Old Jim Polhemus may lug himself around from pillar to pot-house and tell a new lie at every stopping-place, but he can't hurt us any. Honora may call us an unhung villain on every doorstep in town, but the elite won't believe it. Now is the time to subscribe."—Detroit Free Press.

He Never Takes Chances.

English Nobleman—That American, Mr. Bloodso, must be immensely rich. London has gone wild over him. We have nobody in England who can afford to spend money the way he does. He must have an enormous income. It is rumored that he is a Chicago speculator.

Mr. Lakeside—Have a big income? Why, man alive, he doesn't know himself the extent of his wealth. He spends it freely enough, I will grant, but in earning it he never takes any chances.

"Er—what is his business in America?"

"Is it possible you don't know? He's a Chicago burglar."—Chicago Mail.

—"I have just learned," said Mrs. Bipper, looking up from the paper, "that the inventor of the Gatling gun is a doctor." "Yes," replied Bipper, "and he is still engaged in professional work." "Is he?" "Yes. A gun he has just invented will kill a thousand persons a minute."—Kansas City Times.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—The total amount expended last year by the New West Commission in their schools among the Mormons was $61,518.

—A minister at Kalamazoo, Mich., preached eight weeks and got eighty-three cents over and above expenses for that period.

—In the college and schools in connection with the Free Church of Scotland Mission at Madras there are about eighteen hundred students.

—The Madras Presidency contains by far the largest Christian population in all India, the actual number of native Christians, including Roman Catholics, amounting to 700,000. This shows that out of every 1,000 of the population 23 are native Christians.

—Beginning in 1879 with a collection of $25,455, the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association of New York has collected and distributed in seven years ending last February more than $250,000—distributing the amount, so far as undesignated, among the twenty-eight hospitals which have associated themselves with its work.

—A wealthy Methodist in Chicago, in giving to the Missionary Society property valued at $126,000, justifies the purpose of the gift in these words: "Every man in America has had as good a chance to hear and obey the Gospel as I have had; therefore I propose to help those in the older world who have had lesser or no opportunities."

—It will mark a new era in the American Church when educated and cultured young men shall cease to look upon money getting and money spending as the only occupation worth their thought. God speed the day when some of them shall interpret for themselves that hard saying of the Master and shall forsake all to follow him.—Churchman.

—It is one of the excellent maxims of the kindergarten system that the child is always to be praised for what he accomplishes, not for his ability to accomplish. In a recent address to a graduating class of a Michigan college, a United States Senator put this same idea in different words. He said: "Of course, knowledge is power, we all know that; but mere knowledge is not power, it is simply possibility. Action is power, and its highest manifestation is action with knowledge."

—There are 300,000,000 of women now on this planet who have only the Buddhist hope of being born again as men instead of toads or snakes. There are 80,000,000 of women in Moslem harems. There are uncounted millions of men and women and children growing up in most degraded superstition, and suffering in mind, body and estate from inherited customs. In the name of mere philanthropy and secular prudence, Christian missions ought to receive a support immediate, abundant, permanent, unflinching.

AN ERA OF LETTERS.

One of the Most Notable Characteristics of the Current Decade.

The condescension to literature and to the stage is one of the notable characteristics of this agreeable time. We have to admit that literature is rather the fashion without the violent presumption that the author and the writer have the same social position that is conferred by money, or by the mysterious virtue there is in pedigree. A person does not lose caste by using the pen, or even by taking the not-needed pay for using it.

To publish a book or to have an article accepted by a magazine may give a sort of social distinction, either as an exhibition of a certain unexpected capacity or a social eccentricity. It is hardly too much to say that it has become the fashion to write, as it used to be to dance the minuet well, or to use the broadsword, or to stand a gentlemanly mill with a renowned cruiser. Of course, one ought not to do this professionally exactly—ought not to prepare for doing it by study and severe discipline, by training for it as for a trade, but simply to toss it off easily, as one makes a call, or pays a compliment, or drives four-in-hand.

One does not need to have that interior impulse which drives a poor devil of an author to express himself, that something to say which torments the poet into extreme irritability unless he can be rid of it, that noble hunger for fame which comes from a consciousness of the possession of vital thought and emotion. The beauty of this condescension to literature of which we speak is that it has that quality of spontaneity that does not presuppose either a capacity or a call.

There is no mystery about the craft. One resolves to write a book, as he might to take a journey or to practice on the piano, and the thing is done. Every body can write, at least every body does write. It is a wonderful time for literature. The Queen of England writes for it, the Queen of Roumania writes for it, the Shah of Persia wrote for it, Lady Brassey, the yachtswoman, wrote for it, Congressmen write for it, Peers write for it. The novel is the common recreation of ladies of rank, and where is the young woman in this country who has not tried her hand at a romance or made a cast at a popular magazine? The effect of all this upon literature is expansive and joyous. Superstition about mystery in the art has nearly disappeared. It is a common observation that if persons fail in every thing else, if they are fit for nothing else, they can at least write. It is such an easy occupation and the remuneration is in such disproportion to the expenditure! Isn't it indeed the golden era of letters? If only the letters were gold!—Harper's Magazine.

PUNGENT PARAGRAPHS.

—It is a singular fact that the man who is always in a pickle doesn't preserve his temper.

—Poker is always a fascinating game, provided you do not happen to pick up the red-hot end.—American Artisan.

—Decapitation is sometimes the only remedy for that peculiar disease popularly called "the big head."—Springfield Republican.

—While some ladies desire only the latest novelties in ribbons, there are others who prefer those of a moire antique pattern.

—In the Volapuk language the word for dollar is "doab." But it will be just as hard as ever to borrow one.—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

—A correspondent asks "if it is really true that Job was troubled with boils." There can be no doubt that he was if he had them.—Binghamton Republican.

—A peasant in Europe stared hard at a guide. "You'll know me again if you meet me," said the guide. "Not if you wash your face," replied the peasant.

—The old, old story boiled down: "She (early in the evening)—"Good evening, Mr. Sampson." Same she (late in the evening)—"Good night, George."—N. Y. Sun.

—"There is no virtue in vinegar," says a scientist. None, eh? It does what many so-called virtuous people do not do—supports its aged mother.—Binghamton Republican.

—There is great virtue in horse shoes. A woman who had a trifling, drunken husband for years, nailed a horseshoe over her door, and her husband ran away with the hired girl before a month.

—It is always one of the really interesting things in this world to hear a young woman express her candid opinion of the other young woman whom her husband might have married.—Journal of Education.

—Professor—"Perpetual motion, in the accepted sense of the term is impossible. Can you think of a piece of machinery that operates without an impelling force?" "Yes, sir." "What is it?" "A gas meter."—Lincoln Journal.

—It is the most wideawake girl that never thinks of filling the lamps until after dark. She is never so absent-minded as to forget that it is her afternoon off and go right on scrubbing until the stars peep out above the distant hills.—Puck.

—It is related that "Maria Mitchell has discovered eight comets and has never worn a Worth dress." Ah, show us the woman who has worn eight Worth dresses and has never discovered a comet, and we will show you true feminine happiness.—Kansas City Times.

—"Is there any such thing as law in this country?" asked a man excitedly after a verdict had been rendered against him. "Certainly there is," was the soothing reply. "Well, I'd like to know what it's good for?" "For the lawyers to make a living out of."—Merchant Traveler.

FISHING ON THE ICE.

How Great Catches are Made on Lake Erie in Cold Weather.

The Buffalo fishermen spend the majority of their time during the winter months in their primitive huts on the ice, and watch with peculiar interest their "tip-ups" scattered here and there over the lake for several hundred feet. The "tip-up" is a contrivance made of sticks, so arranged over a hole in the ice that when a fish bites on a line the good news is made known at once. Some of the fishermen have thirty or forty lines and their "catch" some days amounts to a heavy sled-load, which yields them a good income from the wholesale dealers.

All told, there are probably 1,500 fishermen in this city.

The fishermen all have long sleds drawn by dogs, and while waiting for a bite, if they have no shanty, curl themselves upon their sleds, hoist a sail as a wind-breaker, and smoke, pet their dogs, and patiently watch the "tip-ups." Sometimes four or five of the "tip-ups" will go up at once, signifying good bites, and then there are lively times, for the boys are always anxious to catch the biggest fish and best their neighbors, who are stationed about five hundred feet away on their own territory.

It is a great sight to see a thousand or more men fishing on the lake all at once. It is sometimes terribly cold, but their sail wind-break protects them to a great extent. In fact, if it were not for these contrivances they would freeze to death out there some days.

When in need of a dog, and a genuine fisherman always wants one more, he simply "nabs" the first on the street that catches his eye, and puts the canine at work. Let a fisherman get his eye on a dog and he's gone every clip, no matter how sagacious he may be.

It is amusing to watch the old trained dogs when the master is ready to start for home. They seem to know by his actions that the day's work is done, and will whine and yelp for him to hurry up. Once ready, a crack of the whip, and away they start, homeward bound over the sea. Go! Well, they would distance a race horse, and keep up a continuous barking. Perhaps there are three or four sleds in a line. Then there is fun. The race home is always a hot one, and the dogs seem to enjoy the sport just as well as their masters.

It is surprising what loads these dogs will draw with apparent ease. Four hundred pounds on a sled does not retard their speed in the least when once started over the smooth ice.—American Angler.

ELECTRIC SURGERY.

Description of the Recently-Invented Telephonic Bullet-Probe.

At a recent meeting of the New York Academy of Medicine, Dr. Girdner, of New York, exhibited his telephonic bullet-probe. The interesting feature of this probe is that it is operated by a current of electricity extracted from the body of the patient himself, in whom it is desired to locate a metallic missile. The construction of this probe is as follows: To each of the two terminals of a telephone-receiver, an insulated flexible wire about four feet long is connected. At the free end of one of these wires a hollow, bulbous piece of steel is attached. At the free end of the other wire is a suitable handle in which a probe may be placed and held by a clamp-screw. The internal arrangement of the handle is such that a perfect electrical contact exists between the end of the probe and that of the wire which terminates in the handle; the same is true for the end of the other wire and the steel bulb. When a current of electricity is passed through the coil in the receiver by means of the bulb and the probe, each time that the current is made and broken a clicking or rasping sound is heard in the receiver held to the ear. All sounds are shut out except that heard when the bullet is touched; and the apparatus is so constructed that both hands are left free. In describing the application of this probe, Dr. Girdner mentioned a case seen in practice, in which a musket-ball had lain between the bones of the leg for twenty-two years. When an ordinary probe was passed, hard substances could be felt in many places, but it could not be told whether they were bone or bullet. The porcelain probe, invented by the distinguished French surgeon, Nelaton, was of no use, as the bullet was so covered by a thick crust of salts of lead as not to be marked when it was rubbed against the bullet. When the telephonic probe was passed, no response came so long as bone and other tissues were touched; but, the moment the probe came in contact with the bullet, a clicking and rasping sound was heard in the telephone. During this test the steel bulb was held in the patient's mouth.—Science.

THREE NOTABLE WOMEN.

Rose Elizabeth Cleveland, Ada Rehan and Gabrielle Greeley.

Mrs. Sylvanus Reed showed herself a shrewd woman when she secured Miss Rose Elizabeth Cleveland's services as associate principal of her school. The President's sister has dropped as completely out of newspaper mention as if she had never presided in the White House, but her name still has power in the select circles from which private school pupils come. In spite of her school-room duties Miss Cleveland is seen very frequently in the quieter gatherings of society. She is as pronounced a blonde as her brother. Her eyes are bluish gray, and the very best New York dressmakers do full justice to her graceful figure. In class she is always very quietly dressed, but there as elsewhere she give the impression of a woman of position, or as an enthusiastic pupil puts it, "a queen every inch of her."

An interesting couple cross the Hamilton ferry at the same hour every Monday morning. Passengers seldom fail to notice the pleasant-faced elderly woman and the fine-looking daughter who attends to every want so carefully. When the New York side is reached the two pass out to the street together, stand a minute in conversation and then the elder enters the ferry house to go back to Brooklyn, while the younger goes up town. This is a side of Ada Rehan's life that few people know. She is warmly attached to her quiet little mother, who lives in South Brooklyn, and spends every Sunday with her, the mother "going a piece," as the saying is, with her on her return to her theater life as leading lady at Daly's, in the morning.

The only surviving daughter of Horace Greeley is almost as striking a figure as was Greeley himself. Miss Gabrielle Greeley is a woman past her first youth. She must be hard upon thirty-five, but there is an electric force about her, a splendid vitality which perpetually renews and multiplies its charm. She is seen often in company with a Miss Siddons, a granddaughter, or great-granddaughter, of the magnificent Sarah, who has made a successful debut as a reader at private entertainments.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

—The mysterious Philadelphian who is inviting proposals from all over the country as to the best disposition to make of $50,000, which he will give away when he finds the best way to bestow the money, is believed to be Isaiah V. Williamson, a wealthy and charitable Quaker. Mr. Williamson is worth $18,000,000, lives at the rate of $2,000 a year, and gives away thousands of dollars on the dead quiet, and without making as much fuss as the ordinary millionaire would over a $5 bill.

—Young Mr. Sissy (to pretty cousin)—"Do you know, Maude, that I have all my hats made to order?" Pretty cousin—"They are lovely, Charley. I suppose the dealers don't carry such a small size in stock."—Epoch.

—One of the most alarming items of news from the West is the failure of a baby carriage manufactory. Does not this show that infant industries demand more protection.—Baltimore American.

—Several swindlers recently took a lot of Confederate money to Mexico, and at Gaudalajara they worked it off at from par to thirty per cent premium.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, MAY 26..... 1888

The San Francisco "Alta" is quite strongly opposed to a protective tariff; yet no stronger argument in favor of protection has yet been made than the following statement published in the "Alta" of last Monday: "In 1883 the borax men went to Congress and succeeded in getting a duty of 3 cents a pound placed upon crude borax and 4 cents a pound upon boracic acid. Acting upon the supposition that the duty would stimulate the local market, the borax men enlarged their works and greatly increased their output. Their calculations were upset, however, by the fact that home consumption did not increase with production. The market was glutted and the prices continued to decline. Instead of being benefited by the duty the producers were injured, and the borax industry has been less lucrative since levying the duty than at any previous time in its history. The price of crude borax at last became as low as 6 cents per pound. It can be produced at a profit even at this low figure, but the consumption is so limited and the margin of profit so small that the business has become almost unremunerative for the number of men and amount of capital engaged in it. All the trouble is due to the duty, which stimulated over production, with its attendants results of low prices and stagnant market." This has been the uniform effect of protection. It stimulates home production and competition, and the consumer is in every instance benefited. It is difficult to see why any friend of the American producer or American consumer should oppose protection to American labor or American productions.

That staunch and thoroughly honest Democratic paper, the Colusa "Sun," says: "We do get disgusted sometimes with politics. At the Los Angeles Convention this week Boss Buckley held his head-quarters and they were thronged with people seeking position, and their friends. No other man there held a tenth of his power. We have things fixed up for us and then we of the rank and file must work for a confirmation! You say, 'Why do you do it?' We answer, we do it because it is a choice of evils; because the other party is worse in this respect than ours. Those men for the important offices put up good men enough; but all who get position must fawn at the feet of the Basses! We could not be tempted to take a position at such a price. We do not want to go to Conventions as long as we would have to be manipulated like a jumping-jack by bosses and their lieutenants. The private station is the station of honor. Is it any wonder that men calculate on getting a measure through a State Legislature with money as they do on buying mules? City members are taken to the capital, the property of the bosses as absolutely as deed can make property, and unfortunately country members fall in only too easily."

As the affairs of William T. Coleman & Co. are better understood it is said to be ascertained beyond a doubt that not a creditor will lose a cent by the temporary embarrassment of the firm. No one will be more pleased with this fact than Mr. Coleman himself. He is one of that class of Merchant Princes to whom honor is dearer than all else. After the disastrous battle of Pavia, in which Francis I lost his army and was taken prisoner he wrote to his mother: "Madam: All is lost but honor." Mr. Coleman will find the same consolation now, and like the gallant French king will doubtless do greater things after than before his misfortune.

The selection of Niles Searles as Democratic candidate for Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court was certainly wise and politic. Judge Searles is an able jurist and has already had experience in the duties of the office. Had Judge Sullivan been nominated very powerful influences would have been set to work to defeat him; influences that rarely fail of success.

Immigrants continue to pour into Castle Garden by the thousands. Last Monday section men along the line of the Missouri Pacific railroad struck on account of a reduction from $1 50 to $1-25 per day. Put this and that together and consider if it is not about time to check the flood of foreign immigration.

ODDITIES OF THE MAIL.

QUEER THINGS THAT ARE SEEN AT THE INQUIRY OFFICE.

A Museum Filled with Articles Confiscated in Transit by Uncle Sam's Watchful Postal Employes—Toying with Dynamite—Stray Books—The System.

On the third floor and west side of the New York postoffice building, overlooking the court and shut out from the noise of the street is a large room which in character partakes about equally of junkshop, storehouse and museum. Over the door is a sign bearing in plain black letters, "Inquiry Office." Mr. Perry Jones is the presiding spirit. He is unusually courteous and accommodating for a man whose hands are constantly full of correspondence and who simultaneously answers questions on every known subject.

On entering the office through a private door one is confronted with the workshop and museum proper. A talk with Mr. Jones brings out some interesting information. It becomes apparent at once that the inquiry office is no place for a person with weak nerves. A package without an address is received. It is opened. A cotton ball is exposed to view, which is folded layer on layer in the most careful way. In the center, between two layers saturated with alcohol, is found a hideous scorpion from the West Indies. Live horned toads have been received here, as also have snakes in heavy glass jars filled with alcohol. Live turtles complete the list of nerve shattering things which the employes have to dispose of. Dynamite carefully packed in cotton, powder in flasks, gun implements of all kinds and fishing outfits are received daily.

TOYING WITH DYNAMITE.

One would think that toying with dynamite was sufficient to cause all sorts of tremors and fears to agitate a person, but the examiners have not the haunted look of men in perpetual fear. To hear one say in a jolly manner: "Ah, here's an earthquake," on opening a package containing dynamite is an ordinary thing. Peaceful things are, of course, plentiful. Samples of every known fabric to delight the eyes of the professional shopper, cosmetics, corsets, bustles, velvets, silks and woolens, worsted flowers, oil paintings, plans of houses, fancy Comstockian portraits, specimens of ore and electric apparatus. Sadly crushed, but pretty for all that, a bit of edelweiss, direct from its native Alp, awaits an owner; crushed, too, but no longer beautiful, a lady's bonnet, for which no doubt the owner fumed and fretted, but it was the bonnet that never came.

Fruits are often received, but thrown away at the slightest appearance of decay. Skins of animals for the taxidermist and birds' wings for the milliners also find their way into the office, together with jewelry, oft times of great value, and notes and coin. Shoes, clothing and hardware are not wanting. A specimen card of insects, containing all species native to a certain part of Africa and addressed to a scientist of prominence, has just now been forwarded to the owner. A prize pumpkin and a complete set of dental instruments were reposing side by side among a heap of papers when the reporter called, and on a shelf directly back of the table, alphabetically arranged, were newspapers from all parts of the world. In the book department, books, principally foreign, in elegant bindings, with dust for company, and manuscripts and even corrected proofs—ready for the printer—form an interesting part of the collection. Novels in paper cover are everywhere.

THE SYSTEM ADOPTED.

Mr. Jones says that the system used in disposing of the accumulated matter was copied by every larger city in the Union and inquiries regarding the work of the department are frequent. Since its establishment, seven years ago, it has grown to be a necessary part of the gigantic postal system in operation in this city. To this office all parcels not addressed, or from which the part of the address has been obliterated, are sent. To this office are sent also all improperly packed parcels, and those which the postal officers have reason to believe contain contraband articles. The business of the employes in the office is to put the addresses where they belong, repack the parcels when necessary, confiscate the things which have no place in the mails, and otherwise remedy the mistake caused by the carelessness or ignorance of the senders.

When a parcel is improperly packed or something is wrong with the address, if the person for whom it is probably intended can be found, a circular is sent to him with the request for the name and description of the article. If the answer is satisfactory the parcel is forwarded. In some cases the person addressed does not know the contents of the package, which frequently happens around Christmas when presents are the fashion. In that case the name of the sender is procured from the person addressed, and the parcel reaches its destination.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

A Mart for Statuary.

New York is a great depot and mart for statuary. Here you can have any conceivable idea wrought out in bronze, marble, zinc or plaster of paris. Most of the elaborate designs are still imported, but standard originals are reproduced among us in endless variety of material and size. One is liable almost any day to meet in Broadway or the Bowery a squad of men carrying objects that rudely resemble the human form and may remind you of primitive Egyptian or Aztec statuary. The objects consist of wooden frame works padded out with hay or shavings or rags, and covered with stout bagging or canvas. Some represent men standing, others men sitting or reclining, others boys, women or girls in various attitudes. All of them are duly clothed in fine apparel and do duty as dummies in clothing houses.

Still another form of sculpture now gone to desuetude and decay is that of the ship carving. With the departure of our merchant marine the old time figurehead has also departed, and but two establishments now remain wherein one can procure, if desired, a grand old Neptune or a smiling Aphrodite to deck the prow of a gallant clipper.—New York World.

Carp Out of Water.

With regard to the ordinary carp, they will live out of water for a very considerable time. I may mention that on one occasion we received a batch of fine carp from the estate of Mr. V. F. Bennet Standford, at Tisbury, Wilts, a distance of ninety-five miles from London. They were packed in straw. On their arrival at Brighton they were placed under a sharp stream of water, and in a very short time they were sufficiently recovered from their dry journey to be placed in the show tank, where they lived for a long time.—Public Opinion.

Sameness of Newspaper Stories.

"I used to make fun," said a gentleman the other day, "of people who read the story papers of the present day, and I must say that my later observations have not tended to change my opinion. Lately I picked up one of those papers and the stories amused me, but toward the last I found so much sameness in them that I finally threw them down in disgust and vowed that I'd never read another." This gentleman has no doubt been afflicted in the same manner as many others.—Philadelphia Call.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.

P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 341, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.

J. D. FLAIR, R. S.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S

EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out a flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL.

Independence, Cal.

Thos Crough. W. P. Grant

GRANT & CROUGH. Real Estate & Mining Agency.

INDEPENDENCE - - - - CAL.

Searchers of Titles and Furnishers of Abstracts. After a business experience of twenty years in the county we are prepared to furnish all information of value to purchasers of real estate and mining properties. Reports furnished and all correspondence reliable and confidential. GRANT & CROUGH

J. W. P. Laird, Attorney for the Firm.

AGENTS WANTED for the MISSOURI STEAM Washer

Active, honest persons all over the country, with or without team.

JOHN C. EVANS, Sweetgum, Mo., writes: "I stand up and affirm that a Washer saves more hard labor and money in a large family than any Reaper and Mower that ever was put on any farm with less than 100 acres in cultivation. If you will get up any instrument that will take as much labor off of men as this Washer takes off the wagon, and save as much money as it does and cost no more, I could sell one necessary house. If they wish to take the feathers from under their wife and babies to pay for it."

JOHN R. DODGE, JR., jeweler, Newark, Ills., writes: "You ask what I think of the Washer I bought last summer. Let it is the best machine ever invented by man. P.S. We have just as good dinners on Monday as any other day. Sd. Wife same date, says: 'I wouldn't say more for $100.'"

I will ship a sample to the, testing an agent on a week's trial on liberal terms. A thousand per cent the best washer in the world for saving labor, clothes and soap. Pays commission big money. Write for particulars.

J. WORTH, 1719 Franklin Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

Invites public attention to extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC.

Ex-buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

E. CHENOT.

Independence, Cal., March 29 1884.

n4761f

THE GRAND SALOON,

LONE PINE, - CAL.,

RICHARDS & CASTRO

Billiard Hall and Public Resort. Offers to the public the finest quality of Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Friends and patrons generally are invited to call. n884m3*

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And I. Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Notice Of Change Of Text Books.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY THE Board of Education of Inyo county, California, that said Board proposes to change the following text books now in use in the public schools of said county, to wit: Theory and Practice of Teaching, Music, Entomology, Book-keeping, Composition, Penmanship, Industrial Drawing, English and American Literature, Physics, Algebra and Natural History. And that sealed bids, or proposals, will be received by said Board for furnishing books to replace those mentioned above, or any part thereof. Said bids, or proposals, must be accompanied by sample copies of the books proposed to be furnished, together with a statement of the wholesale and retail price at which the publisher agrees to furnish each book, within the county, during the full time for which said books are to be adopted. The publisher or publishers whose proposals shall be accepted must enter into a written contract with said Board, and shall give a good and sufficient bond in a reasonable amount, with sureties, for the faithful performance thereof. Said bids or proposals will be opened by the Board at Independence, Inyo county, Cal., at ten o'clock a. m., on Tuesday, the 19th day of June 1888. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Board of Education of Inyo county.

Attest: J. H. SHANNON, Secretary.
[SEAL.]
Dated April 13, 1888. Bishop Creek, Cal.

EXECUTOR'S SALE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, THAT IN pursuance of an order of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, made on the 19th day of April, 1888, in the matter of the estate of Duncan Campbell, deceased, the undersigned, executors of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, gold coin of the United States, on Thursday, the 10th day of May, 1888, at the late residence of the said deceased, at Big Pine, in said county, the following personal property, to wit: Ten head of horses, more or less, being all the horses belonging to said estate. NATHAN RHINE,
S. G. GREGG,
Executors of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased.

Dated April 19, 1888.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1232.

Land Office at Independence, Cal., Mar. 20th, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on May 19th, 1888, viz.: Charles Mulholland, for the S ½ of N E ¼, N ½ of S E ¼, Sec 14, Tp 14 S, Range 35 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz.: John Shepherd, James E. Shepherd, John Kispert and James R Moffet, all of Independence, Inyo County, California.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1246.

Land Office at Independence, Cal., April 27, 1888.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on June 4, 1888, viz.: Michael Bush, for the S W ¼ of S E ¼, E ½ of S W ¼ & S E ¼ of N W ¼, Sec 24, Twp 11 S, R 34 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz.: Alonzo McKellops, Andrew J. Wren, James Lane and William R. Tobett, all of Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

o m14

TAKE SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. L. M. Hinton, M. D., Washington, Ark.

SEE THAT YOU GET THE GENUINE.

PREPARED BY

J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known best and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of livery teams, Saddle horses, and in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.

Livery Accommodations

O. F. MAIRS, Proprietor.

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,

Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt and furnished in a style second to no saloon on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.

feb12 f

Who Spends Money

For advertising in newspapers in these hard times, without first obtaining an estimate of the cost from Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York, is likely to pay $10 for what might be obtained for $5. Such estimates are furnished to all applicants gratis. Send 10 cents for 176 page pamphlet with list of newspapers rates and references.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,

SHINGLES,

SASH AND BLINDS,

LATH,

RUSTIC

MOULDINGS,

DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sep 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5 00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine

Independence Hotel.

Indepen e - - Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL

DINING ROOM, APARTMENTS,

—AND—

—THE BAR—

Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars

Jy-1-86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,

C. MULHOLLAND.

Office in the "Independent" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,

Physician & Surgeon,

(County Physician)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.

NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.

Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,

COUNTY CLERK,

—AND—

Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,

INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.

W. E. LINDSEY,

—Dealer in—

Gravestones Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.

—Agent for—

PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.

Virginia Street, Below Second,

Reno, Nevada.

oct 23 tf

AL. GRIFFITH.

HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTING.

GRAINING AND PAPER HANGING.

FINE CARRIAGE PAINTING

FIRST CLASS WORK.

AL. GRIFFITH,

Independence

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. Grand Outfit Free. Address True & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | | From Mound House. No. 1. | | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | Leav— | | Arrives— |
| Mound House | | 9 15 a. m. | | 5 35 p. m. |
| Layton | | 9 45 a. m. | | 4 35 p. m. |
| Wabuska | | 12 45 p. m. | | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | | 4 30 p. m. | | 10 40 a. m. |
| Gardnerville | | 5 50 p. m. | | 9 20 a. m. |
| Genoa Springs | | 7 0 p. m. | | 8 0 a. m. |
| Bellevue | | 7 15 p. m. | | 7 0 a. m. |
| Candelaria | Ar. | 8 00 p. m. | Lv. | 6 30 a. m. |
| | | No. 3 Leave— | | No. 4 Arrives— |
| Bellevue | | 7 35 a. m. | | 5 25 p. m. |
| Benton | | 11 50 a. m. | | 1 45 p. m. |
| Bishop Creek | | 1 10 p. m. | | 11 0 a. m. |
| Alvord | | 2 00 p. m. | | 10 5 a. m. |
| Independence | | 3 30 p. m. | | 9 05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | | 4 15 p. m. | | 8 5 a. m. |
| Keeler | Ar. | 6 45 p. m. | Lv. | 7 0 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

At HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

At LINING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & co's. tri-weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Downieville, Grantsville and Belmont.

At CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON, General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A. BENDER, General Freight and Passenger Agent.

ESTABLISHED 1846 MUNN & CO. PATENTS NEW YORK

After Forty years' experience in the preparation of more than One Hundred Thousand applications for patents in the United States and Foreign countries, the publishers of the Scientific American continue to act as solicitors for patents, caveats, trade-marks, copyrights, etc., for the United States, and to obtain patents in Canada, England, France, Germany, and all other countries. Their experience is unequaled and their facilities are unsurpassed.

Drawings and specifications prepared and filed in the Patent Office on short notice. Terms very reasonable. No charge for examination of models or drawings. Advice by mail free.

Patents obtained through Munn & Co. are noticed in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has the largest circulation and is the most influential newspaper of its kind published in the world. The advantages of such a notice every patentee understands.

This large and splendidly illustrated newspaper is published WEEKLY at $3.00 a year, and is admitted to be the best paper devoted to science, mechanics, inventions, engineering works, and other departments of industrial progress, published in any country. It contains the names of all patentees and title of every invention patented each week. Try it four months for one dollar. Sold by all newsdealers.

If you have an invention to patent write to Munn & Co., publishers of Scientific American, 361 Broadway, New York.

Handbook about patents mailed free.

Wheeler & Wilson

Sewing Machine.

New No. 8.

"THE BEST!"

Sales Made on Installment Plan.

Old Machines Exchanged for.

Farm Produce Taken in Payment.

This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really

First-Class Machine.

Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the Independent Building.

I. H. MULHOLLAND, Agent.

Independence, Cal.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE, Camp Independence.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,

(Successor to Harris & Rhine.)

Merchant,

INDEPENDENCE

INYO CO., CAL.

Wholesale and Retail

....DEALER IN....

General Merchandise.

MY STOCK

Consisting of [illegible] article is [illegible] the wants of every [illegible] and, as the past [illegible] will be my aim in the future to retain the patronage [illegible]

NATHAN RHINE.

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE

BANKER,

Independence, Cal

SELL EXCHANGE

—ON—

SAN FRANCISCO

DRAW DIRECT

—ON—

NEW YORK,

LONDON, England

BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany.

GENERAL BANKING

—AND—

Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.

Deutsche Zollmarken gefällig. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.

Will [illegible] MUTUAL Life Insurance Co. OF NEW YORK

[illegible]

And LONDON and GLOBE Insurance Co., [illegible]

Capital [illegible]

NATHAN RHINE

BLACKSMITHING,

Horseshoeing, General Iron.

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP

C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing.....$2 50 for Cash.

For particulars, call and see

W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, MAY 26 ..... ....1888

Glass fruit jars at Raines.

Mr. John Morton came up from Keeler on Thursday.

Miss Mary Zinc is much better than a week ago, but is yet very weak.

George W. Cassidy is the Democratic nominee for Congress from Nevada.

Mr. J. G. Birchim was down from Round Valley at the beginning of the week.

The new butcher shop was opened last Monday. Billy Mitchell is in charge.

Painting, graining and other improvements are being made at the Norman House.

Mr. Frank Shaw, of Bishop Creek spent a few days in town at the beginning of the week.

Walter Ober came in on Wednesday's stage and will remain in town until after the Fourth.

The amount of sheep license collected this month will be about two thousand dollars.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Conklin left town last Tuesday morning for a trip to Menache Meadows.

Mr. Pat. Clinton got back to Independence on Thursday and will remain a few days in town.

H. P. Cartier is making additions and other improvements at the residence of Mr. A. R. Conklin.

David E. Cole was up from Little Lake during the week. He was attending to land matters.

Ed. Welch came down from Bishop Creek last Wednesday on land business and returned next day.

Jules Roper continues to supply his customers with juicy steaks and roasts at the old stand.

Last week there was a great deal of business done at Rhine's store. This week the sales increased.

Joe Ferubach is improving slowly from the effects of a broken arm and sickness, but is yet confined to bed.

Mrs. Enos, mother of W. S. Enos, has taken the Parker place at the north end of town and will live there.

It is stated on good authority that Charley Olds will be one of the contestants for the 100 yards purse on the Fourth at Independence.

County Surveyor McKnight came down from Bishop Creek last Monday and has since been busy in the neighborhood of Independence.

Tom Bastian is no better than a week ago; his condition is such as to increase the apprehension of his family and friends for his recovery.

It is now confidently stated that Blaine will accept the nomination for President. It has been tolerably clear for some time past that he would.

On Wednesday of last week the name of Reuben Merriman, of Bishop Creek, was added to the list of pensioners, as a Mexican war veteran.

Bill Mallack's anvil is still in tune and makes as sweet music as ever. He believes can supply wind enough for all the stump speakers in the State.

The band boys propose to accept the offer made them by Mr. J. J. Gunn to use his new building for giving a party. The date has not yet been fixed.

A. J. Davis is a number one boot and shoe maker. He is always busy, but will stop long enough at any time to measure a customer for a "perfect fit."

Mr. McIver says he will not be able to get the head ga[illegible]

[illegible] at Independence last Monday. He is counsel for the defense of W. C. T. Elliott, charged with the murder of John B. White.

B. F. Kinney died at Virginia City last Friday morning. His disease was pneumonia and he was sick but one week. He was a native of Bangor Maine, aged 52 years. He was Superintendent of the Gladstone mine.

Miss Barnes, late teacher of the Independence school, left on Tuesday morning for San Francisco. Many friends called upon her the previous evening at the Norman House to express their regard and bid her fare well.

R. E. Barnes was arraigned before the Superior Court last Monday and plead "not guilty." A motion was made to set aside the information and a demurrer was entered to the complaint. Both were overruled and the trial was set for November 13th.

James Hillyer is recommended as a competent architect and builder. In the old booming times of Virginia City he had charge of some large building work there and was held to be one of the most competent men in his line. See his advertisement.

Moritz Letterer, arrested at Laws last Saturday as an absconding debtor and brought to Independence, was released from custody last Wednesday by a writ of habeas corpus on the ground of technical defect in the summons. J. W. P. Laird was his attorney.

Near Quincy, Illinois, the Mississippi river overflowed its banks last week. A tract of country forty-five miles long and about six miles wide was flooded from one to twenty feet deep. The region was thickly settled, consequently the damage is enormously.

At the Pioneer Brewery in town all the alterations and improvements begun some time ago are completed. The marble malt floor proves to be a complete success; the new malt drying floor is equally successful and Philip Gehrig has already turned out as good beer as can be had anywhere. The hotels and saloons find this beer preferred to imported.

Mutton Again.

It appears that there is to be trouble over the sheep license case of Mark Watterson. When Mr. Watterson was in Inyo county with his sheep he made an arrangement with the Sheriff to pay his license. According to this arrangement a statement of the amount due by Mr. Watterson was to be sent him at Benton, and on receiving said statement he agreed to forward the amount to the Sheriff at Independence. Mr. Watterson was then permitted to go away with his speep and the statement was sent to Benton according to agreement. Now it appears that as Mr. Watterson has got his sheep out of the county he refuses to pay for the license. The Bridgeport Chronicle Union says Mr. Watterson has taken out a license in Mono county and will contest the case in Inyo county. It appears that there is a breach of good faith somewhere in this case. Mr. Watterson has property in Inyo county. He has failed to answer the summons within the statutory time and judgment can now be had for the amount claimed. There will be no difficulty in collecting it. The Chronicle-Union intimates that the Tax-Collector has no right to collect tax from sheep men in Inyo county, as they are only driving their sheep through the county and using the public highways. If the Bridgeport paper ever indulged in pleasantry it might be thought that this was intended for a joke. The sheepmen are here "raising, grazing, herding or pasturing sheep." They may stay the year through and their license will be good for that time. They will pay for their licenses. They are now doing so without any fuss. If they kept their sheep anywhere west of the mountains they would have to own land or pay for pasturage. They find it much cheaper to pay five cents license for each sheep and have the privilege of staying a year in Inyo on free pasturage. In fact it may be doubted if the license exceeds three cents for each sheep, as the Tax Collector has no time to count the herds and the men in charge estimate the numbers.

Fourth of July.

Last Wednesday a meeting was held at the Norman House to arrange for celebrating the Fourth of July. C. Mulholland was chosen temporary Chairman and J. J. Gunn temporary Secretary. It was moved and carried that the Chair appoint necessary working committees. The following were appointed: Financial, J. J. Gunn, S. D. Thurston, B. Rhine and H. Levy; Programme, J. C. Irwin, W. A. Hampton, and C. Mulholland; Officers of the Day, O. I. Mairs, L. Wood, N. Rhine, E. Chenoweth, A. W. Ebeshutz, W. F. Matlack and J. Roper; Decoration and Music, J. Rosewarne, Irv. H. Mulholland, Henry Rhine, Thos. Kehoe and P. W. Forbes. Moved and carried that the chairmen of the several committees constitute an executive committee. Moved and carried that a meeting be held at the Norman House this—Saturday—evening at 8 o'clock. The various committees will report progress, and such other steps will be taken as may be thought necessary to perfect arrangements and add interest to the occasion. Everybody is invited to attend. Don't stay away and then grhwl because something you thought necessary was left undone. Attend the meeting, have your say, suggest what you would have done, then help to do it; and we will have the biggest and best celebration ever seen in Inyo county.

Time For Trial Fixed

W. T. C. Elliott was brought into the Superior Court on Wednesday. His Counsel, Mr. Haydon, asked for a change of venue to another county, alleging that there exists in Inyo county such prejudice against his client as would prevent him from having a fair and impartial trial here. Counsel argued that the deceased, John B. White had a large connection of relatives and a wide circle of friends, that these are people of much influence in the county and that all that influence would be exerted to the injury of his client. Counsel further argued that statements have been published which showed great hostility to his client, and such as would influence public opinion against him and do him injustice on his trial. The Court denied the motion for a change of venue; admitting that prejudice existed against the accused, and even threats had been made; but holding that the prejudice was limited and not such as would prevent the defendant from having a fair and impartial trial in the county. Mr. Haydon said he would have business before the District Court of Nevada that would make it impossible for him to attend the case of Elliott sooner than the beginning of July. The Court was desirous of trying the trial at as early a day as possible and to accommodate Counsel for the defense fixed the day of trial to begin on Monday, July 10th.

Farm House Burned

Last Friday evening the dwelling on the Curtis ranch, near Big Rock, was destroyed by fire. The building belonged to Mrs. Mollie Conklin and was uninsured; it was valued at about $3,000. No one had been living in the house for some time past, but men at work on the farm had been in the habit of going into the building to eat their midday meal. On Friday a fire had been made in the stove to heat some water or coffee; it is supposed that some coals had fallen from the stove after the men went out and started a fire in the floor that smouldered till evening, when it spread rapidly and the building was destroyed in a short time. No one was living near enough to notice the fire till the whole building was in flames and then nothing could be done to save it.

Think Of it

The Colusa Sun says: "In the Santa Clara Valley, where it has been said that no irrigation is necessary, and especially unnecessary for fruit, Henry Bucksen, one of the most conservative business men in the State, has spent fifty dollars an acre for a pumping plant, and pumps the water ninety feet, and experience tells, it has been shown that it is the best investment he ever made.

Robinson's Addition

Robinson's addition is a new part of the town map. The tract includes several streets and squares at the south end of town. This will be the most desirable location for dwellings; it is higher than the business part of town; has fine drainage, easy access to water and commands a beautiful view of the valley and mountains. The tract lies just west from the new Pavilion.

S. A. Middleton was brought into the Superior Court on Tuesday and arraigned, and plead "not guilty." A motion was made by his Attorney to set aside the information and a demurrer was entered to the complaint. Both were overruled and the trial was set for November 15th next.

A young woman at Winnemucca, Nevada, had a fortunate escape from an unhappy fate last week. A telegraph operator by the name of C. W. Englefritz put a bullet through his head because she would'nt return his calf love. She would have been miserable if she had married such an idiot.

Platform Building.

Many a one has been amused by watching a dancing bear, without knowing that the clumsy creature was taught to perform his awkward, hobbling dance by being made to stand upon a hot iron plate; and the so-called "dance" is but a repetition of his movements to ease the pain when his feet were burning. Politicians make platforms for voters to dance upon for their profit, just as the unfortunate dancing bear performs for the profit of his owner. The bear trainer cares not a jot whether the iron plate be round, square, or any other figure; whether it be rough or smooth, so it will make the bear learn to hobble. The political platform builder cares just as little for the truth or falsity of the "planks" of his platform, so the voter can be induced to "stand" upon it. "We point with pride"—in the platform—to things we really don't care a copper about; and "we view with alarm"—in the platform—what we laugh at in private. "An honest man is the noblest work of God," but an honest political platform maker is something that God has not yet produced; or if produced the public has not yet made his acquaintance. Perhaps this "long felt want" may be supplied at St. Louis or Chicago a few weeks hence. He certainly will not figure at both places. Indeed, it may well be doubted if he will be found at either, for the platform formulated at each place will accuse the other of lying, and both may be partly telling the truth. Platforms in fact, have ceased to be of any real value; they are like prayers read at funerals, or Fourth of July "orations:" parts of the usual ceremony, listened to with a show of patience, but everybody glad to be done with them.

Michael Flynn died at Bishop Creek last Saturday. An inquest was held and the jury rendered a verdict in substance that deceased died from exposure and want of proper nourishment. Flynn was a habitual drunkard and indulgence in the vice caused his death. He was a native of New York, aged about thirty-seven years. On the day of his death he staggered into Clark's livery stable and laid down on some hay and appeared to be sleeping. No attention was given him for several hours and when at length some one went to him he was found to be dead or dying. A doctor was called but the man was past help. Such is the report of his death.

Mr. L. A. Anger and Mr. Partridge were about the only ones who responded to the call for the meeting to be held last Saturday to organize a company for building a canal from the neighborhood of Fish Spring hill southward. If the above named parties had been here when the same project was attempted about three years ago they would understand why it is so severely let alone now. The result of the effort lately made to get funds for boring an experimental artesian well is not such as would encourage going into this far greater undertaking.

Moritz Letterer was arrested on the train at Bishop Station last Saturday on a complaint of Philip Gehrig, of Independence Gehrig alleged that Letterer was leaving the State with intent to defraud him as a creditor. On Monday Letterer was brought to Independence by constable Plumley and taken before C. Mulholland, Justice of Peace. Letterer refused to pay the claim of Gehrig and was committed to the custody of the Sheriff, having failed to give bail as fixed by the Court.

By way of experiment Mr. H. L. Clark sowed seven acres of ground with barley this spring. The ground was just cleared of sage brush, and, of course, is dry land. A few days ago Mr. Clark brought into this office a bundle of the grain. It is well grown, rank and well headed, and will make a good crop. It had no irrigation. The land is about three miles south from Independence, everybody here knows it to be about as dry a location as any in Owens Valley.

The Comstock mines lead the world in the amount of dividends paid. There are forty-six mining companies whose shares are at present quoted on American stock exchanges that have severally paid one million dollars or more in dividends. These companies paid in dividends to date over $236,000,000. Of this amount about a dozen Nevada companies alone have paid over $120,000,000.

Last Monday night a fight took place at San Francisco between Joe McAuliffe, heavy weight champion of the Pacific Coast, and Frank Glover of Chicago. Glover weighed 175 pounds, McAuliffe weighed over 200 pounds. Forty-nine rounds were fought in three and a quarter hours. Glover was knocked out in the last round.

Mr. J. W. Robinson arrived at Independence last Monday from Carson. He says that every time he comes to Owens Valley he thinks more of the country. At his last visit here he bought property near Big Spring, eight miles north of Independence. He says he would not sell now except at a very large advance on the price he paid for it.

The platform adopted by the Democratic State Convention of Nevada instructs the delegates to the St. Louis Convention to use all honorable efforts to introduce a strong silver plank in the platform of the National Convention. This is in direct conflict with the views of President Cleveland on the silver question.

Judge Murphy of Esmeralda county is the Republican candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court of Nevada. Mr. Bartine, of Carson, is the Republican candidate for Congress. The Democratic candidates for the same positions are Judge Sewell for the Supreme Court and Mr. Cassidy for Congress.

Wedding cards are out for the marriage of Mr. W. Roberts, of Round Valley, and Miss Minnie Thomson, of Camp Independence. Mr. Roberts is to be congratulated on winning such an excellent young lady for a wife. The wedding is set for next Wednesday.

W. J. Collins, Superintendent of the Benton Mining Company, was arrested at San Francisco last Monday, under a charge of having sworn falsely to his accounts. It is alleged that Collins has stolen $1000 to $1200 belonging to the Company.

Some time ago there were urgent demands for a jail at Bishop Creek; it don't appear to be needed any more. A number of excellent people from Bodie recently located at Bishop Creek. Put that and that together. We congratulate our neighbors.

Mr. T. C. Boland got back from Los Angeles last Monday. He brought with him him a fine new buggy with tires three inches wide; this ought to keep him on top of the sand at Keeler.

The platform adopted by the Democratic State Convention at Los Angeles begins by indorsing the administration of President Cleveland. On the tariff question the following is said: "We heartily endorse as a progressive measure, commensurate with, and made necessary by the growth and needs of our country, the message of the President urging a reform in our tariff which will lessen the exactions now practiced upon our people." In favor of silver it is "Resolved, That this convention recommend the passage of an act of Congress providing for the free coinage of both gold and silver, by the terms of which act all gold and silver bullion offered at the several mints of the United States shall be received in exchange for money on gold or silver certificates at the rate now fixed by law for standard dollars of gold and silver, which certificates shall be receivable for all public purposes and interchangeable for gold or silver, as the case may be." Resolutions were adopted opposing Chinese immigration and in favor of the recent treaty with China; commending the policy of the President in reference to public lands, and in favor of electing United States Senators by direct vote of the people.

John L. Sullivan has bought a third interest in Doris's circus and will travel with the show on its summer tour, showing himself with the high kicking mule and other curiosities. When John gets drunk Doris had better put the mule in a separate cage or he might get hurt.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FINAL HOMESTEAD PROOF.
H. A. No. 525.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL. May 12th, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on June 25, 1888, viz: Henry Detels for the S ½ of N W ¼ and N E ¼ of S W ¼ of Sec. 34. Tp. 13 S, R 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: John W. Symmes, John Shepherd, John Strohmeyer and Fred Albers, all of Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.
a23-6t

Largest General Retail House on the Coast

Excellent Cardinal or Drab

SATEEN CORSETS,

44 cts.

By mail 12c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered bust, finished with pretty lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.

More Important Still

Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Men's Womens and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.

WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.
400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.
SACRAMENTO, CAL.

James Hillyer,

CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

Plans, Specifications

And Estimates of all kinds of buildings

Furnished.

All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.

JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS,

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELLER,
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

TO ADVERTISERS

A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATE AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.

To those who want the advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium or thoroughly effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List.

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
Newspaper Advertising Bureau,
10 Spruce street, New York.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge) what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 176 page pamphlet. Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU (10 SPRUCE STREET), NEW YORK.

PUBLIC NOTICE

INDEPENDENCE, April 30, 1888.

During my absence from this County and State Mr. Nathan Rhine is authorized to act as my agent. HENRY FEHERMAN

THIS PAPER IS ON FILE
AT
PALMER & REY'S
ADVERTISING BUREAU!
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco.
AND AT
PALMER & REY'S
Pacific States Advertising Bureau!
46 Tribune Building,
NEW YORK.
Where Advertising Contracts can be made

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City,
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
without FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NORMAN HOUSE,

Independence, - - Cal.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. I. MAIRS, Prop.
feb12tf

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and
Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law,
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C.E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

Customers supplied on all points on the C. & C. Railroad.

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Short in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK
Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.
JOHN CLARKE, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. 256 pages, 8½ x 11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR SALE.

813 acres of land within one mile of railroad. As fine land for fruit, vineyard, vegetables or alfalfa as there is in the State. All with perfect water right. Will cut up to suit purchasers.

520 acres two miles from railroad. 80 or 90 inches of water. A fine locality. Good stock range. 160 acres fine barley land.

A fine dairy ranch, consisting of 480 acres suitably located for market, with 150 head of cattle 45 of them No 1 dairy cows. Perfect titles to land and water. Improvements on all. Apply to

Grant & Crough,
Independence, Cal.

Richly REWARDED are those who read this and then act; they will find honorable employment that will not take them from their homes and families. The profits are large and sure for an industrious person; many have made and are now making several hundred dollars a month. It is easy for anyone to make $5 and upwards per day, who is willing to work. Either sex, young or old; capital not needed; we start you. Everything new; no special ability required; you reader, can do it as well as any one. Write to us at once for full particulars, which we mail free. Address Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

115 CLAY STREET, 117
SMITH'S STORE
IS
The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.
CASH.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

INDEPENDENCE MARKET,
J. Roeper, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.
dec18tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

MARRIAGE GUIDE
260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. Money or a stamp. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why. Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, in colors. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

TUTT'S PILLS
25 YEARS IN USE.
The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age.
SYMPTOMS OF A
TORPID LIVER.
Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine, and
CONSTIPATION.
TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer. They Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 44 Murray St., N.Y.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.
GRAY HAIR or WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.
Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

FRED BURCKHARDT
Watchmaker & Jeweler,
LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
Bishop Creek, Cal.,
[illegible] professional services to the people of [illegible] county. Office and residence opposite [illegible]

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles
OF
Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc
AT
L. WOOD'S
CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH STORE
Is Where You Get
WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
General Merchandise
A Full Line
CONSTANTLY ON HAND.
ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:
HAWTHORNE NEV.
BRANCHES:
Wabuska, Nev.,
CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.
AGENCIES:
WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s
aug25tf

TOM BOLAND,
KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer In GENERAL
MERCHANDISE,
GROCERIES
MINERS
Supplies
PROVISIONS,
&c., &c., &c.
LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

FREE TRIAL PACKAGE. FOR MEN ONLY.
PROF. HARRIS' Pastille
A RADICAL CURE FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY, Organic Weakness, & PHYSICAL DECAY, In Young & Middle Aged Men.
NERVOUS DEBILITY, Organic Weakness, Decay and Premature Old Age, Losses by Night and Day, Lost Manhood, Impotency, Lost Power, Pimples on the Face, Aversion to Society, Blotches, Emissions, Sexual Exhaustion, Confusion of Ideas, Spermatorrhœa, Impotence, Syphilis, Gleet, Stricture, Varicocele, Blood Poisons, Gravel, Kidney and Urinary Complaints, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, Diabetes, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Piles, Liver Complaint, Consumption, Insanity, Premature Decay, Loss of Memory, Wakefulness, Blushing, Trembling, Nervous Tremors, Nervous Headache, Pain in the Back, Dizziness, Dullness, Loss of Sleep, Nervous Irritability, Shortness of Breath, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Costiveness, Dry Skin, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Cancers, Ulcers, Dropsy, Fever, Ague, Kidney and Liver Complaints, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Tetter, Eczema, Scrofula, Blood Poisons, Mercurial Disease, Female Weakness, Irregularities, Leucorrhœa, Falling and Displacements, Prolapsus, Ulceration, Inflammation, Congestion, Fits, Convulsions, Epilepsy, Dizziness, Neuralgia, Sleeplessness, Nervous Prostration, Nervous Headache, Hysteria, Melancholy, Mental Depression, Loss of Power, Impotency, Lost Manhood, Nocturnal Emissions, Premature Old Age

LOTTERY LUCK.

Eugene de Sabla Jr., and J. E. Cummings Win Portions of the Capital Prize.

Eugene de Sabla Jr., of the commission-house of Engene de Sabla & Co., 40 California street, was one of the persons who was reported to have won $15,000 of the capital prize in the February drawing of The Louisiana Lottery. To ascertain what truth there was in the rumor, and whether the money had been collected, a Call reporter visited Mr. de Sabla. He seemed somewhat surprised and after some hesitation admitted that he had won the money.

"While, of course, I can't deny having held a portion of the lucky number I am not particularly pleased at the notoriety that it has thrust upon me.

"My business is that of a commission merchant and I am not gratified at the idea of having my affairs circulated about. I bought the ticket as others buy them, in the ordinary course, and the only difference is that mine was the right number.

"I cautioned my clerks not to say anything about the matter, but somehow it was whispered about in confidence until everybody on the street knew it. The day of the drawing was my busiest and when one of my clerks brought in the results, I compared my coupon, and found that it agreed with the capital prize. I sent the ticket to our bank—the Nevada—and had it collected for me. I obtained the money promptly and without trouble. This is not my first winning, but I don't relish the idea of being published as buying lottery tickets.

"I am not, however, the only person in this city so favored. Dr. J. E. Cummings, dentist, at Bush and Polk streets, was also lucky the same month. He got another one-tenth of the capital prize—the same amount—and collected it through the Anglo-California Bank."

"Yes," said the collecting clerk of the Anglo California Bank to a Call reporter last night, "we did collect one-tenth of ticket No. 71,575 of the February drawing of The Louisiana Lottery, but who the holder was I cannot tell. He came in here with the person who sold him the ticket, presented it to me, and a few days afterward received the money—$15,000."

"We never experienced any difficulty," continued the clerk, "in obtaining the cash on a winning Louisiana Lottery ticket. The coupon is presented to us, we forward it to New Orleans and the money is invariably forwarded by return mail."—San Francisco (Cal.) Call, March 10.

A BANK WITH MONEY.

Farmers, merchants and brokers at times find themselves so placed as to be forced to raise money on short notice. To such we would say, go to the PACIFIC BANK, of San Francisco, where a large amount of money is always on hand, which will be let out on good securities and easy terms.

An occasional brave deed is sure to receive applause from an appreciative world, but how many of us stop to think of the constant heroism required in the fireman's life? In undertaking his duties, he has virtually pledged himself to keep his courage always "screwed to the sticking place," and very few are the records of his failures. In a recently published account of the New York fire brigades are to be found the following stories, descriptive of dangers which the "boys" may any day be called on to face:

Ten or a dozen years ago, during a fire on Broadway, a heavy beam fell from the roof on eight firemen in such a way that it prostrated without crushing them. The wood was on fire from end to end, and they could not possibly rise. They lay close to the floor, which was smoking and covered with sparks, and the beam continued to burn over them within a few feet of their heads, threatening to roast them to death. One of the pipes had been buried with them, and when they discovered that, they turned it against the flames.

Steaming to death now awaited them, as the water vaporized in the heat, and filled their crib with scalding white clouds; but the circumstance saved them, by enabling them to abate the fire below, until their comrades outside had lifted the beam.

During the burning of a building on Broadway, in 1877, it was agreed between three hosemen, who were stationed on the roof, and one of the officers below, that when the fall of the roof appeared imminent to him, he should call to them, and they should leap to the next building, over an intervening alley five or six feet wide. In the meanwhile they did not distress themselves, but worked steadily, pouring water down the scuttles. The hissing and lapping of the flames, the fierce pulsation of the engines, the trumpeted orders of the chiefs, and the crash of falling iron and lumber were so loud and confusing that a voice might easily have been lost in them. Notwithstanding this fact, the men held to their insecure ground until a gentle rattling indicated that the roof was about to collapse, and they heard the officer below cry: "Leap!" Every spectator held his breath while the brave hosemen sprang from one parapet to another. They had hardly done so when a dense volume of smoke and sparks shot into the air, and only a pit of flames remained where the men had stood.—Youth's Companion.

A WOMAN'S WAY.

A Startling Business Proposition.

A little over six weeks ago Mrs. Fowler of 327 Ellis street, San Francisco, stopped in at a leading city druggist's to ask what effect Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, about which she had heard so much recently, would have in cases of dyspepsia and sick headache. She was assured that in most cases it would relieve both. She was, however, so incredulous that finally the druggist gave her a bottle, not to be paid for unless it effected a cure. A proposition so startlingly practical has seldom, if ever before, been made. The following just received is the convincing conclusion, and tells its own story:

San Francisco, February 8, 1888.

DEAR SIR: I write to admit that, notwithstanding my misgivings, Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla did all that you promised. I had tried so many prescriptions, to no purpose, that I had come to believe nothing would relieve my dyspepsia and sick headaches, but I have not had a return of either since I commenced taking it. I believe I am permanently cured, but will, out of an abundance of caution, continue to take it regularly for a while yet. You have my permission to make this public, for it is my belief that a remedy that will cure dyspepsia and prevent sick headaches should be generally known. Respectfully,

Mrs. M. Fowler,
327 Ellis street.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

"Eh?" said Sir Henry and Good, simultaneously. "That you don't."

"No, no," said Mr. Mackenzie, "I will have no man's blood upon my hands. If it please God that my daughter die this awful death, his will be done. You are a brave man" (which I am not by any means) "and a noble man, Quatermain, but you shall not go."

"If nothing else turns up I shall go," I said, decidedly.

"This is an important matter," said Mackenzie, addressing the Lygonani, "and we must think it over. You shall have our answer at dawn."

"Very well, white man," answered the savage, indifferently; "only remember, if thy answer is late thy little white bud will never grow into a flower, that is all, for I shall cut it with this," and he touched the spear. "I should have thought that thou wouldst play a trick and attack us at night, but I know from the woman with the girl that your men are down at the coast, and that thou hast but twenty men here. It is not wise, white man," he added with a laugh, "to keep so small a garrison for your 'boma'" (kraal). "Well, good night, and good night to you also, other white men, whose eyelids I shall soon close once and for all. At dawn thou wilt bring me word. If not, remember it shall be as I have said." Then turning to Umslopogaas, who had all the while been standing behind him, and shepherding him, as it were, "Open the door for me, fellow, quick now."

This was too much for the old chief's patience. For the last ten minutes his lips had been, figuratively speaking, positively watering over the Masai Lygonani, and this he could not stand. Placing his long hand on the Elmoran's shoulder, he griped him and gave him such a twist as brought him face to face with himself. Then, thrusting his fierce countenance to within a few inches of the Masai's evil, feather framed features, he said, in a low, growling voice:

"Seest thou me?"

"Ay, fellow, I see thee."

"And seest thou this?" and he held Inkosikaas before his eyes.

"Ay, fellow, I see the toy; what of it?"

"Thou Masai dog, thou boasting windbag, thou capturer of little girls, with this 'toy' will I hew thee limb from limb. Well for thee that thou art a herald, or even now would I strew thy members about the grass."

The Masai shook his great spear and laughed long and loud as he answered, "I would that thou stoodst against me man to man, and we would see," and again he turned to go, still laughing.

"Thou shalt stand against me man to man, be not afraid," replied Umslopogaas, still in the same ominous voice. "Thou shalt stand face to face with Umslopogaas, of the blood of Chaka, of the people of the Amazulu, a captain in the regiment of the Nkomabakosi, as many have done before, and bow thyself to Inkosi-kaas, as many have done before. Ay, laugh on, laugh on! to-morrow night shall the jackals laugh as they crunch thy ribs."

"To-morrow night shall the jackals laugh as they crunch your ribs."

When the Lygonani had gone, one of us thought of opening the basket he had brought as a proof that Flossie was really their prisoner. On lifting the lid, it was found to contain a most lovely specimen of both buib and flower of the Goya lily, which I have already described, in full bloom and quite uninjured, and what was more, a note in Flossie's childish hand, written in pencil upon a greasy piece of paper that had been used to wrap up some food in.

"Dearest Father and Mother," ran the note—"The Masai caught us when we were coming home with the lily. I tried to escape, but could not. They killed Tom; the other man ran away. They have not hurt nurse and me, but say that they mean to exchange us against one of Mr. Quatermain's party. I will have nothing of the sort. Do not let anybody give his life for me. Try and attack them at night; they are going to feast on three bullocks they have stolen and killed. I have my pistol, and if no help comes by dawn I will shoot myself. They shall not kill me. If so, remember me always, dearest father and mother. I am very frightened, but I trust in God. I dare not write any more, as they are beginning to notice. Goodby. FLOSSIE."

Scrawled across the outside of this was, "Love to Mr. Qautermain. They are going to take up the basket, so he will get the lily."

When I read these words, written by that brave little girl in an hour of danger sufficiently near and horrible to have turned the brain of a strong man, I own I wept, and once more in my heart I vowed that she should not die while my life could be given to save her.

Then eagerly, quickly, almost fiercely, we fell to discussing the situation. Again I said that I would go, and again Mackenzie negatived it, and Curtis and Good, like the true men that they are, vowed that, if I did, they would go with me, and die back to back with me.

"It is," I said at last, "absolutely necessary that an effort of some sort should be made before the morning."

"Then let us attack them with what force we can muster, and take our chance," said Sir Henry.

"Ay ay," growled Umslopogaas, in Zulu; "spoken like a man, Incubu. What is there to be afraid of? Two hundred and fifty Masai, forsooth! How many are we? The chief there" (Mr. Mackenzie) "has twenty men, and thou, Macumazahn, hast five men, and there are also five white men—that is, thirty men in all—enough, enough. Listen now, Macumazahn, thou who art very clever and old in war. What says the maid? These men eat and make merry; let it be their funeral feast. What said the dog whom I hope to hew down at daybreak? That he feared no attack because we were so few. Knowest thou the old kraal where the men have camped? I saw it this morning; it is thus," and he drew an oval on the floor; "here is the big entrance, filled up with thorn bushes, and opening on to a steep rise. Why, Incubu, thou and I with axes will hold it against an hundred men striving to break out! Look, now, thus shall the battle go. Just as the light begins to glint upon the oxen's horns—not before, or it will be too dark, and not later, or they will be awakening and perceive us—let Bougwan creep round with ten men to the top end of the kraal, where the narrow entrance is. Let them silently slay the sentry there, so that he makes no sound, and be ready. Then, Incubu, let thy one of the Askari—the one chest—he is a brave man—creep to the wide entrance that is filled with thorn bushes, and there also slay the sentry, and armed with battle axes, take our stand also one on each side of the pathway, and one a few paces beyond, to deal with such as pass the twain at the gate. It is there that the rush will come. That will leave sixteen men. Let these men be divided into two parties, with one of which shalt thou go, Macumazahn, and with one the 'praying man'" (Mr. Mackenzie), "and, all armed with rifles, let them make their way one to the right side of the kraal and one to the left; and when thou, Macumazahn, lowest like an ox, all shall open fire with the guns upon the sleeping men, being very careful not to hit the little maid. Then shall Bougwan at the far end and his ten men raise their war cry, and, springing over the wall, put the Masai there to the sword. And it shall happen that, being yet heavy with food and sleep, and bewildered by the firing of the guns, the falling of men and the spears of Bougwan, the soldiers shall rise and rush like wild game toward the thorn stopped entrance, and there the bullets from either side shall plow through them, and there shall Incubu and the Askari and I wait for those who break though. Such is my plan, Macumazahn; if thou hast a better, name it."

When he had done, I explained to the others such portions of this scheme as they had failed to understand, and they all joined with me in expressing the greatest admiration of the acute and skillful programme devised by the old Zulu, who was, indeed, in his own savage fashion, the finest general I ever knew. After some discussion we determined to accept the scheme as it stood, it being the only one possible under the circumstances, and giving the best chance of success that such a forlorn hope would admit of—which, however, considering the enormous odds and the character of our foe, was not very great.

"Ah, old lion!" I said to Umslopogaas, "thou knowest how to lie in wait as well as how to bite, where to seize as well as where to hang on."

"Ay, ay, Macumazahn," he answered. "For thirty years have I been a warrior, and have seen many things. It will be a good fight. I smell blood—I tell thee, I smell blood."

CHAPTER VI.

THE NIGHT WEARS ON.

As may be imagined, at the very first sign of a Masai the entire population of the mission station had sought refuge inside the stone wall, and were now to be seen—men, women and countless children—huddled up together in little groups, and all talking at once in awed tones of the awfulness of Masai manners and customs, and of the fate that they had to expect if those bloodthirsty savages succeeded in getting over the stone wall.

Immediately after we had settled upon the outline of our plan of action as suggested by Umslopogaas, Mr. Mackenzie sent for four sharp boys of from 12 to 15 years of age, and dispatched them to various points whence they could keep an outlook upon the Masai camp, with orders to report from time to time what was going on. Other lads, and even women, were stationed at intervals along the wall, in order to guard against the possibility of surprise.

After this the twenty men who formed his whole available fighting force were summoned by our host into the square formed by the house, and there, standing by the bole of the great conifer, he earnestly addressed them and our four Askari.

"Men," said Mr. Mackenzie, after he had put all the circumstances of the case fully and clearly before them, and explained to them the proposed plan of our forlorn hope—"men, for years I have been a good friend to you, protecting you, teaching you, guarding you and yours from harm, and ye have prospered with me. Ye have seen my child—the Waterlily, as ye call her—grow year by year, from tenderest infancy to tender childhood, and from childhood on toward maidenhood. She has been your children's playmate, she has helped to tend you when sick, and ye have loved her."

"We have," said a deep voice, "and we will die to save her."

"I thank you from my heart—I thank you. Sure am I that now, in this hour of darkest trouble, now that her young life is like to be cut off by cruel and savage men—who of a truth know not what they do"—ye will strive your best to save her, and to save me and her mother from broken hearts. Think, too, of your own wives and children. If she dies, her death will be followed by an attack upon us here, and at the best, even if we hold our own, your houses and gardens will be destroyed and your goods and cattle swept away. I am, as ye well know, a man of peace. Never in all these years have I lifted my hand to shed man's blood; but now I say strike, strike, in the name of God, who bade us protect our lives and homes. Swear to me," he went on, with added fervor—"swear to me that while a man of you remains alive ye will strive your uttermost with me and with these brave white men to save the child from a bloody and a cruel death."

"Say no more, my father," said the same deep voice, that belonged to a stalwart elder of the mission; "we swear it. May we and ours die the death of dogs, and our bones be thrown to the jackals and the kites, if we break the oath! It is a fearful thing to do, my father, so few to strike at so many, yet will we do it or die in the doing. We swear!"

"Ay, thus say we all," chimed in the others.

"Thus say we all," said I.

"It is well," went on Mr. Mackenzie. "Ye are true men and not broken reeds to lean on. And now we will begin our preparations in good earnest."

The men who were to form each little party were carefully selected, and still more carefully and minutely instructed as to what was to be done. After much consideration it was agreed that the ten men led by Good, whose duty it was to stampede the camp, were not to carry firearms; that is, with the exception of Good himself, who had a revolver as well as a short sword—the Masai "simé" which I had taken from the body of our poor servant who was murdered in the canoe. We feared that if they had firearms the result of three cross fires carried on at once would be that some of our own people would be shot; besides, it appeared to all of us that the work they had to do would best be carried out with cold steel—especially to Umslopogaas, who was, indeed, a great advocate of cold steel. We had with us four Winchester repeating rifles, besides half a dozen Martinis. I armed myself with one of the repeaters—my own; an excellent weapon for this kind of work, where great rapidity of fire is desirable, and fitted with ordinary flap sights, instead of the usual cumbersome sliding mechanism which they generally have. Mr. Mackenzie took another, and the two remaining ones were given to two of his men, who understood the use of them and were noted shots. The Martinis and some rifles of Mr. Mackenzie's were served out, together with a plentiful supply of ammunition, to the other natives who were to form the two parties whose duty it was to be to open fire from separate sides of the kraal on the sleeping Masai, and who were fortunately all more or less accustomed to the use of a gun.

To Be Continued.

Breathe Through the Nose.

Do not sleep, or when working breathe, with the mouth open. The nose filters out air impurities, which would otherwise reach the lungs, and regulates the temperature of the air when it might else be very irritating. If you cannot breathe through the nose there must be something wrong with it which should be attended to.—Herald of Health.

[illegible]sian Penitentiaries.

[illegible]re are three distinct peni-[illegible]us: The mines and [illegible] Siberia, the central [illegible]y cells, and soli-[illegible]avelins of the [illegible]d, and Schlus-[illegible] in Chicago

RUNNING THE UNIVERSE.

Bob Burdette Gives Some Very Good Advice to a Young Man.

My son, there are just two things in this world that I don't know about, and you have just asked me about one of them. I don't know why there is trouble and sorrow and toil and poverty and sickness and death in this beautiful world. I used to know when I was much younger, but I find that as I grow older I don't know a great deal more than I used to know. I don't know why all the best people seem to have all the suffering and the great sinners have all the fun. I don't know why innocent men suffer for the wickedness of the guilty men. I don't know why the man who cast the faulty columns in Pemberton Mills wasn't crushed when the mill went down. I don't see why my neck should be broken in a railroad accident because a train dispatcher sends out a wrong order or a signalman goes to sleep. I don't see why my neighbor should be cursed with ill health and suffering just because his grandfather was a rollicking, hard-drinking old profligate. I can't see why I should have neuralgia just when I want to feel my best. I can't understand why Garfield died and Sullivan lives. I don't know why some people starve while worse people founder. Well, you say, wouldn't it be pleasanter if all these crooked things were straightened out? Yes, oh yes! And wouldn't I run things a little better if I had the running of them? Ye-e—hold on a minute—ye—don't know, really, that I want to try. There are several things to consider, when you sit down to run a universe. True, if I managed things I could make several improvements at once. I would never again have the neuralgia, for one thing; my boots would not run over at the heels like an italic d, my pantaloons would not work up or bag at the knees and my collars would not climb the back of my neck and my mustache wouldn't keep waxed at one end like a bristle and fray out like a satin ribbon at the other, and—but there are some other things to look after. The little matter of day and night I think I might manage for a week may be, but there would be an eclipse or two to look after, an occasional rain, some snow, a late spring or an early autumn or a capricious harvest-time to manage; there are certain movements of the sun and other planets that have rather delicate relations with the earth—come to think of it, my boy, I have never yet been able to control my own personal neuralgia. Now, you are very kind, but I will most respectfully decline the appointment. I find, on looking into the varied and trying duties connected with the office, that my bodily and mental strength would not stand the great tax that would be laid upon them. While I am in the heartiest accord with the Administration and wish to give it—and to the extent of my poor ability do give it—my most earnest support and encouragement, yet I much prefer to do this in my capacity as a private citizen.—Bob Burdette, in Denver Republican.

Uncle Bethuel (who has got hold of the German edition of "Hair's Almanac")—"Tain't no use talkin,' mother!

Aunt Mehitabel—What on airth's th' matter now, husban'?

Uncle Bethuel—I'm gettin' blinder ev'y day. This las' pair'r specs makes these letters look like they was on a reg'lar ole apple-jack drunk!—Puck.

TO GRATIFY HIS WIFE.

An Interesting Story—A Hopeless Case Cured by using a Medicine which is made at Rondout, New York State.

Statement of Mr. Washington Monroe, of Catskill, Green County, New York.

"For many years I had suffered from a complaint which the physicians called Gravel. I had employed some of the most noted doctors without obtaining any permanent relief, and for a long time my case was regarded as hopeless. All who knew the circumstances said I must die. Finally my wife induced me to try a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's 'Favorite Remedy,' made at Rondout, N. Y., and costing only One Dollar a bottle, which she had somewhere read of or been advertised. Without the slightest faith in it, but solely to gratify her, I bought a bottle. I used that and two or three bottles more, and—to make a long story short—I am now as healthy a man as there is in the country. Since then I have recommended Dr. David Kennedy's 'Favorite Remedy' to others whom I knew to have suffered from Kidney and Liver complaints; and, I assure the public, that the 'Favorite Remedy' has done its work with a similar completeness in every single instance, and I trust some other sick and discouraged mortal may hear of it and try the 'Favorite Remedy,' as I did."

To avoid mistakes, notice the wrapper around the Favorite Remedy bottle is printed in green and red letters on white paper—remember on white paper. Now in case you have something offered you that does not agree with the points I have plainly given above, especially if it is not made at Rondout, N. Y., and the price is more than $1.00, and the name of the medicine is not Favorite Remedy, then refuse it, and insist on having Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Rondout, N. Y. Price $1 a bottle. Redington & Co., Agents, San Francisco, Cal.

A fashion item states that sealskin sacques are now made so that they cannot be distinguished from real plush.

THE DEVIL FISH DESCRIBED BY HUGO

Is not a more tenacious monster than malaria, whether it takes the form of chills and fever, bilious remittent, ague cake or dumb ague. Like the octopus of the story it clasps the victim in its tentacula, and folds him closer and closer in a horrible embrace. Attacked with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, however, it gradually relaxes its tremendous grip, finally abandons it, and the quondam sufferer, liberated at last, rejoices in the sense of new born freedom, engendered by the restoration of complete health. Dyspepsia, too, and constipation, those old and remorseless enemies of the human family, give ground, and are finally driven from the field by this Napoleon of remedies, the greatest, the purest in the family pharmacopœia. Rheumatism succumbs to it, so do kidney troubles. The nerves, when overstrained, regain quietude and vigor by its aid, and the ability to rest tranquilly and eat with zest are increased by it. Resort to it in time and avoid unnecessary suffering.

One reason why the girl of the period knows so little about housekeeping is because the young man of the period could not be pursuaded to court in the kitchen.

THE FLYING DOVE OF PEACE.

A richly frosted quivering, flying Dove. A Dream of Life screen calendar. An imported ideal head. An imported frosted snow scene and a full set of magnificent floral cards. Fourteen artistic pieces. Sent to anyone who will buy from a druggist a box of the genuine DR. C. M'LANE'S CELEBRTED LIVER PILLS (price, 25 cts.) and mail us the outside wrapper from the box with 4 cents in stamps. Write your address plainly. FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURG, PA.

Magistrate (to witness)—Do you know the nature of an oath, Uncle Rastus? Uncle Rastus—I reckon I does, yo' Honah. Ise owned a balky mule for foahteen ya'.

When all so-called remedies fail, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures.

An English man named John Haight, who lives at Haight, Carroll county, Md., will be eighty-eight years hold on the eighth day of the eighth month (August), heighteen hundred and heighty-height.

A WRENCHED ANKLE.

Mr. Havens, Secretary of the Consolidated Virginia and California Mining Company, Room 26, Nevada Block, San Francisco, writes:

"Permit me to offer a word in favor of your MAGIC LOTION. A short time since, while shooting, I wrenched my ankle very severely, it causing intense pain, and being very badly swollen before I could attend to it. A friend recommended your preparation, and while I had no great faith at the time, I procured a bottle and tried it. The result was astonishing. The following day the swelling had disappeared entirely, and beyond a little stiffness I have felt no inconvenience, nor have I since, walking without difficulty and feeling no pain. I think I am indebted to your preparation for escape from a season on crutches. It is well named. It will give me pleasure to recommend the LOTION to any doubting Thomases. I am perfectly convinced of its efficacy, and shall not be without it in the future. Yours, very truly,

A. W. Havens

The MAGIC LOTION can be had at any drug or country store, price 50 cents per bottle. Depot, 1056 Howard street, San Francisco.

It is a queer thing that in the ethics of kinship a man usually rushes for his uncle after bidding good-bye to his ante.

BLOOD WILL TELL.

There is no question about it—blood will tell—especially if it be an impure blood. Blotches, eruptions, pimples and boils, are all symptoms of an impure blood, due to the improper action of the liver. When this important organ fails to properly perform its function of purifying and cleansing the blood, impurities are carried to all parts of the system, and the symptoms above referred to are merely evidences of the struggle of Nature to throw off the poisonous germs. Unless her warning be heeded in time, serious results are certain to follow, culminating in liver or kidney disorders, or even in consumption. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will prevent and cure these diseases, by restoring the liver to a healty condition.

A New England clergyman wrote several books on such subjects as "What?" "Where?" and "Whither?" The author has since died. He has gone to find the answers to these questions.

CHILDREN STARVING TO DEATH

On account of their inability to digest food, will find a most marvelous food and remedy in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Very palatable and easily digested. Dr. S. W. Cohen, of Waco, Texas, says: "I have used your Emulsion in infantile wasting with good results. It not only restores wasted tissues, but gives strength and increases the appetite. I am glad to use such a reliable article."

If afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

The leading perfume of the day is HOYT'S GERMAN COLOGNE. This perfect toilet requisite is sold by all druggists and dealers in perfumery.

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED.

To the Editor:

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption, if they will send me their express and P. O. address. Respectfully,

T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., New York.

Wakelee's Squirrel and Gopher Exterminator. Try it, and prove the best is the cheapest. Wakelee & Co., San Francisco.

Camelline improves and preserves the complexion.

How to Cure Skin & Scalp DISEASES with the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

THE MOST DISTRESSING FORMS OF SKIN and scalp diseases, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, are speedily, economically and permanently cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, when all other remedies and methods fail.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50 cents; SOAP, 25 cents; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Relief in one minute, for all pains and weaknesses, in CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. 25c.

R. H. McDonald PRES'T. ESTABLISHED 1863. Oldest Chartered Bank on the Pacific Coast. F. V. McDonald, CASHIER.

PACIFIC BANK

Capital Stock $1,000,000.00.
SURPLUS $ 650,000.00.
AV. RESOURCES $ 1,356,175.94.

Returning thanks for past favors, we respectfully ask a continuance of the same and solicit accounts of Individuals, Firms and Corporations.

R. H. McDONALD, Pres't.
San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 1st, 1888.

ONE BOTTLE OF ELY'S CREAM BALM. Price, 50 Cents. Will do More IN CURING CATARRH Than $500 In any other way.

CATARRH

HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril, and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS 235 Greenwich St., New York.

BEST TREE WASH.

GREENBANK 98 % Powdered Caustic Soda (tests 99 3-10 %), recommended by the highest authorities; also, common Caustic Soda, pure Caustic Potash, etc., etc., for sale by T. W. JACKSON & CO. Manufacturers Agents California & 104 Market Sts. S. F.

REWARD!

$1000 Will be paid for each and every grain of poisonous substances found in Wisdom's Robertine, acknowledged the most delightful and only really harmless toilet article ever produced for beautifying and preserving the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles and all blemishes and roughness of the skin. Used and endorsed by the elite of society and the stage. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per bottle. White and Flesh. REDINGTON CO., Wholesale Druggists, San Francisco, Agents

THE NATIONAL DISEASE DOWNED.

Hundreds of so-called diseases under various names are the result of indigestion, and when this one trouble is removed the others vanish. The best known remedy for indigestion, according to thousands of testimonials, is one that has been used in the United States for more than fifty years—BRANDRETH'S PILLS. These Pills will cure the worst form of indigestion or dyspepsia, and by their use the national disease is easily conquered.

When all that was mortal of the late Alexander the Great was discovered, the face was hardly recognizable, even by his most intimate friends and acquaintances.

To dream of a ponderous whale,
Erect on the tip of his tail,
Is the sign of a storm
(If the weather is warm).
Unless it should happen to fail.

Dreams don't amount to much, anyhow. Some signs, however, are infallible. If you are constipated, with no appetite, tortured with sick headache and bilious symptoms, these signs indicate that you need Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. They will cure you. All druggists.

The conical high-crowned hat is to be worn another season, and a Connecticut inventor is at work on an extension neck of theatre-goers.

HOARSENESS.—All suffering from Irritation of the Throat and Hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the immediate relief afforded by the use of "Brown's Bronchial Troches." Sold only in boxes.

Piso's cure for Consumption is the best Cough Medicine. If you don't believe it, take a dose. By druggists, 25c. a bottle.

Good Health can be retained by using the "little wonders" known as Hobb's Little Vegetable Pills.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

ST. JACOBS OIL

RHEUMATISM.

Corroborative and Conclusive Testimony.

Lowell, Mass., July 9, 1887.

Gentlemen:—Mr. Lewis Dennis has just called upon me, and informs me that the boy Orin Robinson, who was a poor cripple on crutches, and was cured by St. Jacobs Oil in 1881; the cure has remained permanent. The young man has been and is now at work at manual labor; the case certainly proves the efficacy of St. Jacobs Oil.

DR. GEO. C. OSGOOD, M. D.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers Everywhere.

Chas. A. Vogeler Co., Balto., Md.

R. HALL'S PULMONARY BALSAM

A SUPERIOR REMEDY FOR COUGHS, COLDS, INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION, And all Throat and Lung Troubles.

Sold by all Druggists for ..... 50 Cents.

J. R. GATES & CO., PROPRIETORS, 417 SANSOME ST., SAN FRANCISCO.

STEINWAY, KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Roenish Pianos; Burdett Organs, band instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

EUROPEAN TICKET OFFICE.

First-Class, Second-Class, and Emmigrant Tickets AT LOW RATES, via the leading Steamship and Railroad Lines to and from Hamburg, Bremen, Liverpool, Southampton, Havre, Copenhagen, Stockholm, etc., etc.

401 California St., San Francisco.

Colonies and families at reduced rates.

Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Made only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, O. Trade Mark

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease.
G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D. Amsterdam, N. Y.

We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction.
D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.

$1.00. Sold by Druggists.

A SQUARE TRADE!

Manufacturers of tobacco and soap may give away cash premiums for wrappers of boxes returned; dealers in tea and baking powder may offer chine and glassware to their patrons as a bait, but we are glad to acknowledge that our customers belong to class who are bright enough to see through all this clap-Trap, and understand that if you are going to give $100 back you are going to add $10,000 to the first profit or price charged. Intelligent people everywhere prefer a square deal. It is only the ignorant and foolish that can be won by tricks of this kind. We offer a dollar's worth of good value for a dollar and find it is appreciated by just an honorable persons everywhere. We ask no extravagant profits, and intend to please and secure as customers all who favor us with an order. We will only supply you with the best goods at the lowest prices, but will take extra pains in selecting, carefully packing carefully and forwarding promptly. We mean business every time, and the way to secure and keep it is by fair trading. If we send you worthless goods by mistake, when you offer to pay full first-class, it is our loss, and we always rectify such mistakes. We cannot afford to have our customers entertain an unfavorable opinion of our way of doing business, and settle all just claims with a cheerful check. We believe you meant to be fair with us or we would not make this offer. New "Home Circle" now ready, ask for it right away. Address Smith's Cash Store, 418 Front Street, S. F., Cal.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

I believe Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my life.—A. H. DOWELL, Editor Enquirer, Edenton, N. C., April 23, 1887.

PISO

The BEST Cough Medicine is PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. Children take it without objection. By all druggists. 25c.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and Most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime, or Alumn. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

PACIFIC Business College, 320 Post St., S. F. Short-hand, Type-writing, Penmanship, Book-keeping, Telegraphy—Life Scholarships $75.00. Send for circular.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

CATARRH SAMPLE TREATMENT FREE. So great is our faith we can cure you, dear sufferer, we will mail enough to convince free. B. S. LAUDERBACH & CO., Newark, N. J.

I CURE FITS!

When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again, I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. H. G. ROOT, M. C., 183 Pearl St. New York.

CANDY MAKING FOR PLEASURE OR PROFIT

YOUNG PERSONS wishing employment in a light, pleasant and, perhaps, profitable amusement, can learn the art of Candy Making at home, and while giving amusement to their friends and themselves, discover whether they have a taste for the work as a business, and thereby make a fair living profit from a very small investment. Receipts, and full instructions in detail, sufficient for several lessons for the making of twelve simple varieties, and amply sufficient for home amusement, sent for one dollar. Tools necessary may be found in any kitchen. Address, GEO. F. PERCIVAL, 122 Ellis Street, San Francisco.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use, 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

HATCH CHICKENS!

—WITH THE—

PETALUMA INCUBATOR

The Most Successful Machine Made.
3 Gold Medals, 1 Silver Medal

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY ..... JUNE 2, 1888.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XIX. NO. 51. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., JUNE 2, 1888. WHOLE NO. 918.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 20 |

THRIFTY SCHOOL-GIRLS.

College Students Who Make Their Expenses by Doing Odd Jobs.

"Enough money may be earned by a college girl while at school to pay her incidental expenses and perhaps a part of her board money, too," said a senior of Vassar College.

"But how do they do it?" asked her companion.

"Well, in a dozen different ways; chiefly by playing the part of maid to the girls of wealth. Some of the girls who come up to Vassar are as helpless as babes. They are the daughters of millionaires, and never brushed their own hair or sewed a button on their boots in their lives. They are only too glad to have some one do those things for them, and that is how the poorer girls make pocket money. Last year a pretty blue-eyed girl came to college and stated during the first week that her tuition and board were paid by a kind relative, but every penny for dress, car fare and the thousand and one little incidentals she must earn herself. She was awfully clever and did not have an atom of false pride. First she went to work and put a little sign on the door:

Gloves and shoes neatly mended for 10 cents each.
Breakfast brought up for 10 cents.
Hair brushed each night for 25 cents a week.
Beds made up for 10 cents a week.

"You think her terms extravagantly low? Well, in college they were thought rather high at first, but she soon had plenty of customers, and when they found how neatly she would brush hair and curl it, too, on reception nights, why every spare moment [illegible]ime was occupied."

[illegible] freshman made just $150 [illegible]nd that paid all of her [illegible]reat part of her tuition [illegible]

[illegible]ed the Vassar girl, [illegible]irl who did almost [illegible]aking for the other [illegible] knack of it, you [illegible]ould take an old silk [illegible]up with tulle or lace, or [illegible]thing like that, and make it look [illegible]ust too sweet. All the girls were wild for her just before every reception or dance. She graduated last June, and there is no one yet to fill her place. If I coulp only dressmake I should like to fill it."

At Smith and Wellesley colleges many of the students make small sums of money in similar ways.

"We have one girl," said a Smith senior, "who has reaped quite a little harvest since dress reeds came into fashion. Any woman can tell you what tiresome articles they are to put into a dress and how often they need fixing. Well, the girl puts three new ones in for thirty cents, and if she has to make the cases for them she charges extra. I don't believe more than half of our students sew in their own reeds, so you can [illegible]late how much she makes."

"Tutoring is one of the best ways of earning money in Smith, although few except seniors have it given them. This, you know, is teaching backward pupils during spare hours, and the pay is forty cents an hour. If a girl has an hour each day she can make two dollars a week, and that will pay all incidental expenses, and her wash bill, and her car-fares home during vacations.

Smith girls who live in the college-house are expected to make up their own beds, but many of them hate the work and give it to some college mate to do for 25 cents a week. The general charge for weekly mending is 15 cents, and 10 cents extra for darning stockings. One girl mends gloves beautifully and gets 3 cents a finger. She always has more work than she can do. Tidying up bureaus on Saturdays is a flourishing business and not an easy one. Some girls get their ribbons and handkerchiefs and gloves and such articles into a dreadful whirl, you know. Two girls who make exquisite fancy work have coined quite a little sum making presents. The students supply the material and they do the work for very reasonable prices.

At Wellesley one of the students has almost paid her way through college by sewing on shoe buttons. Her charges are 10 cents a dozen and she supplies the buttons and thread. She has almost the entire trade of the college and spends two hours every day at the work."—N. Y. Morning Journal.

Farming as a Business.

There are some among our readers who, we fear, think farming an exceedingly profitable business, and that any one can make money at it. This is a great mistake, as many have found to their sorrow. We do not wish to mislead any one by giving results of crops obtained under peculiarly favorable circumstances. Farming, like every other calling, has its advantages and its disadvantages. When properly conducted, it will yield a good living, and possibly something more. No one should expect to get rich suddenly in this business. It is a healthful, and in many respects independent and pleasant employment, and one worthy the attention of men of brains. It is not now true, if it ever was, that every dunce can get a better living by farming than by any other occupation. We do not wish to discourage those who are thinking of farming for a life-work, nor, on the other hand, are we willing to glorify it so as to mislead. It is our desire to impress upon all our farmer friends the importance of so conducting their business as to secure the very best results.—Congregationalist.

—An Ypsilanti man has a queer craze—that of collecting axes. He has ninety-two different kinds, and yet his wife complains of a scarcity of kindling-wood.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Forthcoming Novelties in Textiles, Gowns and Garnitures.

Tea-gowns of pale corn-colored or ang de bœuf China silk very much draped with black Spanish lace or Chantilly net, are in high vogue. The brilliant shade of red thus vailed renders the gown becoming to both blonde and brunette.

The pretty textiles called Neapolitan silk crepalines are very popularly worn for dancing toilets. These are of Pompadour patterns, stripes both wide and narrow, and odd hieroglyphics in lilac and white, pink and primrose, olive and pink, or vivid Roman red on cream-white grounds.

These fabrics are made up with Swiss bodices of velvet matched to the color of the figure on the crepaline, with velvet loops and ends, at the left side of the tunic. There are long narrow draperies at the back, over skirts of plain surah, moire, or velvet the color of the bodices.

Among the forthcoming novelties in dress garnitures are unique devices in silk-cord appliques, odd Indian and Persian galloons and rare and uncommon fancies in gimp, and gold and silver passementeries. Much of this costly and elaborate handiwork is covered with sequins or drops (often made to resemble tiny gems), and pendants of various sorts. These garnitures will appear upon fancy spring wraps, panels, peplum fronts to corsages, and upon various portions of the bodices of stylish walking and visiting gowns.

Some very lovely luncheon and tea-gowns for summer wear are already on exhibition. They are made of China silks figured with small but gay Watteau designs, flower-striped India silk muslins, real French challies as fine and sheer as the most expensive vailings, and also soft-finished failles in plain shades of primrose, cresson green, mauve, apricot, tea rose, cafe au lait, silver, fawn, bebe blue, or pale golden terracotta with olive accessories. These are fashioned in princesse style and open broadly over petticoats of Persian silk net.

Some of the new very elegant and expensive sash-ribbons are made into pretty fichus that cover the waist and shoulders almost entirely. The Persian brocaded sash-ribbons, thus arranged, much resemble the kerchiefs of the Swiss peasantry, only they are of rich silk instead of cotton. The sash is laid in close plaits on the shoulders, brought down and crossed below the chest in front, finishing with a large buckle that holds the ends. In the back there are loops and long ends falling from the fichu.

Stripes of every style, color and description still hold high places in the world of dress. More than this, they appear to constitute a typical peculiarity of the forthcoming modes. Much of the ingenuity of the modiste is expended upon their novel distribution and in studying the best manner in which to vary familiar effects. One change is obtained by forming the stripes into a series of points on the front of the skirt, with perpendicular stripes at each side, with kilts of plain goods alternating. This method is effective without being intricate.—N. Y. Post.

HINTS ON PUNCTUATION.

A Fine Art That Admits of Almost Illimitable Diversity.

The question, "What are the best authorities in punctuation?" is a difficult one to answer—indeed, I may say unanswerable. Among those authorities with which I am acquainted, which are worth mentioning, I should certainly place Wilson at the head. The first in date is, of course, Lindley Murray, and the next Gould Brown, the latter of whom gives a surfeit of examples; but both of these last two, as I say in the preface to my "Treatise on Punctuation," punctuate more stiffly than do the best writers of the present day who pay any attention to the subject. In fact, over-punctuation is apt to be a fault of all who treat upon the subject. Another good manual, but brief, is given in the appendix to Prof. A. S. Hill's "Principles of Rhetoric"—a text-book in Harvard College. I have seen several others, but all upon the same pattern—based mainly upon Wilson's—and generally not worth considering.

The "fine points" in question would usually, I suppose, be those upon which authorities might disagree; and this very likely would add to one's perplexity. In short, punctuation is a sort of fine art and admits of as great diversity as does the style of an author.

The ideal sentence should be so clearly written that it will punctuate itself, or can not be mispunctuated. Take, for instance, a sentence of Daniel Webster's, and it could not be misunderstood if no points whatever were used. I wonder no more of his composition is given in our modern standard school reading-books. The important thing in an involved sentence is to mark distinctly the different clauses, parenthetical or other, so that the reader can not fail to understand it. This an author can always do in his own sentences. But when an editor comes to punctuate another's work it is absolutely necessary that he should understand precisely what its author means to say, as a wrong comma or semi-colon may make him say what he does not intend, or at least render his meaning obscure. If every writer for the press should read over carefully his sentences, and then punctuate by dividing off his clauses, he would often find that he had made serious mistakes in his grammar.—Writer.

—According to Prof. Riley, the best of all remedies for the apple-root louse is to drench the roots with boiling water.

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL.

—Buffalo Bill is said to be negotiating for a lease of Alexandra Palace for three years, and to be thinking of making his home in England.

—Mrs. Krupp, widow of the great gun-maker, has permission to take any income she chooses from the estate not exceeding $125,000 per annum.

—Thiers was elected President of France at seventy-four years of age, MacMahon at sixty-five and Grevy at seventy-two, while M. Carnot is only fifty.

—John J. Almeida is the oldest resident of Cape Cod. He is hale and hearty at one hundred and fourteen, is often seen walking the streets, and has never ridden in the cars or a carriage.

—Von Moltke, who is generally considered the greatest living General, at the age of sixty-six was comparatively unknown. Young men should not be too impatient for the rewards of fame.

—Mrs. Maria Burton has beaten the "International Company" and is adjudged by the highest courts in Mexico, to be the owner of the land on which Ensenada, in Lower California, is situated.

—A member of a prominent Cincinnati family, who a few years ago could draw his check for $100,000, was locked up Monday charged with stealing a $10 overcoat, which he pawned for $2 drink money.

—Mrs. Mackay's latest fancy is an Angora cat. She has a beautiful male specimen, of tortoise-shell and gray, with a tail as thick as a fashionable boa. A collar, jeweled with diamonds and sapphires, adorns the animal's neck.

—The pet charity of the late Mme. Boucicaut, the great Parisian shopkeeper, was an asylum for old men. "There's nothing so helpless and in the way as an old man," she used to assert; "whereas an old woman can always eke out a living somehow."

—Anthony Chabot, a philanthropist of Oakland, Cal., who endowed many charities, declined to establish a home for indigent old men, upon the ground that a man generally owed his indigence to laziness or bad habits. He generously enriched charities for women and children, however.

—It is stated by ladies who have experienced it, that Mrs. Cleveland, at her receptions, dispatches about two hundred lady callers in ten minutes, which is at the rate of one every three seconds. By a slight pulling motion added to the hearty hand shake Mrs. Cleveland hastens each caller in line as they pass her in review.

—Chang Yen Hoon, the Chinese Minister at Washington, stands high in the list of Chinese noblemen. His family is one of the oldest and wealthiest in China. He is fifty-one years of age, and has been in the Emperor's service for a long time. His Chinese home is at Canton, where he has an enormous palace, and an enclosed garden that is famous even in China for its rare plants.

"A LITTLE NONSENSE."

—Clergyman—"My boy, you were very naughty to run away. Don't you know the way of the transgressor?" Boy—"Yes; towards Canada."—Life.

—Jones—"Say, what makes the police carry their clubs in their hands just before sunrise?" Briggs—"To club the daylight out of people, I guess."

—A Kansas court decided that typewriting is not printing, and the corpse of Benjamin Franklin immediately gave a sigh of relief and turned over for another nap.—Lowell Citizen.

—"I wonder what's the matter with the old black hen?" said Mrs. Bascom. "I haven't found any eggs in her nest for four or five days." "Guess she's laying off," said Mr. Bascom.—Burlington Free Press.

—On the steamer.—"You don't mean to say you're really going to be sick?" "It's a melancholy fact" "You'll have to get your sea legs on". "Thank you; I'd rather provide myself with a sea stomach."—Judge.

—Conversation overheard on the rear platform of a street-car: Conductor (addressing passenger who is smoking a cigar)—"Smoke on the other end, sir." Passenger—"Dash it, I can't. It's lit."—Buffalo Express.

—At the recent insect exhibition in Paris M. Prudhomme was pointing out to his son the different varieties. "And what a beautiful dispensation of Providence! It has created insects to be the food of toads." "And what are toads good for, papa?" "Why, to eat the insects, my son."—Judge.

—Wife—"I found an egg in the coal bin this morning. That's a queer place for a hen to lay in." Husband—"Just the place, my dear; just the place." Wife—"Just the place?" Husband—"Why, certainly. If our hens begin to lay in coal for us, we won't need to mind how the price goes up."

—New-Yorker (in Boston)—"Can you direct me to Salem street? Officer—"Cert'. You go through Providence court to Washington street, skin though Cornhill until you come to the straight part, circle 'round Scollay square till you find an outlet, and inquire again. That's as far as my beat goes."—Tid-Bits.

—Husband (with carving knife and fork)—"Aren't the children ready for dinner?" Wife—"Yes, dear; but as we have ducks for dinner, and the children have just returned from Sunday-school, I thought it better that they should remain up-stairs until you get through with the carving."—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

ON BEING PLEASANT.

It Makes People Jolly and Changes Frowns Into Pleasant Smiles.

Says Mr. Thackeray about that nice boy Clive Newcome, "I don't know that Clive was especially brilliant, but he was pleasant."

Occasionally we meet people to whom it seems to come natural to be pleasant; such are as welcome wherever they go as flowers in May, and the most charming thing about them is that they help to make other people pleasant too. Their pleasantness is contagious.

The other morning we were in the midst of a three days' rain. The fire smoked, the dining-room was chilly, and when we assembled for breakfast, papa looked rather grim, and mamma tired, for the baby had been restless all night. Polly was plainly inclined to fretfulness, and Bridget was undeniably cross, when Jack came in with the breakfast rolls from the baker's. He had taken off his rubber coat and boots in the entry, and he came in rosy and smiling.

"Here's the paper, sir," said he to his father with such a cheerful tone that his father's brow relaxed, and he said "Ah, Jack, thank you," quite pleasantly.

His mother looked up at him smiling, and he just touched her cheek gently as he passed.

"The top of the morning to you, Polly-wog," he said to his little sister, and delivered the rolls to Bridget with a "Here you are, Bridget. Aren't you sorry you didn't go yourself this beautiful day?"

He gave the fire a poke and opened a damper. The smoke ceased, and presently the coals began to glow, and five minutes after Jack came in we had gathered around the table and were eating our oatmeal as cheerily as possible. This seems very simple in the telling, and Jack never knew he had done any thing at all, but he had in fact changed the whole moral atmosphere of the room, and had started a gloomy day pleasantly for five people.

"He is always so," said his mother when I spoke to her about it afterward, "just so sunny and kind, and ready all the time. I suppose there are more brilliant boys in the world than mine, but none with a kinder heart or a sweeter temper, I am sure of that."

And I thought: Why isn't a cheerful disposition worth cultivating? Isn't it one's duty to be pleasant, just as well as to be honest, or truthful, or industrious, or generous? And yet, while there are a good many honest, truthful, industrious, and generous souls in the world, and people who are unselfish too, after a fashion, a person who is habitually pleasant is rather a rarity. I suppose the reason is because it is such hard work to act pleasant when one feels cross. Very few people have the courage of that cheeriest of men, Mr. Mark Tapley, who made it a point of honor to "keep jolly" under the most depressing circumstances.

People whose dispositions are naturally irritable or unhappy, think it is no use trying to be otherwise; but that is a mistake. If they will patiently and perseveringly try to keep always pleasant, after a while they will get in the habit of smiling instead of frowning, of looking bright instead of surly, and of giving a kind word instead of a cross one. And the beauty of it is, as I said before, that pleasantness is catching, and before long they will find themselves in the midst of a world full of bright and happy people, where every one is as good-natured and contented as they are.—Christian at Work.

MUSIC AT FUNERALS.

Grand Old Tunes That Are Now Sung in Waltz and Polka Time.

I am sorry to observe that the old psalm tunes are getting obsolete. A day or two ago I attended a funeral and it was requested by a member of the family that some good old-fashioned hymn, of which the deceased was very fond, should be sung. I believe the tunes selected were: "I Would Not Live Alway" and "Just As I Am, Without One Plea." Imagine my surprise as well as that of the "mourners" to hear the former hymn sung in a genuine polka time with a soprano and bass solo. Some time ago I attended the funeral of a celebrated criminal lawyer in a North Side church, and a hired quartette was to furnish the music. The grand old song "Rock of Ages, Cleft for Me," than which a grander tune was never written, was rendered in beautiful waltz time. Ed Jordan was the officiating undertaker, and I momentarily expected Ed to invite some young lady out into the vestibule to have a little waltz around. An old gentleman, living on the South Side, and who has been reared in the Methodist Church, has left $50 to be given the choir that will sing at his funeral to the original music:

Our days are like the grass,
Or like the morning flower.

The other is:

Why do we mourn departed friends
Or shake at death's alarm?

In this large city of nearly a million inhabitants I doubt if such a choir or quartette can be found now that know the music. One day a dear friend of mine died, and knowing his love for three beautiful old hymns, that he had been wont to hear in the little village church far away, and which was to us so hallowed by sacred and tender recollections, I meekly and hesitatingly asked his widow that one of these tunes might be sung. Was it? O no, but she gazed upon me in a pitiful way, as much as to say I pity your ignorance, and replied: "That is very old-fashioned and is not sung at all at the very latest funerals."

It was then that I was obliged to admit to myself that there was a latest fad in funeral music.—Chicago Journal.

THE QUEEN'S PEARLS.

Why They Are No Longer Kept on the Royal Writing Table.

The Queen has taken great care that all her daughters shall have fine pearl necklaces for their shapely necks. She has looked after them in that respect from their very babyhood. One of her first purchases after the birth of each has been two or three pearls (of which jewel the Queen is very fond); and every year until their marriage she has added a pearl or two to her stock, until the necklace she required was ready. In this quiet, economical way she has been enabled to make up a rope of pearls for each of the Princesses, and those who have seen the necklaces at Court will bear me out in saying that the Queen's daughters are, so far as pearls go, well supplied with jewelry. Thereby hangs a tale, for which the correspondent can vouch.

Some years ago her Majesty bought from a well-known London pearl merchant three very beautiful pearls, the united cost of which was not far short of £500. Four hundred and eighty pounds is the exact sum mentioned. They pleased Royalty greatly, and were paid for without demur. A little while after the purchase had been made the merchant was surprised to receive a letter from a lady at court saying: "The Queen wants very much to know whether pearls will burn." The reply to this somewhat startling scientific inquiry was an assurance that if her Majesty wished to oxygenize pearls for her amusement she would find that they would burn in an ordinary fire. This rejoinder produced the secret. The Queen had placed the pearls on her writing-desk in a piece of the tissue paper which jewelers use. As she was writing one morning she used the tissue paper to wipe her pen and threw it into the fire. The pearls, all unobserved, went with it. The ashes of the grate were searched for them in vain. They had been destroyed so utterly as to leave no trace. The Queen with her own hand had cast three splendid jewels, worth more than the average income of her middle-class subjects, into the blaze. Pearls have not since been kept on the royal writing-table.—Liverpool Mercury.

EARLY RAILROADS.

Some of Those Operated in Centuries Long Gone By.

The celebrated trial of locomotive engineers upon the Liverpool & Manchester railway, for the purpose of determining the relative advantage of stationary and locomotive power upon such roads, was had in 1829, and resulted in favor of the latter. In Redfield's Practical Treatise upon the Law of Railroads, the author says in relation to their orgin: "Although some of the Roman roads, like the Appian Way, were a somewhat near approach to the modern railway, being formed into a continuous plane surface by means of blocks of stone closely fitted together, yet they were, in the principle of construction and operation, essentially different from railways. The idea of a distinct track for the wheels of carriages does not seem to have been reduced to practice until late into the seventeenth century. In 1676 some account is given of the transportation of coals, near Newcastle-on-Tyne, upon a very imperfect railway, by means of rude cariages, whose wheels run upon some kind of rails of timber. About one hundred years afterwards, an iron railway is said to have been constructed and put into operation at the colliery near Sheffield. From this time they were put into very extensive use for conveying coal, stone and other like substances short distances, in order to reach navigable waters, and sometimes near the cities where large quantities of stone were needed for building purposes.

"These railways, built chiefly by the owners of coal mines and stone quarries, either upon their own land or by special license, called way-leave, upon the land of others, had become numerous long before the application of steam-power to railway transportation. All railways, or similar corporations, in this country, exist, or are presumed to have originally existed, by means of an express grant from the legislative power of the State or sovereignty.—Cor. N. Y. Observer.

Hypnotism in Spain.

The papers of Madrid, Spain, are full of a hypnotic experiment made at the royal palace. An Italian hypnotist put to sleep a young lady from a family moving in the best circles of the capital. He gave her a raw potato to eat, and suggested it was a fine pie, which the lady pronounced delicious. He suffered a very powerful electric current pass through her without flinching, hid and found objects, and inhaled for a full minute the inhalation of a bottle of ammonia, and pronounced it the most exquisite eau de cologne. Answering questions made by the Queen, the patient described the royal working room, which she had never seen, and named the contents of the pocket in the Queen's dress. The Queen asked the operator if anybody was able to hypnotize, and being told that it did not require any thing but a strong will and absolute concentration of thought the Queen tried immediately and put the girl, who had been awakened, into sleep again and made some successful experiments with her.—Chicago News.

—Mistress—"Didn't the alarm-clock go off?" Bridget—"It must have wint off, mum, for I can't foind it this mornin'." Mistress—"Why, what did you do with it?" "I jist laid it on the shed in the back yard, mum, so that it wouldn't annoy me."

DARING ROBBERIES.

Burglaries Planned With Astonishing Care and Circumspection.

A few weeks ago the residence of a Mr. Greenfel, at Taplow Court, England, was entered and jewelry, principally bridal presents, valued at $25,000 carried off. The time was the servants' supper hour. There was no one in the second story of the mansion. The burglars entered, took the property, and departed without making any noise or leaving the smallest article by which any clew could be obtained. There was not the slightest suspicion against any of the servants or any one living in the neighborhood. No strangers had been seen about the place for months.

Still it was evident that the burglars knew every thing about the house, from top to bottom. They were familiar with the habits of the family, the time for taking meals and the location of articles about the place. They must have known exactly where the jewelry was kept. They had planned their expedition with as great care as ever a great military commander did a campaign. They had arranged for their advance, and for their retreat, if one was found necessary. They had fastened every door and window in the lower story. They had stretched fine copper wires under the grass all over the lawn, so that persons would be tripped up if they tried to overtake them. It seemed likely that the robbery was planned shortly after a fashionable marriage occurred and the London and provincial papers published accounts of the costly bridal presents. Evidently weeks had been spent in making preparations for the robbery.

The history of crime, like that of other events, is likely to repeat itself. A London paper, from which this information is obtained, states that a similar burglary occurs in Great Britain every year. The house robbed is always at some distance from a large town, so that the inmates entertain no fear of robbers. The occupants of the house are always wealthy and generally unsuspicious people. The articles stolen are rarely if ever found. They are not disposed of at pawnshops or to common dealers. They are not offered for sale in country towns. They cannot be found in any of the cities on the continent. Jewelers who made the articles can always recognize them.

It seems likely that the persons engaged in these robberies are possessed of means sufficient to enable them to live for years. It is also likely that they keep the articles they steal till the persons who would be able to recognize them die or lose their recollection of them. It is presumed that many of the articles stolen are sent to America or India. It seems probable that there is an international arrangement for disposing of these goods. Warning people against leaving valuable jewelry and plate unprotected appears to do no good. They may be locked up in a vault or safe for a few months, but at the end of this time they are left on tables as before. The skillful professional burglars know this and make their calculations accordingly.—Chicago Times.

BEAUTIFUL WOMAN.

Measurements Which Prove Perfection All Over the World.

For a woman of five feet five inches, 138 pounds is the proper weight, and if she be well formed she can stand another ten pounds without greatly showing it. When her arms are extended she should measure from tip of middle finger to tip of middle finger just five feet five inches, exactly her own height. The length of her hand should be just one tenth of that, and her feet just a seventh, and the diameter of her chest a fifth. From her thighs to the ground she should measure just what she measures from the thighs to the top of the head. The knee should come exactly midway between the thigh and heel. The distance from the elbow to the middle finger should be the same as the distance from the elbow to the middle of the chest. From the top of the head to the chin should be just the length of he foot, and there should be the same distance between the chin and the armpits.

A woman of this height should measure twenty-four inches about the waist and thirty-four inches about the bust if measured from under the arms, and forty-three if over them. The upper arm should measure thirteen inches and the wrist six. The calf of the leg should measure fourteen and a half inches, the thigh twenty-five and the ankle eight. There is another system of measurements which says that the distance twice around the thumb should go once around the wrist; twice around the wrist once around the throat; twice around the throat once around the waist, and so on; but the first is the measure used by sculptors, who have gained them by measurement of the Greek statues.—Philadelphia Press.

Of Small Consequence.

A Chicago belle was riding in a Boston horse car the other day when she suddenly stooped over and began searching for something she had evidently dropped in the straw at her feet.

A half dozen of the polite young gentlemen, for whom Boston is proverbial, sprang to the pretty girl's assistance.

"Ah, have you lost something?" they asked in chorus, as six pair of hands began shaking up the straw.

"It is of no consequence," said the Chicago girl, smiling sweetly. "Don't go to any trouble about it; I've got a whole box more at home. It was only my gum I dropped."

Six polite gentlemen resumed their seats in silence.—Detroit Free Press.

WHISTLING JUGS.

Wonderful Specimens of Pottery Produced in Ancient Peru.

The silvadors or musical jugs found among the burial places of Peru are most ingenious specimens of handiwork. A silvio in the William S. Vaux collection at Philadelphia consists of two vases, whose bodies are joined one to the other, with a hole or opening between them. The neck of one of these vases is closed, with the exception of a small opening in which a clay pipe is inserted leading to the body of the whistle. When a liquid is poured into the open-necked vase the air is compressed into the other, and in escaping through the narrow opening is forced into the whistle, the vibrations producing sounds. Many of these sounds represent the notes of birds; one in the Clay collection of Philadelphia, Pa., imitates the notes of the robin or some other member of the thrush tribe peculiar to Peru. The closed neck of this double vase is modeled into a representation of a bird's head, which is thrush-like in character.

Another water vase in the same collection, representing a llama, imitates the disgusting habit which this animal possesses of ejecting its saliva when enraged. The hissing sound which accompanies this action is admirably imitated. A black tube of earthenware ornamented with a grotesque head in low relief, to which short arms are attached pressing a three-tubed syrinx to its lips (Clay collection), deserves special mention, as it suggests the evolution of this instrument from a single tube to more complicated forms.

Peruvian woven tissues, often dyed in brilliant hues, are unsurpassed by the textile productions of any other ancient American people. Their jewelry of gold and silver is remarkable. Statuettes in the precious metals are even more wonderful; they represent monkeys, birds with their feathers, fish with scales, etc., modeled in relief or entaglio. Human figures were also cast in precious metals, the artists even attempting groups. Beads were made of gold, silver, glass and earthenware. Wood was used to furnish objects in daily use, and an example may be seen in the beautifully ornamented combs that are sometimes found placed beside the dead in the huacas.

It is yet to be shown that the ancient Peruvians possessed a system of coinage or of recording their ideas by a system of writing, either hieroglyphic or phonetic. It is supposed that some system of communicating ideas and recording events existed by means of lupos or strings of varying length, on which were knotted a certain number of threads. The Inca was thus enabled to transmit his orders by messengers over all the roads starting from the capital at Cuzco. Relays of runners were stationed all along the imperial highways at distances rarely exceeding five miles, and in this way orders were forwarded to all points in the kingdom with great rapidity.—Swiss Cross.

NOSELESS PEOPLE.

Strange Sights Seen on the Streets of New York City.

Not long ago while in a shop on Broadway, near the Fifth Avenue Hotel, there entered a handsomely dressed woman, wrapped in sealskin, with clear white gems flashing in her pretty little ears, soft rings of blonde hair on her brow, and altogether as charming and prepossessing a looking woman as one is apt to meet on the great thoroughfare. But she had no nose! You wouldn't believe until you saw it either how greatly a woman misses that insignificant feature. I followed her about at a respectful distance, drawn by a horrible fascination, and to my growing amazement I discovered that she seemed to be unaware of any loss.

The feature had been taken off near the face, leaving a hideous scarred ridge from brow to lip, yet she wore no vail, made no effort to conceal it and seemed absolutely unconscious of the horror of the thing. She was calm and unconcerned, examined and priced goods, and, smiling at some remark made by the clerk, showed a perfect set of teeth.

A pretty woman, evidently well satisfied with herself. Crossing the pavement to her carriage every one in the passing throng gave her a glance and gave a shocking start; but, apparently unconscious, she leisurely entered her conveyance and was driven away, not even drawing down the blinds.

They say one can see any thing in New York if one only waits long enough, and I begin to believe it. Whether my attention has been attracted to noses by this curious incident, or whether there has been a panic in the feature lately it is not to be said, but since that day I have seen on the elevated train, at an art exhibition and in a restaurant, three men without noses, and here comes the news of the removal of Prof. French's organ by his too officious pets. Happily the papers add that the physicians are carving him a new one out of his own arm, and so the legion of the noseless will not receive a new recruit.—N. Y. Letter.

—A Virginia farmer was made to believe that whisky was a good bait for coons, and he set a bucket of it out four successive nights. The whisky didn't catch any coons, but several "coons" caught on to the whisky.—Norristown Herald.

—Unfortunate Self-justification.—He—"Will you allow me to accompany you?" She—"Sir, perhaps you think——." He—"But now, really, do I look as if I thought?"—Fliegende Blatter.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, JUNE 2 ..... 1888

The Emperor of Brazil is dying, if not already dead. The life of few rulers have been more gloriously closed than that of Dom Pedro. During forty years he labored for the emancipation of the slaves in his Empire and has lived long enough to see his labor crowned with success. His daughter Isabel is now Regent of the Empire, and will succeed her father in the throne. She will work to carry on the reforms and improvements projected by her wise and good father. In the emancipation of the slaves the government of Brazil profited by the experience of the United States. Every slave will be free, but not one drop of blood has been shed, not a single act of violence has been committed in gaining the glorious end, either by slave or slave owner. Surely the people who could unite with their Emperor to effect such a mighty change as this, are capable of building up a grand and highly civilized nation. Every one who has visited Brazil and seen what a grand country it is must have the brightest hopes for its future. Its coast line is over 3700 miles long, from the mouth of the Oyapak river on the north to the Itahy on the south. It has some of the finest harbors in the world, among them being Rio Janerio and Bahia, in either of which there is room enough for all the navies of the world. Whoever has seen the Bay of Naples and the Bay of Rio Janiero will have no hesitation in saying that the latter excels the former in grandeur and beauty. The rivers of Brazil are the largest in the world and would carry a greater inland trade than the rivers of the United States. One vast plain traversed by some of these rivers is six times as large as France. This great region has an average elevation of about 2500 feet above the sea. This plain alone could contain a population almost equal to that of all Europe. There are other plains of vast extent and varied resources. The present population of the Empire is about 15,000,000; being less than one fourth the population of the United States. The country produces all the tropical fruits; its naval oranges are the finest in the world. Coffee, sugar, tobacco; grains and vegetables of all kinds are grown. Except along the swampy regions of the Amazon and some of its tributaries in the north, the country is generally healthy and the climate delightful. Very few modern improvements were introduced up to quite recently. In 1863 the writer visited the country. At that time there was no railroad in the Empire except one line out of Rio Janerio, and that was but about fifty miles long. Even in the cities there were but few wheeled vehicles, and most of these of very rude construction. Bundles of dried hides; hogsheads of sugar and molases and other bulky freight, were carried on the heads or shoulders of slaves to the beach and were there put upon lighters and carried out to the ships where they lay at anchor. Instead of cabs sedan chairs were in use in the cities as in England 150 years ago; and when a lady went visiting or shopping, or a business or professional man wanted to go to his office, two men were called with their chair and carried the passenger on their shoulders. Soldiers on guard at government buildings were barefoot and armed with flintlock muskets. In the interior of the country horseback riding was the only alternative from going on foot. Everybody took life very easy; the country was a paradise for lazy people. Sunday was the only day in the week when anybody seemed to be in a hurry; then everybody hurried to church and the moment service ended Pastor and people hurried to a cock fight or a horse race. Sunday in Brazil was very different from Sunday in Scotland. In some ways the difference was not disagreable. Now that slavery is abolished there is nothing to prevent the development of the resources of the country by free labor. If the government will give suitable encouragement people will flock there from other countries as they now do to the United States. Brazil needs the immigrants and we do not. With immigrants would go steam boats upon the mighty rivers and railroads to the vast plains of the interior. Then Brazil would enter upon a career of prosperity that would rival in the southern continent the prosperity of the United States in the northern continent.

Next Friday the Democratic National Convention meets at St. Louis.

History is repeating itself. Vast swarms of people driven onward by hunger and mad for plunder, overwhelmed the Roman Empire. From the same regions out of which these swarms poured in former ages, other hungry swarms are now pouring into Western Europe. English and other working men are driven out of their workshops by the strangers, and are flocking into the United States, in their turn displacing the American workmen by their cheaper labor. American workmen have the power to shut the gates through which the strangers come, and these gates should be slammed in the faces of the intruders without loss of time. There is no sentiment in dollars and cents. The man who employs labor will take the cheapeast he can get, even if by so doing his own countryman is forced to live in a hovel, eat garbage and dress in rags. Better have no manufactories at all than multitudes of human beings living in squalor, ignorance, poverty, hunger and dirt; the brutal ignorance, the beastial immorality and awful degradation that may be seen any day in the great mining and manufacturing centers of England, Scotland and Wales. The American should protect himself.

At the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church recently held in New York, an effort was made to have a rule adopted for the admission of women as delegates. The measure was defeated. The most persistent opponents to the proposed reform were College Professors and other so-called leaders of thought. The strongest advocates for the change were men of experience in the world; lay delegates to the Conference who were chosen because of their influence in society, their general ability and practical wisdom. Reforms are very rarely favored by College Professors. The average Professor studies the past, searches for its wisdom, admires its beauties, gets to be so absorbed in the study of it that he becomes, like, Dominie Sampson oblivious to what is going on around him. The chair of Queen Haputa—if that was her name—who reigned in Egypt some three or four thousand years ago, was recently discovered. To the average theological Professor the mummy of that ancient dame seated in her ancient chair would be of greater interest, would give more movement to the sluggish current of the pale fluid that creeps through his veins, than would the presence of a living woman, whose beauty and animation would send the blood of a real, live man coursing like lightning through his veins, and would inspire him with manly love for her and with respect for her whole sex. Everybody who knows anything about the subject, knows well that there are hundreds of churches kept open for religious services, and hundreds of Preachers supported through the influence and the labors of women; and that if these labors should cease, or the influence no longer be exerted the churches would be shut up and the Preachers be forced to find a living in some other ways. But for the influence of women, nothing short of a miracle could save the religion of to-day from having as little power in the world as the religions of the Greeks and Romans of other ages. Yet the "Professors" and the "leaders of thought" are opposed to the admission of women as delegates to the great cousinl of the Methodist Church. Professors opposed the admission of women as students at colleges; till men of common sense and practical knowledge built and endowed colleges that Professors could not control. Professors bitterly opposed the admission of lay men as delegates to the great council of the Church, till stern necessity forced them to yield. The same necessity will in time compel the admission of women as delegates; and when that time comes, "as come it will for a' that," the Church will be nourished to greater vigor; adorned with more beauty, inspired to more useful labors, and have greater influence than to-day. Man is never so pure as when drawing life from his mother's breast; and he will be all the better if the same gentle power that controlled the beginning of his life shall continue to influence him to its close.

Did It for a Joke.

A bright faced, cleanly dressed boy kept himself busy for nearly two hours the other day handing out little squares of paper to the pedestrians who passed in front of The Sun building. They were curious bits of paper, a great deal smaller that the average advertising dodger, and the closest scrutiny failed to reveal anything on them. Young ladies would accept them, and after looking at them with puzzled expressions put them in their pocketbooks. Old men took out their spectacles and stopped to examine them closely. Small boys and young men stood in groups holding them to the light and looking through them, and finally put them in their pockets for a future examination. A subsequent investigation elicited the information that two young men, for their own amusement, had paid the boy to distribute blank pieces of paper to passers by.—New York Evening Sun.

The Beggar of Rome.

One picturesque character is generally lacking from the hill top—the beggar. Dirty and charming as he may be, he is relegated to one of the principal Pincio approaches—the Spanish steps and the piazza at their summit, were his progeny—especially the Nettunese from the Campagna, swarm to heart's content. Ah, but isn't he a beauty of a beggar? he or she, but especially he, for the Spanish steps' people are of the beggar upper ten, and take up such a menial occupation only when their regular trade as models becomes slack, or when the only other allowable calling in comport with their dignity becomes unprofitable—that of flower selling. But who, I say, can refuse those great liquid brown eyes of a soldo, even if he doesn't want a bunch of violets, and who anyway can refuse to look at the superb coloring of the campagnese costumes as the models throw themselves into the abandonment of a thousand unstudied postures on the steps.

They are honester, too, this motley crowd, than some who aren't beggars. A little ragamuffin of them who takes a liking to you will often come running up to you with his buttonhole bouquet and, deftly sticking it in, will be off in a jiffy. Astonished indeed you are the first time this extraordinary occurrence takes place. By and by, repeated experiences show you that it is an ebullition of gratitude on the part of little Giulio or Giovanni for sundry coppers which from time to time you've tossed him. He'll be glad of future tossings, too, for begging has no element of disgrace here, but as pay for his free gift—never! Hence, joy and woe to him who, daily passing that way, comes to know and fancy any of the models. His stock of small change somehow will grow beautifully less, but he will revel in the free nature of color and form and gracious manner, which one may find at all times, like wild yet glistering flowers clinging to these sunnled steps.—Rome Cor. Cleveland Leader.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S

EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,

Independence, Cal.

AGENTS WANTED for the MISSOURI STEAM Washer.

Active, honest persons all over the country, with or without team.

JOHN C. EVANS, Southport, Me., writes: "I clear so and often that a Washer never sees hard work and money in a large family then sells Sleigh and Washer to a neighbor who was just on my farm with best team in section in cultivation. If you will get up any instrument that will make as much labor off men as this Washer takes off the women, and save as much money in disease and cost on stoves, I need will see a very busy house. If they had to take the fathers from under their wife and babies to pay for it." JOHN S. DUDLEY, JR., Jeweler, Noble, Ill., writes: "You ask what I think of the Washer I bought last summer. Yet it is the best machine ever invented by man. 24. We have just as good dinners as Mon. as on any other day. 52. If you run short, you can not buy one for a month." I will ship a sample to thos. desiring an agency on a week's trial on liberal terms. A thousand per cent the best selling article in the world for saving labor, clothes and soap. Pays capable agents big money. Write for particulars.

J. W. KITH, 1710 Franklin Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO Extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDIS

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUOR

FLOUR & GRAI

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC

Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

E. CHENOT

Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.

THE GRAND SALOON,

LONE PINE, - CAL.,

RICHARDS & CASTRO

BILLIARD HALL AND PUBLIC RESORT. Offices to keep but the finest quality of Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Friends and patrons generally are invited to call. n584m3*

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad.

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT, and a large

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Notice Of Change Of Text Books.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY THE Board of Education of Inyo county, California, that said Board proposes to change the following text books now in use in the public schools of said county, to wit: Theory and Practice of Teaching, Music, Entomology, Book-keeping, Composition, Penmanship, Industrial Drawing, English and American Literature, Physics, Algebra and Natural History. And that sealed bids or proposals will be received by said Board for furnishing books to replace those mentioned above, or any part of. Said bids or proposals must be accompanied by sample copies of the books proposed to be furnished, together with a statement of the wholesale and retail price at which the publisher agrees to furnish each book, within the county, during the full time for which said books are to be adopted. The publisher or publishers whose proposals shall be accepted must enter into a written contract with said Board, and shall give a good and sufficient bond in a reasonable amount, with sureties, for the faithful performance thereof. Said bids or proposals will be opened by the Board at Independence, Inyo county, Cal., at ten o'clock a. m., on Tuesday, the 9th day of June 1888. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Board of Education of Inyo county.

Attest: J. H. SHANNON, Secretary.
[SEAL.]
Dated April 13, 1888. Bishop Creek, Cal.

EXECUTOR'S SALE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, THAT IN pursuance of an order of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, made on the 19th day of April, 1888, in the matter of the estate of Duncan Campbell, deceased, the undersigned, executors of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, gold coin of the United States, on Thursday, the 10th day of May, 1888, at the late residence of the said deceased, at Big Pine, in said county, the following personal property, to wit: Ten head of horses, more or less, being all the horses belonging to said estate.

NATHAN RHINE,
N. G. GRIGG,
Executors of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased.

Dated April 19, 1888.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1232.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL., Mar. 24th, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on May 19th, 1888, viz: Charles Mulholland for the S ½ of N E ¼, N ½ of S E ¼, sec 14, Tp 14 S, Range 35 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John Shepherd, James E. Shepherd, John Kispert and James R. Moffet, all of Independence, Inyo County, California.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1246.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL., April 27, 1888.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on June 4, 1888, viz: Michael Bush, for the S W ¼ of S E ¼, E ½ of S W ¼ & S E ¼ of N W ¼, Sec 24, Tp 11 S, R 34 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Alonzo McKellons, Andrew J. Wren, James Lane and William R. Tibbetts, all of Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

TAKE SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid instead of weakening the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. L. M. HINTON, M. D., Washington, Ark.

SEE THAT YOU GET THE GENUINE.

PREPARED BY

J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known and popular stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the ponder or ton.

Livery Accommodations

O. F. MARR, Proprietor.

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,

Independence, Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt and furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.

Who Spends Money

For advertising in newspapers in these hard times, without first obtaining an estimate of the cost from GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S Newspaper Advertising Bureau, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York, is likely to pay $10 for what might be obtained for $5. Such estimates are furnished to all applicants gratis. Send 10 cents for 176 page pamphlet with list of newspapers and rates and references.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,

SHINGLES,

SASH AND BLINDS,

LATH,

RUSTIC

MOULDINGS,

DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sep 11 tf

Working Classes A Chance!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5 00 per evening and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer: To such as are not satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEO. STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel.

Indepen e - - Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL

DINING ROOM,

APARTMENTS,

—AND—

—THE BAR—

Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars

Jy 1 86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,

C. MULHOLLAND.

Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

IRVING J. WOODIN, M. D.,

Physician & Surgeon,

(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.

NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.

Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,

COUNTY CLERK,

—AND—

Ex officio Auditor and Recorder,

INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.

W. E. LINDSEY,

—Dealer in—

Gravestones, Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.

—Agent for—

PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.

Virginia Street, Below Second,

Reno, Nevada.

oct 23 tf

AL. GRIFFITH.

HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTING.

GRAINING AND PAPER HANGING.

FINE CARRIAGE PAINTING

FIRST CLASS WORK.

AL. GRIFFITH,

Independence.

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1883

| STATIONS. | From Mound House No. 1 | To Mound House No. 2 |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave | Arrive |
| Mound House | 9 15 a m | 2 8 p m |
| Layton | 9 35 a m | 4 55 p m |
| Wabuska | 1 4 p m | 2 25 p m |
| Hawthorne | 4 00 p m | 10 40 a m |
| Luning | 5 30 p m | 9 20 a m |
| Sodas Springs | 7 0 p m | 8 0 a m |
| Belleville | 8 1 p m | 7 0 a m |
| Candelaria | Arr 8 00 p m | Lv 6 00 a m |
| | No 3 Leave | No 4 Arrive |
| Belleville | 7 3 a m | 8 25 p m |
| Benton | 1 00 p m | 1 45 p m |
| Bishop Creek | 1 100 p m | 11 0 a m |
| Averill | 2 00 p m | 10 5 a m |
| Independence | 2 30 p m | 9 05 a m |
| Long Pine | 4 15 p m | 8 5 a m |
| Keeler | Arr 4 45 p m | Lv 7 0 a m |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (36 miles), Bodie (65 miles), Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mount House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's. tri-weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Dunderville, Grantsville and Belleville.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's stages for Columbia (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

PATENTS ESTABLISHED 1846 MUNN & CO. New York

After Forty years' experience in the preparation of more than One Hundred Thousand applications for patents in the United States and Foreign countries, the publishers of the Scientific American continue to act as solicitors for patents, caveats, trade-marks, copyrights, etc., for the United States and to obtain patents in Canada, England, France, Germany, and all other countries. Their experience is unequaled and their facilities are unsurpassed.

Drawings and specifications prepared and filed in the Patent Office on short notice. Terms very reasonable. No charge for examination of models or drawings. Advice by mail free.

Patents obtained through Munn & Co. are noticed in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has the largest circulation and is the most influential newspaper of its kind published in the world. The advantages of such a notice every patentee understands.

This large and splendidly illustrated newspaper is published WEEKLY at $3.00 a year, and is admitted to be the best paper devoted to science, mechanics, inventions, engineering works and other departments of industrial progress, published in any country. It contains the names of all patentees and title of every invention patented each week. Try it four months for one dollar. Sold by all newsdealers.

If you have an invention to patent write to Munn & Co., publishers of Scientific American, 361 Broadway, New York.

Handbook about patents mailed free.

Wheeler & Wilson

Sewing Machine.

New No. 3.

"THE BEST"

Sales Made on Installment Plan.

Oil Machines Exchanged for Farm Produce Taken in Payment.

This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really

First-Class Machine.

Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.

I. H. MULHOLLAND, Agent.

Independence, Cal.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples,
Pears,
Peaches
& Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,

(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)

Merchant,

INDEPENDENCE

INYO CO., CAL.

Wholesale and Retail

....DEALER IN....

General Merchandise.

MY STOCK

Consisting of most everything in article is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as the past, it will be our aim to the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.

BANKING AND EXCHANGE

NATHAN RHINE,

BANKER,

Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

SELL EXCHANGE ON

SAN FRANCISCO,

NEW YORK,

LONDON, England

BERLIN, FRANKFURT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany.

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING AND Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.

Deutsche Zollmarkten gratis.

Geldsendungen rein und nach Deutschland besorgt.

AGENT FOR

Wells Fargo & Co's Express

MUTUAL

Life Insurance Co.

OF NEW YORK.

Capital - - - $55,000,000

LIVERPOOL

And LONDON and GLOBE

Insurance Company

Capital - - $11,000,000

NATHAN RHINE.

BLACKSMITHING,

Horseshoeing, General Iron

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP

C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

W. F. MATLACK ..... PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing ..... $2 50 for Cash.

For particulars, call and see

W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY JUNE 2 ..... ....1883

Ask Irwin when the game of bean flip is out; he knows.

Mr. and Mrs. Eibeshutz got back from Los Angeles last Tuesday.

Paul Houard and J. J. Stewart were up from Lone Pine last Saturday.

Miss Nellie Craig arrived at Independence from Oakland last Monday.

W. Hedge is better than a week ago, though still very much debilitated.

On the Lewis ranch at Camp Independence alfalfa cutting was begun on last Monday.

Wednesday was a legal holiday and all the public offices and the Courts were closed.

Last Monday the entire business part of the town of Tipton, Tulare county, was destroyed by fire.

Harry Jiggins was up from Keeler and spent a few days in town at the beginning of the week.

Tom Bastian appears to be getting much better. A week ago it seemed that he was beyond recovery.

Parties concerned in school lands may be interested in the delinquent list published in another column.

Mrs. Marshall came up from Keeler at the beginning of the week, and visited with friends some days.

J. H. Shannon, Superintendent of county schools, is suffering from an old gunshot wound in the leg.

Mr. H. Levy talks of putting a new story on the Independence Hotel. The additional room is needed.

George Story was in town last Wednesday. He is working the Pajaro mine up near Warm Springs.

[illegible] daughter of Mr. Jacob Kel- [illegible] arrived here [illegible] ceipts [illegible] Inyo [illegible] ous at [illegible] Treasurer of Alpine [illegible] fell from his horse and [illegible] the Carson river near Genoa last Sunday.

Mr. J. H. Lee came up from Darwin at the beginning of the week. He was quite unwell when he reached here, but is now much better.

Mr. and Mrs. Weichart, Mr. and Mrs. Smale and Mr. M. M Iver came down from Bishop Creek on Tuesday. The party remained in town a day or two.

Letters addressed as follows are at the Independence office unclaimed: O B Bacon, L. Dietz, William Hamilton, S.W. Muger, Joseph McEvoy.

Mr. W. S. Morton, of Black Rock is traveling through the valley with a very fine young horse. Horse breeders should see this animal; he is worth looking at.

Charley Levy has returned to Independence after an absence of about two years. He has taken charge of the dining room department of the Independence Hotel.

During the week gardens around town have been yielding new potatoes. Our good neighbor, Mr. L. Wood, sent a basket of very fine ones to this office a few days ago.

Wrong blanks have been been furnished to some school census Marshals in the county. This may cause some trouble or perhaps make a repetition of the work necessary.

Joel H. Smith, of Bishop Creek, is reported to be dying. Mr. Smith, aged about sixty-four years, is a native of New York. One of his daughters is Mrs. Dormer, of Carson.

Last Saturday Miles Finlan was brought into Court at Virginia City and plead "not guilty" to the charge of murder. Demurrers were offered and overruled, and trial was set July 16th next.

Last Tuesday evening the Independence Brass Band entertained a large audience with a free concert at the Pavilion. Mr. Rosewarne and his pupils were heartily applauded for their fine music.

The following named persons have been admitted to citizenship. Murdock McIver, William Smale, William J. Little. Albert Barter declared his intention to become a citizen and got his first papers.

Every Sunday afternoon a free concert will be given by the Silver Cornet Band at Agricultural Hall, to which the public is invited to attend. At all practice nights during the week the doors will be closed.

A picked eleven of Independence are open for an engagement to play any other eleven in the county a game of football. Said game to be played at Independence July Fourth; stake, $50 a side.

Last Monday evening a terrible storm of wind, accompanied by hail, lightning and thunder, swept over Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Some persons were killed and much damage was done to property.

The I. B. B. will give a social in J. J. Gunn's new building on Friday evening next. The band has been to considerable expense in sending for new uniforms to make a good appearance on the Fourth. Turn out and give the boys liberal support and enjoy yourselves at the same time. Good music will be furnished.

Last Monday Judge Sawyer got notice that the United States Supreme Court had confirmed his decision in dismissing the action begun by the Southern Development Company of Nevada against Frank Silva, to recover money paid for the Sterling mine near Darwin.

Mr. W. Horton, of Round Valley, arrived in town on Tuesday on his way to Los Angeles. He rested a day and then went on his way. He is driving a nice team, and though nearly eighty years old appears to find as much pleasure in the trip as a boy. He intends to stay some months in Los Angeles.

Hymeneal

ROBERTS—THOMSEN—At Camp Independence, May 30 1 88, by Hon. John A. Hannah, Mr. W. D. Roberts and Miss Minnie Thomsen.

On the morning of the 30th inst., at the early hour of 7 o'clock, the invited friends of Miss Minnie Thomsen and W. D. Roberts assembled at the residence of the bride's parents to witness their nuptial ceremony. At or near the appointed hour the handsome bride and groom filed up to the nuptial stand, followed by Wallace Miller and Miss Lena Thomsen, who acted as groomsman and bridesmaid. The ceremony was performed by Judge Hannah in a solemn and impressive manner, after which the company—especially the gents—indulged in the ceremony of kissing the bride, in which the gifted author participated largely.

The bride was elegantly and tastefully dressed in white silk, lace and bridal wreath; the bridesmaid was also tastefully dressed in white mull and other—to the writer—incomprehensible feminine appendages. The company next proceeded to the dining hall, where an elegant and substantial breakfast was spread, which, by the way, was well filled with guests. The table fairly groaned with the good things thereon spread; to which ample justice was done by the appreciative company. The friends of the happy couple were profuse in their expressions of good will, and wishes for future happiness, interspersed with, now and then, a fervent "God bless you."

The following is a partial list of the marks of esteem presented the estimable couple by their friends: Debbie Jones, doz. teaspoons; Lottie Jones, two silver sugar spoons and butter knife; bridegroom to bride, gold bracelets; P. W. Forbes, set of glassware; Mr. and Mrs. Thomsen, glass lemonade set; Miss M. Conklin, glass tea set; Ms. and Mrs. Matlack, glass berry set; H. P. Cartier, glass dinner set; Miss Annie Thomsen, glass cake stand; Henry and Bert Rhine, hanging lamp; Lena Thomsen, plush table scarf; Carl Walters, glass vases; Mrs. Brown, glass berry set and half dozen silver knives.

The happy couple started immediately for their home in Round Valley followed by renewed expressions of good will and regard, where a life of happiness doubtless awaits them.

While the dress of the bride and bridesmaid alone is mentioned I here take occasion to say that the remainder of the company were becomingly attired.

NEXT.

Must Hang

The lawyer engaged to defend Goldenson, the brutal murderer of little Mamie Kelly, in San Francisco, asked for a postponement of the trial on the ground that he was engaged on another case and could not attend the trial of Goldenson at the time fixed by the Court. It was shown that the lawyer had engaged in the other case after he had been employed to defend him, and the Court refused to postpone on that ground; another lawyer was engaged, but it was shown that he was a member of the Legislature, which would be in session at the time set for trial. Again the Court refused to grant a postponement; counsel was appointed to defend Goldenson and the trial proceeded; a verdict of "guilty" was given and the murderer was duly sentenced to be hanged. An appeal was taken to the Supreme Court because the postponements were not granted. The Court has decided that Judge Murphy was right in not granting the postponements, and now Goldenson must hang. If all Judges will refuse to grant the pettifogging motions of tricky attorneys, as Judge Murphy has refused, and will compel criminals to go to trial promptly, there will be fewer complaints of failure of justice. There will also be fewer murders and fewer lynchings, and greater respect for law.

Hurt While Sleeping.

Last Wednesday afternoon Mr. J. C. Irwin dropped asleep after dinner, and on awaking was conscious of a disagreeable sensation in his upper lip. The lip began to swell but was not painful enough to induce him to have anything done for it. Swelling increased till the whole face and neck were greatly enlarged. Pain set in. Dr. Mrs. Woodin was called, who applied such remedies as afforded relief. A feeling of numbness pervaded down to the feet of the patient, and he was very tremulous. A very small sore spot on the lip leaded to the belief that Mr. Irwin was stung or bitten by some poisonous insect while he slept. He is still confined to his room.

Rev. Doctor Newman has been elected a Bishop of the M. E. Church. He was the pastor of Grant while the latter was President, and his intimate friend till death parted them.

Fred Holbert is breaking "Young Hero," a fine three year-old stallion belonging to John Dodge, of Lone Pine. He is a well built, exceptionally well muscled animal, and as good an all purpose horse as there is in the valley.

John Nelson has filed suit at San Francisco against Mackey, Flood, Jones et al. It is claimed that Plaintiff and other stockholders of the Comstock mines have been defrauded by defendants out of vast sums of money by exorbitant charges for milling ore and for the sale of bullion.

The Bridgeport Chronicle-Union was in error when it stated that Mr. Mark Watterson would contest the payment of sheep license in Inyo county. Mr. Watterson has fully carried out his arrangement with the Tax Collector of Inyo and has paid the whole amount asked.

This spring at his place at Georges Creek Mr. W. L. Hunter planted about 225,000 locust tree seeds. The young trees are coming along well, and from present appearance most, if not all of them will live and grow. Next spring the trees will be ready for transplanting. At one cent each the crop would be worth $2,225. There will be plenty of demand for them at that price, or even more.

Another Fourth of July meeting was held at the Norman House on Wednesday evening. The Finance Committee made a very good report of their proceedings so far. Enough funds are already secured to warrant the Committee on programme to prepare for a fine celebration. Two members were added to the Finance Committee; Mr. S. A. Densmore for Camp Independence and Mr. J. E. Shepherd for Georges Creek. Another meeting will be held at the same place next Thursday evening. Everybody requested to attend.

Some time ago C. C. Mills, then a resident near Bishop Creek, applied for a pension. Since then he died and an application was made on behalf of his widow. Last Monday Mr. F. A. Fletcher, of San Francisco came here to look after the case. Mr. Fletcher is government agent to attend to such matters. He has made the necessary investigation and will report to Washington, and the nature of his report will determine whether or nor the pension shall be granted.

The Irrigation Bill.

[Special to the INYO INDEPENDENT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31, 1888—The Supreme Court decided to-day the case of Turlock Irrigation District against Williams. It says: "The act under discussion, the Wright Irrigation Bill, in all respects complies with the various provisions of the State Constitution. We therefore advise that the demurrer to the answer be sustained and defendants commanded to sign the bonds by peremptory writ of mandate."

Now that the Wright Bill has been declared constitutional the Directors of our local Irrigation District can issue bonds and put them on the market. There is nothing to prevent this, unless the legality of the elections already had should be attacked in Court. In that case a writ of prohibition might be asked for, restraining the Directors from issuing the bonds till the legality of the elections could be established. If the elections should be declared valid the expenses now incurred, or that in the future may be incurred by the Directors for salaries, counsel fees, or other legal purposes, would be a charge against the property in the District; and would be recoverable the same as other taxes. Whether the bonds should or should not be sold, or whether the canal should be built or not be built, would not change the result. Now that the law is declared constitutional it is certain that several large canals will be built, adding immensely to the wealth and population of the State.

General Sheridan is very ill. Last Monday it was telegraphed from the East that he was dead, but this was quickly contradicted and proved to be untrue. At last reports he was improving a little but his condition was still regarded as quite serious.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

EXECUTORS' NOTICE

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE County of Inyo, State of California.

In the matter of the Estate of John R. Hughes deceased.

John W. P. Laird and W. L. Hunter having filed in this Court their petition duly verified, praying for an order to lease certain real estate of said decedent: It is therefore ordered by said Court that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased, appear before the said Superior Court on Monday, the 18th day of June, 1888, at ten o'clock a. m. of said day at the Courtroom of said Superior Court, at the Courthouse, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said executors to lease the following described real property, to wit: That certain mill or mining claim situate, lying and being in the Cerro Gordo Mining District, County of Inyo, State of California, and commonly known and designated as the Wedekint Mine, for the period of one year at the rental of ten per cent. of the gross proceeds of all ores extracted from said mine, all of which more fully appears in the said petition now on file, and to which reference is hereby made, for further particulars; and that a copy of this order be published for at least two successive weeks in the Inyo Independent a newspaper of general circulation published in said Inyo county.

JOHN A. HANNAH
Dated May 31 1888. Superior Judge.

List of Delinquent Purchasers of School Lands in Inyo County - Showing the Amount Due January 1st, 1889.

| NAME OF PURCHASER. | NO. | DATE OF APPROVAL. | NO. | DESCRIPTION. | SECT. | TOWN-SHIP. | RANGE. | NO. ACRES. | DATE OF PURCHASE. | AMOUNT OF PRINCIPAL PAID. | AMOUNT OF PRINCIPAL UNPAID. | AMOUNT OF INTEREST PAID. | AMOUNT OF INTEREST DUE JAN. 1ST, 1889. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Livingston, Archd. | 18 | March 30, 1874. | 160 | S. E. ¼ | 36 | 18 S. | 36 E. | 160.00 | 5848 May 4, 1874. | 40.00 | 160.00 | 12.05 | 224.00 |
| Modie, S. W. | 171 | Nov. 28, 1877. | 320 | W. ½ | 16 | 15 S. | 36 E. | 320.00 | 7428 Jan. 8, 1878. | 80.00 | 320.00 | 290.85 | 64.00 |
| Hughes, Thomas | 345 | Oct. 14, 1881. | 160 | E. ½ of N. W. ¼ E. ½ of S. W. ¼ | 36 | 15 S. | 33 E. | 160.00 | 8214 Jan. 9, 1882. | 40.00 | 160.00 | 58.37 | 22.40 |
| Williams, Benjamin | 407 | Sept. 22, 1885. | 40 | S. W. ¼ of N. W. ¼ | 16 | 15 S. | 31 E. | 40.00 | 9739 Nov. 5, 1885. | 10.00 | 40.00 | 7.77 | 8.40 |
| Sanger, Gustave | 425 | June 15, 1886. | 320 | W. ½ | 36 | 15 S. | 34 E. | 320.00 | 10151 July 29, 1886. | 80.00 | 320.00 | 12.20 | 44.80 |

THEO. REICHERT, Register State Land Office.

The said Archd. Livingston, S. W. Modie, Thomas Hughes, Benjamin Williams, and Gustave Sanger, the delinquent purchasers above named, and each of them, are hereby notified, that if the amount due as above stated is not paid within fifty days after the date of this notice I will commence suit to foreclose the interest of said purchasers in the lands above described.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney.

Dated June 2nd, 1888.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13 h
" .....November 17th
" .....ecember 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge, No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

THOS CROUGH. W. T. GRANT

GRANT & CROUGH. Real Estate & Mining Agency.

INDEPENDENCE - - - - CAL.

Searchers of Titles and Furnishers of Abstracts. After a business experience of twenty years in the county we are prepared to furnish all information of value to purchasers of real estate and mining properties. Reports furnished and all correspondence reliable and confidential. GRANT & CROUGH.

J. W. P. LAIRD, Attorney for the Firm.

FINAL HOMESTEAD PROOF.

H. A. No. 526.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL. May 12th, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on June 25, 1888, viz: Henry Detels for the S ½ of N W ¼ and N E ¼ of S W ¼ of Sec. 34. Tp. 13 S. R 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: John W. Symmes, John Shepherd, John Strohmeyer and Fred Albers, all of Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
a23-6t Register.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.

Excellent Cardinal or Drab

SATEEN CORSETS, 44 cts.

By mail 11c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered bust, finished with pretty lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.

More Important Still

Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Men's Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.

WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.
400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.
SACRAMENTO, CAL.

James Hillyer,

CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

Plans, Specifications

And Estimates of all kinds of buildings

Furnished.

All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.

JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS,

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELLER,
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Palman Palace Car works at Chicago.

TO ADVERTISERS

A list of 1000 newspapers divided into "TATE-A-D ECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.

To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium or thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List. GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce Street, New York.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 176 page pamphlet. Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S. NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

INDEPENDENCE, April 30, 1888.

During my absence from this County and State Mr. Nathan Rhine is authorized to act as my agent. HENRY FEHRMAN

THIS PAPER IS ON FILE

—AT—

PALMER & REY'S
ADVERTISING BUREAU!
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco.

—AND AT—

PALMER & REY'S
Pacific States Advertising Bureau
46 Tribune Building,
NEW YORK.
Where Advertising Contracts can be made.

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City.
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NORMAN HOUSE,

Independence, - - Cal.

New House,
New Furniture,
Low Rates.

☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

C. I. MAINS, Prop.
feb12tf

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,

Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,

District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,

County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,

Attorney-at-Law.
Independence, Cal.

Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

INDEPENDENCE

SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair-Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

PIONEER BREWERY.

INDEPENDENCE

PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C.E.

COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

BISHOP CREEK BREWERY,

MUNZINGER', PHILLIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜
☞ Of the C. & C. Railroad. ☜

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

Boot & Shoe Shop,

A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK
Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.
JOHN CLARKE, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. ☞ 256 pages, 8½x11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations — a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR SALE.

813 acres of land within one mile of railroad. As fine land for fruit, vineyard, vegetables or alfalfa as there is in the State. All with perfect water right. Will cut up to suit purchasers.

520 acres two miles from railroad. 80 or 90 inches of water. A fine locality. Good stock range. 160 acres fine barley land.

A fine dairy ranch, consisting of 480 acres suitably located for market, with 150 head of cattle 45 of them No 1 dairy cows. Perfect titles to land and water. Improvements on all. Apply to

Grant & Crough,
Independence, Cal.

Richly REWARDED are those who read this and then act; they will find honorable employment that will not take them from their homes and families. The profits are large and sure for an industrious person, many have made and are now making several hundred dollars a month. It is easy for anyone to make $5 and upwards per day, who is willing to work. Either sex, young or old; capital not needed; we start you. Everything new; no special ability required; you reader, can do it as well as any one. Write to us at once for full particulars, which we mail free. Address Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

115 CLAY STREET, 117
SMITH'S STORE
The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.
CASH
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

INDEPENDENCE MARKET,

J. Roeper, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18-tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Fullest very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may marry, who not, why. Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, in toto. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read. Best book ever published. DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

TUTT'S PILLS

25 YEARS IN USE.
The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age.

SYMPTOMS OF A TORPID LIVER.

Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine, and CONSTIPATION.

TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer. They increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 44 Murray St., N.Y.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.

GRAY HAIR or WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1. Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

FRED BURCKHARDT

Watchmaker & Jeweler,
LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

☞ All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,
Bishop Creek, Cal.,

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clarke's.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles

OF

Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc

AT

L. WOOD'S

CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH S ORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:
HAWTHORNE NEV.
BRANCHES
Wabuska, Nev.,
CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.
AGENCIES:
WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

au25tf

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer in
GENERAL
MERCHANDISE,
GROCERIES
MINERS
Supplies

PROVISIONS,

&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

FREE TRIAL PACKAGE. FOR MEN ONLY.

PROF. HARRIS' Pastille
A RADICAL CURE FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY, Organic Weakness, & PHYSICAL DECAY, In Young & Middle Aged Men.

NERVOUS DEBILITY, ORGANIC WEAKNESS, Decay, and numerous obscure diseases, baffling the skilled physicians, result from youthful indiscretion, too free indulgence, or over brain work. Avoid the imposition of pretentious remedies for these troubles. Get our Free Circular and Trial Package, and learn important facts before taking treatment elsewhere. Take a SURE REMEDY that HAS CURED thousands, does not interfere with attention to business, or cause pain or inconvenience in any way. Founded on scientific medical principles. By direct application to the seat of disease its specific influence is felt without delay. The natural functions of the human organism is restored. The animating elements of life, which have been wasted are given back, and the patient becomes cheerful and rapidly gains both strength and sexual vigor.

AVITAL RESTORER

TESTED FOR SEVEN YEARS BY USE IN MANY THOUSAND CASES.

TREATMENT.
One Month, - $2.00
Two Months, - 3.00
Three Months, 7.00

HARRIS REMEDY CO., Sole Proprietors
506½ N. Tenth St., ST. LOUIS, MO.
UPCURED PERSONS! Not a Truss. Ask for terms of our Appliance.
ENVELOPE TRIAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.
Bee Keeper.
Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.
Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

RIGHT HERE IN CALIFORNIA.

What Your Friends and Neighbors Say on a Matter of Vital Importance.

Below will be found a sample of the multitude of letters of encouragement Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co., of Rochester, N. Y., daily receive. The subjoined unsolicited testimonials are from your friends and neighbors, ladies and gentlemen you know and esteem for their honor and straightforwardness, and who would scorn to be a party to any deception. What has been done for others can be done for you, and it is folly, nay suicidal, to longer suffer when the means of recovery lie at your very door:

OAKLAND, Cal., (Attorney-at-Law, 957 Broadway,) Dec. 20, 1887.—I have long used "Warner's Safe Cure" with good results, and am now using the same.

H. L. Adams

YOLO, Cal., Dec. 12, 1887.—My wife is using "Warner's Safe Cure" and says that it is doing her good.

Charles F. Brower

ALVISO, Cal., Jan. 6, 1888.—I use "Warner's Safe Cure" to keep well. I think it is a good medicine.

M. P. Caswell

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., (723 Market Street) Dec. 10, 1887.—We consider "Warner's Safe Remedies" valuable and would not be without them.

Harry B. Huntly

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., (621 Montgomery Street), Dec. 10, 1887.—I find "Warner's Safe Remedies" all that we could desire.

William R. Nelson

BALL'S FERRY, Cal., Jan. 4, 1888.—I am using "Warner's Safe Cure" for disease of the Kidneys and it is doing me good.

Edwin L. Larry

DANVILLE, Cal., (Real Estate and Business Agent) Dec. 8, 1887.—I have used some of "Warner's Safe Cure" and believe it to be a good remedy when faithfully used.

L. A. Shirey

CALPELLA, Cal., Jan. 13, 1888.—I am happy to state that I have used "Warner's Safe Cure" and "Warner's Safe Pills" with the best results possible for deranged Kidneys and Liver. I continue to use "Warner's Safe Cure" although I feel well.

Edwin E. Webster

JACKSON, Cal., Sept. 28, 1887.—Last December one of my boys, aged 3½ years, was troubled with what seemed to be a bad cold. He grew worse and I called a doctor who called it Dropsy and began to treat my child for it. He continued to grow worse and I got another doctor who analized his urine and pronounced it Bright's Disease in a bad form. All the doctors said my boy would die, and he looked as if he surely would. I began to give my boy "Warner's Safe Cure" without saying anything to the doctors. In three days his urine showed a change, and an analysis made three weeks later indicated a perfect condition of his urine. Every doctor who heard of his case said that he would die sure, but he took "Warner's Safe Cure" and is alive, if not well, which is more than could have been said if the doctors had been left to stuff him.

W. F. Vela

WEST BUTTE, Cal., Dec. 28, 1887.—My daughter has taken "Warner's Safe Cure" and received great benefit therefrom. I am never without it in my house.

Kate Ward

Somebody asked Mrs. O'Brallaghan the meaning of "posthumous works." "Sure, thin, an' it's meself that knows; sure, they're the books a man writes after he's dead."

"I do love a liar," observed Mrs. Grapp, after her husband had been telling her why he was detained at the office. Mr. Grapp simply answered "Egotist," and now they eat their meals in silence.

THEY TOOK IN THE TOWN.

Likewise Fifteen Thousand Dollars.

In the list of arrivals of distinguished people from the North last week at the St. Charles Hotel appears the names of Frank B. Godard and M. F. Mock. These gentlemen who hall from the ice-bound region of East Saginaw, Mich., paid their maiden visit to the Crescent City under circumstances peculiarly interesting and agreeable to themselves. Indeed, it is questionable whether the pleasure of their visit could have been expected at all had the motive power been other than what it was—viz: The Louisiana State Lottery.

To the revolutions of the wheels in the monthly drawings of this great corporation is directed the eager attention of hundreds of thousands of people in all parts of the United States, and the publication of drawn prizes is a signal for departure from many big cities and little towns of men and women whose objective point is New Orleans with expenses prepaid.

When they get here they all appear to be glad they came, for the climate is balmy, flowers are fragrant, strawberries toothsome, and the cash of The Louisiana State Lottery Company acceptable.

Messrs. Godard and Mock were among the last band of pilgrims to this Mecca of the fortune hunter. Both were interested in the fractional part of ticket 51,570, which, Tuesday March 13th, drew the first capital prize of $300,000, and they divided $15,000 between themselves. Both are identified with the business of East Saginaw, Mr. Godard being a dealer in wines and liquors, while Mr. Mock is an engineer on the Flint and Pere Marquette Railroad.

Michigan can now justly claim to be champion State prize winner in The Louisiana State Lottery. Within the past year and a half Muskegon, through Chas. J. Herrmann and Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Campbell, has personally represented collected capital prizes, while Detroit, Grand Rapids and other points have drawn through banks and express companies. Messrs. Godard and Mock left for home last Wednesday, thoroughly satisfied with their visit to the land of fortune and flowers.—New Orleans (La.) Picayune, March 24.

ABOUT LOVE-LETTERS.

No Man or Woman in Love Who Has Not Written Them.

The writing of love letters began at a very early period of the world's history. We can not bring documentary evidence to prove just where or how it begun, or who started it, for history is hazy when we undertake to get at the facts, away back near the time of the primal pair; but inasmuch as love was included in the original outfit of the human family, it must have been talked in Eden, and inasmuch as writing is merely talking at long range, it follows—the conclusion, we submit, is inevitable—that love letters passed between the first pair of lovers that happened to be separated after the invention of writing.

If Adam and Eve had known how to write and could have guessed how much pleasure they could find in the new sensation, we have no doubt they would have parted from each other a few days just to indulge in epistolary communication. True, there was no general post-office, no fast mails, no carrier system, no green stamps in their time, but they might have left their letters, as millions of their descendants have done, in a hollow tree—an apple tree, for instance—or under some loose stone on top of the garden wall. What a relief from ennui they would have found in such an exchange of vows and compliments and tender nothings.

Why is it that the publication of love letters in courts of law or in the newspapers sends a snicker across the continent? Why do people, old and young, and of all sorts and condition, rush in crowds to the courts and almost travel over each other's heads to hear love-letters read and then go home and laugh at them as if they had found something unique in the way of fun? Why do grave men and sober women skip all the sensible reading in a newspaper if it happens to contain a love letter, and, having read that, laugh at it as if it were the latest and best of Gilbert's operatic jokes? Ten to one if all the old trunks in all the old garrets were called to give up their treasures they would convict these grave men and sober women of just such "silliness," if they please to call it so, as that which excites their risibles. No man or woman was ever thoroughly in love—and not to have been there, we are informed, is to have missed some happiness, at least—who didn't say and do "silly" things. Why, then, does every body feel such an irresistible inclination to poke fun at the manuscript love-making of an unfortunate whose letters get into the courts and papers? It is a mystery we shall not attempt to explain.

There is one phase of this general subject that seems to call for special mention, to-wit: the intensity that an aged swain puts into long range courtship and the peculiar zest with which other aged parties get their full of fun out of his written caresses. There is nothing new in the torridity of an old man's love, provided its object be a damsel of tender years. If we had the social statistics of the Patriarchs—and we regret our inability to cite them on this occasion—we would prove that December has always been falling in love with May. And if mathematical formula were applicable to a matter of this kind, we could demonstrate that the heat of an old man's love for a young woman is in the ratio of the square of his distance from her in years. Why make fun of a universal trait?—Washington Post.

ETHICS OF LAWYERS.

What Professor Dwight Has to Say on This Interesting Subject.

It is quite a common thing, particularly among the unlearned and unthinking portion of the community, that the main business of the lawyer is to prevaricate and deceive. If this were true at all it would only apply to a very small part of the profession, who are engaged in advocacy before juries. The great mass of lawyers are not occupied in that way, but in matters of business affecting their clients, where there is no room for deception. Nor is it applicable even to advocates, except in very special instances. It is not the peculiarity of the legal profession alone to have bad and unworthy practitioners, for similar flings will be made at physicians and clergymen. But no sensible man forms a judgment as to an entire profession by simply regarding men of exceptionally bad character. It may be said with confidence that as a rule there is no class of men more sensible to ethical obligation than the best members of the bar, and the abler lawyer a man is the more sensitive he is in general in that respect. Of course the lawyer is bound in the great principles of ethics in the same way as every other man; he has no right to sacrifice them to oblige or help a client. Fortunately, it is very seldom necessary for a lawyer to put himself to the test in this respect. In most instances wrongful acts in this direction are not only immoral, but inexpedient and impolitic. And this is patent to every man of good judgment. The confidence of a judge and jury in the honor of an advocate is his stock in trade, and a man of sense would be no more willing to sacrifice it than he would to cast the most precious items of his property into the ocean. The outcry against lawyers in this respect is, for the most part, senseless, for the very men who make it will, in times of difficulty, trust their lawyer with their most precious secrets believing that he would not disclose them, and with their most valued treasures, believing he will not waste and abuse them. No lawyer is ever justified in deceiving either the jury or the court, and no man of sense will ever try to deceive him.—From an Interview with Prof. Dwight.

A Happy Thought.

Creditor—Brown, you told me three months ago that you would come to my office and settle up your account.

Debtor—I know I did, but it occurred to me that the office should seek the man, not the man the office.—New York Sun.

The Effect on the Patient.

Young Physician (pompously)—Yes, I've called at Mr. Brown's three times a day for a week. He is a very sick man, Miss Smith.

Miss Smith—He must be by this time.—The Epoch.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

As for Umslopogaas, we know how he was armed—with an ax. It may be remembered that he, Sir Henry, and the strongest of the Askari were to hold the thorn stopped entrance to the kraal against the anticipated rush of men striving to escape. Of course, for such a purpose as this guns were useless. Therefore Sir Henry and the Askari proceeded to arm themselves in like fashion. It so happened that Mr. Mackenzie had in his little store a selection of the very best steel English made hammer backed ax heads. Sir Henry selected one of these, weighing about two and a half pounds and very broad in the blade, and the Askari took another a size smaller. After Umslopogaas had put an extra edge on these two ax heads, we fixed them to three feet six helves, of which Mr. Mackenzie fortunately had some in stock, made of a light but exceedingly tough native wood, something like English ash, only more springy. When two suitable helves had been selected with great care, and the end of the haft notched to prevent the hand from slipping, the ax heads were fixed on them as firmly as possible, and the weapons immersed in a bucket of water for half an hour. The result of this was to swell the wood in the socket in such a fashion that nothing short of burning would get it out again. When this important matter had been attended to by Umslopogaas, I went into my room and proceeded to open a little tin lined deal case, which had not been undone since we left England, and which contained—what do you think?—nothing more or less than four mail shirts.

It seems almost laughable to talk of steel shirts in these days of bullets, against which they are, of course, quite useless; but where one has to do with savages, armed with cutting weapons such as assegais or battle-axes, they afford the most valuable protection, being, if well made, quite invulnerable to them. I have often thought that if only the English government had in our savage wars, and more especially in the Zulu war, thought fit to serve out light steel shirts, there would be many a man alive today who, as it is, is dead and forgotten.

To return: on the present occasion we blessed our foresight in bringing these shirts, and also our good luck in that they had not been stolen by our rascally bearers when they ran away with our goods. As Curtis had two, and, after considerable deliberation, had made up his mind to wear his combination one himself—the extra three or four pounds' weight being a matter of no account to so strong a man, and the protection afforded to the thighs being a very important matter to an individual not armed with a shield of any kind—I suggested that he should lend the other to Umslopogaas, who was to share the danger and the glory of his post. He readily consented, and called the Zulu, who came bearing Sir Henry's ax, which he had now fixed up to his satisfaction, with him. When we showed him the steel shirt, and explained to him that we wanted him to wear it, he at first declined, saying that he had fought in his own skin for thirty years, and that he was not going to begin now to fight in an iron one. Thereupon I took a heavy spear, and spreading the shirt upon the floor, drove the spear down upon it with all my strength, the weapon rebounding without leaving a mark upon the tempered steel. This exhibition half converted him; and when I pointed out to him how necessary it was that he should not let any old fashioned prejudices he might possess stand in the way of a precaution which might preserve a valuable life at a time when men were scarce, and also that if he wore this shirt he might dispense with a shield, and so have both hands free, he yielded at once, and proceeded to invest his great frame with the "iron skin." And indeed, although made for Sir Henry, it fitted the great Zulu like a skin. The two men were almost of a height; and though Curtis looked the bigger man, I am inclined to think that the difference was more imaginary than real, the fact being that, although he was plumper and rounder, he was not really bigger, except in the arm. Umslopogaas had, comparatively speaking, thin arms, but they were as strong as wire ropes. At any rate, when they both stood, ax in hand, invested in the brown mail which clung to their mighty forms like a web garment, showing the swell of every muscle and the curve of every line, they formed a pair that any ten men might shrink from meeting.

It was now nearly 1 o'clock in the morning, and the spies reported that, after having drunk the blood of the oxen and eaten enormous quantities of meat, the Masai were going to sleep round their watch fires, but that sentries had been posted at each opening of the kraal. Flossie, they added, was sitting not far from the wall in the center of the western side of the kraal, and by her were the nurse and the white donkey, which was tethered to a peg. Her feet were bound with a rope, and warriors were lying about all round her.

As there was absolutely nothing further that could be done then we all took some supper and went to lie down for a couple of hours.

The bed whereon I lay was near an open window that looked on to the veranda, through which came an extraordinary sound of groaning and weeping. For a time I could not make out what it was, but at last I got up, and putting my head out of the window stared about. Presently I saw a dim figure kneeling on the end of the veranda and beating his breast—in which I recognized Alphonse. Not being able to understand his French talk, or what on earth he was at, I called to him and asked him what he was doing.

"Ah, monsieur," he sighed, "I do make prayer for the souls of those whom I shall slay to-night."

"Indeed," I said; "then I wish that you would do it a little more quietly."

Alphonse retreated, and I heard no more of his groans. And so the time passed, till at length Mr. Mackenzie called me in a whisper through the window, for of course everything had now to be done in the most absolute silence. "Three o'clock," he said; "we must begin to move at half past."

I told him to come in, and presently he entered, and I am bound to say that if it had not been that just then I had not got a laugh anywhere about me, I should have exploded at the sight he presented armed for battle. To begin with, he had on a clergyman's black swallow tail and a kind of broad rimmed black felt hat, both of which he had donned on account, he said, of their dark color. In his hand was the Winchester repeating rifle we had lent him; and stuck in an elastic cricketing belt, like those worn by English boys, were, first, a huge buckhorn handled carving knife with a guard to it, and next a long barreled Colt's revolver.

"Ah, my friend," he said, seeing me staring at his belt, "you are looking at my 'carver.' I thought it might come in handy if we came to close quarters; it is excellent steel, and many is the pig I have killed with it."

By this time everybody was up and dressing. I put on a light Norfolk jacket over my mail shirt, in order to have a pocket handy to hold my cartridges, and buckled on my revolver. Good did the same; but Sir Henry put on nothing except his mail shirt, steel lined cap and a pair of "veldtschoons" or soft hide shoes, his legs being bare from the knees down. His revolver he strapped on round his middle outside the armored shirt.

Meanwhile Umslopogaas was mustering the men in the square under the big tree, and going the rounds to see that each was properly armed, etc. At the last moment we made one change. Finding that two of the men who were to have gone with the firing parties knew little or nothing of guns, but were good spearsmen, we took away their rifles, supplied them with shields and long spears of the Masai pattern, and told them off to join Curtis, Umslopogaas and the Askari in holding the wide opening—it having become clear to us that three men, however brave and strong, were too few for the work.

CHAPTER VII.

A SLAUGHTER GRIM AND GREAT.

Then came a pause, and we stood there in the chilly, silent darkness waiting till the moment came to start. It was, perhaps, the most trying time of all—that slow, slow quarter of an hour. The minutes seemed to drag along with leaden feet, and the quiet, the solemn hush, that brooded over all—big, as it were, with a coming fate—was most oppressive to the spirits.

The moon went down; for a long while she had been getting nearer and nearer to the horizon, now she finally sank, and left the world in darkness save for a faint gray tinge in the eastern sky that palely heralded the coming dawn.

Mr. Mackenzie stood, watch in hand, his wife clinging to his arm and striving to stiffle her sobs.

"Twenty minutes to four," he said; "it ought to be light enough to attack at twenty minutes past four. Capt. Good had better be moving; he will want three or four minutes' start."

Good gave one final polish to his eyeglass, nodded to us in a jocular sort of way—which I could not help feeling it must have cost him something to muster up—and, ever polite, took off his steel lined cap to Mrs. Mackenzie, and started for his position at the head of the kraal, to reach which he had to make a detour by some paths known to the natives.

Just then one of the boys came in and reported that everybody in the Masai camp with the exception of the two sentries who were walking up and down in front of the respective entrances, appeared to be fast asleep. Then the rest of us took the road. First came the guide, then Sir Henry, Umslopogaas, the Wakwafi Askari and Mr. Mackenzie's two mission natives, armed with long spears and shields. I followed immediately after with Alphonse and five natives, all armed with guns, and Mr. Mackenzie brought up the rear with the six remaining natives.

The cattle kraal where the Masai were camped lay at the foot of the hill on which the house stood, or, roughly speaking, about 350 yards from the mission buildings. The first 500 yards of this distance we traversed quietly indeed, but at a good pace; after that we crept forward as silently as a leopard on his prey, gliding like ghosts from bush to bush and stone to stone. When I had gone a little way I chanced to look behind me, and saw the redoubtable Alphonse staggering along with white face and trembling knees, and his rifle, which was at full cock, pointed directly at the small of my back. Having halted, and carefully put the rifle at "safety," we started again, and all went well till we were within 100 yards or so of the kraal, when his teeth began to chatter in the most aggressive way.

"If you don't stop that, I will kill you," I whispered, savagely; for the idea of having all our lives sacrificed to a tooth chattering cook was too much for me. I began to fear that he would betray us, and heartily wished we had left him behind.

"But, monsieur, I cannot help it," he answered; "it is the cold."

Here was a dilemma; but fortunately I devised a plan. In the pocket of the coat I had on was a small piece of dirty rag that I had used some time before to clean a gun with. "Put this in your mouth," I whispered again, giving him the rag; "and if I hear another sound you are a dead man." I knew that that would stifle the clatter of his teeth. I must have looked as if I meant what I said, for he instantly obeyed me and continued his journey in silence.

Then we crept on again.

At last we were within fifty yards of the kraal. Between us and it was an open space of sloping grass, with only one mimosa bush and a couple of tussocks of a sort of thistle for cover. We were still hidden in fairly thick bush. It was beginning to grow light. The stars had paled and a sickly gleam played about the east and was reflected on the earth. We could see the outline of the kraal clearly enough, and could also make out the faint glimmer of the dying embers of the Masai camp fires. We halted and watched for the sentry we knew was posted at the opening. Presently he appeared, a fine tall fellow, walking idly up and down within five paces of the thorn stopped entrance. We had hoped to catch him napping, but it was not to be. He seemed particularly wide awake. If we could not kill that man, and kill him silently, we were lost. There we crouched and watched him. Presently Umslopogaas, who was a few paces ahead of me, turned and made a sign, and next second I saw him go down on his stomach like a snake and, taking an opportunity when the sentry's head was turned, begin to work his way through the grass without a sound.

The unconscious sentry commenced to hum a little tune, and Umslopogaas crept on. He reached the shelter of the mimosa bush unperceived, and there waited. Still the sentry walked up and down. Presently he turned and looked over the wall into the camp. Instantly the human snake who was stalking him glided on ten yards and got behind one of the tussocks of the thistle like plant, reaching it as the Elmoran turned again. As he turned his eye fell upon this patch of thistles, and it seemed to strike him that it did not look quite right. He advanced a pace towards it—halted, yawned, stooped down, picked up a little pebble and threw it at it. It hit Umslopogaas upon the head, luckily not upon the armor shirt. Had it done so the clink would have betrayed us. Luckily, too, the shirt was browned and not bright steel, which would certainly have been detected. Apparently satisfied that there was nothing wrong, he then gave over his investigations and contented himself with leaning on his spear and standing gazing idly at the tuft. For at least three minutes did he stand thus, plunged apparently in a gentle reverie, and there we lay in the last extremity of anxiety, expecting every moment that we should be discovered or that some untoward accident would happen. I could hear Alphonse's teeth going like anything on the oiled rag, and turning my head round made an awful face at him. But I am bound to state that my own heart was at much the same game as the Frenchman's castanets, while the perspiration was pouring from my body, causing the wash leather lined shirt to stick to me unpleasantly, and altogether I was in the pitiable state known by schoolboys as a "blue funk."

At last the ordeal came to an end. The sentry glanced at the east and appeared to note with satisfaction that his period of duty was coming to an end—as indeed it was, once and for all—for he rubbed his hands and began to walk again briskly, to warm himself.

The moment his back was turned the long black snake glided on again and reached the other thistle tuft, which was within a couple of paces of his return beat.

Back came the sentry, and strolled right past the tuft, utterly unconscious of the presence that was crouching behind it. Had he looked down he could scarcely have failed to see, but he did not do so.

He passed, and then his hidden enemy erected himself and with outstretched hand followed in his tracks.

A moment more, and, just as the Elmoran was about to turn, the great Zulu made a spring, and in the growing light we could see his long, lean hands close round the Masai's throat. Then followed a convulsive twining of the two dark bodies, and in another second I saw the Masai's head bent back and heard a sharp crack, something like that of a dry twig snapping, and he fell down upon the ground, his limbs moving spasmodically.

(To be Continued.

SURGICAL OPERATION.

Removal of Stone from the Bladder by the Knife.

Mr. Simon Tietsell, of Saugerties (formerly of Kingston), N. Y., had been treated for seven years by various physicians for what they called Stricture of the Uretha. He finally consulted Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y. (proprietor of the medicine now being introduced in this city, called "Favorite Remedy"—Editor), who found his trouble to be URINARY CALCULI, or Stones in the Bladder. The Doctor at once removed the foreign bodies with the knife, and then gave his great Blood Specific, "Favorite Remedy," to prevent their reformation. The entire treatment was eminently successful, and Mr. Tietsell's recovery was rapid and perfect. Had this and similar cases used Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" in the early stages of the complaint the formation of stone would have been prevented, and thus avoided so dangerous an operation. While Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" is a specific in all Kidney and Bladder diseases, it is equally valuable in cases of Bilious Disorders, Constipation of the Bowels, and all the class of ills apparently inseparable from the constitutions of women.

To Avoid Mistakes, the public are requested not to forget the following points: 1st. Name is Favorite Remedy. 2d. It is made at Rondout, N. Y. 3d. Cost only $1, 6 for $5. 4th. The proprietor, Dr. David Kennedy, has no other address than Rondout, N. Y. Redington & Co., Agents, San Francisco, Cal.

When Anti-Poverty George was poor
A friend of the poor was he,
But now that he's becoming rich
A poor friend he will be.

DON'T HAWK, SPIT COUGH,

Suffer dizziness, indigestion, inflammation of the eyes, headache, lassitude, inability to perform mental work and indisposition for bodily labor, and annoy and disgust your friends and acquaintances with your nasal twang and offensive breath and constant efforts to clean your nose and throat, when Dr. Sage's "Catarrh Remedy" will promptly relieve you of discomfort and suffering, and your friends of the disgusting and needless inflictions of your loathsome disease?

Colonel Mosby of guerrilla fame is making money practicing law in California. Practicing law is as near as a man can come in times of peace to being a guerrilla.

PLEURISY CURED.

KINGSTON, ONTARIO, December 7, 1885.

Six years ago I caught a severe cold standing in an ice house with my coat off. I felt myself getting chilly and went to the house, where I shook for half an hour and then had a high fever and terrible pain in my side and through my lungs. I put an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER on my back and one on the front of my chest, and in a short time the pain decreased and I fell asleep, and did not wake till the next morning, when I was again quite as well as ever. In telling my doctor about it, he said I had been attacked with pleurisy and, possibly, pneumonia. E. E. DUDLEY.

ASTHMA AND SCIATICA.

Judge Jameson, formerly of the Eighth Judicial District of Nevada, writes:

"I desire to state that the use of MITCHELL'S MAGIC LOTION in my family for an attack of Asthma, and of Sciatica, for a severe Sunburn and a painful Rheumatic or Gouty toe-joint, was followed by entirely satisfactory results. I use it habitually for Weak and Inflamed Eyes.

"I have also observed that a friend whose eye had been struck by a hard snow ball, was enabled by the use of the lotion to continue at his business as usual. In a few hours all pain and disability had been removed, and on the second day all signs of the injury had disappeared. I believe it to be a most useful and valuable remedy."

J. D. Jameson
Oakland

The MAGIC LOTION can be had at any drug or country store, price 50 cents per bottle. Depot, 1056 Howard street, San Francisco, Cal.

When there is perfect freedom between the bench and the bar a Judge may go out to drink.

THE DEVIL FISH DESCRIBED BY HUGO

Is not a more tenacious monster than malaria, whether it takes the form of chills and fever, bilious remittent, ague cake or dumb ague. Like the octopus of the story it clasps the victim in its tentacula, and folds him closer and closer in a horrible embrace. Attacked with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, however, it gradually relaxes its tremendous grip, finally abandons it, and the quondam sufferer, liberated at last, rejoices in the sense of new born freedom, engendered by the restoration of complete health. Dyspepsia, too, and constipation, those old and remorseless enemies of the human family, give ground, and are finally driven from the field by this Napoleon of remedies, the greatest, the purest in the family pharmacopœia. Rheumatism succumbs to it, so do kidney troubles. The nerves, when overstrained, regain quietude and vigor by its aid, and the ability to rest tranquilly and eat with zest are increased by it. Resort to it in time and avoid unnecessary suffering.

At Old Point Comfort—Miss Prudely—I hear that Mr. Agile broke his limb recently. Pray how did he do it? Mr. Quizley—He was gathering blossoms, you know, and fell from the—aw—the—leg of an apple tree.

THE FLYING DOVE OF PEACE.

A richly frosted quivering, flying Dove. A Dream of Life screen calendar. An imported ideal head. An imported frosted snow scene and a full set of magnificent floral cards. Fourteen artistic pieces. Sent to anyone who will buy from a druggist a box of the genuine DR. C. M'LANE'S CELEBRITED LIVER PILLS (price, 25 cts.) and mail us the outside wrapper from the box with 4 cents in stamps. Write your address plainly. FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURG, PA.

"Little boy," said an old lady, "is your father a Christian? Does he fear the Lord?" "I guess he does," replied the little boy. "I know when he started for church last Sunday he took his gun with him."

A SQUARE STATEMENT BY A CARPENTER.

"For years I have had a chest trouble amounting to nothing short of consumption. I saw how others in like condition had been cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and resolved to test its merits in my own case. The results are so plain as hardly to require a bitstock or any amplifier in favor of this great remedy. It does and it claims! It builds up the system, supports and strengthens where others fail. He adz: "My recovery, which is now on a sure foundation, hinges entirely on the compass of this wonderful restorative, having tried other remedies without a bit of relief."

Think well over your important steps in life, and, having made up your mind, never look behind.

Irritation of the Throat and Hoarseness immediately relieved by "Brown's Bronchial Troches.

CHILDREN STARVING TO DEATH

On account of their inability to digest food, will find a most marvelous food and remedy in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Very palatable and easily digested. Dr. S. W. Cohen, of Waco, Texas, says: "I have used your Emulsion in infantile wasting with good results. It not only restores wasted tissues, but gives strength and increases the appetite. I am glad to use such a reliable article."

ITCHING PILES.

SYMPTOMS—moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at nights; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in many cases removes the tumors. It is equally efficacious in curing all Skin Diseases. DR. SWAYNE & SON, Proprietors, Philadelphia. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT can be obtained of druggists. Sent by mail for 50 Cents.

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED.

To the Editor:

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption, if they will send me their express and P. O. address. Respectfully,

T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., New York.

Wakelee's Squirrel and Gopher Exterminator. Try it, and prove the best is the cheapest. Wakelee & Co., San Francisco.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

REWARD!

$1000 Will be paid for each and every grain of poisonous substances found in Wisdom's Robertine, acknowledged the most delightful and only really harmless toilet article ever produced for beautifying and preserving the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles and all blemishes and roughness of the skin. Used and endorsed by the elite of society and the stage. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per bottle. White and Flesh. REDINGTON CO., Wholesale Druggists, San Francisco, Agents

Piso's cure for Consumption is the best Cough Medicine. If you don't believe it, take a dose. By druggists, 25c. a bottle.

The wasp has one strong point, but it is not in his favor.

THE EXPERIENCE OF MRS. PETERS.

Mrs. Peters had ills,
Mrs. Peters had chills,
Mrs. Peters was sure she was going to die;
They dosed her with pills,
With powders and squills,
With remedies wet, and with remedies dry,
Many medicines lured her,
But none of them cured her,
Their names and their number nobody could tell;
And she soon might have died,
But some "Pellets" were tried,
That acted like magic, and then she got well.

The magic "Pellets" were Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets (the original Little Liver Pills). They cured Mrs. Peters, and now she wouldn't be without them.

When a man claims the earth it is time to unearth his claim.

Camelline improves and preserves the complexion.

FULL WEIGHT PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and Most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime, or Alumn. Sold only in Cans.
PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

ELY'S CREAM BALM CATARRH

For months I suffered from a very severe cold in head. Ely's Cream Balm has worked like magic in its cure after one week's use. I feel grateful for what it has done for me.—Samuel J. Harris (Wholesale Grocer), 119 Front St., New York.

ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES COLD IN HEAD, CATARRH, ROSE-COLD, HAY-FEVER, DEAFNESS, HEADACHE. PRICE 50 CENTS. EASY TO USE. ELY BRO'S, OWEGO, N.Y. U.S.A.

HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril, and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS 235 Greenwich St., New York.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. M'f'd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, O. Trade Mark

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease.
G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D. Amsterdam, N. Y

We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction.
D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.
$1.00. Sold by Druggists.

EUROPEAN TICKET OFFICE.

First-Class, Second-Class, and Emmigrant Tickets AT LOW RATES, via the leading Steamship and Railroad Lines to and from Hamburg, Bremen, Liverpool, Southampton, Havre, Copenhagen, Stockholm, etc., etc.
A. W. MYER,
401 California St., San Francisco.
☞ Colonies and families at reduced rates.

Farms for Sale.

SEND STAMPS FOR CIRCULAR to M. GRIFFIN, Cottonwood, Shasta County, Cal., fruit belt of Upper Sacramento Valley; or, to S. GRIFFIN, Tulo, Jackson County, Or., center of Rogue River Valley, noted for mild climate and productiveness.

CANDY MAKING FOR PLEASURE OR PROFIT.

YOUNG PERSONS wishing to engage in a light, pleasant, and, perhaps, profitable amusement, can learn the art of Candy Making at home, and while giving amusement to their friends and themselves, discover whether they have a taste for the work as a business, and thereby make a fair living profit from a very small investment. Receipts, and full instructions in detail, sufficient for several lessons for the making of twelve simple varieties, and amply sufficient for home amusement, sent for one dollar. Tools necessary may be found in any kitchen. Address, GEO. F. PERCIVAL, 122 Ellis Street San Francisco.

I CURE FITS!

When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again. I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. H. G. ROOT, M. C., 183 Pearl St. New York.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use. 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

A PICNIC!

This is the picnic season, and we will have a picnic, too, by offering goods at a price that will bring everybody. These figures are not for always, but as long as the goods in stock last: Washing Powder, best makes, 3c; Toilet Soap, 3c or 30c dozen, for nice article; Turkey Dusters, 25c; Mustard, 5c tin; Baking Powder, to close out a shop-worn lot, 5c to 5c for small tins, and 15c to 25c for 1-lb tins; Sulphur for trees or stook, 100-lb bags, $2; Bonemeal or Oyster Shells, $1.50 per 100 lbs; Mucilage and Brush, 5c; Mixed Lawn Grass, 15c to 20c quart, Dried Figs, 4c to 5c lb; Dried Peas, choice, 4c to 6c; Raisins, 5c to 8c; Cherries, pits in, 5c to 8c; Table Grapes, 10c can or $1 dozen; Wash Blue in bottles, 5c; Smoking or Chewing Tobacco, plugs, 35c to 40c lb; fine cut, 35c to 40c lb; good cigars, 75c box; Apple Wood Pipes, 12c; Plated Butter Knives, 25c pair; Clothes Wringers, $2 for good ones; Axle Grease, $2 per case; Two-foot rules, 12c; Spirit Levels, pocket, 13c; California Walnuts, 5c; Orchard Grass, 10c; Men's Cheviot Shirts, for everyday wear, 40c; Overalls, 50c; Undershirts or Drawers, light Summer wear, 40c; Handkerchiefs, 25c dozen up; Ladies' Corsets, all kinds, 50c up; Combs, 7c; Tooth Brushes, 5c; Handsome Dress Lawns, 5c; Ginghams, 8c up; Dried Apricots, dark, 3c light 8c to 12c; all Dried Fruit below usual jobbing rates. Better send for our full list for this month. Sample free. Address, Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front Street, S. F., Cal.

S. F. N. U. (First Series) No. 306

For Cure of SPRAINS & STRAINS use St. Jacobs Oil. Cures PROMPTLY AND PERMANENTLY WITHOUT RETURN OF PAIN. AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS EVERYWHERE. THE CHAS. A. VOGELER CO. BALTO. MD.

STEINWAY. KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Roenish Pianos; Burdett Organs, band instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

Wolf & Frank

MEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,
232 Kearny St., San Francisco

Shirts, Underwear, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Neckwear, Collars, Cuffs, Etc.

SHIRTS TO ORDER, $1.

Illustrated Catalogue, with Rules for Self Measurement, Mailed Free.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage,
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

The BEST Cough Medicine is PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. Children take it without objection. By all druggists. 25c.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY..... JUNE 9, 1888.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XIX. NO. 52. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., JUNE 9, 1888. WHOLE NO. 919.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—The average pay of women school-teachers in Pennsylvania is $29.86 per month.

—Cornell University is to purchase from P. T. Barnum the complete skeleton of an elephant, to be mounted and placed in the museum of anatomy and zoology.

—At the last meeting of the trustees of Amherst College the treasurer announced that a person whose name is to be unknown for the present had given $50,000 for the general expenses of the college.

—Fifty years ago the first Presbyterian church on the soil of Texas was organized in San Augustine County by Rev. Hugh Wilson, of North Carolina. A memorial church has been erected on the spot.

—The average salary of ministers of the Southern Presbyterian church last year was $552, and the average contribution per member for ministerial support only $4.08. In West Virginia the average salary was $443.

—A school-teacher at Beatrice, Neb., chastised a boy severely and was fined five dollars for it. The school board, however, indorsed the action he had taken and raised his salary ten dollars per month in consequence.

—Victoria has made arrangements to celebrate the jubilee of Congregationalism in October, 1888. It is expected that the churches of Australia and New Zealand will be represented, and that delegates will be sent out from the home churches.

—Large numbers of the school children of San Francisco have been withdrawn from school on account of the low temperature of the school-rooms. In many of the schools the temperature is not above 40 degrees. The reason of this is that the city does not provide enough fuel.

—An exchange says that the finest church edifice in Albany, Ga., is the one now being built by the negro Methodist Episcopal Church there. The congregation comprises the negro aristocracy of the place, an aristocracy said to be based "more upon education, refinement and morality than upon pecuniary success."

—Out of 40,000 Sioux Indians there are 35,000 still in heathenism. There are sixty-six tribes on the Western prairies for whom nothing is yet done. There are 40,000 Indians of school age, but when every school is packed to its utmost only 12,000 can be accomodated. This includes Government schools, Roman Catholic schools and all, so that those under mission teachers would be far less a number than 12,000.

—The lives of the Protestant Episcopal Bishops, Talbot and Leonard, present a remarkable coincidence. They were boys together in a little mission school in Missouri, starting together the same day, and sitting at the same desks. They were confirmed together, were ordained deacons and priests at the same time; each performed the marriage ceremony for the other, and are now appointed Bishops over neighboring jurisdictions.

SENSES OF ANIMALS.

Interesting Experiments Made by Sir John Lubbock.

At the Philosophical Institute, Edinburgh, Sir John Lubbock delivered a lecture on "The Sense and Senses of Animals." In the course of his remarks the lecturer said that every one would gratefully admit that the dog was a loyal and true and affectionate friend. But, when they came to consider the nature of the animal, their knowledge was, he said, very limited. That arose from the fact that people had tried rather to teach animals than to learn from them. It had occurred to him that some such method as that which was followed in the case of deaf mutes might prove instructive if adapted to the case of dogs. He had tried it with a black poodle belonging to himself. He then went on to relate several experiments he had made with pieces of cardboard with different words marked on them. He had taken two pieces of card, one black and the other with the word "food" marked upon it. He had put the latter on a saucer containing some bread and milk, and the black card on an empty saucer. The dog was not allowed to eat until he had brought the proper card to him. The experiment was repeated over and over again, and in about ten days the dog began to distinguish the card with the letters on it from the plain card. It took a longer time to make the dog realize the difference between the different words. In order to try and discover whether the dog could distinguish colors, he prepared six cards, making two of them blue, two yellow and two orange. He put one of each on the floor and tried to get the dog to bring him a card with the same color as the one which he showed the dog in his hand. After trying this for three months he found that his experiment in this direction was a failure. From experiments which he had made he had come to the conclusion that ants had not the power of addressing each other. His impression on the whole was that bees and ants were not deaf, but they heard sounds so shrill that they were beyond our hearing. There was no doubt about insects seeing. He then went on to relate several experiments he had made with the view of discovering whether different insects could distinguish different colors, and had any preference for particular colors. The colors or objects must, he said, present a very different impression upon insects than on human beings.—Interior.

GENEROUS MINERS.

Sturdy Toilers of Montana Prove That They Are Not Desperadoes.

The traffic managers of the Northern Pacific road told me a fine story characteristic of those big-hearted miners Mr. Davis had taken his aged father and mother up into the heights of one of the mountains that shadows Butte. It was fifteen miles distant. While they were camping there a snow-storm swept upon them, and the sudden change caused Mr. Davis' father to suffer from an attack of paralysis. The old gentleman was helpless and his son was perplexed. He was fifteen miles from civilization and had no conveyance to reach it. He hapened to remember that not far away on the mountain side was a camp of miners. He walked to the camp and found them there just sitting down after their meal to a game of cards. He apologized for intruding upon them and said: "Boys, I am in trouble." The cards fell out of their hands and they were on their feet ready for his relief. He told them his story. "Well, stranger," said the leader, "we'll git the old man down the mountain safe and sound; but you'll have to git the old woman down the best you can, 'cause, you know, we ain't ust to handlin' women, are we, boys?" And at the mention of a woman's name the speaker's hard hand went up to his eyes, but in a second he recovered and said to Mr. Davis: "You lead the way and we'll foller."

They toiled up the mountain until they came to the hut where the old people were housed. At the sight of the lady, the miners, seven of them, bunched themselves just as a lot of freight cars that had come to a sudden halt. Every hat was off. Having made their bows, they gathered about the old man and looked upon him, as they folded their hands, as if he were dead. Then they wrapped him in blankets and picked him up, and gently wound round the mountain, picking out the smooth places, never saying a word. Mr. Davis followed with his mother, When they reached the level and the old man had been laid upon his bed Mr. Davis took the miners to one side and said: "Men, here is a roll of bills—all I have. Take it, no matter how much it may be."

The old miner who had done all the talking for the crowd took off his hat and spoke: "Why, we thought you knowed us."

"I do know you."

"But we thought you knowed us well. No, stranger, put her up. Why, we wouldn't let that old man suffer up thar a minnit. Would we, boys?" And they all raised their hats. "Easy, boys," said the speaker. And they shouted, but it was a soft and low shout which brought tears to Davis' eyes."—Chicago Mail.

THE GERMAN ARMY.

How the Emperor's Soldiers Appeared at a Recent Review.

Such a sight I never saw before nor am I likely to see again during my life. There were 30,000 men—picked men at that—and they did, indeed, look formidable upon their spirited horses. Each lance had a long steel point and streamer, and, in their perfect lines, as far as the eye could reach, could one see this sea of glistening points. It was a beautiful day, and as the sun shone out on the glittering arms and gaudy uniforms it was a scene to be remembered. At least twelve thousand men were on horses, each one looking like a racer. How the sun shone upon the cuirass, saber and spear, and with what a roar did they come by. As I looked up the long stretch and saw this mighty sea of spear points, and all coming down upon me, I for the first time realized what a truly awful thing war was. The whole force filed past at a trot. Next came regiment after regiment of soldiers, each about two thousand strong. Massed in dense solid squares, and with glistening bayonets, they looked like living forests of steel. Such marching I never saw. They came by with from sixty to one hundred men in single line, and every one of them in perfect line and step, the very embodiment of all that was powerful. Last of all came battery after battery, all at a trot, and rumbling over the ground like distant thunder. Of all arms, infantry, cavalry and artillery, the cavalry was especially fine. They were of four distinct sorts. First in the procession came the cuirassiers, in white uniforms, brass breast-plates and helmets. Of these there were about four thousand, mounted on beautiful horses, and, in truth, they looked like knights of old. Then came the hussars, in corded jackets of red and brown. Of these there were about two thousand. All mounted on beautiful horses, came the dragoons, about the same number; and last, and most important of all, came the uhlans, or lancers, the most serviceable part of the German army. I think any Frenchman who saw this wonderful sight might well have been disheartened.—Cor. Baltimore American.

New York City Politics.

Aristocratic New Yorker—I say, I want you to give me a lift.

Friend—In what way?

"I'm going to run for alderman, and I want you to help me out."

"If I were you I wouldn't do it."

"Don't you think I'd be elected?"

"I'm sure you would. That's why I don't like to see you run."

"Why not?"

"Well, I see by the papers that Sing Sing is crowded, and they may put you in the same cell with some disreputable character."—Texas Siftings.

—The small potatoes may be cooked and fed to the pigs and poultry. Always sort out the potatoes and have them as uniform in size as possible before marketing them.—N. Y. Times.

ILLEGIBLE WRITING.

Famous Men Whose Written Effusions Were Hard to Decipher.

Napoleon wrote even a worse hand than did Rufus Choate, of whose handwriting it was said that it could not be deciphered "without the help of a pair of compasses and a quadrant." Napoleon's letters to Josephine from Germany were so illegible that the wits used to say that they were not love letters, but maps of the seat of war. Prof. Mathews says, in his essay on "The Philosophy of Handwriting," that he and two attorneys once spent an entire forenoon trying to read some written questions sent by Mr. Choate, to be put into a deposition. After a morning's work they spelled out the preposition of.

It is maintained by some persons that a man's character may be detected by his handwriting, and there are those who profess to read in a man's chirography what he is and is not. Their art, however, if it is any thing more than a fancy, is of doubtful utility. Certainly only an expert could read character by such means, and experts rarely agree. Byron wrote, what seems to the casual observer, a schoolboy's scrawl, and Emerson a sprawling hand. The style of handwriting in neither case prepares one for the grace and depth of thought expressed in so unpromising a way. So, too, the almost illegible hand of Pascal contrasts strongly with his profound but clearly expressed thoughts. Professor Huxley is one of the most lucid writers in England, but his handwriting is at times hard to decipher. Dean Stanley's prose is as transparent as plate glass, but his correspondents found it difficult to read even the signature to his letters.

It is, however, absurd to look upon bad handwriting as an indication of genius. Sometimes it is simply the result of a wish to conceal bad spelling.

"If I were to write better, people would find out how I spell," wrote a college student to his guardian. Sydney Smith, whose hand was the woe of printers, might have justly excused his bad writing by a similar confession, for he was a poor speller.

Ben Hardin, an eccentric lawyer of Kentucky, wrote with a maimed right hand, which had been injured by the fall of a tree. His pen scratches saved his cases again and again from being thrown out of court, on account of some blunder in pleading. When an opposing counsel demurred to Ben's declaration, on the ground that it was faulty, he would reply: "My brother merely mistakes my handwriting, that's all. I have it here just as he thinks it ought to be."

The objecting counsel had to give it up, for no one, save Ben himself, could say with certainty what his crow-tracks did or did not mean.

Prof. Mathews says the chirography of a century ago is better than its orthography; the fact suggests that at that time bad spelling was not looked upon as a serious literary sin. Washington wrote a large, round, clerkly hand, as easy to read as print; but his letters abounded in misspelled words and in erroneous punctuation, a fact which Jared Sparks, who edited his correspondence, carefully obliterated.

But in these days of common schools a man who spells incorrectly is looked upon as an uneducated blunderer. Does that account for the fact that men now spell better than they write?—Youth's Companion.

SAVING THE CHILD.

Mr. Bixby's Self-Possession Under Trying Circumstances.

"If a person swallows poison by accident or purposely, instead of breaking out into incoherent and multitudinous exclamations, dispatch some one for the doctor."

"That sounds sensible," said Bixby, as he read the above advice to his wife one evening. Then he read:

"Meantime run to the kitchen, get half a glass of water, put into it a teaspoonful of salt and as much ground mustard, catch a firm hold of the person's nose, then down with the mixture and up will come the poison."

"There, my dear," said Bixby to his wife. "You'd better keep that in mind in case one of the children should accidentally get hold of poison and I shouldn't be home. But you women fly right off the handle at the very time you ought to be self-possessed and have all your wits about you."

The very next day the servant came rushing up stairs and gasped out:

"Oh, ma'am! Oh, Mr. Bixby! The baby! He's swallowed half a bottle of loddynum, and—"

"Great Scott!" shouted Bixby, jumping six feet straight into the air and yelling like a Comanche. "The child 'll be dead in ten minutes. What we going to do? Run for the doctor! Get some of the neighbors in! Call somebody in from the street! My good Lord? Are we all going to sit here and see the child die? We must have help! Help! Murder! Can't you think of something to do? Here, what'd I read the other day? I told you to remember. It said half a glass of salt to a teaspoon of water and a cup of mustard, didn't it? My soul! has the child got to die while we all sit here doing nothing! Give him warm water and soda! Run your finger down his throat! Do something! Put your head out of the window and yell for help!"

And while he was doing so himself and a crowd was collecting in front of the house, Mrs. Bixby, who had not said a word, discovered that the child had swaliowed nothing but a teaspoon of vanilla extract.—Detroit Free Press.

RELIGIOUS AND EDUCATIONAL.

—Sarcasm is the natural language of the devil.—Carlyle.

—All I have seen teaches me to trust the Creator for all that I have not seen.—Emerson.

—Sunday is the golden clasp that binds together the volume of the week.—Longfellow.

—One class of men must have their faith hammered in like a nail by authority; another class must have it worked in like a screw, by argument.—Pulpit and Pew.

—Faith and works are as necessary to our spiritual life as Christians, as soul and body are to our life as men; for faith is the soul of religion, and works, the body.—Colton.

—Thousands whom indolence has sunk into contemptible obscurity might have come forward to the highest distinction, if idleness had not frustrated the effort of all their powers.—Nashville Weekly.

—After reading the doctrines of Plato, Socrates or Aristotle, we feel that the specific difference between their words and Christ's is the difference between an Inquiry and a Revelation.—Dr. Joseph Parker.

—At school, improvement depends far less upon length of tasks and hours of application than is supposed. Children can take in but a little each day; they are like vases with a narrow neck; you may pour little or pour much, but much will not enter at a time.

—Be truly alive to God, and honor Him in an earnest and constant effort to show how adequate are the provisions of His grace for all you need, and how full are his promises of comfort and rest to your soul. Much of your strength and success will depend upon this.

—Every temptation that is resisted, every noble aspiration that is encouraged, every sinful thought that is repressed, every bitter word that is withheld, adds its little item to the impetus of that great movement which is bearing humanity onwards towards a richer life and higher character.—Fiske.

—Young people, almost men and women, not yet in the church of Christ, are in constant peril. The church is your best friend, and the Great Head of the church your only safe guide. Do not be content with only belonging to the Sunday-school. The Word of God says: "And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved."

—In my opinion there are many truths it is not worth while to know. If we had a dozen centuries of life allowed us we might perhaps be pardoned for spending a little time on such curious trifles; but with the small pittance of life we have it would be ill husbandry to spend a considerable part of it in what makes neither a quick nor sure return.—John Wesley.

WIT AND WISDOM.

—Yo' kin fin' a'mos' any 'scuse in de law ef yo' kin pay fo' de search—Judge.

—Good manners is the art of making those people easy with whom we converse.—Swift.

—Self-control lies at the foundation of character. He that does not control himself must be controled by others.

—Nothing flatters a man so much as the happiness of his wife; he is always proud of himself as the source of it.—Johnson.

—It is always good to know, if only in passing, a charming human being; it refreshes one like flowers, and woods, and clear brooks.

—There is considerable dormant genius that ought never to be awakened, if the comfort of others is to be taken into consideration.

—A ten-cent box of shoe blacking will go farther than a $100 scarf pin toward making a fellow appear a gentleman.—Springfield Union.

—If you want to have a man for a friend, never get the ill-will of his wife. Public opinion is made up of the average prejudices of womankind.

—Nobody talks much that doesn't say unwise things, as no person plays much without striking a false note sometimes.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

—There is nothing which is bringing us opportunity but is also bring us danger. An opportunity improved is a danger avoided. An opportunity neglected is a danger not met.—Rev. C. L. Guild.

—A good habit for some people to cultivate is the habit of silence. Under some conditions a man can make more noise in the world by keeping his mouth shut than in any other way.—Meriden Republican.

—Epicurus says, "gratitude is a virtue that has commonly profit annexed to it." And where is virtue, say I, that has not? But still the virtue is to be valued for itself, and not for the profit that attaches to it.—Seneca.

—Many a weary youth, sitting in his solitary room at midnight and driving a big needle through a button with the back of his jack-knife, is wondering whether he will be doing his own sewing in 1889.—Burlington Free Press.

—Nothing will yield you richer reward of gladness, and a greater wealth of joy, than faithfully to cultivate and develop the happier, warmer, sunnier side of your nature, that you may be a blessing to yourself, and a blessing to all around you.—Schuyler Colfax.

—The Plantation Philosopher of the Arkansaw Traveler says: "'I hope I has 'ligion, but I doan' know,' I hab heard folks say, but I neber hearn a man say: 'I hopes I has money, but I doan' know.' Dat sorter 'ligion dat yer hopes yer's got but doan' know, ain't gwine to do yer no mo' good den der money what yer hopes yer's got but doan' know."

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—The Marquis of Lorne has determined upon a literary life, and has a serial ready for an English magazine.

—Mr. Bronson Alcott, at the age of eighty-eight, is slowly failing in health. He sleeps much of the time and takes little interest in what is going on, but still likes to have his books about him.

—Her Majesty the Queen of England has subscribed $200 toward the fund for the purchase of the cottage in which Milton wrote "Paradise Lost." This is not a very large sum, but it is four times as much as Milton received for the poem.—Harper's Bazar.

—The rapidity with which Anglo Saxon literature is pouring into Japan is illustrated by the fact that 85,000 English and 119,000 American books were imported last year, an increase of nearly 100 per cent.

—Dumas and Sardou, who live near each other in a Paris suburb, speak as they pass by, but are said to privately entertain a most enthusiastic disregard of each other. Both "immortals" are alike in this also, that they discourage their families from going to see their respective plays produced.

—Joe Chandler Harris, "Uncle Remus," is employed as an editorial writer on the Atlanta Constitution. He is a quiet-looking, hard-working man, and is noted for his extreme modesty. Mr. Harris has an income of about $6,000 from his royalties and his newspaper and magazine work.

—Among the pictures in Wilkie Collins' collection is the famous view of the Bay of Naples, by William Collins, which so enchanted the late Sir Robert Peel that he offered the painter $25,000 for it, and on that being refused he vainly requested him to name his own price. A few years afterwards the well-known Jacob Bell thrust a blank check into Collins' hand and begged him to fill it up for any sum he pleased if he would only give him this little picture in exchange.

—James J. West, who recently purchased the controlling interest in the Chicago Times, is under thirty years of age, and is said to have amassed $600,000 within six years. Seven years ago he entered a publishing house in Chicago as a clerk at eight dollars a week; at the end of the third year he bought a fourth interest in the concern for $66,500. Mr. West's original intention after he left college was to study for the ministry, which he did for a short time, but concluded that he was better suited to mercantile pursuits.—Harper's Bazar.

—Letters sent to the Birmingham and Midland Institute, which is about to have a manuscript exhibition of its annual conversazione, show that Andrew Lang does not keep his manuscript. Justin McCarthy works with a type-writer. Mr. Shorthouse, author of "John Inglesant," makes scrappy manuscripts. Marion Crawford writes his improvements into his draft. Mr. Besant has not kept any of the manuscripts of the Rice partnership. Bret Harte is not in possession of the sheets of his earliest stories. The "copy" of many famous books has already been secured.

HUMOROUS.

—Lady of the house—"Jane, who is that girl that just left the kitchen?" Jane—"O, ma'am! that's the lady what works for the woman across the street.—Judge.

—"Are you superstitious?" "Not very. Why?" "Do you believe that it is a sign of death when a dog howls under your window at night?" "Yes; if I can find my gun before the dog gets away."—Nebraska State Journal.

—Stranger (to boy)—"Boy, can you direct me to the nearest bank?" Boy—"I kin for twenty-fi' cents." Stranger—"Twenty-five cents! Isn't that high pay?" Boy—"Yes, sir, but it's bank directors what gits high pay."—N. Y. Sun.

—Connoisseur (looking at the picture of a female head)—"Ah! There's something worth looking at. One of the old masters, no doubt of it." His daughter—"Why, pa, how blind you are getting! Can't you see it's a woman?"—Boston Transcript.

—Citizen to coal-dealer—"Say, I want a ton of coal." Coal-dealer—"All right. Shall we send it up right away?" Citizen—"O, no. If it's any thing like the last I'll just call for it on my way home and carry it up in my overcoat pocket."—Washington Critic.

—Tramp (to partner)—"Did the old man give up any thin', Bill?" Partner—"Naw!" Tramp—"What did you say to him?" Partner—"I asked him if he couldn't help a poor man who was out o' work, and he said he could give me some work. Times seems to be gettin' wuss every day."—The Epoch.

—Miss Gushington—"Why don't you follow Ruskin's suggestion and write a novel which doesn't stop at the marriage of a couple, but goes right on?" Old Bachelor Author—"No use; no publisher would print it." "Why not?" "Oh, the publishers nowadays insist that every novel must end pleasantly."—Omaha World.

—"Young gentlemen," said her papa, stepping to the front door and addressing a party of four serenaders, "I am passionately fond of music, but my passion sometimes crystallizes in the form of a shot-gun, especially after midnight. So, if you will just move around the corner, where you will find a vacant lot and an echo, you will greatly oblige all the members of the family, and possibly escape an epidemic of lead-poisoning."—Burlington Free Press.

USEFUL AND SUGGESTIVE.

—Salts of lemon will whiten ivory knife handles that have become yellow.

—Flour should be warmed before making up a sponge if you would have your bread rise quickly.

—To have poached eggs look very nice, cook each egg in a muffin ring placed in the bottom of a saucepan of boiling water.

—Exercise enough to make rest delightful is good; sufficient to make one toss wearily and sleeplessly through the night hours is wasteful and exhaustive.

—Satin may be cleaned by sponging it lengthwise with alcohol or, if greasy and much soiled, with purified benzine, then press on the wrong side with a warm iron.

—For membraneous croup or an attack of the asthma, take a little tar and turpentine, place it in a cup on top of the stove, or some live coals. A dense smoke will be emitted which will bring relief to the sufferer.

—Milk Frosting: Ten tablespoonfuls sweet milk, one and a half cups of sugar; let boil six minutes; take off and stir until quite white; put in a little lemon, spread quickly before getting too hard, wetting the knife in cold water. Very nice.

—Scalloped Codfish: Mix together two teacups of mashed potatoes, one and a half teacups of cold boiled codfish, two and a half teacups of milk, one-half egg and one-quarter of a teacup of butter, bake a light brown.

—To heat cloths for hot applications without scalding your hands, lay a wet cloth between two folds of brown paper, place it on the stove, placing the top one down lightly with your fingers, and in a few minutes the cloth will be hot enough to blister.

—To clean a carpet and brighten the colors after the dust has been well beaten and shaken out of it, mix one quart of ox gall with three quarts of cold soft water and rub the carpet off with a flannel dipped in this. It is well to first rub out any particularly dirty spots before going over the whole carpet.

—Sponge Drops: Beat four eggs to a stiff froth, then stir in one heaping cup of sugar, and one and a third cups of flour. One teaspoonful of baking powder should be thoroughly mixed with the flour. Flavor with lemon and drop from a dessert spoon on buttered paper spread on plates. The oven should be hot and the cakes will bake in a few minutes.

—A little borax in water is as good as any thing for washing the head, and this should be used frequently. Do not make the solution too strong, as it has a tendency to cause the hair to become dry and brittle. Frequent brushing, especially before going to bed, will make the hair soft and glossy. A sharp-toothed comb or metallic brush should not be used.

—Fried Bread: One quart of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, three of baking-powder, and milk enough to make it as stiff as biscuit dough. Roll it out and cut into square cakes two inches long and a little over half an inch thick. Drop them into boiling lard. They only require a few minutes cooking, and when properly made they are so nice that they will soon become a family institution.

Cocoanut Cake: Two cups of sugar, three cups of flour, two thirds of a cup of butter, one cup of sweet milk, the white of five eggs, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Bake in layers. Filling for the above cake: Take one pint of sweet milk, half a cup of sugar, one egg, three teaspoonfuls of corn starch, and cook thoroughly. Stir in this one grated cocoanut, and spread between the cakes.

—In making waffles never put sugar in the batter, as it causes them to be heavy and tough. They should be beaten thoroughly and made quickly. The batter should be made very thin. Take one pint of buttermilk, one teaspoonful of soda, one tablespoonful of melted butter, one teacup of flour, the yolks of four eggs and a small pinch of salt; beat the whites separately to a froth and add them the last thing. Have the waffle tins well greased and very hot, pour in the batter and bake brown. When taken up spread with butter and sift with sugar, if preferred.

—Hash Rolls: Prepare the meat as for ordinary hash, chopping it very fine, moisten with a spoonful of cold gravy or meat juice if you have it, add an equal quantity of mashed potatoes (fresh is best) and the same of stale bread crumbs finely grated and soaked in milk or cream. Work all well together with the hand, make into rolls about three inches long and half the thickness, and brown in a hot oven fifteen or twenty minutes, or you may spread the hash in a well-greased bread-pan and set it in the oven; when browned on the bottom, turn into a dish crusted side up and send to the table.

—Meat Omelette: A very small piece of cold steak will make, with three eggs, a meat omelette which will be sufficient for four persons. The meat must be carefully trimmed of all stringy portions and chopped very fine. Crumb a slice of bread, without the crust, into a teacup and fill it with milk. Beat the yelks and whites of the eggs separately; add to the yelks of soaked crumbs, then the whites, season the meat well with salt and pepper, put a piece of butter the size of a large nut in the frying-pan, pour in the omelette when hot, and when it has set stew the meat over it. Leave it for one minute to become hot, then fold the omelette over and serve quickly. In many families it will be preferred as a breakfast dish to an entire fresh steak, or it may serve as an appetizing hot dish at tea.

ERACLIO BERNAL.

A Bandit Who Will Become Known as Mexico's Robin Hood.

Ever since the death of Eraclio Bernal the Mexican newspapers have been full of anecdotes of that celebrated bandit. It appears that Bernal was a prey to melancholy for some time previous to his death, and that he felt a strong presentiment that his career was soon to be cut short. His melancholy was intensified by a fatal quarrel over a woman named Louisa Garcia, in which he killed a former friend and comrade.

The party which attacked Bernal on the morning of his death was small and might have been easily repulsed. But Bernal's men were dispirited by the melancholy of their chief. He himself was one of the first to fall, being struck in quick succession by three bullets, all from the pistol of the captain of the little band of recruits, who were eager to win the $10,000 offered for Bernal's capture or death. The first bullet was probably fatal; but the second, which crashed through the outlaw's brain, did the work of all three.

Bernal planned his assaults with great care and skill. His attacks were always delivered in the morning, as he had found by experienced that he encountered less resistance at that hour than at any other. He was occasionally overtaken by fits of remorse, and at such times he would repair to one of the numberless chapels which rear their spires in the heart of the sierre, remain for hours in prayer before an image. On leaving the oratory he would drop a $20 gold piece into the poor box. His amendment never lasted long. A few days generally brought tidings of some new and daring exploit.

Bernal will probably be the last of Mexican bandits. Isolated cases of assault will, no doubt, occur as they do even in the United States. But never again will an organized band of desperadoes be allowed to terrorize a whole State. A number of legends have already began to cluster round the name of Eraclio Bernal, and in future ages his story may become as famous in traditions of the sierra as that of Robin Hood in England. His life has already been dramatized and represented with success at one of the theaters in this city.—Cor. Boston Advertiser.

CURE FOR SMALL-POX.

The Questionable Prescriptions Published by a Chinese Newspaper.

Small-pox is due to causes partly internal and partly external to the suffering victim. The present season, being the driest of the whole year, is peculiarly trying to health. Some of the conditions attendant on a dry atmosphere have an all-powerful effect in bringing on mankind diseases, especially small-pox. As already stated in these columns, small-pox has been raging at Kongmun, in the district of San Ui. At the present time it is prevalent in Canton and Fatshan. Sad to relate, children in great numbers are seized with the malady and deaths are frequent. The last circumstance has induced a certain benevolent and philanthropic gentleman to write us information on the following remedy:

"In a case of small-pox do not call in a doctor or resort to drugs, for the incompetent among doctors are more in number than the competent, and there is danger that the treatment administered will rather kill than cure. Refrain, therefore, from sacrificing life to the ignorance of quacks. The true remedy is to beat a drum in the presence of the patient. No matter what kind of a drum. Several varieties have been tried, and always with the best results."

No sooner did this prescription reach us than we determined to test its efficiency. One of our friends had a child afflicted with small-pox. The child had been under the influence of the disease for several days. It could take no food worth speaking of, and, moreover, the marks on the skin, instead of coming out, as they should do when the disease takes a favorable turn, were beginning to disappear. A fatal sign.

We acted on the advice sent us, and proceeded to beat a drum at the child's bedside. The results were marvelous. The pock marks forthwith began to show, the child's appetite returned, and as the drum-beating was repeated from day to day, recovery was rapid, and finally became complete.

The advice contained in the letter above quoted is not all given. There is one important addition to be made. If the patient himself beats the drum "so much the better."—Canton Kwong-Po.

Book Stealing in Paris.

Book stealing seems to have been elevated into a regular trade in Paris, for, according to a return drawn up by the prefecture of police, the number of persons prosecuted for this offense within the last two years has been 145, of whom only 5 have been acquitted, while 90 others have been sentenced to fine or imprisonment, and the remaining 50 are still awaiting their trial. The amount of bail lodged and of fees paid for hearing has exceeded £3,000, these sums being exclusive of counsel fees and other legal expenses. The report goes on to say that several publishers have received anonymously sums varying from £20 to £700 from persons who had stolen books from them, but who were impelled by remorse or fear to make restitution. Publishers of illustrated works, encyclopedias and dictionaries are the great sufferers. Upward of ten thousand volumes have been seized and are now collected at the Palais de Justice for distribution among their rightful owners.—Pall Mall Gazette.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, JUNE 9 ..... 1888

Already mud throwing has begun. President Cleveland is accused of beating his wife and turning his mother-in-law out of the White House. Many a man has found some consolation in the thought that some other fellow had got his wife for a mother-in-law. The President may have found the room of Mrs. Folsom more desirable than her company; and if she presumed to meddle between him and his wife he did right in inviting her to get out of his house and leave himself and his wife at peace. This story of the President laying hands upon his wife, except in the way of kindness, is too stupid to be believed by any but a fool. It is little less than marvelous that any paper can be found to print the stupid lies that are always written about the men who are deemed the most worthy candidates for the highest office ever held by man on earth. When these eminent Americans visit other countries they are received with the highest honors by the great and good; yet in their own country miserable wretches ascribe to them every vice that an evil heart can imagine. The pillory and the stocks would be fitting punishment for the authors of these vile slanders. If a few of the wretches were set up to be pelted with dead cats and rotten eggs it might put a stop to the vile practice. At home little harm is done by these vile slanders, as no sensible person believes them; but the tales go abroad and are circulated to the discredit of the Nation.

It is at last settled once for all that Blaine will not be a candidate. The tide seems to be setting strongly in favor of Gresham. Every day the issue to be fought out in the campaign is becoming more clearly defined; that issue is protection for American industries, or free trade. In fact there is no other question upon which the two great parties take opposite sides. President Cleveland has placed himself and the party squarely on that issue; and Democratic writers and orators are doing all they can to prove that he is right. Republican writers and orators are doing all in their power to prove that free trade, or even great reduction of tariff duties, would work great injury to the whole country. Between these two the voters will decide.

It was so confidently believed that Cleveland and Thurman would be nominated at St. Louis that the announcement of the fact caused very little excitement. When the dispatch of the nominations was received Independence it caused no more interest than would a message of the most commonplace kind. This was not the result of indifference, but of the general belief held in advance that Cleveland and Thurman would be nominated. The choice of the Convention is regarded as the very best that could be made, and Democrats here fully believe that the nominees cannot be defeated.

Nevada wool is selling at 12 to 16 cents per pound and Southern California wool at 9 to 11 cents. Perhaps if the California sheep men would drive their sheep over into Nevada and have them clipped there they would get the higher price for their wool. Northern California wool is quoted at 16 to 18 cents per pound.

Texas and Alabama have the bad distinction of each sending a man to Congress who opposed conferring upon the dying Sheridan the honor of the title of General. These two were the only ones who opposed the well merited distinction.

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,

Independence, Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt and furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

TO ADVERTISERS

A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATES AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.

To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List. GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce Street, New York.

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City,
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
Will be sent FREE, on application.

GRAND

CELEBRATION!

Of The

Fourth of July

At

INDEPENDENCE

INDEPENDENCE

Races, Horse and Foot.

GAMES, FOOTBALL, BASEBALL

Jumping, Sledge Throwing,

Egg Race, Sack Race, Three-legs.

Grand Fruit Festival,

Free to Everybody.

Oration, Singing, Etc. Etc.

PROGRAMME

NEXT WEEK.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Notice Of Change Of Text Books.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY THE Board of Education of Inyo county, California, that said Board proposes to change the following text books now in use in the public schools of said county, to wit: Theory and Practice of Teaching, Music, Entomology, Book-keeping, Composition, Penmanship, Industrial Drawing, English and American Literature, Physics, Algebra and Natural History. And that sealed bids, or proposals, will be received by said Board for furnishing books to replace those mentioned above, or any part thereof. Said bids, or proposals, must be accompanied by sample copies of the books proposed to be furnished, together with a statement of the wholesale and retail price at which the publisher agrees to furnish each book, within the county, during the full time for which said books are to be adopted. The publisher or publishers whose proposals shall be accepted must enter into a written contract with said Board, and shall give a good and sufficient bond in a reasonable amount, with sureties, for the faithful performance thereof. Said bids or proposals will be opened by the Board at Independence, Inyo county, Cal., at ten o'clock a. m., on Tuesday, the 19th day of June 1888. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Board of Education of Inyo county.

Attest: J. H. SHANNON, Secretary.
[SEAL.]
Dated April 13, 1888. Bishop Creek, Cal.

EXECUTOR'S SALE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, THAT IN pursuance of an order of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, made on the 19th day of April, 1888, in the matter of the estate of Duncan Campbell, deceased, the undersigned, executors of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, gold coin of the United States, on Thursday, the 10th day of May, 1888, at the late residence of the said deceased, at Big Pine, in said county, the following personal property, to wit: Ten head of horses, more or less, being all the horses belonging to said estate. NATHAN RHINE,
S. G. GREGG,
Executors of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased.
Dated April 19, 1888.

EXECUTORS' NOTICE

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE County of Inyo, State of California.

In the matter of the Estate of John R. Hughes deceased.

John W. P. Laird and W. L. Hunter having filed in this Court their petition duly verified, praying for an order to lease certain real estate of said decedent: It is therefore ordered by said Court that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased, appear before the Superior Court on Monday, the 18th day of June, 1888, at ten o'clock a. m. of said day at the Courtroom of said Superior Court, at the Courthouse, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said executors to lease the following described real property, to wit: That certain mine or mining claim situate, lying and being in the Cerro Gordo Mining District, County of Inyo, State of California, and commonly known and designated as the Weddekind Mine, for the period of one year, at the rental of ten per cent. of the gross proceeds of all ores extracted from said mine, all of which more fully appears in the said petition now on file, and to which reference is hereby made, for further particulars; and that a copy of this order be published for at least two successive weeks in the Inyo Independent a newspaper of general circulation published in said Inyo county.

JOHN A. HANNAH,
Dated May 31st, 1888. Superior Judge.

FINAL HOMESTEAD PROOF.

H. A. No. 523.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,
May 12th, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on June 25, 1888, viz: Henry Deters for the S½ of N. W. ¼ and N. E. ¼ of S. W. ¼ of Sec. 34 Tp. 13 S, R 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: John W. Symms, John Shepherd, John Strohmeyer and Fred Albers, all of Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
a23-6t Register.

TAKE SIMMONS

LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the

Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. L. M. HINTON, M. D., Washington, Ark.

SEE THAT YOU GET THE GENUINE
PREPARED BY
J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge, No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,

SHINGLES,

SASH AND BLINDS,

LATH,

RUSTIC

MOULDINGS,

DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sept 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine

Independence Hotel.

Independence, Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL

DINING ROOM,

APARTMENTS,

—AND—

—THE BAR—

Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars.

Jy 1 86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.

W. E. LINDSEY,
—Dealer in—
Gravestones, Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.
—Agent for—
PENRYN ISLAND SCOTCH GRANITE.
Virginia Street, Below Second,
Reno, Nevada.
oct 23 tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 176 page pamphlet. Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | | From Mound House. No. 1 | | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Leave— | | Arrives— | |
| Mound House | | 9 15 a. m | | 5 30 p. m |
| Payton | | 9 45 a. m. | | 4 35 p. m. |
| Wabuska | | 12 45 a. m | | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | | 4 30 p. m | | 10 40 a. m. |
| Luning | | 4 50 p. m. | | 9 20 a. m |
| Sodа Springs | | 7 0 p. m. | | 8 0 a. m |
| Belleville | | 8 10 p. m. | | 7 0 a. m |
| Candelaria | Ar. | 8 50 p. m | Lv. | 6 30 a. m |
| | | No. 3 | | No. 4 |
| | Leave— | | Arrives— | |
| Belleville | | 7 30 a. m. | | 8 25 p. m |
| Benton | | 11 00 a. m | | 4 45 p. m |
| Bishop Creek | | 1 10 p. m. | | 12 30 a. m |
| Alvord | | 2 00 p. m | | 10 55 a. m. |
| Independence | | 3 30 p. m. | | 9 05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | | 4 15 p. m | | 8 15 a. m |
| Keeler | Ar. | 5 05 p. m. | Lv. | 7 30 a. m |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's. tri weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Dowieville, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's. stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.
R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.
D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

ESTABLISHED 1846 MUNN & Co. PATENTS NEW YORK

After Forty years' experience in the preparation of more than One Hundred Thousand applications for patents in the United States and Foreign countries, the publishers of the Scientific American continue to act as solicitors for patents, caveats, trade-marks, copyrights, etc., for the United States, and to obtain patents in Canada, England, France, Germany, and all other countries. Their experience is unequaled and their facilities are unsurpassed.

Drawings and specifications prepared and filed in the Patent Office on short notice. Terms very reasonable. No charge for examination of models or drawings. Advice by mail free.

Patents obtained through Munn & Co. are noticed in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has the largest circulation and is the most influential newspaper of its kind published in the world. The advantages of such a notice every patentee understands.

This large and splendidly illustrated newspaper is published WEEKLY at $3.00 a year, and is admitted to be the best paper devoted to science, mechanics, inventions, engineering works, and other departments of industrial progress, published in any country. It contains the names of all patentees and title of every invention patented each week. Try it four months for one dollar. Sold by all newsdealers.

If you have an invention to patent write to Munn & Co., publishers of Scientific American, 361 Broadway, New York.

Handbook about patents mailed free.

Wheeler & Wilson

Sewing Machine.

New No. 8.

"THE BEST!"

Sales Made on Installment Plan.

Old Machines Exchanged for.

Farm Produce Taken in Payment.

This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really

First-Class Machine.

Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.

I. H. MULHOLLAND,
Agent.
Independence, Cal.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples,
Pears,
Peaches
& Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,

(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)

Merchant,

INDEPENDENCE

INYO CO., CAL.

Wholesale and Retail

....DEALER IN....

General Merchandise.

MY STOCK

Consisting of most everything in article, is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as in the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.
n26 tf

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE

BANKER,

Independence, Cal

SELL EXCHANGE

—ON—

SAN FRANCISCO.

DRAW DIRECT

—ON—

NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN,
FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, } Germany

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT all kinds

GENERAL BANKING

—AND—

Exchange Business.

Wir kaufen in deutschen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main. Deutsche Reichsmarken gesucht. Geldsendungen nach Deutschland besorgt.

AGENT FOR
Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - $53,000,000

LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - $11,000,000

NATHAN RHINE.

BLACKSMITHING,

Horseshoeing, General Iron.

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITHSHOP
C. Main St. & Depot Ave,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing.....$2.50 For Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, JUNE 9 ..... .... 1888

DIED.

HEDGES—At Independence, June 4, 1888, William Hedges, aged about 55 years.

Don't forget the social in Gunn's new building on Monday eve.

Mrs. Margaret Reddy came up from Darwin last Thursday and spent a few days in town.

Ed Clark took a run down from Bishop Creek last Wednesday. He returned next morning.

Very handsome furniture is being put into Gunn's new building. It is worth calling to see.

Last Monday Michael Bush made final proof on a pre-emption of 160 acres of land near Chrysopolis.

Mrs. Marie Fitzgerald came in from Lookout to Lone Pine last Monday. She will remain for the summer.

In the Tip Top mine, north and east of Seda Springs, Nevada, a vein of ore is developed that goes ninety dollars per ton.

Parties wanting a supply of ice during the summer months are directed to the advertisement in another column of F. K. Andrews & Co.

Mr. E. E. Chenot, an employee of the Southern Pacific railroad, was in town some days this week. He is a nephew of Mr. E. Chenot of Independence.

Mrs. R. E. Barnes, of Cottonwood, has gone to the lower country. She has been in poor health for some time and change of climate is recommended.

The prospect of the speedy building of the Salt Lake and Los Angeles railway has caused active demand for real estate in Pahranagat Valley, Nevada.

J. J. Moore respectfully announces that he is a candidate for nomination to the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. See his card.

Mike Lasky left Lone Pine last Monday with a force of men to work at the Keynot mine. The old Keynot has turned out many thousands of dollars, and evidently contains plenty yet.

A party of ladies and gentlemen from Carson and vicinity came down to Big Pine at the beginning of the week and spent some days fishing on Big Pine creek. The party came on a special train.

C. B. Rawson is building about two miles of ditch to convey the water of a creek flowing out of Black Rock Canyon onto a tract of land north of Big Spring. He expects this will double the present crop.

Billy Grant and Ed Walker are busy at Owens Lake getting in hay. Pap bears the fatigue first rate, he keeps under the shade and takes care of the jug. All the boys send word they will come up to Independence on the fourth.

Everybody should go to the Norman House, Independence, next Wednesday evening and see a fine display of oil paintings and other works of art. Pictures, albums and frames will be sold at auction regardless of cost. See the advertisement.

By the courtesy of Congressman Vandever we have received a copy of the Report of Director Powell, of the U. S. Geological Survey of 1884-5. This is a work of great value. To the public the work of the Geological Survey is of importance and value not easy to estimate.

The dance proposed to be given by the Silver Cornet Band at Gunn's new building has been postponed till next Monday evening, June 11th. The postponement was made in order to give time to finish the decoration and furnishing of the building and for the paint to dry. Don't forget the date.

Yesterday morning about four o'clock a fire was discovered in a mature pile of wood on Mairs' river bank. It was noticed in time to prevent damage. Whether it was a case of spontaneous combustion, or careless throwing away of a cigar or match is not known; but the consequences might have been serious.

H. Cleveland has been in this neighborhood during the week selling fruit trees. He represents a nursery at Walla-Walla, Washington Territory. It is worth remarking that the merit of Owens Valley as a fruit raising country should be known so far away, and that a nurseryman should send an agent such a distance to canvass for orders.

H. A. Max is working three men in a mine in Redding Canyon. The ore is gold bearing and goes about sixty dollars a ton. The veins small. Deahy, Cashbaugh and Hogan are now sacking a lot of ore in the same canyon. The ore is all gold bearing. John Hopkins has put up an arrastra at Laws and ore from Redding Canyon will be worked there.

To-morrow [Sunday] evening the Superintendent of the Nevada Mission will preach at the M. E. Church at Independence, this being his first visit to this place. The Superintendent is an excellent preacher; he is brother to our former pastor, Rev. J. H. De La Matyr. Everybody should attend and hear Mr. De La Matyr; his discourses are always interesting and instructive.

The State Board of Trade asks that an exhibit of the productions of each county in the State be made at the National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Columbus, Ohio, the second week in September. From Columbus the exhibits will be taken to Cincinnati to the Centennial exposition of the Ohio Valley and Central States. This will afford a grand opportunity for advertising all parts of our State. Exhibits will be taken free of charge to the contributor.

A correspondent says that the Producers' Union, organized at Bishop Creek about two years ago has been dissolved. The concern was not a success. Mr. G. H. Hardy, who was in charge of the store at Laws from the time it was opened, will continue the business on his own account. When Mr. Hardy went to Laws he got possession of some land there; this year he put in grain on the land and the crop is looking well. At and near Laws improvements are being made continually in buildings and on land.

Water Turned In At Eastside.

The heaviest part of the work on the Eastside canal is done. A temporary head gate has been put in and water turned into the canal on Thursday. It is not intended to turn in more water this season than will be enough to soak the banks and furnish water for the use of men and teams at work upon the canal. Yet if any settler along the upper end of the canal should want to do any farming upon his land immediately all the water necessary can be supplied. With a little work to finish upon a stretch about half a mile in length the canal will be finished to Citrus, a distance of about six miles. It will be quite as easy to make four miles on the remainder of the work as to make one mile on the part already made. The rest of the way is over level ground in a loose soil, and very rapid progress can be made. So far the work has been done very thoroughly and none of it will have to be done over again. By next Spring a good many miles of the canal will be completed and water ready for a large number of settlers.

Mistaken Kindness.

Last Wednesday a drummer hired a horse and sulky at Mairs' livery stable and drove down the valley. At Georges Creek the traveler decided that his horse should have a drink, and stopped for that purpose. He thought the horse could not drink with the bit in his mouth and took off the bridle, thus leaving the animal without any means of controlling him. Just then a gust of wind blew some loose weeds against the legs of the horse, and he being a young and spirited animal, was frightened and dashed off as fast as he could run. The driver gazed at him till he disappeared from sight and then went to a farmhouse near by and hired the farmer to bring him to town. On the way he found the horse standing quietly and the only damage done was a broken singletree.

Tin Ore Discovered.

In the Inyo mountains, a short distance from Independence Station, is a large vein or ledge that miners have often looked at, but as it shows no evidence of carrying gold or silver no one has ever tried to do anything with it. A few days ago Mr. A. J. Davis examined some of the ore, and as it closely resembled tin ore he had seen elsewhere he assayed for that metal. The result of the assay led him to believe that the ore carries tin, and plenty of it. Samples have been sent for assay to various places. If the ore shall be found to contain tin in paying quantities there is a large ledge and it is very easy of access.

New Ledge.

Mr. Hannigan came in from Panamint last Wednesday. He had been prospecting and found the best looking ledge yet discovered in the district. The vein is six feet wide for a distance of at least twelve hundred feet, and has been prospected to a depth of eleven feet. The ore is galena and carbonate. The carbonate carries 182 ounces of silver per ton and 67 per cent. lead; the galena carries 70 per cent. lead and 46 ounces silver per ton. The claim is six miles northwest from the town of Panamint and five miles northeast from Hot Spring. There are other parties interested with Mr. Hannigan and the mine is likely to be worked without delay.

Must Get Help or Stop.

Before the Directors of the Irrigation District can proceed any further it will be necessary for them to have some money. Bonds must be paid for when delivered by the printer; it would then be necessary to employ an agent to put the bonds on the market, and this will require more money; no responsible man will act without compensation. Already there is considerable due for salaries, books, printing and so forth. The Directors are not rich enough to put up money to carry on the business of the District on the chance of selling bonds. It would appear that further proceedings must stop unless the Directors can get immediate help to the extent of about one thousand dollars.

Obituary.

Last Monday afternoon William Hedges died at Independence. He had been sick many weeks. He was a member of Lodge No. 15 I. O. O. F. of San Francisco, and during his illness was tenderly cared for by the members of the Lodge at Independence. The Brethren did for him in sickness all that the nearest relatives could have done. He was a native of Maine, aged about 55 years, and was by occupation a machinist. He was an old settler in Owens Valley, coming here early in the 60's. So far as known he had no relatives on the Pacific Coast. He left no money or property. He was very quiet; steady in his habits and well liked by all who knew him.

Meteorological Summary for May, 1888, Keeler, Cal.

Mean reduced barometer.....29.76 inches.
Mean temperature .....66°
Highest temperature .....88°
Lowest temperature .....41°
Mean monthly range of temperature .....47°
Mean relative humidity 34 per cent.
Mean dew point, 35 per cent.
Prevailing direction of wind, N. and S.
Maximum velocity of wind, direction and date, 35 miles N. W. 2nd.
Precipitation .....0.30
Number of clear days.....16
Number of fair days .....14
Number of cloudy days.....1
Number of rainy days.....0

D. C. Gaunow,
Private Signal Service Corps.

Not Yet Open.

The Sonora pass over the Sierras is difficult to open this season. The Bridgeport Chronicle Union of last Saturday says: "Workmen are putting this road in order on the other side of the summit. They have reached to within a short distance of Baker's. Sam. Fales, who has charge of the road this side of the summit, is putting his section in order. A 12-foot snow drift will have to be cut, and it is thought that wagons will be able to cross in a few days."

Director's Meeting.

The Board of Directors of the Irrigation District met at Independence last Tuesday. Joseph Seely appeared before the Board and offered to cancel the agreement whereby he was to convey to the Directors his water location in consideration of the sum of seven thousand dollars. The Board refused to cancel the agreement. A committee was appointed to ascertain the cost of printing bonds, said committee being Directors Densmore, Harvey and Clark.

Officers Elected.

On Thursday evening the following were elected officers of Lodge No. 321 I. O. O. F. to serve for the ensuing term. P. W. Forbes, N. G. Bertrand Rhine V. G. E. Robinson, Treas. J. D. Blair, Sec.

A fruit display will be a new feature in the celebration of the Fourth of July at Independence. The fruit will be put into Agricultural Hall, not merely to look at, but for everybody, young and old, to help themselves freely to all they want to eat free of cost.

Tom Donahue Killed.

Tom Donahue, well known at Independence, was killed at Candelaria last Sunday evening. The Enterprise gives the following account of the shooting: "On Sunday evening last J. L. Callison, generally known as "Doc," shot and killed Tom Donahue in Candelaria. For some time there had been ill-feeling between the two men, which it is believed arose from a dispute over a mining claim. On Sunday they met in a saloon and after some words and a scuffle were separated. They then agreed to conclude their quarrel with pistols. Donahue went to a saloon and Callison went to his house. Afterward Callison coming down town saw Donahue coming out of a saloon, and said to him, "Are you ready?" or something to that import, holding out a pistol. Donahue turned as quickly as he could and the firing began. They were close together, and the first shot from Callison's pistol broke the hand of Donahue, in which he held his weapon. Being disarmed he backed down the street, trying to ward off Callison's pistol with his other hand. Callison followed him shooting until Donahue fell dead in the door of Tommy Edwards' saloon. The murdered man was shot twice through the head, twice through the breast, once through the leg, and once through the hand which held his pistol. It is also reported that his other arm was broken by a fall in the street. He stepped over something while backing away from Callison and fell once. However the report of the broken arm is not positive. The shot fired by Donahue missed Callison, who was unhurt. Donahue kept a saloon in Candelaria for a long time, but had been out of the business for some months. He and Callison had been very intimate and were supposed to be interested together in a good many operations. He was quite a popular man; he would sometimes get on a spree and become boisterous, but was not looked upon as dangerous. Callison is one of the Commissioners of Esmeralda county. He at one time worked the ground now owned by the Mount Diablo Company, and engaged in a long and hard legal contest with that company for its possession. In 1881 he shot and killed Joe Turner in a quarrel which originated in a gambling dispute.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that water from irrigating ditches must not be allowed to get upon the public roads. From and after the publication of this notice I will at once direct the District Attorney to enter suit against any person allowing water to run on the roads without necessary culverts within the district of which I have charge.

Geo. H. Palmer,
Lone Pine. Road Overseer.

"English as she is taught"—"Oh, mama."

George Lewis came up from Keeler last Thursday.

Peaches and cream, all you and your girl can eat, free of cost at Independence on the fourth. Bring two girls, boys, if you want to.

A census has just been taken of the population of Reno and the number of inhabitants was found to be 4460. Of these 115 are Chinese.

Agricultural Hall at Independence makes by a long odds the best ball room in the county. The ball to be given there on the fourth will be worth attending.

A meeting of the Directors of the irrigation district will be held at Independence on Saturday, June 23rd, to consider the report of the Committe on the form and cost of printing bonds.

A horse race; a foot race; a base ball game; a foot ball game and several other games; a grand parade; a grand fruit display; mountains of peaches and oceans of cream, help yourself and nothing to pay at Independence on the fourth.

Mr. J. J. Moore will be a candidate for nomination for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. Mr. Moore has already given ample proof that he has the prime qualifications of honesty and capacity. See his card in another column.

For the month of May the wages paid to employees of Comstock mining companies made a total of $238,575. Nearly the whole of this would be spent in Virginia in the month. The Enterprise says: "Of this vast sum of money nearly $30,000 was paid in silver, yet there don't seem to be any glut of the metal in town."

Mr. J. C. Eldy, of Darwin, has been over at Panamint recently. It is understood that the object of his visit was to settle the question whether or not he should put up a mill there. It is reported that he has decided to build a mill, or move one from another place during the summer.

About two months ago Charles Graf shot and killed Joseph Shannon near Steamboat Springs, Nevada. Last week Graf was tried at Reno and on Saturday evening the jury brought in a verdict of acquittal. The verdict is regarded as entirely just, the man having acted in self defense.

So many sheep are flocking into Mono county that the Bridgeport paper thinks the amount realized from the sale of the sheep licenses will add so much to the revenue as to reduce the tax levy this year. It is now seen how much mistaken those were who argued that the license tax would keep sheep away from counties where it should be established.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

J. J. MOORE.

ICE! ICE ICE!

We are now prepared to furnish a first-class quality of

ICE

In quantities to suit either at Bishop Creek, or on the cars at Bishop Station, at

2 Cts. per Pound.

Orders Promptly Attended To.

F. K. ANDREWS & CO.
Laws, Inyo Co., Cal.

Who Spends Money

For advertising in newspapers in these hard times, without first obtaining an estimate of the cost from Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York, is likely to pay $10 for what might be obtained for $5. Such estimates are furnished to all applicants gratis. Send 10 cents for 176 page pamphlet with list of newspaper rates and references.

PHOTOGRAPHY

—IN ALL ITS BRANCHES—

Will Be Executed

—AT THE—

- STUDIO -

—OF—

Bledsoe & Co.

Paintings of all the prominent scenes on the Globe. In fact,

Anything & Everything

In the picture line, from a locket to an 8x10 ft painting can be had. Will deal in Frames, Chromos, Etc.—any and all sizes.

PRICES REASONABLE.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

BLEDSOE & CO.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS,

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELLER,
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pulman Palace Car works at Chicago.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.

Livery Accommodations

O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

List of Delinquent Purchasers of School Lands in Inyo County.

Showing the Amount Due January 1st, 1889.

| NAME OF PURCHASER. | NO | DATE OF APPROVAL. | NO. AND DATE OF CERTIFICATE OF PURCHASE. | SEC. TION. | TOWN-SHIP. | RANGE. | MER DIAN. | DESCRIPTION. | NO. OF ACRES. | AMOUNT OF PRINCIPAL PAID. | AMOUNT OF PRINCIPAL UNPAID. | AMOUNT OF INTEREST PAID. | AMOUNT OF INTEREST UNPAID JAN. 1ST, 1889 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Livingston, Archd. | 18 | March 30, 1874. | 5848 May 4, 1874. | 36 | 18 S. | 36 E. | M. D. | S. E. ¼ | 160 00 | 40 00 | 160 00 | 12 05 | 224 00 |
| Modie, S. W. | 171 | Nov. 28, 1877. | 7428 Jan. 8, 1878. | 16 | 15 S. | 36 E. | M. D. | W. ½ | 320 00 | 80 00 | 320 00 | 290 85 | 64 00 |
| Hughes, Thomas | 345 | Oct. 14, 1881. | 8214 Jan. 9, 1882. | 36 | 7 S. | 33 E. | H. D. | E. ½ of N. W. ¼, E. ½ of S. W. ¼ | 160 00 | 40 00 | 160 00 | 58 37 | 22 40 |
| Williams, Benjamin | 407 | Sept. 22, 1885. | 9739 Nov. 5, 1885. | 16 | 31 E. | 8 S. | M. D. | N. W. ¼ of N. W. ¼ | 40 00 | 10 00 | 40 00 | 7 77 | 8 40 |
| Sanger, Gustave. | 429 | June 15, 1886. | 10151 July 23, 1886. | 36 | 34 E. | 9 S. | M. D. | W. ½ | 320 00 | 80 00 | 320 00 | 12 20 | 44 80 |

THEO. REICHERT, Register State Land Office.

The said Archd. Livingston, S. W. Modie, Thomas Hughes, Benjamin Williams, and Gustave Sanger, the delinquent purchasers above named, and each of them, are hereby notified, that if the amount due as above stated is not paid within fifty days after the date of this notice I will commence suit to foreclose the interest of said purchasers in the lands above described.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney.

Dated June 2nd, 1888.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NORMAN HOUSE,

Independence, - - Cal.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. I. MAIRS, Prop.
feb12tf

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law,
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE.
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜
☞ Of the C. & C. Railroad. ☜

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK
Livery, Feed & Sale Stable.
JOHN CLARKE, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. ☞ 256 pages, 8½x11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,
A. N. BELL, Prop.
TRY BELL'S
EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,
Independence, Cal.

INDEPENDENCE MARKET,
J. Roeper, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef, Mutton, Pork, Lard, Sausage.

I make a specialty of, furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.
dec18-tf

FRED BURCKHARDT
Watchmaker & Jeweler,
LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.
☞ All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
Bishop Creek, Cal.,
Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

EDWARD CHENOT,
Independence, Cal.,
INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO Extensive Stock of
GENERAL MERCHANDISE
....Consisting of....
GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS
Tobacco, Cigars,
WINES AND LIQUORS
FLOUR & GRAIN
Together with an Assortment of
DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING
ETC., ETC

☞ Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
n476tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths
AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA
On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special
INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS
THE WATER CONTAINS
SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.
And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing
When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,
—And a large—
SWIMMING BATH
Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,
—AND—
Board by the Day, Week, or the Month
MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

THIS PAPER IS ON FILE
—AT—
PALMER & REY'S
ADVERTISING BUREAU!
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco.
—AND AT—
PALMER & REY'S
Pacific States Advertising Bureau
46 Tribune Building,
NEW YORK.
Where Advertising Contracts can be made

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles
OF
Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc
AT
L. WOOD'S
CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH STORE
Is Where You Get
WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
General Merchandise
A Full Line
CONSTANTLY ON HAND.
ORDERS SOLICITED
Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.
MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.
MAIN OFFICE:
HAWTHORNE NEV.
BRANCHES:
Wabuska, Nev.,
CONSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.
AGENCIES:
WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co's.
aug27

TOM BOLAND,
KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

PROVISIONS,
&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the C
Excellent Cardinal or Drab
SATEEN CORSETS
44 cts.
By mail 12c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered bust, finished with pretty lace or inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.
More Important Still
Is to send for large Catalogue (which we send forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Men's Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.
WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.
400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.
SACRAMENTO, CAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.
Bee Keeper.
Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.
Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL.

—The inventor of the two-wheeled grain-drill which is in such general use throughout the West died not long ago in a poor-house.

—William K. Vanderbilt, it is stated, will take up his permanent abode in Europe, probably in England, visiting America only at occasional periods as his interests or pleasure may dictate.

—A citizen of Muncie, Ind., went to a religious meeting the other evening and read a newspaper most of the time. He was arrested, charged with "disturbing a religious meeting," tried and acquitted.

—Miss Minnie Dows, a Siamese lady who was not long ago an attendant upon the King of Siam, is now studying at Oxford, Ohio. She wishes to prepare herself to practice medicine, to be able to return to her country as a medical missionary.

—Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher has no indication of widowhood or bereavement in her dress, for she shares her dead husband's disbelief in the propriety of mourning garments. She looks exceedingly venerable, however, and a little less austere than of yore.

—General Thomas, who rented the country residence of the late Henry Ward Beecher, at Peekskill, recently vacated it, finding Hudson river country life unsuited to his taste. This mansion and the broad acres about it have not been sold as once reported.

—General Dan Sickles is one of the best known figures in New York as he hobbles about on his crutches. When he visits the National Museum at Washington he can now have the doubtful satisfaction of gazing upon his own thigh-bone, which has lately been placed upon exhibition there.

—Mrs. Vanderbilt recently wanted Josef Hofmann, the child pianist, to play at an afternoon musicale at her house. The boy was billed for a matinee, but Mrs. Vanderbilt secured him at an expense of twenty-five hundred dollars, the estimated receipts of the matinee, which was postponed to permit him to play at her house.

—Miss Kittie C. Wilkins, the horse queen of Idaho, is somewhat tall, with a high forehead, regular features and rather light hair, being something of a blonde. Her eyes are dark and her manner very charming. Altogether she impresses one as a very intelligent young woman of about twenty-three. She owns nearly eight hundred horses.

—David Henning, "the Michigan apple king," is the most distinguished man in his line in the world. He has bought and sold 125,000 barrels of apples in a single season and generally manages to dispose of 100,000 barrels a year, most of them in Chicago. He has a big factory, where his barrels are made, and he buys up apples all over Michigan and in New York State.

—Mrs. Cleveland has the reputation of being an exceptionally good housekeeper, and it is told that in the privacy of her life at Oak View she will sometimes don a big white apron, and with feather duster in hand go over the house putting the finishing touches to the already well-dusted corners. She invades her kitchen when she thinks it necessary and some of her admirers even go so far as to say that if worse came to worse she could make a pot of coffee or bake a pie fit for—a President.

"A LITTLE NONSENSE."

—"What's the cause of Tailor Jackson's death; did you hear?" Old Mrs. Bentley—"Delirium trimmings, I believe."—Judge.

—"Ah, yes," said a cabinet-maker to a crockery dealer to whom he was introduced—"ah, yes; you sell tea-sets and I sell settees."

—A good play can be acted without being mounted well; but it is actually necessary for a circus to be well mounted.—N. O. Picayune.

—"How are you feeling to-day?" asked a physician of a paralytic patient. "Only a little bit on the right side, thank you," was the cheerful response.—Tid-Bits.

—"Nature," said a philosopher, "is full of wise provisions." He doubtless referred to potatoes, beets and other vegetables, and not to mince-pie and welch rarebits.—Life.

One of Fortune's Favorites.

"It is better to be born lucky than rich," is an old aphorism, the proof of which lies in the observation of the lives of men. But a man cannot strut around Micawber like and expect to be struck by the lightning of good luck. In this life of chances and whirlpool of surprises and disappointments a man cannot expect to win anything unless something is ventured. Six years ago Texas in this city, of fifteen summers, distinction of a speculative spirit, determined to make a monthly investment in Congress The Louisiana State Lottery the dying that perseverance that is the only one title of Genius to a successful life, he has drawing at odd times small sums, until the 13th of this month, the fortune wheel of fortune stopped on and he found himself worth IRWIN This favored son of fortune Newman, the book-keeper Cor. Eighth n & Co., wholesale whisky dealers. Last Sunday night Indep after he had become rich, he majority, and gave a birthation. A great number of his friends were present, and con- THE spected him effusively on the bright establishment with which he enters man- an furnished. A World scribe chatted Mr. Newman in his office yesterday afternoon, and was informed that he had placed his money in the First National Bank, of this city, and would let it remain there, accumulating, while he will retain his position at the desk. He also stated that he would continue to take a ticket in every monthly drawing, the time honored precept, "lightning never strikes in the same place twice," to discourage him, notwithstanding.—Helena (Ark.) World, March 28.

WELL MANAGED.

In the twenty odd years of its existence the PACIFIC BANK has gained steadily in business and reputation. Its uniform and brilliant success is largely due to the management of the well-known Dr. R. H. McDonald, who continues at the head of its directory.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

Umslopogaas had put out all his iron strength and broken the warrior's neck.

For a moment he knelt upon his victim, still griping his throat till he was sure that there was nothing more to fear from him, and then he rose and beckoned to us to advance, which we did on all fours, like a colony of huge apes. On reaching the kraal we saw that the Masai had still further choked this entrance, which was about ten feet wide—no doubt in order to guard against attack—by dragging four or five tops of mimosa trees up to it. So much the better for us, I reflected; the more obstruction there was the slower would they be able to come through. Here we separated, Mackenzie and his party creeping up under the shadow of the wall to the left, while Sir Henry and Umslopogaas took their stations one on each side of the thorn fence, the two spearmen and the Askari lying down in front of it. I and my men crept on up the right side of the kraal, which was about fifty paces long.

When I was two-thirds up I halted, and placed my men at distances of four paces from one another, keeping Alphonse close to me, however. Then I peeped for the first time over the wall. It was getting fairly light now, and the first thing I saw was the white donkey, exactly opposite to me, and close by it I could make out the pale face of little Flossie, who was sitting as the lad had described, some ten paces from the wall. Round her lay many warriors, sleeping. At distances all over the surface of the kraal were the remains of fires, round each of which slept some five-and-twenty Masai, for the most part gorged with food. Now and then a man would raise himself, yawn, and look at the east, which had now turned primrose; but none got up. I determined to wait another five minutes, both to allow the light to increase, so that we could make better shooting, and to give Good and his party, of whom I could see or hear nothing, every opportunity to make ready.

Suddenly, just as I was nerving myself for the signal, having already selected my man on whom I meant to open fire—a great fellow sprawling on the ground within three consented, and called the Zulu, who came bearing Sir Henry's ax, which he had now fixed up to his satisfaction, with him. When we showed him the steel shirt, and explained to him that we wanted him to wear it, he at first declined, saying that he had fought in his own skin for thirty years, and that he was not going to begin now to fight in an iron one. Thereupon I took a heavy spear, and spreading the shirt upon the floor, drove the spear down upon it with all my strength, the weapon rebounding without leaving a mark upon the tempered steel. This exhibition half converted him; and when I pointed out to him how necessary it was that he should not let any old fashioned prejudices he might possess stand in the way of a precaution which might preserve a valuable life at a time when men were scarce, and also that if he wore this shirt he might dispense with a shield, and so have both hands free, he yielded at once, and proceeded to invest his great frame with the "iron skin." And indeed, although made for Sir Henry, it fitted the great Zulu like a skin. The two men were almost of a height; and though Curtis looked the bigger man, I am inclined to think that the difference was more imaginary than real, the fact being that, although he was plumper and rounder, he was not really bigger, except in the arm. Umslopogaas had, comparatively speaking, thin arms, but they were as strong as wire ropes. At any rate, when they both stood, ax in hand, invested in the brown mail, which clung to their mighty forms like a web garment, showing the swell of every muscle and the curve of every line, they formed a pair that any ten men might shrink from meeting.

It was now nearly 1 o'clock in the morning and the spies reported that, after having drunk the blood of the oxen and eaten enormous quantities of meat, the Masai were going to sleep round their watch fires, but that sentries had been posted at each opening of the kraal. Flossie, they added, was sitting not far from the wall in the center of the western side of the kraal, and by her were the horse and the white donkey, which was tethered to a peg. Her feet were bound with rope, and warriors were lying about all round her.

As there was absolutely nothing further that could be done then we all took some supper and went to lie down for a couple of hours.

The bed whereon I lay was near an open window that looked on to the veranda, through which came an extraordinary sound of groaning and weeping. For a time I could not make out what it was, but at last I got up, and putting my head out of the window stared about. Presently I saw a dim figure kneeling on the end of the veranda and beating his breast—in which I recognized Alphonse. Not being able to understand his French talk, or what on earth he was at, I called to him and asked him what he was doing.

"Ah, monsieur," he sighed, "I do make prayer for the souls of those whom I shall slay to-night."

"Indeed," I said; "then I wish that you would do it a little more quietly."

Alphonse retreated, and I heard no more of his groans. And so the time passed, till at length Mr. Mackenzie called me in a whisper through the window, for of course everything had now to be done in the most absolute silence. "Three o'clock," he said; "we must begin to move at half past."

I told him to come in, and presently he entered, and I am bound to say that if it had not been that just then I had not got a laugh anywhere about me, I should have exploded at the sight he presented armed for battle. To begin with, he had on a clergyman's black swallow tail and a kind of broad rimmed black felt hat, both of which he had donned on account, he said, of their dark color. In his hand was the Winchester repeating rifle we had lent him; and stuck in an elastic cricketing belt, like those worn by English boys, were, first, a huge buckhorn handled carving knife with a guard to it, and next a long barreled Colt's revolver.

"Ah, my friend," he said, seeing me staring at his belt, "you are looking at my 'carver.' I thought it might come in handy if we came to close quarters; it is excellent steel, and many is the pig I have killed with it."

By this time everybody was up and dressing. I put on a light Norfolk jacket over my mail shirt, in order to have a pocket handy to hold my cartridges, and buckled on my revolver. Good did the same; but Sir Henry put on nothing except his mail shirt, steel lined cap and a pair of "veldtschoons" or soft hide shoes, his legs being bare from the knees down. His revolver he strapped on round his middle outside the armored shirt.

Meanwhile Umslopogaas was mustering the men in the square under the big tree, and going the rounds to see that each was properly armed, etc. At the last moment we made one change. Finding that two of the men who were to have gone with the firing parties knew little or nothing of guns, but were good spearsmen, we took away their rifles, supplied them with shields and long spears of the Masai pattern, and told them off to join Curtis, Umslopogaas and the Askari in holding the wide opening—it having become clear to us that three men, however brave and strong, were too few for the work.

CHAPTER VII.

A SLAUGHTER GRIM AND GREAT.

Then came a pause, and we stood there in the chilly, silent darkness waiting till the moment came to start. It was, perhaps, the most trying time of all—that slow, slow quarter of an hour. The minutes seemed to drag along with leaden feet, and the quiet, the solemn hush, that brooded over all—big, as it were, with a coming fate—was most oppressive to the spirits.

The moon went down; for a long while she had been getting nearer and nearer to the horizon, now she finally sank, and left the world in darkness save for a faint gray tinge in the eastern sky that palely heralded the coming dawn.

Mr. Mackenzie stood, watch in hand, his wife clinging to his arm and striving to stifle her sobs.

"Twenty minutes to four," he said; "it ought to be light enough to attack at twenty minutes past four. Capt. Good had better be moving; he will want three or four minutes' start."

Good gave one final polish to his eyeglass, nodded to us in a jocular sort of way—which I could not help feeling it must have cost him something to muster up—and, ever polite, took off his steel lined cap to Mrs. Mackenzie and started for his position at the head of the kraal, to reach which he had to make a detour by some paths known to the natives.

Just then one of the boys came in and reported that everybody in the Masai camp, with the exception of the two sentries who were walking up and down in front of the respective entrances, appeared to be fast asleep. Then the rest of us took the road. First came the guide, then Sir Henry, Umslopogaas, the Wakwafi Askari and Mr. Mackenzie's two mission natives, armed with long spears and shields. I followed immediately after with Alphonse and five natives, all armed with guns, and Mr. Mackenzie brought up the rear with the six remaining natives.

The cattle kraal where the Masai were camped lay at the foot of the hill on which the house stood, or, roughly speaking, about 500 yards from the mission buildings. The first 500 yards of this distance we traversed quietly indeed, but at a good pace; after that we crept forward as silently as a leopard on his prey, gliding like ghosts from bush to bush and stone to stone. When I had gone a little way I chanced to look behind me, and saw the redoubtable Alphonse staggering along with white face and trembling knees, and his rifle, which was at full cock, pointed directly at the small of my back. Having halted, and carefully put the rifle at "safety," we started again, and all went well till we were within 100 yards or so of the kraal, when his teeth began to chatter in the most aggressive way.

"If you don't stop that, I will kill you," I whispered, savagely; for the idea of having all our lives sacrificed to a tooth chattering cook was too much for me. I began to fear that he would betray us, and heartily wished we had left him behind.

"But, monsieur, I cannot help it," he answered; "it is the cold."

Here was a dilemma; but fortunately I devised a plan. In the pocket of the coat I had on was a small piece of dirty rag that I had used some time before to clean a gun with. "Put this in your mouth," I whispered again, giving him the rag; "and if I hear another sound you are a dead man." I knew that that would stifle the clatter of his teeth. I must have looked as if I meant what I said, for he instantly obeyed me and continued his journey in silence.

Then we crept on again.

At last we were within fifty yards of the kraal. Between us and it was an open space of sloping grass, with only one mimosa bush and a couple of tussocks of a sort of thistle for cover. We were still hidden in fairly thick bush. It was beginning to grow light. The stars had paled and a sickly gleam played about the east and was reflected on the earth. We could see the outline of the kraal clearly enough, and could also make out the faint glimmer of the dying embers of the Masai camp fires. We halted and watched for the sentry we knew was posted at the opening. Presently he appeared, a fine tall fellow, walking idly up and down within five paces of the thorn stopped entrance. We had hoped to catch him napping, but it was not to be. He seemed particularly wide awake. If we could not kill that man, and kill him silently, we were lost. There we crouched and watched him. Presently Umslopogaas, who was a few paces ahead of me, turned and made a sign, and next second I saw him go down on his stomach like a snake and, taking an opportunity when the sentry's head was turned, begin to work his way through the grass without a sound.

The unconscious sentry commenced to hum a little tune, and Umslopogaas crept on. He reached the shelter of the mimosa bush unperceived, and there waited. Still the sentry walked up and down. Presently he turned and looked over the wall into the camp. Instantly the human snake who was stalking him glided on ten yards and got behind one of the tussocks of the thistle like plant, reaching it as the Elmoran turned again. As he turned his eye fell upon this patch of thistles, and it seemed to strike him that it did not look quite right. He advanced a pace towards it—halted, yawned, stooped down picked up a little pebble and threw it at it. It hit Umslopogaas upon the head, luckily not upon the armor shirt. Had it done so the clink would have betrayed us. Luckily, too the shirt was browned and not bright steel which would certainly have been detected. Apparently satisfied that there was nothing wrong, he then gave over his investigations and contented himself with leaning on his spear and standing gazing idly at the tuft. For at least three minutes did he stand thus, plunged apparently in a gentle reverie, and there we lay in the last extremity of anxiety expecting every moment that we should be discovered or that some untoward accident would happen. I could hear Alphonse's teeth going like anything on the oiled rag, and turning my head round made an awful face at him. But I am bound to state that my own heart was at much the same game as the Frenchman's castanets, while the perspiration was pouring from my body, causing the wash leather lined shirt to stick to me unpleasantly, and altogether I was in the pitiable state known by schoolboys as a "blue funk."

At last the ordeal came to an end. The sentry glanced at the east and appeared to note with satisfaction that his period of duty was coming to an end—as indeed it was, once and for all—for he rubbed his hands and began to walk again briskly, to warm himself.

The moment his back was turned the long black snake glided on again and reached the other thistle tuft, which was within a couple of paces of his return beat.

Back came the sentry, and strolled right past the tuft, utterly unconscious of the presence that was crouching behind it. Had he looked down he could scarcely have failed to see, but he did not do so.

He passed, and then his hidden enemy erected himself and with outstretched hand followed in his tracks.

A moment more, and, just as the Elmoran was about to turn, the great Zulu made a spring, and in the growing light we could see his long, lean hands close round the Masai's throat. Then followed a convulsive twining of the two dark bodies, and in another second I saw the Masai's head bent back and heard a sharp crack, something like that of a dry twig snapping, and he fell down upon the ground, his limbs moving spasmodically.

Umslopogaas had put out all his iron strength and broken the warrior's neck.

For a moment he knelt upon his victim, still griping his throat till he was sure that there was nothing more to fear from him, and then he rose and beckoned to us to advance, which we did on all fours, like a colony of huge apes. On reaching the kraal we saw that the Masai had still further choked this entrance, which was about ten feet wide—no doubt in order to guard against attack—by dragging four or five tops of mimosa trees up to it. So much the better for us, I reflected; the more obstruction there was the slower would they be able to come through.

(To be Continued.

—Anxious Traveler—"What time is the west-bound express due?" Agent—"At two o'clock." Anxious Traveler—"Is it on time?" Agent—"No; three hours late." Anxious Traveler—"Gee-whilikens! Three hours! What time will she come in, now?"

—He was talking to a Kentucky audience on the subject of the tariff. Said he: "Take whisky, for instance," when every man in the audience arose with the remark: "Thank you; don't care if I do," and the lecturer had to treat or die.—Texas Siftings.

—Young Housekeeper (to butcher)—"What is the price of mutton?" Butcher—"Fourteen cents, mum." Young Housekeeper—"And lamb?" Butcher—"Eighteen cents, mum." Young Housekeeper (surprised)—"Is it possible? Why a lamb isn't more than half the size of a—er—mutton!"

—A bright St. Paul boy of five summers took a notion the other day to read Shakespeare for amusement. When his sister asked him what play he had been reading he had to stop to think. Finally a light broke in upon his memory, and he answered: "A great deal about not much."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

MR. JOSEPH BEACH.

A LUCKY MAN.

Stone in the Kidney expelled after using Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" about two weeks.

One of the most remarkable cases that has ever been brought to the notice of the public is that of Mr. J. S. Beach, of Stone Ridge, Ulster Co., N. Y. Mr. Beach had suffered since October 18th, 1874, from the presence of Calculus or stone in the right kidney. No less than seven physicians were employed at different times, to whom Mr Beach paid hundreds of dollars for medical treatment, with only temporary relief from his agony.

By the urgent solicitation of his friends he was induced to try Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," made, you remember, at Rondout, N. Y. He experienced marked improvement from the first day he began to use the medicine. On the 15th September he voided a stone as large as could be passed through the natural channel.

Mr. Beach concludes a long letter to Dr. Kennedy by saying: "It will always afford me pleasure to recommend the "Favorite Remedy" to those who may be suffering from difficulties of the Kidneys and Bladder, or any disorders arising from an impure state of the blood." The "Favorite Remedy" is sold by all druggists. Price only $1 a bottle. The Doctor's only address where he manufactures his "Favorite Remedy," is Rondout, N. Y. Redington & Co., agents, San Francisco, Cal.

In seeking a situation, remember that the right kind of men are always in demand, and that industry and capacity rarely go empty-handed.

THAT HIGHWAY OF NATIONS.

The broad Atlantic, is ever a stormy thoroughfare. Yet blow the winds ever so fiercely, and ride the waves ever so lofttily, seamen must man the good ships, tourists will brave the passage, and commercial travelers and buyers must visit the centers of foreign trade and manufacture. That atrocious malady, sea-sickness, together with colicky pains and much inward uneasiness is often endured when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters would have fortified the voyagers against them. Sea captains, and in fact all old salt and veteran travelers are acquainted with the protective value of this estimable preventive and remedy, and are rarely unprovided with it. Emigrants to the far West should use it as a safeguard against malady. Seek the aid of the bitters for dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, kidney troubles, and all ailments that impair the harmonious and vigorous action of the vital powers.

Fear and awe are only weak chains to secure love; when these fetters are broken, a man who forgets to fear will begin to show the effects of his hatred.

THE FLYING DOVE OF PEACE.

A richly frosted quivering, flying Dove. A Dream of Life screen calendar. An imported ideal head. An imported frosted snow scene and a full set of magnificent floral cards. Fourteen artistic pieces. Sent to anyone who will buy from a druggist a box of the genuine DR. C. MLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS (price, 25 cts.) and mail us the outside wrapper from the box with 4 cents in stamps. Write your address plainly. FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURG, PA.

Bessie—How radient Clara looks! I wonder if Jack has proposed? Maude (Clara's rival)—Proposed! You mean you wonder if he has accepted.

THE FIVE SISTERS.

There were five fair sisters, and each had an aim—
Flora would fain be a fashionable dame;
Scholarly Susan's selection was books;
Coquettish Cora cared more for good looks;
Anna, ambitious, aspired after wealth;
Sensible Sarah sought first for good health.
So she took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and grew healthy and blooming. Cora's beauty quickly faded; Susan's eyesight failed from over-study; Flora became nervous and fretful in striving after fashion, and a sickly family kept Anna's husband poor. But sensible Sarah grew daily more healthy, charming and intelligent, and she married rich.

Ed—I want something to appeal to my imagination. I am tired of books and stupid plays. I want something that will speak to my intellect. Al—Try a pork chop.

INFLAMMATION.

Mr. McHenry, the well-known dealer in marble and stone-work, says:

"I take great satisfaction in stating that for several months I have used MITCHELL'S MAGIC LOTION for painful Burns, Humors, Neuralgia, Toothache, Headache, and when the skin was cut or bruised, and have never failed in obtaining prompt relief and curative results from its use. When the hands were blistered and sore from hard work, it had wonderful results in relieving and curing the soreness."

D. McHenry
410 Natoma street.

The MAGIC LOTION can be had at any drug or country store, price 50 cents per bottle. Depot, 1056 Howard street, San Francisco, Cal.

Piso's cure for Consumption is the best Cough Medicine. If you don't believe it, take a dose. By druggists, 25c. a bottle.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

Camel'ine improves and preserves the complexion.

ST. JACOBS OIL FOR POULTRY.

—CURES—

Chicken Cholera and all Disoases of Poultry.

GENERAL DIRECTIONS.—Mix a pill of bread or dough saturated with St. Jacobs Oil. If the fowl cannot swallow force it down the throat. Mix some corn-meal dough with the Oil. Give nothing else. They will finally eat and be cured.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers Everywhere.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

You will save Money, Time, Pain, Trouble, AND WILL CURE CATARRH By Using ELY'S CREAM BALM. CATARRH HAY-FEVER

ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES COLD IN HEAD CATARRH ROSE-COLD HAY-FEVER DEAFNESS HEADACHE EASY TO USE PRICE 50 CENTS ELY BRO'S, OWEGO N.Y. U.S.A.

A particle is applied into each nostril, and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS 235 Greenwich St., New York.

S. F. N. U. (First Series) No. 307

POISON IN THE PIPE.

An experiment recently made by the medical staff of the German Army as to the effect various grades of tobacco had upon the health of their soldiers is of general interest to all smokers.

It was found, after a searching inquiry, that the prevalence of throat diseases among smokers was not due so much to excess in this indulgence as to the use of green and improperly cured leaf.

Few manufacturers can afford to have a large capital idle for three years or more; consequently, the most of them cut new leaf, the noxious effects of which is fully realized when generated through the heated smoke. It is only large manufacturers who make smoking tobacco a specialty, and who desire to retain their well-earned reputation, that carry large stocks of leaf for the specified period. We learn that Marburg Bros. have in store nearly twenty millions of pounds of the crop of 1885, and it is to this is due the wide reputation they have established for their "Seal of North Carolina Plug Cut."—Grocer and Country Merchant.

The heart has reasons that reason does not understand.

DYSPEPSIA AND CONSTIPATION.

Henry B. Archer, Receiver of Texas of the City of Yonkers, N. Y., says of BRANDRETH'S PILLS:

For the past ten years I have been using BRANDRETH'S PILLS for self and family. We find them a sovereign remedy for indigestion and constipation, taking one or two every night for ten days.

They are also admirable blood purifiers, perfectly harmless but exceedingly effective as a cathartic. I first used them myself, particularly for biliousness and dyspepsia. They relieved me in two weeks. I cheerfully recommend them.

Don't Pay—Do hogs pay? asks an agricultural exchange. As a rule they don't pay if they can avoid it.

BARTHOLDI'S GREAT WORK.

The statue of Liberty enlightening the world, which stands on Bedloe's Island, in the harbor of New York, is one of the most sublime artistic conceptions of modern times. The torch of the goddess lights the pathway of the earth to peace, prosperity and progress through Liberty. But "Liberty" is an empty word to the thousands of poor women enslaved by physical ailments a hundred-fold more tyrannical than any Nero. To such sufferers Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription holds forth the promise of a speedy cure. It is a specific in all those derangements, irregularities and weaknesses which make life a burden to so many women. The only medicine sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. See guarantee printed on wrapper enclosing bottle.

The "Topsy" of an Uncle Tom's Cabin Troupe died recently and bequeathed her body to the doctors. Autopsy!

For Throat Diseases and Coughs, "Brown's Bronchial Troches," like all other really good things, are imitated, and purchasers should be careful to obtain the genuine article prepared by John I. Brown & Son.

CHILDREN STARVING TO DEATH

On account of their inability to digest food, will find a most marvelous food and remedy in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Very palatable and easily digested. Dr. S. W. Cohen, of Waco, Texas, says: "I have used your Emulsion in infantile wasting with good results. It not only restores wasted tissues, but gives strength and increases the appetite. I am glad to use such a reliable article."

The boodle exiles in Canada subscribe for a large number of American periodicals. But the paper called "The Age of Steel" is not among the number.

The three R's brought Regret, Reproach and Remorse to a great political party in 1884. The three P's when signifying Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets, bring Peace to the mind, Preservation and Perfection of health to the body.

Fear plunges the system into that state of debility which predisposes it to fatal impressions, while the moral force of confidence enables it to reject contagion.

Wakelee's Squirrel and Gopher Exterminator. Try it, and prove the best is the cheapest. Wakelee & Co., San Francisco.

R. H. McDonald PRES'T. F. V. McDonald, CASHIER.

ESTABLISHED 1863. Oldest Chartered Bank on the Pacific Coast.

PACIFIC BANK

Capital Stock $1,000,000.00.
SURPLUS $650,000.00.
AV. RESOURCES $4,356,175.94.

Besides paying the usual dividends, we have been enabled to add $200,000 to Surplus Fund during the past 2 years.

We are pleased to announce that the past year has been the most prosperous one the PACIFIC BANK has had during its 25 years of existence.

ASSETS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Bank Premises, | $150,000 00 |
| Other Real Estate, | 30,918 83 |
| Land Association, Gas and Bank stocks, | 26,242 30 |
| Loans and Discounts, | 2,914,119 99 |
| Due from Banks, | 340,897 37 |
| Money on hand, | 502,979 85 |
| | $3,965,158 34 |

LIABILITIES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Capital, paid up, | $1,000,000 00 |
| Surplus Fund, | 650,000 00 |
| Undivided Profits, | 9,309 40 |
| Due Depositors, | 2,094,780 69 |
| Due Banks, | 211,068 25 |
| | $3,965,158 34 |

Returning thanks for past favors, we respectfully ask a continuance of the same and solicit accounts of Individuals, Firms and Corporations. R. H. McDONALD, Pres't.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 1st. 1888.

R. HALL'S
PULMONARY BALSAM
A SUPERIOR REMEDY FOR
COUGHS, COLDS, INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION,
And all Throat and Lung Troubles.
Sold by all Druggists for.....50 Cents
J. R. GATES & CO.,
PROPRIETORS,
117 SANSOME ST., SAN FRANCISCO.

Farms for Sale.

SEND STAMPS FOR CIRCULAR to M. GRIFFIN, Cottonwood, Shasta County, Cal., fruit belt of Upper Sacramento Valley; or, to S. GRIFFIN, Tolo, Jackson County, Or., center of Rogue River Valley, noted for mild climate and productiveness.

STEINWAY. KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Roenisch Pianos; Burdett Organs, band instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

IRRIGATING PUMPS, STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS, COMPLETE POWER AND PUMPING PLANTS. Low prices, prompt delivery. Write for Circulars.
BYRON JACKSON, SAN FRANCISCO.

Wholesale and Retail Agency for all Adjustible and Common Dress Forms and Drapers; also Papier Mache Busts made to order.

WANTED—One Business House in every town to handle our Forms.

Send for Circular.

W. M. LOUDON,
224 Stockton St., S. F., Cal.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use, 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL, PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

Six Months' Supply.

"Send your Home Circle, we want to lay in a six months' supply, and hear yours is the best house," writes a far-away customer. We answer: It is the best house if you want goods of best quality at fair prices. There are those who will sell some things cheaper if you are not a bit particular what you eat or how soon your clothing or other articles wear out. We try to give the best value in town for the money. Would like you to try our fine Tea at 35c to 50c a pound. We have plenty at 20c, and even as low as 15c by the chest; and Tea Dust 5c; but who wants to drink such cheap tea. It isn't healthy; it isn't pleasant, and it is not cheap, for it takes four times as much of it. If you want to live long and be happy, and almost everybody does, you want to use good, wholesome food, and you will then be better prepared to earn money to pay for it—that is, you will feel good all over. I see things sold every day—that is, eatables—that I would not eat or let anybody else eat, that I cared for. If you want to get a square trade, and no attempt at imposition, whether present or absent, you want to send for price list and make up your orders regularly and send them to Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front St., S. F., Cal.

The OLDEST MEDICINE in the WORLD is Probably Dr. Isaac Thompson's CELEBRATED EYE WATER

This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century, and notwithstanding the many other preparations that have been introduced into the market, the sale of this article is constantly increasing. If the directions are followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits. John I. Thompson Sons & Co., TROY, N. Y.

Wolf & Frank

MEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,
232 Kearny St., San Francisco

Shirts, Underwear, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Neckwear, Collars, Cuffs, Etc.

SHIRTS TO ORDER, $1.

Illustrated Catalogue, with Rules for Self Measurement, Mailed Free.

HATCH CHICKENS!

—WITH THE—
PETALUMA INCUBATOR
The Most Successful Machine Made.
3 Gold Medals, 1 Silver Medal, and 16 First Premiums.
Hatches all kinds of Eggs. Made in All Sizes.
Write us for Large Illustrated Circular Free, describing Incubators, Brooders, Houses, How to raise Chickens, etc.
Address, PETALUMA INCUBATOR CO., Petaluma, Cal.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

I believe Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my life.—A. H. DOWELL, Editor Enquirer, Edenton, N. C., April 23, 1887.

PISO

The BEST Cough Medicine is PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. Children take it without objection. By all druggists. 25c.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

$500 WILL PAY FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS
THE PROPRIETORS OF Dr. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY
For a case of Catarrh in the Head which they cannot cure.

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS 50 CENTS. The Only Guaranteed Cure

[COPYRIGHT, 1887.]

CATARRH IN THE HEAD.

SYMPTOMS OF THE DISEASE.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a "nasal twang"; the breath is offensive; smell and taste impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians.

COMMON SENSE TREATMENT. If you would remove an evil, strike at its root. As the predisposing or real cause of catarrh is, in the majority of cases, some weakness, impurity, or otherwise faulty condition of the system, in attempting to cure the disease our chief aim must be directed to the removal of that cause. The more we see of this odious disease, and we treat successfully thousands of cases annually at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, the more do we realize the importance of combining with the use of a local, soothing and healing application, a thorough and persistent internal use of blood-cleansing and tonic medicines.

CHIEF RELIANCE. In curing catarrh and all the various diseases with which it is so frequently complicated, as throat, bronchial, and lung diseases, weak stomach, catarrhal deafness, weak or inflamed eyes, impure blood, scrofulous and syphilitic taints, the wonderful powers and virtues of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cannot be too strongly extolled. It has a specific effect upon the lining mucous membranes of the nasal and other air-passages, promoting the natural secretion of their follicles and glands, thereby softening the diseased and thickened membrane, and restoring it to its natural, thin, delicate, moist, healthy condition. As a blood-purifier, it is unsurpassed. As those diseases which complicate catarrh are diseases of the lining mucous membranes, or of the blood, it will readily be seen why this medicine is so well calculated to cure them.

LOCAL AGENT. As a local application for healing the diseased condition in the head, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is beyond all comparison the best preparation ever invented. It is mild and pleasant to use, producing no smarting or pain, and containing no strong, irritating, or caustic drug, or other poison. This Remedy is a powerful antiseptic, and speedily destroys all bad smell which accompanies so many cases of catarrh, thus affording great comfort to those who suffer from this disease.

PERMANENT CURES. The Golden Medical Discovery is the natural "helpmate" of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It not only cleanses, purifies, regulates, and builds up the system to a healthy standard, and conquers throat, bronchial, and lung complications, when any such exist, but, from its specific effects upon the lining membrane of the nasal passages, it aids materially in restoring the diseased, thickened, or ulcerated membrane to a healthy condition, and thus eradicates the disease. When a cure is effected in this manner it is permanent.

Both Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy are sold by druggists the world over. Discovery $1.00, six bottles for $5.00. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy 50 cents; half-dozen bottles $2.50.

A complete Treatise on Catarrh, giving valuable hints as to clothing, diet, and other matters of importance, will be mailed, post-paid to any address, on receipt of a 2-cent postage stamp.

Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

Dr. PIERCE'S PLEASANT PURGATIVE PELLETS

SIZE OF PELLETS.

THE ORIGINAL LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

Sold by Druggists. 25 Cents a Vial.

BEING PURELY VEGETABLE,

Dr. Pierce's Pellets operate without distur

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY..... JUNE 16, 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 1. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., JUNE 16, 1888. WHOLE NO. 920.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One year (post-paid).....$2 00
Six months.....1 00
Three months.....1 00
One month.....0 50
Single copies.....0 10

THE YOUNG PEOPLE.

A Youngster Who Crawled Out of a Small Hole.

Papa had bought the Cyclone a chest of tools and had initiated him into the mysteries of screw driving. Shortly afterwards he saw the little fellow banging a screw into a box as hard as he could with a hammer.

"What did I tell you? That isn't the way to put in a screw. What is that slot in the head for?"

The Cyclone looked guilty for a moment, then brightened up and replied:

"To take it out with."—Philadelphia Call.

Sufficiently Identified.

A friend of mine was recently rusticating in a neighboring town with his little four-year-old boy. The child spent nearly all of his time with the town telegraph operator, the attraction there to the child being a large Newfoundland dog. The operator left the boy in charge of the office one day, while he attended to some urgent business, and to amuse the little fellow placed in his hands a large brass instrument, the property of the town band. During the operator's absence the boy made such a rumpus with the musical instrument that the bandmaster rushed in, and in towering tones demanded of the little innocent:

"Who gave you that?"

The bright boy, not knowing the operator's name, replied:

"The dog's papa gave it to me."—San Francisco Post.

Would Back Him Against Samson.

He had been discussing the Sullivan prize fight with some other boys of his own age. They had been reading a sporting paper, and had found out about Sayers and Heenan, and celebrated prize fighters who were dead.

"Papa," he said, "does everybody go to heaven when he dies?"

"Well, not everybody; good people do."

"Was Samson a good man?"

"Yes, I guess so."

"Do you think Tom Sayers and Heenan is in heaven?"

"I don't know. I shouldn't wonder."

"And if I die I'll go to heaven?"

"I hope so. Why do you ask these questions?"

"Cos when I go to heaven I'm goin' to back Sullivan against Samson."—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Other Part of It.

One of the members of a west side family is a 4 year old boy. His aunt has a habit of being late for breakfast. Two weeks ago yesterday, being the first of April, the young hopeful was instructed to give a false summons for breakfast at a very early hour, and tell her to hurry, and when she was coming down to say "April fool." He gave the call, and as his aunt came down he was observed by the other members of the family standing at the foot of the stairway and absorbed in thought. "Why, Georgie," said his mother, "Why don't you say it?" There was a momentary pause, and then looking up the boy said: "What was that fool's other name mamma?"

Too Much Fan Afterwards.

Harry's mother, having heard for some little time what seemed to be a moaning or crying in some distant part of the house, had a search made and found in a remote, very small and perfectly dark closet, the family dog, Leo by name, shut in, with scarcely room enough to turn around. How did he get there? Why, Harry had shut him up, of course. Harry was summoned and questioned:

"Why did you shut Leo in the closet?"

"Oh, 'cause he'd feel so good when he got let out!"—Boston Transcript.

Somewhat Mixed.

A little girl in the lower part of this city was playing "tea party," and a gentleman who was present objected to several of the imaginary viands which she brought him, complaining that they were poorly cooked, too salt, stale, etc. After several efforts to please him the small hostess lost her patience, and, laying down a plate of mythical dainties before him, exclaimed in a petulant tone: "Eat what's that and you'll get more a while ago." This rather equivocal offer is now a dinner byword.—Kingston (N. Y.) Freeman.

Thought He Had It Right.

A small boy began his regular prayer in his regular way:

"Now—I—lay—me"—and there he stuck fast.

"Down"—said his mother, prompting. Whereupon Johnny set off again with great alacrity and fluency:

"Down came a blackbird and nipped off her nose!"—Boston Transcript.

An Utter Impossibility.

A little child in one of Albany's public schools was rebuked the other day for using a slang expression and excused herself by replying: "Well, my brother said it." The teacher said: "Your brother ought to be more careful of his language." "Oh," said the little one apologetically, "you know you can't stop boys from bringing slang into the house. Can you?"—Albany Express.

Force of Habit.

Old Lady (to railroad brakeman)—How soon does this train start for Shacknack?

Brakeman—Not for two hours yet, madam. Step lively, please.—Life.

Its Annual Bath.

The rivers of Minnesota have nearly all overrun their banks, and the state is largely under water. At present writing, then, it may be supposed that atmosphere which is "so dry you do not feel the cold" is taking its annual bath.—Chicago Times.

A Rare Talent.

"A very clever girl that stupid Miss Blum who just went out."

"Clever? Why, she never opens her mouth!"

"That's where she's clever."—Life.

On the Quiet.

Waiter (in voice that reaches the desk)—No, sah; we ain't 'lowed fer ter tek no fees, sah. (In a voice which does not reach the desk)—Drap him on the flo', boss.—Tidbits.

THE HOHENZOLLERNS.

The First Person of the Family of Whom History Takes Notice.

Names of persons, and of course, also of families which are aggregations of related persons, were derived in early Saxon days mainly from two sources. First, from personal qualities, physicial characteristics or professions; and second, in the case of important personages from the names of their homes or estates.

Whoever is familiar with the writings of Sir Walter Scott—more particularly those of his tales whose subjects are Scottish, will remember that he is given to calling his characters by the names of their estates or holdings. When he had referred once to a personage as the "laird o' Tullietudlem," the "laird o' Dumbiedykes," the "laird o' Garscadden," and so on, he was in the habit of dropping the early part of the expression and speaking of them simply as "Tullietudlem," "Dumbiedykes," "Garscadden," etc. This practice is carried on in Scotland even at the present day, and was universal in Saxon and Scandinavian countries centuries ago. It is to this practice of naming persons and families from the estate of holding that we are indebted for the words "Hohenzollern," "Brandenburg," "Hapsburg," "Brunswick," etc., as applied to reigning dynasties.

Of Conrad, the first person of the Hohenzollern family to whom history deigns to give notice, Thomas Carlyle, in his "Frederick the Great," has given an exquisite description. He says:

"It was in those same years (about 1160-1170) that a stout young fellow, Conrad by name, far off in the southern part of Germany, set out from the old castle of Hohenzollern, where he was but junior, and had small outlooks, upon a great errand in the world. * * * Hohenzollern lies far south in Schwaben (Suabia), on the sunward slope of the Rauhe-Alp country, no great way north from Constance and its lake, but well aloft, near the springs of the Danube, its back leaning on the Black Forest. It is perhaps definable as the southern summit of that same huge old Hercynian Wood which is still called the Schwarzwald (Black Forest), though now comparatively bare of trees. Fanciful Dryasdust, doing a little etymology, will tell you the name Zollern is equivalent to Tollery, or place of Tolls; whereby Hohenzollern comes to to mean High or Upper Tollery, and gives one the notion of antique peddlers climbing painfully out of Italy and the Swiss valleys, thus far; unstrapping their pack-horses here, and chaffering in unknown dialect about toll. Poor souls! it may be so, but we do not know, nor shall it concern us. This only is known: that a human kindred, probably of some talent for coercing anarchy and guiding mankind, had, centuries ago, built its burg there, and done that function in a small but creditable way ever since."

The original Hohenzollerners, therefore, seven centuries ago were leviers of toll at some gateway or pass on a high roadway of the Alps; and the staying quality of the race is shown by their survival in an unbroken line to the present Emperor of Germany, Frederick III., more than twenty generations in lineal descent from ancestor Conrad!—N. O. States.

BOWSER'S LOVE LETTERS.

His Wife Produces Them at The Right Moment and Makes Him Squirm.

"My dear child," said an old aunt of mine the day I was married, "have you got all your husband's love-letters?"

"Of course."

"And now that you are married you will probably burn 'em?"

"That's just what I was going to do."

"Well, don't. Keep 'em to the longest day you live."

"But why?"

"Because they will be stronger weapons than all your tears, pleadings or arguments. Nothing will bring a husband to time like a sight of some of the love letters he wrote before marriage."

I took her advice, and have always been glad I did. On several occasions I have used them to bring Mr. Bowser down off his high horse, and the fact that they bother his peace of mind is proved by the fact that he has several times hunted the house over in my absence in hopes to lay hands on them.

Something went wrong at the office the other day and he came home cantankerous. He held in until he got to the supper table, and then broke out with:

"Got any name for these things here?"

"Yes, dear. They are called biscuit."

"Well the man who calls 'em fit to eat ought to be shot! Mrs. Bowser, why is it I can never get any thing decent to eat in my own house?"

"Why, Mr. Bowser! No one could take more pains than we do. In order that the biscuit might be extra good I went out and made them myself."

"Humph!"

"There was a time, Mr. Bowser, when you raved over my cooking."

"Never! I knew from the day I set eyes on you wading across a mud puddle that you could never cook. You can sing very well—as well as some bad actresses—but you can't cook."

"And if I will prove that you once hungered for my cooking you will—"

"I will give you fifty dollars cash in hand."

After supper I went up-stairs and brought down several letters. Mr. Bowser had got his nose into a magazine and wanted the matter dropped, but I read to him the following extracts:

"And I thought, darling, while eating supper that night, how proud I should be over your delicious cookery when we had a home of our own. The thought of those biscuits alone makes me hungry. Good-bye, my pet."

"Who wrote that?" sternly demanded Mr. Bowser.

"You did."

"When?"

"Three months before our marriage."

"Never!"

"But here's the letter, dated and signed."

"It is a base forgery, and the forger must beware! How could I have praised your cooking?"

"You also used to praise my singing, Mr. Bowser."

"Never!"

"Oh, but you did. Let me read:

"And, precious pet of mine, let me again thank you for that beautiful song, 'The Lover's Farewell,' and the exquisite manner in which you rendered it. It drew tears from my eyes, and I was not ashamed of them. You have one of the purest, clearest voices I ever heard."

"Who wrote that?" he gasped.

"You did."

"Mrs. Bowser, don't carry this thing to far! There is a limit beyond which you must not go!"

"Well, here it is, in your own writing and over your own signature. Once in awhile you fling out a hint that I am very dull. There was a time when you thought different."

"Look out, Mrs. Bowser!"

"Yes, you did! You even thought me the smarter of the two."

"W-what! Am I awake or dreaming!"

"Wide awake, Mr. Bowser. Let me read you an extract from this exhibit marked 'A'":

"I don't see why you should go back to Vassar. Few young ladies are more accomplished or better educated. All your friends, myself included, give in to you on the matter of grammar in particular. Hope to see you as usual next Sunday, my dear little honeysuckle."

Mr. Bowser sat and looked at me like one terrified.

"And, sir, you often fling out about the size of my feet. I admit that they are as large again as I should have ordered from a dealer, although I wear No. 3's with a great deal of comfort. Let me say, however, that your mother wears 6's, your three sisters 5's, and the two girls you kept company with before we met wear full-sized 6's with very broad toes."

"Mrs. Bowser, do you suppose I will stand such insults in my own house!" he shouted as he sprang up.

"Are facts and truths insults? I have been reading from your letters."

"Never! Never! If I ever wrote such stuff I was crazy!"

"But here is your signature. You remember you used to want me to sign my letters "Rose-bud," and you signed yours "Oak Leaf."

"I never did! No power on earth can convince me that I was such a fool as that!"

"Well, perhaps you will remember this sentence. You wrote it a few months before our marriage. Listen:

"Oh, my Rosebud, but the heart of Oak Leaf was made a thousand times lighter by the receipt of your loving note yesterday. If those delicious little missives should cease coming I should pine and die."

"And you claim I wrote that!" he asked in a strange voice.

"Of course. You can't go back on your own writing, can you?"

"You assert that those are my letters, do you?"

"Certainly."

"And that I called you fond names and wanted to die for you?"

"That's about the size of it, Mr. Bowser. You wrote me several times that you were as much my slave as if I had bought you. I think you would have jumped into a well any time I asked you."

Mr. Bowser put on his overcoat and hat, drew on his gloves, and then kissed the baby and said:

"Good-bye, darling! if you never see papa again remember that he loved you."

He went off without so much as a look at me, but about midnight came home very softly and crept into bed, and the next day went on his usual hunt after that pile of love letters.—Detroit Free Press.

Andrew Johnson's Grave.

Andy Johnson's grave is at Greenville, Tenn. It is on one of the highest bluffs in the vicinity of the town, and the tall, eagle-crowned shaft that marks the spot can be seen from the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia railroad for several miles. Travelers approaching the town watch for it with eager eyes. The lot is neatly enclosed with an iron fence and the inclosure contains in addition to the principal shaft several smaller monuments. Several children of the dead President are buried around him, and the lot throughout bears evidence of the most sedulous care and attention. The most imposing feature of the shaft is the bronze eagle on the top. Its head is turned toward the Appalachian range—grandly blue in the distance—and its wings are spreading as though the great American bird was preparing to fly away to the pine-covered ravines of the mountains. In the foreground is the quaint little town of Greenville—a sleepy village just awakening from a Rip Van Winkle sleep of twenty years and a half as much more.—Philadelphia News.

—"Do you think, Miss Ethel," he inquired, tremulously, "that I could see your father this evening?" "I hardly think so, Mr. Lastyn," she replied with a soft and not unbecoming blush. "Papa is in the library with Mr. Getthere and I expect he will need me, too, in a few minutes. But I am sure that any other evening papa would be happy to have you call on him. He is always pleased when young people show him attention."—Puck.

—When Mr. Hamlet remarked: "Eye, there's the rub," he is supposed to have just got off a railroad train with a cinder in his optic.—Lowell Courier.

PANAMA'S RAILROAD.

Experiences of a Conductor Who Carried Passengers at the Isthmus.

"Aspinwall is situated upon a sort of backout, or channel, from the sea, the houses being built upon the edge of the water. During the hot season this water stagnates and breeds a pestilential miasma, which kills out the inhabitants by the hundreds, feeding as they do chiefly on bananas, oranges and other fruits. It is an every day sight to see men dying on the streets. The policeman on duty passes by and stooping down makes an examination of the man. If he still breathes the officer walks along and pays no further attention to him until life is extinct, when he has him thrown into a common wooden box and put on one side to await the departure of the funeral train. This funeral train leaves Aspinwall every morning for the cemetery, called Monkey Hill. The dead of the better classes are given a decent burial, of course, but the lower classes are dumped unceremoniously from the boxes and buried like so many dogs."

"Why don't they leave them in the boxes?" interrupted the reporter. "Because the boxes are needed for the other dead. They are carried back to the city on the train and used the next day for other unfortunates who have died during the day."

"Is there much money in railroading?"

"Yes, I was paid a salary of $175 a month, besides my house thrown in. But that is a small amount considering the dangerous life I led. I never knew, on leaving Aspinwall, whether or not I would be killed before reaching Panama, as the Spaniards are a very treacherous set, and will stick you in the back in a minute for a small imaginary insult.

"I hardly ever made a trip without getting into a fight, and nearly always had some trouble, except with the Chinese, who always paid their fare without growling. Travel was so heavy that it took from six to ten conductors to collect fares, one for each car."

"How is the price of traveling as compared to that of America?"

"Much higher; and it was always a wonder to me where the people got money on which to travel. The road gouged everyone they could, and through passengers or travelers were charged $25 in gold for a ticket from Aspinwall to Panama, a distance of forty-seven miles, while the natives paid for a first-class ticket only $7 and a second-class passage $2.40. The charge on a box car of freight for the same distance was $250."—Atlanta Journal.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

George R. Sims Nearly Buried Alive in an Old Neapolitan Dungeon.

All around Naples there are wonderful ruins and natural curiosities, and, of course, I explored them all, says the author of "Ostler Joe." I went all over the temple of Serapis, in the same place, and thoroughly explored the great amphitheater in which the famous seafights of Naumachia were held by the Romans. The center of the amphitheater was filled with water, and then hundreds of slaves and prisoners rowed in and hacked each other to pieces. It was while exploring the dungeons underground in which the prisoners were kept that a terrible adventure befell us. Our guide was a local old gentleman of about ninety—the real, genuine oldest inhabitant in the flesh. He carried a tow torch to light us through the damp, noisome, winding passages that led to the cells below the earth, and just as we got into the darkest dungeon the old gentleman fell down in a fit and his torch went out.

The situation was awful. We had not the slightest idea where we were, and we hadn't any matches with us. We shouted loud, but only the mocking echo of our voices answered us. Just as the old man fell he had told us that we were now in dungeons from which no sound could escape. We groped about in the dark, and tried to find a passage, but only with the result that I found myself in one dark dungeon and my companion got into another, and we could neither of us find our way back to the old gentleman. We gave ourselves up for lost. We had not even the hope which the ancient prisoners had of being dragged out into the arena to make a fight of it. We should perish by inches in the secret dungeons of the great Roman amphitheater of Pozzuoli.

Just as we had abandoned hope and I was trying to scratch a last message to the world on the wall with the point of my scarf-pin, a distant murmur reached our ears. It drew nearer and nearer. We shouted—on it came. We heard English words spoken by English lips. A guide was bringing another party to the secret dungeons. They entered and found us, and between us we carried the epileptic old gentleman up-stairs into the light of day, and got him some cold water and brought him round. But I registered a vow never again to visit dungeons with an elderly gentleman subject to fits and a tow torch of limited powers of endurance.—London Referee.

—Little Gracie came home from school greatly excited. "O, auntie," she said, "we had a lesson about my brother Eugene to-day." "I think you must be mistaken," auntie replied. "No," said the little girl, "it was really a Eugene lesson, and the teacher told us we ought to drink milk and never eat cake or candy." And then we knew she meant a hygiene lesson!

—Hannibal Hamlin, at the age of eighty-nine, is the only survivor of the eight statesmen who were on the National tickets of 1860.

SOME TIMELY THOUGHTS.

The Need of Education in Agriculture Clearly Demonstrated.

From an address recently delivered before a farmers' institute by Colonel J. McClenahan, on the need of education in agriculture, we take the following paragraphs:

The object of agricultural education should be to teach the science rather than the art of agriculture; to give a more complete knowledge of the farm, the structure and the growth of the domestic animals, and the laws of breeding; to teach the structure and laws of growth of domesticated plants, and the adaption of both plants and animals to the circumstances of soil and climate, and their variation as affected by variable influences; to train those employed in agriculture to habitually observe the phenomena of animal and plant life as it goes on before them, and to quickly take advantage of observed facts to improve methods and products.

This science also includes insect life and injurious vegetation so far as agriculture is affected.

These studies involve almost all the natural sciences, but each in a limited sense. It is not necessary in order that a man may be an educated farmer, that he be a scientific botanist, understanding the whole range of plant life, but it is necessary that he know the general laws and special phenomena of the plants with which he is concerned. It is not necessary that he study the form, habits, structure, and growth of insects and animals he never sees, but that he have an accurate and complete knowledge of those with which he deals. It is a special application of scientific principles in a special direction in order that he may use these principles in practice, and thus secure better results or with less labor, and also to increase the sum of human knowledge and add to his happiness by the exercise of his mental faculties.

For several generations Americans have been stimulated to mental activity until now American youth inherit an impulse in that direction. Not only is this the effect of schools, but it is the result of our political system, of the public press, and of commercial intercourse. The boy may be dull at books, slow at school, never having connected the world in books with the outside world of things. He may lack the quick memory of words which often passes for learning, and yet have the impulse to activity of thought and action. For this very reason young men prefer positions in the town or city or on the railroad. There is not only something to do, but something to learn. Unable perhaps to think much for himself, the young man feels that he is nearer the thoughts of others. Farm life is monotonous, isolated and laborious. You, gentlemen, think and work, your boys work and think, your thoughts are fully occupied with the problems of farm management, his with the dullness and drudgery of his daily life. You, perhaps, are interested in politics or business beyond the farm, he finds little food for thought, has few social advantages, sees nothing ahead but a dull round of labor year after year, with little to conquer but weeds, and nothing to attain but a living or possibly moderate wealth. This does not comply with the demand of his birthright and education, his native "Yankee grit."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

NOTES FOR WOMEN.

Imported and Domestic Novelties in Feminine Wearing Apparel.

Cloth jackets in copper, the new greens, blue-green, suede, tobacco brown, gray or bright red are among the most serviceable purchases one can make, as the present fashion allows them to be worn with any costume that does not make a contrast positively murderous.

The new figured China silk will be made up of flounced skirts and long draperies, bordered with bias silk the shade of the darkest figure, stitched on with one or several rows of white silk or something equally as glaring, yet there be people who call this the age of dress reform.

Braiding has by no means had its day of favor as a trimming on jackets, and is done with both metal and mohair braids, some of which are flat and others tubular, while the twisted cords of silk or of metal are used in all the most elaborate designs hitherto done only in soutache braid.

The stylish coats of smooth-faced cloths for dressy occasions come in copper colors, in the new green shades, in tobacco browns, suede color, the odd blues with green tints, and in bright red shades, while the rougher homespun jackets are in stripes or bars or melanges of two or three of these colors together.

India silk and foulard designs reappear in the glossy cotton sateens—which show palm-leaf fans, links of chain, interlocked circles of different sizes, anvils, hammers, sleigh bells, "thunder and lightning" streaks, lilacs, fuchsias, harebells, checker boards—and half a hundred more appear in white or cream upon dark grounds, perfectly brown or blue.

The german, whose popularity knows no wane, is danced in the home, in the hall, in winter and in summer at the resorts, and is always delightful and in season. It affords a field for ingenuity in the devising of new features and the invention of favors. Great is the man, socially, who can lead the german, and the dancing floor is the vantage ground whereon he conquers.—Cleveland Leader.

—Six young hopefuls in a Polk County, Ga., family answer to these names: Mollie Necklace, Quincy Ann, Sis Tommy, Happy Josie, Nester Chester and I Wonder.

POLICE COURT RECIPES.

A Harmless Youth's First Attempt at Practical Newspaper Work.

In order to afford that variety which is the spice of life and papers, we concluded to have a man attend the sittings of a New York police court. It happened, however, that the only member of our large and talented staff who was at leisure Monday morning was the young gentleman who edits Household Recipes. He is an enthusiast upon the subject of recipes for the construction of soft gingerbread, cream pies, dried apple jelly and the like, and his mind seems to run on such matters continually. He will go further to learn some new way for getting up a salad than the most enthusiastic naturalist would to secure a new species of snapping turtles.

The following in his first attempt at police court reporting:

The first prisoner brought up—and he must have been badly brought up, by his looks—stood charged with having been intoxicated on the streets. He wasn't entirely sober when arraigned, looking as though he had about two cupsful of whisky to six cupsful of beer too much, mixed with four to five pounds of a policeman's club put on to warm. The court allowed him to stew about five minutes, and then sent him to the Island for sixty days to cool.

A tramp was hauled up who looked as though he had had not more than two cups of sour milk, one teaspoonful of saleratus, ditto of cream of tartar, some ginger (pop), and a little caraway with stale bread crumbs for six weeks. He was mixed to a smooth batter and set before the fire to rise.

A thief was arraigned, charged with breaking into a bakery. He was in his cups—about three and a half cups, I should say, mixed with sugar. He said he mistook the bake shop for a paint store, on account of the chrome yellow on the buns. When he resisted arrest the policeman gave him a recipe for pound cake that he will remember for some time. It raised puff balls on his head without the aid of yeast, and made his nose into a batter. He was laid away in the station-house oven to brown.

John Smith, being drunk, attempted to beat his wife, but found himself in hot water, with a flavoring of lemon and whisky. His wife added three dessert-spoonfuls of stove leg for every loaf, the loafer. A lump of sugar was added, together with a lump over the eye for top dressing. French mustard and a Mansard roof completed the structure. Court ordered a dressing of vinegar and prison apparel.

"Got the ear-ache, have you?" remarked the court to the prisoner with his head tied up. Court recommended as a recipe for the care of ear-ache, two parts water, one part his hair in the middle, and one part from his family and friends for thirty days.—Texas Siftings.

THE HAUNTED CLOCK.

Queer and Uncanny Habits of an Ancient Family Time-Piece.

In a farm-house near Devon, Pa., there is a haunted clock, with a weird legend of revolutionary times connected with it. A cold-blooded murder of a drummer is in the legend, and once a year "the clock acts strangely" and can not be made to go. This is a true bill, you understand, and I believe the story. I know that "haunted clock." I have met it in a Pennsylvania tavern more than once. Only the legend doesn't do the haunted clock full justice. Not only once a year, on the anniversary of the drummer's death, does it "act strangely." It acts strangely all the time. It chokes and gurgles in ghastly gutterals for about five minutes before it strikes, and heard, in the dead of night, these awful sounds petrify the terrified guest with horror, for he firmly believes that the man in the next room is hanging himself with his suspenders. When the haunted clock strikes eleven, it starts off with ponderous solemnity and strikes six. Then it stops, groans twice, gurgles, makes a muffled noise with something that needs oiling, strikes one, wheezes and goes to sleep. About 11:30, however, it wakes up, grunts, sneezes twice, strikes the other four, and, with a hollow groan goes on its limping with tick tocks, of alternating loudness and softness, sometimes falling asleep and missing two or three ticks altogether, always waking with a start and tick tocking very loudly for the next minute. And then, along in the afternoon, when you are anxious to go to the station to catch the five o'clock train, the hour hand points to three and the minute hand is at five and the clock strikes nine, you know it is a quarter past six and your train has gone more than an hour ago. There is also a calendar on this clock, showing the days of the week and the months, but it is stuck fast between Monday and Tuesday at the 31st of February, and there is a hole in the dial where a moon shows itself in the full dark all the year round. O, it is a sure 'nough haunted clock. I've seen it, many a time, and have missed more trains by it than there are spooks in Virginia or "thengs" in Indiana. Every body about the hotel "sets" that clock. The landlord looks at it about once or twice a week and sets it by a silver watch that looks like a slung-shot. Then by and by the oldest boy comes along and sets it by the school bell, which rings about nine o'clock. Then the porter hostler comes along and sets it "by the sun." And, finally, the landlady comes in and sets it "by guess." And the clock, remarking, "None of these things move me," haunts on in the same distracted, time-killing old way as before.—Burdette, in Brooklyn Eagle.

—A French workman has succeeded in producing artificial silk.

A DEVELOPING MIND.

Practical Illustration of the Unfolding of the Juvenile Brain.

"There is nothing more beautiful and interesting than to watch the gradual development and unfolding of the juvenile mind," said Mr. Bixby the other day, as he sat talking with a friend on a railroad train.

"I think," he added, "that we make a mistake in discouraging these little inquiries after knowledge by refusing to answer their childish questions. I believe in giving an intelligent reply to every question a child asks, and—"

A youth of ten years sitting in the seat in front of Bixby turned around at this moment.

"What time is it, please, mister?" he asked.

"What time, my little man?" said Bixby. "It is ten minutes after one."

"Your watch right?"

"Why, yes, I think so."

"What kind of a watch is it?"

"A Waltham."

"How much did it cost?"

"Why—I—I—it was a present, and—"

"Who gave it to you?"

"Oh, a society of which I am a member."

"Stem-winder?"

"Yes—as I was saying," he went on to his friend, "I think—"

"Let me see the inside of it," put in the inquiring mind.

"I'm afraid I'll get dust in it, my boy. Yes, as I was saying—"

"What sereiety give it to you?"

"The Phil Kearney branch of the G. A. R., of which I am—"

"What's 'G. A. R.' mean?"

"Grand Army of the Republic. Now sit down, my little man, and—"

"Did they give you the chain, too?"

"Oh, yes. Now—"

"Is it real gold or only plated?"

"Gold."

"Let me feel it."

"I can't very well for—"

"Where'd you get that big ring?"

"That was a present, too. Now, if I were you I'd—"

"Who give it to you?"

"Oh, a friend. You see now, Smith, as I was saying—"

"What kind of a set is there in that ring?"

"It's moss agate; now turn around and—"

"You going far?"

"Only to Buffalo."

"What you going there for?"

"On business; now you must turn around and sit down, little fellow, for I—"

"What kind of business?"

"Come, come; sit down now and—"

"Do you live in Buffalo?"

"No; I—"

"Where do you live?"

"In Utica; sit down now and keep still."

"What you going to do in Buffalo?"

"You ask too many questions."

"You got a knife?"

"Yes but I—"

"How'll you trade sight unseen?"

"I never trade that way. Now you—"

"'Fraid you get beat, eh?"

"Sit down."

"Let's see your knife."

"You turn around there."

"Is it a four-blader?"

"See here, boy, you turn around there and sit down and don't you open your mouth again for a week! You ask more questions than two talking machines could answer. Now you shut up!"—Zenas Dane, in Detroit Free Press.

RECEIVED HIS REWARD.

How a Darky Made Five Dollars on the Strength of a Blunder.

A man with long hair went into a barber shop and was shaved. After getting out of the chair he stood as if waiting for something.

"Anything mo'?" the barber asked.

"Yes. I owe you five dollars. Here's your money."

"You doan owe me no money, Cap'n.

"Yes, I do. Several years ago I vowed that the barber who shaved me and failed to ask me if I wanted my hair cut should receive five dollars. That was years ago, and although I have been under many razors since I took the vow, you are the only one who failed to ask the question. Take the money. Your strength in withstanding a great temptation deserves reward."

The barber took the money, and as the white man was turning away, the barber said: "Call agin, Cap'n Moore."

"My name is not Moore."

"Ain't dis Cap'n Moore?"

"No."

"W'y, I thought it wuz. Neber did think I gwine ter furgit Cap'n Moore. 'Pressed hisself on my mine, he did, tuther week w'en he tole me dat ef eber I asked him ter let me cut his ha'r ergin he'd hit me. 'Lowed dat I ruint it de las' time I cut it. So dis ain't Cap'n Moore. Ter tell the truf, boss, yo' ha'r do need cuttin.'"—Arkansaw Traveler.

Wanted It for His Wife.

An agent who was selling a humorous book made a speech to a crowd men in a Tennessee town.

"W'y, gentlemen," said he, "this is the funniest book ever printed. Over here at Winchester I sold one to a lady and she laughed until she died—actually laughed herself to death."

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
SATURDAY, JUNE 16..... 1888

There is no room for mistake about the cause of the result of the election in Oregon. Parties were so evenly divided that Oregon was a doubtful State. The campaign was conducted entirely upon a tariff issue; no other question was raised in the canvass, and this was very fully discussed by the Press, and by able speakers on both sides. The State has decided by a large majority in favor of protection. Every man who produces anything to sell naturally wants to protect himself against foreign competition in the home market. It is not a question of party names, but of self interest. When men who call themselves Republicans feel that Republican policy is taking money out of the pockets, they will vote against. Men who are called Democrats will act similarly under similar circumstances. There is a whole lot of human nature in both Democrats and Republicans.

Sunday, June 17th, is one of the most glorious anniversaries in American history. It was on the 17th day of June, 1775, that England was taught to respect American valor at Bunker Hill. Every American child should on that day be told the story of the glorious defense of the Colonists against tyrrany.

PHOTOGRAPHY

—IN ALL ITS BRANCHES—

Will Be Executed

—AT THE—

- STUDIO -

—OF—

Bledsoe & Co.

Paintings of all the prominent scenes on the Globe. In fact,

Anything & Everything

In the picture line, from a locket to an 8x10 ft painting can be had. Will deal in Frames, Chromos, Etc.—any and all size.

PRICES REASONABLE.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

BLEDSOE & CO.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS,

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELBER;
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pulman Palace Car works at Chicago.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.

Livery Accommodations.

O. T. MAIRS, Proprietor.

IRWIN'S SALOON.

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,

Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

TO ADVERTISERS

A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATES AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.

To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List.

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
Newspaper Advertising Bureau,
10 Spruce Street, New York.

GRAND

CELEBRATION!

Of The

Fourth of July

At

Independence,

Races, Horse and Foot.

GAMES, FOOTBALL, BASEBALL

Jumping, Sledge Throwing,

Egg Race, Sack Race, Three-legs.

Grand Fruit Festival,

Free to Everybody.

Oration, Singing, Etc. Etc.

PROGRAMME:

Salute of 100 guns at sunrise.

Procession forms at the school house at 10 o'clock a. m., headed by the Silver Cornet Band.

Chariot bearing young ladies representing States and Territories.

Officers of the Day.

Visitors and Citizens.

Horribles.

The procession will march through Edwards street to Agricultural Hall.

National Airs by Band.

Prayer by Chaplain.

"Star Spangled Banner," by the Choir.

Reading Declaration of Independence.

"Red, White and Blue," by the Choir.

Oration.

"America," by the Choir.

National Airs, by the Band.

Benediction.

Grand Fruit Festival, Free for All.

INTERMISSION.

| | |
|---|---|
| Foot Race 100 yards | $50 |
| Egg Race, Girls of 12 years and under pair of Gold Bracelets. | |
| Sack Race, arms free, Boys under 16 | 5 |
| Sack Race, arms free, free for all | 5 |
| Three Leg Race | 5 |
| Throwing Heavy Hammer | 5 |
| Three Standing Jumps | 5 |
| Hop, Skip and Jump | 5 |

INTERMISSION.

Grand Ball at Agricultural Hall. Tickets, $2.

FLOOR DIRECTORS:

JOHN W. P. LAIRD and J. D. BLAIR.

INVITATION COMMITTEE AND FLOOR MANAGERS:

Round Valley—C. Olds, J. G. Birchim and Thomas William.

Bishop Creek—W. Phillippay, Barna Peeler, Phil. Keogh and John L. Bourland.

Laws—G. H. Hardy and F. Andrews.

Big Pine—Ed. Crocker, Barry McMurry and John Collins.

Deep Spring—S. P. Roberts.

Camp Independence—J. S. Gorman, J. Vagts.

Citrus—F. McIver and H. Galvin.

Georges Creek—J. E. Shepherd.

Lone Pine—R. C. Spear and John Anton.

Beeler—E. F. Hall and Webb Walker.

Darwin—Martin Mee, J. C. Eldy and J. A. McKenzie.

Olancha—Pap Walker.

Lookout—Frank Fitzgerald.

Panamint—N. G. Fairman, H. G. Chickering.

Independence—W. A. Hampton, Henry Mack and Bertrand Rhine.

THURSDAY FORENOON.

Horse Race, One Mile Dash. Free for All. $50. Three or more to enter, two or more to start.

Baseball game, $50.

Entries to foot race must be made before 6 p. m. July 3d; to horse race, before 6 p. m., July 4th. Entries to be made with A. W. Eibeshutz, Secretary.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Notice Of Change Of Text Books.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY THE Board of Education of Inyo county, California, that said Board proposes to change the following text books now in use in the public schools of said county, to wit: Theory and Practice of Teaching, Music, Entomology, Book-keeping, Composition, Penmanship, Industrial Drawing, English and American Literature, Physics, Algebra and Natural History. And that sealed bids, or proposals, will be received by said Board for furnishing books to replace those mentioned above, or any part thereof. Said bids, or proposals, must be accompanied by sample copies of the books proposed to be furnished, together with a statement of the wholesale and retail price at which the publisher agrees to furnish each book, within the county, during the full time for which said books are to be adopted. The publisher or publishers whose proposals shall be accepted must enter into a written contract with said Board, and shall give a good and sufficient bond in a reasonable amount, with sureties, for the faithful performance thereof. Said bids or proposals will be opened by the Board at Independence, Inyo county, Cal., at ten o'clock a. m., on Tuesday, the 19th day of June 1888. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Board of Education of Inyo county.

Attest: J. H. SHANNON,
[SEAL.] Secretary.
Dated April 13, 1888. Bishop Creek, Cal.

EXECUTOR'S SALE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, THAT IN pursuance of an order of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, made on the 19th day of April, 1888, in the matter of the estate of Duncan Campbell, deceased, the undersigned, executors of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, gold coin of the United States, on Thursday, the 10th day of May, 1888, at the late residence of the said deceased, at Big Pine, in said county, the following personal property, to wit: Ten head of horses, more or less, being all the horses belonging to said estate.

NATHAN RHINE,
S. G. GREGG,
Executors of the last will and testament of Duncan Campbell, deceased.

Dated April 19, 1888.

EXECUTORS' NOTICE

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE County of Inyo, State of California.

In the matter of the Estate of John R. Hughes deceased.

John W. P. Laird and W. L. Hunter having filed in this Court their petition duly verified, praying for an order to lease certain real estate of said deceased: It is therefore ordered by said Court that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased, appear before the said Superior Court on Monday, the 18th day of June, 1888, at ten o'clock a. m. of said day, at the Courtroom of said Superior Court, at the Courthouse, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said executors to lease the following described real property, to wit: That certain mine or mining claim situate, lying and being in the Cerro Gordo Mining District, County of Inyo, State of California, and commonly known and designated as the Wedekint Mine, for the period of one year, at the rental of ten per cent. of the gross proceeds of all ores extracted from said mine, all of which more fully appears in the said petition now on file, and to which reference is hereby made, for further particulars; and that a copy of this order be published for at least two successive weeks in the Inyo Independent a newspaper of general circulation published in said Inyo county.

JOHN A. HANNAH
Dated May 31st, 1888. Superior Judge.

FINAL HOMESTEAD PROOF.
H. A. No. 523.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
May 12th, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on June 25, 1888, viz: Henry Deeds for the S½ of N. W. ¼ and N. E. ¼ of S. W. ¼ of Sec. 34 Tp. 13 S, R 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: John W. Symmes, John Shepherd, John Strohmeyer and Fred Albers, all of Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

JOSEPH W. R. LAIRD,
a23-6t Register.

TAKE SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the

Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. L. M. HINTON, M. D., Washington, Ark.

SEE THAT YOU GET THE GENUINE.

PREPARED BY

J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Saturday | January 28th |
| " | February 25th |
| " | March 24th |
| " | April 21st |
| " | May 19th |
| " | June 23rd |
| " | July 21st |
| " | August 18th |
| " | September 15th |
| " | October 13th |
| " | November 17th |
| " | December 15th |

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge, No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,

SHINGLES,

SASH AND BLINDS,

LATH,

RUSTIC

MOULDINGS,

DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sept 11-tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time, or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel.

Independence - - - Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL

DINING ROOM,

APARTMENTS,

—AND—

—THE BAR—

Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars.

Jy 1-86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.

Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

IRVING J. WOODIN, M. D.,
Physician & Surgeon,

(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.

NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.

Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,

COUNTY CLERK,

—AND—

Ex officio Auditor and Recorder,

INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.
W. E. LINDSEY,

—Dealer in—

Gravestones, Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.

—Agent for—

PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.

Virginia Street, Below Second,

Reno, Nevada.

oct 23 tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what we will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 174 page pamphlet. Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S, NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work, either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | From Mound House. No. 1 | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave— | Arrive— |
| Mound House | 9 25 a. m. | 5 35 p. m. |
| Layton | 9 45 a. m. | 4 35 p. m. |
| Wabuska | 10 45 a. m. | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | 4 50 p. m. | 10 40 a. m. |
| Gillette | 5 50 p. m. | 9 30 a. m. |
| Sodа Springs | 7 0 p. m. | 8 0 a. m. |
| Belleville | 8 10 p. m. | 7 0 a. m. |
| Candelaria Ar. | 8 50 p. m. | Lv. 6 30 a. m. |
| | No. 3 | No. 4 |
| | Leave— | Arrive— |
| Belleville | 7 35 a. m. | 5 25 p. m. |
| Benton | 11 00 a. m. | 1 45 p. m. |
| Bishop Creek | 1 100 p. m. | 11 20 a. m. |
| Alvord | 2 00 p. m. | 10 5 a. m. |
| Independence | 2 30 p. m. | 9 05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | 4 15 p. m. | 8 5 a. m. |
| Keeler Ar. | 5 50 p. m. | Lv. 7 0 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with the express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (29 miles); Bodie (67 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's. tri weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Downieville, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's. stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

ESTABLISHED 1846 — MUNN & CO. — PATENTS — NEW YORK

After Forty years' experience in the preparation of more than One Hundred Thousand applications for patents in the United States and Foreign countries, the publishers of the Scientific American continue to act as solicitors for patents, caveats, trade-marks, copyrights, etc., for the United States, and to obtain patents in Canada, England, France, Germany, and all other countries. Their experience is unequaled and their facilities are unsurpassed.

Drawings and specifications prepared and filed in the Patent Office on short notice. Terms very reasonable. No charge for examination of models or drawings. Advice by mail free.

Patents obtained through Munn & Co. are noticed in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has the largest circulation and is the most influential newspaper of its kind published in the world. The advantages of such a notice every patentee understands.

This large and splendidly illustrated newspaper is published WEEKLY at $3.00 a year, and is admitted to be the best paper devoted to science, mechanics, inventions, engineering works, and other departments of industrial progress, published in any country. It contains the names of all patentees and title of every invention patented each week. Try it four months for one dollar. Sold by all newsdealers.

If you have an invention to patent write to Munn & Co., publishers of Scientific American, 361 Broadway, New York.

Handbook about patents mailed free.

Wheeler & Wilson

Sewing Machine.

New No. 8.

"THE BEST"

Sales Made on Installment Plan.

Old Machines Exchanged for.

Farm Produce Taken in Payment.

This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really

First-Class Machine.

Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.

F. H. MULHOLLAND,
Agent.

Independence, Cal.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & ha de Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples,
Pears,
Peaches
& Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE.
Camp Independence.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,

(Successor to Harris & Rhine.)

Mercha t,

INDEPENDENCE

INYO CO., CAL.

Wholesale and Retail

....DEALER IN....

General Merchandise.

MY STOCK

Consisting of most every nee e article, is well calculated to suit the wants of everybody; and, as the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.
n252m6

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE

BANKER,

Independence, Cal

SELL EXCHANGE

—ON—

SAN FRANCISCO.

DRAW DIRECT

—ON—

NEW YORK,

LONDON, England

BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT kinds

GENERAL BANKING

—AND—

Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main. Deutsche Vollmachten geleistet. Geldsendungen von uns nach Deutschland besorgt.

AGENT FOR

Wells Fargo & Co's Express

MUTUAL

Life Insurance Co.

OF NEW YORK.

Capital - - - $5,000,000

LIVERPOOL

And LONDON and GLOBE

Insurance Company.

Capital - - - $11,000,000

NATHAN RHINE.

BLACKSMITHING,

Horseshoeing, General Iron

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP

C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing.....$2 50 for Cash.

For particulars, call and see

W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, JUNE 16 ..... ....1888

DIED.

HILL—At Bishop Creek, June 8, 1888, Leslie, son of Mr. ann Mrs. O. H. Hill, aged three years and thirteen days.

Mr. D. Hessian of Big Pine was in town early in the week.

Mr. Sam McMurry, of Big Pine, was in town early in the week.

A large American flag has been ordered for Irwin's "Old Corner."

Mr. T. J. Goodale of Fish Spring passed a few days in town at the beginning of the week.

Johnny thinks Walter ought to die, but will postpone the execution until after the Fourth.

Levy's team took a chassez up from the depot the other day. No damage to speak of.

In the orchard of Judge Hannah peaches are now ripening rapidly. They are large fine looking fruit.

A new thirty-six inch bass drum and cymbals will be received by the Silver Cornet Band next week.

Take a look at Gunn's new building and see the wainscot grained by A. W. Sheets; it is good work in any country.

Tom Crough was down from Bishop Creek and shook his foot with the boys and girls Monday evening.

S. D. Woods, formerly of Independence, now of Stockton, is a candidate for Congress from the second District.

Samuel Chalmers has a lot of copper ore at Deep Spring that he is about to have brought out to Alvord for shipment.

John Howell, late Superintendent of the Reno reduction works, has gone to Australia. He expects to be gone one year.

Flags of all sizes, red, white and blue drapery, and other material for Fourth of July decoration at RHINE'S.

Names of eighty jurors for the trial of the Elliott case were drawn last Tuesday. The list includes jurors from all parts of the county.

The Republican Delegates from the Pacific Coast to the Chicago Convention have organized and will act in the Convention as a united body.

At the beginning of the week a miner came into town. Next day he said: "Yesterday I had fifty dollars; now I have nothing but bad name."

A fine new stage has been provided by O. I. Mairs for his stage line between town and the depot. On the wagon is painted in large gilt letters, "Norman House, Independence."

Mr. James Jones, of Big Pine, was in town a few days at the beginning of the week. Mr. Jones is a good deal talked about by those who take an interest in county politics.

Horace Bellows was up from Haiwee during the week. He will bring up a drove of Angora kids for butchering, next week. The meat is fully equal to Antelope flesh, or even better.

Dr. S. Lee, of Carson, arrived at Independence on Wednesday. On Friday morning he left for Mojave and Los Angeles. The Doctor is largely interested in the Eastside canal.

D. A. Bender, General Freight and Passenger Agent of the C. & C. and V. & T. railroads, Pay-Master Mills and Secretary E. B. Yerington went down to the end of the C. & C. road last Wednesday.

Greenly & Broder have taken out some more very rich ore from their mine at Deep Spring. They made a shipment recently to San Francisco. From the same locality F. Turner recently made a shipment of ore also to San Francisco.

Mr. W. Hamilton, the old time stage man and freighter, was on the train last Wednesday on his way to Keeler and Cerro Gordo. "Baldy," as he is best known by that name, is the same old six and eighpence as of former days, and everybody is glad to see him.

The Chronicle Union says that a corps of railroad surveyors are again at work on the railroad between Bridgeport and Sonora. It is reported that contracts have already been let to begin work on a road from San Francisco to Mono Lake, there to connect with a line from the east.

Last Saturday Joseph Joy, aged 23 years, was drowned while bathing in the hot bath at Steam Boat Spring, Nevada. It is supposed that he had stayed so long in the water that he become faint, and being alone he sank to the bottom of the tank and drowned. His home was at Virginia City.

An item is going the rounds to the effect that the road from Los Angeles to Salt Lake will go through Kern, Tulare, Inyo and Mono counties. This is utter nonsense; the road won't go within two hundred and fifty miles of Mono county and will go but a short distance through the southeastern end of Inyo.

The Enterprise and other Nevada papers are publishing the fact that a fruit display and fruit festival free for all will be one of the features of the celebration of the glorious Fourth at Independence. We thank our neighbors for giving the notices and will make all who come from Nevada especially welcome.

The Superintendent of the Nevada Mission was not able to keep his appointment to preach at Independence last Sunday evening, having been called north a few days before. Rev. C. Logan, principal of the Academy at Bishop Creek, preached a very interesting discourse from the text, "Bear ye one anothers burdens." Mr. Logan may preach here again soon.

J. L. Callison, the slayer of Tom Donahue at Candelaria, was examined before Justice Turner on a charge of murder and discharged from custody. In their verdict the Coroner's Jury said "we find that deceased came to his death from a pistol shot inflicted by the hand of J. L. Callison while engaged in a shooting scrape with each other." Justice Turner said: There being no sufficient cause to believe the within named J. L. Callison guilty of the offense within mentioned, I order him to be discharged.

A Pleasant Incident.

Last Wednesday afternoon a messenger from the Courthouse went after Judge Hannah and told him that several attorneys wished to see him immediately at his chambers on urgent business. The Judge hastened down the street and found his large chamber filled with attorneys and citizens. With a wondering look on his face the Judge took a seat at his desk and gazed at the crowd. Then A. R. Conklin Esq. arose and, pointing to a large and elegantly framed picture that had just been hung up, said:

"Judge Hannah: Your fellow citizens desiring to express toward you their feelings of kindness as a man and a neighbor, and their appreciation of the honest and faithful manner in which you have for years discharged your duty in the high official station to which, by their suffrage, they have called you, herewith present to you an enlarged photograph of yourself. We trust you may be spared to us for many years to come; and that in the future, Time may leave its impress upon you with no heavier hand than it does upon the sunlight's tracings which have so faithfully been transferred to yonder canvas."

The Judge was taken completely by surprise, but he responded in a few words feelingly spoken and expressive of the great pleasure it gave him to have this proof of the esteem and kind regard of his fellow citizens. Judge Hannah has occupied the bench of Inyo county eighteen years; his several re-elections are the most flattering proofs that could be given of the confidence his fellow citizens have in his good, hard common sense, and the justness and impartiality with which he has discharged the duties of his high office. It would appear that the people intend to keep him on the bench as long as he lives, or will accept the office.

Gratifying

Attention is invited to the advertisement of Hale Brothers, of Sacramento. Hale Brothers have done a large amount of business in Inyo county, and in every case customers were well pleased with their purchases. The Firm is thoroughly reliable and highly honorable in dealing with the public. In their letter ordering the advertisement Hale Brothers say: "The only drawback that prevented us from making a contract with you immediately was the addition you have made to your rate since we last transacted business with you. We recognize the "Independent" as a well edited and enterprising paper, the very class which we prefer to patronize, and we feel that an ad. should be in its columns. We herewith enclose contract and copy of ad. so that there may be no delay."

Truly yours
HALE BROTHERS.

Opening

This [Saturday] evening Gunn's new place will be open. It is just as neat as skill, good taste and disregard of expense can make it. Everything is new but the bottles and their contents, and they are cobwebbed. Gunn will give a cordial welcome to all his old friends, and new friends will be not less heartily welcomed. Drop in during the evening and see what a nice place Jack has got.

Meeting of Directors.

A meeting of the Directors of Agricultural District No. 18, will be held at Independence next Saturday, June 23rd. Matters of great importance will be laid before the Board for consideration and a full attendance is earnestly requested.

A. R. CONKLIN, President.
C. Malholland Secretary.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that water from irrigating ditches must not be allowed to get upon the public roads. From and after the publication of this notice I will at once direct the District Attorney to enter suit against any person allowing water to run on the roads without necessary culverts within the district of which I have charge.

GEO. H. PALMER,
Lone Pine. Road Overseer.

Ice cream, pure, delicious, always ready. Call and try it, at Roeper's butcher shop.

Mr. Russell came down during the week looking after mining interests. He went north this morning.

Messrs. Robert O'Neil, John Clarke and Chas. Levy came down from Bishop Creek on Thursday, returning next day.

Mr. Robert O'Neil, late of Paradise Valley, Nevada, has bought the livery business from John Clarke, at Bishop Creek. Mr. O'Neil is now located at that place with his family.

The band boys had a good attendance at their party last Wednesday evening. J. J. Gunn's new hall made a very pretty ballroom. Many fine pictures adorn the walls and everybody admired the handsome furniture. The music was good, and just such as to make everybody enjoy dancing. The boys were well pleased with the financial result.

H. P. Cartier bought eleven large pictures at the sale Wednesday evening. Our good looking bachelor must have found that she is fond of pictures. O. I. Mairs bought quite a number for the Norman House; J. C. Irwin had several knocked down to him. A large number were bought by citizens of the town and neighborhood.

The Plumas National says that a party up in Plumas county made an irrigating ditch, but when water was turned in it was found that the grade had been made the wrong way, and now the engineer is trying to invent a plan for turning the canal end for end. If the National will send the address of the Plumas engineer to Inyo county he can be put in communication with parties here who are engaged in trying to solve the same problem. Men of genius should know each other.

Good climate is better than drugs. About two years ago a gentleman came to Owens Valley who had long been in very poor health. He had drunk dozens of bottles of patent medicine, but was still dryer than the wig of a limeburner, and his liver was getting worse all the time. He quit taking the patent medicine; breathed the pure air of Inyo, and drank water from the crystal streams coming down from the Sierras and is now sound as a trout, though dryer still.

It seems that neither Dinz nor Olds will contest for the footrace purse on the Fourth at this place. Manuel will not be in the county at the time. As regards Charley Olds S. A. Middleton states that he might run for a $200 purse under sundry and divers stipulations and provisos; we are sorry we haven't got the earth to offer the worthy Doctor. As it is, however, we are authorized to state that Walter Ober will run Olds for $200 a side, in addition to the purse; and if snakes are absolute necessary we'll get 'em, regardless of expense. Walter also says that he will accept any method of starting Dr. Middleton may propose.

In retiring from the livery business at Bishop Creek, John Clarke returns to his friends hearty thanks for the patronage given him through many years. He heartily commends his successor, Mr. O'Neil, as a courteous, pleasant gentleman, who only needs to be known to secure plenty of friends for himself. Mr. Clark will continue the stage and freighting business from Laws to Bishop Creek.

Work on the new hotel at Big Pine is being pushed as rapidly as possible. Painters and paper-hangers are busy on the ground floor and this part of the building will soon be finished. Carpenters are still at work on the second story. The old hotel building was moved back and will be used for a kitchen and store rooms. The new building is on the site of the old one.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms for the use of patrons, in every respect a
FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

J. J. MOORE.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NORMAN HOUSE,
Independence, - - Cal.
New House,
New Furniture.
Low Rates.
☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.
O. I. MAIRS, Prop.
feb12tf

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney at Law.
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.
Shaving, Hair Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.
WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR
A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.
All appliances and conveniences are first-class.
Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

ICE! ICE ICE!
We are now prepared to furnish a first class quality of
ICE
In quantities to suit either at Bishop Creek, or on the cars at Bishop Station, at
2 Cts. per Pound.
Orders Promptly Attended To.
F. K. ANDREWS & CO.
Laws, Inyo Co., Cal.

James Hillyer,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.
Plans, Specifications
And Estimates of all kinds of buildings
Furnished.
All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.
JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

List of Delinquent Purchasers of School Lands in Inyo County.

Showing the Amount Due January 1st, 1889.

| NAME OF PURCHASER. | NO. | DATE OF APPROVAL. | NO. AND DATE OF CERTIFICATE. | DESCRIPTION. | | | | | | AMOUNT OF PRINCIPAL PAID. | AMOUNT OF PRINCIPAL UNPAID. | AMOUNT OF INTEREST PAID. | AMOUNT OF INTEREST PAID AND DUE JAN. 1ST, 1889. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | DATE OF PURCHASE. | MERI. | TOWNS. | RANGE. | SECT. | NO. OF ACRES. | | | | | |
| Livingston, Archd. | 18 | March 30, 1874. | 5848 May 4, 1874 | M D | 18 S. | 36 E. | 36 | 160 | 00 | S. E. ¼ | 40 00 | 160 00 | 12 05 | 224 00 |
| Modie, S. W. | 171 | Nov. 28, 1877. | 7428 Jan. 8, 1878 | M D | 15 S. | 36 E. | 16 | 320 | 00 | W. ½ | 80 00 | 320 00 | 290 85 | 64 00 |
| Hughes, Thomas | 345 | Oct. 14, 1881. | 8214 Jan. 9, 1882 | M D | 7 S. | 33 E. | 36 | 160 | 00 | E. ½ of N. W. ¼ of S. W. ¼ | 40 00 | 160 00 | 58 35 | 22 40 |
| Williams, Benjamin | 407 | Sept. 22, 1885. | 9739 Nov. 3, 1885 | M D | 6 S. | 31 E. | 16 | 40 | 00 | N. W. ¼ of N. W. ¼ | 10 00 | 40 00 | 2 75 | 8 40 |
| Saager, Gustave | 429 | June 15, 1886. | 10151 July 29, 1886 | M D | 9 S. | 34 E. | 36 | 320 | 00 | W. ½ | 80 00 | 320 00 | 12 20 | 44 80 |

THEO. REICHERT, Register State Land Office.

The said Archd. Livingston, S. W. Modie, Thomas Hughes, Benjamin Williams, and Gustave Saager, the delinquent purchasers above named, and each of them, are hereby notified, that if the amount due as above stated is not paid within fifty days after the date of this notice I will commence suit to foreclose the interest of said purchasers in the lands above described.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney.

Dated June 2nd, 1888.

SHOPPING BY MAIL!

There can no longer be any doubt that shopping by mail is profitable. Thousands throughout the United States are doing so to their satisfaction, and the list continues to swell. Our facilities for handling this class of trade are unexcelled by any house west of the Mississippi. An entire floor of our mammoth three story building is devoted solely to this department, and we have spared no effort to the end that out of town customers might have the

Same Advantages As Residents

We possess unequalled advantages in buying, because we deal direct with the manufacturer. Being one of HALE'S Seven California Stores we thereby obtain advantages in values which result from buying in large quantities; for it must be seen that the amount of goods which these stores consume in the aggregate is enormous.

SEND FOR A CATALOGUE.

Our new Spring and Summer Catalogue is now ready for distribution, and will be mailed to intending customers upon application. It is a large illustrated pamphlet of 85 pages, and gives the price and description of any article in our stores. Samples of dry-goods sent free of charge.

IT WILL PAY YOU

To trade with us. The thousands of orders which we are constantly receiving from every State and Territory west of the Rocky Mountains, attest the taste, care, discretion and promptness which we exercise in meeting the requirements of our mail customers.

WHAT WE KEEP.

Our stock embraces Dress Goods, Domestices, Fancy Goods, Ladies' Underwear, Gloves, Parasols, Hosiery, Embroidery, Laces, Cloaks, Jackets and Wraps, Clothing, Gent's Furnishing Goods, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Jewelry, Notions, Trunks & Valises, Etc. Etc.

Send Us a Trial Order And Be Convinced.

HALE BROS & CO.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,
Sacramento, Cal.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—
The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.
All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.
All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.
☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜
☞ Of the C. & C. Railroad. ☜
Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.
Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.
PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.
Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.
Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.
SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

A NEW DEAL!
BISHOP CREEK
Livery, Feed & Sale Stable.
JOHN CLARKE, Prop'r.
Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

245 FAIRTH STORE 247
The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.
CASH
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Who Spends Money
For advertising in newspapers in these hard times, without first obtaining an estimate of the cost from GEO. P. ROWELL & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York, is likely to pay $50 for what might be obtained for $5. Such estimates are furnished to all applicants gratis. Send 10 cents for 176 page pamphlet with list of newspapers and estimates.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BELL'S
Flouring Mills,
A. N. BELL, Prop.
TRY BELL'S
EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.
Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully
Equal to the Best.
Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.
A. N. BELL,
Independence, Cal.

INDEPENDENCE MARKET,
J. Roeper, Prop.
Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.
I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.
Highest market price paid for beef cattle.
All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.
dec18-tf

FRED BURCKHARDT
Watchmaker & Jeweler,
LONE PINE, CAL.
Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.
☞ All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.
FRED BURKHARDT.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
Bishop Creek, Cal.,
Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

EDWARD CHENOT,
Independence, Cal.,
INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO Extensive Stock of
GENERAL MERCHANDISE
....Consisting of....
GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS
Tobacco, Cigars,
WINES AND LIQUORS
FLOUR & GRAIN
Together with an Assortment of
DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING
ETC., ETC
☞ Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.
E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
m476tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths
AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA
On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad
These valuable Springs offer special
INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS
THE WATER CONTAINS
SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.
And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing
When used for bathing purposes.
THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,
—And a large—
SWIMMING BATH
Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.
Excellent Accommodations,
—AND—
Board by the Day, Week, or the Month
MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

THIS PAPER IS ON FILE
—AT—
PALMER & REY'S
ADVERTISING BUREAU
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco
—AND AT—
PALMER & REY'S
Pacific States Advertising Bureau
46 Tribune Building,
NEW YORK.
Where Advertising Contracts can be made.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles
OF
Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc
AT
L. WOOD'S
CASH STORE
A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.
Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.
CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!
THE CASH STORE
Is Where You Get
WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
General Merchandise
A Full Line
CONSTANTLY ON HAND.
ORDERS SOLICITED
Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.
MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.
MAIN OFFICE:
HAWTHORNE NEV.
BRANCHES:
Wabuska, Nev.,
CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.
AGENCIES:
WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co's.
au25tf

TOM BOLAND,
KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.
Dealer in
GENERAL
MERCHANDISE,
GROCERIES
MINERS'
Supplies
PROVISIONS,
&c., &c., &c.
LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.
Excellent Cardinal or Drab
SATEEN CORSETS,
44 cts.
By mail 10c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered bust, finished with pretty lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.
More Important Still
Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Men's Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.
WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.
400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.
SACRAMENTO, CAL.

RIGHT HERE IN CALIFORNIA.

What Your Friends and Neighbors Say on a Matter of Vital Importance.

Below will be found a sample of the multitude of letters of encouragement Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co., of Rochester, N. Y., daily receive. The subjoined unsolicited testimonials are from your friends and neighbors, ladies and gentlemen you know and esteem for their honor and straightforwardness, and who would scorn to be a party to any deception. What has been done for others can be done for you, and it is folly, nay suicidal, to longer suffer when the means of recovery lie at your very door:

OAKLAND, Cal., (Attorney-at-Law, 957 Broadway,) Dec. 20, 1887.—I have long used "Warner's Safe Cure" with good results, and am now using the same.

H. L. Adams

YOLO, Cal., Dec. 12, 1887.—My wife is using "Warner's Safe Cure" and says that it is doing her good.

Charles F. Brower

ALVISO, Cal., Jan. 6, 1888.—I use "Warner's Safe Cure" to keep well. I think it is a good medicine.

M. P. Caswell

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., (723 Market Street.) Dec. 10, 1887.—We consider "Warner's Safe Remedies" valuable and would not be without them.

Harry B. Hambly

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., (621 Montgomery Street), Dec. 10, 1887.—I find "Warner's Safe Remedies" all that we could desire.

William R. Nelson

BALL'S FERRY, Cal., Jan. 4, 1888.—I am using "Warner's Safe Cure" for disease of the Kidneys and it is doing me good.

Edwin L. Carey

DANVILLE, Cal., (Real Estate and Business Agent) Dec. 8, 1887.—I have used some of "Warner's Safe Cure" and believe it to be a good remedy when faithfully used.

J. A. Shirley

CALPELLA, Cal., Jan. 13, 1888.—I am happy to state that I have used "Warner's Safe Cure" and "Warner's Safe Pills" with the best results possible for deranged Kidneys and Liver. I continue to use "Warner's Safe Cure" although I feel well.

Edwin E. Webster

JACKSON, Cal., Sept. 28, 1887.—Last December one of my boys, aged 3½ years, was troubled with what seemed to be a bad cold. He grew worse and I called a doctor who called it Dropsy and began to treat my child for it. He continued to grow worse and I got another doctor who analized his urine and pronounced it Bright's Disease in a bad form. All the doctors said my boy would die, and he looked as if he surely would. I began to give my boy "Warner's Safe Cure" without saying anything to the doctors. In three days his urine showed a change, and an analysis made three weeks later indicated a perfect condition of his urine. Every doctor who heard of his case said that he would die sure, but he took "Warner's Safe Cure" and is alive, if not well, which is more than could have been said if the doctors had been left to stuff him.

W. H. Vela

WEST BUTTE, Cal., Dec. 28, 1887.—My daughter has taken "Warner's Safe Cure" and received great benefit therefrom. I am never without it in my house.

Kate Ward

James Shields married Mary Evans in Boston in 1870. Early in 1871 he went to Chicago, whence for awhile he sent his wife money. Later she heard nothing from him, and in 1887 married John Clark. Last Christmas Shields came back with a million, claimed his wife, and on April 10th she asked a Boston Court for a divorce from Clark, who is willing.

THAT STREAK OF LUCK.

Mr. Morelock Tells How he Happened to Invest in a Louisiana Lottery Ticket and What He is Going to do With the Money.

It will be remembered that Mr. Louis D. Morelock, who has for a number of years occupied the position of night clerk for the Adams Express Company, recently came in possession of the snug little fortune of fifteen thousand dollars through an outlay of one dollar for a one-twentieth ticket in the March drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery. A Courier reporter dropped into the Adams Express Company's office last night where he found Mr. Morelock, awaiting the arrival of the midnight express. He seemed to be in unusual good spirits, and in his pleasant manner conversed on various subjects until he drifted into a conversation regarding the Louisiana State Lottery, in which he gave a statement of how he came to purchase the ticket, about the receipt of the money, and what he intends to do with it.

Mr. Morelock said: "Just having one dollar to spare, I bought a twentieth of ticket No. 51,570. When I arrived home I gave it to my little girl to play with, when my wife saw it and put it away in the baby's iron safe. I did not think of it again until my wife asked me what my ticket had drawn. I replied I did not know but would see when I went to work. I took the ticket with me, and that night when the reports of the drawing came, I looked all over the list but did not notice the number drawing the capital prize. I took a second look to see what number had drawn the $300,000, and I found that I held the lucky number. I sent the ticket to New Orleans, C. O. D. $1.00 and about a week later received [illegible] and five dollars

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

Here we separated, Mackenzie and his party creeping up under the shadow of the wall to the left, while Sir Henry and Umslopogaas took their stations one on each side of the thorn fence, the two spearmen and the Askari lying down in front of it. I and my men crept on up the right side of the kraal, which was about fifty paces long.

When I was two-thirds up I halted, and placed my men at distances of four paces from one another, keeping Alphonse close to me, however. Then I peeped for the first time over the wall. It was getting fairly light now, and the first thing I saw was the white donkey, exactly opposite to me, and close by it I could make out the pale face of little Flossie, who was sitting as the lad had described, some ten paces from the wall. Round her lay many warriors, sleeping. At distances all over the surface of the kraal were the remains of fires, round each of which slept some five-and-twenty Masai, for the most part gorged with food. Now and then a man would raise himself, yawn, and look at the east, which had now turned primrose; but none got up. I determined to wait another five minutes, both to allow the light to increase, so that we could make better shooting, and to give Good and his party, of whom I could see or hear nothing, every opportunity to make ready.

Suddenly, just as I was nerving myself for the signal, having already selected my man on whom I meant to open fire—a great fellow sprawling on the ground within three feet of little Flossie—Alphonse's teeth began to chatter again like the hoofs of a galloping giraffe, making a great noise in the silence. The rag had dropped out in the agitation of his mind. Instantly a Masai within three paces of us woke, and, sitting up, gazed about him, looking for the cause of the sound. Moved beyond myself, I brought the butt end of my rifle down on the pit of the Frenchman's stomach. This stopped his chattering; but, as he doubled up, he managed to let off his gun in such a manner that the bullet passed within an inch of my head.

There was no need for a signal now. From both sides of the kraal broke out a waving line of fire, in which I myself joined, managing with a snapshot to knock over my Masai by Flossie just as he was jumping up. Then from the top end of the kraal there rang an awful yell, in which I rejoiced to recognize Good's piercing note rising clear and shrill above the din, and in another second followed such a scene as I have never seen before nor shall again. With an universal howl of terror and fury the brawny crowd of savages within the kraal sprang to their feet, many of them to fall again beneath our well directed hail of lead before they had moved a yard. For a moment they stood undecided, and then hearing the cries and curses that rose unceasingly from the top end of the kraal, and bewildered by the storm of bullets, they, as by one impulse, rushed down toward the thorn stopped entrance. As they went we kept pouring our fire with terrible effect into the thickening mob as fast as we could load. I had emptied my repeater of the ten shots it contained, and was just beginning to slip in some more when I bethought me of little Flossie. Looking up I saw that the white donkey was lying kicking, having been knocked over either by one of our bullets or a Masai spear thrust. There were no living Masai near, but the black nurse was on her feet and with a spear cutting the rope that bound Flossie's feet. Next second she ran to the wall of the kraal and began to climb over it, an example which the little girl followed. But Flossie was evidently very stiff and cramped, and could only go slowly, and as she went two Masai flying down the kraal caught sight of her and rushed toward her to kill her. The first fellow came up just as the poor little girl, after a desperate effort to climb the wall, fell back into the kraal. Up flashed the great spear, and as it did so a bullet from my rifle found its home in the holder's ribs, and over he went like a shot rabbit. But behind him was the other man, and, alas, I had only that one cartridge in the magazine! Flossie had scrambled to her feet and was facing the second man, who was advancing with raised spear. I turned my head aside and felt sick as death. I could not bear to see him stab her. Glancing up again, to my surprise I saw the Masai's spear lying on the ground, while the man himself was staggering about with both hands to his head. Suddenly I saw a puff of smoke, proceeding apparently from Flossie, and the man fell down headlong. Then I remembered the Derringer pistol she carried, and saw that she had fired both barrels of it at him, thereby saving her life. In another instant she had made an effort, and assisted by the nurse, who was lying on the top, had scrambled over the wall, and I knew that she was, comparatively speaking, safe.

A, Wide entrance to kraal, scene of greatest slaughter.
B, Small entrance to kraal.
CCCC, Wall of kraal.
Dd, Mr. Mackenzie and six men.
Ee, Quatermain and six men.
Ff, Good and ten men.
G, Curtis with four men.
H, Spot where sentry was killed.
ooo, Watch fires and sleeping Masai.
*, Flossie.

All this takes some time to tell, but I do not suppose that it took more than fifteen seconds to enact. I soon got the magazine of the repeater filled again with cartridges, and once more opened fire, not on the seething black mass which was gathering at the end of the kraal, but on fugitives who bethought them to climb the wall. I picked off several of these men, moving down towards the end of the kraal as I did so, and arriving at the corner, or rather the bend of the oval, in time to see, and by means of my rifle to assist in the mighty struggle that took place there.

By this time some 200 Masai—allowing that we had up to the present accounted for fifty—had gathered together in front of the thorn stopped entrance, driven thither by the spears of Good's men, whom they doubtless supposed were a large force instead of being but ten strong. For some reason it never occurred to them to try and rush the wall, which they could have scrambled over with comparative ease; they all made for the fence, which was really a strongly interwoven fortification. With a bound the first warrior went at it, and even before he touched the ground on the other side I saw Sir Henry's great axe swing up and fall with [illegible] force upon his feather head piece, and [illegible] into the middle of the thorns. Then, [illegible] fell and a crash, they began to break [illegible] they might, and ever as they came [illegible] axe swung and Inkosi-kaas flashed, [illegible] fell dead one by one, each man thus [illegible] to build up a barrier against his [illegible] Those who escaped the axes of the [illegible] at the hands of the Askari and the [illegible] mission Kaffirs, and those who passed [illegible] chless from them were brought low by my [illegible] own and Mackenzie's fire.

Faster and more furious grew the fighting. Single Masai would spring upon the dead bodies of their comrades, and engage one or other of the women with their long spears, but, thanks chiefly to the mail shirts, the result was always the same.

Good and his men were quite close by now, and our people had to cease firing into the mass for fear of killing some of them (as it was, one of them was slain in this way). Mad and desperate with fear, the Masai by a frantic effort burst through the thorn fence and piled up dead, and sweeping Curtis, Umslopogaas, and the other three before them, broke into the open. And now it was that we began to lose men fast. Down went our poor Askari who was armed with the ax, a great spear standing out a foot behind his back; and before long the two spearsmen who had stood with him went down too, dying fighting like tigers, and others of our party shared their fate. For a moment I feared the fight was lost—certainly it trembled in the balance. I shouted to my men to cast down their rifles, and to take spears and throw themselves into the melee. They obeyed, their blood being now thoroughly up, and Mr. Mackenzie's people followed their example.

This move had a momentary good result, but still the fight hung in the balance.

Our people fought magnificently, hurling themselves upon the dark mass of Elmoran, hewing, thrusting, slaying and being slain. And ever above the din rose Good's awful yell of encouragement as he plunged to wherever the fight was thickest; and ever, with an almost machine like regularity, the two axes rose and fell, carrying death and disablement at every stroke. But I could see that the strain was beginning to tell on Sir Henry, who was bleeding from several flesh wounds; his breath was coming in gasps, and the veins stood out on his forehead like blue and knotted cords. Even Umslopogaas, man of iron that he was, was hard pressed. I myself did not go into the melee, but hovered outside like the swift "back" in a football scrimmage, putting a bullet through a Masai whenever I got a chance. I was more use so. I fired forty-nine cartridges that morning, and I did not miss many shots.

Presently, do as we would, the beam of the balance began to rise against us. We had not more than fifteen or sixteen effectives left now, and the Masai had at least fifty. Of course, if they had kept their heads, and shaken themselves together, they could soon have made an end of the matter; but that is just what they did not do, not having yet recovered from their start, and some of them having actually fled from their sleeping places without their weapons. Still, by now many individuals were fighting with their normal courage and discretion, and this alone was sufficient to defeat us. To make matters worse just then, when Mackenzie's rifle was empty a brawny savage, armed with a "sime," or sword, made a rush for him. The clergyman flung down his gun, and drawing his huge carver from his elastic belt (his revolver had dropped out in the fight), they closed in desperate struggle. Presently, locked in a close embrace, missionary and Masai rolled on to the ground behind the wall, and for some time I, being amply occupied with my own affairs, and in keeping my skin from being pricked, remained in ignorance of his fate or how the duel had ended.

To and fro surged the fight, slowly turning round like the vortex of a human whirlpool, and the matter began to look very bad for us. Just then, however, a fortunate thing happened. Umslopogaas, either by accident or design, broke out of the ring and engaged a warrior at some few paces from it. As he did so, another man ran up and struck him with all his force between the shoulders with his great spear, which, failing on the tough steel shirt, failed to pierce it and rebounded. For a moment the man stared aghast—protective armor being unknown among these tribes—and then he yelled out at the top of his voice:

"They are devils!—bewitched, bewitched!" and seized by a sudden panic, he threw down his spear and began to fly. I cut short his career with a bullet, and Umslopogaas brained his man, and then the panic spread to the others.

"Bewitched, bewitched!" they cried, and tried to escape in every direction, utterly demoralized and broken spirited—for the most part even throwing down their shields and spears.

On the last scene of that dreadful fight I need not dwell. It was a slaughter great and grim, in which no quarter was asked or given. One incident, however, is worth detailing. Just as I was hoping that it was all done with, suddenly, from under a heap of slain where he had been hiding, an unwounded warrior sprang up and, clearing the piles of dying and dead like an antelope, sped like the wind up the kraal toward the spot where I was standing at the moment. But he was not alone, for Umslopogaas came gliding on his tracks with the peculiar swallow like motion for which he was noted, and as they neared me I recognized in the Masai the herald of the previous night. Finding that run as he would, his pursuer was gaining on him, the man halted and turned round to give battle. Umslopogaas also pulled up.

"Ah, ah," he cried, in mockery, to the Elmoran, "it is thou whom I talked with last night—the Lygonani, the herald, the capturer of little girls—he who would kill a little girl. And thou dust hope to stand man to man and face to face with Umslopogaas, an Induna of the tribe of the Maquilisini, of the people of the Amazulu? Behold, thy prayer is granted! And I did swear to hew thee limb from limb, thou insolent dog! Behold, I will do it even now!"

The Masai ground his teeth with fury and charged at the Zulu with his spear. As he came, Umslopogaas deftly stepped aside, and swinging Inkosi-kaas high above his head with both hands, brought the broad blade down with such fearful force from behind upon the Masai's shoulder, just where the neck is set into the frame, that its razor edge shore right through bone and flesh and muscle, almost severing the head and one arm from the body.

"Ou!" ejaculated Umslopogaas, contemplating the corpse of his foe; "I have kept my word. It was a good stroke."

CHAPTER VIII.

ALPHONSE EXPLAINS.

And so the fight was ended. On turning from this shocking scene it suddenly struck me that I had seen nothing of Alphonse since the moment, some twenty minutes before—for though this fight has taken a long while to describe, it did not take long in reality—when I had been forced to hit him in the wind with the result of nearly getting myself shot. Fearing that the poor little man had perished in the battle, I began to hunt about among the dead for his body; but not being able either to see or hear anything of it, I concluded that he must have survived and walked down the side of the kraal where we had first taken our stand, calling him by name. Now, some fifteen paces back from the kraal wall stood a very ancient tree of the banyan species. So ancient was it that all the inside had in the course of ages decayed away, leaving nothing but a shell of bark.

"Alphonse!" I called, as I walked down the wall—"Alphonse!"

"Oui, monsieur," answered a voice. "Here am I."

I looked round, but could see nobody. "Where?" I cried.

"Here am I, monsieur, in the tree."

I looked, and there, peering out of a hole in the trunk of the banyan about five feet from the ground, I saw a pale face and a pair of large mustaches, one clipped short and the other as lamentably out of curl as the tail of a newly whipped pug. Then, for the first time, I realized what I had suspected before—namely, that Alphonse was an arrant coward. I walked up to him. "Come out of that hole," I said.

"Is it finished, monsieur?" he asked, anxiously; "quite finished? Ah, the horrors I have undergone, and the prayers I have uttered!"

"Come out, you little skunk," I said, for I did not feel amiable; "it is all over."

(To be Continued.)

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Marian Crawford, the novelist, is likewise a good tenor singer.

—Lady Colin Campbell is an expert fencer, besides being a constant contributor to several reviews and periodicals.

—Wilkie Collins, the novelist, has removed from the house which he has occupied for the last twenty-one years.

—Mr. Bancroft, the venerable historian, is thought to be the only American now living who met and remembers Lord Byron.

—James H. Stoddard, LL.D., has retired from the editorship of the Glasgow Herald, after more than twenty-five years of distinguished service.

—The lady who has been for many years successful as an authoress under the name of Marian Harland is Mrs. E. P. Terhune, of Newark, N. J. She is sketched in the Newark Unionist as a sensible, middle-aged woman, with a motherly way about her.

—Alexander Dumas seldom entertains on a large scale in his delightful hotel in the Avenue de Villiers, but when he does open his doors to Parisian society he invariably makes his "at home" one of the most talked about social functions of the season.

—The late Duke of Rutland had at Belvoir a "confession book," in which the Princess of Wales recorded that her favorite artist was Rubens, her favorite author Dickens, her favorite dish Yorkshire pudding and her favorite ambition non-interference in other people's business.

—Mark Twain was recently asked by a young Philadelphia newspaper man if he would look over a serio-humorous skit submitted to him in manuscript and give a candid opinion as to its merit. Mr. Clemens answered as follows: "Certainly; send it right along. And be sure to put it between a couple of shingles, or sawed-off boards, or a couple of grindstones, or any thing to keep it flat.

—The late William Dorsheimer, editor of the New York Star, could make a good speech, and is best remembered at Boston as the author of an eloquent ambiguity. Mounting the platform on a certain memorable occasion, and, gazing over the vast audience, Mr. Dorsheimer began by saying: "Faneuil Hall is full to-night." This impressive introductory convulsed the audience, and finally doubled up the speaker himself.

—H. Rider Haggard, the romancer, is now declared to be an American by birth, and to have won fame under a fictitious name. According to a story now in circulation, the future author of "She" was taken abroad when very young, and upon reaching manhood was a cavalryman in the British service. At one time, when recovering from an illness in the military hospital, he looked at his haggard countenance in the mirror, uttering as he did so the words "Haggard! Haggard!" As he was then projecting his well-known African romance, he concluded to take as his nom de plume the word which had described his appearance, and, being a cavalryman, it was fitting that the name should become H. Rider Haggard, which stands for Horseback Rider Haggard.

—Clara (whispering)—"I'm so sorry we moved. You can't stay so late as you did when we lived in the other house." George—"Why, my darling, what difference does it make?" "These stairs squeak."—Omaha World.

—Timpkins—"I say, Jones, those trousers of yours are mighty shabby." Jones (who is sensitive on the subject and replies with some asperity)—"Well, anyway they cover a warm heart!"—Judge.

—Apparent Customer (inquiringly)—"Got any clean collars and cuffs?" Solomon Einstein (eagerly)—"Blenty, my friendt, blendty." Apparent Customer (coolly)—"Then why don't you wear some?"—Harvard Lampoon.

—Phrenologist—"Your bump of imagination is abnormally large, sir. You should write poetry." Visitor—"I do write poetry. But yesterday I took a poem to an editor, and that bump you are feeling is where he hit me."

—McQuillen—"Do you believe that theosophy is a remedy for the mundane ills that clog the esoteric development of our inner selves?" Miss Foote (Chicago)—"I don't know. Mamma always uses goose greese."—Philadelphia Call.

—"Mother sent me," said a little girl to a neighbor, "to come and ask you to take tea with her this evening." "Did she say at what time, my dear?" "No, ma'am, she only said she would ask you and then the thing would be off her mind. That was all she said."

—"What two beautiful children! Are they twins?" said an old bachelor to an Austin lady with two children. "O, yes, they are twins," replied the lady. "Excuse my curiosity, madam; but are you the mother of both of them?"—Texas Siftings.

—A good piano-player makes the best type-writer, but after six months' practice on the "writer" no girl can pick out a tune on the piano. She runs to "dear sirs" and "yours truly," instead of notes.

A CANDID CONFESSION.

For several years I suffered from Dyspepsia and Kidney Complaint, the latter being so severe at times that I could scarcely attend to my work. My appetite was poor and I was much emaciated, but through the free use of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla my appetite and digestion improved 'till my health was perfectly restored.

John McLellan
Redding, Cal.

COMMON IN CALIFORNIA.

I suffered for years from catarrh till it destroyed my appetite and weakened my system. No remedies gave me relief till I commenced using Joy's Sarsaparilla. I began taking it last spring, and am now entirely free from that disgusting disease.

Lizzie A. Hall
Mohave, Cal.

Ask for Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.

Unlike most so called blood purifiers it does not employ mercurials or other dangerous minerals, but is a compound of powerful extracts and concentrated juices of vegetable alteratives indigenous to California. It is a fortunate combination of the very finest blood purifier, liver and kidney remedy and stomach regulator in existence. Prepared only by the EDWIN W. JOY CO., San Francisco. For sale by all druggists. Price $1.00 per bottle; six for $5.00.

WOMAN'S TRIUMPH.

A Severe Surgical Operation. It is Endured without taking Ether. Return of the Disease Prevented.

(From the Correspondence of the Kingston, N. Y. Freeman.)

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout, New York, furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand, without benefit. Not until her hand had become a mass of putrid flesh did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," which is made at Rondout, N. Y.

He informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She received the terrible intelligence quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent a return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" is fast becoming a trusted household friend in all cases of Female Weakness and diseases of the blood, Kidney and Liver complaints, and Constipation of the Bowels.

All druggists, $1.00 per bottle. Redington & Co., agents, San Francisco, Cal.

The difference between love and the other kind of heart disease is that the other kind of heart disease is generally fatal.

THAT HIGHWAY OF NATIONS.

The broad Atlantic, is ever a stormy thoroughfare. Yet blow the winds ever so fiercely, and ride the waves ever so loftily, seamen must man the good ships, tourists will brave the passage, and commercial travelers and buyers must visit the centers of foreign trade and manufacture. That atrocious malady, seasickness, together with colicky pains and much inward uneasiness is often endured when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters would have fortified the voyagers against them. Sea captains, and in fact all old salt and veteran travelers are acquainted with the protective value of this estimable preventive and remedy, and are rarely unprovided with it. Emigrants to the far West should use it as a safeguard against malaria. Seek the aid of the Bitters for dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, kidney troubles, and all ailments that impair the harmonious and vigorous action of the vital powers.

There can be no bribery without some corruption but, to the disgust of men for sale, there can be lots of corruption without bribery.

THE FLYING DOVE OF PEACE.

A richly frosted quivering, flying Dove. A Dream of Life screen calendar. An imported ideal head. An imported frosted snow scene and a full set of magnificent floral cards. Fourteen artistic pieces. Sent to anyone who will buy from a druggist a box of the genuine DR. C. MCLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS (price, 25 cts.) and mail us the outside wrapper from the box with 4 cents in stamps. Write your address plainly. FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

When an Arab of the desert wants to inquire if his sister is going to leave home for awhile, he says, "Are you going oasis?"

WHY LAURA LOST HER BEAU.

Laura once had an affluent beau,
Who called twice a fortnight, or so,
Now she sits, Sunday eve,
All lonely to grieve,
Oh, where is her recreant beau,
And why did he leave Laura so?

Why, he saw that Laura was a languishing, delicate girl, subject to sick headaches, sensitive nerves and uncertain tempers; and knowing what a life long trial is a fretful, sickly wife, he transferred his attentions to her cheerful, healthy cousin, Ellen. The secret is that Laura's health and strength are sapped by chronic weakness, peculiar to her sex, which Ellen averts and avoids by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This is the only remedy for woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufactures, that it will give satisfaction in every case or money will be refunded. See guarantee on bottle wrapper.

Diogenes (to eminent theosophist whom he is visiting temporarily)—I miss my tub sadly. Will you kindly direct me to the American Navy?

PAINFUL BOILS.

Mr. S Ilts, formerly Clerk of Solano County, writes regarding a series of Painful Boils:

"After suffering many sleepless nights from a series of stubborn Boils it occured to me to try your Magic Lotion, which had helped my Aching Feet so much. To my great joy and surprise I found immediate and complete relief from its use. Its name is well deserved."

W. K. Soto
Oakland Cal.

The MAGIC LOTION can be had at any drug or country store, price 50 cents per bottle. Depot, 1056 Howard street, San Francisco, Cal.

She—Are you going to take a summer vacation this year, John? He—I cannot tell you now, love, I shall wait and see whether we have a summer.

He ate green cucumbers;
They made him quite sick;
But he took a few "Pellets"
That cured him right quick.
An easier physic
You never will find
Than Pierce's small "Pellets,"
The Purgative kind.
Small but precious. 25 cents per vial.

Chicago Man—Were the delegates uninstructed? Boston Man—Uninstructed? Well, I should say so. They were the most ignorant persons I ever saw.

"Brown's Bronchial Troches" will relieve Bronchitis, Asthma, and Throat Diseases.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

MANLY PURITY AND BEAUTY

CUTICURA REMEDIES CURE SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES FROM PIMPLES TO SCROFULA.

NO PEN CAN DO JUSTICE TO THE ESTEEM IN WHICH the CUTICURA REMEDIES are held by the thousands upon thousands whose lives have been made happy by the cure of agonizing, humiliating, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA the Great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood purifier, internally, are a positive cure for every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c; SOAP, 25c; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Rheumatism, Kidney Pains and Weakness speedily cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster.

LIVING ON THE REPUTATION OF OTHERS.

"Take everything that I have but my good name; leave me that and I am content." So said the philosopher. So say all manufacturers of genuine articles to that horde of imitators which thrives upon the reputation of others. The good name of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS has induced many adventurers to put in the market imitations that are not only lacking in the best elements of the genuine article, but are often harmful in their effects. This is not only theft, but might well be called malpractice. Such a thing ought not to be. The public should be warned against these frauds, and, when an external remedy is needed, be sure to insist upon having ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS.

Physician (to convalescent patient)—My bill, sir, for attendance at your late illness. Patient (looking over bill and turning white)—Great Scott! Doctor, was I as sick as all that?

A FLAT CONTRADICTION.

Some one has told you that your catarrh is incurable. It is not so. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will cure it. It is pleasant to use and it always does its work thoroughly. We have yet to hear of a case in which it did not accomplish a cure when faithfully used. Catarrh is a disease which it is dangerous to neglect. A certain remedy is at your command. Avail yourself of it before the complaint assumes a more serious form. All druggists.

The people whom business men prefer to have 'round are square men.

The craze in collecting and saving empty 5c. Cameo Cigarette boxes is assuming vast proportions, and the elegant pictures of Langtry and Mlle. Theo with their elaborate gold frames will pass into the possession of 1,000 persons on the Pacific Coast who return the largest number of empty Cameo 5c. boxes to W. Duke, Sons & Co., No. 16 Front St., San Francisco.

IF SUFFERERS FROM CONSUMPTION,

Scrofula, Bronchitis and General Debility will try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, they will find immediate relief and permanent benefit. The Medical Profession universally declare it a remedy of the greatest value and very palatable. Read: "I have used Scott's Emulsion in several cases of Scrofula and Debility in Children. Results most gratifying. My little patients take it with pleasure."—W. A. HULBERT, M.D., Salisbury, Ill.

ITCHING PILES.

SYMPTOMS—moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at nights; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in many cases removes the tumors. It is equally efficacious in curing all Skin Diseases. DR. SWAYNE & SON, Proprietors, Philadelphia. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT can be obtained of druggists. Sent by mail for 50 Cents.

Parents, look well to your children's teeth. In fragrant RUBYOAN you will find a faithful ally. The little ones will gladly use it, and in years to come be grateful to you.

HOBB'S LITTLE VEGETABLE PILLS impart new life and energy to all the functions of the body.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

FULL WEIGHT PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and Most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime, or Alumn. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

ELY'S CREAM BALM
Cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Pain and Inflammation. Heals the Sores. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell.
TRY THE CURE.

ELY'S CATARRH CREAM BALM CURES ROSE-COLD CATARRH HAY-FEVER COLD IN HEAD DEAFNESS HEADACHE EASY TO USE PRICE 50 CENTS ELY BRO'S OWEGO N.Y. U.S.A.
HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril, and is agreeable. Price, 50 cents at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS, 235 Greenwich St. New York

BROOKS' NATIONAL DETECTION and INQUIRY SERVICE. JAMES J. BROOKS, CHIEF. 12 years Chief U. S. Secret Service. 1229 G Street, WASHINGTON, D. C. Skilled Agents at all points. Business with all Departments of Government a specialty.

S. F. N. U. Series No. 308.

THOSE ACHES down your Back and through your Limbs MEAN RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA OR KINDRED ILLS. Cured by St. Jacobs Oil. AT DRUGGISTS & DEALERS: THE CHAS. A. VOGELER CO. BALTO., MD.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

CATARRH SAMPLE TREATMENT FREE. So great is our faith we can cure you, dear sufferer, we will mail enough to convince free. B. S. LAUBENBACH & CO., Newark, N. J.

BIG G. Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Mfd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio. Trade Mark. I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y. We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill. $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

IRRIGATING PUMPS STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS, COMPLETE POWER AND PUMPING PLANTS. Low prices, prompt delivery. Write for Circulars. BYRON JACKSON, SAN FRANCISCO.

WELL DRILLS FOR EVERY PURPOSE. Sold on Trial!

Investment small, profits large. Send 20c for mailing large illustrated Catalogue with full particulars. Manufactured by GOULDS & AUSTIN, 167 & 169 Lake St., CHICAGO, ILL.

EVERYTHING!

Would it not pay to send where you could get everything at a fair, honest price, and would not be imposed on, whether absent or present—where the seller's interest was made your own. We can supply you at short notice and at Bottom Prices!

Everything good to eat.
Everything for men's wear.
Everything for women's wear.
Everything for children's wear.
Everything to use on the farm.
Everything for the poultry yard.
Everything to furnish a house.
Everything to amuse yourself with.
Everything to keep you warm.
Everything to keep you cool.
Everything really good to drink.
Everything to ride or drive with.
Everything to help you make money.
Everything to help you save money.
Everything to cure you if sick.
Everything to light you through the world.
Everything to sow or plant.
Everything of the best quality.
Everything at the lowest price.
Everything done to please you.

A full list of nearly everything published. Sample copy free. Now ready. Send your address to Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front St., S. F., Cal.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE!

HOBB'S NERVE TONIC PILLS For the Blood and Nerves. Hobb's Nerve Tonic Pills make New Rich Blood and cures Anæmia, Scrofula, Pimples, Humors, Bad Circulation, and all impurities of the blood, as well as the following nervous diseases, viz.: Nervous and Physical Debility; Vital Exhaustion, Premature Decay, Palpitation of the Heart, Fluttering, Trembling, Hysteria, Nervousness in any form, Nervous Headache, Neuralgia, Cold Hands or Feet, Pain in the Back, and any other form of Female Weakness. They bring the rosy tint of health to the sallow cheek. Weak nervous people should take this great Life Renewer. If you are suffering for past errors Hobb's Nerve Tonic Pills will cure you. Try them, and you will join the thousands of happy men and women who daily bless Dr. Hobb for his great work in their behalf. They are sugar-coated. Only 50 Cts. a bottle. All druggists or by mail in plain wrapper for cash or stamps. Sample of Pills and "Dr. Hobb's Hand Book of Useful Information" by mail FREE on receipt of Postal Card with your address.

HOBB'S MEDICINE CO. PROPRIETORS, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Reise-Karten von und nach Hamburg, Bremen, Havre, London, Copenhagen und allen Theilen Deutschlands, Oesterreich, der Schweiz, Ungarn, Polen u. s. w. zu niedrigsten Preisen. A. W. Myer, vormals J. F. Meinke & Co., 401 California Strasse, San Francisco. Wechsel-, Passage- und Speditions-Geschäft.

STEINWAY. KRANICH, PEASE & BACH. Gabler, Roemish Pianos; Burdett Organs, Band Instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

ARM & HAMMER BRAND

To Housekeepers and Farmers.—It is important that the Soda or Saleratus you use should be White and Pure same as all similar substances used for food. To insure obtaining only the "Arm & Hammer" brand Soda or Saleratus, buy it in "pound or half pound" cartoons, which bear our name and trade-mark, as inferior goods are sometimes substituted for the

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY..... JUNE 23, 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 2. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., JUNE 23, 1888. WHOLE NO. 921.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 20 |

THEIR WITS ABOUT THEM.

Some Famous Repartees Which Are Old, But Good.

A few days ago The Constitution addressed the following inquiry to a number of prominent gentlemen throughout the state:

"What is the best piece of wit you remember to have heard or read of in legal or political circles?"

The Hon. John T. Glenn writes:

"Is there anything better than what Randolph said when he met a very disagreeable enemy on the sidewalk. The fellow, blustering up and occupying most of the way, said:

"'I never give way for a rascal.'

"'I always do,' said Randolph, politely stepping aside."

The Hon. A. O. Bacon writes:

"An excellent piece of repartee is accorded to a Mr. Harris of Atlanta—whose initials I do not now recall, but who is named by the irreverent as "Fatty" Harris. He was on the witness stand in Fulton superior court, and was being examined by the then attorney-general of Georgia. The witness did not reply to a question as directly as the attorney-general wished. The latter repeated his question, and added with emphasis: "Now, Mr. Harris, you certainly understand that question, for you are a very intelligent man." "Thank you, Mr. Attorney-General," replied Mr. Harris with a bow, "I would return the compliment with great pleasure if I were not at present under oath."

Judge Nisbet writes:

"It is not necessary to go outside of Georgia for a good piece of repartee. Judge Underwood, the elder, was a greater wit than Sheridan, but unfortunately had no Boswell to write his biography or a Constitution reporter to publish what he said. He was engaged in a case once and the judge, after charging very decidedly against him, locked the jury up for the night and adjourned court. After tea the judge and Underwood were walking on the piazza of the hotel near the court house, and heard quite a movement of chairs and of feet in the jury room, when the judge remarked: 'I believe the jury have gone to prayers,' when Underwood said: 'I expect so. Failing to get any light from your honor's charge, they are seeking it from above.'"

Gen. Henry R. Jackson writes:

"The best piece of repartee I remember to have ever read or heard, fell from the lips of John Van Buren, at one time generally known as Prince John, under the following circumstances: He had undertaken the representation of a certain cause before the courts, very much to the disgust of one of his friends, who, having vainly expostulated with him and losing temper, exclaimed: 'Van Buren, is there a case so low, so vile, so filthy, that you would decline to represent it? 'I do not know,' replied the lawyer, hesitatingly, and quickly approaching his ear close to the lips of the inquirer he whispered: 'What have you been doing?'"

Judge S. B. Hoyt writes:

"The Hon. Samuel Macon, of North Carolina, was one of the very few intimate friends of John Randolph, of Roanoke. They served together in both houses. Mr. Macon retired from the house in 1815. His successor made every effort to succeed him in the good graces of Mr. Randolph. Mr. Randolph snubbed him. Angry at this, he took the first opportunity to assault Randolph in debate. Randolph made no sort of reply, but a few days after, in discussing some subject, said: 'Mr. Speaker, I am reminded of a remark of my friend, the Hon. Nathaniel Macon, of North Carolina, the wisest man I ever knew,' and then, pointing his long, lean finger at the seat formerly occupied by Mr. Macon, but at that time by his successor, continued, 'but whose seat in this house, I am sorry to say, is now vacant! vacant! vacant!'"—Atlanta Constitution.

Controllable Grief.

"Fanny and I were the only two at the funeral, mamma, who did not cry."

"Didn't you feel like crying?"

"Oh, yes, but couldn't; we had no handkerchiefs."—Life.

Remembering the Sabbath.

Old Gentleman (getting his boots blacked Sunday morning)—Boy, do you know what the Good Book says, "Remember the Sabbath day?"

Bootblack—Yessir, I allers remembers it.

Old Gentleman—Then you go to Sunday school, do you?

Bootblack—No, sir; I don't go to Sunday school, but I charges ten cents for a shine.—Life.

Too Fragile.

Squire Oatcake (to dealer in bric-a-brac)—I wanter git sunthin' nice, mister, t' take hum for the wife's birthday.

Dealer—Very well, sir. What do you say to this elegant French cabinet?

Oatcake—Er—guess I want sunthin' stronger'n that. Accordin' to the papers, these French Cabinets don't last no time.—Life.

Well Recommended.

Lady (wishing to hire a cook)—Aunt Rose, I hear your daughter wishes to get a place as a cook. Can you give her a good character?

Aunt Rose—Bless yer soul, Missus, she's de bes' chile you ever saw! She's jist outin de penitentiary, an' a mo' splendid recommendation she fetch back from de superintendent you neber sot yer eyes on!—Georgia Cracker.

It Hasn't Appeared Yet.

"Brigsby, I hear that you have written a book?"

"Yes, I have."

"Have you arranged for its publication?"

"No. I made an effort yesterday, though."

"And how did it result?"

"Well, you see my arm is in a sling."—Nebraska State Journal.

At Castle Garden.

Moriarty (just landed)—It's a wondherful foine counthry this is for furriners, Paddy. Here's ye've only been over a year, and ye look loike a rale gintleman.

O'Houlihan—Furriners, ye say! The only furriners here are the Chinee haythens, and they've got to git out.—Life.

Milk and Water.

Landlady (pouring a glass of water)—For some reason the water is not very clear today, Mr. Grumley.

Old Grumley—Yes; I noticed that the milk was muddy.—Detroit Free Press.

FASHIONABLE MAIDS.

What It Costs to Dress a New York Society Debutante.

Take the case of one of last season's debutantes sitting down for a meditation amid the wreck of muslins and the crash of tulles considering the transitory nature of all things earthly—and the need of a new Easter wardrobe.

Reckon the number of swell dances to which she has been, divide the number by two and you have the number of tulle gowns she has had. Multiply 200 by the number of tulle gowns and you have the approximate cost of the tulle gowns. Simplicity is the inflexible rule for the debutante. Yes, and white tulle is cheap by the yard. But to each tulle gown goes a silk slip and skirt upon skirt of tulle, one outside another, ballet dress fashion, until the requisite airy, delicate butterfly appearance is produced. Add ribbon, sash, gloves, etc., and there is your $200. One crush, two average dances, three small affairs with care and the tulle gown is tulle tatters. There are $800, say, for a winter's beginning. Reckon for other more or less formal occasions three or four other white gowns. There has been very probably embroidered India muslin, a gown of ivory cloth with delicate tracery of gold, a soft white silk of some description and may be a dotted net over silk. These come to from $500 to $700 more. The debutante has been to several afternoon teas. That means a couple of plain petticoats, one in copper color, the other in cadet blue, say, with draperies and bodices of Lincoln green and French gray. Put down $200. The debutante has been walking and calling. That means a couple of tailor gowns. Put down $250. She has been to the theater. That means very possibly something in silk the color of a wild rose petal; loose wrinkled waist, the folds meeting in a point in front, setting off the girlish slimness. Pink satin ribbon fastened on the left shoulder with a Marguerite clasp, carried under the right arm, then hanging loose with a lace fan dangling from the end; string of pearls about the throat; pink bonnet; put down $125. An afternoon reception costume, a dinner dress, a lace gown or two for all sorts of wear; nondescript useful gowns. Put down $300. The bills mount up and yet no mention has been made of hats, bonnets, wraps, jackets, coats, parasols, underwear, shoes, gloves, laces, etcetera. Put down not less than $1,000, and call the total $3,000. It looks a high price for a winter's enjoyment, but "papa," who foots the bills, with more or less cheerfulness, has very possibly paid more for a picture or a horse.—N. Y. Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

ETIQUETTE OF PARTING.

One of the Joys of Courtship in the Rural Districts.

The social etiquette that regulates the time when a young man shall tear himself away from his very best girl is not so rigid in the rural districts as in the city. When the clock hands swing around toward ten and the pretty maiden by his side reminds him of the fact, the city swain goes home. Not so the youth in the rural district. Toward eleven o'clock his Janie says:

"You know what time it is, Ned Bangs?"

"Course I do," he replies, smartly.

"Well, I guess you'd better put out for home."

"What's the rush?"

"I'd say 'rush' if I were you, when it's most midnight."

"I don't care if it's most daylight."

"Well, I do, and you shan't stay here one second after midnight."

"Bet you a cookie I do."

"No, you shan't. I'll call pa, see if I don't."

"Oh, yes, you will."

"You'll see."

"I'll risk it."

"Oh, you're perfectly horrid! Now you get your hat and clear out."

"Oh, pshaw! you'd be mad if I did."

"You wretch! You've got to go right away, for saying that."

"You don't say so."

"I do, too; and—I—I—If you dare kiss me again!"

He dares.

"Oh, oh, oh! You're the meanest fellow. I've a notion to box your ears."

"Box away."

"When are you going home?"

"When I get a good ready."

"Pa'll start you if he comes in."

"He won't come in."

"Don't be too sure of that. If ma sees the light she'll scold."

"Let's put it out!"

"No, you shan't! You'd better put yourself out."

"See if I do."

"You'll sit here with the cat, then. I shan't keep you company."

"Pooh! A team of horses couldn't drag you away."

"Oh, you horrid, horrid thing!"

But it is midnight before he goes, all the same, and he hasn't had to sit with the cat either.—Zenas Dane, in Tid-Bits.

—Fully 30,000 German residents in England who evaded conscription on the breaking out of the Franco-Prussian war can now return to their fatherland without risk, as their offense terminated with the late Emperor's reign.

—"You get your daughters up most beautifully, Mrs. Hebe." "Yes, that is art." "And you get them into society so early." "That is mart." "And you find rich husbands for them." "That is smart."

TWO KINDS OF JOY.

Happiness of Which No Adversity Can Deprive Its Possessor.

We are all largely dependent upon one another for much of our happiness. In every relation of life, from that of the passing acquaintance to the nearest and dearest tie of love or friendship, there exists a corresponding power of entering into the life, to enhance or diminish its joy. The parent can cloud the sunshine of the child's young life by austerity and gloom; the school-boy's buoyant heart can be embittered by the scorn or neglect or ridicule of his comrades; the ardor of the youth beginning a career can be dampened by coldness and discouragement; the frown of the public can curdle the joy of the hopeful artist; the thoughtless gossip of idle tongues can destroy the good name and the peace of mind of the innocent. But while this power and this responsibility are in the hands of each one, and each one is likewise dependent upon the use which others make of it toward him, there is also another kind of happiness, which lies quite out of the reach of disturbing hands. Just as there are rooms in every home where guests do not enter, so there are secret receptacles of joy in every heart, with which no outsider can meddle. There is the joy of thought. Those who have enough individuality to think for themselves earnestly and deeply find in that very exercise a happiness which is all their own. They may share it with others, and it may be heightened by sympathy, but it can not be taken away. It opens a refuge from many troubles, and it helps one to bear many burdens. Closely allied with this, and following from it, is the joy of truth. Above all these, or rather containing them all, is the joy of well-doing, the happiness which only an approving conscience can bestow. This is pre-eminently an individual possession, to be disturbed by no one. Neither the mistaken kindness of friends nor the malicious efforts of enemies can touch it. It is a joy that lives in one of those deep recesses of the heart where no one but ourselves is ever admitted. It is the richest reward of a noble character and a righteous life, and one of which no adversity, no losses, no untoward circumstances can ever deprive its possessor. Such pleasures as these must, however, be earned before they can be enjoyed. The delights of thought, of truth, of work and of well-doing will not descend upon us like the dew upon the flower, without effort of our own. Labor, perseverance, self-denial, fortitude, watchfulness, are the elements out of which this kind of joy is formed. But the results they bring to the heart and the life are so rich and full that no one, having once tasted them, will willingly give them up. It is well that these two classes of joys should unite to brighten our lives. Our relations to our fellow-men demand for their beneficence the power which we all exert over one another's happiness. It is a power which appeals to every noble sentiment in man for the use he makes of it. It is good thus to feel our dependence upon one another, and our consequent obligations. Yet it is also good to have other sources of joy with which no one may meddle. He who has not these is utterly wrecked when men forsake him, frown upon him, scorn him or censure him. He lies, in fact, at their mercy, for he has nothing more to sustain him. But he who can find in his own thoughts, in his own work, in his own convictions and his own conscience the true joys which they are capable or yielding will never make shipwreck of his life. He will feel as acutely as any the pleasures and pains which come through the influence of others, but they will not be his all—he will have another region from which to draw a deeper happiness, a region where none can enter to hurt or to make afraid.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Baby's Bath.

First—Have the room warm, and every thing at hand which may be used during the operation. The baby's basket should be carefully looked after, and its contents replenished when necessary. Second—The water should be of pleasing temperature—neither too hot nor too cold—and a pitcher of hot water at hand to replenish it as it cools. The cloth used in washing—if a cloth be preferred—should be fine and soft, that it may not irritate the tender cuticle. A soft velvet sponge is much to be preferred, however, and few will return to the cloth after once trying its efficacy. In bathing, uncover but a small portion of the body at a time, keeping the remainder wrapped in a flannel, a soft old blanket or shawl answering this purpose nicely. Wash with gentle strokes of the sponge, and wipe instantly with a soft towel.—Pioneer-Press.

Revenge Is Sweet.

"Mother," said Miss Clara, "do you think Bobby ought to lounge in that handsome chair?"

"Certainly not, Bobby," said his mother, reprovingly, "you might break it."

"If it's strong enough to hold Clara and Mr. Featherly," argued Bobby, as he slowly slid down, "it ought to be strong enough to hold a little boy."—N. Y. Sun.

—Farmer—"And what is your brother Frank doing now?" City Visitor—"He's paying a good deal of attention to his etching." Farmer—"Um! What is he taking for it?"—The Judge.

FOREIGN GOSSIP.

—All the eight bridesmaids of the Princess of Wales are alive, married, and not one is divorced.

—At Tokio last year 10,240 persons were cremated. Only 391 had died from infectious diseases.

—Norway has a battalion of armed skaters, who maneuver readily on the ice or snow. Their skates are six inches wide and nine long.

—The beautiful young women of Shun Te in the province of Quantung have leagued themselves into a society under the solemn vow that they will not marry, or that if they marry they will not live with their husbands until every member of their society has married too.

—The people of St. Petersburg are extremely fond of attending theaters. In one month 34,220 persons visited the Russian Opera, 32,000 the Alexandrovna Theater, 22,972 the circus and 17,500 the Michael Theater. The average attendance is about 4,000 per night all the year round.

—The Crown Prince Nicholas of Russia, who is now seventeen years old, is described as an affectionate, warm-hearted boy, who is a great favorite with every one, and who possesses democratic notions. At the same time he has his father's imperious will, and does not like to have his plans interfered with.

—A great deal of interest has been excited in Europe by the assertion that there has been a gradual decrease in blondes in Germany. Almost 11,000,000 school children were examined, and the result showed that Switzerland has only 11.10, Austria 19.79, and Germany 21.80 per cent. of pure blondes.

—Modern Greek women excel not only in personal refinement, but in general intelligence and desire for self-improvement. The Greek women of the upper class are generally clever, well-informed and might rival in accomplishments, culture and conversational powers their sisters of the West.

—The Hakka, or highland people, of Kwangtung province, China, furnish more literary men to the National academy than any other class. They are the only people in Southern China who do not bind the feet of their women, and their character is vigorous and independent. The American Baptist Missionary Union has a mission a few years old among this interesting people.

—A prophesy is widely current in Germany that the empire is to be greatest under a young ruler, who has but one arm and four sons. He is to succeed an aged sovereign, carry on a great war successfully and prove another Frederick the Great. The Germans see in this the destiny of Prince William, who was born with one arm partly deformed—short and stiff. And they see in his character all the requirements of the prophesy, even down to the four sons. But the power of Germany will wane after his ruler, and she will go down and become an insignificant nation.

—Forty-three persons or firms are entitled to make the boast of being "Purveyors to Her Majesty" in the city of London alone. These include four jewelers, five wine merchants, one heraldic painter, one bedding manufacturer, one hatter, two linen drapers, one mercer, one maker of "daylight reflectors," three lock and safe makers, two coal merchants, one furniture printer, one mustard manufacturer, one ironmonger and brazier, one robe maker, one manufacturer of cellar implements, two photographers, one optician, one baker, one purveyor of turtle, one lithographer, two type founders, two grocers, one umbrella maker, one waterproof clothing maker, one tricycle manufacturer, and one purveyor of dogs' biscuit. This does not include the list for the West End.

A CLEVER RASCAL.

Stealing Landseer's Dogs Out of the Canvas He Put Them On.

A curious story of a picture dealer's sharp practice is thus told in Sir Frederick Pollok's "Reminiscences:"

Dined with Foster; met Macready, Maclise and Bellew. A good story was old of modern picture-dealers' frauds. Some years ago Charles Landseer, the brother of Sir Edwin, painted a picture called "Edgehill," which I believe consisted of the figure of a peasant girl, or one or more figures, in the scene of the battle. It was on the wall of the Academy exhibition, when some one, on the artists' day for varnishing, retouching, etc., noticed a part which wanted filling in. Sir Edwin good-naturedly said he would put in a couple of dogs on the spot, which he did, of course in a slight manner, and the picture was much improved. The story got wind, and the picture was afterward sold at a high price on the ground of the dogs, by Sir Edwin. Some time afterward a dealer brought to Sir Edwin a sketch of dogs and asked him to authenticate it as his. Sir Edwin said he could not undertake to remember having painted them, but said they looked like his. Lately the present owner of the "Edgehill" picture, a gentleman at Clapham, and who had paid a large price for it, chiefly for the sake of the reputed Sir Edwin's dogs in it, begged of him to come and see it and confirm the tradition. He went, saw the picture, and at once detected what had been done; the dogs had been cut out of the picture, replaced by a bad copy, and no doubt were the dogs (mounted on a fresh canvas) which had been shown to him. This is supposed to be the cleverest case of dog-stealing recorded.

INTERESTING EXHIBIT.

A Magnificent Group of Bison in a Case at the National Museum.

A magnificent group of bison or American buffalo has just been completed at the National Museum. The buffalo were collected in various parts of Montana by the Smithsonian expedition in 1883, the expedition sent out by Prof. Baird, and in which he took so much interest. The group was mounted by Taxidermist W. T. Hornaday, and the surroundings which he designed are extremely realistic.

The most striking member of the group is an adult bull, eleven years old, who ate his last morsel of sage brush on the 6th of December, 1886. That day was to be the last day of the hunt. The wagons were being loaded for the start home, and while waiting for the start Prof. Hornaday and two or three cowboys started out for their last hunt. This bull, with a cow and a calf, was found, and Prof. Hornaday immediately gave chase to the bull, overtook him, and shot him from the saddle, breaking his shoulder. The bull fell, recovered his feet, and started to run, but soon stopped and stood at bay, and was sketched in this position by Prof. Hornaday and killed.

The sketch was printed in a magazine article describing the hunt, and the bull has been mounted in almost the same position in which he stood at bay. The bull is very muscular, but not fat, and the pelage is of extraordinary length and fineness. He is believed to be the largest bull ever measured and recorded. He is 5 feet 8 inches high at the shoulders to the skin, and to the top of the hair 6 feet. His weight is estimated at 1,600 pounds.

Next to this big bull in the case is an 8-year old cow killed in November. She is 4 feet 10 inches high. Near by is another younger cow, killed in October. On a little hillock which overhangs the imitation pool of water stands a fine young "spike" bull 2½ years old, killed in October. The name "spike" applies to male buffaloes until they are 4 years old, because until that age is reached the tip of their horns is straight, not curved as in adults.

The other members of the group are a yearling calf, killed in October, and a sucking calf that was taken alive and brought here when the expedition returned. For some time it was one of the interesting things to be seen around the museum, and became a great favorite with the visitors, especially the children. But the climate was too much for him, and one day "Sandy" lay down and sighed his young life out. His spirit is now in a land where there are no Buffalo Bills, but Sandy is in the case with the rest of the buffaloes, looking just as "cute" as he did when he was tugging at his rope and eating grass in the Smithsonian grounds.

The case is a very handsome one, probably the largest glass case in this country, and the surroundings of the group inside the case are very realistic.

The scene represents a typical alkaline "water-hole" on the great northern buffalo range, such as are resorted to by wild animals and also by man. The time indicated is the month of November, when the small streams are all dry and only these holes of water remain. In front of the hole passes a typical buffalo trail, such as were made by herds of buffalo all over the great pasture region as they traveled down water courses, single file, in search of water.

The ground is covered with "bunch-grass" or brown sedge, buffalo grass, sage brush and prickly pear, all brought from Montana and arranged in the case with the greatest fidelity to nature.

On the east side of the case lies the skull of a defunct bull buffalo, and across on the other side is the skull of a cow, lying just as they were when found by the members of the buffalo expedition. In the center of the case is a pool of water, once part of a stream, of which the buffaloes were in search. At one side of this is a small hillock, one side of which has been cut sharply away by the water, which has uncovered some fossil bones—the remains of long-dead buffaloes. The animals are contentedly grouped around, the "spike" buffalo standing on top of the hillock.

The twenty-five specimens killed and preserved by the Smithsonian expedition were the last of the great northern herd, excepting those in the National Park, and were taken so that they might be preserved in the interest of science, instead of being totally destroyed by cow-boys and hide-hunters. The species is now practically extinct.

The group is by far the largest and handsomest ever mounted, and it would be almost impossible to duplicate it at any cost.—Washington Critic.

—Beware of that being who indulges in an uncontroled temper, if you desire peace and happiness. Many a lofty mind and noble genius has by its influence become the bane of friendship, the curse of home, and the dread of society. It destroys the peace of families, poisons the fountains of happiness, and dries up the source of every pleasure. Beauty, wit, wealth, talents, fame and honor can never be a substitute. This one gem outweighs them all—an amiable temper.—Good Cheer.

—A man may bear the stamp of honesty and worth, but he can't mail a letter with it.—Binghamton Leader.

THE GENTLEMANLY CLERK.

He Thought He Knew a Thing or Two, But Was Sadly Mistaken.

"Now, that name," said the hotel clerk, running his diamond-hilted finger down the register, and pausing at the name of Gurlproat, "that name is a fraud. That man is traveling incog., and there is something crooked about him."

"Why do you think so?" inquired a reporter on the trail of a fugitive item.

"Why do I think so? Why, I almost know it—in fact, I do know it intuitively. It is my business to be familiar with names and the derivation and nationality of them. Now, there is no such name as Gurlproat. It is neither English, Irish, Scotch, German, Swedish, Welch, French, Spanish, Italian, Russian, Malay, Greek, Norwegian or Choctaw. It is a machine name, manufactured for an emergency, some thing like the characters in Dickens' novels—the Veneerings, Podsnaps, Weggs, Dorritts, Jaggers, Nickelbys and Chuzzlewits. I am obliged, you know, to be sharp in my business."

"Are there any other ear-marks by which you know this man to be a fraud?"

"Well, yes; I have spoken to him on several occasions, calling him by name—Gurlproat—and on every occasion he has appeared to fail to recognize the name as at all familiar, and I have to repeat it. I tell you he is a fly fakir from Flytown. He is a queer, and you can bet high on that."

"Now, there is a man," continued the hotel clerk, pointing to another square-toed specimen of caligraphy "that man Jones, there, A. Q. Jones he's all O. K. There is no subterfuge about him. He comes in and plank down his gripsack, deposits a roll of bills in the safe, calls for a stylus, indorses the register, and there you have it straight and flat-footed. A. Q. Jones, $2,000, in his role in the safe. He is a man who will do to tie up to. We have to be good judges of human nature in this business, I tell you, and are obliged to be tectotally and strictly sharp. But Jones is solid with this house. He has been here a week now and I have advanced him $550 or $600 on his roll."

"You are sure the roll contains money, are you?" inquired the reporter, carelessly.

"Sure! Why, it is an express package, sealed, and the amount marked on the corner. Guests often leave them with us for security."

"I should want to know that it was all right before I loaned money on it," pursued the reporter.

"That's where you would fool yourself. That's where you would insult guests and drive trade away. But"—the sharp clerk spoke this a little uneasily—"just to show you what a square man Jones is, I'll send up this bill," and the clerk proceeded to sound a loud timbrel which summoned a bell boy.

"Here, run up to 58 with this," said the clerk.

While the bell boy was on his mission the suspicious Gurlproat came up to the office to settle his bill.

"That's him—Gurlproat," said the clerk, forming the words with his mouth without uttering sound; "$8.25—two days and a half."

"Hay?" said the despised Gurlproat.

"Two days and a half—eight and a quarter," answered the clerk, winking at the reporter.

"Eight dollars—"

"Eight and a quarter."

"All right—correct," and Mr. Gurlproat tendered a ten-dollar bill. The sharp clerk spent five minutes critically examining and testing the same. While doing so the suspected guest observed:

"If Colonel James Gurlproat, of Montgomery, Ala., calls for me, please tell him I have gone to Washington."

The hotel clerk looked suddenly up, and his face was like a circus-poster gilded by the rays of sunset.

"Are you Congressman Gurlproat, of Alabama?" he inquired.

"Hay"

"Are you Congressman Gurlproat, of Alabama?"

"No, I am his brother. I am Judge Gurlproat, formerly of the Supreme Bench."

He had his change, and in another instant the porter was obsequiously escorting him out to a carriage.

"Why," exclaimed the clerk, "It's singular I happened to forget that Gurlproat family of Montgomery. It just beats all. Funny, isn't it, when you miss a man's name."

The bell boy returned at this interesting juncture of the proceedings with the startling information that A. Q. Jones had skipped, bag and baggage, hook, line and sinker, foot, horse and dragoons. The clerk turned white and his finger shook like a splinter on a rail in the wind, as he suddenly went down into the safe after the express package. He fished it up, tore off the end and proceeded to shake out—a generous wad of newspaper clippings, some of it gems of poetry, the balance choice extracts from the humorous papers and medical reading notices.—Texas Siftings.

The Style in Butter.

"I wish that the f[illegible] change so often," re[illegible] as he stabbed the boar[illegible] ter.

"Why?"

"Because it keeps [illegible] shades in hair in c[illegible] and a feller can't [illegible] next day's butter[illegible] horse blonde or a [illegible]—Merchant Traveler.

—Europe does not want war. A war over there would interrupt the travel of Americans.—N. O. Picayune.

LIME FOR EGG-SHELLS.

Interesting Experiments Conducted With the Aid of Chemistry.

In my judgment, the use of shells is good simply because they furnish grinding material, and they have no more to do with furnishing lime for the shell than gravel or glassware. There is more lime in the food, in a soluble condition when digested (in the shape of nitrates, sulphates, phosphates, chlorides, etc.) than is required. That is, the hen can not, even if she so desired, eat sufficient food to produce an egg without partaking, at the same time, of more than the proportionate amount of lime necessary for the shell. Carbonate of lime (oyster shells, lime, etc.) is an insoluble substance, and can not enter the blood for deposit on the egg until it is completely dissolved. It may, however, undergo a chemical change, during digestion, by being converted into a soluble compound, such as a sulphate, but in my inspection of the droppings I find that when shells are fed they are passed in large quantities from the body, in a very fine condition, and as carbonate of lime. When bones are fed they are partially dissolved, the chemical change appearing to be that the lime, by a variety of processes, becomes a carbonate, while the phosphoric acid unites with the alkalies—potash and soda—thus becoming soluble. Still I am not ready to assert that a portion of the carbonate of lime is not in some manner rendered soluble, but I am sure that the lime of the food is soluble, and that is the source from which the lime of the shells is obtained.

Next, I tried two yards of hens, to one lot lime (in all shapes) being given, but from the other it was withheld, both lots being fed alike. I noticed no difference so far as the shells of the eggs were concerned. But, as a proof that lime in the shape of shells will not prevent hens from laying soft-shelled eggs, I have had them to lay such eggs with their yards almost covered with pounded oyster shells and lumps of lime. If a hen becomes fat the oyster shells will not provide a remedy against soft-shelled eggs, for this fact has been demonstrated hundreds of times. The hen, having failed to receive a variety of food, and being fed principally on a carbonaceous diet, has stored up too much fat, and also provides it for the egg, as well as a partial supply of nitrogen, but there is not a sufficient amount of lime dissolved from the food to provide the shell, owing to lack of solvents, as she was not given food complete in the elements necessary for that purpose, yet the ash (if the food were consumed by fire) would show an abundance of carbonate of lime.

I advise the feeding of oyster shells, however, for they serve as "grit," but I do not believe they are of any other value. Sharp gravel will answer as well. Give a hen finely-ground oyster shells, and also pounded shells, and she will pick out all the large, sharp and irregular pieces, never touching those which are fine, and in the so-called best condition. Like the theory that, because a small (and very small) proportion of sulphuretted-hydrogen gas is given off from a decomposed egg, hens must be fed sulphur to make the eggs hatch, although all foods are rich in sulphur, it is a belief among a large number that lime must be furnished the hens in the shape of shells, but this belief is owing to the many "sermons" that have been preached in its favor, more than to practical experience or tests. Old mortar, which contains nitrate of lime, is partially soluble, and may be better, but the food is sufficient.—Rural New Yorker.

A COBWEB PARTY.

A New Game in Which the Spiders Chase the Flies.

Cobwebs was the title of a novel entertainment given by the ladies of the Central W. C. T. U. A cobweb party is a new fad to the people of St. Louis, and curiosity was the incentive which moved a large crowd of young ladies and gentlemen to visit Vandeventer Hall.

Contrary to the majority of new fads, cobwebs did not originate in the classic city of Boston, but was conceived in the cactus precincts of Texas, where the game is known by the dignified title of "Going to Jerusalem." At first the young ladies were slow to join in the game, but they finally became deeply interested, and before the entertainment had concluded a score of them had been induced to enter the web, by the cunning spiders. The game is played in this way: All join in a ring with a blindfolded gentleman in the center. He selects a young lady, who enters the ring, and, he tries to catch her, saying: "Fly, fly, where art thou?" The lady replies: "Here am I," and at the same time she endeavors to keep out of his way. The lady, in her efforts to elude the spider, as the gentleman is called, must not leave the ring. An artificial spider is suspended from the ceiling by means of a string and pulley, and it is the duty of the gentleman, still blindfolded, to drop the spider on the lady's head. When the lady is caught by the spider being dropped on her head, both parties are out of the game. They can look on, [illegible] from entering the [illegible]

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, JUNE 23.....1888

The Republican National Convention met at Chicago last Tuesday. John M. Thurston, of Nebraska, was made temporary chairman. The usual committees were appointed and the Convention adjourned till Wednesday. When the Convention was again called to order M. M. Estee, of California, was chosen permanent chairman. The Committee on Platform took a good deal of time for deliberation, and when the Convention adjourned on Wednesday no nominations had yet been made. On Thursday nominations were in order and the names of Alger, Allison, Blaine, Depew, Gresham, Harrison, Hawley, Ingalls, Lincoln, McKinley and Sherman were presented. A night session was held and some ballotting was done, but nothing was developed that would indicate what the final result would be. California gave her sixteen votes for Blaine every time. New York gave her seventy-one votes for Depew. At last reports the contest was narrowing down to Blaine and Sherman, with the chances in favor of Blaine. The vote is so wildly scattering as to give no indication of the final result. Gresham is the second choice of New York.

PHOTOGRAPHY

—IN ALL ITS BRANCHES—

Will Be Executed

—AT THE—

- STUDIO -

—OF—

Bledsoe & Co.

Paintings of all the prominent scenes on the Globe. In fact,

Anything & Everything

In the picture line, from a locket to an 8x10 painting can be had. Will deal in Frames, Chromos, Etc.—any and all sizes.

PRICES REASONABLE.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

BLEDSOE & CO.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS.

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELLER,
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pulman Palace Car works at Chicago.

James Hillyer,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER

Plans, Specifications
And Estimates of all kinds of buildings

Furnished.

All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.

JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,

Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt and furnished in a style second to no one on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

TO ADVERTISERS

A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATES AND SECTIONS will be sent FREE.

GRAND

CELEBRATION!

Of The

Fourth of July

At

Independence,

Races, Horse and Foot.

GAMES, FOOTBALL, BASEBALL

Jumping, Sledge Throwing,

Egg Race, Sack Race, Three-legs.

Grand Fruit Festival,

Free to Everybody.

Oration, Singing, Etc. Etc.

PROGRAMME:

Salute of 100 guns at sunrise.

Procession forms at the school house at 10 o'clock a. m., headed by the Silver Cornet Band.

Chariot bearing young ladies representing States and Territories.

Officers of the Day.

Visitors and Citizens.

Horribles.

The procession will march through Edwards-street to Agricultural Hall.

National Airs by Band.

Prayer by Chaplain.

"Star Spangled Banner," by the Choir.

Reading Declaration of Independence.

"Red, White and Blue," by the Choir.

Oration.

"America," by the Choir.

National Airs, by the Band.

Benediction.

Grand Fruit Festival, Free for All.

INTERMISSION.

| | |
|---|---|
| Foot Race 100 yards | $50 |
| Egg Race, Girls of 12 years and under pair of Gold Bracelets. | |
| Sack Race, arms free, Boys under 16 | 5 |
| Sack Race, arms free, free for all | 5 |
| Three Leg Race | 5 |
| Throwing Heavy Hammer | 5 |
| Three Standing Jumps | 5 |
| Hop, Skip and Jump | 5 |

INTERMISSION.

Grand Ball at Agricultural Hall, Tickets, $2.

FLOOR DIRECTORS:

JOHN W. P. LAIRD and J. D. BLAIR.

INVITATION COMMITTEE AND FLOOR MANAGERS:

Round Valley—C. Olds, J. G. Birchim and Thomas Witham.

Bishop Creek—W. Philippay, Barna Peeler, Phil. Keogh and John L. Bourland.

Laws—G. H. Hardy and F. Andrews.

Big Pine—Ed. Crocker, Parry McMurry and John Collins.

Deep Spring—S. P. Roberts

Camp Independence—J. S. Gorman, J. Vagt

Citrus—F. McIver and H. Galvin.

Georges Creek—J. E. Shepherd.

Lone Pine—R. C. Spear and John Anton.

Keeler—E. F. Hall and Webb Walker.

Darwin—Martin Mee, J. C. Eldy and J. A. McKenzie.

Olancha—Pap Walker.

Lookout—Frank Fitzgerald.

Panamint—N. G. Fairman, H. G. Chickering

Independence—W. A. Hampton, Henry Mack and Bertrand Rhine.

THURSDAY FORENOON.

Horse Race, One Mile Dash. Free for All, $50. Three or more to enter, two or more to start.

Baseball game, $50.

Entries to foot race must be made before 6 p. m. July 3d; to horse race, before 6 p. m., July 4th. Entries to be made with A. W. Elbeshutz, Secretary.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney at Law,
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the State of California and Nevada.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. A. C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

NORMAN HOUSE.
Independence, - Cal.
New House.
New Furniture.
New Management.

☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. L. WATRS, Prop.
feb4tf

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the business of the above well known livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding here the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.

Livery Accommodations

O. L. MATRS, Proprietor.

FINAL HOMESTEAD PROOF.
H. A. No. 521.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL., May 12th, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on June 25, 1888, viz: Henry Oetken for the S½ of N W ¼ and N E ¼ of S W ¼ of Sec. 34 Tp. 18 S. R. 33, E. M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: John W. Symons, John Shepherd, John Stroinmeyer and Fred Albers, all of Lone Pine, Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
Register.
a23 6t

LANDS—MINES

ANSWER TO INQUIRIES, $1.00
REPORT ON ENTRIES, CONTESTS, &c., $3.00
Procuring Land Patents, Filing Arguments, and Conducting Contests, on Moderate Terms. Send for circular to
HENRY N. COPP, ATTORNEY AT LAW, WASHINGTON, D. C.
Every Settler should have Copp's Settler's Guide, 124 pages; price only 25 cents (postage stamps).

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sept 18 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time, or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel.
Independence - - Cal
H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL
DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
BAR
Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars
Jy1 86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
☞ NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.
W. E. LINDSEY,
—Dealer in—
Gravestones Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.
—Agent for—
PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.
Virginia Street, Below Second,
Reno, Nevada.
oct 23 tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 174 page pamphlet, Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Out this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888

| STATIONS | Freight Mixed No. 1 | Freight Mixed No. 2 |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave | Arrive |
| Mount Hope | 8.15 a m | 4.50 p m |
| Dyer | 8.35 a m | 4.35 p m |
| Wabuska | 9.45 a m | 3.20 p m |
| Hawthorne | 9.50 a m | 3.10 p m |
| Luning | 10.40 a m | 2.20 p m |
| Soda Spring | 11.10 a m | 1.50 p m |
| Belleville | 11.40 a m | 1.20 p m |
| Candelaria | 12.10 p m | 12.50 p m |
| | No. 3 | No. 4 |
| | Mixed | Mixed |
| Belleville | 7.15 a m | 5.15 p m |
| Candelaria | 11.30 a m | 1.30 p m |
| Soda Spring | 12.05 p m | 12.40 p m |
| Luning | 1.10 p m | 11.40 a m |
| Hawthorne | 2.10 p m | 10.40 a m |
| Wabuska | 2.25 p m | 10.25 a m |
| Dyer | 3.15 p m | 9.05 a m |
| Mount Hope | 3.35 p m | 8.45 a m |
| Reno | Leave | Arrive |

Trains leave Reno for Carson City, Virginia City and Gold Hill daily except Sundays and Mondays.

Trains leave Reno for Austin and Austin Stage Connections every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Passenger trains make close connection at Wabuska with trains to and from Yerington.

Stage Connections:

At HAWTHORNE with Pacific States Stage Company's stages for Aurora (20 miles), Bodie (57 miles), Lundy and Bridgeport.

At LUNING (12 miles from Mount Hope) with stages for Belmont, Belleville and Kawsoh, Monitor, Marietta and Hadley, Grantsville and Belmont.

At CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co., stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Adsia Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.
R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.
D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

After Forty years' experience in the preparation of more than One Hundred thousand application for patents in the United States and Foreign countries, the publishers of the Scientific American continue to act as solicitors for patents, caveats, trade-marks, copyrights, etc., for the United States, and to obtain patents in Canada, England, France, Germany, and all other countries. Their experience is unequaled and their facilities are unsurpassed.

Drawings and specifications prepared and filed in the Patent Office at short notice. Terms very reasonable. Advice by mail free. Models or drawings. Advice by mail free.

Patents procured through Munn & Co. are noticed in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has the largest circulation and is the most influential newspaper of its class published in the world. The advantages of such a notice every patentee understands.

This large and splendidly illustrated newspaper is published WEEKLY. $3.00 a year, and is admitted to be the best paper devoted to science, mechanics, inventions, scientific works and other discoveries in the special progress, published in any country. It contains the names of all patentees and titles of every invention patented each week. Try it four months for one dollar. Sold by all newsdealers.

If you have an invention to patent write to Munn & Co., who have been Editors of Scientific American, 361 Broadway, New York.

Handbook about patents mailed free.

TO ADVERTISERS!

[illegible] Advertisements received from the [illegible] Newspapers [illegible] days. This saves the trouble of calling at [illegible] office. For 1 cent [illegible] will appear in the whole list of [illegible] consequently will be placed [illegible] Circulation [illegible] Readers, [illegible] every newspaper is read at [illegible] persons on an average. [illegible] 3 words. Add [illegible] copy of Ads. and check, of [illegible] 40 cents for Book of 250 pages.

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, New York.

We have just issued a new edition of our Book called "Newspaper Advertising." It has 256 pages, and lists nearly 3000 lines to be filled the following Lists and Catalogues: Newspapers:—DAILY NEWSPAPERS IN NEW YORK CITY, with their Advertising Rates.

DAILY NEWSPAPERS IN CITIES HAVING more than 10,000 population, one line or less, the best.

DAILY NEWSPAPERS IN CITIES HAVING more than 50,000 population, one line or less, the best.

A SMALL LIST OF NEWSPAPERS IN which to advertise every section of the country; being a choice selection made up with great care, guided by long experience.

ONE NEWSPAPER IN A STATE. The best one for an advertiser to use who will use but one.

BARGAINS IN ADVERTISING DAILY Newspapers in many principal cities and towns, a List which offers peculiar inducements to some advertisers.

LARGEST CIRCULATION. A complete list of all American papers issuing regularly more than 20,000 copies.

THE BEST LIST OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS, covering every town of over 5,000 population and every important trading district.

SELECT LIST OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS, in which advertisements are inserted at one-half price.

522 VILLAGE NEWSPAPERS, in which advertisements can be inserted for $2.75 a line and appear in the whole lot—one for each of the American Weeklies. Book sent to any address for THIRTY CENTS.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & ha de Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine.)

Merchant,

INDEPENDENCE!

INYO CO., CAL.

Wholesale and Retail

....DEALER IN....

General Merchandise.

MY STOCK

Consisting of most every article is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as in the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.
n25 2m6

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE

BANKER,

Independence, Cal

SELL EXCHANGE

—ON—

SAN FRANCISCO.

DRAW DIRECT

—ON—

NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT KINDS

GENERAL BANKING

—AND—

Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main. Deutsche Vollmachten geleistigt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.

AGENT FOR

Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $55,000,000

LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - $11,000,000

NATHAN RHINE.

BLACKSMITHING,

Horseshoeing, General Iron

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP
S. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing.....$2.50 for Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, JUNE 23 ..... ....1883

MARRIED.

RIGGS—JONES—At Round Valley, June 18, 1888, by Rev. L. Cross, James W. Riggs and Charlotte Jones.

GREEN—HUGHES—At Independence, June 19, 1888, by Hon. John A. Hannah, Mr. Charles Green and Mrs. Hughes, both of Lone Pine.

Roeper continues to supply the best of ice-cream; try it.

There are inquiries for alfalfa seed, but none for sale in the county, so far as heard from.

Billy Grant came up from Olancha on Thursday, and is spending a few days in town.

Isaac F. Smith and John Davies were admitted to citizenship by Judge Hannah this week.

Messrs. E. H. Edwards, A. Diaz and Joseph Seely were up from Lone Pine on Thursday.

Mr. Ezra Goodale came down from Black Rock last Tuesday and spent several days in town.

Mr. J. G. Birchim and son were down from Round Valley at the beginning of the week.

Messrs. A. Conn, Robert O'Neil and A. K. Briggs were down from Bishop Creek last Monday.

C. S. Swan is engaged in erecting a new building for Mrs. Naylor near the Academy at Bishop Creek.

The Utah Central railroad from Milford to Pioche will cross the Nevada State line near Desert Springs.

A good deal of fruit, peaches, apricots and pears, is being shipped from the neighborhood of Independence.

Regular meeting of Inyo Lodge, F. & A. M. this evening [Saturday] at the Masonic Hall. Visiting brethren welcome.

Mr. P. H. Mack, the present incumbent, is a candidate for renomination to the office of County Clerk. See his announcement.

Peaches are ripening fast. Baxter, Densmore, Symmes and others have been gathering peaches and apricots during the past week.

A bath house is being built for the Norman House. It is behind the main building and will be conveniently and comfortably arranged.

A decree of distribution has been made in the estates of Rafael Diaz and Eleuterio Diaz, and the property will now be distributed among the heirs.

Jack Davies has gone to work in the Belmont mine, near Cerro Gordo. His son and a few other men have been at work on the mine for some time.

Mr. M. W. Teask came up from Lone Pine on Thursday and spent a day in town. He recently returned from a visit of some weeks at San Francisco.

The California delegation to the Chicago Convention was received at Chicago by an immense throng, and with great cheering and enthusiasm.

Mr. Robert O'Neil has bought the Biggs property at Bishop Creek. The store building occupied by A. Cohn & Co. and a dwelling house are included.

Mrs. Fred Samuels arrived from San Francisco last Wednesday, accompanied by her daughter, on a visit with her mother, Mrs. M. Lewis, of Camp Independence.

Who wants to bet a new hat that E. Robinson, of Independence, hasn't got the nicest field of wheat in Owens Valley? Size, style and quality of hat not limited.

Mr. John S. Gorman has been appointed by the Governor a Director of the 18th Agricultural District, to succeed T. J. Goodale, term expired. Mr. Gorman has qualified.

The people of Lone Pine intend to celebrate the Fourth of July. They will have the usual ceremonies of an oration, singing patriotic songs, and a ball in the evening.

Mr. D. A. Bender, General Freight and Passenger Agent of the C. & C. road, has written that all possible favor will be shown to Independence in the way of trains and rates for the Fourth.

Miss May Shepherd has accepted an invitation to represent the Goddess of Liberty on the Fourth at Independence. A. R. Conklin has accepted the invitation to deliver the oration on the occasion.

Mr. T. C. Boland, of Keeler, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Sheriff. As a Supervisor who has been in office several terms, Mr. Boland is well and favorably known all over the county.

Last Monday Miss Charlotte Jones was married to James W. Riggs. The wedding was at the residence of John E. Jones Esq. at Round Valley, the father of the bride. May the young people be as happy as we wish them.

Mr. F. C. Whiting, of San Diego, was in town all the week. He came here looking for land for himself and others. He is now on his way back to San Diego and intends to return here again soon to invest money.

Mr. George H. Shedd, of Fish Spring, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Sheriff. Mr. Shedd has so long been a resident of Owens Valley that his merits are well known to most of the voters of Inyo county. See his card.

Joab W. Shick, long a resident of Bishop Creek, passed through town on Thursday with his family on the way to Los Angeles. He has sold his place at Bishop Creek to Mr. Robert O'Neil, and expects to stay in the south.

The flow of water in the Stevens ditch is being increased as the banks become solid and able to bear the pressure. Irrigation is in progress from the canal as far south as H. J. Robinson's place, below George's Creek, about twelve miles from the head of the ditch.

Letters of administration have been granted to Public Administrator Matlack for the estate of William Hedges, deceased. The appraisers are John Alexander, Thos. Kehoe and Walter James. The property consists of some mining interests and a land location to which title had not been perfected.

School Books

The Board of Education met at Independence last Tuesday. Present, J. H. Shannon, Superintendent, J. W. P. Laird, D. Crough and A. E. Janvier. The purpose of the meeting was to consider changes in text books for the ensuing four years. Sealed proposals, with samples, were received from the following firms: The Bancroft Co., Appleton & Co., A. S. Barnes & Co., Potter, Knight, Ainsworth & Co., Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co., Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co. and H. S. Crocker & Co. The following books were adopted:

Books to be supplied by Appleton & Co., "Theory and Practice of Teaching," by Johonnot. Music, "Song Wave and Wavelet." "Composition," by Quackenbos. "Philosophy," by Quackenbos.

To be supplied by H. S. Crocker & Co., "Entomology," Mathew Cooke's.

To be supplied by Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor Co., "Book-keeping," Bryant & Stratton's. "Natural History," by Tenny. "Penmanship," Spencer's.

To be supplied by Barnes & Co., "Industrial Drawing," Barnes & Co. Ward's "Business Forms." "Algebra," no choice.

Ordered, That the Eclectic series of geographies now in use be continued until the State series are supplied.

Ordered that the two series of readers published by Bancroft and Swinton respectively, be recommended for supplemental reading in the county schools. That Shaw's "English & American Literature" be recommended as a text-book for the examination of applicants for teacher's certificates. That Appleton's "Physical Geography" be recommended for use in the schools. That Stickney's "Letters and Lessons in Language" be recommended for primary teaching in schools.

The following library books were adopted: Emerson's Works, Bulfinch's Mythology, Charles Kingsley's Works, "In the Wilds of Florida," "How to Do It," "Ramona," by H. H., "Uncle Tom's Cabin," Andrews' "Manual of the Constitution," "Ben Hur," "Dr. Jeckyll and Mr. Hyde," Geographical Reader, Elementary Psychology and Education, "The Young Marooners," Grant's "Personal Memoirs."

In selecting books the Board aimed to make as few changes as possible from the books now in use, and to add only such new books as are really necessary. The purpose of the Board was to provide the best books at the lowest cost to the people.

Pap Slandered

Pap has been slandered! The reporter did it. Pap says:—"Your reporter from Olancha last week was too close an observer; he reported more than was to be seen. The idea of Grant and Ed. getting in hay and Pap vegetating under a tree in charge of a jug! All the hay Grant and Ed. would stack in a season wouldn't fill a pillow case. Hay is made with the thermometer up in the nineties, and the memory of man runneth not back to a time when Billy did a days work at that temperature. Pap has a garden of one acre and all the work in it is done with the help of one boy, and I would like to ask any unprejudiced person their opinion touching what time either Pap or his boy would have to lay under a tree and keep that garden in the condition it is in. And as for that jug; if there has been a jug on this ranch since last election Pap has not seen it. No, that jog story is too thin; besides, it is adding injury to insult. If I allow that report to go uncontradicted aspirants for political honors will be coming around empty handed, expecting to be under that shade tree enjoying fruit, the contents of the imagined jug, the company of an idle man with a solid vote and social habits, and most assuredly they would get left. Then the language said candidates would use toward the unveracious reporter would be more forcible than elegant. Yours,

"Pap."

Is it a Forgery?

An interesting case has been going on at the Court House during the week. A party at San Francisco claims a piece of land at Alviso, south from San Francisco, that is also claimed by Thomas Parker, of Independence. The San Francisco claimant rests his claim upon a deed bearing the signature of Thomas Parker. Mr. Parker alleges that he never wrote the signature to the deed. Several witnesses were examined who are more or less familiar with the signature of Mr. Parker. All were of the same mind, namely, that the signature is genuine. If it is not genuine it is a most skillful forgery. The evidence taken here will be sent to San Francisco and the case will be decided there.

Mining Suit.

D. D. Leahy has entered suit against parties in Mono county to maintain his title to the Grover Cleveland mine and a tract of land in that county. Leahy claims that Thomas Marnane, who had an interest in the mine, made threats against his life such as compelled him to leave the land before title was perfected, and that said Marnane has sold the mine, got payment, and refuses to account to Leahy for the proceeds. A contest was begun this week at the Land Office at Independence for the land, and suit will be brought in Mono county on the other charge. A. R. Conklin, of Independence, is conducting the case for Leahy.

Slander.

Very unkind reports have been in circulation concerning a young person who left the lower part of Owens Valley a few months ago. Inquiry has been made and satisfactory proof can be given that there is not a word of truth in the slanderous stories. That they are lies invented by an unmanly fellow, who was balked in his attempts to injure the young person, and has since been treated with the contempt he deserves. The young person is with highly respectable friends able and willing to afford all needed protection.

Free to All Comers

The Executive Committee for the Fourth of July celebration at Independence have arranged with the principal fruit growers of the neighborhood for an abundant supply of fruit for the festival and display on the Fourth. It is now certain that everybody who comes can have all they want of peaches, apricots, pears and apples. Ice-cream has been arranged for in unlimited quantity. Remember that these things will be served free to all who may attend.

Deep Spring.

Sam Piper is at work on a gold bearing ledge north of Cottonwood Creek.

Turner and his partner quit work on their silver ledge about ten days ago. They sunk 200 feet on the ledge and at that depth it was as 'barren as a hound's tooth,' so says the reporter. Nothing new in the District had been struck at last report.

Charley Schuman has been in a shooting scrape. Last Friday he and Jack Skews quarreled about a mining suit. Five shots were fired. Neither one of the principals was hit, but a man named Henry Cohen, who had nothing to do with the matter, was shot and seriously hurt. After the first shot Schuman's pistol would not work.

Doctor Bowers, the San Francisco wife poisoner, is likely to be brought to justice at last. This man is a cruel, hardened wretch; there is good reason to believe that he has committed more than one murder, and ought to have been hanged a long time ago.

In the past two weeks a mile of the Eastside canal has been completed. This is very much more than was possible to do from the upper end of this stretch northward. One New Era ditching machine and two buck scrapers are used. Five men are employed. The canal is now completed to Independence Station, on the C. & C. road. From this point southward the ground is very easy and progress will be correspondingly rapid.

Silver and lead are now at so low a figure that miners are ceasing operations in many places. In the southern end of Inyo county hardly any mining is going on at present. It is said that operations are about to cease entirely at Cerro Gordo, and that all goods and supplies will be moved down from the Hill. Merchants are closing accounts and refusing to give further credits to miners. Farmers are losing market for their produce. Everybody is feeling the effect of the war on silver.

Last Saturday morning John Hanna and William Drysdale were badly hurt in the Con. Virginia shaft at Virginia City. The two, with Andrew Fitzgerald were on the cage taking timber up the shaft. One of the sticks caught in the shaft and jammed the cage. Drysdale was badly crushed. Hanna was thrown from the cage, but was caught by the feet and hung head down in the shaft till rescued: had the cage moved he would have been dashed to pieces. Fitzgerald was not much hurt.

The Virginia Enterprise urges that the Grand Jury of Esmeralda county make an investigation concerning the killing of Tom Donahue at Candelaria. It is said that Donahue refused to lend money to Callison and the latter forced the quarrel that resulted in the death of Donahue. The Justice of Peace, A. G. Turner, who discharged Callison from custody, was appointed to the office through the influence of Callison. The whole affair has a very bad look, and it will be very discreditable to Esmeralda county if an investigation is not had.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

AT THE SOLICITATION OF MANY friends I hereby offer myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

GEORGE H. SHEDD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican Convention of Inyo County.

THOMAS C. BOLAND.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

P. H. MACK.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

J. J. MOORE.

NOTICE OF REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the Republican Committee of the County of Inyo, will be held at the Court House in the town of Independence at 7 o'clock p. m. of Friday, July 6 1888 for the purpose of choosing two delegates to represent the Republican party of Inyo county in the State and Congressional Conventions, to be held at San Francisco July 31, 1888. A full attendance of the Committee is urgently requested.

S. A. DENSMORE, Chairman.

Geo. H. Hardy, Sec.

Independence, Cal., June 19, 1888.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE

ESTATE OF WILLIAM HEDGE, deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned, administrator of the estate of William Hedge, deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said administrator, at the law office of George M. Gill, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, State of California, that being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate.

WILLIAM F. MATLACK,

Administrator of the estate of William Hedge deceased.

Dated at Independence, California June 19, 1888.

Geo. M. Gill, Attorney for Administrator.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1221.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL., June 22, 1888.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on August 4, 1888, viz: Hiram Hamilton, for the E½ of S W ¼, W ½ of S E ¼ of Sec 30, Twp 14 S, R 36 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: John Shepherd, John W. Lacey, William H. Jenkins and Peter Meyer, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

6 m14

MISCELLANEOUS.

PALACE SALOON,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

J. J. GUSN, Proprietor.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS

A fine new billiard table nicely fitted up in rooms for the use of patrons, in every respect a

FIRST CLASS RESORT.

ICE! ICE ICE!

We are now prepared to furnish a first-class quality of

ICE

In quantities to suit either at Bishop Creek, or on the cars at Bishop Station, at

2 Cts. per Pound.

Orders Promptly Attended To.

F. K. ANDREWS & CO.

Laws, Inyo Co., Cal.

SHOPPING BY MAIL!

There can no longer be any doubt that shopping by mail is profitable. Thousands throughout the United States are doing so to their satisfaction, and the list continues to swell. Our facilities for handling this class of trade are unexcelled by any house west of the Mississippi. An entire floor of our mammoth three story building is devoted solely to this department, and we have spared no effort to the end that out of town customers might have the

Same Advantages As Residents

We possess unequalled advantages in buying, because we deal direct with the manufacturer. Being one of HALE'S Seven California Stores we thereby obtain advantages in values which result from buying in large quantities; for it must be seen that the amount of goods which these stores consume in the aggregate is enormous.

SEND FOR A CATALOGUE.

Our new Spring and Summer Catalogue is now ready for distribution, and will be mailed to intending customers upon application. It is a large illustrated pamphlet of 85 pages, and gives the price and description of any article in our stores. Samples of dry-goods sent free of charge.

IT WILL PAY YOU

To trade with us. The thousands of orders which we are constantly receiving from every State and Territory west of the Rocky Mountains, attest the taste, care, discretion and promptness which we exercise in meeting the requirements of our mail customers.

WHAT WE KEEP.

Our stock embraces Dress Goods, Domestices, Fancy Goods, Ladies' Underwear, Gloves, Parasols, Hosiery, Embroidery, Laces, Cloaks, Jackets and Wraps, Clothing, Gent's Furnishing Goods, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Jewelry, Notions, Trunks & Valises, Etc. Etc.

Send Us a Trial Order And Be Convinced.

HALE BROS & CO.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,

Sacramento, Cal.

List of Delinquent Purchasers of School Lands in Inyo County, Showing the Amount Due January 1st, 1889.

THEO. REICHERT, Register State Land Office.

| NAME OF PURCHASER. | NO. | DATE OF APPROVAL. | NO. AND DATE OF CERTIFICATE OF PURCHASE. | DESCRIPTION. | | | | | | AMOUNT OF PRINCIPAL UNPAID. | AMOUNT OF INTEREST UNPAID. | AMOUNT OF PRINCIPAL PAID. | AMOUNT OF INTEREST PAID AND DUE JAN 1st, 1889 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | | MERIDIAN. | TOWNSHIP. | RANGE. | SECT. | NO. ACRES. | | | | | |
| Livingston, Archd | 18 | March 30, 1874. | 5548 May 4, 1874. | M D | 18 S. | 36 E. | 36 | 160 | 00 S. E. ¼ | 40 00 | 12 65 | | 224 00 |
| Modie, S. W. | 171 | Nov. 28, 1877. | 7428 Jan. 8, 1878. | M D | 17 S. | 36 E. | 16 | 320 | 00 W. ½ | 80 00 | 290 85 | | 64 00 |
| Hughes, Thomas | 345 | Oct. 14, 1881. | 8214 Jan. 9, 1882. | M D | 17 S. | 36 E. | 36 | 160 | 00 E. ½ of N W. ¼, E. ½ of S. W. ¼ | 40 00 | 58 37 | | 29 40 |
| Williams, Benjamin | 407 | Sept. 22, 1885. | 9739 Nov. 5, 1885. | M D | 22 S. | 31 E. | 16 | 40 | 00 S. W. ¼ of N. W. ¼ | 10 00 | 7 77 | | 8 40 |
| Sanger, Gustave | 429 | June 15, 1886. | 10151 July 29, 1886. | M D | 9 S. | 34 E. | 36 | 320 | 00 W. ½ | 80 00 | 12 20 | | 44 80 |

The said Archd. Livingston, S. W. Modie, Thomas Hughes, Benjamin Williams, and Gustave Sanger, the delinquent purchasers above named, and each of them, are hereby notified, that if the amount due as above stated is not paid within fifty days after the date of this notice I will commence suit to foreclose the interest of said purchasers in the lands above described.

P. W. FORBES,

District Attorney.

Dated June 2nd, 1888.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.

COUNTY SURVEYOR

—AND—

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor

For California and Nevada.

BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

BISHOP CREEK

BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.,

Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

Customers supplied on all points on the C. & C. Railroad.

Send orders to

MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.

Bishop Creek, Cal.

Boot & Shoe Shop,

A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.

Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK

Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.

JOHN CLARKE, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.

Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

115 CLAY STREET, 117

SMITH'S STORE IS

The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.

CASH

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Who Spends Money

For advertising in newspapers in these hard times, without first obtaining an estimate of the cost from Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York, is likely to pay $10 for what might be obtained for $5. Such estimates are furnished to all applicants gratis. Send 10 cents for 176 page pamphlet with list of newspapers and references.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BELL'S

Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S

EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,

Independence, Cal.

INDEPENDENCE MARKET,

J. Roeper, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,

Mutton,

Pork,

Lard,

Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18-tf

FRED BURCKHARDT

Watchmaker & Jeweler,

LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

Bishop Creek, Cal.,

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDIS

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAI

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC

Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884. E. CHENOT.

n47tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

THIS PAPER IS ON FILE

—AT—

PALMER & REY'S

ADVERTISING BU

405-7 Sansome St., Sa

—AND AT—

PALMER & R

Pacific States Advertis

46 Tribune Buil

NEW YORK.

Where Advertising Contracts can be

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles

OF

Fashionable Clothing

Dry Goods, Ladies'

Wear, etc., etc

AT

L. WOOD'S

CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,

PEANUTS,

WALNUTS,

TOYS!

THE CASH STORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:

HAWTHORNE NEV.

BRANCHES:

Wabuska, Nev.,

CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.

AGENCIES:

WELLS, FARGO & CO.,

U. S. STAGE CO.,

HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,

HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,

Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

n25tf

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer In

GENERAL

MERCHANDISE,

GROCERIES

MINERS

Supplies

PROVISIONS,

&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.

Excellent Cardinal or Drab

SATEEN CORSETS,

44 cts.

By mail 11c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered bust, finished with pretty lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.

More Important Still

Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Men's Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.

WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.

400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.

SACRAMENTO, CAL.

When a death is expected the attendant mourners in the Greek Islands have many little customs peculiar to themselves. The moribund is handed a bowl of water, into which he puts a pinch of salt for each person with whom he is at enmity, saying as he does so: "May my wrath perish as this salt;" for it is considered dreadful for a man to die leaving an enemy behind him. His spirit, it is believed, will not rest, but will wander about as a poor ghost, sucking the blood of his friends, like the shades in ancient hades, to gain strength for his earthly wandering. If the complaint is consumption, they suppose that three Erinneys stand ready to pounce on children at the corners of the room; hence the young are kept out of the way when the dying is in extremis, and a hole is opened over his head to allow the Erinneys to escape. Fevers are best cured by priestly incantations. The name of the disease is written on a slip of paper, and with prayer and much incensing this is bound to a tree, hoping thereby to transfer the malady. Incense is much used by the priest in his visitations to the sick; the whole room is thick with it, and perhaps contagion is thus often avoided.

When the death has occurred the women rush onto the flat roof or some other conspicuous place, where they rend the air with their cries, tear their hair, and give way to unbridled grief. The town crier is sent around to announce the fact to the neighbors and to summon friends to the death-wail, which takes place an hour or two after the spirit has left the body. After the body has been washed in wine it is laid out on a bier in the center of the one-roomed house, arrayed in the deceased's best clothes, decked out with flowers, and with lamps burning at the side, reminding us of the ancient custom of placing the corpse thus in the midst of the hall, dressed in as handsome a robe as the family could afford, in order, according to Lucian, that the dead may not be cold on the passage to hades, and may not be seen naked by Cerberus. Then begins the death-wail ceremony, and a scene of heart-rending grief such as took place in Priam's palace over the dead body of Hector. These death-wails are, in fact, one of the most striking bonds of connection between the Hellenism of the past and the Hellenism of the present, and in the Greek islands, despite the strictness of the more civilized members of the orthodox church, they cling to them with surprising tenacity.

The Hungarian Bishops.

The revenues of the Hungarian bishops are princely. The Archbishop of Gran, the Primate, enjoys an income which is estimated at £80,000 a year, and he makes a noble use of it. The Roman Catholic Church has enormous territorial possessions in the land of the Magyars, and there can be little doubt that the new see of Budapest, which is about to be established, will be as richly endowed in proportion as the other Hungarian bishoprics. The Magyar prelates use their money not alone for charitable purposes, to which the bulk of it is applied, but to the fostering of literature, art and science. They follow the best traditions of the best Popes; and one result of their noble liberality is seen in the conspicuous progress that Hungary has made in all the arts since the coronation of Francis Joseph.—London Echo.

"You plead guilty to the charge of murder, do you?" inquired the judge of the defendant.

"Yes, your honor," replied the criminal. "I had a pistol in my pocket and when he sprung the red-hair-and-white-horse racket on me I immediately shot him."

"Dear me," said the judge, "I am afraid you were too harsh with him."

"I wish to say," remarked the prisoner, "that there was a mitigated circumstance which I have not mentioned."

"What was that?"

"I did not yell 'chestnuts!' before I shot him."

"Discharge the prisoner," said the judge.—Chicago News.

MR. BARCLAY'S BONANZA.

The Genial Pension Agent not Quite Ready To Invest His $75,000 Prize.

In view of the fact that numerous incredulous inquiries and communications have been received in Pittsburg concerning the truth of the good fortune of Mr. W. H. Barclay, the well-known Pension Agent for the district of Western Pennsylvania in being the recipient of one-half of the capital prize at the April drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, which was drawn by ticket No. 12,615, a Dispatch reporter visited the gentleman, at his office on Third avenue, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Barclay looked prosperously happy, and was perfectly willing to reassert the truth of the statement. He said: "I purchased one-half of ticket No. 12,615 at Washington, D. C., on the morning of the day the drawing took place, April 10th. I was notified on the following Wednesday that that number had drawn the capital prize. I never entertained the least doubt of getting the money, and consequently was not surprised when, on the 24th of this month, I received notice that $75,000 had been deposited to my credit in the First National Bank of this city. The full amount was there, without an iota of discount."

Mr. Barclay takes his good fortune very modestly. He says the receipt of the windfall was not attended by a particular sensation of elation; nevertheless his demeanor is not that of one who has met with a financial loss. The genial gentleman will continue to look after the wants of the old soldiers as heretofore. He is in daily receipt [illegible] advice and propositions from those w[illegible] are blessed with [illegible] ds, an[illegible]

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

"So, monsieur, then my prayers have prevailed. I emerge?" and he did.

Thoroughly disgusted, I left Alphonse to look after himself, which he did by following me like a shadow, and proceeded to join the others by the large entrance. The first thing that I saw was Mackenzie, seated on a stone, with a handkerchief twisted round his thigh, from which he was bleeding freely, having indeed received a spear thrust that passed right through it, and still holding in his hand his favorite carving knife; now bent nearly double, from which I gathered that he had been successful in his rough and tumble with the Elmoran.

"Ah, Quatermain!" he sung out, in a trembling, excited voice, "so we have conquered but it is a sorry sight, a sorry sight!" and then, breaking into broad Scotch, and glaring at the bent knife in his hand, "It fashes me sair to hae bent my best carver on the breastbane of a savage," and he laughed hysterically. Poor fellow! what between his wound and the killing excitement he had undergone, his nerves were much shaken, and no wonder. It is hard upon a man of peace and kindly heart to be called upon to join in such a grewsome business. But there, fate puts us sometimes into very ironical positions!

At the kraal entrance the scene was a strange one. The slaughter was over by now, and the wounded men had been put out of their pain, for no quarter had been given. The bush closed entrance had been trampled flat, and in place of bushes it was filled with the bodies of dead men. Dead men, everywhere dead men; they lay about in knots, they were flung by ones and twos in every position upon the open spaces, for all the world like the people on the grass in one of the London parks on a particularly hot Sunday in August. In front of this entrance, on a space which had been cleared of dead, and of the shields and spears which were scattered in all directions as they had fallen or been thrown from the hands of their owners, stood and lay the survivors of the awful struggle, and at their feet were four wounded men. We had gone into the fight thirty strong, and of the thirty but fifteen remained alive, and five of them (including Mr. Mackenzie) were wounded, two mortally. Of those who held the entrance, Curtis and the Zulu alone remained. Good had lost five men killed, I had lost two killed and Mackenzie no less than five out of the six with him. As for the survivors, they were, with the exception of myself, who had never come to close quarters, red from head to foot—Sir Henry's armor might have been painted that color—and utterly exhausted, except Umslopogaas, who, as he stood on a little mound above a heap of dead, leaning as usual upon his ax, did not seem particularly distressed, although the skin over the hole in his head palpitated violently.

"Ah, Macumazahn!" he said to me as I limped up, feeling very sick, "I told thee that it would be a good fight, and it has. Never have I seen a better, or one more bravely fought. As for this iron shirt, surely it is 'tagati'" (bewitched); "nothing could pierce it. Had it not been for the garment I should have been there," and he nodded toward the great pile of dead men beneath him.

"I give it thee; thou art a gallant man," said Sir Henry, briefly.

"Kosi!" answered the Zulu, deeply pleased both at the gift and the compliment. "Thou, too, Incubu, dost bear thyself as a man, but I must give thee some lessons with the ax; thou dost waste thy strength."

Just then Mackenzie asked about Flossie, and we were all greatly relieved when one of the men said he had seen her flying towards the house with her nurse. Then bearing such of the wounded as could be moved at the moment with us, we slowly made our way towards the mission house, spent with toil and bloodshed, but with the glorious sense of victory against overwhelming odds glowing in our hearts. We had saved the life of the little maid and taught the Masai of those parts a lesson that they will not forget for ten years, but at what a cost!

Painfully we made our way up the hill which, but a little more than an hour before, we had descended under such different circumstances. At the gate of the wall stood Mrs. Mackenzie waiting for us. When her eyes fell upon us, however, she shrieked out and covered her face with her hands, crying: "Horrible! horrible!" Nor were her fears allayed when she discovered her worthy husband being borne upon an improvised stretcher; but her doubts as to the nature of his injury were soon set at rest. Then, when in a few brief words I had told her the upshot of the struggle (of which Flossie, who had arrived in safety, had been able to explain something), she came up to me and solemnly kissed me on the forehead.

"God bless you all, Mr. Quatermain! you have saved my child's life," she said, simply.

Then we went in and got our clothes off and doctored our wounds. After that we had a bath, and what a luxury it was! and having clad ourselves in ordinary clothes, proceeded to the dining room, where breakfast was set as usual. When we were finishing our breakfast the door opened and in came little Flossie, very pale and tottery, but quite unhurt. She kissed us all and thanked us. I congratulated her on the presence of mind she had shown in shooting the Masai with her Derringer pistol, and thereby saving her own life.

"Oh, don't talk of it!" she said, beginning to cry hysterically; "I shall never forget his face as he went turning round and round, never—I can see it now."

I advised her to go to bed and get some sleep, which she did, and awoke in the evening quiet recovered, so far as her strength was concerned. It struck me as an odd thing that a girl who could find the nerve to shoot a huge black ruffian rushing to kill her with a spear should have been so affected at the thought of it afterwards; but it is, after all, characteristic of the sex. Poor Flossie! I fear that her nerves will not get over that night in the Masai camp for many a long year.

When breakfast was over we all turned in and had a good sleep, only getting up in time for dinner; after which meal we once more adjourned, together with all the available population—men, women, youths and girls—to the scene of the morning's slaughter, our object being to bury our own dead and get rid of the Masai by flinging them into the Tana river, which ran within fifty yards of the kraal.

We buried our dead in solemn silence, Good being selected to read the burial service over them (in the absence of Mr. Mackenzie, confined to bed), as he was generally allowed to possess the best voice and most impressive manner. It was melancholy in the extreme, but, as Good said, it might have been worse, for we might have had "to bury ourselves." I pointed out that this would have been a difficult feat, but I knew what he m[illegible] set to work to load an ox wagon [illegible] been brought round from the [illegible]h the dead bodies of the Masai, [illegible]lected the spears, shields and [illegible]oaded the wagon five times, [illegible] to the load, and emptied it [illegible]om this it was evident that [illegible]Masai could have escaped. [illegible]st have been well fed that [illegible] last bodies we picked up [illegible]entry at the upper end. I [illegible]he managed to kill him, and [illegible] he had crept up much as Um[illegible]d done and stabbed him with his [illegible]word. He groaned a good deal, but fortunately nobody heard him. As Good said, it was a horrible thing to have to do, and most unpleasantly like cold blooded murder.

And so with the last body that floated away down the current of the Tana ended the incident of our attack on the Masai camp.

In the evening I had an interview with Mr. Mackenzie, who was suffering a good deal from his wounds, which Good, who was a skillful though unqualified doctor, was treating him for. He told me that this occurrence had taught him a lesson, and that, if he recovered safely, he meant to hand over the Mission to a younger man, who was already on his road to join him in his work, and return to England.

"You see, Quatermain," he said, "I made up my mind to this this very morning, when we were creeping down upon those benighted savages. If we live through this and rescue Flossie alive," I said to myself, "I will go home to England; I have had enough of savages. Well, I did not think that we should live through it at the time, but thanks be to God and you four, we have lived through it, and I mean to stick to my resolution, less a worst thing befall us. Another such time would kill my poor wife. And besides, Quatermain, between you and me, I am well off; it is £30,000 I am worth today, and every farthing of it made by honest trade and savings in the bank at Zanzibar, for living here costs me next to nothing. So, though it will be hard to leave this place, which I have made to blossom like a rose in the wilderness, and harder still to leave the people I have taught, I shall go."

"I congratulate you on your decision," answered I, "for two reasons. The first is, that you owe a duty to your wife and daughter, and more especially to the latter, who should receive some education and mix with girls of her own race; otherwise she will grow up wild, shunning her kind. The other is, that as sure as I am standing here, sooner or later the Masai will try to avenge the slaughter inflicted on them today. Two or three men are sure to have escaped in the confusion, who will carry the story back to their people, and the result will be that a great expedition will one day be sent against you. It might be delayed for a year, but sooner or later it will come. Therefore, if only for that reason, I should go. When once they have learned that you are no longer here they may perhaps leave the place alone."

"You are quite right," answered the clergyman. "I will turn my back upon this place in a month. But it will be a wrench; it will be a wrench."

CHAPTER IX.

INTO THE UNKNOWN.

A week had passed, and we all sat at supper one night in the Mission dining room, feeling very much depressed in spirits, for the reason that we were going to say good-by to our kind friends the Mackenzies, and to part upon our way at dawn on the morrow. Nothing more had been seen or heard of the Masai, and save for a spear or two which had been overlooked, and was rusting in the grass, and a few empty cartridges where we had stood outside the wall, it would have been difficult to tell that the old cattle kraal at the foot of the slope had been the scene of so desperate a struggle. Mackenzie was, thanks chiefly to his being so temperate a man, rapidly recovering from his wound, and could get about on a pair of crutches, and as for the other wounded men, one had died of gangrene, and the rest were in a fair way to recovery. Mr. Mackenzie's caravan of men had also returned from the coast, so that the station was now amply garrisoned.

Under these circumstances we concluded, warm and pressing as were the invitations for us to stay, that it was time to move on, first to Mt. Kenia, and thence into the unknown in search of the mysterious white race which we had set our hearts on discovering. This time we were going to progress by means of the humble but useful donkey, of which we had collected no less than a dozen to carry our goods and chattels, and, if necessary, ourselves. We had new but two Wakwafi left for servants, and found it quite impossible to get other natives to venture with us into the unknown parts we proposed to explore.

That evening, while we were sitting on the veranda, smoking a pipe before turning in, who should come up to us but Alphonse, and with a magnificent bow announce his wish for an interview. Being requested to fire away, he explained at some length that he was anxious to attach himself to our party—a statement that astonished me not a little, knowing what a coward the little man was. The reason, however, soon appeared. Mr. Mackenzie was going down to the coast, and thence on to England. Now, if he went down country, Alphonse was persuaded that he would be seized, extradited, sent to France and guillotined. This was the idea that haunted him, as King Charles' head haunted Mr. Dick, and he brooded over it till his imagination exaggerated the danger ten times. As a matter of fact, the probability is that his offense against the laws of his country had long ago been forgotten, and that he would have been allowed to pass unmolested anywhere except in France; but he could not be got to see this. Constitutional coward as the little man was, he infinitely preferred to face the certain hardships and great risks and dangers of such an expedition as ours than to expose himself, notwithstanding his intense longing for his native land, to the possible scrutiny of a police officer—which is, after all, only another exemplification of the truth that, to the majority of men, a far off, foreseen danger, however shadowy, is much more terrible than the most serious present emergency. After listening to what he had to say, we consulted among ourselves, and finally agreed, with Mr. Mackenzie's knowledge and consent, to accept his offer. To begin with, we were very shorthanded, and Alphonse was a quick, active fellow, who could turn his hand to anything, and cook—ah, he could cook! I believe that he would have made a palatable dish of those gaiters of his heroic grandfather, which he was so fond of talking about. Then he was a good tempered little man, and merry as a monkey, while his pompous, vainglorious talk was a source of infinite amusement to us; and what is more, he never bore malice. Of course, his being so pronounced a coward was a great drawback to him, but now that we knew his weakness, we could more or less guard against it. So, after warning him of the undoubted risks he was exposing himself to, we told him that we would accept his offer on condition that he would promise implicit obedience to our orders. We also promised to give him wages at the rate of £10 a month should he ever return to a civilized country to receive them. To all of this he agreed with alacrity, and retired to write a letter to his Annette, which Mr. Mackenzie promised to post when he got down country. He read it to us afterward, Sir Henry translating, and a wonderful composition it was. I am sure the depth of his devotion and the narration of his sufferings in a barbarous country, "far, far from thee, Annette, for whose adored sake I endure such sorrow," ought to have touched up the feelings of the stoniest hearted chambermaid.

Well, the morrow came, and by 7 o'clock the donkeys were all loaded, and the time of parting was at hand. It was a melancholy business, especially saying goodby to dear little Flossie. She and I were great friends, and often used to have talks together—but her nerves had never got over the shock of that awful night when she lay in the power of those bloodthirsty Masai. "Oh, Mr. Quatermain," she cried, throwing her arms round my neck and bursting into tears, "I can't bear to say goodby to you. I wonder when we shall meet again?"

(To be Continued.

The exports of American machinery to Mexico, Central and South America and Australia continue to agitate the manufacturers of machinery in Great Britain.

Radical defeats in three provincial elections are considered as indicative of a falling-off in the Boulanger movement. In Paris the Boulanger fever is cooling.

AMPUTATION OF THE LEG

Within Three Inches of the Hip Joint. Operation performed by Dr. Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y.

Mr. Abraham Ellsworth, a wealthy merchant of Port Ewen, Ulster Co., N. Y., had suffered for more than twenty-five years with a disease involving nearly the whole of the thigh bone, and the suffering man was given up by all the physicians who attended him, who said there was no help, he must die. Finally Dr. Kennedy, proprietor of "Favorite Remedy," was consulted, who decided that amputation would save the patient. Dr. Kennedy performed the operation, and then gave "Favorite Remedy" to purify the blood, and thus prevent the return of the disease,—and Mr. Elsworth remains to this day, in the bloom of health.

Are you suffering from any disorder of the Blood, Kidneys, Liver, or Constipation of the Bowels? Then use Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," made at Rondout, N. Y. For all the ills peculiar to Females, old or young, Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" has, and will prove, a perfect blessing. Your druggist has it; if not, send price of a bottle (one dollar) to the proprietor, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y., or Redington & Co., agents, San Francisco. TO AVOID MISTAKES, remember the following points: 1. Name of Medicine is "Favorite Remedy." 2. That it is made at Rondout, N. Y. 3. The cost is only $1 a bottle, or 6 for $5. 4. That the proprietor, Dr. David Kennedy, has no other address than Rondout, N. Y.

"Give us this day our daily bread,"
He prayed at early morn,
And then went out on the exchange
To raise the price of corn.

"WHAT DRUG WILL SCOUR THESE ENGLISH HENCE"?

Wicked Macbeth, who murdered good King Duncan, asked this question in his despair. Thousands of victims of disease are daily asking "What will scour the impurities from my blood and bring me health?" Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will do it. When the purple life tide is sluggish, causing drowsiness, headache and loss of appetite, use this wonderful vitalizer, which never fails. It forces the liver into perfect action, drives out superfluous bile, brings the glow of health to the cheek and the natural sparkle to the eye. All druggists.

A political candidate will often win a man over to his side by a simple drink. This is what is known as the "winning smile."

ALL persons interested in the collection of pictures, and especially of the folding cards representing the living rulers, flags and coats-of-arms of all the nations of the world, will be pleased to learn that Duke, Sons & Co. are about to issue an album containing the complete collection, which embraces fifty different countries. This album is as beautiful, interesting and unique a publication as was ever presented to the public, and will be delivered to every one who returns seventy-five folders unsoiled (same as taken from the five cent boxes of Duke Cameo Cigarettes). The albums will be delivered on and after April 15th, and until further notice on receipt of the folders, with full address of parties returning such. Address W. Duke, Sons & Co., First avenue and Twenty ninth street, New York. This is certainly a liberal offer and one that will be appreciated by the public. Those who are saving their empty Cameo boxes for the purpose of securing one of the magnificent pictures of Langtry or Theo are reminded that the folders from such boxes will secure to them an album also.

A novel bet was won and lost in a "fine street resort the other evening. A party of gentlemen were indulging in a social glass, and finally the conversation turned upon the quality of liquors and the ability of certain persons to judge them by the sense of smell and taste. One man in the party claimed that the best judges could be fooled by the compounders, and, after the argument became quite warm, made the astounding assertion that a large percentage of bar patrons did not know what they were drinking.

The debate grew hotter and hotter, and finally the man who had advanced such outrageous ideas offered to bet a basket of wine that he could confound any one of the party so that he could not tell water from whisky. John Hummel, the circus man, who has had a varied experience in the drinking line, accepted the wager, and the preliminaries began. John was first heavily blindfolded, and then a number of glasses, containing water, milk, whisky, sherry, claret, Rhine wine and gin were set out on the bar. They were handed to the blindfolded man one at a time, and he was told to name the liquor after tasting it. He got through the list bravely until he came to the gin, which he called port wine. Then the man started him back, but it was soon very evident that Hummel's palate had lost its power. He called milk water, and finally was forced to admit that all the liquors tasted alike, and that he had lost his bet. It was some time before he was able to enjoy the wine he had lost.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Excessive Eating in Gotham.

From the 1st of December to the last of April, dinners are in order, and many fashionable folk scarcely dine at home once a month unless they play host under their own roof. How they manage their digestion I know not, for a season's elaborate dinners are enough to disturb the interior of an ostrich. I am aware that cooking of the Careme kind claims to insure eupepsy; but, while this may be true in theory, it is not in practice. Scores of men die here annually from excessive dining out, and I am acquainted with dozens who have lost their health from the same cause. Women seldom suffer, because they are not educated, and cannot be educated into epicures. If they are tortured by gout it is usually an inheritance; most men earn their gout by protracted stomachic abuse. Excessive eating, say experienced physicians, destroys as many constitutions as does excessive drinking. And excessive eating is the bane of New York society men and men of leisure, who are represented by round, protruding eyes, double chins and oleaginous complexions—

A SAFE BANK.

Conservative commercial men will note with satisfaction that the PACIFIC BANK, of San Francisco, continues to give proof of the soundness of its business methods, and the prudence and wisdom of its administration by its last statement.

A LUCKY TRIAL.

The good Fortune which followed fair treatment.

San Francisco, February 29, 1888.

DEAR SIR: It affords me great pleasure to send you this voluntary statement of my experience in testing the merits of Joy's Sarsaparilla. For the past five years I have been troubled with an exceedingly sluggish liver, and within the past two years it has brought within its trail a thoroughly disordered stomach, including loss of appetite and distress after eating, pains in the back and kidneys, and boils around my neck and face. I have tried several remedies which are advertised as specially for the liver, and could never get more than temporary relief of about a week or two. I was recommended to try a bottle of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla as a test, and while taking the first bottle I became convinced of its merits for I could feel it was working a change in me. I have taken five bottles, and during that time my troubles have left me. Everything is working full and regular, in fact it has cleansed, purified and braced me up generally. I feel like a new man. You are at perfect liberty to use this as you see fit, or you can refer whom you please to

With Beamish, corner Third and Market streets, San Francisco.

Boston has a new sign worthy to take its place with "Boots Blacked Inside." The new sign reads: "Lawn Mowers Mended in the Rear."

THAT HIGHWAY OF NATIONS,

The broad Atlantic, is ever a stormy thoroughfare. Yet blow the winds ever so fiercely, and ride the waves ever so lottily, seamen must man the good ships, tourists will brave the passage, and commercial travelers and buyers must visit the centers of foreign trade and manufacture. That atrocious malady, seasickness, together with colicky pains and much inward uneasiness is often endured when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters would have fortified the voyagers against them. Sea captains, and in fact all old salt and veteran travelers are acquainted with the protective value of this estimable preventive and remedy, and are rarely unprovided with it. Emigrants to the far West should use it as a safeguard against malaria. Seek the aid of the Bitters for dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, kidney troubles, and all ailments that impair the harmonious and vigorous action of the vital powers.

THE FLYING DOVE OF PEACE.

A richly frosted quivering, flying Dove. A Dream of Life screen calendar. An imported ideal head. An imported frosted snow scene and a full set of magnificent floral cards. Fourteen artistic pieces. Sent to anyone who will buy from a druggist a box of the genuine DR. C. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS (price, 25 cts.) and mail us the outside wrapper from the box with 4 cents in stamps. Write your address plainly. FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

A Better Investment—A Colorado man has sold out his silver mine and reinvested in two Niagara Falls hacks. He hopes now to make something.

A PLEASURE SHARED BY WOMEN ONLY.

Malherbe, the gifted French author, declared that of all things that man possesses, women alone take pleasure in being possessed. This seems generally true of the sweeter sex. Like the ivy plant, she longs for an object to cling to and love—to look to for protection. This being her prerogative, ought she not to be told that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the physical salvation of her sex? It banishes those distressing maladies that make her life a burden, curing all painful irregularities, uterine disorders, inflammation and ulceration, prolapsus and kindred weaknesses. As a nervine, it cures nervous exhaustion, prostration, debility, relieves mental anxiety and hypochondria, and promotes refreshing sleep.

Gillig can spell his name correctly either backward or forward. His American Exchange in Europe is also susceptible to reversES.

Throat Diseases commence with a Cold, Cough, or over fatiguing the voice. These symptoms (which, if neglected, often result in a chronic trouble of the Throat) are allayed by the use of "Brown's Bronchial Troches."

HOYT'S GERMAN COLOGNE is the finest handkerchief perfume; it clings to the fabric with wonderful tenacity, and is free from the cloying, sickening odor so often observed in other perfumes.

If afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

BEAUTY of Skin & Scalp RESTORED by the CUTICURA Remedies.

NOTHING IS KNOWN TO SCIENCE AT ALL comparable to the CUTICURA REMEDIES in their marvelous properties of cleansing, purifying and beautifying the skin, and in curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp, and blood with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price CUTICURA, 50c.; RESOLVENT, $1; SOAP, 25c. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Pain Aches, Pains, and Weaknesses instantly relieved by the CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. 25c.

IRRIGATING PUMPS
STEAM ENGINES
AND BOILERS,
COMPLETE POWER AND PUMPING PLANTS.
Low prices, prompt delivery
Write for Circulars.
BYRON JACKSON, SAN FRANCISCO.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

R. HALL'S
PULMONARY BALSAM
A SUPERIOR REMEDY FOR
COUGHS, COLDS, INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION,
And all Throat and Lung Troubles.
Sold by all Druggists for .....50 Cents
J. R. CATES & CO.,
PROPRIETORS,
417 SANSOME ST. SAN FRANCISCO

WELL DRILLS
FOR EVERY PURPOSE.
Sold on Trial!
Investment small, profits large. Send 20c for mailing large illustrated Catalogue with full particulars. Manufactured by
GOULDS & AUSTIN,
167 & 169 Lake St.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

REWARD!

$1000 Will be paid for each and every grain of poisonous substances found in Wisdom's Robertine, acknowledged the most delightful and only really harmless toilet article ever produced for beautifying and preserving the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles and all blemishes and roughness of the skin. Used and endorsed by the elite of society and the stage. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per bottle. White and Flesh. REDINGTON CO., Wholesale Druggists, San Francisco. Agents

S. F. N. U. Series No. 309.

PILES CAN BE CURED.

WESTFIELD, N. Y., May 18, 1885.

For thirty-two years I suffered from piles, both internal and external, with all their attendant agonies, and like many another suffered from hemorrhoids. All those thirty-two years I had to cramp myself to pay doctors and druggists for stuff that was doing me little or no good. Finally I was urged by one who had had the same complaint, but had been cured by BRANDRETH'S PILLS, to try his cure. I did so, and began to improve, and for the past two years I have had no inconvenience from that terrible ailment.

RICHARD BENNETT.

IF SUFFERERS FROM CONSUMPTION,

Scrofula, Bronchitis and General Debility will try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, they will find immediate relief and permanent benefit. The Medical Profession universally declare it a remedy of the greatest value and very palatable. Read: "I have used Scott's Emulsion in several cases of Scrofula and Debility in Children Results most gratifying. My little patients take it with pleasure."—W. A. HULBERT, M.D., Salisbury, Ill

It requires talent to write the last words of great men.

When everything else fails, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures.

Considering the prices charged at present by undertakers, it may seriously be questioned whether death is worth dying.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

Cures by St. Jacobs Oil. 20,000,000 BOTTLES SOLD.
IN EVERY ONE A CURE.
NO RETURN OF PAIN.
AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHAS. A. VOGELER CO. BALTO. MD.

ELY'S CREAM BALM CATARRH

It is wonderful how quickly Ely's Cream Balm has helped and cured me. For a week at a time I could not see. I suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head.—Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES COLD IN HEAD, CATARRH, ROSE COLD, HAY FEVER, DEAFNESS, HEADACHE. EASY TO USE. PRICE 50 CENTS. ELY BROS. OWEGO, N.Y. U.S.A.

HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril, and is agreeable. Price, 50 cents at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS, 235 Greenwich St. New York

DO you smoke a pipe? If you do, take the advice of thousands of old smokers that have tried it, and smoke "Seal of North Carolina" Plug Cut.

YOU will find it the best Smoking Tobacco ever sold on this coast. It is made from three year old Tobacco, smokes soft and cool, and will last twice as long as the many cheap imitations that are flooding the market.

SMOKE Seal of North Carolina and you at once see why it has the largest sale of any Tobacco on the coast.

If your dealer does not keep it he will get it for you, if he values your trade.

DON'T TRY IT!

You will regret it. No one has a right to grow fat and rich from your hard earnings. Your money is your own; spend it when, where and how you please for useful articles or innocent pleasure. If you patronize credit stores you will have to make up Thousands of Dollars which they lose every year by bad debts. They must charge extravagant prices to meet these losses, while in a business aggregating several hundred thousand dollars each year, we do not lose a single hundred dollars, as we get cash and can sell goods from 20 to 50 per cent cheaper than credit stores. Do not think you are too far away. Do not think the amount too small. Do not say you don't understand making out an order. Send for our Home Circle and Order Blanks, read the instructions carefully and everything will be plain. You will see things quoted you need right away: Sugar as low as 5½c and Best White Granulated 6¾c; Tea as low as 20c, and even lower; Coffee, ground or green, 16c up; Dry Fruit of good quality, 6c; and Figs, Grapes and Raisins, 5c; Nice Summer Lawns, 5c a yard. Bargains in Dry Goods, Notions, Hardware, Tinware, Crockery, Glassware, Platedware, Groceries, Provisions, Woodenware, Everything. A Regular Country Store on a Large Scale. Come or send to Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front St., S. F., Cal.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage,
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

BIG G. Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Mf'd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio. Trade Mark.

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y.

We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.

$1.00. Sold by Druggists.

R. H. McDonald PRES'T. ESTABLISHED 1863. F. V. McDonald, CASHIER.
Oldest Chartered Bank on the Pacific Coast.
PACIFIC BANK
Capital Stock $1,000,000.00.
Surplus $ 650,000.00.
Av. Resources $4,356,175.94.

Besides paying the usual dividends, we have been enabled to add $200,000 to Surplus Fund during the past 2 years.

We are pleased to announce that the past year has been the most prosperous one the PACIFIC BANK has had during its 25 years of existence.

ASSETS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Bank Premises, | $150,000 00 |
| Other Real Estate, | 30,918 83 |
| Land Association, Gas and Bank stocks, | 26,242 30 |
| Loans and Discounts, | 2,914,119 99 |
| Due from Banks, | 340,897 37 |
| Money on hand, | 502,979 85 |
| | $3,965,158 34 |

LIABILITIES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Capital, paid up, | $1,000,000 00 |
| Surplus Funds, | 650,000 00 |
| Undivided Profits, | 9,369 40 |
| Due Depositors, | 2,094,780 69 |
| Due Banks, | 211,068 25 |
| | $3,965,158 34 |

Returning thanks for past favors, we respectfully ask a continuance of the same and solicit accounts of Individuals, Firms and Corporations. R. H. McDONALD, Pres't.
San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 1st, 1888.

STEINWAY. KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Roemish Pianos; Burdett Organs, Band Instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

CLOSING OUT

OUR IMMENSE STOCK OF SUMMER BALBRIGGAN UNDERWEAR, at $1 and $1.50 per suit.

Latest designs in PERCALE SHIRTS, three latest style Collars and one pair Cuffs, $1.50 each.

Wolf & Frank
MEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,
232 Kearny St., near Bush.
Send for Illustrated Catalogue.

CENTRIFUGAL FOR IRRIGATION PUMPS AND RECLAMATION.

Made by San Francisco Tool Co. Works, First and Stevenson Sts., S. F. Send for descriptive catalogue.

Wholesale and Retail Agency for all Adjustible and Common Dress Forms and Drapers; also Papier Mache Busts made to order.

WANTED—One Business man in every town to handle our Forms.

Send for Circular.
W. M. LOUDON,
24 Stockton St., S. F., Cal.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

TO FARMERS!

Our Catalogues
—OF—
Agricultural Implem'ts
FOR THE SEASON OF 1888.
Has just been issued and will be mailed free to any farmer sending us his address.
BAKER & HAMILTON,
P. O. Box 2605, San Francisco, Cal.

HATCH CHICKENS!
—WITH THE—
PETALUMA INCUBATOR
The Most Successful Machine Made.
3 Gold Medals, 1 Silver Medal, and 16 First Premiums.
Hatches all kinds of Eggs. Made in All Sizes.
Write us for Large Illustrated Circular Free, describing Incubators, Brooders, Houses, How to raise Chickens

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY..... JUNE 30, 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 3. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., JUNE 30, 1888. WHOLE NO. 922.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $3 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 25 |

THE DOCTOR'S DILEMMA.

The Hard Row Which the Average Physician Has to Hoe.

The individual, no matter what his profession may be, who imagines that he is going to give satisfaction to the general public in any thing he may undertake, is certainly the victim of a delusion. It is impossible to please every body. The man, be his station in life what it may, who comes up to the expectation of the multitude has not yet been born. The editor, in particular, soon makes this discovery. The clergyman also knows that there are people in his congregation who are never satisfied with what he does or eaves undone. The doctor is another professional man who has a hard row to hoe.

If a doctor dresses well and wears a high hat, people say that he is a medical dude. If, on the other hand, he pays little or no attention to his toilet, then he is accused of lack of dignity. If he goes into society, attends balls and parties, then the impression is that he is fishing for popularity. If he does not he is accused of putting on airs.

If the physician visits his patients while they are in good health, he is accused of foisting himself upon them. He comes to the house in order to be invited to dinner. If, on the other hand, he never comes until he is called, the inference is that the only use that he has for his patients is to make money out of them when they are sick. If the doctor attends church, of course he is a hypocrite who is trying to work on the religious feelings of the community. If he does not attend church, nothing can be plainer than that he is an infidel or a socialist. If the doctor's wife does not return the calls that other ladies make on her, then she is stuck up, turning up her nose at her betters, etc. If she does return the calls, then she is flushing patients for her husband to shoot at.

If the doctor's horse is fat, that is a sure sign that he has not got much to do. If the animal is emaciated, he is a brute for not taking better care of his horse. If he drives fast, he is trying to create the false impression that he has been called to the bedside of some important patient. If he drives slowly he does not care a cent whether or not his patients die before he gets to them.

If a patient recovers his health, he is indebted to a kind Providence or a strong constitution, or to the care that was taken of him during his illness. In no case is the doctor entitled to any credit for his recovery. If the patient dies, he was undoubtedly murdered by his physician. If the medical man is sociable and talkative, the people say: "We don't want a doctor who tells every thing he knows." If he is a silent man, then they say a doctor should encourage his patients to be communicative.

If he talks politics, they say that a doctor should have no politics; and if he does not talk politics, then he is a sneak and a time-server who either has no politics or is afraid to own up what his politics really are. If he does not send in his bill, his object is to prevent the patient from engaging another doctor. If he does send in his bill, he is in a fearful hurry for his money, and so on to the end of the chapter.—Texas Siftings.

GLANDERS AND FARCY.

Why Farmers Should Not Attempt to Doctor Diseased Animals.

The prevalence of glanders in quite a number of places in the West prompts a repetition of the warnings given heretofore in our columns, that it is extremely dangerous for any one to attempt the doctoring of such diseased animals. Cases are frequent where this loathsome disease has been conveyed to the attendants, who, after lingering a while in great suffering, have died horrible deaths, the care of such persons being not only repulsive, but dangerous as well. There is only one safe course to follow when animals are found to be affected with glanders, and that is to immediately destroy them, and bury them deeply where they are not likely to be disturbed. The stables should be thoroughly disinfected, and every thing that has been used about the animals, brushes, harness, pails, etc., should be immersed in boiling water, and then, after having been dried, placed in a carbolic acid solution. A safer method is to burn all these things, together with all straw, hay or other food about the mangers, and even the wood-work about the stables. The fatal and very contagious character of this disease calls for the greatest caution, and it is far better to burn every thing from which there is the least danger, rather than take any risk whatever. It is particularly dangerous for any one whose hands the skin is broken or tender to handle such animals, for, as stated, the disease is incurable, and alike fatal to man and beast. Farcy is a similar disease, and either frequently terminates in combination with the other. Although generally spread by infection, these diseases may originate from badly ventilated, unhealthy quarters, from bad food, privation, etc., and hence the importance of providing suitable food and housing for the stock. When the disease breaks out in a stable, the affected animals should be immediately separated from the rest. Those that have been exposed should be carefully watched, and on the first appearance of any indications of the disease should at once be placed where they can do no harm, and when it is evident that the disease is glanders, they should also be killed immediately. Neither horses nor mules should be placed in a stable where glanders has appeared for at least two months afterwards, the building, meantime, having been thoroughly disinfected.—National Live Stock Journal.

MASCULINE TRAITS.

Points That a Girl Should Consider Before She Engages Herself.

Much advice has been written to young men on the choice of a wife. In fact, a good many girls are weary of reading that aged, but ever green, paragraph which recurs so regularly in a certain class of family papers, in which the inquiring youth is bidden to take for a wife the patient creature who wastes an hour or more in the endeavor to wind a snarly skein of silk without a single complaint, who smiles perpetually whether there is any thing to smile at or not, and who, after dancing all night, is accustomed to make her appearance at the breakfast-table in an irreproachable toilet, collar and cuffs of snowy whiteness, and every hair in place. Clearly this is expecting too much. Every woman, no matter how patient she may be, experiences a certain relief in pronouncing the word, "Botheration," or some of its synonyms, when more than usually annoyed; if she is sensible "her face has serious sweetness" instead of being wrinkled up into an unending and insipid smirk; and, although after any social excess she will not omit her usual morning bath and hair-brushing, her chief comfort thereafter will be found in a loose wrapper with a soft muslin kerchief at her throat.

The young woman in search of a husband (if such a being exists outside of the usual leap-year references to her, is not so apt to look for supernatural qualities, and perhaps not so apt to find them. If that impossible young lady is in need of advice on this subject let her scan the following rules:

Observe the manner in which the object of your regard treats his horse. If he is a hard driver out-doors he will be a hard driver in-doors; if he lashes his horse past the object at which it "shies" he will scornfully deride your nervous fears; if he allows it to stand and investigate the object of its dread he will show a like consideration of your foolish fancies.

Notice the gait of the candidate for your favor. If his step is heavy, he is pronounced in his opinions; if he moves slowly, he is cautious, conservative, slow to anger and apt to let his thoughts dwell on the past rather than the future; if he walks rapidly, he will be sure to "get there," providing he has a clear idea of the object aimed at; if every one turns out for him, while he "keeps straight on" your future days with him will be set to the tune of the line: "Sure I must fight if I would win."

But the dinner-table offers perhaps the best field for discovery. If this hypothetical young man has a marked preference for one viand and an aversion for another, both being equally innocuous to the normal stomach, the indications are that he is a crank; still this is better than that he should pick daintily at every dish and be dissatisfied with all, as by these marks the dyspeptic is known. If he puts all his mind on his plate, with an evident disinclination to take part in the conversation or notice the requirements of those about him, he is possessed of great concentration of purpose, with rudimentary notions of good behavior. If his style of dining reminds you, in ever so slight a degree, of that of the farmer who goes to market at four in the morning and gets nothing to eat until noon, it is a sure sign that there is nothing odd or eccentric about your young man; he belongs to the great brotherhood of mankind. If he begins an anecdote with the soup, allows it to drag its weary length through the various courses and come to a melancholy end with the coffee there is no crime of which he may not be capable. Bachelorhood is too good for him. Let him be shunned as you would shun a pestilence.—Toronto Globe.

THE GOLDEN PAGODA.

Graphic Description of One of Burmah's Famous Structures.

The Golden Pagoda of Rangoon stands upon a hill in the edge of the town. About 170 feet up the hill has been leveled off into a platform about 800 feet square. In the center of this stands the main structure. It is octagonal at its base, with a diameter of over 450 feet. This runs in, by a succession of terraces or high steps, a hundred or more feet, giving it a bell-shape. From the shoulder of this bell springs another member, circular, also in the bell form, but more steep; then another. On this lifts a tall, thin, four-sided lantern on which rests the "htee," or open work metallic receptacle for sacred mementos. This is then surrounded by a half-open metallic umbrella. The whole height from the platform is 370 feet. Around the base are fifty-six small pagodas about 30 feet high. The whole of this vast structure is solid, of well-burned brick, covered over with cement, plaster, and gilded from foundation to pinnacle.

The upper half is freshly gilt, the scaffolding being removed while we were there. At a distance the whole, when the sun is sinking, looks like a mountain of gold. The "htee" is said to be of solid gold and studded with real gems. It was erected by a late king at a cost of $250,000. To repair an ordinary pagoda does not work "merit" for the one making the repair, but the "merit" is relegated to the original founder. But any repairs to this pagoda and to three others in the kingdom avails for "merit" to the repairer. Around the platform are a number of smaller pagodas, and many chapels and "kyoungs," or temples for worship. These are filled with statues of Buddha in gilded plaster or white alabaster. Many of them are much larger than life.—Carter H. Harrison, in Chicago Mail.

A Manufacturer's Mistake.

Chicago Society Dame—Is there anything specially new in table knives?

Dealer—Yes, indeed. Here are some entirely new styles just out, Louis XIVth handles and——

"They are very pretty, I must say, but they'll never do; they're too sharp."

"Too sharp, madam?"

"Yes, indeed; I guess I'll keep on using my old ones. I like to be in the fashion, but I'm not so stuck on style as to run the risk of cutting my tongue on them things."—Omaha World.

On the Avenue.

Jack (to young Callow)—That old gentleman we just passed seemed to know you, Charley.

Young Callow—Ya'as, he's my father.

Jack—Why didn't you recognize him?

Young Callow—To tell the truth, old boy, I never do in the street. He comes of a rawther poor family, y'know.—Epoch.

New York Newspaperdom All Torn Up.

New York Newspaper Proprietor—Mr. Overwork, did you attend the opening of that new co-operative factory at 7 o'clock this morning?

Reporter—Yes, sir, gave it a column.

"Did you get a report of the workingmen's mass meeting at 10 o'clock, view the parade at 11, attend the labor committee at 12, and interview the forty-five labor leaders I marked out for you this afternoon?"

"Yes, sir; makes about ten columns."

"You have just come from the evening session of the workingman's federation, I suppose?"

"Yes, sir; am at work on the report now. It will make about three columns."

"Good. When that is done make a tour throughout the tenement districts and be sure to have some startling disclosures ready for the printers before 2 o'clock in the morning; then rush out and"——

"Beg pardon, sir; but we reporters have just organized a branch of the Knights of Labor and we will hereafter refuse to work over twenty-three hours a day."

[Proprietor falls in a fit.]—Omaha World.

The New Boy.

A policeman, who was passing through an alley leading off of Elizabeth street, saw half a dozen boys on a fence looking into a back yard, and when he asked what they were doing one of them replied:

"Waiting for a boy."

"What boy?"

"Belongs to the family just moved in."

"What's the matter with him?"

"Oh, nothing! we're just going to see about something."

The officer passed around to the front, and from this station he saw the "new boy" come out and the biggest lad on the fence drop down. The two went at it hot and heavy, but presently the new boy came out on top, and all the others dropped down into the yard and offered him a bite of their apples and declared him a good fellow. He had been tested and found sandy.—Detroit Free Press.

Fiction Stranger Than Truth.

Caller—How would you like a thrilling detective story?

Publisher—They always take well. What has been your line, Indian stories, mediæval novels or?——

"I am not a writer by profession; I am a detective."

"Won't do. These true stories never read well."

"I am a Chicago detective."

"Oh, I beg your pardon; thought you were going to offer me a history of some brilliant piece of detective work. Let me see your romance."—Omaha World.

In a Contemplative Mood.

"Why so contemplative, papa mine?" said the beautiful Miss Wabash to her father, the eminent Chicago pork packer; "is your mind upon business cares intent?"

"Yes, dear," he replied, pushing her away gently; "and you mustn't disturb me now. I have perfected a system by which I can make silvered pigtail favors for the german, and I am trying to think out something that will prevent the grunt from running entirely to waste."—New York Sun.

None of Them on Hand.

Mrs. Savezrien Riche (in fur store to salesman)—I want to look at a pair of furnalias.

Salesman (beautifully)—I don't think I know what you mean, madam.

Mrs. S. R.—One of my friends has bought a pair of horses and a sleigh, and she said she got the paraphernalias to go with it, and I want a pair, too.

Salesman (face reddening)—We are all out of them to-day, madam.—Judge.

The Only Remark.

"I say, Bobby," whispered Featherly, "did your sister Clara seem pleased when she learned that I intended to call last night?"

"I didn't notice," said Bobby.

"Didn't you hear her say anything?"

"Let—me—see," mused Bobby. "Well, the only thing I heard was that she told ma she mustn't forget to set the clock half an hour fast."—New York Sun.

Educational Matters.

Uncle James—And so you graduate next week, do you, Penelope?

Penelope—Yes, uncle.

Uncle James—Do you graduate in French?

Penelope—Oh, yes, uncle, in French and—and Indian muslin and valenciennes; just too lovely for any use!—New York Sun.

A Very Annoying Habit.

Wife—John, you have a very annoying habit of saying, "What's that?" whenever you are spoken to. Can't you break yourself of it?

Husband (reading)—Er—what's that?—Epoch.

Indignant.

Sales Gentleman—Stockings? Yes, mam: what number do you wear?

Customer—What number? Why two, of course! D'you take me for a centipede or one legged veteran of the war?—Life.

Enough, Enough.

The late Barghash Bin Saed, sultan of Zeazibar, leaves twenty-seven widows and 232 children. Enough has Bin Saed.—Exchange.

THE SMYRNA FIG.

How the Toothsome Fruit is Prepared for the Market.

The fig market at Smyrna has an appearance scarcely in accord with the importance of its transactions or the area over which its goods are ultimately distributed. Two narrow, dirty streets, lined with shanties, are devoted to the staple industry of the place. It is with figs as other highly-prized articles of food—the less we know of the earlier stage of them the greater our comfort in their consumption. The sacks are laid out in the open street and block up the whole thoroughfare but for a narrow passage through which the camels thread their way. Passengers have to scramble along as best they can. The sacks are heaped up two or three strata high. It is arduous work clambering over them. The goat-hair bags make a slippery surface, but if you fall, at least you are not hurt. These sacks, when they are of the full size, weigh about two kintals (say 250 pounds) apiece, and two of them form a camel load. It is curious that you never see more and never see less than the two sacks. Some kind of prescription fixes the burden, quite without regard to the capacity of the bearer. Some of the camels are sturdy beasts, that could easily bear more than five hundred pounds on their backs, while others are weak and weary; the load is always the same. Into these two streets at market time come the Greek merchants, who are the middlemen in the fig trade. Indeed, there are many middlemen, and several series of profits are realized before the article reaches the consumer. As a rule, the Greeks sell to the packers, who in turn sell to the shippers; though sometimes the shippers buy and pack for themselves. The packing is, perhaps, the most characteristic stage in the whole process. First, there is the re-sorting, and this duty is trusted to women, Turks and Christians working together in perfect peace. The sorting done, the fruit is carried to the pullers and the packers. The pulling is not pleasant to think of. The men—for it needs the strength of male fingers—sit in long rows on each side of a temporary table made of two boards on trestles. They sit on stools; squatting on the ground has quite gone out now in the towns. Beside each packer stands a pile of empty boxes, and near every two or three is placed a large flat basket full of sorted fruit, and beside the basket a can of salt and water. The man chooses the fig he intends to pull, and then, dipping his hand in the salt water, flattens it between his fingers, at the same time splitting it near the stalk. He then places it in the box. Long practice gives great perfection in the arts of pulling and packing. You see the fruit distributed in rows so neatly that a knife might be dropped between them without cutting any of the fruit. Nearly all of the figs packed for export are "pulled." The salt water brings out the sugar, which, in about three months, comes to the surface, when the fruit is in the best condition for eating.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

A HIGH-HAT STORY.

The Latest Evil Growing Out of Exaggerated Female Head-Gear.

Interpreters are a probability of the future, if high hats continue to be worn at the theater.

There was a young woman at the theater one evening last week with a hat on like the leaning tower of Pisa. Behind her was another woman vainly trying to see the play. Every few moments this woman would nudge her husband and ask:

"Harry, dear! what are they doing now?"

Harry dear, with set teeth—"They have just thrown Jack over the cliff down into a ravine eight hundred feet deep."

A little grunt of satisfaction and sweet silence for several minutes.

"Harry, dear, have they found the body?"

"I didn't kill him, Goosie. They are trying it over again," answers Harry dear.

A succession of pistol shots, and Mrs. Harry tries to climb over that hat in front of her, but falls ignominiously to get either over or around it.

"Harry, dear, what are they doing now?"

"They are throwing him down an old mining shaft. Now they set it on fire!"

"Oh, how lovely! and I can't see a single thing. What are they shouting for?"

"His sweetheart rescues him. She is lifting him out of the burning mine. He is saved!"

More silence, and Mrs. Harry contemplates the back hair of the owner of Pisa. Then more shouts.

"Harry, dear, what are they doing now?"

"It is a bar-room in a mining-camp. A fellow is just trying to sneak a drink."

A golden silence for a brief space, then—

"Harry, dear?"

"W-h-a-a-t!"

"Did he get it?"—Detroit Free Press.

Proud of His Wife.

Grocer—You say that your wife, Uncle Rastus, supports the family by taking in washing?

Uncle Rastus—Yes, sah.

Grocer—Well, don't you feel a little bit ashamed at times?

Uncle Rastus—'Shamed? No, sah; dere's nothin' degradin' 'bout takin' in washin'. Ise proud ob de ole 'ooman.—N. Y. Sun.

MISCELLANEOUS.

—A man may be opposed to capital punishment and yet in favor of hanging up his grocer.—Boston Courier.

—Married men are preferred as officers on the police force. The authorities want men who have had their courage tried and proved.—Somerville Journal.

—Mrs. Bridget Eagan, of Rondout, N. C., is 105 years old, and she says it makes her mad to have young folks of 80 or 90 years to come round and ask if she is "feeling poorly."

—James Debois, of New York, issues a challenge for a six-days' go-as-you-please sleeping match. The challenge is open to the world, with policemen and messenger-boys barred.

—A great deposit of gypsum recently discovered in Humboldt County, Neb., has been sold to a syndicate of English capitalists for $150,000. It is estimated that it will yield 10,000,000 tons.

—Scientists tell us that a man's brain decreases in size as he grows older. The human brain, it appears, weighs the heaviest between the ages of fourteen and twenty. This explains why young men know so much more than their elders.

—As a small boy was watering his "horse" (a chair) out of an empty cup his mother suggested that she should get him some "truly" water. "O, no," he said, with a fine sense of dramatic unity; "oh, no; a puhtendin' horse must drink puhtendin' water."—Harper's Young People.

—The longest railway anywhere operated by electricity is said to be a great success. It is in Richmond, extending twelve miles over steep grades and sharp curves, and is running profitably and unfailingly, the electric current being carried upon wires upon poles at the side of the street and connected with the car upon which is a motor, by a suspended wire which moves with the car.

—In order to secure a case against a dentist who was using contraband matches, the detective of a French match company went to the offender and had a tooth extracted. Then, taking out a cigar, he asked for a light. The dentist handed him a box of matches, which he at once declared were contraband. The detective called to an associate in an adjoining room, and a case was at once made up.

—The championship absent-minded man lives in Portland, Me. His wife advised him to go to his room to make some changes in his toilet, about seven o'clock the other night, as she expected a young ladies' whist party to meet with her that evening. He went but forgot his errand, and when his wife went to look for him, a half hour later, she found him sound asleep. From force of habit, when he got to his room, he wound his watch, hung it in its usual place, disrobed and went to bed.

THE SENSE OF TUNE.

An Army Officer Who Could Not Distinguish One Note from Another.

That there are many people who are unable either to sing a tune or to recognize one when it is sung is well known. But no musician nor man of science is able fully to account for the phenomenon of one person out of twenty, or one out of forty, according to the nation to which he belongs, being unable to do what all the rest do instinctively, although his hearing is as good as theirs. It has been suggested that people so afflicted have ears that are not, so to speak, mates, inasmuch as they hear the musical sounds differently, and so make a discord and render the effect disagreeable. But this theory seems to be disproved by the circumstance that music is not by any means disagreeable to many people who do not know one note from another. Though they can not distinguish even a tune that has been sung or played to them a great many times, they are nevertheless "moved with concord of sweet sounds." Other people hear all musical sounds alike, and to them music is not discord, but simply noise.

But if the theory of the unlike ears does not explain all cases of "music deafness," it seems to explain some of them. General Grant used to say that all music was torture to him. A certain gallant Major, however, was differently affected. A young lady, who had sung a great many songs to him, finally remarked:

"But, perhaps, Major, you do not like music?"

"O yes, miss; I may say that I like any kind of noise!"

A certain gentleman who is master of a New England high school is very lenient to such of his pupils as declare themselves unable to sing. He remembers an experience which he had in his own youth, when he was required to sing, with others, in school, although he could not distinguish one tone from another. Seeing that his singing seemed to give him a good deal of distress, the teacher called him out and asked him if he could sing the scale.

"I suppose so, sir," said the boy.

"Then let me hear you."

The boy sang "Do, re, mi, fa, sol, la, si, do," but all upon one note, without a particle of difference between them. He had never supposed there was any thing more of it. In after-life this gentleman became an officer in the service of the Union. He found that his entire inability to distinguish one musical note from another caused him difficulty in recognizing the bugle calls. They were all on one note to him. As it was necessary for him to know them, he sent for a bugler and had him practice all the calls, in succession, before his tent. After a series of these studies, he became able to distinguish the calls, but he learned them rather by their rhythm than by the varying notes.—Youth's Companion.

TOO MUCH STUDYING.

Inhuman Treatment of Children in the Public Schools.

In the report of the State Board of Health just issued, Superintendent Anderson, of this city, has an important paper on the necessity of more physical exercise for pupils. Although it is the presumption that every pupil has the amount of physical energy necessary to meet the demands of school work, as a matter of fact a large proportion are deficient in this respect.

But the point to which attention is directed is the excessive demand the school makes on pupils. Mr. Anderson gives the result of his inquiries of pupils who are attending school where they are fitting themselves for the work of teaching. We give here the hours of work in school, the hours of study out of school, and the total hours of mental work done by the first eight pupils:

| | In school. | After school. | Total. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 6:00 | 4:30 | 10:30 |
| 2 | 6:00 | 4:30 | 10:30 |
| 3 | 5:00 | 4:00 | 9:00 |
| 4 | 6:00 | 5:30 | 11:30 |
| 5 | 6:00 | 4:30 | 10:30 |
| 6 | 6:00 | 5:00 | 11:00 |
| 7 | 5:00 | 7:00 | 12:00 |
| 8 | 5:30 | 6:45 | 12:15 |

Here is an average of nearly eleven hours a day of actual and often severe mental application. Pupil No. 1 studies as a rule until midnight; the next until eleven o'clock; the next until midnight; also the next, and the next; No. 6 studies from seven until midnight, also No. 7, while No. 8 rarely gets through before one in the morning. No. 13 says: "If I learned my lessons perfectly every night I would have no time to go to bed at all." No. 30 is actually employed eleven hours and a quarter with study and does most of the housework; consequently she gets only six hours and a half sleep. In all these cases "compositions" add about three hours of extra work each week.

This is worse than murder. This is preparing pupils to enter an insane asylum. It is a fact that not one girl out of twenty can stand this sort of thing and then enter upon a successful career as a teacher without becoming a physical and mental wreck. This is the worst form of inhuman treatment that can be devised. No brain can ever attain its best possibilities with eleven hours a day of actual application. The pedagogues who demand more of a pupil than the pupil can gain in eight hours, or rather six hours, of application, are destroying the brain power of their pupils.

Whether this is limited to pupils who are preparing to become teachers we do not know. Probably not. But parents should consider this fact, that the child who spends six hours a day in the school-room should not be allowed to study after school hours. Teachers are not there merely to hear recitations but to instruct; and if they can not give a child in six hours all it is capable of assimilating in a day they should go out of the business.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

SOME RELIABLE SIGNS.

A Set of Weather Signals Equal to Those Issued by Professional Prophets.

Many papers, from time to time, print lists of Nature's storm signals, such as: "Foxes barking at night indicate storm," and "Wild geese flying over in great numbers indicate approaching storm."

Not to be behind the times in any thing, Puck has prepared the following set of weather signals, which may be relied upon as being invariably correct:

When you see a man going down the street in a new liver-colored overcoat and a shining silk hat, with no umbrella in his hand, it is a sign that there is going to be rain before night.

When you see a man purchasing a fast horse and a thirty-pound cutter in November, it means that the winter will be mild, with little snow.

When you observe a man buying tickets for a trip to Florida, to enjoy the balmy zephyrs during the month of March, it is a safe indication that we are going to have a very early spring, full of anemones and blue birds; and that Florida is going to be torn up and scattered about by the initial blizzard of its existence.

When a man drops the portrait of a burlesque actress out of his pocket at home, and does not notice it, it is an infailing sign of a cyclone.

When your pump is broken and the cistern runs dry, it means that there will be no rain for at least three weeks.

When you go away on a visit for a day or two, and forget to turn off the water, you may look for the immediate approach of cold, pipe-bursting weather.

Laying in a carload of coal in the autumn, because it is cheap, means that there is going to be a summery winter.

When you purchase a rubber overcoat, it is an unfailing sign of a drought.

When you live on a splendid hill, and can not afford the luxuries of a toboggan and fire-wood, it means that there is going to be cold, crisp weather, and a snow[illegible] that will stay on the ground[illegible]

It is [illegible] ther[illegible] hint[illegible] ing [illegible] in th[illegible] ready [illegible] quite [illegible] signs [illegible] mou[illegible] poin[illegible] direc[illegible] even a[illegible] rainfall[illegible] —Puck.

ASTONISHED AFGHANS.

A Chief Writes of His Visit to Calcutta and of What He Saw.

Certain Afghan chiefs in charge of the Khyber pass have lately visited Calcutta as guests of the government. The following is an interesting account which has been given by one of their number of the impressions derived from his visit.

"This is a King's country; every one ought to be astonished at seeing all the wonderful things to be seen in it. The thing which has most astonished us is the regularity with which every thing is conducted. During our railway journey we arrived at the different stations and left again with great regularity, as arranged. There is nothing like this in our country. A country which is ill-governed is not a good country.

"We arrived at Calcutta early in the morning, and, being tired, stayed in our lodgings the whole of that day. On the day following we went to Howrah to see the railway station and the workshops. We saw all the engines at work. There is nothing like these in our own country, which is a poor country. We were then taken to the mint and saw the pice and four-anna pieces that are being coined there. The Cabul rupees are only worth twelve and one-half annas; they are stamped with a die and hammer. There is nothing to equal this government either in its silver or any thing else, or in its management of the country. We visited the fort the next day, and considered that very strong. We saw all the cannon and big guns there. They are very good guns.

"We were then taken to the botanical gardens in a steam launch. This is the [illegible] time we have been on board a [illegible]er, and we enjoyed the trip very [illegible]. The gardens are by far the finest we have ever seen. We were then taken to the zoological gardens and to Mateabruz, the palace of the late King of Oude, which is a very fine place. We saw all the animals at the zoological gardens. Some of the animals here we had seen before at Cabul, but some of them we have never seen before, and they greatly astonished us, as we could not tell to what country they belonged.

"We then paid a visit to the Bacchante, and were truly astonished by the big guns and by every thing on board. We never saw such things before. No other government could ever make ships like that. The chief wanted to distribute Rs. 900 among the crew for showing all these wonderful things, but the Captain of the ship said the sirkar would be very angry at their accepting a present. The chiefs again wanted to give the sailors a present, but were told that they could not be allowed to do so, as what had been shown to them had been shown for their own amusement. When we went down in the hold we saw the men's tables spread in a minute and again taken up, their beds put down and taken up—all done in a minute—and in a moment the ship was made ready for a fight. The big guns were fired, but only with fuses. We saw the sailors going up the rigging very quickly, at the double, and run up the masts and remain quiet there. We have never seen these things before. We were presented to the Lord Sahib of the sea, who was very kind to us.

"We were then taken to Dum-dum, where we saw a small-arms manufactory and the workmen making cartridges and bullets. Another day we visited the Englishman newspaper office, and saw them printing, and also making lead letters. One of us wrote a verse in Persian. A sahib then took paper, and with a machine, which cut like a very sharp knife into some white stuff, he wrote it. Then lead was poured on, and in a few minutes they were printing the verse on some copies of the Englishman, which were presented to us. We also spoke through the telephone. Some of us were at the Englishman office and some at Messrs. King Hamilton's, and we recognized each other's voice. Then we visited the telegraph office, where we spoke with a friend at Peshawur—all in a few minutes. One of us asked a relative at Peshawur how he was, as he had been suffering from fever. He replied: 'Quite well; how's your boil?' Now, these words astonished us very much, because none of us knew that this man had had a boil—only his relative at Peshawur. Great are the ways of the sirkar!"—London Times.

Reliable Statistics.

Some comparative tables of the population and area of the various countries of the world, taking them with their dependencies, appear in the "Statesman's Year Book." In point of area the British Empire stands at the head of the list, the number of thousands of square miles being 9,339. Russia following closely with 8,644. China, with her 404 millions tops all the countries of the earth in population. The British Empire comes next with 307, and Russia with only 104 millions; while France has but 38, the United States 58, and the German Empire 48. While the United Kin[illegible] has since 1800 risen from [illegible]

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
SATURDAY, JUNE 30 ..... 1888

HARRISON AND MORTON.

The nomination of Harrison and Morton appears to be very satisfactory to Pacific Coast Republicans. Mr. Harrison is son of John Scott Harrison, and grandson of William Henry Harrison, old "Tippecanoe." Benjamin Harrison was born August 20th, 1833 at North Bend, Ohio. He got a college education, and is a lawyer by profession. He served with distinction in the war of the Rebellion and left the service with the rank of Brigadier General. He has served in the United States Senate.

Levi P. Morton is the son of a clergyman and was born in Vermont over sixty-five years ago. He has a liberal education and was very successful in business in New York. He was elected to Congress in 1873 and served with credit. President Garfield appointed him Minister to France, and in that capacity his services were alike valuable and honorable. Republicans very confidently assume that these nominations will secure Indiana and New York to the party in the coming election.

PHOTOGRAPHY

—IN ALL ITS BRANCHES—

Will Be Executed

—AT THE—

- STUDIO -

—OF—

Bledsoe & Co.

Paintings of all the prominent scenes on the Globe. In fact,

Anything & Everything

In the picture line, from a locket to an 8x10 ft painting can be had. Will deal in Frames, Chromos, Etc.—any and all sizes.

PRICES REASONABLE.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

BLEDSOE & CO

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS,

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELLER,
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

James Hillyer,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

Plans, Specifications

And Estimates of all kinds of buildings

Furnished.

All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.

JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,

Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt, and furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. 456 pages, 8½ x 11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods personal or family use. Sent postpaid on receipt of 10 cents. Address: JOHN WANAMAKER, Philadelphia, Pa.

GRAND

CELEBRATION!

Of The

Fourth of July

At

Independence,

Races, Horse and Foot.

GAMES, FOOTBALL, BASEBALL

Jumping, Sledge Throwing,

Egg Race, Sack Race, Three-legs.

Grand Fruit Festival,

Free to Everybody.

Oration, Singing, Etc. Etc.

PROGRAMME:

Salute of 100 guns at sunrise.

Procession forms at the school house at 10 o'clock a. m., headed by the Silver Cornet Band.

Chariot bearing young ladies representing States and Territories.

Officers of the Day.

Visitors and Citizens.

Hornblers.

The procession will march through Edwards street to Agricultural Hall.

National Airs by Band.

Prayer by Chaplain.

"Star Spangled Banner" by the Choir.

Reading Declaration of Independence.

"Red, White and Blue" by the Choir.

Oration.

"America," by the Choir.

National Airs, by the Band.

Benediction.

Grand Fruit Festival, Free for All.

INTERMISSION.

| | |
|---|---|
| Foot Race 100 yards | $50 |
| Egg Race, Girls of 12 years and under pair of Gold Bracelets. | |
| Sack Race, arms free, Boys under 16 | 5 |
| Sack Race, arms free, free for all | 5 |
| Three Leg Race | 5 |
| Throwing Heavy Hammer | 5 |
| Three Standing Jumps | 5 |
| Hop, Skip and Jump | 5 |

INTERMISSION.

Grand Ball at Agricultural Hall, Tickets, $2.

FLOOR DIRECTORS:

JOHN W. P. LAIRD and J. D. BLAIR.

INVITATION COMMITTEE AND FLOOR MANAGERS:

Round Valley—C. Olds, J. G. Birchim and Thomas Witham.

Bishop Creek—W. Philippay, Barna Peeler, Phil. Keogh and John L. Bourland.

Laws—G. H. Hardy and F. Ardrews.

Big Pine—Ed. Crocker, Parry McMurry and John Collins.

Deep Spring—S. P. Roberts

Camp Independence—J. S. Gorman, J. Vogt

Citrus—F. McIver and H. Galvin.

Georges Creek—J. E. Shepherd.

Lone Pine—R. C. Spear and John Anton.

Keeler—E. F. Hall and Webb Walker.

Darwin—Martin Mee, J. C. Eddy and J. A. Kienzle.

[illegible]cha—Pap Walker.

[illegible]—Frank Fitzgerald.

[illegible]—N. G. Fairman, H. G. Chickering

[illegible]nce—W. A. Hampton, Henry Mack and Rhine.

[illegible]RSDAY FORENOON.

[illegible]e, One Mile Dash. Free for All, $50. [illegible] more to enter, two or more to start. [illegible]one, $50.

[illegible] foot race must be made before 6 [illegible]; to horse race, before 6 p. m. Entries to be made with A. W. Ebe[illegible] Secretary.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday ..... January 28th
" ..... February 25th
" ..... March 24th
" ..... April 21st
" ..... May 19th
" ..... June 23rd
" ..... July 21st
" ..... August 18th
" ..... September 15th
" ..... October 13th
" ..... November 17th
" ..... December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 341, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law,
Independence, Cal.

Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

NORMAN HOUSE.

Independence, - Cal.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

C. I. MAINS, Prop.
feb12tf

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding here the best of livery teams. Saddle horses, etc.

Livery Accommodations

in general. Also Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.

C. I. MAIN, Proprietor.

FINAL HOMESTEAD PROOF.

(Land Office at Independence, Cal., May 12th, 1888.)

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on June 25, 1888, viz: Henry Gessner for the S½ of N.W. ¼ and N.E. ¼ of S.W. ¼ of Sec. 34 Tp. 13 S., R. 35 E., M. D. M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: John W. Symons, John Shepherd, John Kinnaman and Fred Albers, all of Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
a23-6t Register.

LANDS—MINES

ANSWER TO INQUIRIES, $1.00
REPORT ON ENTRIES, CONTESTS, &c., $3.00
Procuring Land Patents, Filing Arguments, and Conducting Contests, on Moderate Terms. Send for circular to
HENRY N. COPP, ATTORNEY AT LAW, WASHINGTON, D. C.
Every Settler should have Copp's Settler's Guide, 124 pages; price only 25 cents (postage stamps).

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sep 1 11 tf

Working Classes A Fortune!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5 00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer: To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel.

Independence - - Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL

DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—

Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars.

Jy-1-86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.

Office in the "Independent" Building, Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

IRVING J. WOODIN, M. D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.

☞ NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED. ☜

Office and residence at the Reddy place Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.
W. E. LINDSEY,
—Dealer in—
Gravestones Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.
—Agent for—
PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.
Virginia Street, Below Second,
Reno, Nevada.
oct 23 tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done entire living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free all information how either sex of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards where or time they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of attending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 174 page pamphlet. Address GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU, 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work, either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | | From Mound House. No. 1 | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|---|
| | | Leave— | Arrive— |
| Mound House | | 9 15 a m | 5 35 p m |
| Dayton | | 9 45 a m | 4 55 p m |
| Wabuska | | 1 45 p m | 2 25 p m |
| Hawthorne | | 4 50 p m | 10 30 a m |
| Luning | | 5 50 p m | 9 20 a m |
| Sodа Springs | | 7 0 p m | 8 0 a m |
| Belleville | | 8 10 p m | 7 0 a m |
| Candelaria | Ar | 8 50 p m | Lv 6 30 a m |
| | | No. 3 Leave— | No. 4 Arrive— |
| Belleville | | 7 30 a m | 5 25 p m |
| Benton | | 11 00 a m | 1 15 p m |
| Bishop Creek | | 1 10 p m | 11 0 a m |
| Averill | | 2 00 p m | 10 5 a m |
| Laws junction | | 5 35 p m | 9 0 a m |
| Lone Pine | | 4 10 p m | 8 5 a m |
| Keeler | Ar | 4 45 p m | Lv 7 0 a m |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Monday, Wednesday and Friday.
Train 4 runs Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

At HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coach for Aurora (20 miles); Bodie (65 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

At LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co.'s tri-weekly stage for Belmont, Manhattan, Ione (Tuesdays and Friday) for Downieville, Grantsville and Belmont.

At CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's stages for Columbia (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

After Forty years' experience in the preparation of more than One Hundred Thousand applications for patents in the United States and Foreign Countries, the publishers of the Scientific American continue to act as solicitors for patents, caveats, trade-marks, copyrights, etc., for the United States, and to obtain patents in Canada, England, France, Germany, and all other countries. Their experience is unequaled and their facilities are unsurpassed.

Drawings and specifications prepared and filed in the Patent Office on short notice. Terms very reasonable. No charge for examination of models or drawings. Advice by mail free.

Patents obtained through Munn & Co. are noticed in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has the largest circulation and is the most influential newspaper of its kind published in the world. The advantages of such a notice every patentee understands.

This large and splendidly illustrated newspaper is published WEEKLY at $3.00 a year, and is admitted to be the best paper devoted to science, mechanics, inventions, engineering works and other departments of industrial progress, published in any country. It contains the names of all patentees and titles of every invention patented each week. Try it four months for one dollar. Sold by all newsdealers.

If you have an invention to patent write to Munn & Co., publishers of Scientific American, 361 Broadway, New York.

Handbook about patents mailed free.

TO ADVERTISERS!

For a check for $2 we will print a ten-line advertisement in One Hundred Issues of leading American Newspapers and complete the work within 24 days. This is at the rate of only one fifth of a cent a line, for 1,000 Circulation! The advertisement will appear in but a single issue of any paper, and consequently will be placed before One Million different newspaper purchasers, or Five Million Readers. If it is true, as is sometimes stated, that every newspaper is looked at by five persons on an average. Ten lines will accommodate about 75 words. Address with copy of Adv. and check, or send 20 cents for Book of 256 pages.

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 10 SPRUCE ST., NEW YORK.

We have just issued a new edition of our Book called "Newspaper Advertising." It has 256 pages, and among its contents may be named the following Lists and Catalogues of Newspapers:—

DAILY NEWSPAPERS IN NEW YORK CITY, with their Advertising Rates.

DAILY NEWSPAPERS IN CITIES HAVING more than 150,000 population, omitting all but the best.

DAILY NEWSPAPERS IN CITIES HAVING more than 20,000 population, omitting all but the best.

A SMALL LIST OF NEWSPAPERS IN which to advertise every section of the country; being a choice selection made up with great care, guided by long experience.

ONE NEWSPAPER IN A STATE. The best one for an advertiser to use if he will use but one.

BARGAINS IN ADVERTISING IN DAILY Newspapers in many principal cities and towns, a List which offers peculiar inducements to some advertisers.

LARGEST CIRCULATIONS. A complete list of all American papers issuing regularly more than 25,000 copies.

THE BEST LIST OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS, covering every town of over 5,000 population and every important county seat.

SELECT LIST OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS, in which advertisements are inserted at half price.

A 72 PAGE PAMPHLET, containing a list of newspapers in which advertisements are inserted for $2.75 and upwards, and upwards, and a list of the whole lot—one half of all the American Weeklies. Book sent to any address for THIRTY CENTS.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine.)

Merchant,

INDEPENDENCE

INYO CO., CAL.,

Wholesale and Retail

....DEALER IN....

General Merchandise.

MY STOCK

Consisting of most every necessary article, is well calculated to suit the wants of everybody; and, as in the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.
n25-y

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE

BANKER,

Independence, Cal

SELL EXCHANGE

-ON-

SAN FRANCISCO.

DRAW DIRECT

—ON—

NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, } Germany

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING

—AND—

Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.

Deutsche Vollmachten geferligt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.

AGENT FOR

Wells Fargo & Co's Express

MUTUAL Life Insurance Co. OF NEW YORK.

Capital - - - $55,000,000

LIVERPOOL And LONDON and GLOBE Insurance Company

Capital - - $21,000,000

NATHAN RHINE.

BLACKSMITHING,

Horseshoeing, General Iron

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP

C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

W. F. MATLACK ..... PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing ..... $2 50 for Cash.

For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, JUNE 30 ..... ...1888

Wanted—Thirty-eigh. girls to represent the States.

Take a look at Agricultural Hall. The decorations are immense.

Peaches are now plentiful at Independence; they are just as good as ever grown here.

☞ It is expected that the new saw mill at Big Pine will be ready for work about July 10th.

Messrs. J. Creaser, James Crocker and Sam Spratt were down from Big Pine on Wednesday.

The fruit festival will be given in Mairs' Hall. The other exercises will be in Agricultural Hall.

Miss Maggie Conklin will read the Declaration of Independence at Independence on the Fourth.

Mr. A. Davidson returned to Independence last Monday from a trip East. He went as far as Pittsburg.

Frank Fitzgerald is at Lone Pine with his family. He will not go back to Lookout till after the Fourth.

Visitors to Independence during the celebration of the Fourth of July will find all needed in the way of rooms.

James R. Moffet was in town on Wednesday. He will be Marshal of the day at Independence on the Fourth.

Many rooms have been engaged at the hotels in town by people who are coming here to celebrate the Fourth of July.

The following letters are unclaimed at the Postoffice at Independence: Wm. M. Davis, J. E. Horton and Mrs. Belle Schavelle.

The Chronicle Union says the Red Cloud and Noonday hoisting works, at Bodie, are being taken down for removal to Utah and Idaho.

All the people of Big Pine and surrounding country send word that they are coming to Independence to celebrate the Fourth of July.

S. D. Burckhan and H. F. Sanford took some shots at each other last week at Lundy, Mono county. There were no spectators around so nobody was hurt.

Agricultural Hall is beautifully decorated. Red, white and blue streamers, flags, emblems and other decorations cover the walls and ceiling. It makes a very handsome ballroom.

Mr. Sanger got some seed of esperset, a much talked of forage plant, and sowed it this last spring at Alvord. It has made fine growth and promises to be very valuable fodder.

Huff has improved his barber shop; he has enlarged it and taken a partner. Charley Levy is a first-class barber; a large and well arranged bathroom will be connected with the barber shop.

Last Wednesday Horace Bellows brought up fifty-three head of beef cattle from Little Lake for Mairs & Enos. The animals are very fine; several will dress over nine hundred pounds each.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Russell, of Benton, have gone on a visit to Amador county. They expect to return home about two weeks hence, and Mr. Russell will then come to Independence.

Frank Densmore and Charley Robinson have been on a fishing trip over the mountains. They report good fishing but no feed, the sheep having swept everything. Their headlights might be mistaken for a torchlight procession.

For the fruit festival on July 4th at Independence arrangements have been made with Baxter, Robinson, Symmes, Mrs. Lewis, Kispert, Densmore and other fruit growers, to supply peaches, pears, apples, apricots and blackberries.

Next Monday the Supervisors will meet at the Court House as a Board of Equalization. All who want any change made in their assessments should then appear and make known their grievances; if they don't they may as well forever after hold their peace.

Mr. C. Anthony got back to Independence last Wednesday after an absence of nearly four months. Charley has renewed his youth, like an eagle, and is better looking than ever. All the talk about his being married is untrue; Charley is loyal to the girls of Inyo.

Tom Pettit has fallen heir to a fortune in Ireland and is preparing to start for the "ould sod" to take possession of the inheritance. Tom is no longer red-headed; he is a fair haired boy now. He has been at Big Pine for some months past working at the new saw mill.

Mr. James B. Chamberlain, of Bishop Creek, is a candidate for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. Mr. Chamberlain has so long been a resident of Inyo that his character is well known, and all who know him esteem him highly.

Mr. J. R. Eldred, of Bishop Creek, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff. Few men in the county are better known than "Dick;" he has had a good deal of experience in official life which would be of value should he be the choice of the people for Sheriff. See his card.

Mr. James Jones, of Big Pine, is a candidate for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. Never before did the people of Inyo have better material to choose from for county officers, and Mr. Jones, as an honorable, straightforward man, is second to none of the other candidates.

The crop of wheat, oats and barley on the farm of G. Sanger, at Alvord, is very heavy. About three hundred acres are now covered with as fine grain as ever came out of the ground. Where alfalfa was sown last September there is now as fine a crop as need be wished for. This is the only place where farming has been done on the east side of the river for a distance of fifty miles from the lake, and is interesting as proving what the soil is capable of. The land along the Eastside canal is better than the land at Alvord; this will be interesting for the people at Carson, Reno and Virginia City who are interested in that work. The "desert" fallacy is thoroughly exploded.

Leaching Plant.

At Palmetto, over in Esmeralda county, Nevada, a new leaching plant is being put up. Cornish rolls will be used in connection with pans and settlers. It is calculated to work about fifteen tons of ore per day. The property is owned by the Catherwood Brothers, bankers, of New York. Some very rich gold ore has been taken out. From a claim called the "President" Mr. Catherwood, one of the proprietors, recently took a sample of the ore to San Francisco. The sample weighed ninety-three pounds and yielded $407 in gold and $15 in silver, or $90.73 per ton. At the mill and mine thirty men are now employed. The boilers and engine are in place and it is expected work will begin crushing ore about three weeks hence. Palmetto is about forty-seven miles distant from Alvord on the C. & C. railroad, and sixteen miles southeast from Piper's ranch.

Bondsmen in Trouble

When E. Cohn & Co. failed at Lone Pine Max Cohn was appointed assignee. A. W. Edbeshutz, O. I. Mairs, J. C. Irwin and W. K. Miller became sureties for Cohn to the amount of five thousand dollars. The creditors of Cohn & Co. allege that the assignee has never made any accounting to them for the property and have brought suit against the bondsmen in San Francisco. As these parties all live in Inyo county a change of venue will be asked for to have the case tried here. Max Cohn is said to be at Bodie at present.

Owens Valley Honey.

The Virginia City Enterprise of last Saturday says: "Honey from Lone Pine, Inyo county, Cal., is on sale in this city. It is very fine. Some native flower of that region gives it a beautiful golden tinge. It is as pure in flavor as the Honey of Hybla and Hymettus, so highly esteemed by the ancients, or the honey of Chamouni, which is the favorite of the modrns in Europe. The honey of mountainous regions is always of finer flavor than that produced in lowlands.

The Fair.

The Directors of Agricultural District No. 18 met at Independence last Saturday. A. R. Conklin was re-elected President to serve for the ensuing year. A committee was appointed to prepare a premium list for the fair this year. The list will be published next week or week after. On most of the leading articles of home production the premiums this year will be better than were offered last year. The fair will begin September 17th and will be continue during the week.

Excursion Rates.

Round trip tickets over the C. & C. road will be sold at the following rates:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| From Keeler to Independence, | $1 50. | |
| From Lone Pine | " | 1 00. |
| From Maxim | " | 1 00. |
| From Alvord | " | 1 50. |
| From Bishop Creek | " | 2 00. |

These tickets will be good on all regular trains of July 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th. Stages will convey passengers to and from Independence Station free of charge.

The Big Pine baseball club will come to Independence on Monday, July 2d, and stay until after the game with the Independence nine. By mutual agreement the game will be played on the forenoon of Thursday, the 5th. Aside from the purse offered by the people of Independence the Big Pine boys will offer a bet upon themselves, if there are any takers.

For some weeks past C. K. Fox has been prospecting to the foothills east from Independence Station. Towards the end of last week he struck a ledge that is opening out big. The vein is now about four feet wide and gives every indication of being a large ore body. The ore is galena, carrying a high percentage of lead and a good deal of silver. Henry Galvin is interested with Fox.

During the past ten days there has been considerable advance in the price of lead. Miners who had quit work are resuming operations again. Whittier, Fuller & Company of Melrose, Alameda county, have sent orders for shipments to operators; they offer $4 12 per hundred. The terms offered for silver are also a little better than for some months past. This is causing better feeling at the lower end of the county.

From the neighborhood of Fish Spring northward the alfalfa crop this year is reported to be light. Much of the crop has not bloomed. At Camp Independence Mr. J. W. Lacey, Mrs. Lewis and others report the crop heavier than usual. At Lone Pine Mr. R. Van Dyke and others report a very heavy crop, much above the average. Frost hurt the crop at the north end of the valley.

For some reason known only to himself the State Controller refuses to let our County Treasurer make the usual half-yearly settlement. Mr. Dunn says the amount sent from Inyo is so small that the settlement will be deferred till the end of the year. The money was sent by Mr. Moore, the County Treasurer, and it looks as though the county would be out the expense of sending the money to Sacramento and bringing it back again. There is something not right about this arrangement.

It is now settled that the Utah Central railroad will connect with the A. & P. at Barstow; the terminus to be at Rattlesnake Island, Los Angeles county. The survey is from Barstow, running eight miles west from Resting Springs, Inyo county. The road enters Nevada a little north from Pahrump valley, running north and west from Kingston Springs; thence up west and north from Pahranagat valley and will connect with the road that now runs to Pleasant valley coal fields in Utah. Parties who were on the line of the road very recently give the above report.

The Haggin mine has been leased by Mr. Anthony. The mine is located twenty-four miles from the Riley mill and the ore will be hauled there to be worked. Several miners have been at work in the mine for some weeks past. Recently quite a body of ore was struck; assays give over three hundred ounces of silver per ton. In the mine the ground is soft and will be expensive to work; timber must be hauled fifty miles. Mr. Anthony will go to the mine at once and intends to push the work rapidly. The district is in a mountainous and desert country about one hundred miles south east from the railroad at Keeler.

TO ADVERTISER

A list of 100 newspapers divided into STATE AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.

To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List. GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce Street, New York.

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 10 Spruce Street, New York City, For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS Will be sent FREE, on application

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES JONES.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. JAMES B. CHAMBERLAIN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES R. ELDRED.

COMMITTEE MEETING.

The County Central Committee of the American Party will meet at the Court House, Independence, on July 4th, 1888, at 7 o'clock p. m. Members of the committee and Americans will take due notice. C. F. FULLER, Secretary.

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF.

D. E. No. 456.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, INDEPENDENCE, CAL., June 22, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that John Kispert, of Independence, Inyo county, California, has filed notice of intention to make proof of his desert land claim No. 456, for the S W ¼ of S E ¼ of Sec 22 Tp 14 S R 35 E M D M, before the Register and Receiver of this office at Independence Cal. on Saturday, the 11th day of August, 1888.

He names the following witnesses to prove the complete irrigation and reclamation of said land: Frederick Albers, John Meyers, Fritz Strohmeyer, and John Alexander, all of Independence, Inyo county Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF.

D. E. No. 249.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, INDEPENDENCE, CAL., June 25, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that Sherman V. Stevens of Inyo county, California, has filed notice of his intention to make proof on his desert land claim No. 249, for the E ½ of N W ¼ N E ¼ N ½ of S E ¼ N E ¼ of S W ¼ Sec 12, T 14 S R 35 E N W ¼, N ½ of S W ¼ Sec 18, Tp 14 S. R 34 E M D M, before the Register and Receiver of this office at Independence, Cal., on Tuesday, the 7th day of August, 1888.

He names the following witnesses to prove the complete irrigation and reclamation of said land: Charles A Skinner, Allen Kenyon, John Meyers and William Meyers, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR SHERIFF.

AT THE SOLICITATION OF MANY friends I hereby offer myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. GEORGE H. SHEDD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican Convention of Inyo county. THOMAS C. BOLAND.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. P. H. MACK.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. J. J. MOORE.

NOTICE OF REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the Republican Committee of the County of Inyo, will be held at the Court House in the town of Independence, at 7 o'clock p. m. of Friday, July 6, 1888, for the purpose of choosing two delegates to represent the Republican party of Inyo county in the State and Congressional Conventions, to be held at San Francisco July 31, 1888. A full attendance of the Committee is urgently requested.

S. A. BENSMORE, Chairman.

Geo. H. Hardy, Sec.

Independence, Cal., June 19, 1888.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

ESTATE OF WILLIAM HEDGE, deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned, administrator of the estate of William Hedge, deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said administrator, at the law office of George M. Gill, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, State of California, that being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate.

WILLIAM F. WALLACK, Administrator of the estate of William Hedge deceased.

Dated at Independence, California, June 19, 1888.

Geo. M. Gill, Attorney for Administrator.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1223.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL., June 2, 1888.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on August 4, 1888, viz: Hiram Hamilton, for the E ½ of W ½, W ½ of S E ¼ of Sec 30, Twp 14 S, R 36 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: John Shepherd, John W. Lacey, William H. Jackins and Peter Meyer, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

PALACE SALOON,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

J. A. GUSN, Proprietor.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS

A fine new billiard table nicely fitted up in rooms to the use of patrons, in every respect a

FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

ICE! ICE ICE!

We are now prepared to furnish a first-class quality of

ICE

In quantities to suit either at Bishop Creek, or on the cars at Bishop Station, at

2 Cts. per Pound.

Orders Promptly Attended To.

F. K. ANDREWS & CO.

Laws, Inyo Co., Cal.

SHOPPING BY MAIL!

There can no longer be any doubt that shopping by mail is profitable. Thousands throughout the United States are doing so to their satisfaction, and the list continues to swell. Our facilities for handling this class of trade are unexcelled by any house west of the Mississippi. An entire floor of our mammoth three story building is devoted solely to this department, and we have spared no effort to the end that out of town customers might have the

Same Advantages As Residents

We possess unequalled advantages in buying, because we deal direct with the manufacturer. Being one of HALE'S Seven California Stores we thereby obtain advantages in values which result from buying in large quantities; for it must be seen that the amount of goods which these stores consume in the aggregate is enormous.

SEND FOR A CATALOGUE.

Our new Spring and Summer Catalogue is now ready for distribution, and will be mailed to intending customers upon application. It is a large illustrated pamphlet of 85 pages, and gives the price and description of any article in our stores. Samples of dry-goods sent free of charge.

IT WILL PAY YOU

To trade with us. The thousands of orders which we are constantly receiving from every State and Territory west of the Rocky Mountains, attest the taste, care, discretion and promptness which we exercise in meeting the requirements of our mail customers.

WHAT WE KEEP.

Our stock embraces Dress Goods, Domestices, Fancy Goods, Ladies' Underwear, Gloves, Parasols, Hosiery, Embroidery, Laces, Cloaks, Jackets and Wraps, Clothing, Gent's Furnishing Goods, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Jewelry, Notions, Trunks & Valises, Etc. Etc.

Send Us a Trial Order And Be viConnced.

HALE BROS & CO.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,

Sacramento, Cal.

List of Delinquent Purchasers of School Lands in Inyo County.

Showing the Amount Due January 1st, 1889.

THEO. REICHERT, Register State Land Office.

| NAME OF PURCHASER. | NO. | DATE OF APPROVAL. | NO. AND DATE OF CERTIFICATE. | DESCRIPTION. | | | | | | | | AMOUNT OF PRINCIPAL PAID. | AMOUNT OF PRINCIPAL UNPAID. | AMOUNT OF INTEREST PAID. | AMOUNT OF INTEREST UNPAID AND DUE JAN. 1st, 1889. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | | MDB&M | TOWN. | RANGE. | SECT. | NO. ACRES. | | | | | | | |
| Livingston, Archd. | 18 | March 30, 1874. | 5848 May 4, 1874. | M D | 18 S. | 36 E | 36 | 160.00 | S E ¼ | | | 40.00 | 160.00 | 12.05 | 224.00 |
| Modie, S. W. | 171 | Nov. 28, 1877. | 7428 Jan. 8, 1878. | M D | 15 S. | 36 E | 16 | 320.00 | W. ½ | | | 80.00 | 320.00 | 290.85 | 64.00 |
| Hughes, Thomas | 345 | Oct. 14, 1881. | 8244 Jan. 9, 1882. | M D | 7 S. | 33 E | 36 | 160.00 | E. ½ of N W ¼, E. ½ of S. W. ¼ | | | 50.00 | 160.00 | 58.37 | 22.40 |
| Williams, Benjamin. | 407 | Sept. 22, 1885. | 9739 Nov. 5, 1885. | M D | 8 S. | 31 E | 16 | 40.00 | N W ¼ of N. W. ¼ | | | 10.00 | 40.00 | 7.77 | 8.40 |
| Sanger, Gustave. | 429 | June 15, 1886. | 10151 July 29, 1886. | M D. | 9 S. | 34 E. | 36 | 320.00 | W. ½ | | | 80.00 | 320.00 | 12.20 | 44.80 |

The said Archd. Livingston, S. W. Modie, Thomas Hughes, Benjamin Williams, and Gustave Singer, the delinquent purchasers above named, and each of them, are hereby notified, that if the amount due as above stated is not paid within fifty days after the date of this notice I will commence suit to foreclose the interest of said purchasers in the lands above described.

P. W. FORBES, District Attorney.

Dated June 2nd, 1888.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.

COUNTY SURVEYOR

—AND—

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor

For California and Nevada.

—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

BISHOP CREEK

BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO., Proprietors.

All the appliances and convenience of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for outdoor parties.

☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜

☞ Of the C. & C. Railroad. ☜

Send orders to

MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO.

Bishop Creek, Cal.

Boot & Shoe Shop,

A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.

Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK

Livery, Feed & Sale Stable.

JOHN CLARKE, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.

Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

115 SAN JACINTO 117

UNITED STATES STORE

The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.

CASH.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Who Spends Money

For advertising in newspapers in these hard times, without first obtaining an estimate of the cost from Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York, is likely to pay $10 for what might be obtained for $5. Such estimates are furnished to all applicants gratis. Send 6 cents for 176 page pamphlet with list of newspapers and estimates.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S

EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out a flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,

Independence, Cal.

INDEPENDENCE MARKET,

J. Foeper, Prop.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef, Mutton, Pork, Lard, Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18-tf

FRED BURCKHARDT

Watchmaker & Jeweler,

LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

☞ All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

Bishop Creek, Cal.,

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC

☞ Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere. E. CHENOT.

Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

THIS PAPER ...

PALMER & ...

ADVERTISING ...

405-7 Sansome St ...

—AND—

PALMER & ...

Pacific States Advertising ...

46 Tribune Building ...

NEW YORK.

Where Advertising Contracts can be ...

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles

OF

Fashionable Clothing

Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc

AT

L. WOOD'S

CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES, PEANUTS, WALNUTS, TOYS!

THE CASH STORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:

HAWTHORNE NEV.

BRANCHES:

Wabuska, Nev.,

CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.

AGENCIES:

WELLS, FARGO & CO.,

U. S. STAGE CO.,

HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,

HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,

Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co's.

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

PROVISIONS,

&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.

Excellent Cardinal or Drab

SATEEN CORSETS,

44 cts.

By mail 11c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered bust, finished with pretty lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.

More Important Still

Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Men's Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.

WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.

400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.

SACRAMENTO, CAL.

THE SULTAN'S FAVORITE.

Abdul Hamid's Pet Workman Who Measured the Sultana's Foot.

Besides collections of stuffed birds and impaled beetles, of modern arms and costly mouth-pieces, one of the Turkish Sultan's favorite "fads" is a passion for art carpentry and wood-carving. He has a regular workshop, in which he practices both these handicrafts. A Mecklenburg German, Carl Jenssen, owed his great favor to Abdul Hamid's taste for fancy upholstery. Jenssen was an artisan, employed in the workshop which belonged to Abdul Hamid when heir apparent to the throne, and his Highness sole confidant—the most influential personage in the household. Jenssen gradually developed a variety of other talents—fitting up looms, looking after the Prince's wardrobe, grooming horses, cleaning carriages, etc.; in short, he became quite indispensable. One day when Carl, as the Prince always called him, had made an unusually lucky hit in his purchases, Abdul Hamid resolved to confer an unprecedented favor upon him. The Prince opened one of his wardrobes with his own hands, took therefrom some "Frankish" clothes and gave them to Jenssen. Let any body acquainted with Oriental etiquette just reflect for a moment what an astounding condescension it was for an Osmanli heir presumptive, upon whose beck and nod hundreds of slaves were always waiting, to give a pair of Paris-made breeches with his own hands to a Giaour journeyman carpenter.

Such trust, however, had Abdul Hamid in the honest Mecklenburger that he even allowed him to enter the apartments of her Highness, the chief wife. Jenssen had one day bought some shoes for the Princess which did not exactly fit, but were so well cut and finished that the illustrious lady could not bear to send them back. She sent for her husband, and, after a long discussion, Carl was called in and requested to see for himself where the shoes did not exactly suit the Princess' feet, so that he might have them altered for her.—"

—New hansom cabs in London are provided with small silver whistles for the use of lady passengers to direct the driver. One whistle signifies turn to the right, two to the left, and so on; something like the pilot signal of a steamboat.

—There is a tailoring academy in Berlin at which public examinations are now going on, and which was attended last year by 912 students of all nationalities including Japan. Medals and prizes are awarded to those who contrive to give the most artistic shape to trousers or waistcoats.

—A highly-important discovery has been made at Athens. In the south-eastern corner of the Parthenon a large statue has been found, which scientists think may belong to one of the missing figures which formerly occupied positions on the eastern pediment of the temple, about which many volumes of learned conjecture have been written.

—A powder is used in the German army for sifting into the shoes and stockings of the foot-soldiers. It is called "Fussreupulver," and consists of three parts salicylic acid, ten parts starch, and eighty-seven parts pulverized soapstone (Speckstein). It keeps the feet dry, prevents chafing, and rapidly heals sore spots. It is to be recommended to mountaineers.

—Father Matthew Ryan, the Catholic priest of Herbertstown, Ireland, who was recently sentenced to a month's imprisonment for supporting the Plan of Campaign, was carried away to jail amid a scene of excitement seldom witnessed. Women cried and kissed the hem of his cloak, and held up their children to be blessed by him. It was with the utmost difficulty that a collision with the immense force of police and military was avoided.

THREE HAPPY PEOPLE.

Fred Hofer, Gotlieb Blaser and Mrs Millerman Receive $15,000 From the Louisiana State Lottery.

It having been reported about town on Thursday afternoon that Mr. Fred Hofer, of this county, had that day received $15,000 through the Citizens' National Bank, of Davenport, from the Louisiana State Lottery, a representative of the Union took a train to Taylor Ridge and then drove out three miles to his abode. Mr. Hofer was found to be a native of Switzerland, who came here about three years ago and is unable to converse in English, but the reporter fell back on his German, through which language the required information was gained. The first capital prize of 300,000 in the grand quarterly drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery of March 13 was drawn by Ticket No. 51,570. This ticket was sold in subdivisions, and Mr. Hofer held a twentieth portion, not all of which, however, was his own. Some little time before he had tried his luck on a fractional ticket in a previous drawing, and had been awarded $10. He wrote to President M. A. Dauphin to keep the money and send him other tickets, and in return received a twentieth interest in the ticket which drew the capital prize of $300,000. Two-tenths of this interest he sold to Gotlieb Blazer, a fellow countryman and a farm laborer who now finds himself possessed of $3,000; and one-tenth he assigned to Mrs. Jacob Millerman, in satisfaction of a washing bill of $1—so that Mrs. Millerman can proclaim herself the champion washer-woman of America in having realized $1,500 in washing the clothes of one man. Mr. Hofer, who has $10,500 of the $15,000, is about 32 years old and Mr. Blaser is 23. [illegible] married an[illegible]

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

"I don't know, my dear little girl," I said. "I am at one end of life and you are at the other. I have but a short time before me at best, and most things lie in the past, but I hope that for you there are many long and happy years, and everything lies in the future. By and by you will grow into a beautiful woman, Flossie, and all this wild life will be like a far off dream to you, but I hope, even if we never do meet again, that you will think of your old friend and remember what I say to you now. Always try to be good, my dear, and to do what is right, rather than what happens to be pleasant, for in the end, whatever sneering people may say, what is good and what is happy are the same. Be unselfish, and whenever you can, give a helping hand to others—for the world is full of suffering, my dear, and to alleviate it is the noblest end that we can set before us. If you do that you will become a sweet and God fearing woman and make many people's lives a little brighter, and then you will not have lived, as so many of your sex do, in vain. And now I have given you a lot of old fashioned advice, and so I am going to give you something to sweeten it with. You see this little piece of paper. It is what is called a check. When we are gone give it to your father with this note—not before, mind. You will marry one day, my dear little Flossie, and it is to buy you a wedding present which you are to wear, and your daughter after you, if you have one, in remembrance of Hunter Quartermain."

Poor little Flossie cried very much, and gave me a lock of her bright hair in return, which I still have. The check I gave her was for £1,000 (which, being now well off, and having no calls upon me except those of charity, I could well afford), and in the note I directed her father to invest it for her in government security, and when she married or came of age, to buy her the best diamond necklace he could get for the money and accumulated interest. I chose diamonds because I think now that King Solomon's mines are lost to the world, their price will never be much lower than it is at present; so that if in after life she should ever be in pecuniary difficulties, she will be able to turn them into money.

Well, at last we got off after much handshaking, hat waving, and also farewell saluting from the natives, Alphonse weeping copiously (for he has a warm heart) at parting with his master and mistress; and I was not sorry for it at all, for I hate those goodbys. Perhaps the most affecting thing of all was to witness Umslopogaas' distress at parting with Flossie, for whom the grim old warrior had conceived a strong affection. He used to say that she was as sweet to see as the only star on a dark night, and was never tired of loudly congratulating himself on having killed the Lygonani who had threatened to murder her. And that was the last we saw of the pleasant Mission house—a true oasis in the desert—and of European civilization. But I often think of the Mackenzies, and wonder how they got down country, and if they are now safe and well in England, and will ever see these words. Dear little Flossie! I wonder how she fares there where there are no black folk to do her imperious bidding, and no sky piercing, snow clad Kenia for her to look at when she gets up in the morning. And so goodby to Flossie.

After leaving the Mission house we made our way comparatively unmolested past the base of Mount Kenia, which the Masai call "Donyo Egere," or the "speckled mountain," on account of the black patches of rock that appear upon its mighty spire, where the sides are too precipitous to allow of the snow lying on them; then on past the lonely lake Baringo, where one of our two remaining Asiari, having unfortunately trodden upon a puff adder, died of snake bite in spite of all our efforts to save him. Thence we proceeded a distance of about 150 miles to another magnificent snow clad mountain, called Lekakisera, which has never, to the best of my belief, been visited before by a European, but which I cannot now stop to describe. There we rested a fortnight, and then started out into the trackless and uninhabited forest of a vast district called Elgumi. On emerging from the great Elgumi forest, we, still steering northward, in accordance with the information Mr. Mackenzie had collected from the unfortunate wanderer who reached him only to die so tragically, struck the base in due course of the large lake called Laga by the natives, which is about fifty miles long by twenty broad, and of which it may be remembered he made mention. Thence we pushed on nearly a month's journey over great rolling uplands something like those in the Transvaal, but diversified by patches of bush country.

Into the unknown.

All this time we were continually ascending at the rate of about 100 feet every ten miles. Indeed, the country was on a slope which appeared to terminate at a mass of snow tipped mountains, for which we were steering, and where we learned the second lake, of which the wanderer had spoken as the lake without a bottom, was situated. At length we arrived there, and having ascertained that there was a large lake on the top of the mountains, ascended 3,000 feet more till we came to a precipitous cliff or edge, to find a great sheet of water, some twenty miles square, lying 1,500 feet below us and evidently occupying an extinct volcanic crater or craters of vast extent. Perceiving villages on the border of this lake, we descended with great difficulty through forests of pine trees, which now clothed the precipitous sides of the crater, and were well received by the people, a simple, unwarlike folk, who had never seen or even heard of a white man before, and treated us with great reverence, supplying us with as much [illegible] we could eat and drink. [illegible] beautiful lake lay, according, at a height of no less [illegible] above sea level, and its climate cold, and not at all unlike [illegible]. Indeed, for the first three [illegible] there we saw little or [illegible] dery, on account of an un[illegible] mist which prevailed. It [illegible] set the tsetse poison working [illegible] dining donkeys, so that they [illegible]

[illegible] ster left us in a very awkward position, as we had now no means of transport [illegible] ver, though, on the other hand, we had [illegible] ch to carry. Ammunition, too, was [illegible] amounting to but 150 rounds of [illegible] and some fifty shotgun cartridges. How to get on we did not know; indeed it seemed to us that we had about reached the end of our tether. Even if we had been inclined to abandon the object of our search, which, shadowy as it was, was by no means the case, it was ridiculous to think of forcing our way back some 700 miles to the coast in our present plight; so we came to the conclusion that the only thing to be done was to stop where we were—the natives being so well disposed and food plentiful—for the present, and abide events and try to collect information as to the countries beyond.

Accordingly, having purchased a capital log canoe, large enough to hold us all and our baggage, from the headman of the village we were staying in, presenting him with three empty cold drawn brass cartridges by way of payment, with which he was perfectly delighted, we set out to make a tour of the lake in order to find the most favorable place to make a camp. As we did not know if we should return to this village, we put all our gear into the canoe, and also a quarter of cooked water buck, which when young is delicious eating, and off we set, natives having already gone before us in light canoes to warn the inhabitants of the other villages of our approach.

As we went we began to pass a considerable accumulation of floating rushes, weed, boughs of trees, and other rubbish, brought, Good supposed, to this spot by some current, which he was much puzzled to account for. While we were speculating about this, Sir Henry pointed out a flock of large white swans, which were feeding on the drift some little way ahead of us. Now I had already noticed swans flying about this lake, and having never come across them before in Africa, was exceedingly anxious to obtain a specimen. I had questioned the natives about them, and learned that they came from over the mountain, always arriving at certain periods of the year in the early morning, when it was very easy to catch them, on account of their exhausted condition.

Well, we set to work to stalk the swans, which kept drawing as they fed nearer and nearer to the precipice, and at last we pushed the canoe under shelter of a patch of drift within forty yards of them. Sir Henry had the shotgun loaded with No. 1, and waiting for a chance, got two in a line, and, firing at their necks, killed them both. Up rose the rest, thirty or more of them, with a mighty splashing, and, as they did so, he gave them the other barrel. Down came one fellow with a broken wing, and I saw the leg of another drop and a few feathers start out of his back, but he went on quite strong. Up went the swans, circling ever higher till at last they were mere specks level with the top of the frowning precipice, when I saw them form into a triangle and head off for the unknown northeast. Meanwhile we had picked up our two dead ones, and beautiful birds they were, weighing not less than about thirty pounds each, and were chasing the winged one, which had scrambled over a mass of drift weed into a pool of clear water beyond. Finding a difficulty in forcing the canoe through the rubbish, I told our only remaining Wakwafi servant, whom I knew to be an excellent swimmer, to jump over, dive under the drift, and catch him, knowing that as there were no crocodiles in this lake he could come to no harm. Entering into the fun of the thing the man did so, and soon was dodging about after the winged swan in fine style, getting gradually nearer to the rock wall, against which the water washed as he did so.

Suddenly he gave up swimming after the swan, and began to cry out that he was being carried away; and indeed we saw that, though he was swimming with all his strength toward us, he was being drawn slowly toward the precipice. With a few desperate strokes of our paddles we pushed the canoe through the crust of drift and rowed toward the man as hard as we could, but, fast as we went, he was drawn faster toward the rock. Suddenly I saw that before us, just rising eighteen inches or so above the surface of the lake, was what looked like the top of the arch of a submerged cave or railway tunnel. Evidently, from the water mark on the rock several feet above it, it was generally entirely submerged, but there had been a dry season, and the cold had prevented the snow from melting as freely as usual, so the lake was low and the arch showed. Toward this arch our poor servant was being sucked with frightful rapidity. He was not more than twenty paces from it, and we were about thirty when I saw it, and with little help from us the canoe flew along after him. He struggled bravely, and I thought that we should have saved him, when suddenly I perceived an expression of despair come upon his face, and there before our eyes he was sucked down into the cruel, swirling, blue depths, and vanished; at the same moment I felt our canoe seized as with a mighty hand and propelled with resistless force toward the rock.

We realized our danger now, and rowed, or rather paddled, furiously in our attempt to get out of the vortex. In vain; in another second we were flying straight for the arch like an arrow, and I thought that we were lost. Luckily, I retained sufficient presence of mind to shout out, instantly setting the example by throwing myself into the bottom of the canoe, "Down on your faces—down!" and the others had the sense to take the hint. In another instant there was a grinding noise, and the boat was pushed down till the water began to trickle over the sides, and I thought that we were gone. But no; suddenly the grinding ceased, and we could again feel the canoe flying along. I turned my head a little—I dared not lift it—and looked up. By the feeble light that yet reached the canoe I could make out that a dense arch of rock hung just over our heads, and that was all. In another minute I could not even make out as much as that, for the faint light had merged into shadow, and the shadows had been swallowed up in darkness utter and complete.

For an hour or so we lay there, not daring to lift our heads for fear lest the brains should be dashed out of them, and scarcely able to speak even, on account of the noise of the rushing water which drowned our voices. Not, indeed, that we had much inclination to speak, seeing that we were overwhelmed by the awfulness of our position and the imminent fear of instant death, either by being dashed against the sides of the cavern or on a rock, or being sucked down in the raging waters, or perhaps asphyxiated by want of air. All of these and many other modes of death presented themselves to my imagination as I lay at the bottom of the canoe listening to the swirl of the hurrying waters, which ran whither we knew not. One other sound only could I hear, and that was Athlone's intermittent howl of terror coming from the center of the canoe, and even that seemed faint and unreal. Indeed the whole thing overpowered my brain, and I began to believe that I was the victim of some ghastly, spirit shaking nightmare.

(To be Continued.

—The Prince of Naples, only son of the King and Queen of Italy, is to pay visits to the principal European courts next year, and it is probable that he will be in London in June.

—Baron Hirsch de Gereuth, who has been raised to the Austrian House of Peers by the Emperor Francis Joseph, is the first Hebrew to receive such an honor. It cost him $30,000,000 in charity.

—Tennyson has a large dairy, personally managed by Mrs. Hallam Tennyson, and the butter, cream and milk produced therein are in great demand in the markets of the Isle of Wright.

—The great financial king of New Zealand is Johnny Jones, of Dunedin. His wealth runs up into the millions, and the greater part was made in steamboating. He is a native, and once earned scant wages as an oarsman on a ferryboat.

How to Rear Children.

One great point is to treat them justly.

Do not preach politeness and propriety to them, and violate their laws yourself. In other words, let the example you set them be a good one.

Never quarrel nor have any unpleasantness between yourselves or with others in their presence. If you must quarrel wait till the children are gone to bed. They then will not see you, and, perhaps, by that time you may not want to quarrel.

Never speak flippantly of neighbors before children. They may meet the neighbors' children and talk about it.

Teach them to think that the little boy in rags has a heart in spite of the rags—and a stomach, too.

Teach them, as they grow older, that a respectful demeanor to others, a gentle tone of voice, a kind disposition, a generous nature, an honest purpose and an industrious mind are better than any thing else on earth. Teach them these things, and self-reliance, and intelligence, and capability will come of themselves. Teach them these things, I say, and your boys and girls will grow up to be noble men and women.—Pioneer-Press.

—She (haughtily)—"I may be led, not driven, Mr. De Hooter." Mr. D.—"Ah, indeed? So sorry. I was just going to ask you to let me drive you out with a four-in-hand party the first pleasant day."—Critic.

—We hear a good deal of complaint about skimmed-milk cheese, but in these days of oleomargarine we cry out for a little skimmed-milk butter. This is a superficial age, but it pains us to think that it has scum to this.—Duluth Paragrapher.

CATARRH.

A New Home Treatment for the Cure of Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.

The microscope has proved that these diseases are contagious, and that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the upper air passages and eustachian tubes. The eminent scientists, Tyndall, Huxley and Beale endorse this, and these authorities cannot be disputed. The regular method of treating these diseases has been to apply an irritant remedy weekly, and even daily, thus keeping the delicate membrane in a constant state of irritation, allowing it no chance to heal, and as a natural consequence of such treatment not one permanent cure has ever been recorded. It is an absolute fact that these diseases cannot be cured by any application made oftener than once in two weeks, for the membrane must get a chance to heal before an application is repeated. It is now seven years since Mr. Dixon discovered the parasite in catarrh and formulated his new treatment, and since then his remedy has become a household word in every country where the English language is spoken. Cures effected by him seven years ago are cures still, there having been no return of the disease.

So highly are these remedies valued that ignorant imitators have started up everywhere pretending to destroy a parasite, of which they know nothing, by remedies, the results of the application of which they are equally ignorant. Mr. Dixon's remedy is applied only once in two weeks, and from one to three applications effect a permanent cure in the most aggravated cases.

Mr. Dixon sends a pamphlet describing his new treatment on the receipt of stamp to pay postage. The address is A. H. Dixon & Son, 303 King street west, Toronto, Canada.—Scientific American.

Never in your dress, says Lord Lytton, altogether desert that taste which is general. The world considers eccentricity in great things genius; in small things folly.

THAT HIGHWAY OF NATIONS,

The broad Atlantic, is ever a stormy thoroughfare. Yet blow the winds ever so fiercely, and ride the waves ever so lightly, seamen must man the good ships, tourists will brave the passage, and commercial travelers and buyers must visit the centers of foreign trade and manufacture. That atrocious malady, seasickness, together with colicky pains and much inward uneasiness is often endured when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters would have fortified the voyagers against them. Sea captains, and in fact all old salt and veteran travelers are acquainted with the protective value of this estimable preventive and remedy, and are rarely unprovided with it. Emigrants to the far West should use it as a safeguard against malaria. Seek the aid of the Bitters for dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, kidney troubles, and all ailments that impair the harmonious and vigorous action of the vital powers.

When a man has once forfeited his reputation of his integrity, nothing will then serve him term, neither truth nor falsehood.

THE FLYING DOVE OF PEACE.

A richly frosted quivering, flying Dove. A Dream of Life screen calendar. An imported ideal head. An imported frosted snow scene and a full set of magnificent floral cards. Fourteen artistic pieces. Sent to anyone who will buy from a druggist a box of the genuine DR. C. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS (price, 25 cts.) and mail us the outside wrapper from the box with 4 cents in stamps. Write your address plainly. FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

Courtship consists in the number of quiet attentions, not so pointed as to alarm, not so vague as not to be understood.

HOW TO CURE A BOY OF CROUP.

Mrs. Samuel Nutt, of South Haven, Kansas tells how she saved the life of her boy.

I have been using ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS for the last ten years, principally for a weak back. Not long ago I found my son very much inclined to croup. He had a bad croupy cough, and a wheezing sound in his lungs every time he breathed. He nearly died from the obstruction of the throat. I covered him from the throat to the pit of the stomach with ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. In two hours the cough ceased and his breathing was much easier. In a few days he was entirely well. I kept the ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS on him six days. Since then, whenever he is affected with colds in the throat, I never use anything but an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER, which cures him immediately, without any inconvenience. They are the best preventive of the croup ever known, and I would not be without them for any consideration.

The greatest of all faults, I should say, is to be conscious of none.

"Brown's Bronchial Troches" are widely known as an admirable remedy for Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Coughs and Throat Troubles. Sold only in boxes.

ITCHING PILES.

SYMPTOMS—moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at nights; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in many cases removes the tumors. It is equally efficacious in curing all Skin Diseases. DR. SWAYNE & SON, Proprietors, Philadelphia. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT can be obtained of druggists. Sent by mail for 50 Cents.

A Torpid Liver and bad digestion bring on dispepsia, constipation, sick headache and biliousness. Hobb's Little Vegetable Pills act directly on the liver, and will cure all the above complains. Only one pill a dose.

IF SUFFERERS FROM CONSUMPTION,

Scrofula, Bronchitis and General Debility will try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, they will find immediate relief and permanent benefit. The Medical Profession universally declare it a remedy of the greatest value and very palatable. Read: "I have used Scott's Emulsion in several cases of Scrofula and Debility in Children Results most gratifying. My little patients take it with pleasure."—W. A. HUBBERT, M.D., Salisbury, Ill.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

Warner's SAFE CURE Purifies the Blood,

BALL'S FERRY, Cal., Jan. 4, 1888.—I am using "Warner's Safe Cure" for disease of the Kidneys and it is doing me good.

Edwin L. Lacey

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., (723 Market Street.) Dec. 10, 1887.—We consider "Warner's Safe Remedies" invaluable and would not be without them.

Harry B. Hamlly

OAKLAND, Cal., (Attorney-at-Law, 957 Broadway,) Dec. 20, 1887.—I have long used "Warner's Safe Cure" with good results, and am now using the same.

H. L. Adams

By Putting the Kidneys in Healthy Condition,

WEST BUTTE, Cal., Dec. 28, 1887.—My daughter has taken "Warner's Safe Cure" and received great benefit thereform.

Kate Ward

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., (621 Montgomery Street,) Dec. 10, 1887.—I find "Warner's Safe Remedies" all that we could desire.

William R. Nelson

CALPELLA, Cal., Jan. 13, 1888.—I am happy to state that I have used "Warner's Safe Cure" and "Warner's Safe Pills" with the best results possible for deranged Kidneys and Liver. I continue to use "Warner's Safe Cure" although I feel well."

Edwin E. Webster

Thereby Enabling the Kidneys, the Only

DANVILLE, Cal., (Real Estate and Business Agent) Dec. 8, 1887.—I have used some of "Warner's Safe Cure" and believe it to be a good remedy when faithfully used.

J. A. Shirey

YOLO, Cal., Dec. 13, 1887.—My wife is using "Warner's Safe Cure" and says that it is doing her good.

Charles T. Brower

ALVISO, Cal., Jan. 6, 1888.—I use "Warner's Safe Cure" to keep well. I think it is a good medicine.

M. P. Caswell

Blood Purifying Organs, to do their Work.

ASK YOUR FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS ABOUT

WARNER'S SAFE CURE.

DUKE'S CAMEO CIGARETTES.

PRIZE PICTURES.

These costly and beautiful works of art, representing, respectively, Mrs. Langtry and Mlle. Theo, now exhibited in the numerous store-windows throughout the entire Pacific Coast, are encased in heavy gold beveled frames, with burnished and ornamental inside and imported glass. They are free from any advertising matter and were issued exclusively for the patrons of the Duke's Cameo Cigarettes. How to obtain it—800 of these pictures, complete with frame and glass, measuring 31x38 inches, will be delivered, Free of Charge, to 800 persons who return to W. Duke, Sons & Co., No. 16 Front street, San Francisco, the largest number of empty (5-cent) boxes of Duke's Cameo Cigarettes on August 1, 1888. No specified number of empty boxes is necessary. In other words, any number of such boxes will secure the picture where there are not fully 200 persons who return a larger number. Rulers, Flags and Coat-of-arms of all nations in the world. Each (5-cent) box of Duke's Cameo Cigarettes contains a folding card, in three distinct panels, on which appear respectively an accurate portrait of Living Ruler and richly colored Coat-of-Arms and Flags of the Nations. Every one sending 10 such of these folders, unsealed, same as taken from the cigarette boxes, will receive a Souvenir Album. This Album is as beautiful, interesting and unique a publication as was ever offered to the public, and contains a complete collection of the Rulers, Coat-of-Arms and Flags of Every Nation, and representing 50 different countries. These Albums will be delivered on and after May 15th, and until further notice, to all who send their full address and 75 folders to the undersigned manufacturers. NOTE.—Those who are saving their empty Duke's Cameo boxes for the purpose of securing one of the pictures of Langtry or Theo are reminded that the folding cards from such boxes will secure to them an album also, providing the quantity be not less than seventy-five.

W. Duke, Sons & Co.,

DURHAM, N. C., AND NEW YORK.

Largest Cigarette Manufacturers in the World. Production in 1887, 996,500,000. Present daily sales average over Two Millions. W. J. HOUSTON & CO., Pacific Coast Agents, No. 16 Front Street, San Francisco.

TO THE PUBLIC—The very costly methods adopted for the introduction of Duke's Cameo Cigarettes is justified by the fact of such brand possessing a Legitimate Claim for favor from that class of Consumers who can discriminate and appreciate Superiority in Quality. The distinctive merit in this Brand Has Been Acquired by the results of Long and Patient Study, and in the Duke's Cameo Cigarettes we offer the Finest Quality of (per nally selected) Bright and Delicate Tobacco grown within the golden belt of North Carolina. We justly claim and emphatically assert that the quality of this brand is unrivaled by any Cigarette at any price ever produced in this country.

SARSAPARILLA, YELLOW DOCK, —AND— Iodide of Potass.

It cures RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Boils, Pimples, Scrofula, Gout, Catarrh, Tumors, Salt Rheum, and Mercurial Pains. It Purifies the Blood, Restores the Liver and Kidneys to healthy action, and makes the Complexion Bright and Clear.

J. R. GATES & CO., Proprietors, 417 Sansome St., San Francisco.

DO you smoke a pipe? If you do, take the advice of thousands of old smokers that have tried it, and smoke "Seal of North Carolina" Plug Cut.

YOU will find it the best Smoking Tobacco ever sold on this coast. It is made from three year old Tobacco,—smokes soft and cool, and will last twice as long as the many cheap imitations that are flooding the market.

SMOKE Seal of North Carolina and you at once see why it has the largest sale of any Tobacco on the coast.

 If your dealer does not keep it he will get it for you, if he values your trade.*

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

TO FARMERS!

Our Catalogues —OF— Agricultural Implem'ts

FOR THE SEASON OF 1888,

Has just been issued and will be mailed free any farmer sending us his address.

BAKER & HAMILTON,

P. O. Box 2605. San Francisco, Cal.

REWARD!

$1000 Will be paid for each and every grain of poisonous substances found in Wisdom's Robertine, acknowledged the most delightful and only really harmless toilet article ever produced for beautifying and preserving the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles and all blemishes and roughness of the skin. Used and endorsed by the elite of society and the stage. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per bottle. White and Flesh. REDINGTON CO., Wholesale Druggists, San Francisco, Agents

Perfect digestion accomplished by taking Hobb's Little Vegetable Pills. This Wonderful Remedy cures Sick Headache, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, and all Diseases of the Liver and Stomach.

The following symptoms result from diseases of the Digestive Organs: Constipation, Headache, Piles, Heartburn, Bad Taste in Mouth, Nausea, Sour Stomach, Coated Tongue, Yellowness of Skin, Pain in the Side, etc. Hobb's Little Vegetable Pills will free the system of all these and many other disorders. They are purely vegetable, sugar coated, very small, easy to take, only one pill a dose, but used with wonderful results. Try them once, and forever after you will recommend them. Price 25 Cts. a vial, or five for $1.00. Sent by mail or all druggists. HOBB'S MEDICINE CO., Prop's, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage, MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. 111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

BIG G. Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranted not to cause Stricture. M'f'd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio. Trade Mark. $1.00. Sold by Druggists

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y.

We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL. Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O

CLOSING OUT

OUR IMMENSE STOCK OF SUMMER BALBRIGGAN UNDERWEAR, at $1 and $1.50 per suit.

Latest designs in PERCALE SHIRTS, three latest style Collars and one pair Cuffs, $1.50 each.

Wolf & Frank

MEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

232 Kearny St., near Bush.

Send for Illustrated Catalogue.

Ground Sulphur.

Use it freely on your vines and trees. All successful farmers do. It is good and cheap now. Carload just to hand. We want you to place orders where you get the best value for the money, and offer—100lbs sulphur, strong sacks, $1.75; 1000lbs Sulphur, strong sacks, $16.50; 100lbs Bonemeal, $1.50; 1000lbs Bonemeal, $12.75; 100lbs Japanese Egg Food, $1.50; 1000lbs Japanese Egg Food, $12.00; 100lbs Oil Cake Meal, $1.60; 1000lbs Oil Cake Meal, $15.00; 100lbs Choice Black Figs, $8.00; 100lbs Bright Dried Pears, $8.50; 100lbs Alden Dried Apples, $8.50; 100lbs Cooking Raisins, $8.50; 100lbs Raisins, better grade, $6.50; 100lbs Sun-dried Apricots, $8.00; 100lbs Cherries, pits in, $7.50; 100lbs Dried Grapes, $8.50; 100lbs Good Prunes, $6.50; 100lbs Prunes, choice quality, $8.50; 100lbs Common Walnuts, $4.50; 100lbs Best Walnuts, $9.50; 100lbs Pink Beans, $2.50; 100lbs Bayou Beans, $2.50; 100lbs Brown Sugar, $5.50; 100lbs White Sugar, $6.00. Small reduction on larger lots to the trade and large buyers; small quantities higher. Why not send directly to headquarters when you need these goods, or any others, and get the benefit of lowest jobbing rates? Remember above prices are free at depot or railroad; 50c per ton less at warehouse or store. Prices subject to market changes. Ask for list of all our goods and prices. Samples mailed free. Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front St., S. F., Cal.

WELL DRILLS

FOR EVERY PURPOSE. Sold on Trial!

Investment small, profits large. Send 20c for mailing large illustrated Catalogue with full particulars. Manufactured by GOULDS & AUSTIN, 167 & 169 Lake St., CHICAGO, ILL.

DANIEL } —— { CHARLES F.

C. F. O'CALLAGHAN & BRO.

Commission Merchants.

—WHOLESALE DEALERS IN—

FARM & DAIRY PRODUCE.

—Consignments of—

Butter, Eggs, Cheese, Poultry, Game, Wool, Hydes, Grain, Beans, Dried Fruit, Nuts, Honey, Potatoes, Etc.,

Handled to the Entire Satisfaction of Shippers. We also solicit Country Orders which shall have our prompt and careful attention.

212 Sacramento St., S. F., Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO TOOL CO.

Works: First and Stevenson Sts., S. F.

—MAKERS OF—

Machine Tools, and Machine Shop Appliances of all descriptions. Steam Engines and Boilers of all kinds. Elevators for Freight and Passenger use. Centrifugal Pumping Machinery, etc., etc. Send for catalogue and prices.

CATARRH SAMPLE TREATMENT FREE. So great is our faith we can cure you, dear sufferer, we will mail enough to convince, free. B. S. LAUDERBACH & Co., Newark, N. J.

STEINWAY, KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Roemish Pianos; Burdett Organs, Band Instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY..... JULY 7 1888.

VOL. XX. N

Worth More Than That.

Larry Jerome, of New York, tells the following as coming under his observation while at the Ponce de Leon hotel at St. Augustine, Fla., during his recent visit there:

A guest stepped up to the clerk and asked for his bill.

"What's the name?"

"McGerky."

The clerk sized him up.

"Thirty dollars, Mr. McGerky," he said.

"But I've only been here two days."

"The amount is correct, sir."

"The d——l it is; hadn't you better guess again? I've got more money than that about my person.—Omaha World.

Plenty of Crackers.

He—How do you find the oysters, Miss Smith?

She—They are simply delicious, and I am awfully hungry, too.

He (to waiter)—Bring another plate of crackers.—Epoch.

He Found a Little.

"Um! Yes! Singular!" he said as he stood at the cashier's desk in the restaurant and felt in his pockets.

"Been robbed, I suppose!" sneered the cashier.

"Perhaps. Let's see! Did I change my pantaloons?"

"Oh, of course!"

"I guess I did, and left all my money in the other pair."

"Say, that's too old to go down here, mister! I want sixty cents!"

"Yes—yes, but you see"——

"I see a dead beat, who'll get a good kicking if he doesn't hand over the cash!"

"Mercy! but you don't take me for a dead beat, I hope!"

"Sixty cents."

"But I've left my money."

"Sixty cents or you get the bounce!"

"I'll go out and borrow it."

"Oh, no! Hand it over or the kicker will take charge of you!"

"Let's see! Did I change my clothes! Yes, I did. But"——

"No buts about it! I want sixty cents!"

"But I must have slipped some money in my hind pocket. Ah! so I did, and here it is."

And he fished up a great wad, tossed the cashier a $50 bill, and while waiting for his change shook hands with two bankers and drew his check for $5,000 to settle a real estate transaction.

The cashier is still in bed, and the doctor says it is a very serious case.—Detroit Free Press.

The Man for the Place.

Able Editor—Well, sir?

Caller—I have called to see if you want any help in the political department during the presidential campaign. I think I can idealize the virtue of one party and exaggerate the faults of the other about as well as any man living. Give me enough space and I'll make your readers feel like lynching every man on the opposition ticket.

"Glorious! Had much experience in journalism?"

"Well, no, but I was director general of advertising in a recent baking powder war."

"Take that desk, sir."—Omaha World.

A Peculiar Case.

A.—I was never worse fooled in my life than I was last night.

B.—How so?

"I had been out with the boys and went to bed rather late. Blamed if, when I woke up, my feet weren't on the pillow where my head should have been."

"That was rather strange."

"But that wasn't the strangest thing about it. All during the night I suffered with headache when really there was nothing the matter with me except that my corns hurt."—Texas Siftings.

Use of Lightning Rods.

Noted Electrician—I see you still have that old notion that a lightning rod is a protection.

Nebraska Farmer—I have.

"Well, of course, you don't keep up with the electrical progress of the age and can't be expected"——

"I take half a dozen newspapers and three magazines, including The Electrical Review, sir."

"You do? Well, well! Now, sir, if that is the case, will you be kind enough to tell me what you think a lightning rod on your house protects you from?"

"Lightning rod agents."—Omaha World.

She Had Him.

"The happiest moment of a man's life," he said, tenderly, "is when he knows that he has won a girl's heart."

"Is it?" she shyly asked.

"Yes," he replied; "now tell me what is the happiest moment in a woman's life.

She blushed and hung her head.

"Tell me," he whispered.

"You won't think me too bold?"

"Certainly not."

"When she's asked to name the day."—Boston Courier.

The Instantaneous Process.

Dumley (to photographer)—Do you take pictures by the instantaneous process? I'm apher—Yes, sir.

You may take mine; a dozen ll right, sir; just sit down use.

I have to wait?

w hours; there's nday

MISCELLANEOUS.

—It is not every great man's ex ence that his palmiest days were w he was in the hands of his friends.—Yonkers Gazette.

—The late Barghash Bin Saed, Sultan of Zanzibar, leaves twenty-seven widows and 232 children. Enough has Bin Saed.—N. Y. World.

—A Philadelphia firm of soap manufacturers have a kettle that holds 471,000 pounds of liquids and six kettles that hold 150,000 pounds each.

—Dried shark fins are sold in every Chinese provision store in New York, and are esteemed such a delicacy that they bring nearly four dollars per pound.

—Never in one season was there such a demand for oak to go into house finishing and furniture as the present. Red and white oaks are particularly wanted.

—A lady of Greensboro, Ga., in one night killed eighty-nine snails which had crawled into her kitchen. It wasn't a good night for snails—at least not for those that she found.

—"I hear that General Lightfoot is going to run for Governor," said the Judge. "Glad he's going to run for something," said the Major, with feeling, "he run from everything all through the war."—Burdette.

—A St. Louis man says that he once had a chance to buy the patent for the Nicholson pavement for $1,000. A year after he declined the offer the holder of the patent collected $100,000 in royalties from the city of St. Louis.

—The Bank of New York has a check yellowed by fire which was drawn by Aaron Burr, August 14, 1784, and also another check drawn by Talleyrand and Gulian Verplanck. It is now nearly 104 years since the bank was established.

—An English justice discharged a housemaid who pleaded guilty to stealing a cloak, a muff, a fur boa and a handkerchief belonging to her mistress. The judge said that she was only "wearing" the clothes, and that was "a thing that servants did every day."

—A novel way to move a house was adopted at the railroad depot at Orlando, Fla., the other day. The house was slipped upon the railroad track, an engine was backed up and hitched on, and the house pulled along, sliding on the tracks.

—A profound scientist of the nineteenth century living in Boston had a smoking chimney in his house. After he had spent $400 for various devices to cure it a ragged tramp came along and suggested that he build it six inches higher which was done and the evil eradicated.—Detroit Free Press.

—Considerable numbers of colored people are emigrating to California from the Southern States. One party of twenty-four men and women lately arrived at San Francisco en route to join a colored colony in Shasta County. Another party of 110 laborers, mostly men, have gone to Fresno to work in the raisin vineyards, and 150 more are to follow.

—Song birds being very scarce in Oregon, a number of German citizens of Portland propose to import from the fatherland a number of nightingales, skylarks, bullfinches, chaffinches, goldfinches, greenfinches, black and gray thrushes, linnets, starlings, and other singing birds, in all between 600 and 700, which will be turned loose on their arrival. A fund of over $1,000 has been raised to further the project.

A GIRL'S INVENTION.

How a Veteran's Daughter is Filling a Depleted Family Treasury.

In a remote but decent part of Boston has lived for about fifteen years an English family of rather unique interest. The father served in the war of the rebellion, and, being a partial invalid in consequence, receives a small pension, which does not go far toward supporting the family, and he can do little besides draw his pension and suffer his constant pain. The mother is a small woman, with large brown eyes and pale cheeks. She has had a toilsome life, indeed, and has done all sorts of work to try and eke out the family support. Two daughters, the elder somewhat noted in her neighborhood as a beauty, and a small boy make up the balance of the household. Although desperately poor, the family have been as proud as Lucifer and seemed bound to accept no more charity than was absolutely unavoidable, though there are plenty of well-to-do people around them who would gladly have contributed in their aid, as every member of the family commanded respect. They have come to be known even outside their narrow circle from their constant effort to better themselves, trying now this thing and now that. Every thing failed until a short time ago; but at last the family have struck something that will give them ease and comfort if not comparative wealth. The handsome daughter is credited with the discovery, which is simply a new method of treating photographs in reproduction. Her name has been given to it, and her work is getting more and more circulation every day with of course an increased inflow of dollars to the family treasury. She has secured a patent on process. All the photographers are the work and would like to use in their business, as they is girl is getting as many orders an fill at the good price o for each cabinet reproductions are the same photographs, but g in tone, and plate-glass annually hitting the p reporter of the W ough canvass of the va Chinatown.

There are at present about twe five Chinese firms that deal in refi opium, both wholesale and reta There are eleven private Chines joints, where opium is sold at $2 25 per ounce. These joints do not now admit white smokers, on account of the frequent raids made upon them by the police, but the stores sell to both Chinese and whites, although the latter must be well-known smokers. Otherwise he has to suffer for the want of opium—which, according to all accounts, is even worse than to see "snakes." Great tears would gush out of his eyes, big drops of perspiration constantly moisten his brow, while his nostrils would act as if he owned a small-sized fountain somewhere in his head. But the worst of all the ailments is an excruciating pain all over his back-bone, as if he had been just run through a fine clothes-wringer. Under such circumstances he would almost be willing to give half of his entire kingdom to be able to "hit the pipe."

Six pills or pipes, about the size of a green pea, would restore him to his natural condition of life, which would last him for about as many hours. A regular "fiend" will consume about an ounce per day, which is $2.25.

The sensation while smoking is, indeed, soothing. No matter how fatigued or oppressed in mind, a few whiffs of the pipe would put a man in the best of social spirits. It has strange medicinal properties, and is said to cure all kinds of fevers and ague, consumption and palpitation of the heart. Most Chinamen are driven to it through business reverses and other troubles, while not a few contracted the habi through sociability, just as an American would do on their "take a drink" with a friend.

It takes just about the same length of time to get the opium habit as to get the drinking habit. The latter destroys the mind, and makes a man irresponsible for his actions, while the former destroys the body but makes a keen thinker of the victim. It is estimated that there are something over one thousand Americans in the city of New York who are now using opium in the same manner and form as the Chinese. Most of these are said to be well-known and fashionable people, as indeed no other but people of means and of leisure could ever be able to contract such a habit.

The opium-dealing firms sell from two to five cans per day, each can weighing about four ounces. Most of the wholesale orders come from towns and cities in and around New York State, and only now and then the native American customers from uptown come in to buy their supply.

Say they sell an average of three cans per day. At wholesale rates, which is $8 35 per can for China imported goods, but when retailed out at the 50 cents' worth at a time it would bring it up to about $10 to $11 per can. At $10, which is the lowest possible price per can, sixty-six cans amount to $660 per day, or $240 900 per year.

There are eleven joints. The majority of these import their own opium, said to be direct from China, but the greater part of which comes from Victoria, B. C. One of these places, which is the best Chinese joint in town, sells at retail on Sundays alone from ten to twelve cans, while the second best place sells from eight to ten cans on Sundays. On an average these joints dispose of five cans a day. These places calculate to make from $2 to $3 on each can of Chinese imported opium, but they are able to make more when they mix the Victoria in with the pure. Thus it can easily be seen how nearly $1,000,000 changes hands for opium per year.

According to Chinese San Francisco papers they paid over $800,000 for custom-house duties for the Chinese year just ended on opium alone. But one very curious fact is that a Chinaman is frequently deceived. When he pays for the real imported Chinese opium he gets Victoria (B. C.) opium, which is sold in several Chinese stores at $5 50 per can, but since the recent custom-house trouble it has gone up to $6. The same article can be had in Canada for $4 25 to $4 50. If the duties are paid upon these Victoria goods it is said by the smokers that they could not buy it at the above rates, but would have to pay $7 a can for it.—Wong Chin Foo, in N. Y. World.

A Trifle Run Down.

Chicago Physician (to Mrs. Breezy)—I am sorry to hear that your daughter is not well, Mrs. Breezy. Is it any thing serious?

Mrs. Breezy—Oh, I fancy not; but Clara is of such an ethereal, delicate organization that the least thing upsets her.

Chicago Physician—She didn't say what she thought the matter was?

Mrs. Breezy—No; she simply complained at breakfast this morning of feeling very rocky.—N. Y. Sun.

—The only railway extending into the arctic zone runs north from the port of Lulea, in Sweden, at the head of the Gulf of Bothnia, toward the iron mines of Gellivara mountains. The first train to cross the arctic circle passed over this road a few weeks ago.

ain for a canal, but nothing was done about it, and in 1841 a railroad going over the mountain was completed, and the tunnel project was abandoned. The building of a tunnel, however, was embraced in the plan of the Troy & Greenfield railroad, which was incorporated in 1848, but no work was done on it for some years, owing to the difficulty of obtaining assistance from the State. In 1854 the State Legislature passed an act providing for a loan of credit to the amount of $2,000,000 for the construction of the Hoosac tunnel, but the gift was hampered by conditions which made it not directly available by the company, and thus the work was greatly hindered. Several contracts were made for the excavation of the tunnel, but all fell through by failure of the company to meet payments when due, and the work was not begun with vigor until 1857. It was then carried on until July, 1861, up to which time the State had advanced nearly $800,000 for the work, but as the State officials then refused to longer certify the bills of the contractors, work was suspended, and the project was entirely abandoned by the railroad company. In 1862 the State assumed control of the work, and appointed commissioners to supervise it; these found serious defects in the tunnel plan and recommended important changes. Work was begun again in December, 1863, but so slowly did it proceed that the Hoosac tunnel became to the people of Massachusetts a symbol of all impossible and unattainable results. But the second veritable epoch in the history of the enterprise may be said to date from 1868, when the State decided, after much discussion, to have the work completed immediately. The contract was then awarded to the Messrs. Shanly, of Canada, who vigorously prosecuted the work, day and night, and on Thanksgiving Day, November 27, 1873, the laborers advancing from both sides met, and light was admitted through the tunnel. It was completed in March, 1874, and trains were running through it by the following September. The length of the tunnel is 25,031 feet or four and three-quarter miles. It is 26 feet wide, and varies in height from 23 to 26 feet. The grade allowed is 26 feet to the mile during the entire distance, from each portal to the central shaft, making the interior summit more than 60 feet higher than the ends. There is a central shaft in the tunnel which occasions sufficient draught to ventilate it quite effectually. The entire cost of the tunnel is estimated at $10,000,000. The longest tunnels in the world are those through the Alps. Of these the Arlberg is six and one-half miles long, the Mont Cenis seven and three-quarter miles, the St. Gothard nine miles and a quarter, while the Simplon tunnel, now in process of construction, is to be twelve and a half miles long.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

HAPPINESS AT HOME.

The True Art of Living Is to Live Without the Least Friction.

There are innumerable books that teach us how to behave in society, how to demean ourselves at the church, the theater and the lyceum. But the place above all others where a man or woman should know how to conduct themselves with propriety is at home. The greater portion of every person's social life is spent at home, and, therefore, it is a logical deduction that, if good manners are essential to mutual happiness, they should be brought into use at home as well as in society.

The great secret of home happiness is the absolute repression of temper. There are much more eloquent and effective ways of expressing disapproval, than by an outburst of angry words. If your brother leaves the door open, never tell him of it. Go and close it without a word. If you tell him of it, it sends a nervous quiver through his frame that will culminate in a burst of temper expressed. But if you close the door yourself you give him a silent object-lesson that he will not forget.

A housewife's food is usually good, and if the "gude man" dislikes it, he may be practically sure his dislike arises from his own pampered taste. But if there is any particular dish against which his stomach rebels, he will show true domestic philosophy and shrewdness by not mentioning it. The hint will be sufficiently broad if he simply refrains from it. No dish will be cooked many times in succession that is not eaten.

The true art of living is to live without friction; to live without friction never scold in words. A wise man or woman can scold most potently and effectively without saying a word.—Yankee Blade.

—The principal market for green tea is the United States.

of gum as it is shipped we dred pounds. On a arriving tory the gum is chipped, gro washed and then placed on la to dry, being combed over times a day to permit all the moi consequent on the washing to evap ate.

It is now ready for boiling and is placed in a huge cauldron, heat applied and the mass grows visibly thick. When the consistency of the mass is perfect, pulverized sugar is added, equal quantities of gum and sugar being required. The whole is stirred with a large wooden spatula and the mixture allowed to cool. At the time when the heat is least, but not before it is quite cold, the flavoring matter is thrown in—peppermint, anise-seed, fruit juice, manna, or whatever it may be—and the whole thoroughly incorporated.

It is then removed to the table, worked by hand until the air bubbles are expelled, run through heavy iron rollers until it looks like so much leather on a saddler's counter, dusted with powdered magnesia to prevent adhesion to the trays, and cut in longitudinal or square pieces by a little cutter for that purpose. It is not cut through, only an indentation being made that is easily made a fracture. Now comes a further hardening process by exposure, lasting usually a day or so, and it is then ready to go up stairs to the packers.

In the packing department, sitting around half a dozen tables, are twenty or thirty girls, nimble of fingers and dexterous to a degree, employed in wrapping. The pieces or tablets are brought to them by a boy, who, when not engaged in supplying their needs, is found completing the symmetry of the packages by tying and finishing off.

The tablets are put up in lots of half a dozen and held secure by a small rubber band. The chips, or broken pieces, are gathered in small barrels and returned to the laboratory beneath to be mixed again with the fresh material as it is melted.

The tree from which the chickel gum is obtained is of about the same proportion as an oak tree. Its exudation is a purely vegetable product, and is in no wise deleterious. In certain parts of Mexico the natives cultivate the trees with great care, as in a large measure they derive a livelihood from the annual yield of gum. Southerners are passionately addicted to gum, either pure or flavored.—Cor. N. Y. Journal.

THE CREDIT SYSTEM.

The Effects on the Buyers Worse Than Those on the Sellers.

It is somewhat strange that whenever the credit system is criticised, it is as a rule from the standpoint of the dealer rather than of the buyer—giving the trouble of the man who gives credit rather than of him who receives it. Of course it is an annoyance and a loss to the seller; but its effects upon the buyer are still worse. It is bad for all classes of purchasers, and simply ruinous to young men. The one of the latter who begins a career of buying on credit and borrowing ends in misfortune and too often in bankruptcy of character. Many a young man has been ruined by the credit system.

Take, for example, the young fellow of honest purpose who enters society believing that his future home and happiness depends upon his ability to please, and that to please he must dress well and liberally spend his money for theater privileges and ball room fancies. The chances are that such a young man will soon find that his expenses exceed his income, in which case he usually resorts to the credit system for temporary relief. He finds that his tailor will furnish him a new suit of clothes on time, hence he dresses well; he finds that his livery bills can be charged, hence he drives well because it is fashionable to do so. He does all this with honest intent, believing that he can meet his bills when due; but when pay-day comes he is unable to keep his promises, so there begins the era of broken pledges, which too often ends in bankruptcy of character.

Young man, don't put all you earn, and more, upon your back, for the young lady who is attracted by good clothes is in fact not a very rich discovery. If you have a small balance at the end of the week take a second thought before you pay it out for cigars or tickets to the theater; but whatever you do, don't run in debt. In this new and comparatively undeveloped country there are many fine opportunities for the industrious, economical and sober young man. And he who guards his honor by living within his income is the man whom the public can rely upon, and he is the man, too, that will make good use of these opportunities.—Toledo Blade.

—Truth is a good element with which to join science and religion.

t sp ly s only o hat is shape t
the United more flamin and terra cott colors worn. Some at the stations wore the dinary fur caps made out of t the coat of the rabbit. They we shapeless and clumsy.

They make no umbrellas in Italy according to the English idea. The trim, tightly-rolled umbrella of England and the United States is unknown, except in the hands of a tourist. Even the most accomplished Italian gentleman thinks nothing of carrying a coarse, clumsy umbrella which, when furled and tied up, is nearly a foot in diameter and has a handle nearly equal in size to the center pole of a Sibley tent. The Italians have a huge umbrella which is always carried by the common people and sometimes by the higher classes. This umbrella when unfurled is fully five feet across. It is made of some strong, coarse material, and is always in some flaming color. You will see these umbrellas in pea green, a bright, cold blue, purple and flame red. They are also carried by the black-frocked priests. They resemble very much in shape and size an artist's sketching umbrella. They are a protection against the cold rains of the winter and the blazing suns of summer. Every Italian farmer and laborer carries one. You will see a farmer and his laborer going out under these umbrellas to their daily work, and in nearly every hedge-row you will see, in passing through the country, these umbrellas furled and thrown down temporarily by the laborers while they are at work.—T. C. Crawford, in N. Y. World.

After Thirty-Two Years.

Forty years ago Joseph Miles, of Millerton, N. Y., married a neighbor's daughter and settled down to farming. He got tired of this, and told his wife that he thought they'd better make a change. She objected, and, in fact, refused to quit her old home. He said that she could do as she pleased, and that if ever she decided to live with him she'd be welcome, but he wouldn't return to Millerton. So he left her and their boy. She made her home with her parents on their farm. The husband fought through the war, then went to Sidney, N. Y., and began to make money. He acquired a snug little fortune, but had no one to share it with. A friend who knew his story went to Millerton, found Mrs. Miles living on the homestead with the boy, a man of thirty-four years, told her all about Joseph, and induced her to consent to go to Sidney and join him. She didn't need much persuasion, and Joseph, too, was glad when he learned of the negotiations. The neighbors heard of it, and the other night thronged to the railroad station to meet the train that brought Mrs. Miles. She didn't recognize Joseph, and he didn't know her; but after the introduction they seemed very happy, and have taken up wedded life where they laid it down thirty-two years ago.—N. Y. Sun.

Getting On in the World.

I was talking with a prominent business man about getting on in the world, and he gave it as his opinion that it was not so very difficult, if people would only go about it in the right way. "You see that wholesale cigar store across the street?" said he, pointing with his finger. "Connected with it is a large cigar factory, an the two men who own it take out in profits about $20,000 a year. years ago those young men we makers working by the thousa making about $16 a week. T not much; but they made the it. Instead of squandering their and their time foolishly, they s a few dollars, bought some c and made cigars evenin rooms out on Milw had no trouble in and thus not onl tra labor, but facturers' Soon in dead com

The Indian edly the greatest en crazy in the first place
men, as they are called. As particulars of the tragedy are only brief, owing to circumstances explained above, a brief history of these men, as learned by your correspondent, will probably be read with interest. They are designated by several names, as shamans, sorcerers and conjurers.

The Esquimaux, among whom this woman was acquainted, call them angekoks, which is wise men. The Indians, like other people, are subjected to the ills of body and mind, and are, therefore, dependent upon medical protection to help them in their hours of pain. Blindness, arising from the smoke of the lodges, uncleanness, the habitual use of paint and hereditary diseases are very prevalent among the tribe.

Sitting in a lodge a short time ago with twelve persons, a missionary named Rev. John McLean, B. A., counted no less than five blind individuals. There are numerous cases of scrofula, consumption, rheum and other loathsome diseases. medicine men are the priests a tors of the camp, uniting religio medicine in their practice. Ge there are grades of distinction lower resorting to the use of herbs other medicines only, the higher ing upon supernatural influences aid them with the dispensing of the materia medica.

It is of the latter class to whom th cannibal woman went with her ill Shrewd and intelligent, they are r vered by the occupants of the lodg and become instructors of the yo and the guardians of the sa legends. Occasionally medicine w en are found, generally aged perso who become famous through t numerous cures wrought by their skill. "Medicine" has a two-fold meaning, the one referring to the charms and incantations, the supernatural part of the work, and the other to the use of physic, the natural part.

It is expected that the medicine men who are said to have injured the woman's reason will be arrested and prosecuted by the British authorities.—Cor. St. Paul Globe.

HOW DIES ARE MADE.

A Clear Eye and Steady Hand Requisite for Good Workmanship.

Die sinking is carried on to a large extent in New York, and the work turned out from the various establishments is already acknowledged in the market to be of the very highest order. The material from which the dies are usually made, either brass or steel, is first turned into the desired shape in a lathe. Steel has to be submitted to a certain process which it be letters or are then which t This else o

NEXT WEEK.

PROGRAM

...st class

...E

...suit either at Bishop Creek, or on the cars at Bishop Station, at

2 Cts. per Pound.

Orders Promptly Attended To.

E. K. ANDREWS & CO.
Laws, Inyo Co., Cal.

---

PHOTOGRAPHY

—IN ALL ITS BRANCHES—

Will Be Executed

—AT THE—

- STUDIO -

—OF—

...roe & Co.

...ngs of all the prominent scenes on the ... In fact,

...nything & Everything

...picture line, from a locket to an 8x10 ft ...g can be had. Will deal in Frames, ...s, Etc.—any and all sizes.

...PRICES REASONABLE.

...TISFACTION GUARANTEED.

BLEDSOE & CO.

---

James Hillyer,

CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER

Plans, Specifications

And Estimates of all kinds of buildings

Furnished.

All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.

JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

---

...RWIN'S SALOON

...Market Streets,

...Cal.

RE... my ...ift ...

---

Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

---

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

---

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

---

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-At-Law.
Independence, Cal.

Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

---

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

---

NORMAN HOUSE,

Independence, - - Cal.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. F. MAIRS, Prop.
feb12tf

---

Pioneer
Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known establishment, I trust by close attention to business to merit a share of the public patronage.

Livery Accommodations

in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.

O. F. MAIRS, Proprietor.

---

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF.
D. E. No. 456.
UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
Jan. 22 1888.

Notice is hereby given that John Kispert, of Independence, Inyo county, California, has filed notice of intention to make proof of his desert land claim No. 456 for the S W ¼ of S E ¼ of S ec 22 Tp 14 S R 35 E M D M, before the Register and Receiver of this office at Independence Cal. on Saturday, the 11th day of August, 1888.

He names the following witnesses to prove the complete irrigation and reclamation of said land: Frederick Albers, John Meyer, Fritz Strohmeyer, and John Alexander, all of Independence, Inyo county Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
Register.

---

LANDS—MINES

ANSWER TO INQUIRIES, $1.00
REPORT ON ENTRIES, CONTESTS, &c., $3.00
Procuring Land Patents, Filing Arguments, and Conducting Contests, on Moderate Terms. Send for circular to
HENRY N. COPP, ATTORNEY AT LAW,
WASHINGTON, D. C.
Every Settler should have Copp's Settler's Guide 124 pages; price only 25 cents (postage stamps).

---

...OORS,
SHINGLES,
...SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sep 11 tf

---

Working Classes A TEN-TION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address and test the business, we make this offer: To such we are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

---

Independence Hotel.

Indepen... - - Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL
DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—

Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars.

Jy-1 86

---

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.

Office in the "INDEPENDENT" building, Independence, Inyo county Cal.

---

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.

☞ NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED. ☜

Office and residence at the Reddy place Independence.

---

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

---

RENO MARBLE WORKS.
W. E. LINDSEY,
—Dealer in—
Gravestones Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.
—Agent for—
PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.
Virginia Street, Below Second,
Reno, Nevada.
oct 23 tf

---

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

---

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 174 page pamphlet. Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU, 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.

---

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work, either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

---

...S.

...ime Table.

...& COLORADO RR

...KING EFFECT

... April 10th, 1888

| ...TIONS. | From Mound House. No. 1. | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Mound House | 9 15 a m | 5 35 p m |
| Dayton | 9 45 a m | 4 35 p m |
| Wabuska | 12 45 p m | 2 25 p m |
| Hawthorne | 4 30 p m | 10 40 a m |
| Mineral | 5 30 p m | 9 20 a m |
| Sand Springs | 7 0 p m | 8 0 a m |
| Belleville | 8 10 p m | 7 0 a m |
| Candelaria | Ar. 8 50 p m | Lv. 6 30 a m |
| | No. 3 Leave— | No. 4 Arrives— |
| Belleville | 7 30 a m | 5 25 p m |
| Benton | 11 00 a m | 1 00 p m |
| Bishop Creek | 1 100 p m | 11 00 a m |
| Alvord | 2 00 p m | 10 30 a m |
| Independence | 3 30 p m | 9 0 a m |
| Lone Pine | 4 15 p m | 8 0 a m |
| Keeler | Ar 5 05 p m | Lv 7 00 a m |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V & T R R, which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

At HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (65 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

At LUNING (12½ miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages for Mineral, Velvet, Hays and Friday's) for Downieville, Grantsville and Belmont.

At CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

---

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair-Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

---

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELLER,
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

---

TO ADVERTISERS!

For a check for $20 we will print a ten-line advertisement in One Million Issues of leading American Newspapers and complete the work within three days. This is at the rate of only one-fifth of a cent a line, for 1,000 Circulation! The advertisement will appear in but a single issue of any paper, and consequently will be placed before One Million different newspaper purchasers, or Five Million Readers. If it is true, as is sometimes stated, that every newspaper is looked at by five persons on an average. Ten lines will accommodate about 75 words. Address with copy of Adv. and check, or send 30 cents for Book of 256 pages.
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 10 SPRUCE ST., NEW YORK.

We have just issued a new edition of our Book called "Newspaper Advertising." It has 256 pages, and among its contents may be named the following Lists and Catalogues of Newspapers:—
DAILY NEWSPAPERS IN NEW YORK CITY, with their Advertising Rates.
DAILY NEWSPAPERS IN CITIES HAVING more than 150,000 population, omitting all but the best.
DAILY NEWSPAPERS IN CITIES HAVING more than 20,000 population, omitting all but the best.
A SMALL LIST OF NEWSPAPERS IN which to advertise every section of the country: being a choice selection made up with great care, guided by long experience.
ONE NEWSPAPER IN A STATE. The best one for an advertiser to use if he will use but one.
BARGAINS IN ADVERTISING IN DAILY Newspapers in many principal cities and towns, a List which offers peculiar inducements to some advertisers.
LARGEST CIRCULATIONS. A complete list of all American papers issuing regularly more than 25,000 copies.
THE BEST LIST OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS, covering every town of over 5,000 population and every important county seat.
SELECT LIST OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS, in which advertisements are inserted at half price.
5,472 VILLAGE NEWSPAPERS, in which advertisements are inserted for $42.15 a line and appear in the whole lot—one half of all the American Weeklies.
Book sent to any address for THIRTY CENTS.

---

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples,
Pears,
Peaches
& Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R... & CO.

---

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)
Merchant,
INDEPENDENCE
INYO CO., CAL.

Wholesale and Retail
....DEALER IN....
General Merchandise.

MY STOCK

Consisting of almost every new article is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as in the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the esteem and patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE,
1252-1

---

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE
BANKER,
Independence, Cal
SELL EXCHANGE
-ON-
SAN FRANCISCO.

DRAW DIRECT
-ON-
NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, } Germany

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT all kinds
GENERAL BANKING
—AND—
Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main. Deutsche Vollmachten geleistigt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.

AGENT FOR
Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $55,000,000
LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - 21,000,000
NATHAN RHINE, Agent.

---

BLACKSMITHING
Horseshoeing

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, JULY 7 ..... ... 1888

We are through with the Fourth; now make preparations for the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Marshall, of Keeler, were in town the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. James Jones, of Big Pine, spent the Fourth at Independence.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Jiggens came up from Keeler and spent the week at Independence.

Next Tuesday the trial of W. C. T. Elliott for the murder of John B. White will begin.

Ed. Ober is appointed interpreter for the Indians who will be called as witnesses on the Elliot trial.

Miss Jennie Bell and Miss Annie Bell, of Big Pine, were at the ball here on the evening of the Fourth.

Dr. S. A. Middleton and wife, of Bishop Creek, came down and spent the Fourth at Independence.

Mr. W. Uhlemeyer and his sister, Miss Emma Uhlemeyer, were at the ball at Independence last Wednesday evening.

Mr. J. R. Moffet has a life office as Marshal of all "doings" at Independence. Jim is the right man in the right place as Marshal.

Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie and Mrs. E. J. Seaman, sister of Mrs. McKenzie, were up from Darwin last Thursday and spent a day or two in town.

The first cutting of alfalfa on the farm of T. J. Goodale, at Fish Springs averaged three tons per acre this season. Mills & Enos are putting up the crop.

On Wednesday of last week Mr. Walter Harris and Miss Grace Barnes were married at Dayton, Nevada. Miss Barnes is niece of Mr. Welles Barnes, of Independence.

Mr. W. A. Harris, of Dayton, Nevada, arrived at Independence last evening. He is appointed stenographer of the Superior Court and will report the proceedings of the Elliot trial.

Several parties are going up into the high valleys about Mount Whitney to spend a few weeks. The weather there is delightfully cool and the fishing is the best in the State.

On Tuesday evening the Independence Silver Cornet Band presented their leader, John Rosewarne, with a handsome badge as a token of their appreciation of his efforts in teaching them.

Mrs. J. J. Stewart, Miss Jessie Skinner, Miss Minnie Miller, Mrs. Breand, Messrs. D. Holland, J. Holland and McLean came up from Lone Pine on Thursday and remained in town a couple of days.

The Supervisors have been in session during the week as a Board of equalization. The members have been engaged in examining the assessment roll, but so far no changes in assessments have been made.

While assisting with a display of fireworks at Bishop Creek on Wednesday evening W. J. Phillippay was injured by a bomb exploding in his hand. The hand was badly hurt but is expected to heal up allright.

The Esmeralda News says fifteen tons of ore from the Pamlico mine was crushed at the Kinkead mill and yielded $20,700, being $1380 per ton. More of the same grade ore is reported to be in sight. The Pamlico is not far from Hawthorne.

Mr. J. E. Shepherd, of Georges Creek, is a candidate for Sheriff. Ed. Shepherd has been known to many of the voters of Inyo county since childhood, and it will be conceded by all that he is a young man of the best character. Everyone has the fullest confidence in Ed. that he will try to do right at all times.

Henry Galvin, who has been for several years in the employ of the C. & C. railroad company at Independence gave up his position last Monday. He is interested in a mining claim and will give his time to develop it. Mrs. Galvin has gone to Hawthorne for a few weeks and from there will go to San Francisco to live.

Each farmer should save a sheaf each of wheat, oats, barley and corn for exhibition at the fair. A sack or other covering should be put over the grain to keep the heads clean. The grain should not be over ripe when cut. A very beautiful and interesting display can be made if this little matter shall be attended to.

A simple box of apricots was received from Mr. W. Walker, of Oancha, a few days ago. It is to be regretted that this fruit cannot be shown at San Francisco. The apricots are as large as ordinary peaches and are of a delicious flavor. Oancha produces all kinds of fruit of the highest excellence, but nothing surpasses the apricots.

Mr. T. H. Flagler, of Virginia City, has been at Keeler for some weeks past putting up a windmill and pump. The machinery pumps water from the Lake into ground tanks, and has a capacity of five hundred gallons per minute with a moderate breeze. The water evaporates quickly from the tanks and the soda that remains is then easily gathered. The windmill method of pumping is much cheaper than steam power [illegible] water will likely be [illegible] used with [illegible] successful. These [illegible] quite reliable to [illegible] required

[illegible] barley [illegible] are

THE CELEBRATION.

When the snowy peaks of the Sierras were touched with the first blush of the morning the Fourth was ushered in at Independence with a grand salute of one hundred guns and the ringing of bells. A little later the Independence Silver Cornet Band went upon the balcony in front of the Court House and played a number of patriotic airs. Soon the streets were thronged with people; the buildings were decorated with the National colors and the whole town looked very gay. Promptly at ten o'clock the procession formed in front of the new school house and marched through the principal streets, led by James R. Moffet as Grand Marshal. A very large and handsomely decorated car carried girls representing the States and Territories. Miss May Shepherd represented the Goddess of Liberty and looked so well that the divinity might have envied her representative. A large number of carriages conveying citizens and their families were in the procession. The band led the way playing patriotic airs. Agricultural Hall was speedily filled when the procession reached there. Mr. J. W. P. Laird was President of the Day. The choir sang the "Star Spangled Banner;" Miss Maggie Conklin read the Declaration of Independence, and evidently thoroughly understood what she was reading and made her audience understand the grand old document. Mr. Frank Densmore recited Drake's "Address to the American Flag," which was warmly applauded. H. B. A. R. Conklin delivered the oration. He urged upon the young to love their country and its free institutions. Contrasted the happy condition of Americans with peoples of other countries. Showed that our wonderful progress and general well-being are due to the fact that we have no privileged classes; but that every American stands upon an equal footing before the law with all other Americans; and consequently that the skill and energy of every citizen has the fullest freedom and scope to help accomplish the results that fill the rulers of other countries with wonder, and make the United States the most admired government on earth. Free schools for the education of every child; protection for every interest and industry at home and for every American citizen abroad. The address was excellent and was appreciated accordingly. With the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the choir the exercises closed and the company went to Mairs' Hall, where a

FRUIT AND ICE CREAM FESTIVAL

Was in readiness. The display of peaches, apples and apricots was such as to do credit to Owens Valley. There was abundance of it; long tables were covered with dishes heaped up with fruit; and boxes and barrels ran around the hall and all comers were invited to help themselves. Ice-cream and cake were supplied in equally liberal measure. Everybody had ice-cream as often as called for, and more was offered than was wanted. This entertainment was far more acceptable than the meats and other food usually offered on such occasions. When everybody had declined to eat any more the company adjourned for

THE GAMES.

A foot race of one hundred yards was won by Ed Morton, and he got the purse of fifty dollars that had been offered. Three standing jumps was won by Walter Ober; hop, skip and jump, won by Ed Ober; sack race, won by Walter Ober; sack race for boys, won by George Naylor; egg race, won by Ella Malone; prize, pair of gold bracelets; throwing heavy hammer, won by J. W. Murphy; three-leg race, won by Walter Ober and Ed. Ober. This concluded the sports for the day, and an intermission was taken. Again the crowd gathered at Agricultural Hall for

THE BALL.

This was certainly one of the finest affairs of the kind yet had in the county. The large hall was handsomely decorated and brilliantly lighted. The gayly dressed company on the floor and the bright colors on the walls and ceiling made a lovely picture. The orchestra consisted of violin, guitar, cornet, piano and double bass and the music was excellent. At midnight the company adjourned to the hotels for supper and then kept up the dance till daylight. This party has not been equalled except by the first annual ball of the 18th Agricultural District, given in the same hall last October.

HORSE RACES.

On the morning of the fifth a race, one mile dash, was won by Sandy, owned by J. M. Horton, of Bishop Creek. A half mile race followed and was won by Muchacho, owned by Barragan, of Lone Pine.

THE GIRL WON.

At the track some one suggested a race between Emily Pat Conklin and Walter Ober. The suggestion took like wildfire and the race was at once made up; Pat to run fifty yards while the professional should run one hundred yards. After returning to town the consent of Mr. and Mrs. Conklin was obtained that Pat should run, and the girl was willing. She is ten years old and is slender. The contestants came to the scratch. Emily fifty yards in advance of Walter. Crowds of people assembled to see the race. At the drop of the hat the runners started, Pat bounding along like a deer and Walter flying after. Everybody cheered the girl and before she had run forty yards it was clear that Walter was badly beaten. Pat crossed the line with a good deal of her odds still to the good and was heartily cheered. At a private trial before the race Pat ran fifty yards in a fraction over six seconds. She will be backed against any girl of her age in the State, or any professional runner at reasonable odds.

BASE BALL.

The baseball game between the American nine of Big Pine and the Independence nine was a walk-over for the Americans. All the members of this nine but the Captain, Ed Ober, are Indians. Several of them are six feet tall and are fine looking men. They have not the stolid looks and metallic, expressionless features common to Indians, but are bright, intelligent and amiable looking. They play with vim and [illegible] very active. The captain speaks the [illegible] language as fluently as English. [illegible] said, the game on Thursday [illegible] over; but the spectators were [illegible] in the fine play made by [illegible] expects to go to [illegible] in a few weeks, [illegible] will take them to [illegible] parts of the State.

[illegible] wind up party [illegible] the day [illegible] who [illegible]

Meteorological Summary for June, 1888, Keeler, Cal.

| | |
|---|---|
| Mean reduced barometer | 29.696 inches. |
| Mean temperature | 74° |
| Highest temperature | 96° |
| Lowest temperature | 48° |
| Monthly range of temperature | 48° |
| Mean relative humidity 26 per cent. | |
| Mean dew point, 34 per cent. | |
| Prevailing direction of wind, S. E. | |
| Maximum velocity of wind, direction and date, 42 miles N. W. 18th. | |
| Precipitation | 0.20 |
| Number of clear days | 22 |
| Number of fair days | 7 |
| Number of cloudy days | 1 |
| Number of rainy days | 0 |

D. C. GRUNOW,
Private, Signal Corps

The Diana mill, at Benton, was destroyed by fire last Saturday night. The property belonged to John F. Miller and was valued at $20 000. The insurance upon the premises was $5 000

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. J. E. SHEPHERD

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES JONES.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. JAMES B. CHAMBERLAIN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES R. ELDRED.

FOR SHERIFF.

AT THE SOLICITATION OF MANY friends I hereby offer myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. GEORGE H. SHEDD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican Convention of Inyo County. THOMAS C. BOLAND.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. P. H. MACK.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. J. J. MOORE.

COMMITTEE MEETING.

The County Central Committee of the American Party will meet at the Court House, Independence, on July 4th, 1888, at 7 o'clock p. m. Members of the committee and Americans will take due notice. C. F. FULLER, Secretary.

NOTICE OF REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the Republican Committee of the County of Inyo, will be held at the Court House in the town of Independence at 7 o'clock p. m. of Friday, July 6, 1888, for the purpose of choosing two delegates to represent the Republican party of Inyo county in the State and Congressional Conventions, to be held at San Francisco July 31, 1888. A full attendance of the Committee is urgently requested.

S. A. DENSMORE, Chairman.
Geo. H. Hardy, Sec.
Independence, Cal., June 19, 1888.

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF.

D. E. No. 249.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, INDEPENDENCE, CAL., June 25, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that Sherman V. Stevens of Inyo county, California, has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his desert land claim No. 249, for the E ½ of N W ¼ N E ¼ N ½ of S E ¼ N E ¼ of S W ¼ sec 13, Tp 14 S R 35 E; S W ¼ N ½ S W ¼, Sec 18, Tp 14 S, R 36 E M D M, before the Register and Receiver of this office, at Independence, Cal., on Tuesday, the 7th day of August, 1888.

He names the following witnesses to prove the complete irrigation and reclamation of said land: Charles A. Skinner, Allen Kenyon, John Meyers and William Meyers, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

ESTATE OF WILLIAM HEDGE, deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned, administrator of the estate of William Hedge, deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said administrator, at the law office of George M. Gill, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, State of California, that being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate.

WILLIAM F. MATLACK,
Administrator of the estate of William Hedge deceased.
Dated at Independence, California, June 19, 1888.
Geo. M. Gill, Attorney for Admin'strator.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1228.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL., June 22, 1888.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on August 4, 1888, viz.: Hiram Hamilton, for the E ½ of S W ¼ W ½ of S E ¼ of Sec 30, Twp 14 S, R 36 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz.: John Shepherd, John W. Lacey, William H. Jenkins and Peter Meyer, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

o-m14

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms to the use of patrons, in every respect a
FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address
P. ROWELL & CO.,
Street, New York City,
OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
EE, on application.

List of Delinquent Purchasers of School Lands in Inyo County.

Showing the Amount Due January 1st, 1889.

THEO. REICHERT, Register State Land Office.

| NAME OF PURCHASER. | DATE OF APPROVAL. | NO. | NO. AND DATE OF CERTIFICATE OF PURCHASE. | DESCRIPTION. | NO. OF ACRES | SECTIONS. | RANGE | TOWNSHIP | MERIDIAN | AMOUNT OF PRINCIPAL PAID. | AMOUNT OF PRINCIPAL PAID. | AMOUNT OF INTEREST UNPAID JAN 1ST, 1889 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Livingston, Archd. | 18 March 30, 1874. | | 5848 May 4, 1874. | S E ¼ | 160 00 | 36 | 36 E | 18 S | M D | 160 00 | 12 05 | 224 00 |
| Modie, S. W. | 171 Nov. 28, 1877. | | 7428 Jan. 8, 1878. | W. ½ | 320 00 | 16 | 36 E | 15 S | M D | 320 00 | 290 85 | 64 00 |
| Hughes, Thomas | 345 Oct. 14, 1881. | | 8214 Jan. 9, 1882 | E. ½ of N. W. ¼ E. ½ of S. W. ¼ | 160 00 | 36 | 33 E | 7 S | M D | 160 00 | 58 37 | 22 40 |
| Williams, Benjamin. | 407 Sept. 22, 1885. | | 9739 Nov. 5, 1885. | S W ¼ of N. W. ¼ | 40 00 | 16 | 31 E | 8 S | M D | 40 00 | 77 | 8 40 |
| Sanger, Gustave. | 429 June 15, 1886. | | 10151 July 29, 1886. | W. ½ | 320 00 | 36 | 34 E. | 9 S | M. D. | 320 00 | 12 20 | 44 80 |

The said Archd. Livingston, S. W. Modie, Thomas Hughes, Benjamin Williams, and Gustave Sanger, the delinquent purchasers above named, and each of them, are hereby notified, that if the amount due as above stated is not paid within fifty days after the date of this notice I will commence suit to foreclose the interest of said purchasers in the lands above described.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney.

Dated June 2nd, 1888.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—
The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.
All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.
All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.
Customers supplied on all points
Of the C. & C. Railroad.
Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.
Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.
PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.
Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.
Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.
SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

A NEW DEAL!
BISHOP CREEK
Livery, Feed & Sale Stable.
JOHN CLARKE, Prop'r.
Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

115 CLAY STREET, 117
SMITH'S STORE
is The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.
CASH.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Who Spends Money
For advertising in newspapers in these hard times, without first obtaining an estimate of the cost from Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York, is likely to pay $10 for what might be obtained for $5. Such estimates are furnished to all applicants gratis. Send 10 cents for 176 page pamphlet with list of newspapers and estimates.

SE
There c is profitable
ing so to th facilities house we have sp might b
Sam
We poss deal direct
Seven Ca which re seen that the aggreg
SEND Our new distribution, an application. It is gives the price and
Samples of dry-goods s
IT WILL PAY
To trade with us. The thousands of orders which we are constantly receiving from every State and Territory west of the Rocky Mountains, attest the taste, care, discretion and promptness which we exercise in meeting the requirements of our mail customers.
WHAT WE KEEP.
Our stock embraces Dress Goods, Domestices, Fancy Goods, Ladies' Underwear, Gloves, Parasols, Hosiery, Embroidery, Laces, Cloaks, Jackets and Wraps, Clothing, Gent's Furnishing Goods, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Jewelry, Notions, Trunks & Valises, Etc. Etc.
Send Us a Trial Order And Be Convinced.
HALE BROS & CO.
Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,
Sacramento, Cal.

Highest market price cattle.
All meats will be se possible livi
FRED BU
Watchma
LONE PINE, C
Time pieces of all descriptions repaire lated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelr order. Firearms repaired and loaded.
All ord rs from any part of the cou be promptly attended to, at the most rea charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Pine.
FRED BURKHARD

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
Bishop Creek, Cal.,
Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

EDWARD CHENOT,
Independence, Cal.,
INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO extensive Stock of
GENERAL MERCHANDIS
....Consisting of....
GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS
Tobacco, Cigars,
WINES AND LIQUORS
FLOUR & GRAI
Together with an Assortment of
DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING
ETC., ETC
Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.
E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
n476tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths
AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA
On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad
These valuable Springs offer special
INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS
THE WATER CONTAINS
SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.
And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing
When used for bathing purposes.
THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,
—And a large—
SWIMMING : BATH
Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.
Excellent Accommodations,
—AND—
Board by the Day, Week Month
MARTIN BRA

THIS PA
ADVER
405-7 San PAL
Pacific States
46 Trib
NE
Where Advert

Prompt A
Guar
MERCHANTABLE PRODU rates taken in exchange for goods.
MAIN OFFICE:
HAWTHORNE
BRANCHES:
Wabuska, Nev.
CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R.
AGENCIES:
WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Har Insurance Co.'s.
au25tf

TOM BOLAND,
KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.
Dealer in
GENERAL
MERCHANDISE,
GROCERIES
MINERS
Supplies
PROVISIONS,
&c., &c., &c.
LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.
Excellent Cardinal or Drab
SATEEN CORSETS,
44 cts.
By mail 11c. extra. Five hoo clasp. Fine Model and Wea embroidered bust, finished inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30 or postage stamps.
More Impo
Is to send fo ward free about ten all kind Wear, tions in th

...gether
...ches.
...that these
...of scholars
...a man's
...ive of
...ulsive
...star:
...ions
...ates
...cour-
...der's
...Deep
...s, gave
...$200,000
...Baptist
...that
...aries
...those
...ends
...miner.
...Of Ohio,
...has re-
...Xenia a
...000. This
...ived by the ...Episcopal), of
...ecates the use
...erals and in the
...er Day. The use of
...rch at Easter has un-
...doubtedly been overdone. But it is hardly as bad in this country as it is in the English churches on harvest home festivals, when many churches resemble nothing so much as a green grocery.

STORY OF AN AGED LADY.

She Gained What Money Could not buy, After Years of Trial and Suffering.

Sitting in the pleasant parlor of her house in Saugerties, N. Y., Mrs. Catherine A. Wigram, a lady past seventy-five years of age, told to the writer the following story:

"I hope, through you, to address many who are sick and know not where to turn for help. Eight or nine years ago, while living at Glenerie, in this county, Ulster, I was suffering from a painful tumor in the left groin, also with constipation and rheumatism, kidney trouble and dropsy. My limbs were swollen, the pressure of a finger almost anywhere would leave an impression as upon a puff ball. All these were caused by an impure condition of the blood. To give you some idea of the frightful condition of my blood, I may say that when I received the least wound, or was merely bitten by insects, the result was an apparently incurable sore.

The pain and distress from the tumor was so great that I frequently sought relief by pressing my hand upon it. Soon it broke and discharged freely, exhausting my feeble strength. The kidney trouble began in my youth, and with dyspepsia, had been a life long source of suffering. Happily better days were in store for me, when one of our best physicians induced me to try Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. I had not used quite a single bottle of this great blood purifier before the rheumatism in the hip was relieved, and the dropsical trouble rapidly abated. You see no sign of it about me now. Considering my advanced age, and the infirmities inseparable from failing powers, I am fairly well; and I am assured by my physician, and know for myself, that my recovery is honestly attributable to Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. I know Dr. Kennedy personally, and had from the beginning all the more confidence in Favorite Remedy, because I knew him to be a regular and experienced physician and surgeon of high reputation at his home in Rondout, N.Y."

Hon. Wm. E. Russell, President of the Saugerties National Bank, and Mr. Thos. E. Keeney, Cashier of the same institution say: We are personally acquainted with Mrs. Wigram, and have the utmost confidence in any statement she may make. $1 bottle, 6 for $5. Redington & Co., agents, S. F., Cal.

"No," gloomily remarked a tramp, "I've never met a real whole-souled man, but I've often went away quick from a half-soled one."

HOW TO SELECT A WIFE.

Good health, good morals, good sense and good temper, are the four essentials for a good wife. These are the indispensibles. After them come the minor advantages of good looks, accomplishments, family position, etc. With the first four, married life will be comfortable and happy. Lacking either, it will be in more or less degree a failure. Upon good health depends largely good temper and good looks, and to some extent good sense also, as the best mind must be affected more or less by the weaknesses and whims attendant on frail health. Young man, if your wife is failing into a state of invilidism, first of all things try to restore her health. If she is troubled with debilitating female weaknesses, buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will cure her.

The notice of the wedding of a prominent gambler last week contained this significent paragraph: "No cards."

THE craze in collecting and saving empty 5c boxes of Cameo Cigarettes is assuming vast proportions, "and the elegant pictures of Langtry and Theo" will pass into the possession of 1,000 persons on the Pacific Coast who may return the largest number of such boxes to W. Duke, Sons & Co., No. 16 Front St., San Francisco. Save your folding cards from such boxes until you accumulate 75 and secure a beautiful souvenir album that contains a complete collection of rulers, coats-of-arms and flags of every nation in the world.

These albums will be mailed by returning your folders to W. Duke, Sons & Co., First avenue and Twenty-ninth street, New York.

Try Germes for Breakfast.

FOR CLEANSING, PURIFYING AND BEAUTIFYING the skin of children and infants and curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, the CUTICURA REMEDIES are infallible.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood diseases, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Baby's Skin and Scalp preserved and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP.

KIDNEY PAINS, Backache and Weakness cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, an instantaneous pain subduing plaster. 25c.

S. F. N. U. Series No. 311.

On we rushed toward the pillar of fire.

"Keep the boat to the right, Quatermain—to the right," shouted Sir Henry, and a minute afterward I saw him fall forward senseless. Alphonse had already gone. Good was the next to go. There they lay as though dead; only Umslopogaas and I kept our senses. We were within fifty yards of it now, and I saw the Zulu's head fall forward on his hands. He had gone, too, and I was alone. I could not breathe; the fierce heat dried me up. For yards and yards round the great rose of fire the rock roof was red hot. The wood of the boat was almost burning. I saw the feathers on one of the dead swans begin to twist and shrivel up; but I would not give in. I knew that if I did we should pass within three or four yards of the gas jet and perish miserably. I set the paddle so as to turn the canoe as far from it as possible, and held on grimly.

My eyes seemed to be bursting from my head, and through the closed lids I could see the fierce light. We were nearly opposite now; it roared like all the fires of hell, and the water boiled furiously around it. Five seconds more. We were past; I heard the roar behind me.

Then I, too, fell senseless. The next thing that I remember was feeling a breath of air upon my face. My eyes opened with great difficulty. I looked up. Far, far above me there was light, though around me was deep gloom. Then I remembered, and looked. The canoe still floated down the river, and in the bottom of it lay the naked forms of my companions. "Were they dead?" I wondered. "Was I left alone in this awful place?" I knew not. Next I became conscious of a burning thirst. I put my hand over the edge of the boat into the water and drew it up again with a cry. No wonder; nearly all the skin was burnt off the back of it. The water, however, was cold, or nearly so, and I drank pints and splashed myself all over. My body seemed to suck up the fluid as one may see a brick wall suck up rain after a drought; but where I was burned the touch of it caused intense pain. Then I bethought myself of the others, and dragging myself towards them with difficulty, I sprinkled them with water, and to my joy they began to recover—Umslopogaas first, then the others. Next they drank, absorbing water like so many sponges. Then, feeling chilly—a queer contrast to our recent sensations—we began as best we could to get into our clothes. As we did so Good pointed to the port side of the canoe; it was all blistered with heat, and in places actually charred. Had it been built like our civilized boats, Good said that the planks would have certainly warped and let in enough water to sink us; but fortunately it was dug out of the soft, willowy wood of a single great tree, and had sides nearly three inches and a bottom four inches thick. What that awful flame was we never discovered; but I suppose that there was at this spot a crack or hole in the bed of the river through which a vast volume of gas forced its way from its volcanic home in the bowels of the earth towards the upper air. How it first became ignited it is, of course, impossible to say—probably, I should think, from some spontaneous explosion of mephitic gases.

To be Continued.

A member of Parliament is said lately to have risen in his place and solemnly declared, "Mr. Speaker, I cannot sit here and keep silent, without rising and saying a few words." This is equal to a famous speech once made in the United States Senate. "Mr. Speaker, I smell a rat. I see him brewing in the air. But mark my words, I shall yet nip him in the bud."

A STAB IN THE DARK

Sometimes fails of its murderous intent. The insidious and dastardly attacks made upon the reputation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters by persons who seek to palm off cheap and fiery tonics as identical with it, or "the same thing under another name," or "equally as good," in most instances react disastrously upon the unprincipled traders upon popular credulity who attempt them, converting their speculations into ruinous failures. The Bitters is a pure, wholesome and thorough medicine, adapted to the total cure and prevention of fever and ague, bilious remittent, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, debility, nervousness and kidney troubles. Its every ingredient, unlike those in the imitations of it, is of ascertained standard of excellence, and while they, by reason of their fiery properties, react injuriously upon the brain and nervous system, of both those organs it is a sedative and invigorant. Refuse all these harmful imitations.

Miss Gushington—I think Mr. Shapely is a perfect Apollo! Mr. Sincerley—He would be if his tailors replevied all his clothes he has'nt paid for.

THE FLYING DOVE OF PEACE.

A richly frosted quivering, flying Dove. A Dream of Life screen calendar. An imported ideal head. An imported frosted snow scene and a full set of magnificent floral cards. Fourteen artistic pieces. Sent to anyone who will buy from a druggist a box of the genuine DR. C. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS (price, 25 cts.) and mail us the outside wrapper from the box with 4 cents in stamps. Write your address plainly. FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

Hangings for drawing-rooms are being tabooed in select Western decorative circles. The vigilance committees bring in too much mud on their feet.

An ugly complexion made Nellie a fright,
Her face was all pimply and red,
Though her features were good, and her blue eyes were bright,
"What a plain girl is Nellie"! they said.

But now, as my magic, plain Nellie has grown
As fair as an artist's bright dream;
Her face is as sweet as a flower new-blown,
Her cheeks are like peaches and cream.

As Nellie walks out in the fair morning light,
Her beauty attracts every eye,
And as for the people who called her a fright,
"Why, Nellie is handsome"; they cry.

And the reason of the change is that Nellie took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which regulated her liver, cleared her complexion, made her blood pure, her breath sweet, her face fair and rosy, and removed the defects that had obscured her beauty. Sold by druggists.

A contemporary has an article on "Wildcat Insurance Companies." Who, for mercy's sake, wants to insure wild-cats?

IF SUFFERERS FROM CONSUMPTION,

Scrofula, Bronchitis and General Debility will try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, they will find immediate relief and permanent benefit. The Medical Profession universally declare it a remedy of the greatest value and very palatable. Read: "I have used Scott's Emulsion in several cases of Scrofula and Debility in Children Results most gratifying. My little patients take it with pleasure."—W. A. HULBERT, M.D., Salisbury, Ill.

"There's no politics in heaven," says a preacher. No; the fellow who wanted to be a boss was kicked out a long time ago.

Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets Possesses Powerful Potency, Pass Painlessly, Promote Physical Prosperity.

Now comes another Shakespearean crank who say that the bard must have been a broker, because he has furnished so many stock quotations.

Any gritty tooth powder must injure the ename of the teeth. By using RUBIFOAM, a liquid substitute for tooth powder, you can avoid this. Try it. Large bottles 25 cents.

R. H. McDonald PRES'T. F. V. McDonald, CASHIER.
ESTABLISHED 1863.
Oldest Chartered Bank on the Pacific Coast.
PACIFIC BANK
Capital Stock $1,000,000.00.
SURPLUS $ 650,000.00.
AV. RESOURCES $ 4,356,175.94.

Returning thanks for past favors, we respectfully ask a continuance of the same and solicit accounts of Individuals, Firms and Corporations.

R. H. McDONALD, Pres't.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 1st, 1888.

STRICTLY PRIVATE Home in Confinement. Address M. L., 224 Sixth Street, San Francisco, California.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

FULL WEIGHT PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and Most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime, or Alum. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

The OLDEST MEDICINE in the WORLD is probably Dr. Issac Thompson's CELEBRATED EYE WATER

This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century, and notwithstanding the many other preparations that have been introduced into the market, the sale of this article is constantly increasing. If the directions are followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits.

John L. Thompson, Sons & Co., TROY N. Y.

ELY'S CATARRH CREAM BALM

Cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Pain and Inflammation. Heals the Sores. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell.

TRY THE CURE. HAY-FEVER

ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES CATARRH COLD IN HEAD ROSE-COLD HAY-FEVER DEAFNESS HEADACHE PRICE 50 CENTS EASY TO USE ELY BROS. OWEGO U.S.A.

A particle is applied into each nostril, and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York.

WATER METERS —OF THE— WORTHINGTON PATTERN.

—Made by—

SAN FRANCISCO TOOL CO.,

Works: First and Stevenson Sts.,

SAN FRANCISCO.

Send for Prices and Catalogue.

Four Carloads of Rushford Tubular

STEEL AXLE & STEEL SKEIN WAGONS

Have arrived via Canadian Pacific Railroad, and we are now able to fill back orders for these celebrated Wagons. It will pay all intending purchasers to examine our Tubular Steel Axle, which is warranted against breaking or bending under any weight. All sizes RANCH & FREIGHTING WAGONS in stock.

BULL & GRANT

FARM IMPLEMENT COMPANY,

14 and 16 Main St., S. F.

Send for Catalogue and Price List.

Paine's Celery Compound

For The NERVOUS
The DEBILITATED
The AGED.

A NERVE TONIC.
Celery and Coca, the prominent ingredients, are the best and safest Nerve Tonic. It strengthens and quiets the nervous system, curing Nervous Weakness, Hysteria, Sleeplessness, &c.

AN ALTERATIVE.
It drives out the poisonous humors of the blood purifying and enriching it, and so overcoming those diseases resulting from impure or impoverished blood.

A LAXATIVE.
Acting mildly but surely on the bowels it cures habitual constipation, and promotes a regular habit. It strengthens the stomach, and aids digestion.

A DIURETIC.
In its composition the best and most active diuretics of the Materia Medica are combined scientifically with other effective remedies for diseases of the kidneys. It can be relied on to give quick relief and speedy cure.

Hundreds of testimonials have been received from persons who have used this remedy with remarkable benefit. Send for circulars, giving full particulars.

Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., Prop'r
BURLINGTON, VT.

ARM & HAMMER BRAND

To Housekeepers and Farmers.—It is important that the Soda or Saleratus you use should be White and Pure same as all similar substances used for food. To insure obtaining only the "Arm & Hammer" brand Soda or Saleratus, buy it in "pound or half pound" cartoons, which bear our name and trade-mark, as inferior goods are sometimes substituted for the "Arm & Hammer" brand when bought in bulk. Parties using Baking Powder should remember that its sole rising property consists of bicarbonate of soda. One teaspoonful of the "Arm & Hammer" brand of Soda or Saleratus mixed with sour milk equals four teaspoonfuls of the best Baking Powder, saving twenty times its cost, besides being much healthier, because it does not contain any injurious substances, such as alum, terra alba etc., of which many Baking Powders are made. Dairymen and Farmers should use only the "Arm & Hammer" brand for cleaning and keeping Milk Pans Sweet and Clean.

OUR TRADE MARK

CHURCH & CO'S SODA

ON EVERY PACKAGE.

CAUTION. See that every pound package of "Arm and Hammer Brand" contains full 16 ounces net, and the ¾ pound packages full 12 ounces net, Soda or Saleratus same as specified on each package.

Packed in Card Board Boxes. Always keeps Soft.

SODA OR SALERATUS

[COPYRIGHT, 1887.]

The only medicine for woman's peculiar ailments, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded, is DR. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrappers, and faithfully carried out for many years.

THE OUTGROWTH OF A VAST EXPERIENCE.

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.

A BOON TO WOMEN. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar diseases.

A POWERFUL TONIC. As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the uterus, or womb and its appendages, in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic. It promotes digestion and assimilation of food, cures nausea, weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating and eructations of gas.

A SOOTHING NERVINE. As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system.

A MOTHER'S CORDIAL. In pregnancy, "Favorite Prescription" is a "mother's cordial," relieving nausea, weakness of stomach and other distressing symptoms common to that condition. If its use is kept up in the latter months of gestation, it so prepares the system for delivery as to greatly lessen, and many times almost entirely do away with the sufferings of that trying ordeal.

CURES THE WORST CASES. "Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, or "whites," excessive flowing at monthly periods, painful menstruation, unnatural suppression, prolapsus or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation, and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovarics, accompanied with "internal heat."

FOR THE KIDNEYS. "Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.

TREATING THE WRONG DISEASE.

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion, or prostration, another with pain here or there, and in this they all present alike to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent, or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct disease he prescribes his pills and potions, assuming them to be such, when, in reality, they are all only symptoms caused by disorder. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages his practice until large bills are made. The patient gets no better, but probably worse by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complication medicine, like DR. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION, directed to the cause, would have entirely removed the disease, expelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery.

3 PHYSICIANS FAILED. Mrs. E. F. MORGAN, of No. 71 Lexington St., East Boston, Mass., says: "Five years ago I was a dreadful sufferer from uterine troubles. Having exhausted the skill of three physicians, I was completely discouraged, and so weak I could with difficulty cross the room alone. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and using the local treatment recommended in his 'Common Sense Medical Adviser.' I commenced to improve at once. In three months I was perfectly cured, and have had no trouble since. I wrote a letter to my family paper, briefly mentioning how my health had been restored, and offering to send the full particulars to any one writing me for them, and enclosing a stamped-envelope for reply. I have received over four hundred letters. In reply, I have described my case and the treatment used, and have earnestly advised them to 'do likewise.' From a great many I have received second letters of thanks, stating that they had commenced the use of 'Favorite Prescription,' had sent the $1.50 required for the 'Medical Adviser,' and had applied the local treatment so fully and plainly laid down therein, and were much better already."

A VOICE FROM CALIFORNIA. Mrs. ED. M. ... fornia, writes: "... my life ... have had none of these ... I could not walk two ... before I had taken ... could walk all ... troubles seem ... your medicine ... physicians ... for ... Lady ... troubles ...

Retroverted Womb.—Mrs. EVA KOHLER, of Crab Orchard, Neb., writes: "Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done a great deal of good. I suffered from retroversion of the ... for which I took two bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription.' I am now feeling like a different woman."

Doctors Failed.—Mrs. F. CORY ... writes: "I doctored with three ... these parts, and I grew worse ... using your 'Favorite Prescription' ... and two of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' ... bottles of the 'Purgative Pellets.' ... walk all I care to, and am in ... be in this world again. I ...

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY, ..... JULY 14 1888.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 5. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., JULY 14, 1888. WHOLE NO. 924.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 20 |

DRUG-STORE SECRETS.

Why Dispensers of Medicine Must Be Exceedingly Careful.

There are many peculiarities in the retail drug trade which compel the drug clerk to be exceedingly careful in handling the right medicines before the customer. If a clerk happens to take the wrong bottle on the shelf and replaces it to get the right one, the customer's confidence is immediately shaken, for it is imagined that the clerk is either careless or is not familiar with the pharmacopœia. I can almost invariably detect an expression of distrust on a lady's face if such an error occurs, for women are more keenly sensitive on this point. The customer will brook no inadvertency on the part of a drug clerk. A dry goods clerk could make a slight mistake as to the figure in a piece of dress goods or a grocery clerk could sell a brand of soap other than that called for and no serious results would follow; but it would not do for a drug clerk to dispense morphine when quinine is prescribed, although the two drugs have almost the same appearence. You see, a customer's life is involved in the accuracy of a drug clerk's knowledge sometimes, but no such responsibility rests upon a clerk in a dry goods or grocery store. In order to avoid errors in dispensing poisons, an ingenious inventor a few years ago constructed a patent shelf upon which all the bottles containing poisons were to be placed. It is made of two metallic plates, held apart by a spring, and so evenly balanced that when one bottle is taken off the equilibrium is destroyed and the plates come together, which creates an electric current, and an alarm bell is rung. Thus, if a clerk would take a bottle of poison, the alarm would attract his attention and warn him of the dangerous drug. This was called the "poison bell." They were introduced into drug stores all over the country, but they never became popular on account of a peculiar trait in all customers. When the alarm rung, the customer would ask, "What does that mean?" and when told it was the poison bell," the innovation was never forgotten, and ever afterward the customer would feel rather chary about taking the prescription when he heard the warning notes of the "poison bell." In this way it would not be a great while until nearly all the customers found out the meaning of the alarm. As many people have a superstitious fear about taking medicine with poison in it, they would imagine that possibly the doctor or the prescription clerk was making a mistake, and they would hesitate in accepting the medicine. Poisons are used in small amounts in a vast number of prescriptions, and the "poison bell" was kept busy in attracting the painful attention of customers. Why, a nervous lady would come in with a harmless prescription, but the moment the "poison bell" rung she would be as disconcerned as if its tones were her death knell. Hence, the "poison bell" fell into disuse, as it was continually arousing the apprehensions of customers. One other superstition, I might say, that customers have is the prevailing idea that medicines of a green color are poison. Several harmless compounds will produce a green color, but customers are invariably suspicious of them.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE FLOW OF SAP.

A Mystery to Which Science Has Not Yet Offered a Key.

Unquestionably the flow of the sap in trees is yet involved in obscurity. The maple sugar collector will tell you unhesitatingly that the sap he collects comes down the trunk. Mr. Timothy Wheeler, of Waterbury Center, Vt., has recently published a series of very interesting observations. He took a main root spreading horizontally, bored two holes a foot apart, set in two short tubes and the result was that sap flowed freely out from both. Then he sawed the root apart between the tubes. The flow instantly ceased from the lower tube, while continuing as freely from the upper one. Hence he assumes that the sap flows down the trunk, and not up from the roots. Again he bores two holes, one four inches above the other in the trunk of the maple tree, and fills the upper with salt. In just one hour the salt was tasted in the flow from the lower conduit. In no case could any salty flavor be ascertained in a bore over a salt deposit. Again he assumes that the sap flows down and not up from the roots. The facts must be true, yet we know that all the moisture in the structure of the tree must come up from the roots, and that at the very time that the sap is flowing down as described, more from the roots must be coming up somehow to take the place of that depleted by the sugar-making operations. Much more sap is often taken from a tree than it can possibly contain at one time, which is absolute proof that tn some way sap is going up as the other is coming down. Mr. Wheeler's facts only show that science has not yet furnished the key to the whole mystery.—N. Y. Independent.

—A disbeliever in the theory of evolution puts the following scientific conundrum to the Darwinians: "Seeing that the hair and whiskers of mankind are as different from the hair and whiskers of the anthropoid apes (from whom man is said to have been evolved) as the fur and whiskers of a cat are different from the bristles of a pig, or the wool of a sheep from the hair of a goat, how did the change in the essence and substance of the hair and whiskers come about?" A Darwinian replies that "the 'change' came about by the processes of evolution carried on through countless ages in the laboratories and forges of Nature, so to speak."

RED-SKIN JUSTICE.

A Long-Drawn Hanging and the Cowardly Carving of a Squaw.

"By the way," said the old-timer to the reporter, looking up from his morning paper, "I see they have sent officers out to Fort Yuma to arrest an Indian there for killing one of his companions. That reminds me of a case that happened here way back in the sixties. In those days the white people didn't care much about how the Indians acted, and we let them fight their own battles. One day a party of Coahuilas came in with one of their number named Coche (he was fat, like a pig, and that was the way he got his name). They took him to the court house and wanted him tried and punished for killing another Indian. But as no white man had seen or knew any thing about the matter, the officers refused to take charge of Mr. Coche, and told the Indians they would have to settle the affair the best way they could. Well, they took Coche down to Squaw Flat, near Warm Creek, and had a big powwow over him. He was found guilty of murder and sentenced to be hanged. The sentence was to be carried out at once. They didn't believe in giving Coche any chance to get off or to appeal to the Supreme Court.

"The court had been held under the shade of some cottonwood trees, and when the trial was over the Indians took a rawhide riata and proceeded to hang Mr. Coche in not the most approved fashion. They hauled him up to a cottonwood limb, held him a few moments, and then let him down again. A lot of boys (for I was only a boy then) gathered around to see the fun, and a great sight it was, too. Coche really seemed to rather like the thing. They would haul away on the riata and hang him up and then let him down. Between times Coche asked for cigarettes, and he smoked them with as much relish as if he was at a siesta instead of taking part in his own execution.

"Well, don't you know, those confounded Indians kept this up the whole forenoon, first hanging and then letting Coche down. He would grin and chaff his companions, and on the whole didn't seem to have a bad sort of a time. But along towards noon the Indians got a little tired of the fun, and I reckon Coche did, too, so they gave a final haul on the riata, and then made the end fast to a tree and let the poor devil strangle to death.

"I tell you what, I just wish that woman that wrote 'Ramona' could have seen that hanging. I reckon she wouldn't have thought quite so much of her Indian pets after that; and there was another thing I wish she could have seen, too. Why, come to think, it isn't more than about a dozen years since these nice, peaceable, inoffensive, copper-colored sons of guns tried to cut a squaw all to pieces down there on the flat. They drove four stakes in the ground, stripped the squaw and tied her hands and feet, one to each stake, spread-eagle fashion. They then took their knives and began to mark out grid-irons and such like things on her back. Holler! You just bet she hollered. Why, the people up in town heard it, and they ran down and found the squaw bleeding like a pig, and what do you suppose the matter was? Well, the woman had earned four bits somehow or other and didn't give the money to her buck. That was all. How she earned it the buck didn't care. All that he was mad about was that she didn't give it to him to buy whisky. Oh, I could go on and tell you a lot more about those miserable, worthless curs. But I just wish that woman writer could have seen some of the things I have—that's all."—San Bernardino Times.

ENTERTAINING FRIENDS.

How It Can Be Done at a Small Outlay of Care and Cash.

For a hostess who does not care to undertake the responsibility of dinner-giving, simple teas form a pleasant mode of entertainment. All that is necessary can be provided at a small outlay of care and cost. Tea or coffee and chocolate are the beverages; thin bread and butter, rolled or cut into tiny, three-cornered sandwiches, or, if these consume too much time in the preparation, larger rolls will answer the purpose. Besides these, nothing is essential but an assortment of light cakes that may be either of home manufacture or purchased at a confectioner's, as one may choose. Two married ladies may be requested to preside over the tea-pot and the coffee-urn, and half a dozen young girls invited to assist in the waiting. With these provisions and a pleasant selection of guests, the successs of the tea should be assured. Naturally a good deal depends upon the people who are present. Judgment is required that in issuing the invitations the wrong people are not asked to meet one another, and the same tact should be shown by the hostess in introducing her friends. All the work is not done when the guests are invited and the refreshments spread. The host and hostess must be constantly on the alert to see that people are not bored; that one man is not obliged to talk to the same girl all the evening, and that there are no unattended wall-flowers.—Farm and Fireside.

Mother Earth at Her Best.

"What a glorious season of the year the gladsome springtime is, Mr. Frankfurt!" said Miss Overtheline of Cincinnati, as the twain seated themselves in a Vine street restaurant. "The pure, invigorating air, the singing birds, the fragrance of flowers, and (to waiter) bock beer, all tell us so eloquently that spring indeed is here!"—New York Sun.

HUMAN SACRIFICES.

Savage and Shocking Customs Still in Vogue in West Africa.

It is in West Africa that the personal "customs" still survive in all their horror. Again and again an English trader or traveler has had to look on these "customs," but the horrors were never fully described until 1873, when the German missionaries, Bounat, Kuehne and Ramseyer, were prisoners in Coomassie at the time of the native Crown Prince's death. As soon as he was seen to be dying, the executioners began to scour the streets for victims. When they caught any one, two of them would come behind, and each thrust a knife through the cheek, the blades passing over the tongue, and a handle sticking out on each side. This is to prevent the poor creature from "swearing on the life of the King"—that is, swearing that if he dies, the King must die, too—in which case, instead of being killed, he would not only be spared, but ranked among the "okra" courtiers whose life depends on that of the King, and who—killed when he dies—hold till his death places of trust and honor.

Besides those thus caught, every great chief had to offer a victim; but the number was chiefly made up of slaves and prisoners of war. The wives—painted white and covered with gold ornaments—sat around the coffin, flapping off the flies. They were strangled at the funeral. So were six pages, who, similarly painted and adorned, sat by the dead man. They had known their fate some days before, but none ran away save three wives of low birth, whose places were at once supplied by other girls. For nine days the slaughter went on, the people fasting, with shaven heads and bodies painted red, but drinking all the more. And this death wake was to be repeated forty days after.

When a King dies the victims are slain at the rate of 200 a week for three months. But there have been "greater customs" than these. A King's mother died in 1816; her son slaughtered 3,000 people, 2,000 being prisoners just captured from the Fantis. To make up the tale, every big Ashantee town had to give 100, every smaller town ten victims.

A royal burial is on this wise: At the bottom of a huge grave are laid the heads of the slain; on them the coffin rests. Then, just before the earth is thrown in, one of the bystanders—a freeman, if of some rank so much the better—is suddenly clubbed, a gash made in the back of his neck, and he is rolled in upon the coffin. The idea is to send along with the crowd of slaves and prisoners some one who shall look after them as a ghostly "major domo."

For a King there remains yet another "custom." At the end of thirty moons the grave is opened, the royal bones fastened together with gold wire and the skeleton placed in a long building divided into cells, the doorways to which are hung with silk curtains.

Then on his birthday the King of Ashantee goes early to the house of the royal dead. Every skeleton is taken from its richly ornamented coffin, where it has lain surrounded by the things which had been most pleasing to it in life, and is placed on a chair to welcome the visitor. As the King enters each cell with a meat and drink offering to the departed, the band plays the favorite melodies of that particular King, and, unawares, the royal visitor signs to the executioners who have followed him, and an attendant is pierced through the cheeks and killed, the King washing the skeleton in the warm blood. The same work goes on at the next cell, and so on, the fearful work going on far into the night. The band plays a signal as each victim is slaughtered. Two blasts of the horn mean "death, death;" three drum taps, "cut it off;" one beat from a big drum, "the head has fallen." The signal is taken up by other bands, and all through the city horn-blowing and drum-beating goes on unceasingly. The Ashantees always say of a drum, "it speaks," and every traveler admits that they manage to elicit from that unmanageable instrument a most varied range of sound. The sounds form words, the whole rhythm a sentence, readily understood by native listeners. Each chief has his own "call," just as each Highland clan had its own battle tune. Of course this constant killing makes the people callous to suffering and brutal to their prisoners. Their feeling in regard to death is not courage but apathy. The spectators are as delighted at these revolting "customs" as the Roman populace was at the gladiators' show. Now and then a victim is tortured. The missionaries watched one who, besides the knives through his cheeks, had a couple of forks thrust into his back. He was then dragged before the King, gashed all over the body, his arms cut off, and in this plight compelled to dance for the amusement of the royal savage.—All the Year Round.

—In putting up trellises for grapevines, wire is much better for stringers than boards or slats often used. Wire costs less, is stronger, and besides can be easily grasped by tendrils of the young shoots. The trellis also in winter is less likely to be racked by winds, as the wire offers little obstruction.

—A worn-out society belle is like old maple sugar. It has a certain kind of sweetness, but has to be laid on the shelf when the new crop comes out.—N. O. Picayune.

—In the summer when other people are indulging in outings, the base-ball man is compelled to devote his time and attention to innings.

BANK OF ENGLAND.

Something About the "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street."

A recent criminal trial in London, England, in which the conversion of a New York draft into Bank of England notes formed a perfecting link in the chain of evidence by which the prisoners were convicted, suggests a brief description of the bank's methods with regard to its issue.

The paper of which the notes are printed is made by a private factory in Yorkshire under strictly guarded conditions, and with the water-mark which is so conspicuous a feature. It is of silvery white and so strong that it will sustain fifty pounds weight when suspended at the corners. The printing is performed at the bank in Threadneedle street, including the signature of the nominal maker of the draft. The drafts or notes used formerly to be signed by assistant cashiers, but the issue eventually became too large to admit of a sign manual being issued, so printing was substituted.

Each individual note as soon as issued has its number, letter, date and denomination placed to its debit in a ledger account, the per contra being filled on the return of the note, perhaps the next day, perhaps in fifty years' time. Some years ago a lot of £1 notes issued in the middle of the last century were handed in for payment. A reference to the ledger of that date showed the credit side of the note account, with corresponding numbers, to be open, so the drafts were duly honored.

The lowest denomination now issued is of £5, the highest £10,000. A notable feature of the Bank of England note when compared with that of other issues and countries, is its crispness and clearness. The simplicity of design and clearness of lettering and figuring are also very conspicuous. The reason why we never find tattered and foul Bank of England bills or bank notes, as the Englishman prefers to call them, arises from the custom of the bank never to issue one of its notes a second time. This rule is so scrupulously observed that should a thousand notes of £5 each, issued in the morning in exchange for gold at the issue department, come into the hands of the banking department as a customer's deposit in the afternoon, possibly without having been untied, they would be immediately canceled. This cancellation is performed by tearing off the signature corner of each note, the number and date first being recorded by the receiving clerk in his counter cash-book.

The mutilated bills at the banking department are collected at short intervals by a clerk from the accountant's department, where they are sorted into their respective denominations and placed to their individual ledger credits. They are then stored, and after ten years' interval consigned to the flames.

The detection of a forged bank note is almost inevitable under this system. Simply to imitate the paper is difficult, the difference in the best imitation being readily perceptible to a practiced touch. To counterfeit the printing is almost impossible, owing to the absence of complexity to confuse the eye, and a third reliance for the paying teller as he rapidly scans the notes before shoveling out the gold in exchange is a peculiarity in the formation of certain letters, known only to the initiated.

Should a forgery slip through these guards, the numbers and date and denomination must all correspond with the ledger entry, and should all these agree the chances are that the legitimate note will have already fill up the blank.

The "Old Lady of Threadneedle street," as the Londoner lovingly calls the institution, which, next to his Queen, he most deeply reveres, is very liberal when dealing with cases of notes destroyed or mutilated. The secretary's office attends to those matters, and there may be seen daily remnants of notes which have undergone every conceivable ordeal short of absolute destruction.

Little pulpy masses which have passed through the digestive apparatus of dogs and children, half burned pieces that have unwittingly done duty as cigar lighters, remnants of every kind of which enough is left to indicate in the faintest degree the original worth—all receive full consideration, and the owners lose nothing. Even total destruction, when fully proved, is no bar to indemnification when good security against possible mistake is given—Financier.

Preaching Under Difficulties.

A curious case of the pursuit of preaching under difficulties came under my notice. In a church in the remote districts of the West of England a swarm of bees had taken up their quarters in the oaken woodwork at the back of the pulpit, to the dismay and discomfort of the weekly occupant of that structure. During the discharge of his peculiar function he was not only annoyed by the busy sullen roar of the hive, but his fear of arousing their animosity by the loud challenge of his tones, or the vibration of the pulpit, was stimulated by the light skirmishers which used to come out and perform all sorts of minatory manuvers within measurable distance of his nose. The annoyance at length became intolerable, and orders were given to smoke out the bees. This was effectually done; but, unfortunately, the clerk in smoking out the bees set fire to the church, and it was burned to the ground.—Chambers' Journal.

—It is a spring proverb "that a field well plowed, is a crop half made."

THE NOBEL FAMILY.

Remarkable Record of the Inventor of Dynamite and His Brother.

The world has lost one of its greatest experimental chemists by the death of Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite, and the man who made the wide use of nitro-glycerine practicable. The new explosive that Sombrero discovered in Paris forty-one years ago, by treating glycerine with sulphuric and nitric acid, was never practically applied until after years of experimenting. Nobel succeeded in producing nitro-glycerine in a form that admitted of comparatively safe handling.

The knowledge of which Nobel's long investigations were the fruit was not obtained without the sacrifice of some human lives. Among the victims of the terrible explosive he perfected was one of his brothers. Nobel was a Swede, and in the quarries of that country he first demonstrated the efficacy of nitro-glycerine in its improved form. It was not long, however, before the use of nitro-glycerine for blasting purposes was superseded by Nobel's latter discovery of dynamite, which is now generally regarded as the safest as well as one of the most powerful of explosives.

Few families of the present day have made so remarkable a record as that of the Nobels. The father, who was in humble circumstances, won a comfortable fortune at one stroke by a torpedo patent which he sold to the Russian Government. The brothers Ludwig and Albert created the present great petroleum industry of Baku. They substituted pipe lines for ox-wagons for the delivery of oil at the refineries; doubled the yield of oil by improved methods of boring; invented the system of carrying petroleum in bulk in cistern steamers, which they found far more economical than the transport of oil in barrels, and developed methods for the cheap transportation of their product far and wide in Europe. While their brother Alfred became a great manufacturer of explosives, they have for years produced more refined petroleum than all the other European oil companies combined. A cable dispatch the other day reported that the project of piping petroleum from the Caspian to the Black Sea, which originated with the Nobel brothers, is about to be carried out.—N. Y. Sun.

THE ERA OF DIVORCE.

Want of Mutual Forbearance Is Much to Blame in Many Cases.

In Continental Europe a divorced woman usually fetches up in a convent. Hamlet advises Ophelia to betake herself to that refuge for the distressed, and probably more peace of mind can be secured for a desolate heart within the peaceful precincts of the cloister, far from the busy din of society, than the haunts of the world could afford. But we imagine that few young brides propose when they throw off the orange blossoms to substitute the vail which means a lifelong seclusion. They merely study their case in view of its present surroundings. They declare that they can not endure a union which is hateful, and so, with no thought in their minds, but a yearning for separation and freedom, they take the leap madly, and a good many of them find they have hopped out of the frying-pan into the fire.

We read constantly that men are not marrying as they used; that matrimony is so expensive that young men can not afford it, and our sympathies are invited for the old maids who threaten to crowd our social halls inconveniently. But perhaps, if the truth were known, there are rather too many marriages than too few. Certainly the fact that in the city of Chicago there is one divorce for every thirteen marriages would seem to imply that the number of improvident marriages contracted there is too large, and probably the proportion of divorces to marriages is quite as large here as there. It is not a wholesome indication that the divorce calendar should be so long.

It implies want of mutual forbearance and reciprocal consideration on the part of young married people. It means that they are not reasonably tolerant of each other's defects and weaknesses. Possibly if many ladies who apply for divorces realized it exactly they would be less impatient with their husbands; and if men appreciated the total wreck which in a majority of cases follows the issue of a decree of divorce, they, too, might forebear more and give less cause for irritation and broils.—Toledo Blade.

—Oatmeal Cakes.—Into a quart of cold water stir oatmeal enough to make it about as thick as hasty pudding. Be sure that the meal is sprinkled in so slowly, and that the stirring is so active, that the mush will have no lumps in it. Now put it on a tin pan, where it can spread out to half the thickness of a common cracker, and smooth it down with a case-knife. Run a sharp knife across it so as to divide it into the sized pieces you wish, and then place it in a warm oven and bake slowly, being careful, however, not to brown it. A little butter or suet rubbed over the tin pan before spreading the mush, will prevent sticking. When it is done eat as you would bread. You have one of the most delicious articles of food ever eaten; besides, it will keep for some time. These oatmeal cakes constitute an admirable food, delicious and nutritious.

—"Economy is wealth," but the most economical person yet heard of is a shoe dealer in a small town in M——, who stops his clock when he closes his store at night in order to save time.—Boston Budget.

GEORGIA HONEY BEES.

How They Have Assured the Prosperity of Their Lucky Owner.

After dinner at Mr. Mitchell's we were sitting on his front piazza, smoking, and I discovered some bees going in and out of a knot in one of the large oak trees in front of his dwelling. This tree is known to be over a hundred years old. I learned that several years ago a swarm of bees assembled in that tree as their new home, and they have worked and lived there ever since. After they had been there for three years the colony became very large and strong, and no attempt had ever been made to rob them of their honey. At last Mr. Mitchell came to the conclusion that the tree must be full of honey, from seeing large numbers of flies and bees around the root of the tree; so he set to work to devise some means to get the honey without cutting the tree down. After applying all the tests known to bee men, he satisfied himself that the tree was full, and then decided to tap it like a fellow is tapped for dropsy. So he got him a faucet and an augur and bored a hole in the tree near the root and then screwed in the faucet and to his surprise and get delight a solid stream of pure and elegant honey as clear as crystal gushed forth, and the supply seemed almost inexhaustible. It continued to pour out until he had filled six barrels; and he has drawn each year since that time from three to four barrels of pure strained honey from that old oak tree, and up to this there seems to be no signs of a failure of the supply, as the bees are still a very very strong and healthy colony.

The same year that Mr. Mitchell tapped the old oak tree there was a new thick growth sprung up around the old oak of an unusual appearance, having a smooth bark and thick, waxy leaves. One day he pulled off one of the leaves and put it into his mouth and found it to be very sweet, and upon examining the place from which he had plucked the leaf he discovered that the plant was bleeding or emitting from the wound a clear, thick-looking juice, which, upon tasting and examination, proved to be honey. He then commenced to nurse the new volunteer growth with the tenderest care and attention, looking after them daily; and as the summer advanced the plants continued to grow, and in the fall he selected and transplanted three hundred of them in very rich soil, thirty feet apart, and they grew very rapidly, making a beautiful display with their straight, smooth trunks and their thick and glossy wax-like leaves. And the grove was seen and admired by all for miles and miles around. Mr. Mitchell's idea was that as large money was made from the sugar maple, by boiling the juice, he ought to make more from a tree that would run pure honey, and he was right. When the trees were four years old in the fall of the year they were large enough to insert faucets. So he had three hundred faucets made to order and screwed them into the young trees, and the following spring the result was as remarkable. Each tree yielded an average of ten gallons of the richest golden honey; the following year each tree yielded an average of twenty gallons, and now the average is about a barrel to each tree during the year, and the grove continues to grow and flourish and shows no signs of failing to supply a bountiful yield in the years to come. The quality of the honey is so fine and the flavor is so delicate that it always commands the highest prices, and the demand is greater than the supply.

If some of those enterprising artesian well men who are always prospecting and boring holes in our county for oil could succeed in sinking a well from which a solid stream of old mellow peach brandy would flow continuously, then, indeed, old Spalding County would be a new Mecca, and pilgrimages would be made from all over this broad country to the land which flows with "peach and honey."

But be that as it may, the uncertainty of the fruit crop, the corn crop, the wheat crop, nor the uncertainty of the price of cotton, has any terrors for Mr. Mitchell, for so long as these golden streams of sweetness continue to flow from these natural fountains, his prosperity is assured.—Griffin (Ga.) News.

"When Seen Too Oft."

FIRST BABY.

Fond young mother to proud young father—Albert, dear, did you hear the sweet, precious darling cry his dear little eyes out last night?

Proud young father—I thought I heard our angel twitter!

SECOND BABY.

She—Albert, you unfeeling wretch to hear that child screeching all night and never offer to take him.

He—Let the little demon howl!—Detroit Free Press.

—Henry G. Pearson, postmaster of New York, began his career in that office as a boy behind the stamping-counter in the old post-office on Cedar street. He never absents himself a day from his office, even Sunday finding him at his desk. He is thoroughly familiar with every detail of the business, and could fill any position in the great building. The office pays the Government a profit of $300,000 a year, and its system is considered perfect.

—"Did that man strike you with malice aforethought?" asked the prosecuting officer of a colored witness. "Did he which?" "Did he strike you with malice aforethought?" "No, sah, he didn', sah. He done hit me wuf a cleavah."—Merchant Traveler.

FINE ENGINEERING.

Clever Work Done on a Little Pacific Coast Railway.

The Aptos creek debouches here into the sea, and running up this creek seven miles to the base of grim old Loma Prieta is a railroad, built and owned by the Loma Prieta Lumber Company. This wonderful little road, hidden away in the bowels of the mountains and creeping up the Aptos gulch, is, besides being the prettiest bit of railroad scenery in California, the most remarkable feat of railroad engineering north of Peru.

Five miles of the road were built four years ago. The timber having been cut off within reach of the railroad, the company greatly desired to extend the road two miles further up in order to reach the magnificent basin of the Aptos, a wide, flat opening in the heart of the mountains, filled with some of the finest redwood timber on the coast. But there appeared to be insuperable difficulties in the way. Engineers were sent thither to explore the route, and they reported it impracticable. The grades were too steep, the gorges too narrow, and the curves too short. The company at last appealed to Mr. MacLeod, who went and looked over the ground.

"I can build it," he said, "if you back me with the money."

"You may have all the money you want," was the reply.

He went to work last June, and has just finished the road. It is a remarkable achievement. Some idea of the difficulties that had to be overcome may be gathered from a knowledge of these facts: The average grade of the new extension is 211 feet to the mile, the maximum grade being 264 feet. The maximum curvature is 24° (that is an angle of 24° in every 100 feet.) When the basin is reached (through which the road runs a mile) there are lighter grades and harder curves, there being one 26° curve, making a total angle of 97°. The grades of 211 feet are on the 24° curves, the grades of 264 feet being on the tangents.

The road crosses and recrosses the creek many times, requiring numerous trestles and bridges. On one of these bridges there is a curvature of 80° on a 50-foot span. At the high bridge, a fine piece of work, the track is seventy-five feet above the bed of the creek, and a quarter of a mile above it is "Devil's Gate," a narrow gorge occupied wholly by the creek, where the road is cut through the rock, and is only seven feet above the creek. This gorge was a difficult passage, two bridges being required in a space of 150 feet.

A queer looking locomotive, a powerful machine that carries its water on its back, is kept on this road, making daily trips. In the summer a passenger locomotive and train will run to Loma Prieta, and beyond that the queer locomotive will run to the end of the road and bring down the timber to the cut at Loma Prieta. So steep is the grade that very slow progress is made, and in coming down the brakes have to be set very hard. It is a charming ride from beginning to end. All the lumber is cut at Loma Prieta, where there is a little town and big mill. The mill has a large circular saw, with an oversaw, and they cut boards six feet wide, and have a capacity of 60,000 feet a day.

Between the upper end of the road and the base of the mountain of Loma Prieta is a ridge, and at the base of this ridge rise several creeks—the Los Gatos, at an elevation of 2,536 feet above the sea; the Soquel, 1,130 feet; the Aptos, 1,300 feet, and the Corralitos, all flowing in different directions: the Los Gatos north, the Corralitos east, the Aptos south, and the Soquel southwest. The end of the track is four miles from the base of Loma Prieta, and a town has sprung up there called Monte Vista. It is a wonderful sight—this getting out of logs and firewood. Who has seen a greased skid road up a steep mountain and oxen dragging down logs? Who has seen mules loaded with wood climbing down the steep trails? Who has seen a giant redwood, six to ten feet in diameter, felled by the axemen and come crushing down with thundering noise? It is a grand sight and one well worth seeing, and there is fishing and hunting there, too.—San Jose (Cal.) Herald.

Fourteen Mistakes of Life.

Some body has condensed the mistakes of life, and arrived at the conclusion that there are fourteen of them. Most people would say, if they told the truth, that there was no limit to the mistakes of life; that they were like the drops of the ocean or the sands on the shore in number; but it is well to be accurate. Here, then, are fourteen great mistakes: It is a great mistake to set up our own standard of right and wrong, and judge people accordingly; to measure the enjoyment of others by our own; to expect uniformity of opinion in this world; to look for judgment and experience in youth; to endeavor to mold all dispositions alike; not to yield to immaterial trifles; to look for perfection in our own actions; to worry ourselves and others with what can not be remedied; not to alleviate all that needs alleviation as far as lies in our power; not to make allowance for the infirmities of others; to cons[illegible] every thing impossible that we [illegible] perform; to believe only [illegible] finite [illegible] grasp: [illegible] ab[illegible]

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, JULY 14 ..... 1888

One of the strongest arguments made in Ireland in favor of home rule is, that with an Irish Legislature it would be possible to restore and protect the industries of Ireland. Ireland had once a large and prosperous business in the manufacture of woolen goods; but the English Parliament abolished the tariff by which that business was protected and the business was ruined. Other industries shared the same fate. Now the Irish people would be glad to have a chance to re-establish the tariff duties and restore their manufactures. This is why Chamberlain and other English manufacturers so strongly oppose Irish home rule in Parliament.

In a speech recently delivered in Congress by General Vandever, of this District, he charged that gross wrong had been done in the Land Office at Visalia. Thousands of acres had been entered under the Desert Land Act that was not desert land at all, but rich agricultural land, now worth one thousand dollars per acre. The lands were located by "dummies" and were then transferred to the present owners. General Vandever said: "I mention this as one circumstance of many tending to show that this whole public land system to day requires thorough investigation. Some method of reform needs to be applied by which the settler shall be protected. The system was designed for the benefit of honest settlers upon the public lands; yet a few men—not exceeding four or five—in that portion of California hold under their control to day some 300,000 or 400,000 acres, located under the Desert Land Act; and no relief can be obtained by any appeal to the General Land Office or the Interior Department."

One hundred and two famous authors find place in the fifth valume of the "Cyclopedia of Universal Literature." The list is headed with Mary Cowden Clarke, of England, living, and closes with Cyprian, of Carthage, 200–257. Between these appear the names of not less than thirty-two American authors, which shows the great importance of the work in this respect. French literature is represented by Cousin and Conte. Chinese by Confucius. Italian by Collonna, and thus the whole world is brought under tribute. The plan of the work is certainly original, and excellent judgment has been shown both in the choice of authors and subjects. When complete the student and general reader will have a complete Cyclopedia of all that is valuable in the whole range of literature. The form in which it is issued is as superior as it is unique, the volumes are handy, the type all that can be desired, and the binding is in the very best taste. Perhaps the most remarkable feature about the work is its low cost—50 cents for cloth, or 60 cents for half Morocco bound volumes of 500 pages each, and even from these prices large reduction is made to early purchasers. The publisher's descriptive catalogue of standard and popular works is sent free to any applicant. Address, John B. Alden, Publisher, 393 Pearl street, New York, or 216 Clark street, Chicago.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms to the use of patrons, in every respect a
FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

IRWIN'S SALOON
Cor. Edwards and Market Streets.
Independence . Cal.
THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnished in a style second to no one on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.
THE BAR
Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.
JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

ADVERTISERS should ... ROWELL & CO., ...

SECOND

ANNUAL FAIR OF Agricultural District No. 18.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Composed Of the Counties of

ALPINE, MONO & INYO.

TO BE HELD AT

Independence

Commencing Monday, September 17th, and Continuing Five Days.

A. R. CONKLIN.....President.
C. MULHOLLAND.....Secretary.
O. I. MAIRS.....Treasurer.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

A. R. CONKLIN, NATHAN RHINE,
WM. WALKER, W. S. ENOS,
W. K. MILLER, HARVEY BOONE,
J. S. GORMAN, JOHN SHEPHERD.

First Department.

In this department the same animals shall not be entered more than once, except in saw epsiaks or as a member of a family exhibited with its sire or dam. Any stallion, mare, gelding or colt competing in a race will not be excluded from competing premiums in their respective classes.

CLASS I.
THOROUGHBRED HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion | $20 00 |
| Second best stallion | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
STANDARD TROTTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Stallion, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Stallion, 2 year old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion, 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best Colt under 1 year | 5 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 10 00 |

CLASS III.
ROADSTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Roadster, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Roadster, 2 year old | 10 00 |
| Best Roadster colt | 10 00 |

Will have to be shown to harness.

CLASS IV.
HORSES OF ALL WORK.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $20 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best colt | 5 00 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 10 00 |
| Best mare, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best mare, 1 year old | 5 00 |
| Best mare and family, not less than 10 | 20 00 |

CLASS V.
DRAFT HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $10 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 7 00 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 10 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 5 00 |
| Best matched team | 10 00 |
| Best mare and 3 colts | 10 00 |

CLASS VI.
TEAMS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best matched carriage team | 10 00 |
| Best matched buggy team | 10 00 |

CLASS VII.
SADDLE ANIMALS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best, any age | |
| Second best | |

CLASS VIII.
SWEEPSTAKES.

Best stallion any breed or age, A Association cup.
Best mare, any breed or age, A Association cup.

CLASS IX.
JACKS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Jack, 2 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best Jack 1 year old | 10 00 |

CLASS X.
MULES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best span owned by one person, 3 years or over | 10 00 |
| Best span under 3 years | 10 00 |

CLASS XI.
CATTLE—BULLS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best bull, any breed, 3 years old and upward | 20 00 |
| Best bull, one to two years old | 10 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 1 year old | 5 00 |

CLASS XII
COWS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best cow, 3 years old and upward | $15 00 |
| Best cow, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best cow and calf | 10 00 |
| Best cow and 2 calves | 15 00 |
| Best milch cow, quantity and quality of milk | 20 00 |

CLASS XIII.
SWINE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of sheep | 10 00 |

CLASS XIV.
GOATS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of Angora goats | 20 00 |

CLASS XV.
SWINE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of hogs | 10 00 |

CLASS XVI.
POULTRY ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of fowls, any age or breed | $5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best pair of bronze turkeys | 5 00 |

Second Department.

All products exhibited in this Department must have been produced in Nevada, or in California east of the Sierra Nevada mountains, and by the exhibitor

CLASS I
AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 100 pounds of flour | $5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of wheat | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of barley | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of oats | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of corn, in field | 5 00 |
| Best 50 pounds of alfalfa seed | 5 00 |
| Best bale of timothy hay | 5 00 |
| Best bale of alfalfa hay | 5 00 |
| Display of Agricultural Products | 15 00 |
| Second Best | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
VEGETABLES, ROOTS, ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of sweet potatoes | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds Early rose potatoes | 2 00 |
| 100 pounds any variety of potatoes | 2 00 |
| 12 parsnips | 2 00 |
| 12 carrots | 2 00 |
| 12 pounds turnips | 2 00 |
| 12 beets | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds tomatoes, any variety | 2 00 |
| ½ doz cabbage | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds any variety onions | 2 00 |
| ½ doz squash | 2 00 |
| pumpkin | 2 00 |
| sample of red peppers | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz watermelon | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz cucumbers | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of white beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of pink beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds garden peas | 2 00 |

CLASS III.
DAIRY AND FARM PRODUCE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of butter in rolls | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best jar of butter, 20 pounds 3 months old | 10 00 |
| Single cheese any weight | 10 00 |
| 10 pounds of lard | 2 50 |
| Display of honey | 5 00 |
| Apiary display | 10 00 |
| Display of bread, all varieties | 2 50 |
| Display of cake | 2 50 |
| Variety of fruit in jars | 2 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of jellies | 5 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of preserves | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of pickles | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best Sample of hams and bacon | 10 00 |

Third Department.

CLASS I.
HORTICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of apples | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display pears | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display peaches | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display plums | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display quinces | 5 00 |
| grapes, white | 5 00 |
| " " raisin | 5 00 |
| prunes | 5 00 |
| raisins | 7 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best exhibition of dried fruits in varieties | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fourth Department.

CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of wine made in district | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fifth Department.

CLASS I.

Sixth Department.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best oil painting done in district | $7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| crayon drawing | 5 00 |
| Oil satin and Japanese panels | 5 00 |
| Collection of paintings by any Artist | 5 00 |

Seventh Department.

CLASS I

| | |
|---|---|
| Handsomest pillow shams | 2 50 |
| Best patchwork quilt | 2 50 |
| Best crochet quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest strong quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest knitted quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest side board | 2 00 |
| Neatest quilting | 2 00 |
| Best embroidered lady's dress | 2 00 |
| children's dress | 2 00 |
| ottoman cover | 2 00 |
| table cover, four corners | 2 00 |
| set of mats etc | 2 00 |
| lambrequins, pair | 2 00 |
| wall pocket or banner | 2 00 |
| silk or flannel | 2 00 |
| ottoman | 2 00 |
| Kensington, crewel work or | 2 00 |
| toilet set, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| lace work, hand made | 2 00 |
| darned net, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet shawl | 2 00 |
| hand painted table scarf | 2 00 |
| bath rug | 2 00 |
| Handsomest and best made lady's dress | 5 00 |
| best display and best work | 2 00 |
| Best display of fancy articles | 5 00 |
| display of Spanish needle work | 5 00 |
| embroidery, silk | 2 00 |
| variety of artificial flowers | 2 00 |
| hand knit stockings | 2 00 |

JUVENILES.

| | |
|---|---|
| calico dress made by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand sewing, not less than 4 pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet work by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| net work by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand made shirt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |

Eighth Department.

CLASS I

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display gold, silver and lead ores, each | $5 00 |
| Cabinet of minerals | 15 00 |
| Second best | 10 00 |

In all exhibits of animals for premiums, other things being equal blooded stock will be preferred.

All articles included in the above list—except the first department—to be on exhibition at the Pavilion on the second day and remain during the fair.

Special premiums will be offered for articles exhibited which are not included in the above List.

All entries to be made not later than 6 o'clock p. m. on the day preceding their exhibition. All stock and articles to be exhibited must be on the ground at 9:30 a. m. on the day intended for their exhibition. No animal to leave its stall between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. of the day of exhibition without permission of the Park Director. Exhibition will take place at 10 a. m. of each day and close at ½ p. m., with an intermission for lunch.

Speed Programme.

TUESDAY.

RUNNING—One mile, 3 in 5, free for all. Purse, $400.

TROTTING—Two-year-olds, to harness ½ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

WEDNESDAY.

TROTTING—Double team, mile and repeat. Purse, $100

LADIES' TOURNAMENT—The most accomplished and graceful lady rider will receive a suitable premium and there will be prizes for all who compete.

THURSDAY.

TROTTING—Stallions, best 3 in 5, mile heats. Purse, $150.

RUNNING—Saddle horses, ½ mile and repeat free for all. Purse, $50.

FRIDAY.

TROTTING—Free for all, mile, 3 in 5, to harness. Purse, $100.

LADIES TOURNAMENT—Completing Wednesday's riding.

SATURDAY.

RUNNING—Consolation purse, free for all beaten horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Three year olds, mile, 2 in 3. Purse, $75.

In all the above races three to enter and two to start. Entrance, 10 per cent of purse. All entries to be made with the Secretary by 4 p. m. of the day preceding the race. All races to be called at 2 p. m. for the first race on the day on which it takes place and the second race at 3 p. m., sharp. This rule will be strictly adhered to. Additional purses will be offered under the above conditions as horses are presented.

California State Agricultural Society rules to govern running races; National Trotting Association rules to govern trotting races.

ADMISSION:

| | |
|---|---|
| To stock ground and pavilion, each | $ 50 |
| Single Season Ticket | 2 50 |
| Membership Ticket, admitting member, wife and minor children | 5 00 |
| Life membership | 30 00 |

A. R. CONKLIN, President.
C. MULHOLLAND, Secretary.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law,
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR
A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.
All appliances and conveniences are first class.
Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

NORMAN HOUSE.
Independence, - - Cal.
New House,
New Furniture,
Low Rates.
☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests
O. I. MAIRS, Prop.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known establishment, my old patrons can be assured of finding there the best of horses, teams, Saddle Horses, and
Livery Accommodations
in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the ponder ton.
O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF.
D. E. No. 456.
UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
Jun 22 88

Notice is hereby given that John Kisport, of Independence, Inyo county, California, has filed notice of intention to make proof of his desert land claim No. 456, for the S½ of SE¼ of Sec 22 Tp 14 S R 36 E M D M, before the Register and Receiver of this office at Independence Cal. on Saturday, the 11th day of August, 1888.

He names the following witnesses to prove the complete irrigation and reclamation of said land: Frederick Albers, John Meyer, Fritz Strohmeyer, and John Alexander, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

LANDS—MINES

ANSWER TO INQUIRIES, $1.00
REPORT ON ENTERIES, CONTESTS, &c., $3.00
Procuring Land Patents, Filing Arguments, and Conducting Contests, on Moderate Terms. Send for circular to
HENRY N. COPP, ATTORNEY AT LAW, WASHINGTON, D. C.
Every Settler should have Copp's Settler's Guide, 124 pages; price only 25 cents (postage stamps).

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.
FORBES & TOBEY,
HAWTHORNE, NEV.,
—DEALERS IN—
LUMBER
OF ALL KINDS.
DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.
Matched and Dressed Flooring.
sept 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!
We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5 00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer: To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel.
Independence - - Cal
H. LEVY, Proprietor.
FIRST CLASS HOTEL
DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—
Will be found acceptable to all patrons.
Free Bus To and From The Cars
Jy 14 88

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo county Cal

IRVING J. WOODIN, M. D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)
Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
☞ NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED ☜
Office and residence at the Reddy place Independence

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.
W. E. LINDSEY,
—Dealer in—
Gravestones Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.
—Agent for—
PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.
Virginia Street, Below Second,
Reno, Nevada.
oct 22 tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free all information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed

$50 If you think of expanding fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge) what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 176 page pamphlet. Address GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work, either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888

| STATIONS. | From Mound House. No. 1 | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leaves— | Arrives— |
| Mound House | 9 15 a. m. | 5 55 p. m. |
| Layton | 9 45 a. m. | 4 55 p. m. |
| Wabuska | 10 4 a. m. | 4 23 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | 4 30 p. m. | 10 40 a. m. |
| Luning | 5 30 p. m. | 9 20 a. m. |
| Sodaville | 7 0 p. m. | 8 0 a. m. |
| Belleville | 8 10 p. m. | 7 00 a. m. |
| Candelaria | Ar. 8 50 p. m. | Lv. 6 30 a. m. |
| | No. 3 Leaves— | No. 4 Arrives— |
| Belleville | 7 3 a. m. | 5 25 p. m. |
| Benton | 11 05 a. m. | 1 45 p. m. |
| Bishop Creek | 1 10 p. m. | 11 30 a. m. |
| Averill | 2 00 p. m. | 10 45 a. m. |
| Independence | 3 30 p. m. | 9 0 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | 4 15 p. m. | 8 15 a. m. |
| Keeler | Ar. 6 05 p. m. | Lv. 7 30 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V & T R R, which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles), Bodie (37 miles), Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & co's tri-weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Belmont, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Good Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.
R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.
D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.
Shaving, Hair Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.
WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON WOOD AND GLASS
Wagons Painted.
The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by
JACOB KELLER,
Independence.
Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

TO ADVERTISERS!
For a check for $25 we will print a ten-line advertisement in One Million Issues of leading American Newspapers and complete the work within a few days. This is at the rate of only one fifth of a cent a line, for 1,000 Circulation! The advertisement will appear in but a single issue of any paper, and consequently will be placed before One Million different newspaper purchasers, or Five Million Readers. If it is true, as is sometimes stated, that every newspaper is looked at by five persons on an average. Ten lines will accommodate about 75 words. Address with copy of Adv. and check, or send 30 cents for Book of 256 pages.
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 10 SPRUCE ST., NEW YORK.
We have just issued a new edition of our Book called "Newspaper Advertising." It has 256 pages, and among its contents may be named the following Lists and Catalogues of Newspapers:—
DAILY NEWSPAPERS IN NEW YORK CITY, with their Advertising Rates.
DAILY NEWSPAPERS IN CITIES HAVING more than 150,000 population, omitting all but the best.
DAILY NEWSPAPERS IN CITIES HAVING more than 30,000 population, omitting all but the best.
A SMALL LIST OF NEWSPAPERS IN which to advertise every section of the country: being a choice selection made up with great care, guided by long experience.
ONE NEWSPAPER IN A STATE. The best one for an advertiser to use if he will use but one.
BARGAINS IN ADVERTISING IN DAILY Newspapers in many principal cities and towns, a List which offers peculiar inducements to some advertisers.
LARGEST CIRCULATIONS. A complete list of all American papers issuing regularly more than 25,000 copies.
THE BEST LIST OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS, covering every town of over 5,000 population and every important county seat.
SELECT LIST OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS, in which advertisements are inserted at half price.
5,472 VILLAGE NEWSPAPERS, in which advertisements are inserted for $42.75 a line and appear in the whole lot—one half of all the American Weeklies.
Book sent to any address for THIRTY CENTS

FRUIT TREES
All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.
—The Best Varieties Of—
Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.
Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.
Call and Look Over My Stock.
AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.
S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)
Merchant,
INDEPENDENCE
INYO CO., CAL.
Wholesale and Retail
...DEALER IN....
General Merchandise
—
MY STOCK
Consisting of most every necessary article, is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as in the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.
—
NATHAN RHINE.
n25 2m

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE
BANKER,
Independence, Cal
SELL EXCHANGE
—ON—
SAN FRANCISCO.
—
DRAW DIRECT
—ON—
NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFURT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany
—
I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT a GENERAL BANKING
—AND—
Exchange Business
—
Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.
Deutsche Zollmarken gelten richtig. Geldsendungen von ... nach Deutschland besorgt.
—
AGENT FOR
Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $55,000,000
LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - $11,000,000
NATHAN RHINE.

BLACKSMITHING,
Horseshoeing, General Iron
—AND—
WAGON WORK.
PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP
C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.
Horseshoeing.....$2 50 for Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, JULY 14 ..... 1883

Mr. G. Sanger, of Alvord was in town some days this week.

A. K. Eugley is agent for the INYO INDEPENDENT at Big Pine.

Hotels filled to overflowing all the week with jurors called in the Elliott case.

The Prohibitionists of Los Angeles have made nominations and will run a county ticket.

Ben Williams, of Bishop Creek, was in town during the week on school land business.

There are some fast two-year-olds at Bishop Creek in training for the 18th District Fair.

Misses Matilda and Estella Maysan have been visiting with friends at Independence during the week.

A Concert and Ball will be given at Independence a week or two hence. The programme is now in preparation.

John L. Hunt, Secretary of the new Coso Mining Company, arrived at Independence from San Francisco last Wednesday.

The following have been appointed delegates to the Republican State Convention: A. R. Conklin, Thomas C. Boland and A. O. Collins.

There will be very much more competition among fast horses at the fair this year than last. Already a good many horse owners have been heard from who send word that they will attend.

Mrs. A. W. Ebbeshutz left town on last Tuesday morning for San Francisco. She expects to be gone about six weeks. Her two children, Julian and Essie, were taken along and will be left at school.

The two daughters of W. T. C. Elliott arrived at Independence last Monday evening. They are bright, intelligent looking girls, aged apparently about thirteen and fifteen years respectively.

A dollar a pound for butter. This is the rate of premium offered for an exhibit of butter at the coming fair of the 18th Agricultural District held at Independence in September. See premium list.

W. K. Miller, of Lone Pine, has a large crop of vegetables of all kinds, including cabbage, onions, cucumbers, beans of various kinds, etc. He will fill and ship orders at reasonable prices.

Last Saturday morning Arthur Robinson had an arm broken. He was crossing a brook that runs through the grounds of his father, Mr. E. Robinson, when a board broke and he fell, breaking the arm above the wrist.

When the new hotel at Big Pine shall be finished it is the intention of a large number of Independence people to go up and take part in a rousing good opening meeting. Let us know when you are ready, neighbors, and "we'll be there."

Mr. Ed. Crocker, of Big Pine, has been in town nearly all the week. He draws a crowd to see him speed a fine horse he brought with him. The horse is a handsome gray, weighs about fourteen hundred pounds, and travels very fast for an animal of that size.

From all parts of Inyo county and from other places in the District people are giving notice of their intention to attend the next fair of District No. 18 with exhibits of various kinds. Premiums are arranged with a view to encourage the productions and industries of most importance to the District.

Last Monday morning a large force of men and teams left Bishop Creek to go to work building dams to store water in the lakes in the Sierra Nevada mountains west from town. The work will be pushed with vigor. An immense amount of water now goes to waste, all of which will be saved, and there is plenty of land where it can be used.

Mr. Wilson Butler, of Mono county, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the Assembly. Mr. Butler was formerly Register of the Land Office and is well known in the district. Even political opponents say that he is an honorable man and well qualified to make a good Assemblyman. According to the established custom Mono county would have the right to name the Republican candidate, and the third party vote would be given him in Inyo county.

The Virginia Enterprise says the extension of the Carson & Colorado railroad to Mojave has been decided upon. It will be pushed through to a connection with the Southern California system of railroads at Mojave as speedily as possible. Down here in Inyo we have ceased to attach any importance to rumors of the extension of the C. & C. road, we have so many of them. When men and material are sent to the front and work actually begun, then we will believe in the extension of the road and rejoice accordingly.

It is quite a common occurrence that the Enterprise and other papers sent from Virginia City, Carson, Reno and other places to Independence do not reach here but disappear somehow in transit. Papers sometimes reach the destination several days behind time and with their covers torn open. Our mail service is bad enough at best, but it is intolerable that matter in transit through the mails should be further delayed through neglect or wilful meddling. Nevada papers please call attention to this abuse.

Marble

Mr. Israel Luce and a gentleman who is interested in marble quarries in Vermont arrived in Keeler last Wednesday. The visitor has seen much marble from the quarry near Keeler and is well satisfied with its quality. His purpose in coming here is to satisfy himself as to the quantity that may be got from the quarry, and the facilities for working and transportation. If these shall be satisfactory then this party will likely become interested in the quarry. This gentleman made a statement that is worth serious consideration. He said that in Italy many women are employed in the marble quarries. The average wages paid to women is seven cents per day; men are paid forty cents. The present tariff on Italian marble is thirty-five cents per cubic foot. If this tariff should be removed wages in American quarries must be reduced nearly to the same rate as paid in Italy, or work would have to cease and our workers be thrown idle.

TRIAL OF ELLIOTT FOR MURDER.

The trial of W. C. T. Elliott for the murder of John B. White was begun before Judge Hannah at Independence last Tuesday morning. John R. Kittrell, District Attorney for Stanislaus county, and Thomas E. Haydon, U. S. District Attorney for Nevada, appeared as counsel for Elliott. P. W. Forbes, District Attorney for Inyo county, and A. R. Conklin and J. W. P. Laird, Attorneys for the People. The list of eighty jurors was called; seventy-two were detained and eight were excused for cause. Twelve ballots were drawn from the box and the jurors whose names were called were sworn and examined. The first five were challenged by the defense on the ground of actual bias and prejudice and were excused by the Court. The sixth, after a careful examination was accepted by both sides. His name is A. J. Davis; he is a boot and shoemaker at Independence. One more juror was examined, challenged for actual bias and prejudice and excused by the Court. A recess was taken till 1:30 p. m.

ELLIOTT'S APPEARANCE.

Elliott appeared to be in good health; he watched the proceedings with an air of eager interest, and gazed with a keen and steady look upon the face of every juror who was examined. He is not so browned by the sun as when put in jail over two months ago, but otherwise appears to be none the worse for his confinement; in fact he looks better now than he did then.

AFTERNOON.

Court was opened at 1:30 p. m. and the work of examining jurors was resumed. When the Court adjourned for the day fifteen jurors had been examined and only one juror had been accepted. All who had been examined and rejected had declared their belief in the guilt of the defendant, and this was the cause of their rejection; William Mitchell excepted, who was rejected for cause by the prosecution.

WEDNESDAY.

Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock the examination of jurors was resumed. Long arguments were made by counsel on both sides as to the qualification of jurors who had expressed or formed qualified opinions as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant; said opinions being based upon rumor and newspaper reports. At noon twenty-five jurors all told had been examined and three had been accepted and sworn to try the case; these three were A. J. Davis, James Holland and William J. Lake. The Court then adjourned till 2 o'clock p. m. When Court adjourned at 5 o'clock p. m. forty jurors had been examined. In addition to the three jurors accepted to try the case three more had been secured, namely, L. A. Anger, John Hopkins and James Hay. Up to this time the defense had exercised eight peremptory challenges, namely, William Boyd, James McCarty, J. W. Harvey, John Baxter, Walter James Jr., George Collins, Henry Giles and John Meyer. The prosecution made one peremptory challenge, W. H. Mitchell. Ten jurors had been excused for cause and thirty remained to be examined.

THURSDAY.

Thursday morning Court opened at the usual hour. Up till noon fifty-one jurors had been examined and three additional jurors had been accepted and sworn to try the case; these were Richard Hilton, of Round Valley, Thomas J. Richards, of Bishop Creek, and John Fichman, of Keeler, making nine jurors already accepted. During the forenoon long arguments were made by counsel. General Kittrell, for the defense, endeavored to show that jurors had already fixed opinions as to the guilt or innocence of the accused, and if sworn as jurors to try the case would go into the jurybox with their minds influenced against the defendant. Counsel for the people endeavored to show that those opinions were not fixed, but were merely impressions of a light character, and such as would be removed or changed by evidence. In several cases the Court took this view of the case and refused to excuse jurors. In all cases the examination made by General Kittrell was very close and searching, and such as to clearly show the state of mind of the juror at the moment. When the Court adjourned at noon the defense had exercised thirteen peremptory challenges and the prosecution but one. During the afternoon two more jurors were accepted; A. C. Freeman, of Bishop Creek, and Jacob Pfohl, of Citous. The remainder of the venire was exhausted without finding the twelfth juror. The defense exhausted the twenty peremptory challenges allowed by law; the prosecution had not made any peremptory challenge after the first. The Court ordered that a special venire of ten be issued, returnable at ten o'clock a. m. on Friday and then adjourned. The last juror whose name was taken from the box on Thursday was Mr. A. Matlick, of Bishop Creek. When Mr. Matlick was being examined he stated that the first time he had seen the defendant he felt an involuntary dislike toward him. To all other questions he returned such answers as would warrant the belief that he would give the defendant a fair and impartial trial. He was challenged peremptorily by the defense. Mr. Conklin made an able speech to show that in law the juror was qualified and should be accepted. The Court sustained the challenge and Mr. Matlick was excused.

FRIDAY MORNING.

Court opened at 10 o'clock a. m. and the special venire of ten jurors were called and answered to their names. Benigno Aguirre was the first juror called. He was rejected on the ground of not understanding the language sufficiently well. J. W. Murphy was called second; he had heard testimony at the preliminary examination of the defendant and was excused. L. Wood was next called to the stand. He, too, had heard testimony at the preliminary examination and was excused. Fred Schabbell was then drawn from the box; he had not talked with any witnesses in the case; had not formed any decided opinions for or against the defendant; would give him a fair and impartial trial, and if on trial for his life would be willing to be tried by a juror in the same frame of mind as he was then in toward Elliott. The prosecution asked Mr. Schabbell if he "had any conscientious opinions that would preclude him from finding the defendant guilty upon the evidence when the punishment was death;" he answered no and was sworn to try the case. This completed the jury, as follows: A. J. Davis, James Holland, William Lake, John Hopkins, Richard Hilton, Thomas J. Richards, John Fichman, Jacob Pfohl, A. C. Freeman, L. A. Anger, James Hay and Frederick Schabbell. The "information" upon which Elliott is being tried was then read by the Clerk and a recess was then taken till 1:30 o'clock p. m. When Court was again called the opening statement was made by the prosecution and a beginning was made on taking testimony.

Grape Interest.

Mr. Arpad Haraszthy, President of the California State Board of Viticultural Commissioners, in his last report of the work of the Commission presented to Governor Waterman, presents some very interesting facts in connection with the wine interest of the State. He estimates the present capital invested in viticulture in California at $65,000,000. In eight years the direct increase of capital invested in the business amounts to $50,500,000. Hr. Haraszthy estimates that the value of the products of the vineyards of the State within three years will be $16,300,000 for the single crop. Last year the highest price paid for grapes was $55 per ton for Cabernet grapes and the lowest price was $7 a ton for Mission grapes. The Mission are said to be very worthless grapes, and the vines should not be planted.

Board of Equalization.

The Board of Equalization made very few changes in the assessment list. The following covers all that was done:

Additions—J. D. Blair, 4 horses and 1 cow; Clark & Dunlap, 140 acres of land, $320; improvements, $150; A. Friedline, 120 acres of land, $150; improvements, $60; Eli Rose & Brother, 25 head stock cattle.

Corrections—Eastern Slope Agricultural Association, 90 acres of land to 70 acres; A. Cohn & Co., mdse. from $6900 to $6500; J. Willett, struck off $600 solvent credits.

Military Roll—461 names were examined corrected and accepted.

The following bills were allowed:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| J. D. Harger, per diem and mileage, | | | $26 10 |
| J. R. Eldred, | " | " | 43 80 |
| E. Robinson, | " | " | 30 30 |
| T. C. Boland, | " | " | 27 60 |

The Board adjourned.

Facts For Consideration.

A careful scrutiny of the registry list of the county shows that at present there is a Republican majority in the county of about one hundred and twenty. During the past year new registrations have been steadily increasing the Republican majority. Most of the new settlers who have come into the county in that time are Republicans. In nearly every case where farms have been sold the sellers were Democrats and the new settlers Republicans. It will be in order for county Conventions of both parties to carefully consider these facts in making their nominations.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

INYO MEAT MARKET,

MAIRS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18-tf

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.

In the matter of the estate of Catherine Wallace deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased, to the creditors of and all persons having claims against the said deceased to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice to the said Administrator at the Law Office of A. R. Conklin, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo.

JAMES T. WALLACE,
Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased.

Dated at Independence, July 6th, 1883.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

J. C. HEPHERD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

JAMES JONES.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

JAMES B. CHAMBERLAIN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

JAMES R. ELDRED.

FOR SHERIFF.

AT THE SOLICITATION OF MANY friends I hereby flee myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

GEORGE H. SHEDD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican Convention of Inyo County.

THOMAS C. BOLAND.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

P. H. MACK.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

J. J. MOORE.

SHOPPING BY MAIL !

There can no longer be any doubt that shopping by mail is profitable. Thousands throughout the United States are doing so to their satisfaction, and the list continues to swell. Our facilities for handling this class of trade are unexcelled by any house west of the Mississippi. An entire floor of our mammoth three story building is devoted solely to this department, and we have spared no effort to the end that out of town customers might have the

Same Advantages As Residents

We possess unequalled advantages in buying, because we deal direct with the manufacturer. Being one of HALE'S Seven California Stores we thereby obtain advantages in values which result from buying in large quantities; for it must be seen that the amount of goods which these stores consume in the aggregate is enormous.

SEND FOR A CATALOGUE.

Our new Spring and Summer Catalogue is now ready for distribution, and will be mailed to intending customers upon application. It is a large illustrated pamphlet of 85 pages, and gives the price and description of any article in our stores. Samples of dry-goods sent free of charge.

IT WILL PAY YOU

To trade with us. The thousands of orders which we are constantly receiving from every State and Territory west of of the Rocky Mountains, attest the taste, care, discretion and promptness which we exercise in meeting the requirements of our mail customers.

WHAT WE KEEP.

Our stock embraces Dress Goods, Domestices, Fancy Goods, Ladies' Underwear, Gloves, Parasols, Hosiery, Embroidery, Laces, Cloaks, Jackets and Wraps, Clothing, Gent's Furnishing Goods, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Jewelry, Notions, Trunks & Valises, Etc. Etc.

Send Us a Trial Order And Be Convinced.

HALE BROS & CO.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,

Sacramento, Cal.

PHOTOGRAPHY

—IN ALL ITS BRANCHES—

Will Be Executed

—AT THE—

- STUDIO -

—OF—

Bledsoe & Co.

Paintings of all the prominent scenes on the Globe. In fact,

Anything & Everything

In the picture line, from a locket to an 8x10 ft painting can be had. Will deal in Frames, Chromos, Etc.—any and all sizes.

PRICES REASONABLE.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

BLEDSOE & CO.

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF.

D. E. No. 249.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, INDEPENDENCE, CAL., June 25, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that Sherman V. Stevens, of Inyo county, California, has filed notice of his intention to make proof on his desert land claim No. 249, for the E½ of N W ¼ N E ¼ N ½ of S E ¼ N E ¼ of S W ¼ Sec 13, Tp 14 S R 3 E; N W ¼, N ½ of S W ¼ Sec 18, Tp 14 S. R 3, E. M D M. before the Register and Receiver of this office, at Independence Cal., on Tuesday, the 7th day of August, 1888.

He names the following witnesses to prove the complete irrigation and reclamation of said land: Charles A Sanner, Allen Kenyon, John Meyers and William Meyers, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

ESTATE OF WILLIAM HEDGE, deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned, administrator of the estate of William Hedge deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said administrator, at the law office of George M. Gill, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, State of California, that being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate.

WILLIAM F. MATLACK,
Administrator of the estate of William Hedge deceased.

Dated at Independence, California, June 19, 1888.

Geo. M. Gill, Attorney for Administrator.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.

D. S. No. 1223.

LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL., June 25, 1888.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on August 4, 1888, viz.: Hiram Hamilton for the E ½ of W ½, W ½ of S E ¼ of Sec 30, Twp 14 S, R 35 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: John Shepherd, John W. Lacey, William H. Jenkins and Peter Meyer, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.

COUNTY SURVEYOR

—AND—

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor

For California and Nevada.

—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

BISHOP CREEK

BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO., Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜

☞ Of the C. & C. Railroad. ☜

Send orders to

MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.

Bishop Creek, Cal.

Boot & Shoe Shop,

A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.

Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK

Livery, Feed & Sale Stable.

JOHN CLARKE, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.

Bishop Creek Cal., Nov 20, 1883.

115 CLAY STREET, 117

SMITH'S STORE IS

The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.

CASH

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Who Spends Money

For advertising in newspapers in these hard times, without first obtaining an estimate of the cost from Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York, is likely to pay $10 for what might be obtained for $5. Such estimates are furnished to all applicants gratis. Send 10 cts for 176 page pamphlet with list of newspapers and 3 references.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BELL'S

Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S

EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,

Independence, Cal.

ICE! ICE ICE!

We are now prepared to furnish a first-class quality of

ICE

In quantities to suit either at Bishop Creek, or on the cars at Bishop Station, at

2 Cts. per Pound.

Orders Promptly Attended To.

F. K. ANDREWS & CO.

Laws, Inyo Co., Cal.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. ☞ 256 pages, 8½ x 11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations — a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.

227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

FRED BURCKHARDT

Watchmaker & Jeweler,

LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

☞ All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

Bishop Creek, Cal.,

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC

☞ Buyers and consumers should not fail and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

E. CHENOT.

Independence, Cal., March 29 1884.

n47tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

THIS PAPER IS ON FILE

—AT—

PALMER & REY'S

ADVERTISING BUREAU!

405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco.

—AND AT—

PALMER & REY'S

Pacific States Advertising Bureau

46 Tribune Building,

NEW YORK,

Where Advertising Contracts can be made.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles

OF

Fashionable Clothing

Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc

AT

L. WOOD'S

CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH STORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:

HAWTHORNE NEV.

BRANCHES:

Wabuska, Nev.,

CONSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.

AGENCIES:

WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

n25tf

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer In GENERAL MERCHANDISE, GROCERIES MINERS Supplies

PROVISIONS,

&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.

Excellent Cardinal or Drab

SATEEN CORSETS,

44 cts.

By mail 10c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered bust, finished with pretty lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.

More Important Still

Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Men's Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.

WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.

400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.

SACRAMENTO, CAL.

Wm. Muth

Bee Ke

Foundation.

Independ

LITTLE MAY SHARPLESS.

Interesting Gossip About the Richest Child in America.

May Sharpless is her name and she is nine years old. Her closest rival is Jay Kingdon Gould, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Gould and the grandson of Jay Gould. Young Jay may be richer than May after awhile, but just at present he is not. May Sharpless is estimated to be worth $9,000,000 in her own name and right. Her guardian is ex-Governor Leon Abbett, of New Jersey. Even her guardian finds it hard work to keep track of all the wealth that flows into pretty little May's coffers. Before she is of age, if nothing happens, she will be enormously wealthy, and the man who secures her heart will become the husband of probably the richest woman on the continent ten years hence.

May Sharpless is the daughter of a late member of the famous dry goods-house of Arnold, Constable & Co. Sharpless was the resident member of the firm in Paris, where he died. His daughter was born abroad. She is as bright as she is rich. She speaks French and English fluently, and is rapidly acquiring a thorough knowledge of German. She learns very rapidly and is very fond of the stage. Her youthful talent has exhibited itself more than once in tableaux and private theatricals. Two summers ago she was at Sea Girt, a fashionable resort on the Jersey coast, with her mother, nurse and governess. Some theatricals were given and May made a big hit in several sentimental parts. Her lover on the stage was little Georgie Boldt, son of the proprietor of the hotel and proprietor of the well known Hotel Bellevue in Philadelphia. Georgie was about May's age and made a hit. During the same performance Miss Mamie Abbett, daughter of May's guardian, made a hit by her beauty and talent in a rendition of the "Mikado." May's histrionic talent is hard to restrain, as she wants to appear on the stage at every opportunity.

But it is May Sharpless' dolls that are the wonder of all who know her. She has probably the finest collection of dolls in the world. And she is constantly adding to the stock. Her dolls range in size from the smallest to several that are nearly as large as their owner. Two or three of them cost thousands of dollars apiece. Every summer Mrs. Sharpless and her child go abroad and the latest Parisian inventions in the doll line are purchased. The dresses for the largest and most expensive dolls are made in Paris by Worth. They are perfect fits and cost more than the average American girl, even in fashionable society, pays for her dresses. The dolls' wardrobes of Miss Sharpless are wonders. Each of the favorite dolls has half a dozen miniature Saratoga trunks filled with dresses and other clothes. The underwear of the dolls is made of the best of lace and the finest of silk. They have the latest style of shoes and wear the newest shade in hosiery. All of them have hair, not of corn silk, but genuine, and the hair is dressed according to the existing fashion. Miss May takes down and puts up the hair, and when she gives a dolls' party, as she occasionally does at her home in this city, the dollies' hair is arranged by regular hair dressers engaged for that purpose. At her home here May has dolls' houses, carriages and a regular dolls' establishment. Her dolls' parties are well worth witnessing. She invites her girl friends to bring their best dolls, and the receptions are modeled exactly after receptions in high life. Engraved invitations have been sent on several of these occasions, and the dolls were brought in carriages by their mistresses. They wore wraps, their dresses were cut low in front and V-shaped behind, and corsets, bustles and the usual female paraphernalia made up the costumes. As most of the dolls could walk when wound up, the scene in the parlor as they moved around, using their fans and bottles of smelling-salts, was realistic and decidedly novel.—Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

—"Will you be kind enough, pa," said Bobby, in a low, well-modulated tone of voice, "to give me another piece of pie?" "No, sir," replied the old man, "you've had enough." "Ma," said Bobby, "you told me that politeness always pays.—N. Y. Sun.

DENNY O'BRIEN'S LUCK.

An Oysterman's Dollar Put Out at Heavy Interest.

Denny O'Brien is a quiet man, and has for some time past been engaged as an oysterman in the market on the corner of Grant avenue and Sutter street. The following little dialogue will tell the story of his luck:

"You are the lucky man, are you!"

"You bet," was the quick rejoiner; and then Denny added, "it's a kind of funny story, I tell you. About six months ago a friend of mine came along and said, 'Denny loan me a dollar.' Well, I didn't half like lending it, but I thought the fellow was down on his luck and that it might bring me luck, so I slung it over the counter to him, and my mate here whispers 'that's the last of that dollar.' We don't belong exactly to the moneyed aristocracy, though sometimes you do find a nobleman in our crowd. Still I said 'Let it go; I guess I can stand it. I forgot all about it till a month ago, and I was just starting to work—I work the night shift you know—when up comes this pal o' mine and says 'Here you are, Denny; here's your dollar,' and he throws it on top of the oysters right here. Well, to cut a long story short, I thought, as I had never expected to get it back, I might as well risk it in a lottery ticket, and next day I went and bought a coupon, No. 51,570. Of course I never thought I would win anything, but I got there just the same, and 'the last of that dollar' was a $15,000 prize in The [illegible] Well, as [illegible] working [illegible]'t lost my [illegible], so I am [illegible] it. You [illegible] devil that [illegible] then I know [illegible] rancisco, (Cal)

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC

(CONTINUED.)

As soon as we had got some things on and shaken ourselves together a little we set to work to make out where we were now. I have said that there was light above, and on examination we found that it came from the sky. Our river that was, Sir Henry said, a literal realization of the wild vision of the poet, was no longer underground, but was running on its darksome way, not now through "caverns measureless to man," but between two frightful cliffs which cannot have been less than 2,000 feet high. So high were they, indeed, that though the sky was above us, where we were was dense gloom—not darkness, indeed, but the gloom of a room closely shuttered in the daytime. Up on either side rose the great straight cliffs, grim and forbidding, till the eye grew dizzy with trying to measure their sheer height. The little space of sky that marked where they ended lay like a thread of blue upon their soaring blackness, which was unrelieved by any tree or creeper. Here and there, however, grew ghostly patches of a long gray lichen, hanging motionless to the rock, as the white beard to the chin of a dead man. It seemed as though only the dregs or heavier part of the light had sunk to the bottom of this awful place. No bright winged sunbeam could fall so low; they died far, far above our heads.

By the river's edge was a little shore formed of round fragments of rock washed into this shape by the constant action of water, and giving the place the appearance of being strewn with thousands of fossil cannon balls. Evidently when the water of the underground river is high there is no beach at all, or very little, between the border of the stream and the precipitous cliffs; but now there was a space of seven or eight yards. And here, on this beach, we determined to land, in order to rest ourselves a little after all that we had gone through, and to stretch our limbs. It was a dreadful place, but it would give an hour's respite from the terrors of the river, and also allow of our repacking and arranging the canoe. Accordingly we selected what looked like a favorable spot, and with some little difficulty managed to beach the canoe and scramble out on to the round, inhospitable pebbles.

"My word," called out Good, who was on shore the first, "what an awful place! it's enough to give one a fit." And he laughed.

Instantly a thundering voice took up his words, magnifying them a hundred times. "Give one a fit—ho! ho! ho!" "A fit—ho! ho! ho!" answered another voice, in wild accents, from far up the cliff. "A fit! a fit! a fit!" chimed in voice after voice, each flinging the words to and fro with shouts of awful laughter to the invisible lips of the other till the whole place echoed with the words and with shrieks of fiendish merriment, which at last ceased as suddenly as they had begun.

"Oh, mon Dieu!" yelled Alphonse, startled quite out of such self command as he possessed.

"Mon Dieu! Mon Dieu! Mon Dieu!" the Titanic echoes thundered, shrieked and wailed in every conceivable tone.

"Ah," said Umslopogaas, calmly, "I clearly perceive that devils live here. Well, the place looks like it."

I tried to explain to him that the cause of all the hubbub was a very remarkable and interesting echo, but he would not believe it.

"Ah," he said, "I know an echo when I hear one. There was one lived opposite my kraal in Zululand, and the Intombis" (maidens) "used to talk with it. But if what we hear is a full grown echo, mine at home can only have been a baby. No, no—they are devils there. But I don't think much of them though," he added, taking a pinch of snuff. "They can copy what one says, but they don't seem to be able to talk on their own account, and they dare not show their faces," and he relapsed into silence, and apparently paid no further attention to such contemptible fiends.

After this we found it necessary to keep our conversation down to a whisper—for it was really unbearable to have every word one uttered tossed to and fro like a tennis ball, and precipice called to precipice.

But even our whispers ran up the rocks in mysterious murmurs, till at last they died away in long drawn sighs of sound. Echoes are delightful and romantic things, but we had more than enough of them in that dreadful gulf.

As soon as we had settled ourselves a little on the round stones we proceeded to wash and dress our burns as well as we could. As we had but a little oil for the lantern we could not spare any for this purpose, so we skinned one of the swans and used the fat off its breast, which proved an excellent substitute. Then we repacked the canoe and finally began to take some food, of which I need scarcely say we were in need, for our insensibility had endured for many hours, and it was, as our watches showed, midday. Accordingly we seated ourselves in a circle, and were soon engaged in discussing our cold meat with such appetite as we could muster, which, in my case at any rate, was not much, as I felt sick and faint after my sufferings of the previous night, and had besides a racking headache. It was a curious meal. The gloom was so intense that we could scarcely see the way to cut our food and convey it to our mouths. Still we got on pretty well, although the meat was tainted by the heat through which it had passed, till I happened to look behind me—my attention being attracted by a noise of something crawling over the stones—and perceived sitting upon a rock in my immediate rear a huge species of black fresh water crab, only it was five times the size of any crab I ever saw. This hideous and loathsome looking animal had projecting eyes that seemed to glare at one, very long and flexible antennæ, or feelers, and gigantic claws. Nor was I especially favored with its company. From every quarter dozens of these horrid brutes were creeping up, drawn, I suppose, by the smell of the food from between the round stones and out of the holes in the precipice. Some were already quite close to us. I stared, quite fascinated by the unusual sight, and as I did so I saw one of the beasts stretch out its huge claw and give the unsuspecting Good such a nip that he jumped up with a howl and set the "wild echoes flying" in sober earnest. Just then, too, another, a very large one, got hold of Alphonse's leg, and declined to part with it, and, as may be imagined, a considerable scene ensued. Umslopogaas took his ax and cracked the shell of one with the flat of it, whereon it set up a horrid sort of screaming which the echoes multiplied a thousand fold, and began to foam at the mouth, a proceeding that drew hundreds more of its friends out of unsuspected holes and corners. Those on the spot, perceiving that the animal was hurt, fell upon it like creditors on a bankrupt, and literally rent it limb from limb with their huge pincers, and devoured it, using their claws to convey the fragments to their mouths. Seizing whatever weapons were handy, such as stones or paddles, we commenced a war upon the monsters, whose numbers were increasing by leaps and bounds, and whose stench was overpowering. So fast as we cracked their armor others seized the injured ones and devoured them, foaming at the mouth, and screaming as they did so. Nor did the brutes stop at that. When they could they nipped hold of us—and awful nips they were—or tried to steal the meat. One enormous fellow got hold of the swan we had skinned and began to drag it off. Instantly a score of others flung themselves upon the prey, and then began a ghastly and disgusting scene. How the monsters foamed and screamed, and rent the flesh and each other! It was a sickening and unnatural sight, and one that will haunt all who saw it till the day of their death—enacted as it was in the deep, oppressive gloom, and set to the unceasing music of the many toned, nerve shaking echoes. Strange as it may seem to say so, there was something shockingly human about these fiendish creatures—it was as though all the most evil passions and desires of man had got into the shell of a magnified crab and gone mad. They were so dreadfully courageous and intelligent, and they looked as if they understood. The whole scene might have furnished material for another canto of Dante's "Inferno," as Curtis said.

"I say, you fellows, let's get out of this, or we shall all go off our heads," cried out Good; and we were not slow to take the hint. Pushing the canoe around which the animals were now crawling by hundreds and making vain attempts to climb, off the rocks, we bundled into it and got out into mid stream, leaving behind us the fragments of our meal, and the screaming, heaving, shrieking mass of monsters in full possession of the ground.

"Those are the devils of the place," said Umslopogaas, with the air of one who has solved a problem; and, upon my word, I felt almost inclined to agree with him.

Umslopogaas' remarks were like his axe—very much to the point.

"What's to be done next?" said Sir Henry, blankly.

"Drift, I suppose," I answered, and we drifted accordingly. All the afternoon and well into the evening we floated on in the gloom beneath the far off line of blue sky, scarcely knowing when day ended and night began; for down in that vast gulf the difference was not marked, till at length Good pointed out a star hanging right above us, which, having nothing better to do, we observed with great interest. Suddenly it vanished, the darkness became intense, and a familiar murmuring sound filled the air. "Underground again," I said, with a groan, holding up the lamp. Yes, there was no doubt about it. I could just make out the roof. The chasm had come to an end and the tunnel had recommenced. And then began another long, long night of danger and horror. To describe all its incidents would be too wearisome; so I will simply say that about midnight we struck on a flat projecting rock in midstream, and were as nearly as possible overturned and drowned. However, at last we got off, and went upon the uneven tenor of our way. And so the hours passed until it was nearly 2 o'clock. Sir Henry, Good and Alphonse were asleep, utterly worn out. Umslopogaas was at the bow with the pole, and I was steering, when I perceived that the rate at which we were traveling had perceptibly increased. Then, suddenly, I heard Umslopogaas make an exclamation, and next second came a sound as of parting branches, and I became aware that the canoe was being forced through hanging bushes or creepers. Another minute and a breath of sweet open air fanned my face, and I felt that we had emerged from the tunnel and were floating on clear water. I say felt, for I could see nothing, the darkness being absolutely pitchy as it often is just before dawn. But even this could scarcely damp my joy. We were out of that dreadful river, and wherever we might have got to, this at least was something to be thankful for. And so I sat down and inhaled the sweet night air and waited for the dawn with such patience as I could command.

CHAPTER XI.

THE FROWNING CITY.

For an hour or more I sat waiting (Umslopogaas having meanwhile gone to sleep also), till at length the east turned gray and huge misty shapes moved over the surface of the water like ghosts of long forgotten dawns. They were the vapors rising from their watery bed to greet the sun. Then the gray turned to primrose, and the primrose grew to red. Next, glorious bars of light sprang across the eastern sky, and through them the radiant messengers of the dawn came speeding upon their arrowy way, scattering the ghostly vapors and awaking the mountains with a kiss, as they flew from range to range and longitude to longitude. Another moment, and the golden gates were open, and the sun himself came forth as a bridegroom from his chamber, with pomp and glory and a flashing as of 10,000,000 spears, and embraced the night and covered her with brightness, and it was day.

But as yet I could see nothing save the beautiful blue sky above; for over the water was a thick layer of mist exactly as though the whole surface had been covered with billows of cotton wool. By degrees, however, the sun sucked up the mists, and then I saw that we were afloat upon a glorious sheet of blue water, of which I could not make out the shore. Some eight or ten miles behind us, however, there stretched as far as the eye could reach a range of precipitous hills that formed a retaining wall of the lake, and I have no doubt but that it was through some entrance in these hills that the subterranean river found its way into the open water. Indeed, I afterwards ascertained this to be the fact; and it will be some indication of the extraordinary strength and directness of the current of the mysterious river that the canoe, even at this distance, was still answering to it. Presently, too, I, or rather Umslopogaas, who woke up just then, discovered another indication, and a very unpleasant one it was. Perceiving some whitish object upon the water, Umslopogaas called my attention to it, and with a few strokes of the paddle brought the canoe to the spot, whereupon we discovered that the object was the body of a man floating face downward. This was bad enough, but imagine my horror when Umslopogaas having turned him on to his back with the paddle we recognized in the sunken features the lineaments of—whom do you suppose? None other than our poor servant who had been sucked down two days before in the waters of the subterranean river. It quite frightened me. I thought that we had left him behind forever; and behold! borne by the current, he had made the awful journey with us, and with us and reached the end. His appearance also was dreadful, for he bore traces of having touched the pillar of fire—one arm being completely shriveled up, and all his hair being burnt off. The features were, as I have said, sunken, and yet they preserved upon them that awful look of despair that I had seen upon his living face as the poor fellow was sucked down. Really the sight unnerved me, weary and shaken as I felt with all that we had gone through, and I was heartily glad, when suddenly, and without any warning, the body began to sink just as though it had had a mission, which having been accomplished, it retired; the real reason, no doubt, being that turning it on its back, allowed a free passage to the gas. Down it went into the transparent depths—fathom after fathom we could trace its course, till at last a long line of bright air bubbles, swiftly chasing each other to the surface, alone remained where it had passed. At length these too were gone, and that was an end of our poor servant. Umslopogaas thoughtfully watched the body vanish.

"What did he follow us for?" he asked. "'Tis an ill omen for thee and me, Macumahan." And he laughed.

I turned on him angrily, for I dislike these unpleasant suggestions. If people have such ideas they ought in common decency to keep them to themselves. I detest individuals who make one the subject of their disagreeable presentiments, or who, when they dream that they saw one hanged as a common felon, or some such horror, will insist upon telling one all about it at breakfast, even if they have to get up early to do it.

Just then, however, the others woke up and began to rejoice exceedingly at finding that we were out of that dreadful river and once more beneath the blue sky.

To be Continued.

The enthusiasm for co-operation in England seems to be dying out.

—Omaha jeweler—"Here, sir, is a clock that will, I think, please your æsthetic tastes. At precisely ten o'clock every evening a chime of bells rings and a bird hops out and sings a carol." Omaha man—"I will take that if you will make a few changes in it." "With pleasure." "I have a daughter and wish the clock for the parlor where she can entertain her company. Fix it so that at eleven o'clock at night a milkman's bell will ring and a newsboy will skip out and yell: 'Morning papers.'" — Omaha World.

—"Bless your soul," said an old Scotch lady who was fond of quoting and applying Scripture, to Dr. Chalmers, one day—"Bless your soul, here you are, always going about like a roaring lion trying to do good!"

—It would be an advantage to the average toper if he could take his homeward way as he does his whisky—straight.—Burlington Free Press

CATARRH.

A New Home Treatment for the Cure of Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.

The microscope has proved that these diseases are contagious, and that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the upper air passages and eustachian tubes. The eminent scientists, Tyndall, Huxley and Beale endorse this, and these authorities cannot be disputed. The regular method of treating these diseases has been to apply an irritant remedy weekly, and even daily, thus keeping the delicate membrane in a constant state of irritation, allowing it no chance to heal, and as a natural consequence of such treatment not one permanent cure has ever been recorded. It is an absolute fact that these diseases cannot be cured by any application made oftener than once in two weeks, for the membrane must get a chance to heal before an application is repeated. It is now seven years since Mr. Dixon discovered the parasite in catarrh and formulated his new treatment, and since then his remedy has become a household word in every country where the English language is spoken. Cures effected by him seven years ago are cures still, there having been no return of the disease.

So highly are these remedies valued that ignorant imitators have started up everywhere pretending to destroy a parasite, of which they know nothing, by remedies, the results of the application of which they are equally ignorant. Mr. Dixon's remedy is applied only once in two weeks, and from one to three applications effect a permanent cure in the most aggravated cases.

Mr. Dixon sends a pamphlet describing his new treatment on the receipt of stamp to pay postage. The address is A. H. Dixon & Son, 303 King street west, Toronto, Canada.—Scientific American.

"If you want your wife to be healthy, make her cry about once a fortnight," says a Philadelphia doctor.

A STAB IN THE DARK

Sometimes fails of its murderous intent. The insidious and dastardly attacks made on the reputation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters by persons who seek to palm off cheap and fiery tonics as identical with it, or "the same thing under another name," or "equally as good," in most instances react disastrously upon the unprincipled traders upon popular credulity who attempt them, converting their speculations into ruinous failures. The Bitters is a pure, wholesome and thoroughly medicinal compound for the cure and prevention of fever and ague, bilious remittent, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, debility, nervousness and kidney troubles. Its every ingredient, unlike those in the imitations of it, is of an ascertained standard of excellence, and while they, by reason of their fiery properties, react injuriously upon the brain and nervous system, of both these organs it is sedative and invigorant. Refuse all these harmful imitations.

Medical Professor (to student)—In a case which you find difficult to diagnose correctly, what is the proper course to take? Student—Look wise and say nothing.

THE FLYING DOVE OF PEACE.

A richly frosted quivering, flying Dove. A Dream of Life screen calendar. An imported ideal head. An imported frosted snow scene and a full set of magnificent floral cards. Fourteen artistic pieces. Sent to anyone who will buy from a druggist a box of the genuine Dr. C. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS (price, 25 cts.) and mail us the outside wrapper from the box with 4 cents in stamps. Write your address plainly. FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

Mrs. Grundy is not far astray when she remarks "that women carry pet dogs around who would scorn to wheel a baby carriage."

A GOOD INVESTMENT

Is that which yields large returns from a small outlay. Reader, the way is clear! No speculation, no chance, big returns! If you are like most of mankind you have some where a weakness—don't feel at all times just as you'd like to—headache to-day, backache to-morrow, down sick next week all because your blood is out of order. A small outlay and what large returns! You invest in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and soon pure, fresh blood courses through your veins, and you are another being!

She—What fool killers cigarettes are, Mr. De Dood. He—Weal'y, Miss Susie, I cawn't say as to that, don't you know, I never tried them.

See Autoharp Piano advertisement.

How to Cure Skin & Scalp Diseases with the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

THE MOST DISTRESSING FORMS OF SKIN and scalp diseases, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, are speedily, economically and permanently cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, when all other remedies and methods fail.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50 cents; SOAP, 25 cents; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Relief in one minute, for all pains and weaknesses, in CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. 25c.

AN INTERVIEW

With Ex-Senator Albert Merritt, Head of the Great Fruit Co., 85 a... 83 Park Place, N. Y.

"There are a few things that I believe in with all my heart and strength, and it affords me pleasure to tell of one of them." The speaker was Mr. Albert Merritt, of the above firm, and the scene his office.

"Some time ago when visiting Poughkeepsie, N.Y., I was suffering from urinary and digestive trouble. Through the inactivity of both liver and kidneys I was sick from head to foot, and feared that I had become permanently one of the multitude who are fated to endure the tortures of dyspepsia; added to this still more dangerous affection of the urinary organs. I was in this condition when a relative said to me: 'Why don't you try Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy?'

"I did so, and it did what I call good work. It went to the very root and source of the trouble. Continuing its use, and discarding everything else I grew steadily better. I could eat and digest; I could sleep, and arise refreshed; I could work with a clearer head; and my friends and my mirror agreed in assuring me that the yellow, bilious color of my skin had given place to the tones that announce pure blood, and every organ of the body in healthy action and Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is honestly entitled to the undivided credit of it.

If any one seeing this has an atom of doubt about the sincerity and truth of my statement let him write to me or call upon me, and I will convince him. My family and my employees soon became as thoroughly converted to faith in Favorite Remedy as I was myself. For bilious headache, indigestion and all the ailments we are subject to Favorite Remedy is our sole and unfailing resort.

I can give you the names and addresses of fifty personal friends who affirm as I do, from absolute knowledge and experience that Favorite Remedy, made and sold by Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., has been to them a help and a blessing in time of need. If I could command the proper words I would say more. You can't possibly exaggerate my admiration for the medicine, nor my respect for its proprietor as a physician and as a man." $1 bottle, 6 for $5. Redington & Co., Agents, San Francisco, Cal.

A patch on a boy's trousers is something new under the sun.

A GREAT LEGACY

To bequeath to your children, is a strong, clean, pure constitution—better than wealth, because it will never prove a curse. You cannot give what you do not possess, but mothers will find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a wonderful help in correcting all weaknesses, bringing their systems into perfect condition, so that their children, untainted, shall rise up to call them blessed!

There is not a druggist in all the land
But always keeps a stock on hand.

The Cobden Club ought to be able to break up the Corn Trust in the West.

LUNG TROUBLES AND WASTING

Diseases can be cured, if properly treated in time, as shown by the following statement from D. C. Freeman, Sydney: "Having been a great sufferer from pulmonary attacks, and gradually wasting away for the past two years, it affords me pleasure to testify that SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Lime and Soda has given me great relief, and I cheerfully recommend it to all suffering in a similar way to myself. In addition, I would say that it is very pleasant to take."

ITCHING PILES.

SYMPTOMS—moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at nights; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in many cases removes the tumors. It is equally efficacious in curing all Skin Diseases. DR. SWAYNE & SON, Proprietors, Philadelphia. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT can be obtained of druggists. Sent by mail for 50 Cents.

A liberal education is one that has cost the boy's father a great deal of money.

LIVING WITNESSES!

Ask any one who has used Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets as to their merits. They will tell you that pimples, blotches and eruptions disappear, that constipation, that breeder of disorders, is relieved, that the appetite is restored, that the whole system is renovated and regulated beyond any conception by these little wonder-workers. Being purely vegetable, they are perfectly harmless; being composed of concentrated, active ingredients, they are powerful! Purge and purify the system and disease will be unknown. Of all druggists.

A good boy may not become a handsome man, but a nice bonnet surely becomes a pretty woman.

JUDGING from the talk one hears about town, there is going to be a great demand for the albums that are offered in every one who returns the coupons of the publishers (W. Duke, Sons & Co.,) 75 folding cards, same as are inclosed in the packages of Cameo Cigarettes. We are informed that these albums are an elegant, unique and most interesting affair, and contain a complete collection of 50 subjects, comprising the Rulers, Flags and Coats-of-Arms of every nation in the world.

Sudden changes of the weather often cause Pulmonary, Bronchial, and Asthmatic troubles. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" will allay irritation which induces coughing, giving immediate relief. Sold only in boxes.

Habitual costiveness causes derangement of the entire system and begets diseases that are hazardous to life. You will never be troubled this way if you use HOBB'S LITTLE VEGETABLE PILLS.

ALWAYS GIVING SATISFACTION.

BRANDRETH'S Pills have always given satisfaction. In fifty years there has been no complaint of them. That is about their life in the United States and millions of persons have used them. There is no doubt that they have established themselves by merit alone. They cure rheumatism, dyspepsia, piles, diarrhœa, liver complaint and fevers, and greatly prolong the human life. One or two at night on an empty stomach, for a week or two, will keep you in good form and tone up the system.

A man on the best of terms with himself is not disagreeable, if you like the man.

The high standard and quality of HOYT'S GERMAN COLOGNE is always maintained. The odors that are combined to make this delightful perfume are selected with the greatest care.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

IRRIGATING PUMPS
STEAM ENGINES
AND BOILERS,
COMPLETE POWER AND PUMPING PLANTS.
Low prices, prompt delivery
Write for Circulars.
BYRON JACKSON, SAN FRANCISCO.

S. F. N. U. Series No. 312.

St. Jacobs Oil. Cures by 20,000,000 BOTTLES SOLD.

IN EVERY ONE A CURE.
NO RETURN OF PAIN.
AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHAS. A. VOGELER CO. BALTO. MD.

SARSAPARILLA, YELLOW DOCK, AND Iodide of Potass.

It cures RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Boils, Pimples, Scrofula, Gout, Catarrh, Tumors, Salt Rheum, and Mercurial Pains. It Purifies the Blood, Restores the Liver and Kidneys to healthy action, and makes the Complexion Bright and Clear.

J. R. CATES & CO., Proprietors, 417 Sansome St., San Francisco.

ELY'S CREAM BALM CATARRH

I suffered from catarrh 12 years. The droppings into the throat were nauseating. My nose bled almost daily. Since first days use of Ely's Cream Balm have had no bleeding, soreness is entirely gone.—D. G. Davidson, with Boston Budget.

HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril, and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York.

Nothing to Wear.

Too bad! But we can supply you with the Marysville Shirts and Drawers, warranted not to shrink and wear out until you are satisfied to pay for more just like 'em. Common underwear for men and boys from 40 cents up; for ladies, from 35 cents up, and some as low as 25 cents. Men's working shirts 40 cents. Large full extra quality 62 cents. Overalls from 50 cents up. Suits from stock or cut to order. The celebrated John Halifax Shirt—no better made—cut to measure and warranted to fit and suit, $1.25 and $1.50. (Send for rules for self-measurement.) Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps on hand or bought to order. Prints and Lawns from 5 cents up. Muslins and other Domestics at market prices and below. Blankets, Comforters, Quilts, in season and out of season, all colors, kinds and weight. We hope to hear from you. Our business is to supply the wants of our customers far and near with everything they need to eat, drink or wear—to use indoors or out doors. A full list sent free on application. Ask at once for it. Address Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front St., S. F., Cal.

Angel Cake!

This cake was invented by a St. Louis baker who kept the formula a secret for a long time. We say the original formula, which we will send upon a postal card request. Mention this paper and the name of dealer from whom you buy your groceries. Address:

RIEGER EXTRACT CO.
511 Front Street, S. F.

FREE. By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums, 20 yrs in use. 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 year, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or warp out, we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

TO THE LADIES!

Jacobs & Co.,

—MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF—

Ladies', Children's & Infant's Wear,

113 Kearny Street, S. F.

Illustrated Catalogues sent free on application.

Dr. Loryea's

NEW HAMMAM,

218 Post St., San Francisco.

THE FINEST TURKISH, RUSSIAN AND Medicated Baths in the city. Open Day and Night, Sundays included. Just Opened, a new Ladies' Department. Interior Merchants, when in the city, in taking a Bath, can stop over night, thereby avoiding hotel expenses.

Four Carloads of Rushford Tubular

STEEL AXLE & STEEL SKEIN WAGONS

Have arrived via Canadian Pacific Railroad, and we are now able to fill back orders for these celebrated Wagons. It will pay all intending purchasers to examine our Tubular Steel Axle, which is warranted against breaking or bending under any weight. All sizes RANCH & FREIGHTING WAGONS in stock.

BULL & GRANT

FARM IMPLEMENT COMPANY,

14 and 16 Main St., S. F.

Send for Catalogue and Price List.

SAN FRANCISCO TOOL CO.

Works: First and Stevenson Sts., S. F.

—MAKERS OF—

CENTRIFUGAL PUMPING MACHINERY, Steam Engines and Boilers, Machine Tools and Machine Shop Appliances, Elevators, Electric Apparatus for Light and Power, Water Meters, etc., etc. Send for Catalogues.

Fairbanks'

STANDARD SCALES,

Grain Trucks, Bag Holders, Pinch Bars, Coffee Mills, Grocers Supplies and Fittings, Asbestos Packed Cocks, Standard Thermometers, Golden Gate Windmills,

Send for Illustrated List to

FAIRBANKS & HUTCHINSON,
519 Market Street,
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE!

HOBB'S TONIC NERVE PILLS

For the Blood and Nerves.

Hobb's Nerve Tonic Pills make New, Rich Blood and cures Anæmia, Scrofula, Pimples, Humors, Bad Circulation, and all impurities of the blood, as well as the following nervous diseases, viz.; Nervous and Physical Debility; Vital Exhaustion, Premature Decay, Palpitation of the Heart, Fluttering, Trembling, Hysteria, Nervousness in any form, Nervous Headache, Neuralgia, Cold Hands or Feet, Pain in the Back, and any other form of Female Weakness. They bring the rosy tint of health to the sallow cheek. Weak nervous people should take this great Life Renewer. If you are suffering for past errors Hobb's Nerve Tonic Pills will cure you. Try them, and you will join the thousands of happy men and women who gladly bless Dr. Hobb for his great work in their behalf. They are sugar-coated. Only 50 Cts. a bottle. All druggists or by mail in plain wrapper for cash or stamps. Sample of Pills and "Dr. Hobb's HAND BOOK of USEFUL INFORMATION" by mail FREE on receipt of Post 1 Card with your address.

HOBB'S MEDICINE CO. PROPRIETORS, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL

Paine's Celery Compound

WEAK NERVES

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND is a Nerve Tonic which never fails. Containing Celery and Coca, those wonderful nerve stimulants, it speedily cures all nervous disorders.

RHEUMATISM

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND purifies the blood. It drives out the lactic acid, which causes Rheumatism, and restores the blood-making organs to a healthy condition. It is the true remedy for Rheumatism.

KIDNEY COMPLAINTS

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND quickly restores the liver and kidneys to perfect health. This curative power, combined with its nerve tonics, makes it the best remedy for all kidney complaints.

DYSPEPSIA

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND strengthens the stomach, and quiets the nerves of the digestive organs. This is why it cures even the worst cases of Dyspepsia.

CONSTIPATION

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND is not a cathartic. It is a laxative, giving easy and natural action to the bowels. Regularity surely follows its use.

Recommended by professional and business men. Send for book.

Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

CURES Nervous Prostration, Nervous Headache, Neuralgia, Nervous Weakness, Stomach and Liver Diseases, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, and all affections of the Kidneys.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO. Prop's
BURLINGTON, VT.

DUKE'S

Cameo Cigarettes.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY, ..... JULY 21 1888.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 6. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., JULY 21, 1888. WHOLE NO. 925.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

THE YOUNG PEOPLE.

"Little boy," said a gentleman, "why do you carry that umbrella over your head? It's not raining." "No." "And the sun is not shining." "No." "Then why do you carry it?" "'Cause when it rains pa wants it, an it's only this kinder weather that I kin git ter use it at all."

A bright little 3-year-old wanted his auntie to play with him. She said she was too old. He hunted around until he found the machine oil can, then brought it to her and said; "Now I'll oil up the old machine so that it can go."

A little girl while on a visit to her grandmother had been seriously ill, and, as she grew better, was spoken of as convalescent. Thinking it would be very smart to use a long word, she wrote home, "Dear mamma, I am happy to say that I am convulsive."

My little 4-year-old Mabel came to me the other morning to button her apron—which is ingeniously contrived to fasten behind for some unknown feminine reason—and thoughtfully remarked: "If I could get behind myself I could do it."

I said to my little son, 3½ years old: "That is all the jelly you can have, dear; make it go as far as you can." Quick as a flash came the answer: "I'll make it go as far as my stomach."

Little 3-year-old Arthur was pulling the cat's tail, when a gentleman visiting there said: "You mustn't do that; she will bite." To this he replied: "Cats don't bite at this end."

"You don't mean to say that you understand French, Tommy?" "Oh! yes, I do. When ma and pa speak French at tea, I know I'm to have a powder."—Babyhood.

The Lime Kiln Club.

When the meeting had opened in due and ancient form Brother Gardner looked up and down the aisles and said:

"Dar' ar' many strange things about dis yere thing called human natur'. Pay a barber double price fur a shave today an' fo' weeks hence he will hev de cheek to ask fur a cash loan.

"If I lend Pickles Smith a dollar an' he kin conveniently pay it back he ar' grateful. If he wants to use dat dollar fur sunthin' else he looks upon me as an oppressor.

"Chip in an' feed and clothe a poor family outer charity an' dey at once jump to de conclushun dat de world owes 'em a libin'.

"A citizen wid a thousand dollars in his pocket won't walk two squares widout hevin' his boots blacked. A citizen wid a $10,000 house will keep an ole picket fence stanlin' in front of it year arter year as an ornament.

"You'll find de chap who wants sunthin' to keep off de cold in Jinuary callin' fur sunthin' to ward off de heat in July, an' de curus part of it am dat he calls fur de same sort of whisky.

"When a man has slandered or lied about you, you kin an' do fergive him. When you hev slandered or lied about somebody else, you wouldn't fergive 'em if dey cum to yer on bended knees.

"We argy dat it makes no difference to our pocket what our naybur airns, but if we l'arn at his salary ar' greater dan ours, de least we kin wish him ar' three months' sickness.

"De howlin' of my dog neber disturbs me in de slightest, but let my naybur's cat utter one 'yeow' an' I'm right on eand in bed an' fightin' mad."—Detroit Free Press.

Credit in the West.

There are different kinds of pluck. They don't always inspire the same respect and confidence. A man in Arizona sent up to a firm in San Francisco for some goods. They were to be furnished on credit, and he gave a reference in town. The firm called upon the reference.

"Do you know this man in Arizona?"

"Know him? Certainly; know him well."

"What kind of a man is he?"

"He's a splendid fellow; a good fellow."

"He's in business there, isn't he?"

"Why, yes. He's an enterprising chap got lots of push and pluck."

"He's written to us."

"What does he want?"

"Credit."

"That's all right."

"Well, we'd like to know what kind of a man he is."

"What kind of a man he is? Grit! That's what he is. He's the kind of a man who'd put up $1,000 on a pair of deuces and never wink."

"Thank you."—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Tables Turned.

The late Rev. Rural Dean Smithell, of Omemee, Ont., wrote a very illegible hand. On one occasion he sent a letter to the bishop of Niagara, who returned it with this indorsement:

DEAR SMITHELL—Impossible to read it.
Yours, FULLER.

The bishop wrote the name and title of his reverend friend on the envelope, but entirely forgot the address, which was supplied in pencil by the postmaster. Dr. Smithell immediately returned it in an inclosure with these remarks:

DEAR FULLER—The next time you write please address your letter. Yours,
SMITHELL.
—Detroit Free Press.

A Family Affair.

"Bingley, I am very much disgusted with you."

"What's the matter?"

"Well, I was unfortunate enough to be arrested the other day and when I sent a note to you asking you, as a friend, to help me out, you never even answered me."

"I couldn't do anything for you."

"Why not?"

"I was in jail myself."—Nebraska State Journal.

An Embarrassing Question.

Little Emily—Do you like coffee, Mr. Watkins?

Old Mr. Watkins—Certainly, dear.

Little Emily—Well, you make such a noise swallowing, I thought perhaps it hurt you. Does it?—New York Tribune.

MISCELLANEOUS.

—If a man publishes a paper which is of no interest to its readers he had better offer some contemptible premium to induce people to take it.

—There is a New York man who frequently gets into difficulty through a habit which he has, when hard up, of pawning his wife's cork leg for money to buy drink.

—Texas is excusable for feeling big. The State contains 274,356 square miles, which is more than double the area of England, Scotland and Ireland combined.

—Some of the shepherds in the mountains of Bulgaria live for ten and fifteen years attending their flocks, and never knowing what it is to sleep in a house or to enjoy any of the comforts of civilization.

—An Indiana judge did not know what a cartoon was. A lawyer sketched the body of a jackass with his, the judge's head and face attached as a specimen, and was promptly fined $25 for contempt of court.

—A very curious toast, the apparent irreverence of which disappears upon reflection, used to be common thirty years ago at commercial tables on Sundays. It was, "Rusty swords and dirty Bibles."

—An old log-cabin that was built by George Washington and occupied by him while surveying a part of the Shenandoah Valley, is still standing in a fair state of preservation a few miles from Winchester, Va.

—Miss Gushington—"Do you not find Dr. Smalltalk entertaining? He is such a mimic. Mr. Sneerington (who detests the doctor)—"I have often noticed that the doctor takes people off cleverly."—Town Topics.

—Smith—"I see you are keeping company with Miss Jones yet?" Brown—"Yes." "Does it mean business?" "Can't tell. I wouldn't be surprised, though, if I received a proposal soon."—Binghamton Republican.

—The Graphic tells of a wealthy Western man who was about to visit New York City for the first time, and, wishing somebody to show him around, telegraphed in advance to secure the services of "an experienced bunko-steerer."

—Farmer Bascom—"I do wish the threshing machine would come around this way." Johnny Bascom—"O, pa, that reminds me. Teacher wanted me to tell you he was comin' to our house to board next week."—Burlington Free Press.

—In the office of the Recorder of Deeds, Philadelphia, is preserved a justice's docket over 100 years old. One of the entries in the volume is as follows: "Commonwealth agt. Stephen Blunt, July 24, 1778. Charged of drinking Damnation to General Washington and all his Army. Defendant held in £200."

—A woman in Newton, Kan., who is so poor as to have become an object of charity, kicked because a can of baking powder which she received was not accompanied by a prize, and another female beneficiary of the benevolent society sent back to the grocer a quantity of bacon and beans with which she had been supplied, stating that she wanted a turkey and some cranberries.

—The failure of the potato crop of 1887 was the worst that has befallen the country since 1881, when the average yield per acre was only 53.5 bushels. The disaster is attributable to two causes, opposite in operation but uniform in their ultimate result. The crop in the Western States was stunted for want of sufficient rain, and that in the Eastern States was rotted by a surplus of it.

—Illicit "cider brandy" distilling, it is claimed, is indulged in by some of the farmers in Litchfield County, Conn. The cider is boiled in a copper kettle with a tight cover, and a pipe conveys the steam outside which condenses into brandy in the winter air. If a spotter arrives the pipe is disconnected and the cover removed; the spy only finds the farmer boiling cider, which is perfectly legitimate.

THE POISONED KEY.

How Padua's Tyrant Disposed of Disagreeable Companions.

Another delightful relic of the life and times of the Tyrant of Padua is a simple key—about the size of an ordinary door key. It was the key of the Duke's library in his private room. When he wanted to get rid of any of his suite or any person in his household that he had a bitter feeling against, he used to ring his bell and ask for Mr. John to be sent to him (fancy name of course.) When John entered the Duke would say: "O, John, I wish you would go to the book-case in my private room and bring me the 'Dagonet Ballads.'" "Certainly, your Grace," Mr. John would say, and away he would trot with the key in his hand. When he got to the library he would put the key in the lock of the book-case and turn it. But directly he turned it, out of the handle of the key shot a long poisoned needle, which stabbed the hand of the holder and instantly shot back again. John would let go of the key and say: "What the deuce was that." He would look at his hand and see only a small, dark blue spot. He would think nothing of it but all of a sudden he would begin to feel queer in his head. Presently some one would come in and find him in a fit on the floor and the household would be alarmed. "Mr. John has had a stroke of a fit," the people would say. A doctor would be sent for, but his services would be of no avail. In twenty-four hours Mr. John would be dead and everybody would think he had died through a fit. There were no bothering coroners' inquests to upset the plans of clever fellows like the Duke Francis in those days.—George A. Linds, in Referee.

FAMINE IN GOLD.

A Statistical Miner Gives Some Very Interesting Figures.

"Probably nine-tenths of all the gold obtained by man has been taken from placer deposits, and our American experience has been no exception to the general rule," remarked an experienced mining operator in speaking of the past and future of this valuable product the other evening. "Previous to 1847 our total gold production amounted to $12,000,000, but between 1847 and 1887 about $1,750,000,000 were contributed to our stock of gold. Of this, nearly three-fourths came from placer deposits. In 1850-56 we obtained more than $50,000,000 per annum in gold from the placers of California, and almost nothing from gold-bearing veins. Now, with an annual production of $30,000,000 about one-half is from placers. Our own territory has been so thoroughly explored that no considerable superficial deposits of gold are likely to be discovered, and nearly the same thing can be said of the entire world.

"In the northern extension of our western mountain ranges in British Columbia and Alaska there are probably important deposits of gold. It is likely, however, to come from this region in a moderate but perennial stream, and not in a flood. Great difficulty will attend the working of those mines on account of the cold, long winters and the difficulty in transporting supplies. Unless the mines should prove richer than expected there may be a dearth of gold in the near future. In the Allegheny belt of mountains, in this country, there are large deposits of gold, but they are difficult to work. Still industry and perseverance may make them pay a profit. Mexico may be expected to turn out $1,000,000 a year, but no more. The west coast of South America yields little but silver.

"Colombia, Venezuela and Brazil have, on the contrary, always been producers of gold. It is estimated that from Brazil alone more than $1,000,000,000 in gold were obtained during the first 300 years after the advent of the Portuguese. Colombia and Venezuela are now yielding about $4,000,000 each annually and little more than that can be expected in the future.

"Australia produces about $30,000,000 a year and we can not hope for more than $5,000,000 annually from Asia. That will cover it all. I don't fear that you and I will ever suffer from a famine of gold, but unless the North American deposits are richer than is expected some one will suffer."—N. Y. Mail and Express.

THE LIMEKILN CLUB.

Brother Gardner Comments on the Selfishness of the Human Family.

"Man is an onreasonable animal when you cum to figger him down," said Brother Gardner, when the meeting quietly opened and Trustee Pullback finally got seated. "When I go to trade horses wid a man I expect he will pint out all the ringbones an' spavins on his beast, an' let me conceal all de ailments in my own.

"If my naybur haint got sugar to lend de fackt riles my hull family. If I havn't a hoe to lend him I calmly advise him to buy one of his own.

"We git together an' agree dat de kentry ar' gwine to de dogs on account of dishonest office-holders, an' on leckshun day we turn out an' work hard for a rascally candydate bekase he has promised us a fat 'pintment.

"We see de need of a stringent law an' we 'lect our best lawyers to the Legislacher to make it. De law coches us whar' de hav' ar' short, and we go to dose same lawyers an' offer 'em a bribe to find a loop-hole.

"Waydown Bebee buys a hoss. He schrimps on de hay in order to buy mo' plug tobacker fur himself, and bekase de horse begins to show his ribs Brudder Bebee howls about de dishonesty of de farmers.

"We sot on de fence an' injoy de sunshine an' count dp how many bushels of turnips orter grow while we are off fishin'. If we ar' short on turnips we excuse ourselves but blame de Lawd.

"We kin see whar' de man nex' doah can't afford to keep two hired gals an' buy his wife a sealskin cloak, but it's all right fur us to buy a pianer an' put up lightnin' rods on a good deal less wages.

"De man who gits up in Jinuary an' howls fur spring kin allus be found cussin' de hot weather 'bout de middle of July.

"If Samuel Shin lends Pickles Smith a couple of dollars he can't sleep nights fur fear he won't git it back. If de contrary ar' de case, Samuel kin sleep till nine o'clock in the mawnin' an' loaf all de rest of de day.

"Let a friend cum to us wid de toofache an' we kin calmly give him dreckshuns how to reach de nighest dentist. Let us have an achin' molar an' we expeck ebery pussen to break his back huntin' up some remedy an' feelin' sorry. Take us all in all, an' we ar' a selfish, onreasonable, inconsistent lot, an' de only reason de Lawd lets us lib on is bekase He hain't got no place to bury us all to once."—Detroit Free Press.

—Newly arrived Irishman—"But fwhat good do I git out av it if I join the Milaysian Mutual Binifit & Protective Association?" Acclimated Milesian—"We bury a mimber every Sonday, an' it's a beautiful drive to the cimetary."—Life.

—Wife—"Where have you been?" Husband—"I have just ushered that impertinent Miss Smythe to the door. This is the eleventh time this week she has called on our son and I have sworn never to give her his hand."—Tid-Bits.

BILL NYE ON MAY MOVING.

HE RELATES HIS THRILLING EXPERIENCE IN THE METROPOLIS.

Why He Wished to Fresconce Himself in a Brown Stone Front House—How He Was Shot Out at Night in a Great City. The Middle Class the Sufferers.

I dislike to speak of my moving in New York for several reasons. In the first place it is a very old subject, and in the second place it is an intensely disagreeable one to me.

Last year I was unfortunate. I spent the month of April looking for a house, and finally decided to take the Plummer house, as the tenants there were good people, but were going to Europe to have fun with some of the monarchies. The house was a good one, with Croton water and sewer gas in it, and as I had been denied the pleasure of sleeping in a room where I could blow out the sewer gas at night, I secured the place.

Later, however, the Plummers concluded to take the Minks house for the summer, instead of jarring the already tottering dynasties of the old world. The Minkses were to take the Olds house, and the Oldses were going into the Pangborn house. Pangborn's folks claimed that they were going into the Rutledge place on the first of the month, provided the Rutledges moved into the Schwartz house. The Schwartzes had not yet fully decided whether to keep their house another year.

About three days before the 1st Schwartz concluded that he would rather have the Stikeleather place, which he could get at the same price, and so he cabled me through the Rutledges, the Pangborns, the Oldses, the Minkses and the Plummers that everything was all right. I, therefore, caught a stair carpet in my teeth and "gliding down the bannisters" ripped the costly fabric from dome to basement, filling the air with stair rods and the dandruff of time. I rolled up this carpet and left it in the hall for intimate friends to fall over, and then went out on the street to secure a man who would be willing to move us on moving day to the Plummer place.

I was real glad to secure the Plummer house, for, as I say, it had every convenience and looked so much like all the other houses on that street that when a man went in it he felt as though he owned the whole block. I always thought, too, that there was a kind of vague, indefinite feeling about stealing into one of those extremely and abnormally similar brown stone high stoop houses at night which reminded me of the singular yet pleasing apprehension one feels when one has quenched his thirst at night on a sleeping car and returns to gently enter a berth which has no originality about its exterior, but may contain his own clothes or the clothes of another, for it has no distinguishing berth mark, as it were, and one does not know whether one will be shot dead by an infuriated man who is lying awake to defend his Waterbury watch with his life or bitten by a set of artificial teeth tied to the inside of the curtain.

But I was speaking of the Plummer place. It looked plain on the outside, but had cute little rooms which could be richly furnished by putting a rug and a chair in each one. The parlor also had room for an ottoman, provided it was not a very large ottoman. The back parlor could be profusely and luxuriantly furnished by putting in an album and a picture of Abraham Lincoln signing the Emancipation proclamation, which I had purchased of a connoisseur. It had a scraper at the door and an iron hitching post in front of the house where the nobility could tie their teams when they came to spend the day with us.

The hall was just wide enough to admit a moderate sized man after he had taken his overcoat off. Everything was petite, cozy and debonnaire. There was an antique air about the whole house also. It was an air that seemed to have been handed down from the dead past. It was such an air as an antiquarian might pick up in the Catacombs and bring home with him to put into a house. I hardly know how to describe it, but it impressed you at once, and you concluded that some very old family had lived there as long as they could and had then died.

So I wanted to have the Plummer house and impress people with the fact that we were a good deal older family than we look to be. As a matter of fact, we do not spring from a very long line, but have worked our way up into notice by our own efforts, like the Prince of Wales.

On the 1st day of May a man came around to our house driving a large, green second hand tiger van. It looked some like the van of civilization, but the man who drove it was drunk. Otherwise he was a perfect gentleman. He talked freely with me and looked at our album while I was strapping a trunk. He said it was wonderful how folks had improved in making pictures. Look at the pictures that were taken during the war! I said yes, certainly. Look at anything and see how different it was from something else. I said this with a tinge of bitterness, for I was in a hurry to get moved out, as the Lunkerses had already begun to move into the house we were leaving.

He then closed the book wearily and began to smell of some bottles which he found in a hamper. He tried several times to fit his large, spongy nose to one of these bottles, but did not succeed. By that time I had put several of the heavier articles in the van, and he helped carry the bric-a-brac and load it in.

At 11 o'clock the parade started, with the right resting on Two Hundred and First street and the left on the opposite side from that. We reached Union square at 5:30 p. m., without having been discovered by roving bands from the Tammany reservation, and halted for food and water, intending to cross the Fourteenth street divide and camp on the Dry Forks of Little Fifth avenue for the night, that being the place where the Plummer ranch was situated.

While the horses were taking much needed nourishment from a pair of nose bags and I had gone to a concealed spring in one corner of the Morton house for water, a breathless messenger boy came up to the driver with a note stating that Stikeleather had decided not to give up his house, and so the Schwartzes had no place to go, but had decided to remain in their own house. It was the same with the Rutledges, the Pangborns, the Oldses, the Minkses and the Plummers. I did not know what to do.

Looking down at the ground, the more readily to think of something, I thought I saw a footprint. Following the spoor for a short distance I came to an hostelry, in which I remembered to have stopped before. Driving the van up to the front door and calling out the proprietor, I said to him: "Sir, heretofore you have objected to me on the grounds that I had no baggage. Will you please check this van and give me a good room connected with the swearing salon."

* * * * * * *

The rich and poor do not worry so much over this matter as the great middle class. The rich do not have to move and the poor have very little to move, but the middle classes, who load themselves down with a feeble imitation of grandeur, and yet do not feel able to own a house, have to suffer.—Bill Nye in New York World.

FAST RAILWAY TRAINS.

Those in this Country Do Not Attain the Speed of English Expresses.

"A Chicagoan who has just returned from England says the people over there hear of the "limited," "cannonball," "lightning," "g-wizz," "thunderbolt" and other fast trains on American railroads, and have, through the extravagance of these nicknames, gained the idea that when Yankees get in a hurry to go some place they are not satisfied with any thing slower than a mile a minute. "Imagine their surprise," says this gentleman, "when told that our 'lightning' trains run only thirty-five miles an hour. It is in England that you can really travel fast, and they make no ado about it, either. While I was abroad the new limited trains from Chicago to Omaha and Kansas City were put on. The Englishmen spoke of that, and wondered if the rival trains made more than a mile a minute. I showed them a time-table—600 miles to Omaha, time, sixteen hours, speed thirty-one miles an hour. Even the limited trains on which extra fare is charged run less than forty miles an hour between New York and Chicago, and the wonderful 'fast mail' that glides into Chicago at the ridiculous hour of midnight travels only thirty-one miles an hour. In England third-class passengers ride from forty to forty-five miles an hour, and nobody pays extra fare on account of the speed. From New York to Albany it is 142 miles by a splendid track. There are ten express trains daily between these cities, and their average speed is twenty-nine miles an hour. Between London and Sheffield, 162 miles, the Great Northern runs nine trains daily, with an average speed of forty-five miles an hour. One train makes fifty miles an hour. Between New York and Boston the average speed is thirty miles an hour, and the fastest a train composed exclusively of sleeping-cars, makes thirty-nine miles an hour. Between London and Manchester, 203 miles, there are twenty trains daily, with an average speed of forty-one miles an hour, and some trains making fifty. Between London and Glasgow, 440 miles, there are thirteen daily expresses, and their average speed is almost forty miles an hour, one train being much faster than this. All over England and Scotland express trains, composed of first, second and third-class carriages, make from thirty-five to fifty miles an hour, while in America a thirty-five-mile train is called a streak of lightning. The fastest regular train in America is one on the Baltimore and Ohio, which makes the forty miles between Washington and Baltimore in fifty minutes. There are three or four fast trains between New York and Philadelphia, covering forty-six miles an hour. Between Liverpool and Manchester there are fifty-two trains daily, none of them slower than forty-five miles an hour, and four of them making fifty-one and a third miles an hour. When we get some trains like that we can begin to talk of 'fast mails' and 'thunderbolts.'"—Chicago Herald.

BURIAL SOCIETIES.

How the Colored People of Washington Invest Their Pocket-Money.

There is a curious custom among the negroes here of having burial societies; organizations for the exclusive purpose of making a display at the funerals of those who belong to them. The average colored man will contemplate the hereafter with much less dread if he is certain that his mortal part will be conducted to the grave by a long procession of his friends and a brass band, and this characteristic of the race has led to the organization of a number of societies, among which there is considerable rivalry as to the demonstrations made at the funerals of their respective members. They are incorporated under such lugubrious and fine-sounding titles as "The Sons and Daughters of Gethsemane," "The Ancient and Honorable Order of the Gallilean Fisherman," The Most Devoted Brethren and Sisters of the Star of Bethlehem," and others of a similar sort hold meetings at brief and regular intervals, and have no end of signs and mysteries. They have elaborate regalias and paraphernalia of all descriptions, and pay annual dues for the support of the order. Scarcely a colored man can be found in the city who is not a member of one or more of the societies—the more the better if he wants a big time at his funeral—and, as non-payment of dues deprives members of that blessing, the colored people are a great deal more inclined to keep these accounts up than to pay their doctors or their pew rent.

When a member dies each of the brethren are not only required to pay an assessment to buy the coffin and pay the expenses of the funeral, but every blessed one of them must turn out on the day of the funeral and march in the procession behind the band in full regalia, or be subjected to a heavy fine in addition to the assessment. It costs a good deal more to stay away from a funeral than it does to attend, and no sort of an excuse is accepted except that of illness, and that won't go down without a physician's certificate. In order to give every body a fair chance to attend, all funerals are held on Sunday, except where the subject can not be preserved so long, and on that day the streets are full of processions and the atmosphere of the music of bands.—Washington Letter.

—"Mercy!" exclaimed Miss Tonce, "what in the world are the poor going to do for back hair? The papers say the switchmen have struck, and of course prices will go up fearfully."

PURSUED BY A LION.

A Hunter's Life Saved Through the Sagacity of a Dog.

The narrator of the following adventure was out in the forest, and wandered much farther than he intended. At last his dog was set upon by a lion, and only got off with his life; but a dog's senses are sometimes worth more than a man's judgment, and in the present instance, half dead as he was, the dog saved his master's life:

The children loved my dog, and no artery was cut. I shredded some Spanish moss, bound up his wounds, slung him in my scarf, and set out for home; so far had we wandered that it was nearer than the corral. I am strong, but the sun was hot, and a dog is heavy on one's shoulder. No path led through the forest, and I could not feel sure, not being an Indian, that I was following the true course. A hundred times I thought of dropping the poor animal, but I had not the heart when he licked my neck, and I remembered what his fate would be, devoured alive by ants.

Presently he became restless, and then he growled. "It needs many lessons to teach a fool," says the proverb. I hit him with my elbow, but he would not be quiet. He began to bark feebly, gathering up his limbs—poor beast! I suddenly caught the hint and turned. At a few yards' distance the bushes softly swayed beside my track! The lion was following again. I looked to my rifle and set forward. In ten minutes the growling recommenced, and the excitement of the dog grew stronger and stronger. The brute was creeping up! I cocked my gun, and faced round, but that beast was quicker! Nothing could be seen but the waving of the twigs. I fired a chance shot to no effect, and resumed my way after loading. For a long while all was quiet. I gained the river bank, and was working down, relieved of all anxiety, for the spot was familiar.

Beyond a broad belt of reeds and swampy ground lay the clearing. That was an ugly bit to traverse, with a lion at one's heels, and I congratulated myself he had run away. One could not see a yard on either hand when, halfway through, the dog growled and barked and struggled more violently than before. When I turned, the leaves were all bending and quivering but five yards away. I shot and hurried on, but the ground was difficult. In a few moments the dog again gave warning, and the reeds swayed all about. I shot; but now the dog did not cease to raise such feeble clamor as he could, and I shot as fast as I could load. The firing saved me. Two vaqueros resting in the shade knew the sound of my piece, and came to meet me, hallooing. The dog was almost choked in convulsions by this time, and I believe that lion had just gathered himself to spring when their shouts alarmed him.

From that time I have understood how a kind action does not go unrewarded. For, if I had abandoned my dog that day, I never should have reached home.—Belgravia Magazine.

BANK-NOTE COMPANIES.

How Employes of These Concerns Are Prevented From Stealing.

The recent arrest of two boys for stealing elevated railroad tickets from the Hamilton Bank Note Company, after they had been ordered to destroy them, was a surprise to the customers of bank note companies everywhere, as well as to the officials. It was the first time in years that a theft by employes of a bank note company had been made public, and, if the officials of these concerns can be believed, it was the first time that any such theft had occurred.

The president of a large bank note company in this city recently said to the writer that it was absolutely impossible for any of his subordinates to steal any thing without being detected at once. Every imaginable safeguard is used to prevent the company's suffering through the dishonesty of its employes. In printing bank notes, or stamps, or bonds, or tickets the paper to be used is carefully measured beforehand by one of the higher officials. Only enough to make the number ordered is given to the workmen, and they are held responsible for it thereafter. If a single stamp or ticket is lost the doors are locked and nobody is allowed to leave the workshop until it is found or satisfactorily accounted for.

With bank notes and bonds extra precautions are used, and they are counted after going through each process. If a mistake occurs all have to be done over, and the first batch is destroyed. If one is lost and can not be recovered all are destroyed and a new series printed in entirely different colors.

An instance of this kind occurred several years ago. A bank note company in this city printed some bonds on contract for the Virginia Government. One package was stolen while they were being transported to the Treasurer. Of course none of them had been signed, and they were therefore not valid; but all the rest were at once destroyed and a new set in different colors were ordered.

Each official in a bank note company serves as a check upon the other until the president is reached. He is practically unchecked. All men are supposed to be other than they seem, and the highest have been known to err, but so far no instance is on record in this country where the president of a bank note company became a defaulter.—N. Y. Sun.

—If the 60,000,000 codfish annually taken off the Newfoundland coast were left in the sea it is estimated that there would be a yearly addition of 150,000,000,000,000 of young codfish.

He Pulled the Rope.

Lawyer Tom Prudiville was down in Freedomville again one day last week, and returned loaded down to the gunwales with another cargo of fresh stories from the little town where liberty and truth slumber under the same shed and drink out of the same dipper. Here is a sample as Tom tells it: "There was a darky stopping there for a day or two who was a beauty. He wore a high hat that had been black once, but had since bleached to a fawn color. Around his neck was twisted a collar that had been intended as a turn down, but he wore it with the ends turned up. His vest would have made an elegant side partner for a canvas horse feed bucket, but it admirably matched his pants, which were brief but to the point, quite in contradistinction to his elongaiters, which seemed to have been ordered soon after some one had broken a corner in leather. The darky was a barber looking for a job, which he didn't find in Freedomville, so he concluded to leave the place. The only time that a through train stops at Freedomville is when a citizen flags by rolling a rock on the track, but the tinted brother wasn't up to that wrinkle and sought for information from my friend, the Frenchman. Frenchy told him to pull a bell rope, as he called it, which hung near the station. When the colored gent saw the train within 100 yards or so of the station he pulled the rope as directed—it was the rope which started the supply running down the big funnel from the railroad water tank. They had to roll the black stranger on a barrel to get the water out of him."—Chicago Herald.

No Fool Remedies for Him.

Brown—I can tell you what will cure that cold, Dumley. You take a big drink of hot flaxseed tea to-night at 9 o'clock and go to bed.

Dumley—Nonsense. I'm on my way to see a doctor now. When I am sick I don't take any fool remedies.

Dumley (later, to physician)—Doctor, I've got a severe cold.

Physician (gravely)—Um; bad, very bad, particularly at this season of the year. Had it long?

Dumley—About a week.

Physician—Um, in the head or on the chest?

Dumley—It's got me both ways, doctor.

Physician—Um, let me try your lungs. (Doctor seizes Dumley with what is known in Graeco Roman wrestling parlance as the grab-him-quick and chuck-him-over-your-head-and-kill-him hold, and listens intently for ten minutes.) Um, appetite good?

Dumley—Fairish.

Physician—Um, sleep well?

Dumley—Haven't slept a wink for two nights, neither has my wife.

Physician—Um; wife troubled with a cold, too?

Dumley—Yes; troubled with mine.

Physician—Um, let me feel of your tongue—er—I should say see your tongue and feel of your pulse. Um, yes, pulse feeble and tongue coated. Where did you get this cold?

Dumley—I was over in Pennsylvania last week, and I think I got it there.

Physician—Um, yes, people can't be too careful about going to Pennsylvania. Throat sore?

Dumley—It's getting sore, doctor.

Physician—Um, taken anything yet?

Dumley—No.

Physician—Um; well, Mr. Dumley, to-night at 9 o'clock you take a big drink of hot flaxseed tea and go to bed. In the morning I think you will be all right.

Dumley (gratefully)—Thanks, doctor; how much?

Physician—Two dollars, please.—New York Sun.

He Got There.

"I passed you on the street yesterday and you did not even bow to me," he said as they shooks hands in front of the Moffat block.

"I was very busy yesterday and you must excuse me."

"I wondered at your cool treatment."

"Couldn't help it, you know."

"What had I done?"

"Oh, nothing. I was contracting to supply a hotel with two tons of ice daily all summer. Had to keep cool, you see."

When they had separated the man who had asked for an explanation turned to a friend who came up and said:

"Say, I don't quite twig. Ah! yes, I do. Ha! ha! Very funny! He treated me coolly because he—he"——

"He what?"

"Because he was making a bargain with a hotel man. He! he! he! I may be a little slow, but I get there all the same."—Detroit Free Press.

Look Before You Leap.

you
Alice
That's m

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, JULY 21 ..... 1888

MISCELLANEOUS.

James Hillyer,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

Plans, Specifications
And Estimates of all kinds of buildings
Furnished.

All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.
JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

INYO MEAT MARKET,

MAILS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand, the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.
dec18-tf

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C.E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.
PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK
Livery, Feed & Sale Stable.
ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 29, 1883.

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms for the use of patrons. In every respect a
FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

IRWIN'S SALOON
Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,
Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR
Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

115 CLAY STREET, 117
SMITH'S STORE
The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale to Consumers.

SECOND

ANNUAL FAIR OF Agricultural District No. 18.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Composed Of the Counties of

ALPINE, MONO & INYO.

TO BE HELD AT

Independence

Commencing Monday, September 17th, and Continuing Five Days.

A. R. CONKLIN.....President.
C. MULHOLLAND.....Secretary.
O. I. MAIRS.....Treasurer.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

A. R. CONKLIN, NATHAN RHINE,
WM. WALKER, W. S. ENOS,
W. K. MILLER, HARVEY BOONE,
J. S. GORMAN, JOHN SHEPHERD.

First Department.

In this department the same animal shall not be entered more than once, except in sweepstakes or as a member of a family exhibited with its sire or dam. Any stallion, mare, gelding or colt competing in a race will not be excluded from competing premiums in their respective classes.

CLASS I.
THOROUGHBRED HORSES.

Best stallion ..... $20 00
Second best stallion ..... 10 00

CLASS II.
STANDARD TROTTERS.

Best Stallion, 3 years and upward ..... 20 00
Best Stallion, 2 year old ..... 15 00
Best stallion, 1 year old ..... 10 00
Best Colt under 1 year ..... 5 00
Best mare and colt ..... 10 00

CLASS III.
ROADSTERS.

Best Roadster, 3 years and upward ..... 20 00
Best Roadster, 2 year old ..... 10 00
Best roadster team ..... 10 00
Will have to be shown to harness.

CLASS IV.
HORSES OF ALL WORK.

Best stallion, 3 years old and upward ..... $20 00
Best stallion 2 years old ..... 15 00
Best stallion 1 year old ..... 10 00
Best Colt ..... 5 00
Best mare, 3 years old and upward ..... 15 00
Best mare, 2 years old ..... 10 50
Best mare, 1 year old ..... 5 00
Best mare and family, not less than three ..... 20 00

CLASS V.
DRAFT HORSES.

Best stallion, 3 years old and upward ..... $20 00
Best stallion 2 years old ..... 15 00
Best stallion 1 year old ..... 7 50
Best mare, 3 years old and upward ..... 10 00
Best mare and colt ..... 5 00
Best matched team ..... 10 00
Best mare and 3 colts ..... 10 00

CLASS V.
TEAMS.

Best matched carriage team ..... 10 00
Best matched buggy team ..... 10 00

CLASS VII.
SADDLE ANIMALS.

Best, any age .....
Second best .....

CLASS VIII.
SWEEPSTAKES.

Best stallion any breed or age, Association cup.
Best mare, any breed or age, Association cup.

CLASS IX.
JACKS.

Best Jack, 2 years old and upward ..... 15 00
Best Jack 1 year old ..... 10 00

CLASS X.
MULES.

Best span owned by one person, 3 years or over 10 00
Best span under 3 years ..... 10 00

CLASS XI.
CATTLE—BULLS.

Best bull, any breed 3 years old and upward .. 20 00
Best bull, any breed, 2 years old ..... 10 00
Best bull, any breed, 1 year old ..... 5 00

CLASS XII.
COWS.

Best cow, 3 years old and upward ..... $15 00
Best cow, 2 years old ..... 10 00
Best cow and calf ..... 10 00
Best cow and 2 calves ..... 15 00
Best milch cow, quantity and quality of milk .. 20 00

CLASS XIII.
SHEEP.

Best display of sheep ..... 10 00

CLASS XIV.
GOATS.

Best display of Angora goats ..... 20 00

CLASS XV.
SWINE.

Best display of hogs ..... 10 00

CLASS XVI.
POULTRY ETC.

Best display of fowls, any age or breed ..... 5 00
Second best ..... 2 50
Best pair of bronze turkeys ..... 5 00

Second Department.

All products exhibited in this department must have been produced in Nevada, or in California east of the Sierra Nevada mountains, and by the exhibitor.

CLASS I.
AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

Best 100 pounds of flour ..... $ 5 00
Best 100 pounds of wheat ..... 5 00
Best 100 pounds of barley ..... 5 00
Best 100 pounds of oats ..... 5 00
Best 100 pounds of corn ..... 5 00
Best 50 pounds of alfalfa seed ..... 5 00
Best bale of timothy hay ..... 5 00
Best bale of alfalfa hay ..... 5 00
Display of Agricultural Products ..... 15 00
Second Best ..... 10 00

CLASS II.
VEGETABLES, ROOTS, ETC.

Best 10 pounds of sweet potatoes ..... 2 00
50 pounds Early rose potatoes ..... 2 00
100 pounds any variety of potatoes ..... 2 00
12 pumps ..... 2 00
12 carrots ..... 2 00
12 pounds turnips ..... 2 00
12 beets ..... 2 00
10 pounds tomatoes, any variety ..... 2 00
½ doz cabbage ..... 2 00
50 pounds any variety onions ..... 2 00
½ doz. squash ..... 2 00
pumpkin ..... 2 00
sample of red peppers ..... 2 00
¼ doz. watermelon ..... 2 00
¼ doz. cucumbers ..... 2 00
¼ doz. cantaloupes ..... 2 00
10 pounds of white beans ..... 2 00
10 pounds of pink beans ..... 2 00
10 pounds garden peas ..... 2 00

CLASS III.
DAIRY AND FARM PRODUCE.

Best 10 pounds of butter in rolls ..... $10 00
Second best ..... 5 00
Best jar of butter, 20 pounds, 3 months old ..... 10 00
Single cheese any weight ..... 10 00
10 pounds of lard ..... 2 50
display of honey ..... 5 00
Apiary display ..... 10 00
display of bread, all varieties ..... 2 50
display of cake ..... 2 50
variety of fruit in jars ..... 10 00
Second best ..... 5 00
best variety of jellies ..... 7 50
Second best ..... 5 00
B[illegible] of preserves ..... 7 50
S[illegible] ..... 5 00
[illegible] pickles ..... 7 50
[illegible] ..... 5 00
[illegible] hams and bacon ..... 10 00

Third Department.

CLASS I.
HORTICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

[illegible] of apples ..... 5 00
[illegible] best ..... 2 50
[illegible] display pears ..... 5 00
Second best ..... 2 50
Best display peaches ..... 5 00
Second best ..... 2 50
Best display plums ..... 5 00
Second best ..... 2 50
Best display quinces ..... 5 00
grapes, white ..... 5 00
" assia ..... 5 00
prunes ..... 5 00
raisins ..... 5 00
Second best ..... 5 00
Best exhibition of dried fruits in varieties ..... 10 00
Second best ..... 5 00

Fourth Department.

CLASS I.

Best display of wine made in district ..... $10 00
Second best ..... 5 00

Fifth Department.

CLASS I.

Sixth Department.

Best oil painting done in district ..... $ 7 50
Second best ..... 5 00
crayon drawing ..... 5 00
On satin and Japanese tablets ..... 5 00
Collection of paintings by any Artist ..... 5 00

Seventh Department.

CLASS I.

Handsomest pillow shams ..... 2 50
Best patchwork quilt ..... 2 50
Best crochet quilt ..... 2 50
Handsomest crazy quilt ..... 2 50
Handsomest knitted quilt ..... 2 50
Handsomest sofa cushion ..... 2 00
Handsomest tidy ..... 2 00
Best embroidered lady's dress ..... 2 00
children's dress ..... 2 00
ottoman cover ..... 2 00
table cover, four corners ..... 2 00
scarf, two ends ..... 2 00
lambrequin, pair ..... 2 00 wall panel, or banner ..... 2 00
silk or flannel ..... 2 00
on linen ..... 2 00
Kensington, or wool or wool ..... 2 00
toilet set, three or more pieces ..... 2 00
lace work, hand made ..... 2 00
darned net, three or more pieces ..... 2 00
crochet shawl ..... 2 00
hand carved work scarf ..... 2 00 hearth rug ..... 2 00
Handsomest and best made lady's dress ..... 5 00
best display hand knit work ..... 2 00
Best display of fancy articles ..... 5 00
display of spanish needle work ..... 5 00
embroidery silks ..... 2 00
variety of artificial flowers ..... 2 00
hand knit stockings ..... 2 00

JUVENILE.

calico dress made by girl under 16 ..... 2 00
hand sewing, not less than 4 pieces ..... 2 00
crochet work by girl under 16 ..... 2 00
patchwork quilt by girl under 16 ..... 2 00
hand made shirt by girl under 16 ..... 2 00

Eighth Department.

CLASS I.

Best display gold, silver and lead ores, each ..... $ 5 00
Cabinet of minerals ..... 15 00
Second best ..... 10 00

In all exhibits of animals for premiums, other things being equal, blooded stock will be preferred.

All articles included in the above list—except the first department—to be on exhibition at the Pavilion on the second day and remain during the fair.

Special premiums will be offered for articles exhibited which are not included in the above list.

All entries to be made not later than 6 o'clock p. m. on the day preceding their exhibition. All stock and articles to be exhibited must be on the ground at 9:30 a. m. on the day intended for their exhibition. No animal to leave its stall between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. of the day of exhibition without permission of the Park Director. Exhibition will take place at 10 a. m. of each day and close at 4 p. m., with an intermission for lunch.

Speed Programme.

TUESDAY.

RUNNING—One mile, 3 in 5, free for all. Purse, $100.
TROTTING—Two-year-olds, to harness ½ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

WEDNESDAY.

TROTTING—Double team, mile and repeat. Purse, $100.
LADIES' TOURNAMENT—The most accomplished and graceful lady rider will receive a suitable premium and there will be prizes for all who compete.

THURSDAY.

TROTTING—Stallions, best 3 in 5, mile heats. Purse, $100.
RUNNING—Saddle horses, ½ mile and repeat free for all. Purse, $50.

FRIDAY.

TROTTING—Free for all, mile, 3 in 5, to harness. Purse, $100.
LADIES TOURNAMENT—Completing Wednesday's riding.

SATURDAY.

RUNNING—Consolation purse, free for all beaten horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.
TROTTING—Three-year-olds, mile, 2 in 3. Purse, $75.

In all the above races three to enter and two to start. Entrance, 10 per cent of purse. All entries to be made with the Secretary by 4 p. m. of the day preceding the race. All races to be called at 2 p. m. for the first race on the the day on which it takes place and the second race at 3 p. m., sharp. This rule will be strictly adhered to. Additional purses will be offered under the above conditions as horses are presented.

California State Agricultural Society rules to govern running races; National Trotting Association rules to govern trotting races.

ADMISSION:

To stock ground and pavilion, each ..... $ 50
Single Season Ticket ..... 2 50
Membership Ticket, admitting member, wife and minor children ..... 5 00
Life membership ..... 30 00

A. R. CONKLIN, President.
C. MULHOLLAND, Secretary.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday ..... January 28th
" ..... February 25th
" ..... March 24th
" ..... April 21st
" ..... May 19th
" ..... June 23rd
" ..... July 21st
" ..... August 18th
" ..... September 15th
" ..... October 13th
" ..... November 17th
" ..... December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law,
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

NORMAN HOUSE,
Independence, - Cal.
New House,
New Furniture,
Low Rates.
☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.
O. I. MAIRS, Prop.
feb12tf

Pioneer
Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known Stables, I invite the patronage of the public, offering there the best Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the ponderous ton.

Livery Accommodations

O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, JULY 21 ..... ...1888

See Hale Bros. new advertisement next week.

For some good, pure ice-cream go to Roeper's.

Mrs. W. H. George, of Bishop Creek, is visiting at Independence.

Found—A pair of spectacles. Owner can have same by calling at this office.

Morton George came down from Bishop Creek on Wednesday and is visiting in the vicinity.

The Independence baseball nine has organized and will play practice games every Sunday.

John F. Millner and Mr. Bertrand, of Benton, were at Independence some days this week.

John Baxter is the first farmer in the neighborhood of Independence to get new wheat to market this year.

John Reddy returned last Wednesday from San Francisco. He has been attend- a commercial college there about a year.

The new band uniforms arrived this week and the boys will make a gay appearance on Sunday. A full attendance may be expected.

An entertainment is in preparation, to be given in Agricultural Hall a week or two hence. Further particulars will be given next week.

Judge LaMar, of San Jose, arrived at Independence last Tuesday. Next day he went to Cottonwood, at Owens Lake, where he is interested in land with R. E. Barnes.

Mr. J. W. Bledsoe, the photographer, will start in a few days on a trip in the high Sierras to make a collection of views of points of interest. He will be absent about a month.

John C. Eddy, of Darwin, was hurt at the beginning of the week. He had been subpœnaed as a witness in the trial of Elliott and was starting from Darwin on horse back to come to Independence, when the horse bucked and threw Mr. Eddy, injuring him so that he was unable to make the trip.

George Collins is a candidate for the Republican nomination for County Clerk. Mr. Collins has lived many years near Bishop Creek and is well known as a good, intelligent citizen. He is an old soldier and is deserving of the support of all the veterans in the county.

Manuel Frates, a native of Portugal, is confined in jail at Independence awaiting an examination to test his sanity. Frates had been at the County Hospital, but Dr. Woodin reported him to be a dangerous maniac and he was lodged in jail on Thursday. He will be examined as soon as Judge Hannah can get time to attend to the case.

The following is the price to the pupil from retail dealers of State school books: First reader, 20 cents; second reader, forty cents; third reader, 65 cents; speller, 30 cents; primary number lessons, 25 cents; advanced arithmetic, 50 cents; English grammar, 50 cents; U. S. history, 80 cents.

At the coming fair of the 18th District at Independence a purse of twenty dollars will be given to the vaquero who in the shortest time shall lasso and tie a steer. The steers will be turned loose at the race track on a day to be fixed, during the week of the fair. No entrance fee required; competition open to everybody.

Mr. W. W. Collins, of Warm Spring, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for County Clerk. Mr. Collins is a young man of excellent character; he has not been very long in the county but he has interests here that as fully unite him with it as if he had been to the manor born.

The Reno Gazette of last Monday says that Israel Luce was then at Reno. He said a company was about to build very extensive shops for working marble from the quarry in Owens Valley, and he thought the shops might be located at Reno. A site for the shops and plenty of water had been offered the company free of cost at that place.

A few days ago a wellknown whisky drummer for a San Francisco house was at Independence. He said that a few years ago men in that business could afford to wear diamonds all over them, but now it is hard work to make a living. The volume of business is nearly as great as ever but there is not so much profit in it as formerly. Competition has made the change. In every business competition will protect the consumer on articles that can be made at home.

Water Works.

Last Monday the citizens of Bishop Creek held a meeting and discussed the question of building water works for the town. The proposition was strongly supported and a committee was appointed to make arrangements for going on with the work. An abundance of the best water in the world can be put in the town at very moderate cost.

Bismuth.

A prospector named Cunha has made what promises to be a lucky find over near Deep Spring, in the Inyo range. He struck a vein of metal that was new to him and he couldn't tell what it was. He sent samples to Selby & Co. who assayed them and reported that the metal was Bismuth, and the ore carried fifty per cent. of that metal. Bismuth is said to be werth $2,500 per ton. Cunha is now taking out a quantity of the ore which he will send to Selby & Co. as a working test. There appears to be a large body of the ore in sight.

Make An Effort.

The Esmeralda News says that A. E Dick, representing New York capitalists, arrived at Luning last week. The company owns a lot of copper mines near Luning and will set about building works for the reduction of the ore. Contracts are said to be made for a furnace having a capacity of one hundred and twenty tons a day. A site for the works has not yet been selected. If a proper effort were made to show these parties the advantages that would be gained by having their works in Owens Valley, where there is an abundance of water, and where supplies of all kinds can be got from the producers, and if liberal inducements were offered in the way of land for the works, the company might locate those works here instead of in a waterless and barren desert. There ought to be intelligence and energy enough among us to make this effort.

TRIAL OF ELLIOTT FOR MURDER.

After the jury had been sworn to try the case and the opening statement had been made by the counsel for the prosecution, the first witness called was

JOHN KINNEY.

He testified that he was at work in a field on the Baker ranch on the day when John B. White was killed. Elliot entered the field and came toward Kinney; he appeared to be excited and when within a few yards of Kinney said, in substance, that he had cut White; that White was pretty badly hurt and that Kinney had better go to him. Elliott then went on as if going to Big Pine. Kinney at once unhitched his team and went toward the cabin where Elliott lived. Kinney found the body of White in the road a short distance north from the cabin; White was dead; Kinney then went to the house where Mrs. Elliott lived and told her what had happened. Together they returned to the body. When Kinney first saw the body it was lying on the left side with the head turned toward the northwest; the left arm was extended backward and partly under the body, and a bunch of locust flowers was in the hand. The right arm extended outward from the body. Kinney was subjected to a lengthy cross-examination, but he repeated without variation what he had already told.

MRS. ELLIOTT

Was the next witness called. She testified that she had been in fear of violence from Elliott since last October. Her uncle, John B. White had come to the ranch to protect her and her children. He had made several visits there for this purpose. He had come to the ranch on the day before his death, and on that day intended to go back to Independence. In the morning she and her uncle were in the house together and saw Elliott pass; he was dressed in his best garments and appeared to be going toward Big Pine. She watched him till he disappeared from sight where the road turns and there is a grove of willows. Her uncle got ready to start for the train and left the house to get one of the boys to hitch up the team and take him there. This was the last time she saw her uncle alive. The boy was working in a field north from the cabin where Elliott lived; her uncle went in that direction. Some time after Kinney came to the house and told her that Elliott had hurt her uncle; she hastened back with Kinney to where the body lay and got down on her knees beside it. Her uncle was dead. Her description of the location and position of the body was the same as that given by Kinney. Finding her uncle was dead she got up from her knees; hastened back to the house, got her children together and returned to where the body of her uncle lay. On cross-examination she said that on or about April 1st Elliott came to take away a box that belonged to her and that was lying near the gate at her house. She went out to the gate and took hold of the box to prevent Elliott from taking it away. Her uncle was in the house; he came out unseen by her and with a stick struck Elliott and knocked him down. Elliott crawled away a few yarks, got upon his feet and drew a large knife from his garments and said, "You old white-headed son-of-a-b——h, I'll get even with you for this." Elliott went away and nothing more occurred at the time. When Elliott and she were divorced one of the conditions imposed by the Court was that he should be allowed to come to the house twice a week to see their baby. After the quarrel already described, when he came to the house she could see the outline of a knife that appeared to be carried in his bosom. She was in constant fear. The examination was long and very close, but nothing material was brought out beyond what the witness had already testified to. During the examination of this witness

THE KNIFE

With which White had been killed was produced in Court. It is a butcher-knife with a blade about eight inches long. Mrs. Elliott identified it as one that belonged to Elliott and that she had used in the house while they lived together. After the death of White the knife was missing. After a long search it was found by an Indian in a clump of willows. Elliott took up the knife and handled it very coolly; his fingers closed over the handle with an appearance of easy familiarity.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.

Was the next witness called. He testified that he made a post mortem examination of the body of John B. White. He found an incised wound a little to the left of the right nipple, between the fourth and fifth rib. He severed the ribs on each side from the breast bone, making an opening into the cavity of the chest. The cavity was filled with blood and had to be wasted out before the heart and lungs could be examined. He found a wound through the right lobe of the lungs; the wound extended into the heart. He put his finger into the wound its full length. On the surface of the heart the wound was one and a half inches long. In his judgment death resulted immediatly from the wound; being satisfied of this he examined no further. A long cross-examination followed, with the endeavor to show that immediate death need not, and frequently does not, follow a wound in the heart. Dr. George stuck to his original testimony, that in his opinion John B. White died immediately after being stabbed in the heart. Court adjourned until Monday at 9 o'clock a. m.

MONDAY.

On Monday Mr. E. Crocker was the first witness called. He testified that he went to the Baker ranch as soon as he heard that White had been killed. He saw the body of John B. White and described its location and position as the other witnesses had done. Was present at the inquest. Saw tracks of footsteps at and about where the body of White lay, and noted their character and direction. Went into the cellar under the cabin with the Coroner and Jury and searched for a knife; did not find any. A week or two before White was killed Elliott had asked witness for the loan of a pistol, saying that he wanted to be ready to defend himself against White. Witness told Elliott that he had no pistol to lend. Cross-examination brought out nothing new.

F. M. TURNER

Was the next witness. He testified to being familiar with the footprints of Elliott, and with the Baker ranch. Had traced the tracks made by Elliott between where he had left the road south from the Baker house, west, and then north to the cabin where he lived. Was positive that these were Elliott's tracks. Testified that a person following the track taken by Elliott could not be seen at the Baker house except perhaps for a distance of about twenty feet at one particular point; locust trees, willows, orchard and grapevines obstructing the view. This was the substance of the evidence given by Mr. Turner, both in direct and cross-examination. The cross-examination was close and severe but the witness appeared to be thoroughly familiar with the subject and at no time was the least confused.

SAMUEL SPRATT

Was next called. He testified to seeing the body of White as the other witnesses had described it; also tracing the footsteps of Elliott in company with Turner and Bodle. Cross-examination made no difference in the testimony given by the witness.

MILTON CROCKER

Was next examined. He testified that on the day White was killed he was in a field near the hotel at Big Pine. Elliott came to him and said he had cut White and had hurt him bad. Elliott was excited; he said he wanted a telegram sent to Independence for an officer to come and take him in charge. Witness went with Elliott to a store and told a party there to write a telegram for Elliott. Witness then stepped outside the store and in a few minutes a boy came along on horseback and said that White was dead and lying in the road, at the Baker ranch. Witness and another man got into a wagon and drove to the Baker ranch. Found the body in the road. Gave the same description of the location and position as given by other witnesses. On cross-examination witness said that about ten days before White was killed he had sold two pieces of bacon to Elliott. On the morning of the killing he went into the cellar under the cabin where Elliott lived; he there saw those pieces of bacon. Elliott had told witness that morning when they first met that he was in the cellar cutting meat for his breakfast; that White came into the cellar and ordered Elliott to go away, and that he [Elliott] supposed White to be armed and stabbed him with the knife he had in his hand. Witness when in the cellar examined both pieces of bacon and was certain neither had been recently cut. The surface of both was covered with dry, encrusted salt.

W. R. TIBBETTS

Was next examined. He testified that a few days before the killing Elliott came to his house and wanted to borrow a pistol. Witness said he none to lend. Elliott said White was up at the Baker ranch and he did not know what might happen. Court adjourned till Tuesday morning.

TUESDAY.

Tuesday morning when Court was opened Mr. E. Crocker was recalled to the stand. He repeated his evidence already given, and testified as to the character of the ground at or near where the body of White lay. Mr. Spratt was also recalled. He testified that he had examined the cellar under Elliott's cabin and the steps leading into it in order to know if any blood stains were there, and if there was anything to indicate that a quarrel had taken place in the cellar or on the steps. He found no trace of blood nor evidence of quarral there. The next evidence introduced was

A GHASTLY EXHIBIT,

Being the clothing worn by White when he was killed. The garments were identified by Mr. M. Crocker, who had been recalled for that purpose. These were the same garments that had been stripped from the body of White by the witness at the time when the inquest and post mortem examination were had. The undershirt and and overshirt were bloody; the vest and shirts had holes made by the knife when White was killed.

AN INDIAN WITNESS.

An old squaw was next introduced as a witness. Edwin Ober was sworn as interpreter. The woman was bent with age; she was dressed in a clean calico gown and wore upon her head the cone shaped hat made of very fine willow commonly worn by her people. Her coarse black hair hung down on her shoulders shading her features. She was shown a large knife and testified that it had been found by her in a clump of willows about half a mile east from the Baker ranch. This was the same knife with which John B. White had been killed as had already been established. Deep stillness pervaded the Court-room while the interpreter and the squaw talked in the mysterious, guttural Indian language. The interpreter appeared to speak the Indian tongue even more fluently than the woman herself. He is aged about seventeen years, and said that he did not remember when he began to speak the language; has spoken it from childhood.

GEORGE L. CORNELL

Was examined as a witness. He testified that on the day before White was killed he was in Big Pine. Saw John B. White there on that day; saw him leave town as if going to the Baker ranch. Saw Elliott go in the same direction about ten minutes afterward. Elliott went but a very short distance and then turned back. Witness saw what he believed to be a large knife on the person of Elliott; it was carried in front and a little to to the right at Elliott's waist, the handle appearing above the top of his trousers. Cross-examination made no change in the testimony of the witness. Court adjourned till 2 o'clock p. m.

AFTERNOON.

When Court was again opened after the noon recess the prosecution announced that the case for the people was closed. The defense professed to be very much surprised at this. Mr. Kittrell addressed the jury stating what the defense would try to prove, and giving a summary history of all that had happened from the time when Elliott and his divorced wife met down to the killing of White. A few minutes past three the defense asked that Court be adjourned till next morning, which was granted.

WEDNESDAY.

A. K. Eugley was the first witness called by the defense. Testified that after the quarrel between White and Elliott on the 1st day of April heard White say that if Elliott again interfered with Mrs. Elliott he would get hurt as bad or worse.

P. P. Keogh called and sworn. Was asked if he had talked with Mrs. Elliott, and if so what she had said about what would do. Objected to and objection sustained.

J. C. Eddy was called. He did not answer and defense asked that a bench warrant be issued to compel him to attend.

S. Spratt recalled by the defense. Testified that he slept at the Baker ranch on April 10th. Slept with John Kinney. Elliott came to the house and asked Kinney to get up and dress his (Elliott's) head. Kinney left the room and was gone about twenty minutes. Next morning White showed witness where Elliott cut down trees. White said it was wrong and they might have trouble about it.

Marshal Naylor called and sworn. Was not allowed to state what Elliott had said to him on the day White was killed.

E. Crocker was recalled by the defense. Testified that he had dressed a wound on the head of Elliott on April 1st; wound was a lump near top of the head; might be about half the size of a hen's egg; the skin had two or three small cuts about one-eight of an inch long; wound had bled some. Elliott walked back to the Baker ranch.

T. Hill called. Testified that he had seen White at Big Pine about the time of the first quarrel between him and Elliott. Had no distinct recollection of what was said by White at that time, but understood him to say that his business at the Baker ranch was on account of Mrs. Elliott. Witness further understood W White to say that they would put Elliott out.

Recess taken till 2 o'clock p. m.

AFTERNOON.

June Smith was examined. Was at the cabin where Elliott lived on the day White was killed. Saw no sign of an affray there.

W. McDonald examined. Heard White say Elliott would have to get off the ranch.

W. Uhlemeyer examined. Was at the Baker ranch on the day White was killed. Did not notice any tracks in the road leading past the cabin. Talked with White on the day before he was killed. White said he thought the people would drive Elliott away from the ranch. White also said that he was told Elliott was carrying a knife under his coat.

J. Creaser examined. Knew nothing about the case.

James Jones examined with the same result.

Henry Bell, the same.

Mrs. McAfee examined. No arms from the Baker ranch had been left at her house. Went to the Baker ranch on the day White was killed. Saw Mrs. Elliott and her children and John Kinney in the road near the dwelling house. Did not see any other persons in the road.

Richard Hessian examined. Knew nothing about the case;

Edwin Ober examined. Was at the Baker ranch on April 1st. Saw Elliott and Mrs. Elliott disputing about a box. Saw White hit Elliott with a club. Afterward helped John Kinney to wash the wound on Elliott's head. There was a lump and the skin was cut.

A Land Office receipt for entrance fee of timber culture claim was offered in evidence. Said receipt was given to W. T. C. Elliott, and was offered to prove his right to be on the land.

C. Malholland examined. Produced his docket as Justice of Peace, which showed that John B. White had been arrested on the 10th day of April, 1888, for an assault committed on W. T. C. Elliott; that White plead "guilty" to the charge and was fined.

Court adjourned.

THURSDAY.

Dr. I. J. Woodin was called by the defense and examined. He testified that there are many well authenticated cases where men have lived for hours, and even days, after having been wounded in the heart. It has been proved beyond doubt that men have entirely recovered from heart wounds and at last died from other causes. A knife entering the body of White between the fourth and fifth ribs, as described in this case, if it passed downward at an angle of twenty-two degrees, would miss the heart entirely. The witness was exrmined at great length on direct and cross-examination. The sum of his testimony was that while in some cases men wounded as White had been had lived longer or shorter periods, yet in a large majority of such cases death resulted very speedily.

James C. Crocker was called and examined. Testified that he had talked with White at Big Pine. That White had said he came there to protect his niece, Mrs. Elliott; that Elliott had made threats and for so doing he [White] would have Elliott arrested.

John Gowan called and examined. Testified that he had met White two days after the first fracas with Elliott. White looked nervous and said the trouble was not all over yet.

Court adjourned till two o'clock p. m.

ELLIOTT EXAMINED.

When Court opened after the noon recess the defendant was put upon the stand and testified upon his own behalf. Like Knickerbocker's History of New York, the examination went back to the foundation of the world. Elliott was keenly alive to his own interest; he was prolix in his answers and General Kittrell, his counsel, had some trouble in getting him to give direct answers to questions. Elliott gave a narrative of all that had happened from his first meeting with Mrs. Baker to the death of John B. White. He said that his relations with White had been very friendly until after the divorce granted Mrs. Elliott. The first indication he noticed of any unfriendly feeling on the part of White was on March 17th last; then White refused to speak to him when they met. Elliott gave his version of the story of the quarrel about the box, on April 1st, when White hit him with a club. There was no material deviation from the evidence already given on that point. Admitted that he then drew a large knife upon White. Had no other encounter with White till the morning of the killing. On that morning Elliott passed the Baker house; did not see any one. Went to a bridge beyond the house; turned west along the stream to fish. The clothing worn by Elliott that morning was shown in Court; it was ragged. A long string of questions was put to Elliott in this connection, but nothing was developed that appeared to be of any consequence. The examination threatened to be as endless as the Congressional Record. Court, jury, attorneys, reporter and all others present appeared to be completely worn out and Court adjourned till next morning.

FRIDAY MORNING.

On Friday morning the examination of Elliott was resumed. The examination was tedious and of no great importance apparently, till the scene in the cellar was reached. Here Elliot became animated and his answers were given in a lively manner. He said he was in the cellar cutting bacon; he heard the sound of a footfall on the cellar steps; saw White entering the cellar; White had a stick in his hand, which he raised in a threatening manner; Elliott raised his left arm to ward off an expected blow and struck White with the knife he held in his right hand. White turned and ran from the cellar, going northward when he reached the road. Elliott also ran from the cellar and went toward the witness, John Kinney, as testified to by Kinney himself. The examination continued till noon. It was extremely tedious, but agreed substantially with the evidence already given by other witnesses.

SHOPPING BY MAIL !

There can no longer be any doubt that shopping by mail is profitable. Thousands throughout the United States are doing so to their satisfaction, and the list continues to swell. Our facilities for handling this class of trade are unexcelled by any house west of the Mississippi An entire floor of our mammoth three story building is devoted solely to this department, and we have spared no effort to the end that out of town customers might have the

Same Advantages As Residents

We possess unequalled advantages in buying, because we deal direct with the manufacturer. Being one of HALE'S Seven California Stores we thereby obtain advantages in values which result from buying in large quantities; for it must be seen that the amount of goods which these stores consume in the aggregate is enormous.

SEND FOR A CATALOGUE.

Our new Spring and Summer Catalogue is now ready for distribution, and will be mailed to intending customers upon application. It is a large illustrated pamphlet of 85 pages, and gives the price and description of any article in our stores. Samples of dry-goods sent free of charge.

IT WILL PAY YOU

To trade with us. The thousands of orders which we are constantly receiving from every State and Territory west of of the Rocky Mountains, attest the taste, care, discretion and promptness which we exercise in meeting the requirements of our mail customers.

WHAT WE KEEP.

Our stock embraces Dress Goods, Domestices, Fancy Goods, Ladies' Underwear, Gloves, Parasols, Hosiery, Embroidery, Laces, Cloaks, Jackets and Wraps, Clothing, Gent's Furnishing Goods, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Jewelry, Notions, Trunks & Valises, Etc. Etc.

Send Us a Trial Order And Be Convinced.

HALE BROS & CO.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,

Sacramento, Cal.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR CLERK.

I RESPECTULLY ANNOUNCE MYSELF as a candidate for County Clerk of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. W. W. COLLINS.
Bishop Creek, July 17, 1888.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. GEORGE COLLINS.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. J. E. SHEPHERD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES JONES.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. JAMES B. CHAMBERLAIN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES R. ELDRED.

FOR SHERIFF.

AT THE SOLICITATION OF MANY friends I hereby offer myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.
GEORGE H. SHEDD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican Convention of Inyo County.
THOMAS C. BOLAND.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. P. H. MACK.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
J. J. MOORE.

ICE! ICE ICE!

We are now prepared to furnish a first-class quality of

ICE

In quantities to suit either at Bishop Creek, or on the cars at Bishop Station, at

2 Cts. per Pound.

Orders Promptly Attended To.

F. K. ANDREWS & CO.
Laws, Inyo Co., Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDIS

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAI

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC

☞Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.
E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
947tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. ☞ 256 pages, 8½x11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

INDEPENDENCE

SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.
WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles

OF

Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies'
Wear, etc., etc

AT

L. WOOD'S

CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries an canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH S ORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:

HAWTHORNE NEV.

BRANCHES:

Wabuska, Nev.,

CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.

AGENCIES:

WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

au25tf

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

PROVISIONS,

&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.

Excellent Cardinal or Drab

SATEEN CORSETS,

44 cts.

By mail 11c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered bust, finished with pretty lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.

More Important Still

Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Men's Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.

WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.
400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.
SACRAMENTO, CAL.

For

THE ANNUAL RECORD.

Its Enormous Total and Wide Distribution. Caprices of Fortune.

A partial list of the prizes above One Thousand Dollars, paid by The Louisiana State Lottery Company during the year ending May, 1888, together with the names and addresses given to the Company by the holders, omitting those who have requested it.

Receipts for the amounts are on file at the offices of the Company.

DRAWING OF JUNE 14, 1887.

| | |
|---|---|
| F. V. Wasserman, Omaha, Neb | $30,000 |
| Jas. H. Raymond & Co., Austin, Tex | 30,000 |
| Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco, Cal | 15,000 |
| Theo. Flugmacher and William Wendel, N. Y. City, through Southern Express Co | 15,000 |
| L. M. Reinack, through Klaus & Bros., through First National Bank of Meridian, Miss | 15,000 |
| William Kempler, New York City | 15,000 |
| A. J. Treft's, N. W. cor. 6th and L streets, San Francisco, Cal | 15,000 |
| Annie Chandler, Cliftonville, Miss., through First National Bank of Meridian | 15,000 |
| National Exchange Bank of Dallas, Tex | 15,000 |
| City National Bank, of Dallas, Tex | 15,000 |
| Charles E. Dennis, Exposition, Boulevard and Preston Sts., New Orleans, La | 15,000 |
| P. J. Mooney, 420 Ursuline St., New Orleans, La | 15,000 |
| W. L. Wilson, Willows, Cal | 5,000 |
| Turner & Richardson, Cleburne, Tex | 5,000 |
| Insley, Shire & Co., Leavenworth, Kas | 5,000 |
| Frank Armstrong, Afton, Iowa | 5,000 |
| Casco National Bank, Portland, Me | 5,000 |
| John G. Liebel, 1919 Peach St., Erie, Pa | 5,000 |
| Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco, Cal | 5,000 |
| Louisiana National Bank, New Orleans | 5,000 |
| Geo. Miller, 1324 Howard St., S. F., Cal | 5,000 |
| S. Levy, 140 E. 16th St., Chicago, Ills | 5,000 |
| J. B. Boyd, San Diego, Cal | 5,000 |
| Snyder, Wells & Co., Gates, Tenn | 5,000 |
| John Kyle, Buffalo, N. Y | 5,000 |
| J. C. Curry, Memphis, Tenn | 5,000 |
| New Orleans National Bank, New Orleans, La | 3,750 |
| First National Bank, San Jose, Cal | 1,250 |
| Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco, Cal | 1,250 |

DRAWING OF JULY 12, 1887.

| | |
|---|---|
| Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco, Cal | 30,000 |
| John Murphy, Glenmary, Tenn., through First National Bank of Chattanooga, Tenn. | 15,000 |
| Henry Downs, Swiftwater Plantation, near Greenville, Miss | 15,000 |
| Darius R. Burr, 179 Forsyth St., New York | 15,000 |
| Chris. Sintes, 408 Dryades St., New Orleans, La. | 15,000 |
| Archie L. Allen, Buffalo, N. Y | 15,000 |
| J. P. Coleman, Petersburg, Va., through City Bank of Richmond, Richmond, Va | 15,000 |
| Albert Schroder, Burlington, Iowa | 15,000 |
| W. S. Locke, McMillan, Mich., through First National Bank, Marquette, Mich | 15,000 |
| First National Bank, Terre Haute, Ind | 10,000 |
| London and San Francisco Bank, (Limited), San Francisco, Cal | 5,000 |
| Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco, Cal | 5,000 |
| John L. Bett, Portland, Me | 5,000 |
| John Cash, " " | 5,000 |
| Anglo-California Bank, San Francisco | 4,000 |
| Robert Joseph Leigh, 39 Willett St., N. Y | 2,000 |
| City National Bank, Cairo, Ills | 2,000 |
| Isaac Vaughn, New York City | 2,000 |
| D. C. Jackson & M. G. Cook, Cairo, Ill | 2,000 |

DRAWING OF AUGUST 9, 1887.

| | |
|---|---|
| C. W. Moorman, Cloverport, Ky., through Kentucky National Bank, Louisville | 30,000 |
| Kentucky National Bank, Louisville, Ky | 15,000 |
| J. B. Fontaine, Caliente, Cal | 15,000 |
| Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco, Cal | 15,000 |
| Alexander Co. National Bank, Cairo, Ills | 15,000 |
| Geo. H. Zapp, Houston, Tex | 15,000 |
| W. H. Anthony, Houston, Tex | 15,000 |
| National Park Bank, New York City | 15,000 |
| Roger, Cambell & Ray Bayne, Deming, New Mexico | 5,000 |
| H. T. Woods, Portland, Me | 5,000 |
| T. J. Baker, Chicago, Ills | 5,000 |
| Samuel Barrett, Toronto, Ontario, Can | 5,000 |
| Thos. D. Crump, Jonesburg, Mo | 5,000 |
| Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco, Cal | 5,000 |
| W. A. Barnhill, Jackson, Tenn., collected through First National Bank, Jackson | 5,000 |
| S. P. Hill, New Orleans, La | 5,000 |
| J. P. Shulze, 213 W. Markham St., Little Rock, Ark | 5,000 |
| Wm. Higgins Adams, Boston, Mass | 5,000 |
| Robt. M. Naughton, Governor St., Richmond, Va | 2,000 |
| W. H. Scott, Camp Point Ills | 2,000 |
| Geo. Over, Ladonia, Tex | 2,000 |
| Anglo-California Bank, San Francisco | 2,000 |
| James Stevenson, 38 Hanover St., Providence, R. I | 2,000 |
| H. M. Eddins, Glencoe, Minn | 2,000 |
| Oscar Groshell, with Richardson Drug Co., Omaha, Neb | 2,000 |
| W. Dowling, San Francisco, Cal | 2,000 |
| Misses M. & A. Myer, New York City | 2,000 |
| Robt. J. Young, 403 Custom-House street, New Orleans, La | 2,000 |

DRAWING OF SEPT. 13, 1887.

| | |
|---|---|
| Paul Baier, 156 Hudson Ave., Chicago, Ill | 5,000 |
| F. Epstein, Roadhouse, Ills | 5,000 |
| Frank H. Gillett, Norfolk, Neb | 5,000 |
| Paid, Paul Kinler, Runner, Union National Bank, New Orleans, for a depositor | 5,000 |
| E. Steiner, Temple, Tex | 5,000 |
| Chris. F. Netz, 127 West North Ave., Chicago, Ills | 5,000 |
| Wm. Duncan, Sioux Falls, Dak | 5,000 |
| Paid, People's Bank, New York City | 5,000 |
| J. H. Mount, Tawas City, Mich | 5,000 |
| Albert Evans, through First National Bank, Pueblo, Col | 5,000 |
| Mrs. Francis W. Siddall, Canton, Ohio | 4,000 |
| Robt. Worthington, Lexington, Ky | 4,000 |
| B. Nathan, 338 Broadway, New York City | 2,000 |
| Godhilf Wizeman, New York City | 2,000 |
| Chas. Johnson, Mobile, Ala | 2,000 |
| National Commercial Bank, Mobile, Ala | 2,000 |

DRAWING OF OCTOBER 11, 1887.

| | |
|---|---|
| Paid Fourth National Bank, N. Y. City | 15,000 |
| L. Ginsburg, 57 Salem St., Boston, Mass | 15,000 |
| Mrs. Chas. A. Scott, Springfield, Minn | 15,000 |
| Chas. A. Johnson, 375 W. Ohio St., Chicago, Ills | 15,000 |
| Paid P. Kinler, Runner, Union National Bank, New Orleans, for a depositor | 15,000 |
| L. Faget, 181 Common St., New Orleans | 15,000 |
| Henry Eeker, New York City | 5,000 |
| Jno. W. Richards, Hopkinsville, Ky | 5,000 |
| John D. Meeks, Fayetteville, Tenn | 5,000 |
| I. P. Gunter, Augusta, Ga | 5,000 |
| Herbert H. Cole, Portland, Me | 5,000 |
| Thos. Neal, New Iberia, La | 5,000 |
| Mrs. T. Runkel, Fredonia, N. Y | 5,000 |
| David Israel, Donaldsville, La | 4,000 |
| V. Tujague, 243 Decatur St., New Orleans | 4,000 |
| F. A. Buttrick, 95 Milk St., Boston, Mass | 2,000 |
| Frank Kubetz, 185 Dearborn St., Chicago | 2,000 |
| W. O. Van Dyke, care of Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ills | 2,000 |
| John F. Sullivan, 50 Fleet St., Boston | 2,000 |

DRAWING OF NOVEMBER 8, 1887.

| | |
|---|---|
| Morris Franklin, Vancover, B. C., Canada | 15,000 |
| Gay & Groft, Orleans, Nebraska | 15,000 |
| W. H. Landon, Newport News, Va., through Burruss, Son & Co., Norfolk, Va | 15,000 |
| Edgar Burnett, agent Adams Express Co., Jackson, Mich | 15,000 |
| Joe Morrison, Newport, Ark., through E. L. Watson, Newport, Ark | 15,000 |
| Michael Slutzki and Solomon Pinkofski, Boston, Mass | 15,000 |
| Mrs. Margaret Clarke, 12 St. Andrew St., New Orleans, La | 15,000 |
| Wm. Foad, Anaconda, Mont | 15,000 |
| Mrs. H. Benard, Sioux Falls, Dak | 15,000 |
| Jas. A. Baker, Missoula, Mont | 15,000 |
| E. H. Kaercross, Philadelphia, Pa | 10,000 |
| Chas. H. Walker, Edinburgh, Ill., through Geo. P. Harrington, Banker, Edinburgh | 5,000 |
| Thos. R. Miller, 1213 Lawrence St., Denver, Col | 5,000 |
| Wm. Leslie, San Francisco, Cal | 5,000 |
| Mount Vernon Banking Co., Mount Vernon, Ind | 5,000 |
| F. Wohlhurter, Oldham, Dak | 5,000 |
| W. H. Arison, Monongahela City, Pa | 5,000 |
| D. C. Macon, Elwood, Ind | 5,000 |
| C. O. Lofstrom, Burlington, Iowa | 5,000 |
| Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco, Cal | 5,000 |
| First National Bank, Nashville, Tenn | 4,000 |
| C. B. Mills and J. F. Brady, through Union National Bank, Kansas City, Mo | 2,000 |
| J. G. Hedrich, Las Vegas, N. Mex | 2,000 |
| H. Adams, Las Vegas, N. Mex | 2,000 |
| L. S. Anderson, Omaha, Neb | 2,000 |
| Felix Emrich, Kansas City, Mo | 2,000 |
| John C. Ketcheson, Leavenworth, Kas | 2,000 |
| H. B. Smoot, Colorado, Tex | 2,000 |

DRAWING OF DECEMBER 13, 1887.

| | |
|---|---|
| Harrison W. Vickers, Chestertown, Md | 75,000 |
| F. Poppendick, Omaha, Neb | 12,500 |
| S. W. Graybill, Lancaster, Pa., through First National Bank of Columbia, Pa | 10,000 |
| James Thompson, 36 and 37 Union Market, St. Louis, Mo | 10,000 |
| Wm. Gassom, St. Andrew near White St., New Orleans, La | 5,000 |
| D. G. Baldwin, for New Orleans National Bank, New Orleans, La., on acct. of a depositor | 5,000 |
| L. C. Atwood, Benicia, Cal | 5,000 |
| C. Fredericks Morse, Boston, Mass | 5,000 |
| Merchants National B[illegible] of Vicksburg, Miss | 5,000 |
| John McD[illegible]g, Miss | 5,000 |
| [illegible] | 5,000 |
| [illegible] | 5,000 |
| [illegible] | 5,000 |
| [illegible] | 5,000 |
| [illegible] | 5,000 |
| [illegible] | 15,000 |
| [illegible] | 15,000 |
| [illegible] | 15,000 |
| [illegible] | 15,000 |

| | |
|---|---|
| J. F. Stevenson, Bay Horse, Idaho | 15,000 |
| N. We Nichols, through Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco, Cal | 15,000 |
| Anglo-Californian Bank (Ltd.), San Francisco, Cal | 15,000 |
| Miss Augusta Filene, 2,037 Archer Ave., Chicago, Ills | 5,000 |
| W. W. Culbertson, Ashland, Ky | 5,000 |
| John Trimble, 315 S. Water St., Aurora, Ills | 5,000 |
| August Hunzelmann, 126 Chartres St., New Orleans, La | 5,000 |
| Miss Kitty Dillon, 105 Bienville St., New Orleans, La | 5,000 |
| Metropolitan National Bank, Cincinnati | 5,000 |
| Ed. Miller, Guadalajara Jalisco, Mex | 5,000 |
| Chas. A. Treano", San Diego, Cal | 5,000 |
| N. Fostevin, Union Stock Yards, Chicago | 2,000 |
| A. McLeish, Jersey City, N. J | 2,000 |
| Fort Worth National Bank, Fort Worth, Tex | 2,000 |
| T. C. Tucker, Pearl, Tex | 2,000 |
| Jacob C. Shafer, Indianapolis, Ind | 2,000 |
| State National Bank, Lincoln, Neb | 2,000 |
| Ira F. Ebert, Muchachinock, Iowa | 2,000 |

DRAWING OF FEBRUARY 7, 1888.

| | |
|---|---|
| A Correspondent at San Francisco, through Louisiana National Bank, New Orleans, La | 45,000 |
| John C. Foil, Michigan City, Ind., through First National Bank of Michigan City, Ind | 15,000 |
| Robt. Poutz, Frankfort, Mich., through First National Bank of Manistee, Mich | 15,000 |
| Mrs. V. Gilly, 206 St. Philip St., New Orleans, La | 15,000 |
| Anglo-California Bank, Limited, of San Francisco, Cal | 15,000 |
| M. Simonl, Camerons, Cal., through Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco | 15,000 |
| Geo. J. Johnson, Baraga, Mich., through Wm. Coach, Baraga, Mich | 15,000 |
| Matthew Steffens, Harrison St. Police Station, Chicago, Ill | 15,000 |
| Peter W. Harrison, 740 Carondelet St., New Orleans, La | 5,000 |
| E. L. Cammack, Lulu, Miss | 2,000 |
| Southwestern National Bank of Philadelphia, Pa | 2,000 |
| C. H. Soudley, Abbeville C. H., S. C | 2,000 |
| Joe Decline, Bonne Terre, Mo | 2,000 |
| L. F. Cooper, Cleveland, O | 2,000 |
| A. G. Drobish, Lincoln, Ill., through German-American Nat'l Bank of Lincoln | 2,000 |
| John B. Truitt, Winchester, Ill | 2,000 |
| L. Carter, Santa Clara, Cal | 2,000 |
| D. Meier, Denison, Iowa, through Crawford County State Bank of Denison, Ia | 2,000 |

DRAWING OF MARCH 13, 1888.

| | |
|---|---|
| A depositor, through Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco, Cal | 15,000 |
| L. D. Morelock, 111 Olive St., Adams Exp. Office, Evansville, Ind | 15,000 |
| M. F. Mock and Frank B. Godard, 413 Genesee St., East Saginaw, Mich | 15,000 |
| Eli Newman, through First National Bank of Helena, Ark | 15,000 |
| E. H. Woodson, 1525 Main S., Lynchburg, Va., through Lynchburg National Bank | 15,000 |
| I. N. Woodcock, Sidney, O., through Citizens Bank of Sidney, O | 15,000 |
| John Murphy, Seneca, Ill | 15,000 |
| R. A. Lord, Emporium, Pa | 15,000 |
| W. T. Ridgway, 142 Sixth Ave., New York | 15,000 |
| Parties at Petersburg, Va., collected through Southern Express Co | 15,000 |
| Bank of Commerce of St. Louis, Mo | 15,000 |
| Fred. Bressler, 3,423 Locust St., St. Louis | 15,000 |
| Fred Hofer, Taylor Ridge, Ill., through Citizens Nat'l Bank of Davenport, Iowa | 15,000 |
| American Exchange Nat'l Bank of N. Y | 15,000 |
| Capt. James Williamson, Greenville, Quebec, Canada | 15,000 |
| Mrs. Eliza Hughes, Brooklyn, N. Y | 15,000 |
| B. Kirk, Seneca Falls, N. Y | 10,000 |
| C. T. O. Smith, Manitou Springs, El Paso Co., Col | 10,000 |
| A depositor, through Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco, Cal | 10,000 |
| Chas. E. Miller, care of Albert Kelly & Co., 37 Wall St., New York | 10,000 |
| A depositor, through Louisiana National Bank, New Orleans, La | 10,000 |
| A depositor, through New Orleans Nat'l Bank, New Orleans, La | 5,000 |
| A depositor, through National Exchange Bank of Dallas, Tex | 5,000 |
| Max Haefner, 176 Greenwich St., New York | 5,000 |
| J. P. Peterson, Ellsworth, Minn., through Lyon Co. Bank of Rock Rapids, Ia | 2,500 |
| A depositor, through Traders National Bank of San Antonio, Tex | 2,500 |
| C. W. Johnson, Lowell, Mass | 2,500 |
| H. Glinck, Tuscaloosa, Ala., through First National Bank of Tuscaloosa, Ala | 2,500 |
| Frank Hall, 268 Magazine St., New Orleans, La | 2,500 |
| Alf Libert, Lake Charles, La | 2,500 |
| A depositor, through Germania Bank of New York City | 2,500 |
| Chas. Stratton, Mexico, Ind., through First National Bank of Peru, Ind | 2,500 |
| A depositor, through the Defiance National Bank of Defiance, O | 2,500 |
| A depositor, through Arkansas National Bank of Hot Springs, Ark | 2,500 |
| Miss Clara Wisdom, care of Haymarket Theatre, Chicago, Ill | 2,500 |
| Ernest Thiemer, 35 Oliver St., Cleveland, O | 2,500 |
| F. A. Joyce, New York | 2,500 |
| Ignatz Isakowitsch, 86 Willett St., New York City, N. Y | 2,500 |
| Matt Hang, Houghton, Mich | 1,250 |
| Frank Mayer, Leavenworth, Kas | 1,250 |
| E. R. Darrow, Cleveland, O | 1,250 |
| N. Netter, San Luis Obispo, Cal | 1,250 |

DRAWING OF APRIL 10, 1888.

| | |
|---|---|
| Geo. Gregg, 2,938 Alter St., Philadelphia | 75,000 |
| W. H. Barclay, Pittsburg, Pa | 75,000 |
| Chas. F. Morse, 880 Harrison Ave., Boston | 5,000 |
| A depositor, through Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco, Cal | 5,000 |
| Wm. Severance, Lebanon, Ky., through the Nat'l Bank of Lebanon, Ky | 5,000 |
| W. A. Francis, Salem, Va., through Farmers National Bank of Salem, Va | 5,000 |
| Thos. Fair, Philadelphia, Pa | 5,000 |
| J. P. Weiss, Detroit, Mich., through Detroit Savings Bank, Detroit, Mich | 5,000 |
| A. L. Carson, San Francisco, Cal | 5,000 |
| J. Hall, through R. L. Hall, Richmond, Va National Bank of the Republic, Washington, D. C | 5,000 |
| Party at Santa Rosa, Cal., through Pacific Bank of San Francisco, Cal | 5,000 |
| Raoul Deaverrnine, 52 Beaver, New York | 2,000 |
| Nashville Savings Co. Banking House, Nashville, Tenn | 2,000 |

DRAWING OF MAY 8th, 1888.

| | |
|---|---|
| M. A. Kelly, Pittston, Pa | $30,000 |
| Mrs. G. E. Coleman, St. Louis, Mo | 15,000 |
| J. W. Yates, 612 G St., N. W., Washington, D. C | 15,000 |
| A depositor, Louisiana Nat'l Bank, New Orleans, La | 15,000 |
| The City National Bank, Dallas, Tex | 15,000 |
| Dr. R. Quinney, Anderson, Grimes Co., Tex | 15,000 |
| Geo. H. Ashe, Galveston, Tex | 15,000 |
| American Nat'l Bank of Kansas City, Mo | 15,000 |
| A. Phillips, through T. W. House, Houston, Tex | 15,000 |
| Anglo-Californian Bank, Limited, San Francisco, Cal | 10,000 |
| Mrs. P. T. Robinson, 428 Dryades St., New Orleans, La | 5,000 |
| Col. R. H. Porter, Birmingham, Ala | 5,000 |
| J. B. Bliner, Dennison, O., through Farmers and Merchants Bank, Uhrichsville, O | 5,000 |
| Mrs. Frances A. Hoke, Emmitsburg, Md | 5,000 |
| H. Bunning, Moweaqua, Ill., through Y. Snyder & Co., Moweaqua, Ill | 5,000 |
| John Harrington, Houghton, Mich | 5,000 |
| City National Bank of Cairo, Ill | 4,000 |
| M. Waligurski, New York | 4,000 |
| S. Morgenstern, San Francisco, Cal., through Anglo-California Bank, LTd, San Francisco, Cal | 2,500 |
| A correspondent, through Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Bank, San Francisco, Cal | 2,500 |
| Collected through Merchants and Planters Bank of Pine Bluff, Ark | 2,000 |
| C. T. Stanly, 542 Montgomery St., San Francisco, Cal | 2,000 |

A BANK WITH MONEY.

Farmers, merchants and brokers at times find themselves so placed as to be forced to raise money on short notice. To such we would say, go to the PACIFIC BANK, of San Francisco, where a large amount of money is always on hand, which will be let out on good securities and easy terms.

—For Vienna coffee a cup is filled one-fourth full of boiled milk, to this is added three tablespoonsful of whipped cream, and the cup is filled with filtered coffee.

—Egg Rolls.—Two cups of sweet milk, two eggs, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, three and one-half cups of sifted flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder; bake in jem pans.

—Beef Loaf.—Two pounds of raw lean beef, one cup of rolled crackers, half teaspoon of salt, two eggs; chop all together, form into a long loaf, cover the top with small pieces of butter and bake one hour.

—For dressing wounds, cuts or sores of any kind, a solution of one spoonful of borax to one pint of warm water is very healing. Bind up the wound, after washing it, in a piece of soft linen dried out of borax water.

—Chocolate Jelly.—Take seven spoonfuls of grated chocolate, the same of white sugar, one cup of sweet cream; mix together and set over the fire and let come to a boil. Pour it over cornstarch pudding, or put between layers of cake.

—A pen-wiper with the double charm of novelty and simplicity is made of plush, lined throughout with satin, and folded book form over smaller leaves of chamois, which are held in place by a ribbon which ties in a bow at the back.

—Tomato Toast.—Prepare a sauce by seasoning strained, stewed tomatoes with a little cream, and salt if desired, and thickening the same with a little flour, the same as for snow-flake toast; pour this, while hot, over slices of nicely browned toast, and serve at once.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

When we had been sailing for an hour Good, who was searching the horizon with a spyglass, suddenly announced joyfully that he saw land, and pointed out that, from the change in the color of the water, he thought we must be approaching the mouth of a river. In another minute we perceived a great golden dome, not unlike that of St. Paul's, piercing the morning mists, and while we were wondering what in the world it could be, Good reported another and still more important discovery, namely, that a small sailing boat was advancing toward us. This bit of news, which we were very shortly able to verify with our own eyes, threw us into a considerable flutter. That the natives of this unknown lake should understand the art of sailing seemed to suggest that they possessed some degree of civilization. In a few more minutes it became evident that the occupant or occupants of the advancing boat had made us out. For a moment or two she hung in the wind as though in doubt, and then came tacking toward us with great swiftness. In ten more minutes she was within a hundred yards, and we saw that she was a neat little boat—not a canoe "dugout," but built more or less in European fashion with planks, and carrying a singularly large sail for her size. But our attention was soon diverted from the boat to her crew, which consisted of a man and woman nearly as white as ourselves.

We stared at each other in amazement, thinking that we must be mistaken; but no, there was no doubt about it. They were not fair, but the two people in the boat were decidedly of a white as distinguished from a black race—as white, for instance, as Spaniards or Italians. It was a patent fact. So it was true, after all; and, mysteriously led by a Power beyond our own, we had discovered this wonderful people. I could have shouted for joy when I thought of the glory and the wonder of the thing; and as it was, we all shook hands and congratulated each other on the unexpected success of our wild search. All my life had I heard rumors of a white race that existed in the highlands of the interior of this vast continent, and longed to put them to the proof, and now here I saw it with my own eyes and was dumfounded. Truly, as Sir Henry said, the old Roman was right when he wrote: "Ex Africa semper aliquid novi," which he tells me means that out of Africa there always comes some new thing.

The man in the boat was of a good but not particularly fine physique, and had straight, black hair, regular aquiline features, and an intelligent face. He was dressed in a brown cloth garment, something like a flannel shirt without the sleeves, and in an unmistakable kilt of the same material. The legs and feet were bare. Round the right arm and left leg he wore thick rings of yellow metal that I judged to be of gold. The woman had a sweet face, wild and shy, with large eyes and curling brown hair. Her dress was made of the same material as the man's, and consisted, as we afterwards discovered, first of a linen under garment that hung down to her knee, and then of a single long strip of cloth, about four feet wide by fifteen long, which was wound round the body in graceful folds and finally flung over the left shoulder so that the end, which was dyed blue or purple or some other color, according to the social standing of the wearer, hung down in front, the right arm and breast being, however, left quite bare. A more becoming dress, especially when, as in the present case, the wearer was young and pretty, is quite impossible to conceive. Good, who has an eye for such things, was greatly struck with it, and so indeed was I. It was so simple and yet so effective.

Meanwhile, if we had been astonished at the appearance of the man and woman, it was clear that they were far more astonished at us. As for the man, he appeared to be overcome with fear and wonder, and for a while hovered round our canoe, but would not approach. At last, however, he came within hailing distance, and called to us in a language that sounded soft and pleasing enough, but of which we could not understand one word. So we hailed back in English, French, Latin, Greek, German, Zulu, Dutch, Sisutu, Kukuana, and a few other native dialects that I am acquainted with, but our visitor did not understand any of these tongues; indeed, they appeared to bewilder him. As for the lady, she was busily employed in taking stock of us, and Good was returning the compliment by staring at her hard through his eyeglass, a proceeding that she seemed rather to enjoy than otherwise. At length the man, being unable to make anything out of us, suddenly headed his boat round and began to head off for the shore, his little boat skimming away before the wind like a swallow. As she passed across our bows, the man turned to attend to the large sail, and Good promptly took the opportunity to kiss his hand to the young lady. I was horrified at this proceeding both on general grounds and because I feared that she might take offense, but to my delight she did not, for, first glancing round and seeing that her husband, or brother, or whoever it was, was engaged, she promptly kissed hers back.

"Ah!" said I, "it seems that we have at last found a language that the people of this country understand."

"In which case," said Sir Henry, "Good will prove an invaluable interpreter."

I frowned, for I do not approve of Good's frivolities, and he knows it, and I turned the conversation to more serious subjects. "It is very clear to me," I said, "that the man will be back before long with a host of his fellows, so that we had best make up our minds as to how we are going to receive them."

"The question is, how will they receive us?" said Sir Henry.

As for Good, he made no remark, but began to extract a small square tin case that had accompanied us in all our wanderings from under a pile of baggage. Now, we had often remonstrated with Good about this tin case, inasmuch as it had been an awkward thing to carry, and he had never given any very explicit account as to its contents; but he had insisted on keeping it, saying mysteriously that it might come in very useful one day.

"What on earth are you going to do, Good?" asked Sir Henry.

"Do?—why dress, of course! You don't expect me to appear in a new country in these things, do you?" and he pointed to his soiled and worn garments, which were, however, like all Good's things, very tidy, and with every tear neatly mended.

We said no more, but watched his proceedings with breathless interest. His first step was to get Alphonse, who was thoroughly competent in such matters, to trim his hair and beard in the most approved fashion. I think that if he had had some hot water and a cake of soap at hand he would have shaved off the latter, but he had not. This done, he suggested that we should lower the sail of the canoe and all take a bath, which we did, greatly to the horror and astonishment of Alphonse, who lifted his hands and ejaculated that these English were indeed a wonderful people. Umslopogaas, who, though he was, like most high bred Zulus, scrupulously cleanly in his person, did not see the fun of swimming about in a lake, also regarded the proceeding with mild amusement. We got back into the canoe much refreshed by the cold water and sat to dry in the sun, while Good undid his tin box and produced first a beautiful clean white shirt, just as it had left a London steam laundry, and then some garments wrapped first in brown, then in white, and finally in silver paper. We watched this undoing with the tenderest interest and much speculation. One by one Good removed the dull husks that held their splendors, carefully folding and replacing each piece of paper as he did so; and there at last lay, in all the majesty of its gold epaulets, lace and buttons, a commander of the royal navy's full dress uniform—dress sword, cocked hat, shiny patent leather boots and all. We literally gasped.

"What!" we said, "what! Are you going to put those things on?"

"Certainly," he answered, composedly: "you see so much depends upon a first impression, especially," he added, "as I observe that there are ladies about. One at least of us ought to be decently dressed."

We said no more; we were simply dumfounded, especially when we considered the artful way in which Good had concealed the contents of that box for all these months. Only one suggestion did we make, namely, that he should wear his mail shirt next his skin. He replied that he feared it would spoil the set of his coat, now carefully spread in the sun to take the creases out, but finally consented to this precautionary measure. The most amusing part of the affair, however, was to see old Umslopogaas' astonishment and Alphonse's delight at Good's transformation. When at last he stood up in all his glory, even down to the medals on his breast, and contemplated himself in the still waters of the lake, after the fashion of the young gentleman in ancient history, whose name I can't remember, but who fell in love with his own shadow, the old Zulu could no longer restrain his feelings.

"Oh, Bougwan!" he said. "Oh, Bougwan! I always thought thee an ugly little man, and fat—fat as the cows at calving time; and now thou art like a blue jay when he spreads his tail out. Surely, Bougwan, it hurts my eyes to look at thee."

Good did not much like this allusion to his fat, which, to tell the truth, was not very well deserved, for hard exercise had brought him down four inches; but on the whole he was pleased at Umslopogaas' admiration. As for Alphonse, he was quite delighted.

"Ah! but monsieur has the beautiful air—the air of the warrior. It is the ladies who will say so when we come to get ashore. Monsieur is complete; he puts me in mind of my heroic grand"——

Here we stopped Alphonse.

As we gazed upon the beauties thus revealed by Good a spirit of emulation filled our breasts, and we set to work to get ourselves up as well as we could. The most, however, that we were able to do was to array ourselves in our spare suits of shooting clothes, of which we each had one, keeping on our mail shirts underneath. As for my appearance, all the fine clothes in the world could never make it otherwise than scrubby and insignificant; but Sir Henry looked what he is, a magnificent man in his nearly new tweed suit, gaiters and boots. Alphonse also got himself up to kill, giving an extra turn to his enormous mustaches. Even old Umslopogaas, who was not in a general way given to the vain adorning of his body, took some oil out of the lantern and a bit of tow, and polished up his head ring with it till it shone like Good's patent leather boots. Then he put on the mail shirt Sir Henry had given him and his "moocha," and having cleaned up Inkosi-kaas a little, stood forth complete.

All this while, having hoisted the sail again as soon as we had finished bathing, we had been progressing steadily for the land, or, rather, for the mouth of a great river. Presently—in all about an hour and a half after the little boat had left us—we saw emerging from the river or harbor a large number of boats, ranging up to ten or twelve tons burden. One of these was propelled by twenty-four oars, and most of the rest sailed. Looking through the glass we soon made out that the row boat was an official vessel, her crew being all dressed in a sort of uniform, while on the half deck forward stood an old man of venerable appearance and with a flowing white beard and a sword strapped to his side, who was evidently the commander of the craft. The other boats were apparently occupied by people brought out by curiosity, and were rowing or sailing toward us as quickly as they could.

"Now for it," said I. "What is the betting? Are they going to be friendly or to put an end to us?"

Nobody could answer this question, and not liking the warlike appearance of the old gentleman and his sword, we felt a little anxious.

Just then Good spied a school of hippopotami on the water about 200 yards off us, and suggested that it would not be a bad plan to impress the natives with a sense of our power by shooting some of them if possible. This, unluckily enough, struck us as a good idea, and accordingly we at once got out our eight bore rifles, for which we still had a few cartridges left, and prepared for action. There were four of the animals—a big bull, a cow, and two young ones, one three parts grown. We got up to them without difficulty, the great animals contenting themselves with sinking down into the water and rising again a few yards farther on; indeed, their excessive tameness struck me as being peculiar. When the advancing boats were about 500 yards away Sir Henry opened the ball by firing at the three parts grown young one. The heavy bullet struck it fair between the eyes and crashing through the skull, killed it, and it sank, leaving a long train of blood behind it. At the same moment I fired at the cow and Good at the old bull. My shot took effect, but not fatally, and down went the hippopotamus with a prodigious splashing, only to rise again presently blowing and grunting furiously, dyeing all the water round her crimson, when I killed her with the left barrel. Good, who is an execrable shot, missed the head of the bull altogether, the bullet merely cutting the side of his face as it passed. On glancing up, after I had fired my second shot, I perceived that the people we had fallen among were evidently ignorant of the nature of fire arms, for the consternation caused by our shots, and their effect upon the animals, was prodigious. Some of the parties in the boats began to cry out with fear; others turned and made off as hard as they could; and even the old gentleman with the sword looked puzzled and alarmed, and halted his big rowboat. We had, however, but little time for observation, for just then the old bull, rendered furious by the wound he had received, rose fair within forty yards of us, glaring savagely. We all fired and hit him in various places, and down he went, badly wounded. Curiosity now began to overcome the fear of the onlookers, and some of them sailed on up close to us, among these being the man and woman whom we had first seen a couple of hours or so before, who drew up almost alongside. Just then the great brute rose again within ten yards of their boat and instantly with a roar of fury made at it open mouthed. The woman shrieked and the man tried to give the boat way, but without success. In another second I saw the huge red jaws and gleaming ivories close with a crunch on the frail craft, taking an enormous mouthful out of its side and capsizing it. Down went the boat, leaving its occupants struggling in the water. Next moment, before we could do anything toward saving them, the huge and furious creature was up again and making open mouthed at the poor girl, who was struggling in the water. Lifting my rifle just as the grinding jaws were about to close on her, I fired over head right down the hippopotamus' throat. Over he went and commenced turning round and round, snorting and blowing red streams of blood through his nostrils. Before he could recover himself, however, I let him have the other barrel in the side of the throat, and that finished him. He never moved or struggled again, but instantly sank. Our next effort was directed toward saving the girl, the man having swum off toward another boat; and in this we were fortunately successful, pulling her into the canoe (amid the shouts of the spectators) considerably exhausted and frightened, but otherwise unhurt.

To be Continued.

Milk river, M. T., is probably so called because of the water it contains.

—A fussy, nervous mother who is always trembling for her darlings, and will not let them do any thing that their companions rejoice in, either makes her sons weak and deficient in self-reliance, or drives them to deceitful habits of doing on the sly what they would not wish her to find out, though very likely in itself the amusement is harmless enough.—Demorest.

—Quite a natural fault, and one exceedingly common, is for mothers to hold their infants altogether too much. By so doing they inconvenience themselves and injure the little ones. When once the bad habit is formed of taking the little one up as soon as it shows signs of waking, is restless, or disposed to cry, the mother is henceforth a slave to its caprices, and no tyrant can be more exacting.

—By using the following preparations for cleaning kid gloves, ribbons and laces, the above-mentioned articles may be kept in the "pink of perfection" with little trouble. To two quarts deodorized benzine add two drams of sulphuric ether, two drams of chloroform and four drams of alcohol. Pour the fluid in a bowl and wash the articles as if in water, rinsing in a fresh supply.

—Spanish Poached Eggs.—In an earthern dish heated, melt a good sized piece of butter; putting into it a saltspoonful of salt, and one of pepper and a small onion minced very fine, with a little parsley and a pinch of sweet herbs. Break the eggs one by one into the boiling butter, and turn them as soon as they are set, being careful not to break the yelks. Send to table in the same dish on which they are cooked, and serve while still very hot.

—Barley Soup.—Boil half a pint of pearl barley in a quart of mutton or veal broth till it is reduced to a pulp, pass it through a hair sieve, and add to it as much more, well flavored, of either stock, as will give you a puree of the consistency of cream. Put the soup back on the fire, when it boils, stir into it, off the fire, the yelk of an egg beaten up with a gill of cream; add half a spoonful of fresh butter, and serve with small dice of fried bread.

—Stuffed Potatoes.—Choose a dozen good-sized potatoes, wash them, and scrub the skins with a brush; bake them until done, about one hour. Remove them from the oven, cut a slice off one end of each, scrape out the potato, mix it lightly with a small piece of butter, pepper and salt, replace it in the skin, and, when all are done, return them to the oven for ten minutes. In serving, cut a slice off the other end to make them stand upright on a flat dish, leaving the top uncovered.

—The covering of a bed ought to be light as well as warm. Woolen blankets are far more healthful than heavy comfortables, which admit of no ventilation, but, instead, absorb and retain the exhalation of the body. Beds and bed clothing should be aired frequently. It is not enough to air the sleeping room. Not only should mattresses be turned and aired several times a week, but pillows and bolsters ought to be beaten, shaken and exposed to the sun. If beds and their furnishings are not carefully aired, they soon come to have a stuffy, disagreeable odor, and that odor may mean sleepless nights.

A VITAL QUESTION.

I Could Not Understand Myself.—A Fearful Discovery.

Mr. E. D. Parsons, a book-keeper in the well-known house of S. J. Arnold & Co., of Rochester, N. Y., writes thus of a recent episode in his life:

"My health had always been good. Like thousands of others I scarcely realized what sickness meant, until one day I was seized with a deal of pain in the lower part of my back, and a failure of appetite. This increased from day to day, and what I did to rid myself of the pain did not relieve, and my digestion became torpid and slow, as though the vital organs themselves had entered into some strange sort of conspiracy against my comfort. All this was to me inexplicable, and I could not understand myself. This must soon pass away, I thought, for anything like grave or dangerous disease

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY, ..... JULY 28 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 7. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., JULY 28, 1888. WHOLE NO. 926.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

DISTENSION IN SNAKES

The Almost Incomprehensible Swallowing Power of Reptiles.

"Colonel, I have recently read a story in the newspaper about a boa constrictor swallowing a horse. Is that a possible thing or is it merely a newspaper yarn?"

"Well," replied he, "I took particular pains once to look up a story of that kind and I will give you the result of my researches. I was traveling in South America, and having read that in the immediate vicinity an immense boa had once swallowed a horse, I went out of my way to ascertain the facts from the most trustworthy authorities. It seems that the Governor of one of the interior districts of Brazil had turned his favorite riding horse into the field to graze. When wanted he was nowhere to be found. In this district boas grow to be forty feet long, and after diligent search for several days one of these immense reptiles was found hanging in the crotch of a tree in a half dormant state, where he had been left by the rapidly receding waters of the stream. The snake was killed and two horses were attached to the carcass, and it was dragged into the open country. On being opened, the bones of a horse somewhat broken and the partially digested flesh were found. The head of the horse was uninjured, and was identified as the one belonging to the Governor. George Gardiner, M. D., F. L. S., in his travels in the interior of Brazil, treats of this immense snake, and gives fuller details of this particular incident. I made full inquiries myself of the parties who saw it, and when at Pernambuco I went into the museum there and saw the skin of this snake, which was thirty-seven feet long and which has been preserved as a curiosity. It was rolled up and made a package as big as a flour barrel. But," said the Colonel, taking a medium sized bottle, "this story of a boa swallowing the horse does not seem so wonderful in the light of what I am now about to show you. Here is a small, ordinary water snake which I captured in Prospect Park and which I have preserved in alcohol. It looks to be about as big around as a slate pencil, but that frog which is preserved in the same bottle was taken from the inside of the snake. The power of distension in snakes is something wonderful and seems incredible to those who are not familiar with the subject."—Brooklyn Eagle.

CHILDREN'S PARTIES.

How They Are Conducted in the Best Families of England.

Children's parties of late years have undergone a great change. Formerly, when young people were assembled together, it was thought sufficient to clear a large room and let them indulge in the old-fashioned games of blindman's buff, post, family coach, hunt the slipper, magic music, musical chairs and such like merry and romping games, which with a good tea and Sir Roger de Coverley, danced afterwards, was supposed to form a delightful entertainment. But now all this is changed; romping games are put on one side.

The little boys and girls of the present day are too well dressed to risk tearing their pretty clothes. Children's parties are miniature copies of those of older people, with the exception that some form is adopted, either a Christmas tree, a bran pie or any other vehicle for the distribution of presents, that each little one may have something to take home.

When all the little guests have arrived they are generally entertained first with either a Punch and Judy show, marionettes, a children's play, magic lantern or some quiet amusement of that sort. After tea dancing is resorted to, and the Christmas tree or its substitute ends the evening. Children like novelty, and any new form of entertainment is eagerly welcomed.

Parties for young people should never be lengthy affairs, as it is impossible to keep them amused and happy for long together, and early hours are most desirable, afternoon parties from three till seven or four to eight being far more sensible than later hours, when the eagerness of expectation tires a child before the fun commences.

Refreshments at a juvenile party should be simple, but a number of bonbons and crackers should always be provided. It is a mistake to give children elaborate suppers before they leave to go home, often disagreeing with them and making them ill the next day. Lemonade and cakes and sandwiches are quite sufficient and far better for them.—London Queen.

We sat for our pictures, this maid and I,
With no one but the photographer by,
And seeing the hand that hung at her side,
I placed mine near, ere they took out the slide;
So in the picture it seemed to be
As though her hand was held by me;
And as she saw it, a gentle smile
Over her features played the while;
But never a word of blame spake she,
Only, "It's horrid that people can see."

—Harper's Bazar.

—At a ball game.—He (excitedly)—"By Jove, did you see that left-fielder catch that fly?" She—(petulantly)—"Of course I didn't. I don't see how you can see a fly so far away, when it is all I can do to see the ball. What do they do with the poor little flies any way, John, when they catch them?"—Critic.

—Magistrate—"What's the charge?" Witness—"The prisoner is my husband, and he hasn't given a cent toward the support of his family for six weeks." Magistrate—"Have you any money?" Prisoner—"I've got ten dollars." Magistrate—"Ten dollars fine. Next case."—Omaha World.

—Sulphur put in the hill at planting time has been found to prevent scabby potatoes.

GOOD EARTH ROADS.

How to Construct, Grade and Keep Them in Passable Condition.

It is possible to have a good earth road for nine months in the year, and passable at all seasons; when good they are the pleasantest of all roads to ride over, easy for the horses' feet, and free from the hard gritty noise of stone roads. All surface stones larger than a hen's egg, either in the middle of the road or on the sidewalks, are a detriment and should be dug out and carted to some springy, wet place and used to make an underdrain in the center of the road and running parallel with it. The drain should be two or three feet deep and two feet wide. An earthen tile should be laid in the bottom and the stone used for filling up to within one foot of the surface. There should be a free outlet for the water from the drain. The road scrapers, especially some lately invented, are valuable implements when rightly used where the roads are not too stony. They put the earth where it is most needed, in ruts, holes and depressions, and leave the road nicely leveled. There are times when they can be used more effectively than at others; in the winter occasionally when the ground is bare, and dry winds and a few warm days have taken the frost out of the surface and left it dry and loose, good work can be done. In the spring, as soon as the roads are dry enough and before the ground becomes settled and hard and the weeds and grass start, is the choice season to work the dirt up from the ditches to the center, make a good crown and then leave it leveled. Also every month through the summer and fall as soon after rain as the ground becomes dry enough.

In laying out a new road, or commencing to make good an old one, time is not lost in fixing the course, the right grade, direction for the water to run, width of wagon-bed, sidewalks, etc. When once these are wisely fixed they should in after times be strictly adhered to. An ordinary country road should be wide enough to enable two carriages to roll along abreast without danger of interfering, and then a more abrupt slope to the bottom of the ditches on either side. Turnpiking or rounding up the road should be done before the first of August, to give the ground time to settle before winter sets in. It should be well done, rounded up, say two or three feet above the bottom of the ditches, so that it will not have to be disturbed again for years. Ruts and holes made by wagons afterwards should be filled up by carting gravel or earth from some hill near by. Instead of rounding the roads on the hills and high ground, it is often better to cut out the ditches on either side, and cart the earth to the lower ground, thus making an oval-shaped road in both places, and improving its grade.

Frequently the gravely, sandy soil of the hills, when mixed with the clay soil of the low land, and vice versa, is better than either alone for making roads. The subsoil usually makes a harder, better road than the loamy top soil; therefore it should be the aim of the overseer to place this on top and in the middle of the road. Care should be taken to see that the ditches have a good free outlet for the accumulating water, drained from the road-bed. Turnpiking is only complete after the ground has been nicely leveled, all stones picked up, and all but the wagon track sown with grass seed.—Dennis C. Crane, in Country Gentleman.

THE PIONEER'S HOME.

Even the Sod Shanty Is Not Wholly Devoid of Attractions.

The "little sod shanty," which is such a characteristic feature of the newer prairie regions, is better, as a temporary habitation, than it looks. Its dun-earth walls and shapeless outline have nothing to gratify the artistic sense. But it possesses qualities of far more practical importance than mere beauty of form and color. It is warm in winter and cool in summer. No other dwelling affords more secure protection against storms like those of last January, which swept across the country from the extreme north to the Gulf of Mexico. Though rude and primitive in external appearance, many sod cabins are finished inside in a style which renders them more than comfortable. Narrow strips of boards are set against the inside wall and nailed to the floor as well as to the horizontal strips built into the wall for the purpose, one at the top and one midway from top to bottom. Thin, cheap cotton cloth or building paper is tacked on these strips all around the room, and wall-paper is then applied in the usual way with paste. An inside finish is thus given equal to that of any frame house. The roof is of boards, instead of earth sodded over.

With ingenuity, taste and a few hundred feet of pine boards, an enterprising settler and his wife will soon build themselves a habitation from the prairie sod which will be far superior to the "auld clay biggan" which sheltered Scotland's plowman-bard or the adobe dwellings of the Mexicans. But the sod shanty is fast disappearing as a feature of the prairie region. It was never built with a view of more than temporary occupation, giving way to more commodious and stylish dwellings as soon as the circumstances of the settlers warranted the change. Their presence has hitherto marked the crest of the advancing wave of civilization. In a few years they will have disappeared like the Indian "wickyups" and "tepees," and their places will be occupied by substantial farm-houses, with spacious barns and outbuildings and various other improvements.—American Agriculturist.

CHANGING ABOUT.

Why Farmers Should Think Twice Before Moving Into a New Country.

A large class of farmers, every year, seemingly in the vain hope of finding a promised land, where every want will be supplied and perfect happiness secured, change from one place to another.

It may be, all things considered, the best, but it is certainly very expensive and to a considerable extent very delusive, as is plainly evident from the number that go back to their old section after they have paid by often expensive experiences, to find that no place is a paradise.

Every locality has its advantages, but at the same time with these there are always disadvantages, and to a considerable extent it may be taken into consideration whether the advantages please us sufficiently to overbalance the disadvantages. That is, whether we are satisfied or not. You can not move from one farm to another in your neighborhood, if you are a good, thrifty farmer, without considerable loss, and when you are obliged to make a sale, and dispose of your property, too often at a serious sacrifice, selling much at a low price that is indispensable, and that you will be obliged to purchase again, and when you have lived on a farm for some time, and have got every thing well arranged for convenience, and then move to a new place in a strange neighborhood, with less privileges and advantages, it is very often the case that not only your family but yourself become discouraged, and you either go back to your old neighborhood or go to another in the hope of bettering your condition.

In leaving an old for a new country, you must be prepared for a considerable change. Unless you are willing and prepared to abide by changes a comfortably as possible, don't move—you will be dissatisfied. There is no doubt but from a financial point as change can be made with profit, provided good judgment is used, if you do not expect too much, and you are prepared to make the best of your new situation.

Certain it is you may not only sustain considerable pecuniary loss, but also bear considerable disturbance of mind. So far as possible, weigh all the advantages and disadvantages, and determine whether you are willing to stand the disadvantages in order to get the benefit of the advantages; then make up your mind fully to stand up to this.

Three removes are considered equal to one fire; then do not be continually changing about. Make a move that you have good reason to believe will be satisfactory, if necessary, but do not look for or expect to find a paradise, because if this is what you have started out to find, if you live long enough you will make many changes, and be as far off as ever at the last.—Farm, Field and Stockman.

THE ORCHID CRAZE.

A Taste Which Only Persons of Unlimited Means Can Gratify.

The fancy for orchids has developed here, and one lady has spent a large sum of money during the past year in getting together a collection. Only a person of means can indulge this taste, for rare plants come high, and a collector is always desirous of the most rare. However, some plants which used to sell out here for $400 or $500 can now be had for one-fifth of the money, because they are not so scarce. You have no idea how many orchid collectors there are, and what a mania it is in the East. For a number of years wealthy English people have devoted attention to these plants, until now no conservatory in England is complete without them. Collecting orchids has become a business, and one which is growing to enormous proportions. If it spread in America as it has done in England, and as is probable, for collecting is very fascinating, it will become a great industry. There are professional orchid hunters engaged in scouring every part of the globe for rare specimens, and their salaries show that they are skillful men. The tropical countries are the chief sources of supply, and in his last report to the Government one of our Consuls in Venezuela stated that the collection of orchids there has become a great source of revenue. The beauty of a flower is not always the test of its value, but the scarcity of it. Thus some of the finest specimens have been cultivated or found in plenty in new localities, while others upon which a great price is set are very ordinary looking plants. They are found on the branches of trees, and many a poor man has accidentally discovered a new variety and made more money than he ever had in his life. Speaking of orchid collections, Mr. Chamberlain, who recently came to this country to participate in the fishery arbitration, has about the finest in the world and is valued at one hundred thousand dollars. It is kept in nine large glass houses, connected with conservatories, lighted by electricity and filled with tropical birds and insects. He buys every new plant he can obtain. There are a dozen rich collectors who have given dealers carte blanche on open bids for any new variety. I read in a journal not long ago of some of the dangers which attend orchid collecting, for they are found in the most distant and lonely places. A number have been drowned in bogs, devoured by tigers or bitten by venomous serpents in the jungles of India. The Polynesian islands are great sources of supplies to dealers. I read of one man in the Philippine islands who had collected twenty thousand specimens and spread them on the beach to dry, when a tidal wave swept them out to sea.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

OBEY INSTRUCTIONS.

Why Girard Discharged a Captain Who Had Saved Thousands of Dollars.

It was just before the breaking out of the war of 1812 that Girard was preparing for sea one of his stanchest and largest ships. In command of her was a captain who had been in his service for a decade, and in whose integrity and obedience the great merchant confided implicitly. The time of the vessel's absence was to be of long duration, and he had selected this particular captain and this particular ship because he was certain that any instructions that he might give would be carried out to the letter, if it lay within man's brain and ship's timber. All the preliminaries had been attended to, and the vessel was in readiness to leave her wharf, when Girard sent for her captain to visit him in his private office. Upon his arrival his employer placed in his hand four sealed packages. They were numbered one, two, three and four, and were his instructions for the voyage. The first paper was to be opened when the ship was outside of Delaware bay, and the orders contained therein, as well as those embodied in the other three packages, were to be followed under all circumstances. Referring to certain small but heavy cases which had been placed on board the ship, Girard told the captain that they contained specie amounting in all to $100,000. The sum was to defray all expenses incidental to the voyage, and was, in fact, all the money which was to pass through the captain's hands during the whole trip. The captain took his instructions, said good-bye, and in a few hours later was on his way down the Delaware, with a brave vessel under him.

When he had left the waters of the bay behind, the captain broke the seal of paper No. 1. The orders were short and explicit:

"Go to Bordeaux, France, and there discharge your cargo of grain through my agent, and take, through him, wines and brandies. Then open order No. 2."

The captain sailed for Bordeaux, and put in at that port in due time. According to instructions, he discharged his grain through the agent, and took on liquors, which the agent paid for. For the necessary expenses, however, the captain drew upon the agent, and left his $100,000 in specie untouched. When he opened the second package, he found he was to proceed to a port in Russia, where, having delivered his wines and brandies to Girard's agent, he was to receive a cargo of Russian iron. Order No. 3 was to be read on sailing. The captain followed the written instructions, word for word, but drew on the Russian agent, as he had on him of Bordeaux, for expenses. The third package sent him to Holland, where he exchanged his iron for rice. Then he read the last order. He was to proceed to China, and, putting in at the only port open to the world, deliver his rice to Girard's agent there and take on board a cargo of silks and teas, "through the agent." That phrase ran through all of the instructions, and in no instance had the captain hitherto transgressed Girard's wishes.

Upon his arrival in China, for the first time during the voyage, he allowed himself to reason. He had delivered his rice to the agent, but had not yet told him of his employer's commands in regard to the cargo with which he was to sail for Philadelphia. He was told that by leaving port and going a short distance along the coast he could purchase silks and teas at a much lower rate than the agent could buy them, and if he had but the money could save an enormous sum to his vessel's owner. The captain was at first in sore doubt as to the course he should pursue, but he had the money—$100,000—and it would be folly to neglect the chance. He did run out of port, and secured an excelent bargain, a great deal more advantageous than any the agent could have made. When he returned he told him to put on board all the silks and teas the vessel was able to carry and set sail for home. The return voyage was uneventful until he was almost within sight of Delaware bay, and then an incident occurred which nearly lost the captain his ship and his cargo, and his liberty as well. The war of 1812 had broken out during his absence, and he knew it would be ticklish work to escape in safety. When almost home his vessel was sighted by two British cruisers, which sailed so fast and hemmed her in so closely that it was only by a display of the nicest seamanship and the utmost daring that her captain was able to slip by and sail her up the Delaware uninjured. In this city her arrival was hailed with great rejoicing, and her captain was greeted every where with flattering comments on his skill and bravery. It was three days after his return that Girard sent for the captain to visit him at his office. The chief clerk, Barrett, was there, and heard every word that passed. With the ship's papers in his hand, Girard demanded the cause for which the captain had violated his instructions in China. He gave them, and reminded his employer of the many thousands he had saved, and of the brilliant manner in which he had brought the vessel into port.

"No matter!" cried Girard, springing angrily to his feet. "You have no excuse. You have disobeyed me. From this hour I discharge you from my employ; nor will I give you a recommendation." And then he pronounced the saying that has become famous: "Obey orders, if you break owners."—Philadelphia News.

REDWOOD FORESTS.

The Immense Trees Found in Certain Sections of California.

The tourist and sight-seer, as well as the capitalist, can spend a week nowhere more profitably than in visiting the most wonderful forest growth in the world, the redwoods of Northwestern California. There are small groups in Mariposa and Calaveras counties, in the Sierra Nevada mountains, and more extensive areas in Santa Cruz and Monterey counties, along the coast south of San Francisco, but the only considerable forests available for commercial and local building purposes extend from the Oregon line south about four hundred miles. The belt varies in width from twenty to a hundred miles. One peculiarity of it is its abrupt beginning at the Oregon line and ending at the Russian river in Sonoma County. From this body of timber California is mainly supplied with building and fencing material, and vast quantities are shipped by steamers and sailing-vessels to Australia, New Zealand, and the islands of the Pacific, and by rail to several sections of the United States. Hundreds of saw-mills and thousands of axe-men and loggers are engaged in the work of destroying these forests, and converting the mighty trees into lumber and shingles for the use of men who inhabit timberless regions. Eureka, a seaport in Humboldt County, and Guerniville, the terminus of a branch of the San Francisco and North Pacific railroad in Sonoma County, seventy-two miles from San Francisco, are the centers of the lumbering industry, from each of which many million feet of the manufactured article are annually shipped. The march of the army of axe-men and sawyers keeps pace with the extension of railroads. But it will be several decades, perhaps a century, before the present growth is consumed, and as the redwood is a rapid grower and producer, there will in that time be a sufficiency of younger growth to supply local demands at least.

A tramp through a redwood forest affects one with a sense of fear, loneliness and littleness. The writer, accompanied by the manager of a milling company of Guerniville, recently took a half-day's ramble through the big tree reservation, beginning one and a half mile west of that place. No adequate idea can be conveyed of the impressions received by a "tenderfoot" in the center of a forest where such gigantic trees stand in solid phalanx. Three trees, selected at random in different parts of the forest, measured respectively eighty, seventy-six and seventy-four feet in circumference six feet above the roots, and the first branches appeared to be at least one hundred and fifty feet above ground, to which point there is no apparent diminution of size. A comparison of those standing with others of equal size and height that had been felled proved them to be more than three hundred and fifty feet from root to topmost leaf. To see an isolated tree of such proportions is an interesting spectacle, but to be in a narrow path where they are in such proximity to each other as to momentarily change one's course is a novel experience, yet a strangely pleasurable one.

The redwoods are not continuous over the territory called the "Redwood region." They occupy it in groups and forests, leaving wide stretches of mountain and tableland on which grass grows luxuriously several months of the year, and then curing in the hot sun becomes nutritious hay. Lands denuded of redwood trees are also soon covered with grass between the stumps.—Santa Rosa Cor. Louisville Courier-Journal.

THE PARIS REPORTER.

He Is Said to Be Even More Imaginative Than His Yankee Confrere.

The local columns of a Paris newspaper are not what they should be or what their readers would be glad to have them, for want of room. The great city is a mine of sensational material, tragic, comic, grave, gay, but always interesting if properly treated. As a Paris newspaper is usually a small four-paged sheet printed in coarse type on bad paper, it is difficult to get more into it than the literary and political matter that must in any event appear, and a mere resume of local events. If the foreign news is of great importance, local matter is crowded out. If a single local event is sensational, all other local matters, no matter how interesting in themselves, must make way for it. Reporters of some papers sign their names. This practice sometimes causes curious displays of egotism, the writers forgetting that which they have to narrate in their own personal experiences. The facts are obscured by their efforts to obtain them, their little deprivations, and the articles of food that compose their breakfast. The self-consciousness of French newspaper writers is always noticeable, whether they sign their articles or not. The editorial "we" often appears in the local columns. It is hard for a correspondent in a foreign capital to give the facts in a dispatch without prefacing or interspersing them with useless personal details. Aside from these evidences of imperfection and journalistic juvenility the local columns are usually readable, and sometimes bright and witty. The Paris interviewer, who is a recent institution already become universal, is, if possible, more unscrupulous and imaginative than his American confrere.—Paris Letter.

Got There Too Late.

A citizen yesterday stood on the steps of a Griswold street bank gazing at something across the street. While thus occupied a pedestrian halted, ascended a step or two, and after taking off his hat, said

"Being, you know, as I haven't had anything to eat for two days, I didn't know but you could spare me a dime."

The citizen did not lower his eyes by an inch.

"Presume the cashier gave you all bills, you know," continued the man, "but if you'd be pleased to hunt around in your pockets I've no doubt you'd find a dime."

Not a sign that he was heard or seen.

"I would take it as a great favor, I assure you. Purty tough, you know, to tackle a job on an empty stomach. I've got $50 worth of work waiting for me as soon as I can get a meal."

And yet no sign.

"It's only a loan, you know. A loan to be returned to-morrow. I hate to ask it, Colonel, but there's no other way for me. If you should happen to have a quarter it would be all the same—a loan."

The colonel seemed hewn out of marble.

"Hope you'll excuse me," continued the man, "but I happened to see you as I passed. There's no particular hurry, you know, but the sooner I get the money the sooner I can fill up and go to work."

The colonel now made a move to raise his umbrella.

"The cashier would doubtless change a bill for you if you are broke for silver. This is a fine rain, colonel! Things must be looking nice in the country! Make it a half, colonel, and I'll be around Saturday."

The colonel descended the steps as rigid as a poker.

"I'll take your address," said the man as he followed behind, "because I'm very particular about paying borrowed money. I might telegraph to my brother in Buffalo, but he might not be at home, you know. Now, colonel, if you would be so kind as to hand me out"——

The colonel joined the procession and disappeared. After looking up and down the street for a minute the tramp said:

"I might as well quit right here. Some one has worked this town before on my patent racket, and he didn't even leave a good name behind."—Detroit Free Press.

Wonders of Progress.

Returned Prodigal (in Vermont)—I used to live here, but everything is so changed I can't find my way. Can you direct me to Bullfrog Hollow, Mud Pond or Skeeter Swamp? If I can get to any one of them I can strike the old road to the farm.

Native—It's a lucky thing you met me, for hardly any one knows them places by the old names. Your Daddy Doodle's boy, ain't you?

"Yes."

"The old man'll be glad to see ye. He's sold most o' the farm to the city folks and is livin' on his money; but he's in the old house yet. Just you follow this bridal path to Prospect Terrace, then go around Crystal lake to the Garden of the Gods an' you'll strike the road leading past the Palisades Summer hotel. Just throw a handkerchief over your face when ye enter the Garden of the Gods. That useter be Skeeter Swamp."—Omaha World.

A Suggestion.

Fond Wife—Dear, I am to be present at the Slimmons fancy dress party. It's a sort of a masquerade, you see, and I don't know what on earth to wear.

Horrid Man—Why couldn't you put your hair up in three Psyche knots and go as a hat rack?—Pittsburg Bulletin.

Better Than Ether.

Surgeon—Now, my man, I am about to amputate your foot.

"Well, go ahead."

"I would advise you to submit to being placed under the influence of an anæsthetic."

"Hang your anæsthetic! But I'll tell you what I wish you would do."

"Well?"

"Have somebody bring me the score of the ball game by innings while you're at work."—Nebraska State Journal.

No Broken Lots Taken.

Citizen—Officer, I've had my watch stolen.

Policeman—A gold one?

Citizen—No, a Waterbury.

Policeman—Well, just stand here a moment, and the thief will come back after the suit of clothes.—New York Sun.

Ha! Ha!

"Why is Sunday put at the head of the Allegheny battery list?" asked the snake editor.

"Don't know," replied the horse editor.

"Because it is the first of the weak."—Pittsburg Chronicle.

The Proper Action.

Medical Professor (to student)—In a case which you find difficult to diagnose correctly, what is the proper course to take?

Student—Look wise and say nothing.—The Epoch.

A Wise Youth.

Big Sister—Bobby, you are wanted to do an errand.

Bobby—Tell ma I haven't got time to do it now.

Big Sister—Father says you must do it at once.

Bobby—Oh, it's for pa, is it. Then I guess I had better find time.—The Epoch.

A Strange Combination.

A man in Wisconsin some time ago wrote to The Tribune on stationery, the printed heading of which proclaimed him to be a "dealer in stoves and dinner bells;" but this curious combination is eclipsed by the Connecticut man who is announced as a "dealer in oysters, clams and gent's furnishing goods."—New York Tribune.

Strange.

"This is very strange," remarked Billy Bliven, thoughtfully, after he had tasted the contents of the butter dish. "Very strange, indeed."

"What is strange?"

"That such delicate, pale butter should turn out to be so robust."—Merchant Traveler.

FOREIGN GOSSIP.

—A London dealer in orchids employs sixteen collectors in South America, Africa, Asia and the Pacific Islands.

—President Carnot of France says that the fact that Heaven has denied him a son is the chief sorrow of his life.

—The Comte de Paris sent a punch-bowl of agate, ornamented with precious stones, to the Prince of Wales as his silver-wedding present.

—The first complete fossil skeleton of a whale, found under ten feet of marl in the south of Sweden, was presented to the University of Upsala.

—Japan has nearly forty million inhabitants and almost one hundred centenarians. Of those who have reached one hundred years of age, seventy-three are women and twenty-four are men.

—In Yucatan every male between the ages of twenty-one and fifty is subject to military duty, and when in service gets the munificent pay of six cents per day, and finds himself in food. There is no commissary department in the army, which must tend to shorten campaigns.

—Bismarck is one of the largest paper manufacturers in Germany. The daily production of his mills at Varzin average something over fifteen tons. He is also a distiller on a large scale, and as a timber merchant he is only surpassed by the Prince of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, who owns the great Thuringian forest, and the Prince von Furstenberg, who disposes of all the timber cut in the Black Forest by hereditary right.

—A new helmet for firemen has been invented in Bremen. It consists principally of a copper mask, which is very light. The wearer's nose, mouth and eyes receive through an India rubber tube a constant stream of pure air, which leaves the helmet by an opening opposite the eyes and prevents the entrance of smoke. The helmet has been practically tested and is to be used by the Berlin firemen, it is said.

—The city of Liverpool is to be supplied with water from a reservoir in Wales, which is to be four and one-half miles long by a half-mile to a mile broad and eighty feet deep. There will be three lines of pipe, each sixty-eight miles long, with filtering beds and secondary reservoirs. The aqueduct alone will cost $15,000,000.

—At Worcester Sessions, England, Magistrate Willis Bund passed sentence on a boy named Joseph Slatter, who was convicted of stealing three eggs, value threepence, of fourteen days' hard labor and five years' confinement in a reformatory. The boy bore a good character, and the jury who tried the case were scandalized, but the magistrate refused to change the sentence.

—Owing to the stringent law against selling antiques in Greece, many objects are broken when found by peasants or thrown into the sea. A similar move in Egypt under Said Pasha produced similar results. A new decree makes it unlawful to deal in antiquities, and will make the Arabs who find tombs and scattered antiques yet more secretive, and lead them to destroy objects rather than allow their existence to be known.

—Man-eating tigers have become so numerous along a certain road in Malacca that a panic has seized foot-travelers, and they will not go along it unless they can do so in company with a string of carts. The number of people killed by tigers in Sungei Ujong during the last half dozen years must be enormous, for as many as three men a day have been taken off along the twenty-four miles of the principal road. One brute has for months taken his two or three men a week regularly, and another has done the same at another place for three months, while at five or six other spots on the road men are frequently taken off.

AFRICAN PUFF ADDERS.

Poisonous Reptiles Which Form a Sort of Trap Set in the Woods.

It is essentially a forest animal, its true habitat being among the fallen leaves in the deep shade of the trees by the banks of streams. Now, in such a position at the distance of a foot or two, its appearance so exactly resembles the forest bed as to be almost indistinguishable from it. I was once just throwing myself down under a tree to rest when, stooping to clear the spot, I noticed a peculiar pattern among the leaves. I started back in horror to find a puff adder of the largest size, its thick back only visible and its fangs within a few inches of my face as I stooped. It was lying concealed among fallen leaves so like itself that but for the exceptional caution which in African travel becomes a habit I should certainly have sat down upon it, and to sit down upon a puff adder is to sit down for the last time. I think this coloration in the puff adder is more than that of warning, and that this semi-somnolent attitude is not always the mere attitude of repose. This reptile lay lengthwise concealed, all but a few inches, among the withered leaves. Now, the peculiarity of the puff adder is that he strikes backward. Lying on the ground, therefore, it commands, as it were, its whole rear, and the moment any part is touched the head doubles backward with inconceivable swiftness and the poison fangs close upon their victim. [illegible] way forms [illegible] the wood[illegible] unpere[illegible] spring [illegible]

[illegible]ufacturer of [illegible] pendence, Inyo [illegible]

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, JULY 28..... 1888

Immense profits are made by the steamship companies, who bring large swarms of Chinese to San Francisco. It is very broadly hinted that a Federal Judge is interested in the profit by admitting the Chinese through the habeas corpus mill. This Judge has virtually nullified a law of Congress.

William T. Coleman has offered to pay his creditors forty cents on the dollar. At the time of the failure of the firm it was thought that the assets would admit of payment in full, but the property has fallen short of the estimated value. The total liabilities are $2,912,993. This great failure was one of the first effects of the Mills tariff bill.

If the Supreme Court, on appeal, should sustain the proceedings in the Elliott trial, it is reasonably certain that the sentence pronounced upon him will be carried out. Governor Waterman has firmly and clearly stated his fixed determination not to prevent justice being done to criminals. This is true mercy, for it is the law abiding citizen who is entitled to merciful protection and not the criminal. Executions will cease when murders cease, and that will be time enough.

The Mills tariff bill passed by a vote of 163 for and 149 against the bill. There will be time enough before the election to test what effect the changes made in the tariff by this bill will have upon many articles of home production. If the effect of the bill upon lumber, wool, raisins and many other articles shall be anywhere near what the opponents of the bill predict, then it will lose thousands of votes to the Democratic party. If on the other hand no evil effects to home industries should be caused by the bill it is not unlikely that some States now classed as doubtful may be carried by the Democratic party.

MISCELLANEOUS.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoet in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

James Hillyer,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

Plans, Specifications
And Estimates of all kinds of buildings
Furnished.

All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.

JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms for the use of patrons. In every respect a
FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

IRWIN'S SALOON
Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,
Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPectfully invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnishee in a style second to no one on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR
Supplied with the most celebrated brands of Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.
... Proprietor.

SECOND

ANNUAL FAIR
OF # Agricultural District
No. 18.
STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Composed Of the Counties of

ALPINE, MONO & INYO.

TO BE HELD AT

Independence

Commencing Monday, September 17th, and Continuing Five Days.

A. R. CONKLIN.....President.
C. MULHOLLAND.....Secretary.
O. I. MAIRS.....Treasurer.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

A. R. CONKLIN, NATHAN RHINE,
WM. WALKER, W. S. ENOS,
W. K. MILLER, HARVEY BOONE,
J. S. GORMAN, JOHN SHEPHERD.

First Department.

In this department the same animal shall not be entered more than once, except in sweepstakes or as a member of a family exhibited with its sire or dam. Any stallion, mare, gelding or colt competing in a race will not be excluded from competing premiums in their respective classes.

CLASS I.
THOROUGHBRED HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion | $20 00 |
| Second best stallion | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
STANDARD BREDS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Stallion, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Stallion, 2 years old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion, 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best Colt under 1 year | 5 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 10 00 |

CLASS III.
ROADSTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Roadster, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Roadster, 2 year old | 10 00 |
| Best roadster team | 10 00 |

Will have to be shown to harness.

CLASS IV.
HORSES OF ALL WORK.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $20 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best colt | [illegible] |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best mare, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best mare, 1 year old | [illegible] |
| Best mare and family, of any age | 20 00 |

CLASS V.
DRAFT HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $20 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 7 00 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 10 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 10 00 |
| Best matched team | 10 00 |
| Best mare and 3 colts | 10 00 |

CLASS VI.
TEAMS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best matched cart or age team | 10 00 |
| Best matched buggy team | 15 00 |

CLASS VII.
SADDLE ANIMALS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best, any age | |
| Second best | |

CLASS VIII.
SWEEPSTAKES.

Best stallion any breed or age Association cup.
Best mare, any breed or age, Association cup.

CLASS IX.
JACKS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Jack, 2 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best Jack 1 year old | 10 00 |

CLASS X.
MULES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best span owned by one person, 3 years or over | 10 00 |
| Best span under 3 years | 10 00 |

CLASS XI.
CATTLE—BULLS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best bull, any breed 3 years old and upward | 20 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 1 year old | 5 00 |

CLASS XII.
COWS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best cow, 3 years old and upward | $15 00 |
| Best cow, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best cow and calf | 10 00 |
| Best cow and 2 calves | 15 00 |
| Best milch cow, quantity and quality of milk | 20 00 |

CLASS XIII.
SHEEP.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of sheep | 10 00 |

CLASS XIV.
GOATS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of Angora goats | 20 00 |

CLASS XV.
SWINE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of hogs | 10 00 |

CLASS XVI.
POULTRY ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of fowls, any age or breed | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best pair of bronze turkeys | 5 00 |

Second Department.

All products exhibited in this Department must have been produced in Nevada, or in California east of the Sierra Nevada mountains, and by the exhibitor.

CLASS I.
AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 100 pounds of flour | $5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of wheat | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of barley | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of oats | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of corn, shelled | 5 00 |
| Best 50 pounds of alfalfa seed | 5 00 |
| Best bale of timothy hay | 5 00 |
| Best bale of alfalfa hay | 5 00 |
| Display of Agricultural Products | 15 00 |
| Second Best | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
VEGETABLES, ROOTS, ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of sweet potatoes | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds Early Rose potatoes | 2 00 |
| 100 pounds any variety of potatoes | 2 00 |
| 12 parsnips | 2 00 |
| 12 carrots | 2 00 |
| 12 pounds turnips | 2 00 |
| 12 beets | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds tomatoes, any variety | 2 00 |
| ½ doz. cabbage | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds any variety onions | 2 00 |
| ½ doz. squash | 2 00 |
| pumpkin | 2 00 |
| sample of red peppers | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz. watermelon | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz. cucumbers | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz. cantaloupes | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of white beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of pink beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds garden peas | 2 00 |

CLASS III.
DAIRY AND FARM PRODUCE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of butter in rolls | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best jar of butter, 20 pounds 3 months old | 10 00 |
| single cheese any weight | 10 00 |
| 10 pounds of lard | 2 50 |
| display of honey | 5 00 |
| Apiary display | 10 00 |
| display of bread, all varieties | 2 50 |
| display of cake | 2 50 |
| variety of fruit in jars | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| best variety of jellies | 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of preserves | 7 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of pickles | 7 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best Sample of hams and bacon | 10 00 |

Third Department.

CLASS I.
HORTICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of apples | $5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display pears | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display peaches | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display plums | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display quinces | 5 00 |
| grapes, white | 5 00 |
| raisins | 5 00 |
| prunes | 5 00 |
| raisins | 5 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best exhibition of dried fruits in varieties | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fourth Department.

CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of wine made in district | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fifth Department.

CLASS I.

Sixth Department.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best of painting done in district | $7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| crayon drawing | 5 00 |
| Oil satin and japanned cabinets | 5 00 |
| Collection of paintings by any Artist | 5 00 |

Seventh Department.

CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Handsomest pillow shams | 2 50 |
| Best patchwork quilt | 2 50 |
| Second best quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest crazy quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest knitted quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest sofa cushion | 2 00 |
| Handsomest tidy | 2 00 |
| Best embroidered work | 2 00 |
| chemise dress | 2 00 |
| ottoman cover | 2 00 |
| table cover, four corners | 2 00 |
| set, three pieces | 2 00 |
| child's quilt | 2 00 |
| wax work, per dozen | 2 00 |
| silk or flannel work | 2 00 |
| crochet work | 2 00 |
| Kensington, crewel or wool | 2 00 |
| toilet set, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| lace work, per dozen | 2 00 |
| darned net, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet work | 2 00 |
| hand knitted stockings | 2 00 |
| hosiery | 2 00 |
| Handsomest and best made lady's dress | 5 00 |
| best display and best work | 2 00 |
| Best display of any article | 5 00 |
| display of specimen needle work | 5 00 |
| embroidery, silk | 2 00 |
| variety of other fancy articles | 2 00 |
| hand knit stockings | 2 00 |

JUVENILE.

| | |
|---|---|
| calico dress made by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand sewing, no less than 4 pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet work by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| patchwork quilt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand made shirt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |

Eighth Department.

CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display gold, silver and lead ores, each | $5 00 |
| cabinet of minerals | 15 00 |
| Second best | 10 00 |

In all exhibits of animals for premiums, other things being equal blooded stock will be preferred.

All articles included in the above list—except the first department—to be on exhibition at the Pavilion on the second day and remain during the fair.

Special premiums will be offered for articles exhibited which are not included in the above List.

All entries to be made not later than 6 o'clock p. m. on the day preceding their exhibition. All stock and articles to be exhibited must be on the ground at 9:30 a. m. on the day intended for their exhibition. No animal to leave its stall between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. of the day of exhibition without permission of the Park Director. Exhibition will take place at 10 a. m. of each day and close at 4 p. m., with an intermission for lunch.

Speed Programme.

TUESDAY.

RUNNING—One mile, 2 in 3, free for all. Purse, $100.

TROTTING—Two-year-olds, to harness ½ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

WEDNESDAY.

TROTTING—Double team, mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

LADIES' TOURNAMENT—The most accomplished and graceful lady rider will receive a suitable premium and there will be prizes for all who compete.

THURSDAY.

TROTTING—Stallions, best 3 in 5, mile heats. Purse, $100.

RUNNING—Saddle horses, ½ mile and repeat free for all. Purse, $50.

FRIDAY.

TROTTING—Free for all, mile, 3 in 5, to harness. Purse, $150.

LADIES' TOURNAMENT—Completing Wednesday's riding.

SATURDAY.

RUNNING—Consolation purse, free for all beaten horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Three-year olds, mile, 2 in 3. Purse, $75.

In all the above races three to enter and two to start. Entrance, 10 per cent of purse. All entries to be made with the Secretary by 4 p. m. of the day preceding the race. All races to be called at 2 p. m. for the first race on the day on which it takes place and the second race at 3 p. m., sharp. This rule will be strictly adhered to. Additional purses will be offered under the above conditions as horses are presented.

California State Agricultural Society rules to govern running races; National Trotting Association rules to govern trotting races.

ADMISSION:

| | |
|---|---|
| To stock ground and pavilion, each | $ 50 |
| Single Season Ticket | 2 50 |
| Membership Ticket, admitting member, wife and minor children | 5 00 |
| Life membership | 30 00 |

A. R. CONKLIN, President.
C. MULHOLLAND, Secretary.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law.
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road. Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen. Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

NORMAN HOUSE,
Independence, - - Cal.
New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.
Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.
O. I. MAIRS, Prop.
feb12tf

Pioneer
Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known and popular stables patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy teams, Saddle horses, and in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the ponnd or ton.

Livery Accommodations

O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF.
D. S. No. 456.
UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, INDEPENDENCE, CAL. June 22 1888.

Notice is hereby given that John Kupert, of Independence, Inyo county, California, has filed notice of intention to make proof of his desert land claim No. 456, for the S W ¼ of S E ¼ of Sec 22 Tp 14 S, R 33 E, M D M, before the Register and Receiver of this office at Independence Cal. on Saturday, the 11th day of August, 1888.

He names the following witnesses to prove the complete irrigation and reclamation of said land: Frederick Albers, John Meyer, Fritz Strobmeyer, and John Alexander, all of Independence, Inyo county Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

LANDS—MINES

ANSWER TO INQUIRIES, $1.00
REPORT ON ENTRIES, CONTESTS, &c., $3.00
Procuring Land Patents, Filing Arguments, and Conducting Contests, on Moderate Terms. Send for circular to
HENRY N. COPP, ATTORNEY AT LAW, WASHINGTON, D. C.
Every Settler should have Copp's Settler's Guide, 124 pages; price only 25 cents (postage stamps).

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,
HAWTHORNE, NEV.,
—DEALERS IN—
LUMBER
OF ALL KINDS.
DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.
Matched and Dressed Flooring.
sep 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!
We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5 00 per evening and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel.
Independence - - Cal
H. LEVY, Proprietor.
FIRST CLASS HOTEL
DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—
Will be found acceptable to all patrons.
Free Bus To and From The Cars
Jy14 86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo county Cal.

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)
Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.
W. E. LINDSEY,
—Dealer in—
Gravestones Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.
—Agent for—
PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.
Virginia Street, Below Second,
Reno, Nevada.
oct 23 tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising and wish to know of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 174 page pamphlet, Address, ROWELL & CO'S NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work, either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | | From Mound House. No. 1. | | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | Leave— | | Arrives— |
| Mound House | | 9 15 a. m. | | 5 35 p. m. |
| Dayton | | 10 45 a. m. | | 4 35 p. m. |
| Wabuska | | 12 45 a. m. | | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | | 4 30 p. m. | | 10 40 a. m. |
| Luning | | 5:50 p. m. | | 9 20 a. m. |
| Sodaville | | 7 30 p. m. | | 8 30 a. m. |
| Belleville | | 8 10 p. m. | | 7 50 a. m. |
| Candelaria | Ar. | 8 50 p. m. | Lv. | 6 50 a. m. |
| | | No. 3. Leave— | | No. 4. Arrives— |
| Belleville | | 7 30 a. m. | | 5 25 p. m. |
| Boston | | 11 00 a. m. | | 1 55 p. m. |
| Bishop Creek | | 1 10 p. m. | | 11 30 a. m. |
| Alvord | | 2 00 p. m. | | 10 55 a. m. |
| Independence | | 3 30 p. m. | | 9 05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | | 4 15 p. m. | | 8 15 a. m. |
| Keeler | Ar. | 8 05 p. m. | Lv. | 7 30 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west-bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (36 miles); Bodie (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's. tri-weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Downeyville, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's. stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON, General Superintendent.
R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.
D. A. BENDER, General Freight and Passenger Agent.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,
MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO., Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

Customers supplied on all points on the C. & C. Railroad.

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS
Wagons Painted.
The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by
JACOB KELLER,
Independence.
Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.

In the matter of the estate of Catherine Wallace deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased, to the creditors of and all persons having claims against the said deceased to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice to the said Administrator at the Law Office of A. R. Conklin, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo.

JAMES J. WALLACE, Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased.

Dated at Independence, July 6th 1888.

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF.
D. S. No. 249.
UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, INDEPENDENCE, CAL. June 25, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that Sherman V. Stevens of Inyo county, California, has filed notice of his intention to make proof on his desert land claim No. 249, for the E ½ of N W ¼ N E ¼ N ½ of S E ¼ N E ¼ of S W ¼ Sec 13, Tp 14 S R 33 E; N W ¼, N ½ of S W ¼ Sec 18, Tp 14 S, R 34 E, M D M, before the Register and Receiver of this office at Independence, Cal., on Tuesday, the 14th day of August, 1888.

He names the following witnesses to prove the complete irrigation and reclamation of said land: Charles A. Skinner, Allen Kenyon, John Meyers and William Meyers, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

ESTATE OF WILLIAM HEDGE, deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned, administrator of the estate of William Hedge deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said administrator, at the law office of George M. Gill, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, State of California, that being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate.

WILLIAM F. MATLACK, Administrator of the estate of William Hedge deceased.

Dated at Independence, California, June 19, 1888.

Geo. M. Gill, Attorney for Administrator.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.
D. S. No. 1229.
LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL. June 25, 1888.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on August 4, 1888, viz.: Hiram Hamilton, for the E ½ of W ½, W ½ of S E ¼ of Sec 30, Twp 14 S, R 36 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz.: John Shepherd, John W. Lacey, William H. Jenkins and Peter Meyer, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)
Mercha t,
INDEPENDENCE
INYO CO., CAL.
Wholesale and Retail
....DEALER IN....
General Merchandise.

MY STOCK
Consisting of most every nee d article, is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.
n25tf

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE
BANKER.
Independence, Cal
SELL EXCHANGE
ON
SAN FRANCISCO
DRAW DIRECT
—ON—
NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT kinds
GENERAL BANKING
—AND—
Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.
Deutsche Vollmachten geleistigt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.

AGENT FOR
Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $55,000,000
LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - 21,000,000
NATHAN RHINE

BLACKSMITHING,
Horseshoeing, General Iron
—AND—
WAGON WORK.
PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP
C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing.....$2.50 for Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, JULY 28 ..... ...1888

DIED.

SMITH—Near Bishop Creek, July 25, 1888, Joel H. Smith, aged 64 years.

When the cat 's away the mice will play —with the poker.

M. C. Lasky and Relles Carrasco were in town on Thursday evening.

Mrs. J. W. P. Laird and her children have gone to Round Valley for a few week .

Mr. W. Walker, of Olancha, was in town a few days early in the week.

W. A. Chalfant was down from Bishop Creek in the early part of the week.

Sam Piper came over from Deep Spring last week and stayed in town a few days.

Fox is getting out some good looking ore from his mine near Independence Station.

R. W. Scott, the Bishop Creek jeweler, was in town at the beginning of the week.

The new bath house at Huff & Levy's place is now ready. It is nicely furnished and has hot and cold baths.

So far the expense to the county of the Elliott trial amounts to about $2,500. This covers all the items of expense.

Last Sunday fire destroyed the town of Roslyn, in Washington Territory. Fifteen hundred people were made homeless.

Dr. George and J. H. Stoutenborough came down from Bishop Creek last Monday to see the conclusion of the Elliott case.

Manuel Frates was examined last Tuesday as to his sanity. He was declared to be insane and was committed to the asylum at Stockton.

See the advertisement for an entertainment at the pavilion next Friday evening. There will be variety enough that everyone will find something interesting.

Harvey Boone, of Bodie, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the Assembly. Mr. Boone would be useful to the district if elected to the Legislature.

Rev. C. L. Logan will preach at Lone Pine to-morrow—Sunday—at 10 o'clock a. m. He will also preach at Independence at 8 o'clock in the evening at the M. E. Church.

The two young daughters of W. T. C. Elliott were north last Tuesday on their way back to their home at Reno, Nevada. The girls were during the trial of their father.

A. J. Davis is waiting night and day to catch up with the man who committed a crime in his district so similar to the Elliott case. Many people in Inyo are waiting for Davis.

General Kittrell and T. E. Hayden Esq., went north last Tuesday morning; the former on his way to his home in Stanislaus county and the latter to his home at Reno, Nevada.

To the speed programme for the fair will be added a half-mile running race for untried horses. Entries free for all. Purse and time for race will be fixed and published next week.

To-morrow—Sunday—evening there will be a praise service at the M. E. Church at half past seven o'clock. Everybody invited to be present and hear good music and singing.

We have our own opinion of the man who will slip up to a kitchen door when he thinks no one sees him and throw in a sack of sweet corn. Gilbert can have the sack; he may need it again.

A very pleasant little impromptu dance was had at the pavilion last Saturday evening. Quite a number of visitors had attended the band rehearsal and the excellent music tempted them to dancing.

Several Judges have decided that vagrants when arrested have no right to trial by jury but may be sent to jail at once by magistrates. This may afford some protection against vagrant stump orators.

On Thursday morning Judge Hannah left town on a trip to Portland, Oregon, and other places on the northwest coast, where he has relatives. The Judge expects to return early in September.

A meeting of the Republican Executive Committee will be held at Independence August 10th to fix a place for holding the County Convention and to apportion delegates from the various precincts. See the notice.

A. R. Conklin Esq. left town Thursday morning for Sacramento. He is a delegate to the Republican State Convention, which meets there next Tuesday. He expects to return to Independence about three weeks hence.

Last Sunday the Silver Cornet Band appeared in their new uniforms and gave an open air concert. The uniforms are blue with white trimmings and make very a neat dress. A large audience listened to the music, as many people from the surrounding country attended.

The Supervisors of Kern county have made an appropriation of $500 to assist in placing an exhibit of the products of the county at the Mechanics' Fair at San Francisco. This is a wise act; it will pay a county as well as an individual to advertise liberally.

At his place at Olancha Mr. W. Walker has a young guava tree that is making good growth. This is the tree that bears the fruit from which the delicious guava jelly is made; most of it in the island of Cuba. If this tree keeps on growing as it has Mr. Walker will plant more.

Tax Republicans of Mono county got so disgusted with the action of county conventions in former years that they have adopted the Crawford plan of choosing candidates this year. By this plan the wire pullers are headed off and men who are really wanted by the people are chosen for office.

Articles of incorporation have been filed by the "Farmers' Ditch Company," in the office of the County Clerk, for a company who propose building a new irrigating canal near Bishop Creek. The directors are Andrew Walter, George W. Huckab, Bessie J. Hart, John S. McCrosky, Ed. M. Brown. The amount of capital stock is $10,000 and is already all subscribed.

TRIAL OF ELLIOTT FOR MURDER.

All of Saturday was taken up listening to arguments of counsel. District Attorney Forbes stated briefly the case for the people. J. W. P. Laird addressed the jury on the same side, and Mr. Haydon for the defendant. At 3 o'clock p. m. General Kittrell began his argument for the defense, finishing soon after 6 o'clock. He went over the whole of the evidence and presented every fact and every hypothesis that could be proved or imagined in favor of his client. His task was a hard one but he discharged it well, and labored skilfully to make bricks without straw. At the conclusion of his argument a recess was taken till Monday morning. At 9 o'clock a. m. the Court again opened and A. R. Conklin Esq. began his closing argument for the prosecution. All the facts that had been proven in the case were presented to the jury in a forcible manner, and their bearing and significance clearly pointed out. Mr. Conklin closed by quoting "Eve's curse on Cain," from Act III of Byron's "Cain," after having spoken three hours. Instructions and the usual charge were given to the jury by the Court, and at 1 o'clock they were locked up to determine upon

THE VERDICT.

After the jury had been locked up little more than an hour word was sent that they had agreed upon a verdict. The Judge and attorneys were called, Court was again opened and the defendant brought in and placed at the bar. In a few minutes the Courtroom was packed with people. Deep silence pervaded the room when Judge Hannah asked the jury if they had agreed upon a verdict. Juror W. J. Lake, who had been chosen Foreman, rose in his place and said they had. The Judge told the Juror to state what that verdict was. In a firm and impressive manner Mr. Lake read:

"We, the jury in the above entitled case, find the defendant, W. T. C. Elliott, guilty of murder in the first degree and fix the penalty at death. W. J. LAKE, Foreman.

Strong men in the audience trembled as the awful words were spoken. The defendant became ghastly pale and his brow and cheeks looked as if clammy with the cold sweat of death. He looked with a fixed and steady gaze at the jury; he was outwardly calm, but he was evidently stunned and dazed by the fearful doom that had been pronounced against him. The jury was polled and each man answered for himself that this was his verdict. A legal dispute arose as to the form of the verdict and manner of its delivery. The Court made rulings on the points raised and counsel for defendant entered exceptions. The counsel for defendant waived time for passing sentence, and asked that an evening session be held for that purpose. This was granted, and in the mean time the jury was discharged. At 8 o'clock in the evening Court was again opened, defendant and his counsel being present. A lengthy dispute ensued in the lawyers again arose on technical points; these were at last disposed of and the Court ordered Elliott to stand up for sentence.

THE SENTENCE.

The Judge said in substance to Elliott that a fair and impartial trial had been given him before a jury of his countrymen; that the Court had given the broadest latitude that the law permitted for the introduction of everything that could be offered in his defense; that he had been defended by able and zealous counsel who had done all in their power to prove him innocent, and that after all this he had been proven guilty. Nothing now remained for the Court but to pronounce sentence, which was—

That Elliott be committed to the keeper of the common jail of Inyo county, there to be held until such time as the Court shall hereafter fix for the execution of the penalty for the crime of which you have been convicted, and that you then and there be, by the Sheriff of said county, hanged by the neck until you are dead. May God have mercy on your soul."

